With respect to the final charge, the college argued that it was not obligated to bargain coaches' salaries because coaches were not part of the bargaining unit at the time of the 1966 election (when the college had no coaches), and the recognition clause of the previous agreement did not include them. Noting that past MERC cases have not involved a specific determination of whether coaches should be included or excluded from a unit of teaching faculty, the examiner found that > in most cases coaches were, as a matter of course, included in a bargaining unit. In fact, the Commission has determined that even the Director of Athletics should properly be included in the bargaining unit . . . . Coaching as such, must be accepted as a form of instruction and the undersigned is of the opinion that the acquisition of coaches subsequent to the certification of this unit, would merely be an accretion to the unit and should be treated no differently than situations where specialized instructors, such as speech correctionists, are later hired by an educational institution. The fact that there were no coaches at the time, or that coaches were not specifically referred to in the negotiated recognition clause, does not alter this conclusion. To hold otherwise would cause constant litigation of bargaining units upon the hire of any instructional personnel not specifically referred to in a unit description.

The examiner thus concluded that the college's refusal to bargain the salaries of coaches constituted a violation of its duty to bargain as imposed by the PERA and recommended that the college be ordered to take affirmative action in this area. That recommendation was adopted by the MERC, and an order to bargain was issued. All of the Association's other unfair labor practice charges were dismissed by the MERC. (In Re Oakland Community College and Oakland Community College Faculty Association, Michigan Employment Relations Commission, May 28, 1971.)

NEW JERSEY

BUILDING AIDES AND OFFICE PERSONNEL PROPERLY MAY BE INCLUDED IN EXISTING TEACHER UNIT

School building aides and office personnel employed by the West Milford school board were found to share a community of interest with teachers represented by the West Milford Education Association in an existing unit and may vote for inclusion in that unit. In so finding, a New Jersey Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC) hearing officer held that certain Association membership restrictions for nonprofessionals did not bar their inclusion in the teacher unit. The PERC adopted the officer's recommendations and ordered two representation elections under the state's public employee bargaining statute which allows professional employees to vote upon their inclusion in a unit with nonprofessionals.

The Association, which represented teachers, nurses, and instructional aides in a recognized unit, petitioned the PERC to add building and library aides and office employees to that unit. The West Milford board objected on grounds that nonprofessional personnel do not share a community of interest with teachers, and that the confidential relationship existing between office personnel and the administration would result in a conflict of interest.

A hearing officer, however, found the unit appropriate and excluded only three of the 19 office employees (secretaries to the superintendent and the business manager-board secretary) from the unit as confidential personnel since they have direct access to and knowledge of budget, policy, and labor relations information.

Filing exceptions to this determination, the board argued that the Association cannot represent nonprofessional employees since it accords them only associate membership status, they do not have the right to hold office or vote, and state law does not provide for this type of representation. Associate membership is provided for certain classes of nonprofessionals including the personnel here, but the Association president indicated that such members are entitled to all Association benefits except the two indicated, and that the West Milford aides and clerks had been informed of their limitations as associate members.

While the board contended that those limitations preclude fair representation, the PERC disagreed, observing that employee organizations are required by statute to fairly represent all unit employees, whether they are full or associate members, or nonmembers:

> The duty to represent obviously transcends the presence or absence of organization membership and presents a broader question. If one elects not to be a member, in any form, that fact does not relieve an organization of its duty. The measure of fair representation is ultimately found at the negotiating table, in the administration of the negotiated agreement, and in the processing of grievances. A qualified form of membership may or may not become an ingredient in the kind of representation given.
>
> It may become an element of proof to a claim of inadequate representation once the opportunity to represent has been established and allegedly been abused. And in terms of internal administration, it may require the organization to be unusually perceptive and sensitive to the needs of those holding restricted memberships in order to insure that the organization meets its statutory obligations. But standing alone, this restriction on membership cannot at this time be said to constitute, necessarily, an impediment to fair representation prior to the association's opportunity to demonstrate its compliance with the statutory obligation, notwithstanding this restriction. In short, the restriction does not, per se, limit its capacity to comply. Were it otherwise, there would be no possibility of fair representation for those who elect to be nonmembers. The commission finds therefore no disqualification of the association.

Agreeing with the hearing officer that only the three secretaries working for management level personnel should be excluded from the unit as confidential employees, the PERC found no reason why a clerk who merely assembles data which may be considered confidential or is later used in a policy-making capacity should be deprived of representation. It explained:

> Mere knowledge of raw information acquired in this process would not ordinarily tend to compromise management's right to confidentiality in matters of policy affecting negotiations or contract administration. Nor is there any discernable reason why this same clerk would, because of her function, owe a greater measure of allegiance to the employer or conversely why her performance would conflict with the interests of those in the existing unit to whom the data might relate but not yet affect as a policy matter.

While certain differences in qualifications, working conditions, and benefits exist between teachers and nonprofessional personnel, the PERC held that "the aides and office personnel perform functions immediately related or necessarily adjunct to the education functions performed by members of the existing unit." In addition, office personnel receive substantially the same benefits as teachers, work a similar number of hours, and share common calendar, tenure, and transfer rights.

Such a similarity is inapplicable to aides, but "the fact remains that much of the work they do would, but for their existence, be done by teachers. It is the part-time feature of their employment which gives rise to the disparity of certain conditions and benefits; this same feature is what makes feasible the relief of teachers from certain duties they formerly performed."

Having established the appropriateness of the nonprofessionals' inclusion in the existing teachers' unit, the PERC ordered an election among the building aides and office personnel excluding confidential employees. If a majority of that group votes for Association representation, that shall indicate their desire to be included in the teachers' unit. However, pursuant to statute, the teachers then must vote whether they wish to be included in the same unit as the nonprofessionals. If both groups vote affirmatively, the PERC shall certify the Association as representative of a single unit; but if the nonprofessionals vote for representation and the teachers vote against inclusion, the PERC shall certify separate representation for the former group. The voting is to occur within 30 days after the beginning of the current school year. (Board of Education of the Township of West Milford in the County of Passaic and West Milford Education Association, New Jersey Public Employment Relations Commission, July 8, 1971.)

NEW YORK

IMPACT OF ECONOMIC REDUCTIONS ON EMPLOYMENT CONDITIONS IS NEGOTIABLE

A school board "is obligated to negotiate . . . the impact" of economic reductions on the affected employees' terms and conditions of employment, but the actual decision "to curtail services and eliminate jobs is not a mandatory subject of negotiations," according to the New York Public Employment Relations Board (PERB). In determining the scope of negotiation under the state's Taylor Law, the PERB dismissed an unfair labor practice charge brought by the New Rochelle Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, Local 280, when the local board allegedly refused to negotiate cuts in its work force through budget reductions. The PERB found that budget cuts "clearly involve a managerial decision," although meetings between an employer and employee representatives with respect to such a decision "would seem most desirable."

Of three unfair practice charges filed by the union last spring, the PERB considered the budget reduction issue "of such immediacy" that it heard the matter directly and held the other charges for later resolution. The union alleged that the unfair practice occurred when the New Rochelle superintendent approved "budgetary cuts and a reallocation of funds terminating the services of a substantial number of employees . . . without prior notification to or discussion" with union representatives. The proposed cuts would result in the elimination of departments and the termination of about 20 percent of the district's professional positions, or 140 jobs.

The district indicated its willingness to negotiate the impact of the proposed cuts on unit members' terms and conditions of employment, but maintained from the outset that budget reductions and job eliminations are not mandatory subjects of negotiation. In upholding that view, the PERB noted that the Taylor Law does not define or limit the scope of negotiation thereunder. But it found that the bargaining obligation imposed upon private employers by the National Labor Relations Act (NLRA) "would appear to be equally applicable to the negotiating obligation under the [Taylor Law] because the terms used in each Act, while not identical, are quite similar." It explained:

> The NLRA does not mandate that employers and labor organizations must bargain upon every subject which interests either one of them; rather, the specification of wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment defines a limited category of subjects that are mandatory subjects of bargaining.

Applying this construction to the instant situation, the PERB held that the proposed budget cuts constituted a managerial decision and that it "does not follow that every decision of a public employer which may affect job security is a mandatory subject of negotiations." An employer is obligated to bargain the impact of such a decision upon unit members' conditions of employment, but the PERB pointed out that > a public employer exists to provide certain services to its constituents . . . . Of necessity, the public employer, acting through its executive or legislative body, must determine the manner and means by which such services are to be rendered and the extent thereof, subject to the approval or disapproval of the public so served, as manifested in the electoral process.

>
> Decisions of a public employer with respect to the carrying out of its mission, such as a decision to eliminate or curtail a service, are matters that a public employer should not be compelled to negotiate with its employees. Here there must be noted a substantial difference between private employers and public employers, for the latter, "owe a very special obligation to the public not owed by private employers."

The PERB added, however, that its ruling should not be interpreted to mean that "an employee organization is precluded from seeking negotiations concerning such decisions on a permissive basis. Further, it would seem most desirable for a public employer to meet and discuss with the representative of its employees concerning such decisions, particularly where, as here, the employees are professionals and their opinions on the educational process and standards should be of value to the employer." It noted that the parties' contract provided for a joint Educational Policies Committee, and that the district was willing to discuss allocation of the budget cuts.

Concluding that the district "has not refused to negotiate on the impact of [the decision involving budget cuts and job eliminations] on terms and conditions of employment," the PERB dismissed the union's charge as lacking in merit. (City School District of City of New Rochelle and New Rochelle Federation of Teachers, Local 280, AFT, AFL-CIO, New York Public Employment Relations Board, July 1, 1971.)

PENNSYLVANIA

DEPARTMENT CHAIRMEN AND INSTRUCTIONAL SPECIALISTS EXCLUDED FROM TEACHER UNIT AS SUPERVISORS

In one of its first actions under the state's Public Employee Relations Act, the Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board (PLRB) classified department chairmen, multi-media specialists, and reading consultants as supervisors and excluded them from an appropriate unit of Carlisle Area School District teachers and other employees. As the Carlisle Area Education Association previously had won a representation election in a unit excluding the three positions in question the PLRB certified the Association as exclusive representative of the original unit.

A supervisor is defined by the Act as > any individual having authority in the interests of the employer to hire, transfer, suspend, layoff, recall, promote, discharge, assign, reward or discipline other employees or responsibly to direct them or adjust their grievances; or to a substantial degree effectively recommend such action, if in connection with the foregoing, the exercise of such authority is not merely routine or clerical in nature but calls for the use of independent judgment.

Other portions of the Act state that any employee at the first level of supervision (defined as "the lowest level at which an employee functions as a supervisor") may not be included in any other public employee units.

Examining department chairmen's responsibilities, the PLRB found that chairmen are present at most interviews with prospective teachers, and that they make recommendations to school administrators responsible for final hiring decisions. Moreover, they are required to "evaluate teachers and report their observations to the administration . . . for use in rating instructors for purposes of retention and tenure." There also was evidence that lateral and vertical teacher reassignments had been based upon department chairmen's recommendations, and the superintendent stated that he has never refused such recommendations.

Multi-media specialists, whose duties were referred to as "administrative, supervisory, advisory, and technical," were found to be responsible for supervising the district's audiovisual program and two nonprofessionals in the instruction material center. Reading consultants have no teaching duties, but they observe teachers' methods of reading instruction, recommend reassignment on the basis of their observations and evaluations, and submit reports to the superintendent for use in determining the status of certain teachers.

Concluding that all three categories of employees are supervisors under the Act, the PLRB excluded them from the Carlisle district unit and certified the Association as representative of a unit comprised of "classroom teachers, librarians, guidance counselors, school nurses, speech therapists, home and school visitor, home and school coordinator, and dental hygienist." (Carlisle Area School District, Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board, June 23, 1971.)

WISCONSIN

DISMISSAL THREATS FOR NONSIGNING OF INDIVIDUAL CONTRACTS RULED A PROHIBITED PRACTICE

A school board's issuance of individual contracts prior to settlement of a collective agreement was found proper until the board threatened to dismiss teachers who refused to sign those contracts and effectively discharged some teachers. While acknowledging that school boards and teacher organizations "have been left to their own ingenuity" in reconciling separate statutory provisions dealing with collective bargaining and the issuance and return of individual contracts, a Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission (WERC) trial examiner found that the actions of St. Francis School District No. 6 constituted a prohibited practice under the state's municipal employment bargaining statute.

In addition, the district violated its agreement with the St. Francis Education Association (SFEA) that "letters of intent" to return the following school year would be issued to and signed by local teachers in lieu of individual contracts and pending settlement of a collective agreement. The examiner also found that the board illegally threatened a teacher with disciplinary action when the teacher used his preparation time to distribute SFEA materials in a teachers' lounge.

When the parties began negotiation of a 1969-70 collective agreement, they agreed to deviate from the statutory scheme for individual contract issuance and return in that the board would ask teachers to sign letters of intent indicating whether they would return to the district the following year. The SFEA presented the signed letters at an April 1969 negotiating session, and the parties agreed that the letters would be binding only upon the school board. A portion of the letters provided: "Upon completion of negotiations with the association a negotiated agreement will be prepared, signed by the school board and the education association. An individual contract conforming to the provisions of the negotiated agreement shall be made available for your signature."

During May 1969, the board announced that teachers under contract for the 1969-70 school year would have priority for summer school positions. The SFEA warned teachers that individual contracts might be issued and advised them to return their unsigned contracts to the Association to be held until the completion of negotiation. In June the board mailed individual contracts without notifying the SFEA and indicated that teachers should return their signed contracts by June 12 or they might face dismissal. The board stated, however, that it intended to continue negotiating and that the individual contracts would be modified in accordance with the terms of the collective agreement.

Then on June 13, the board issued a dismissal statement to teachers who had not returned their individual contracts and told 19 summer school teachers who withheld their contracts that they would be unable to participate in the summer session. The statement read in part:

Your contract was not among those presented to the board for ratification at its regular meeting on June 12, 1969. The board can only assume that you have rejected your contract and that you have resigned . . . . Only through a signed contract can the board have any confidence that a teacher will be available in the fall. The letter of intent has not been treated as a binding obligation by your members and the board has been advised to proceed with formal contracts which are binding on both parties.

Some of the teachers so dismissed had tenure, and the examiner subsequently found that the board made "no effort" to comply with statutory procedures for such dismissals. Several days later, however, the parties agreed to accept the letters of intent as binding contracts in accordance with statute and nullify the resignations assumed by the board's June 13 statement. Summer school proceeded and in early September the parties reached collective agreement and individual contracts were signed. Later that month the SFEA filed a prohibited practice complaint with the WERC.

Reviewing the dispute, the examiner discussed the seemingly conflicting statutory provisions involved:

The Wisconsin Supreme Court in Muskego-Norway School District v. WERB . . . made it clear that Sections in 111.70, 118.21 and 118.22 [the first of which is taken from the municipal employment bargaining statute, and the second and third of which derive from statutory provisions regulating teacher-school board relations] . . . must be harmonized and that such should be done with recognition that Section 111.70 was enacted subsequent to the other two sections. Harmony, however, seems to be opposed when the requirement of Section 118.22 that individual teacher contracts be entered by a certain date conflicts with the fact that good faith bargaining has not settled the terms to be reflected in such contracts by that date. The accommodation of the two statutory schemes seems to require that bargaining be unimpeded by deadlines and that at the same time the employer and the teachers should, by the dates specified in Section 118.22, by contracting, be able to determine their status with regard to the teachers' continued employment.

Of course, contracts, particularly employment contracts, are not absolute assurance of the occurrence of the conduct which they purport to require. They are merely the most and best legal assurance that can be achieved. The fact that such arrangements are frequently perceived by employees as less than absolutely compelling and by employers as not realistically enforceable, does not make them something other than contracts or less than the best that is legally possible. At any rate, thus far neither the courts nor the WERC has described in general terms a scheme for accomplishing the accommodation of the aforesaid statutes and the parties have been left to their own ingenuity.

As the letters of intent were binding only on the board, the examiner found them "less than contracts"; but he held that signed letters were the board's "unambiguous" agreement that teachers effectively had been hired for the 1969-70 school year. He cited WERC precedent in Elmbrook Board of School Directors in concluding that the board's issuance of individual contracts was not a prohibited practice, but pointed out that such an action violated the parties' agreement not to issue individual contracts until settlement of a collective agreement.

However, the board's subsequent actions amounted to "threats of discharge and discharge itself." According to the examiner, "these actions against the teachers were reprisals based on their concerted withholding of their contracts, a tactic in the bargaining process allowed by the agreement with the board not to require individual contracts until bargaining was completed." He concluded that these reprisals were violations of the aforesaid statutory provisions whether or not they were part of a complex of actions by the board which also included bad faith bargaining or violations of an agreement. Recognizing that neither refusing to negotiate in good faith nor violating an agreement are prohibited practices, it is still possible to distinguish conduct, such as that of the employer in the instant case, which punishes employees or threatens to punish employees for adherence to a collectively bargained agreement.

A second matter presented to the examiner occurred when a teacher and SFEA representative who used his preparation time to conduct Association business was formally warned that "any further use of such time for SFEA business will result in your being referred to the school board for disciplinary action." When the SFEA grieved the matter, the board responded that its warning was issued pursuant to a board rule prohibiting Association business during the school day.

But the WERC examiner found that the board allowed school time to be used for "other than what could be accurately characterized as work," until that time was used for SFEA activities. Therefore, he held that the rule and consequent warning constituted illegal interference with protected activities and ordered the board to repeal its rule and cease and desist from its violative conduct. (St. Francis Education Association v. St. Francis School District No. 6 and School Board, Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission, June 22, 1971.)

Negotiation Notes

ARKANSAS

LAW MANDATING SCHOOL DISTRICT ADOPTION OF WRITTEN PERSONNEL POLICIES ENACTED

H.B. 265, enacted by the Arkansas legislature during its 1971 session, mandates each school district in the state to "have a set of written personnel policies legally adopted by its Board of Directors." Any district which does not comply with this requirement by July 1, 1972, shall not be accredited by the state education department after that date.

The act provides that each school board "shall designate" a Committee on Personnel Policies comprised of classroom teachers, administrators, board members, and the superintendent as an ex-officio member. This committee "shall assist the board, when requested, in the development of personnel policies," and the board is empowered "to adopt, reject, amend, or refer back to the Committee . . . for further study and revision any proposed policies or amendments to existing policies that are submitted to the board for action."

The act further provides that each newly employed teacher and administrator be given a copy of the district's personnel policies at the time of his employment, and that all previously employed personnel be given a copy of the policies when their contracts are renewed or extended. Whenever such policies are amended, each teacher or administrator is to be given a copy of the amendments within 30 days after their approval by the district's board of directors.

The full text of the Arkansas law is reprinted in the "Texts" section of this DIGEST.

CALIFORNIA

STATE EMPLOYER-EMPLOYEE RELATIONS POLICY ISSUED

A policy on state employer-employee relations which covers state civil service employees and nonacademic employees of state colleges and the University of California was issued by the governor of California and became effective February 23, 1971. While not intended to "alter the relationship between the [State] Personnel Board and employee organizations which represent their members in the board's annual salary review and recommendation process," the policy states that a representative of the governor > will meet and confer in good faith with representatives of employee organizations to arrive, if possible, at a mutual understanding on the following matters: (1) the need for and amount of a general salary adjustment; (2) the total amount of any special inequity salary adjustments; and (3) general employee benefits.

Meet and confer in good faith "connotes an open and mutually trusting approach in exchanging views and discussing alternatives . . . [and] a genuine effort on the part of both parties to attempt to reach a mutual understanding." Upon reaching a mutual understanding, the parties shall prepare a "written memorandum of understanding" which, upon approval by the cabinet and the employee organization representatives, shall be submitted to the legislature "either as part of the Governor's budget or as recommended legislation. The Governor will support before the Legislature those matters which have been recommended for adoption as a result of the memoranda of understanding."

Matters specifically excluded from the meet and confer sessions include:

> working conditions; merit system and related matters such as the examination, selection, recruitment, hiring, appraisal, training, retention, promotion, assignment, disciplining or transfer of employees; directing, deploying, and utilizing the work force; classification plan and salary determination for individual classes; mission, purposes, objectives, and organization of the State; and facilities, methods, means, and number of personnel required to conduct state programs.

Furthermore, the "time and degree of effort" expended by the governor's representative on such consultation sessions "will be commensurate with the number of members and the diversity of membership of the employee organization involved."

With respect to grievance procedures, the policy notes that an existent formalized procedure for state civil service employees allows an appeal of certain grievable matters to the State Personnel Board, while grievances over working conditions and related matters are limited to final review by the appropriate appointing power. Recognizing the need for a level of review beyond the appointing power under certain conditions, the policy established an "extra-departmental level of review [which] will provide an independent review of the grievance." As such an employee may request review of his grievance by the appropriate agency secretary; if the secretary does not accept the grievance, the decision of the appointing power will be final.

GEORGIA

FIREFIGHTERS' BARGAINING STATUTE REQUIRING ADVISORY ARBITRATION OF IMPASSE ENACTED

A Fire Fighters' Mediation Act mandating advisory arbitration of negotiation impasses was signed into law by the Georgia governor on April 5, 1971, and became the first state bargaining measure. The statute, which became effective immediately, applies only to cities with a population of 20,000 or more, grants bargaining rights to firefighters who are permanent members of any paid fire department in such cities, and prohibits strikes. However, the "governing authority of the municipality must agree by ordinance that the municipality will be . . . covered" by the Act, and the Act shall not apply to "consolidated city-county governments with a population of 150,000 or more."

Unlike similar firefighters' and/or policemen's bargaining statutes in other states which require binding arbitration of negotiation disputes, the Georgia law states that "a majority decision of the mediators shall be advisory in nature and shall not be binding upon either the bargaining agent or the corporate authorities." But the Act's opening statement of policy explains that in allowing firefighters' certain statutory bargaining privileges exclusive of the right to strike, > a method of mediation shall not, . . . in any way whatever, be deemed to be a recognition by the State of compulsory mediation or arbitration as a superior method of settling labor disputes between employees who possess the right to strike and their employers, but rather shall be deemed to be a recognition solely of the necessity to provide some alternative mode of settling disputes where employees are, as a matter of public policy, denied the right to strike.

Any three-member mediation board appointed pursuant to the Act is to render a decision "upon the basis of a prompt, peaceful and just settlement of wage or hour disputes" and shall consider the following factors in reaching its decision:

> (a) Comparison of wages or hourly conditions of employment of the fire department in question with wage rates or hourly conditions of employment of fire departments in municipalities of comparable size.
>
> (b) Interest and welfare of the public.
>
> (c) Comparison of peculiarities of employment in regard to other trades or professions, specifically:
>
> 1. Hazards of employment.
> 2. Physical qualifications.
> 3. Educational qualifications.
> 4. Mental qualifications.
> 5. Job training and skills.

FLORIDA

HILLSBOROUGH COUNTY BARGAINING STATUTE AMENDED

Amendments to a statute granting bargaining rights to Hillsborough County teachers mandate board recognition of the duly elected employee representative, provide for dues deduction and collection, remove a no-strike clause, and specify that the act is applicable only to Hillsborough County teachers. Sec. 17 of the statute provides that the act "shall take effect on the twenty-ninth day after the final adjournment of the 1971 regular session of the legislature, or in the event that this act becomes a law subsequent to such date it shall be retroactive thereto."

The statute as originally enacted established procedures for "professional negotiations for teachers in any County in the State having a population of not less than 390,000 according to the latest official decennial census." This statement was amended to provide "professional negotiations for teachers in Hillsborough County." In addition, all statutory references to the elected employee representative now provide for recognition of the "official negotiating agent." As such, a portion of section 5 of the act which formerly mentioned the "sole and exclusive negotiating agent" was amended to refer to the "official negotiating agent."

Section 5 also was amended to provide that the district school board "shall recognize" the elected professional association as official negotiating agent; it formerly stated that "the board is hereby empowered to recognize" the association. A new section 6 added to the act provides for dues deduction and collection and reads:

> The professional association selected by a majority of the teachers in the county shall have its dues and uniform assessments deducted and collected by the board from the salaries of those employees who present cards authorizing the deduction of such dues and uniform assessments. Upon collection, the board shall transmit the sums so deducted to the professional association.

MICHIGAN

APPLICATION OF MERIT REQUIREMENTS TO INCREMENTAL SALARY SCALE MUST BE NEGOTIATED

A municipal employer improperly denied pay raises by applying merit requirements when a collective bargaining agreement provided for increments based upon calendar intervals. In so ruling, an arbitrator held that the Lansing (Michigan) Public Service Department should have negotiated its merit pay system before applying it to employees represented by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, Local 1390.

He also dismissed several employer challenges to the arbitrability of the three grievances filed, stating that alleged precedents unknown to the union could not be held against it in presently seeking arbitration, and that pay matters "are of a continuing nature and with each denial of a wage increment, there exists the right to grieve."

The city's personnel rules and "compensation plan" refer to merit considerations as criteria for salary increments, but the arbitrator found that the rules were neither negotiated nor incorporated by reference into the parties' agreement, and that the compensation plan was rejected by the union during bargaining. While the city claimed that its merit pay system always had been applied, the parties' contract provided that it (the contract) "supersedes any past practice and . . . any previous agreement, verbal or written." The arbitrator also dismissed the city's reliance on a management rights clause because it "cannot support the city's position when express provisions [for wage increments based upon six-month intervals] have been negotiated to govern the area of wage progressions."

Finding nothing in the agreement to "indicate that the wage progressions provided [therein] are based upon merit considerations," the arbitrator ruled that any merit requirements limiting an employee's entitlement to contractual wage increments must be negotiated "so that established standards applicable to all and known to both management and union would be set forth in the contract." He accordingly awarded retroactive increment payments to the date of entitlement or February 1, 1971 (whichever was latest), "to all employees in the bargaining unit who have been denied a wage increment on merit considerations since February 1, 1971."

OHIO

COMMON LAW STRIKE IS NOT IPSO FACTO A STRIKE UNDER FERGUSON ACT

Distinguishing between the common law prohibition against public employee strikes and the means by which such strikes may be determined prohibitive under the Ohio Ferguson Act, the Ohio Supreme Court decided that a 1970 action taken by Cincinnati city employees did not constitute a strike under the Act because the city failed to comply with statutory procedures for determining the existence of the strike.

While emphasizing the fact that public employee strikes are "uniformly illegal" at common law, the court posed the question of "whether in view of the existence of common law doctrines forbidding public employee strikes at the time of the enactment of the Ferguson Act, all strikes by public employees automatically come within the purview of that legislation." It found that prohibition of a strike under the Act hinges upon execution of certain procedural requirements set forth in a portion of R.C. 4117.04, which provides:

> Any public employee who, without the approval of his superior, unlawfully fails to report for duty, absents himself from his position, or abstains in whole or in part from full, faithful, and proper performance of his position for the purpose of inducing, influencing, or coercing a change in the conditions, as compensation, rights, privileges, or obligations of employment or of intimidating, coercing, or unlawfully influencing others from remaining in or from assuming such public employment is on strike provided that notice that he is on strike shall be sent to such employee by his superior by mail addressed to his residence as set forth in his employment record.

When Cincinnati sanitationmen, highway maintenance personnel, and others represented by the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees, Council 51, went on strike, an involved litigation followed which resulted in a permanent injunction against the strike and a suit to enjoin payment of any raises to striking employees once the strike was settled. The Hamilton County Common Pleas Court dismissed the latter suit in finding that the Act is not self-executing, and that the city had not invoked the Act's provisions since it failed to mail the notices provided for in R.C. 4117.04. This judgment was reversed by the Ohio Court of Appeals (NRD, 11-70, 13; 6-71, 15) in holding that the statutory notice requirement was inapplicable and unnecessary because the parties earlier had stipulated that city employees were on strike.

However, on appeal here, the state supreme court determined that "the occurrence of a common law strike does not, ipso facto, constitute a strike in violation of the Ferguson Act." It found "nothing in the language of Chapter 4117 suggesting that the General Assembly intended to pre-empt the entire area of the law concerning public employee strikes," and pointed out that "only R.C. 4117.04 contains an operative provision for determining when a public employee is on strike in violation of the Act." The court explained:

Under R.C. 4117.04, the ultimate question turns upon the effect of the language "provided that notice he is on strike shall be sent to each employee by his superior by mail addressed to his residence and set forth in his employment record." . . . While the public employees in question did engage in a common law strike against their public employer, they cannot be considered to have engaged in a Ferguson Act strike where the notices required by R.C. 4117.04 were not sent. It must be emphasized that R.C. 4117.04 expressly contemplates actual written notice to each employee that he is on strile. There is good reason for strict compliance with this condition. Even in the case of employees who are reinstated, the effects of their violation of the Ferguson Act are severe and continue in force for as long as two years after reinstatement.

While appellee (a city attorney who brought this action as a taxpayer's suit) argued that a public employer has no discretion regarding invocation of the Act when public employees are on strike, the court held that the Act is not self-executing since it "itself imposes the notice condition. The question of a public employer's clear legal duty to employ the act must be raised at a proper time and in a far different manner than was selected here." In addition, the court dismissed appellee's contention that striking employees who violate a permanent injunction should be deprived of any benefits achieved through such action since the matter on appeal did not concern "what discipline the trial court should dispense for a violation of its injunction."

Concluding that a public employee "is not engaged in a strike in violation of the Ferguson Act unless the notice required by R.C. 4117.04 is sent," the state supreme court affirmed the judgment of the common pleas court and thereby reversed the decision of the appeals court. (Goldberg v. City of Cincinnati, et al., Ohio Supreme Court, June 23, 1971.)

OKLAHOMA

PROFESSIONAL NEGOTIATION LAW ENACTED

A professional negotiation law signed by the Oklahoma governor on June 24, 1971, and effective that date provides that a local school board "shall recognize" a professional organization designated by a majority of the certified public-school teachers as representative of those teachers in negotiating "items affecting the performance of professional services." The statute provides separate representation for professional and nonprofessional school employees, establishes an impasse resolution procedure, and contains a no-strike clause.

Once an organization is recognized, the law provides that bargaining representatives of that organization shall be elected by a majority of the certified public-school teachers in a given district. Any person who does not wish to be represented by any organization may so state in writing to his school board. School district employees other than certified teachers also are eligible under the statute "to designate an organization composed exclusively of such employees to represent them in negotiating and concluding an agreement with such school district on the terms and conditions of their employment."

Local school boards are mandated to meet with organization representatives, complete an agreement outlining negotiation procedures within 60 days, and negotiate in good faith on the terms and conditions of professional service. An impasse resolution procedure is to be developed jointly by the parties, although the law provides for referral of an impasse to a three-member committee if the parties cannot agree upon a procedure. The committee is to meet with representatives of the parties for purposes of fact-finding and subsequently make recommendations to each party.

Section 8 of the statute stipulates that "the procedure provided for herein for resolving impasses shall be the exclusive recourse of the professional organization." It further provides that it shall be illegal for the professional organization or the nonprofessional organization to strike or threaten to strike as a means of resolving differences with the board of education. Any member of the professional or nonprofessional organization engaging in a strike shall be denied the full amount of his wages during the period of such violation. If the professional or nonprofessional organization or its members engage in a strike, then the organization shall cease to be recognized as representative of the professional or nonprofessional educators and the school district shall be relieved of the duty to negotiate with such organization or its representatives.

The full text of the Oklahoma professional negotiation law is reprinted in the "Texts" section of this DIGEST.

OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST

FLRC REFUSES TO EXTEND FORMAL RECOGNITION

Despite requests by several unions, the Federal Labor Relations Council (FLRC) refused to extend the July 1, 1971, deadline for termination of formal recognition (NRD, 6-71, 17) under Executive Order 11491. However, the Council asked the Assistant Secretary of Labor for Labor-Management Relations to expedite representation proceedings in units lacking an exclusive representative "so as to minimize the extent of interruption of relationships for unions which held formal recognition prior to July 1 and obtain exclusive recognition as a result of such proceedings."

Unions which lose their formal recognition may not negotiate dues-withholding agreements unless they gain exclusive recognition by winning a representation election. This stipulation does not, however, prevent unions which previously had no recognition in federal employee units from seeking exclusive recognition in such units in accordance with provisions of E.O. 11491. Section 10 of the Order defines exclusive recognition as follows:

(a) An agency shall accord exclusive recognition to a labor organization when the organization has been selected, in a secret ballot election, by a majority of the employees in an appropriate unit as their representative.

. . .

(e) When a labor organization has been accorded exclusive recognition, it is the exclusive representative of employees in the unit and is entitled to act for and to negotiate agreements covering all employees in the unit. It is responsible for representing the interests of all employees in the unit without discrimination and without regard to labor organization membership. The labor organization shall be given the opportunity to be represented at formal discussions between management and employees or employee representatives concerning grievances, personnel policies and practices, or other matters affecting general working conditions of employees in the unit.

Under E.O. 10988 (predecessor of the present Order), the now defunct formal recognition was defined and practiced as provided in sec. 5:

(a) An agency shall accord an employee organization formal recognition as the representative of its members in a unit as defined by the agency when (1) no other employee organization is qualified for exclusive recognition as representative of employees in the unit, (2) it is determined by the agency that the employee organization has a substantial and stable membership of no less than 10 per centum of the employees in the unit, and (3) the employee organization has submitted to the agency a roster of its officers and representatives, a copy of its constitution and by-laws, and a statement of objectives. When, in the opinion of the head of an agency, an employee organization has a sufficient number of local organizations or a sufficient total membership within such agency, such organization may be accorded formal recognition at the national level, but such recognition shall not preclude the agency from dealing at the national level with any other employee organization on matters affecting its members.

(b) When an employee organization has been formally recognized, the agency, through appropriate officials, shall consult with such organization from time to time in the formulation and implementation of personnel policies and practices, and matters affecting working conditions that are of concern to its members. Any such organization shall be entitled from time to time to raise such matters for discussion with appropriate officials and at all times to present its view thereon in writing. In no case, however, shall an agency be required to consult with an employee organization which has been formally recognized with respect to any matter which, if the employee organization were one entitled to exclusive recognition, would not be included within the obligation to meet and confer, as described in section 6(b) of this order.

In refusing to extend the deadline, the FLRC pointed out that E.O. 11491 has been effective for more than 18 months, and that the deadline for termination of formal recognition was extended once after consideration of union views. Moreover, since no new grants of formal recognition could be made after the effective date of E.O. 11491, unions which had formal recognition under the previous order held an advantage in representation campaigns. The FLRC found it "improper to continue this inequitable situation any longer than necessary."

The FLRC also noted that in units where petitions for exclusive recognition were pending on July 1, it is possible to extend formal recognition and dues-withholding agreements until completion of the proceedings; this would avoid interrupting an established relationship if the union holding formal wins the representation election. But, since such a procedure would especially benefit unions who eventually lose their bid for exclusive recognition, the FLRC concluded that "on balance . . . this result would not be in the best interests of the [labor relations] program."

Finally, the Council reasoned that the extension of grants of formal recognition "would unreasonably defer achieving a significant purpose of [E.O. 11491], which is to clarify and strengthen the concept of exclusive recognition."

NLRB ASSERTS JURISDICTION OVER PRIVATE SECONDARY SCHOOL

Although the operations of a private nonprofit secondary school "were not expressly covered by [National Labor Relations Board (NLRB)] rules and regulations governing jurisdiction over private nonprofit colleges and universities," the NLRB found that Shattuck School was "sufficiently similar to warrant an assertion of jurisdiction under those standards." According to the board, the school has a gross annual revenue of about $1.2 million, annually purchases goods across state lines valued at more than $71,000, maintains a campus of 25 buildings situated on some 250 acres, and serves 173 students, only 44 of whom are state residents.

Pursuant to its April 19, 1971, assertion of jurisdiction, the NLRB determined an appropriate unit of maintenance and service personnel employed by the school. Specifically, it excluded from the unit sought seven supervisory employees who had the authority "effectively to recommend hire and discharge, select employees for overtime work, and grant time off," but included a night watchman who was not a guard. It also established a separate unit of 11 clerical workers owing to "long-established Board policy [requiring] the exclusion of office clerical from units of manual workers."

NLRB DENIES PETITION FOR RULE-MAKING IN HIGHER EDUCATION REPRESENTATION CASES

A June 1971 petition by the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) for rule-making proceedings with respect to representation cases involving college and university faculty members was denied by the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) on July 16. While finding that the petition "properly points out that the Board's unit determinations in this area should take into account certain practices and organizational structures which do not parallel the traditional practices and organizational structures in private industries," the NLRB held that > there is also a great variety in this regard within the academic community, and . . . the practices and structures in universities and colleges are undergoing a period of change and experimentation. The Board believes that to adopt inflexible rules for units of teaching employees at this time might well introduce too great an element of rigidity and prevent the Board from adapting its approach to a highly pluralistic and fluid set of conditions . . . . The Board would welcome the fruits of any research which has been done or can be done in this subject area, to supplement its own efforts to compile source data.

In its petition, the AAUP pointed out that representation proceedings in higher education constitute "an unexplored area where prior experience in other institutional settings is of dubious value, if not dangerously misleading." Noting the "lack of any directly relevant guides" for resolving higher education representation disputes, the "novelty and character" of the issues involved, and the current "uncertainty and confusion" in such matters, the AAUP argued that "a case-by-case evolution of guides will cause uncertainty to continue for an indeterminable period and will present risks that precedents will be established which will not be viable in later cases and thereby add to the uncertainty and confusion."

It discussed two "special characteristics of the relationship between faculty members and their academic institutions [which] create unusually complex and novel problems in developing applicable Board law." These are the fact that "faculty members have traditionally had an important voice in the governance of their institution," and the fact that "many colleges and universities have a substantial number of professional personnel who, though engaged in teaching and research, are generally considered not to be full members of the faculty."

The petition also raised the questions of the definition of supervisors within the higher education sphere, the appropriateness of organizations which may serve as bargaining representatives, and the status of teaching fellows, research associates, and part-time teachers with respect to representation and the determination of appropriate units.

Statistics

TEACHER CONTRACT DURATIONS, 1966-67 TO 1970-71

An NEA Research Division analysis of contract durations included in classroom teacher contracts from 1966-67 to 1970-71 revealed a significant decline (15 percentage points) in the number of three-year contracts being negotiated, and increases of less than 10 percentage points in the incidence of one-year and two-year contracts being negotiated. While the total number of contracts reported and analyzed rose from 389 in 1966-67 to a preliminary total of 1,535 in 1970-71, the number of three-year contracts effective during those school years fell from 74 to 61. One-year contracts increased in number from 259 (66.6 percent) in 1966-67, to 1,126 (73.3 percent) in 1970-71, while the number of two-year contracts rose from 56 (14.4 percent) to 331 (21.6 percent) across the same period. During each of the school years 1966-67, 1968-69, and 1970-71, one-year contracts greatly outnumbered contracts of two years' duration, but the ratio of one-year and two-year contracts increased from approximately 5 to 1 in 1966-67 to about 3 to 1 in 1970-71. Table 1 provides an overview of teacher contract duration by school year.

TABLE 1.—TEACHER CONTRACT DURATION BY SURVEY YEAR, 1966-67, 1968-69, AND 1970-71

Survey year	Total number of agreements	One year		Two years		Three years
		Number	Percent	Number	Percent	Number	Percent
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
1966-67	389	259	66.6%	56	14.4%	74	19.0%
1968-69	978[1]	639	65.3	197	20.2	125	12.8
1970-71	1,535[2]	1,126	73.3	331	21.6	61	4.0

[1] This figure includes all school systems which verified the existence of a comprehensive agreement in their system for the 1968-69 school year. Although 1,040 systems negotiated an agreement effective during that year, only 978 systems filed a copy of their 1968-69 comprehensive agreement in the NEA depository for analysis in the 1968-69 edition of the Negotiation Agreement Provisions (NAP). Seventeen agreements which contained no indication of duration have been eliminated from the individual totals in the adjoining line, although the percentages are computed on the total of 978 agreements.

[2] This figure represents the preliminary total number of agreements analyzed in the 1970-71 edition of the NAP. Seventeen agreements which contained no indication of duration have been eliminated from the individual totals in the adjoining line, although the percentages are computed on the total of 1,535 agreements.

Teacher contracts included in this analysis are those filed in the NEA depository of agreements in conjunction with the NEA Research Division's annual survey of negotiation activity in school systems with a pupil enrollment of 1,000 or more. Only three survey years are dealt with here since in-depth analyses of negotiated provisions are conducted bienially. For purposes of this analysis, a contract duration of one year includes all contracts lasting less than one and one-half calendar years. Included in the two-year category are all agreements extending more than one and one-half calendar years, but less than two and one-half calendar years. Contracts effective longer than two and one-half years were classified as three-year agreements. While the duration of teacher contracts variously may be based upon budget years, fiscal years, or school years per se (i.e., nine- or ten-month periods), the calendar year breakdown was employed here for purposes of consistency, clarification, and comparison.

Table 2 indicates the incidence of specified contract durations by bargaining representative in each survey year. In all three years, the great preponderance (90 percent or more) of all contracts reported and analyzed were negotiated by NEA local associations. Moreover, while NEA affiliates negotiated nine out of every 10 contracts in 1966-67, this ratio increased to 19 out of every 20 contracts in 1970-71. NEA affiliates negotiated over 300 more contracts than American Federation of Teachers (AFT), AFL-CIO, locals in 1966-67; by 1970-71, NEA negotiation activity had expanded to the point where NEA affiliates negotiated over 1,300 more contracts than AFT locals.

TABLE 2.–TEACHER CONTRACT DURATION BY ORGANIZATIONAL AFFILIATION, 1966-67, 1968-69, AND 1970-71

Item	Total number of agreements	National Education Association		American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO		Independent organizations[1]
		Number	Percent	Number	Percent	Number	Percent
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
1966-67	389	350	90.0%	38	9.8%	1	0.2%
1968-69	978[2]	880	90.0	73	7.5	8	0.8
1970-71	1,535[3]	1,429	93.0	76	5.0	13	0.9
Total agreements, 1966-67	...	350	100.0%	38	100.0%	1	100.0%
One-year agreements	...	225	64.3	33	86.9	1	100.0
Two-year agreements	...	52	14.8	4	10.5	...	...
Three-year agreements	...	73	20.9	1	2.6	...	...
Total agreements, 1968-69	...	880	100.0	73	100.0	8	100.0
One-year agreements	...	574	65.2	58	79.5	7	87.5
Two-year agreements	...	183	20.8	13	17.8	1	12.5
Three-year agreements	...	123	14.0	2	2.7	...	...
Total agreements, 1970-71	...	1,429	100.0	76	100.0	13	100.0
One-year agreements	...	1,064	74.5	51	67.1	11	84.6
Two-year agreements	...	308	21.5	22	29.0	1	7.7
Three-year agreements	...	57	4.0	3	3.9	1	7.7

[1] Includes situations in which more than one organization is recognized as in California and Minnesota where state statutes require proportional representation on negotiating councils.

[2] This figure includes all school systems which verified the existence of a comprehensive agreement in their system for the 1968-69 school year. Although 1,040 systems negotiated an agreement effective during that year, only 978 systems filed a copy of their 1968-69 comprehensive agreement in the NEA depository for analysis in the 1968-69 edition of the NAP. Seventeen agreements which contained no indication of duration have been eliminated from the individual totals in the adjoining line, although the percentages are computed on the total of 978 agreements.

[3] This figure represents the preliminary total number of agreements analyzed in the 1970-71 edition of the NAP. Seventeen agreements which contained no indication of duration have been eliminated from the individual totals in the adjoining line, although the percentages are computed on the total of 1,535 agreements.

The number of NEA-negotiated contracts more than tripled over the five-year period from 350 contracts in 1966-67 to 1,429 contracts in 1970-71, while the number of contracts negotiated by AFT chapters doubled (from 38 contracts in 1966-67 to 76 contracts in 1970-71). Contracts negotiated by independent organizations or negotiating councils composed of representatives of more than one recognized organization increased in number from one to 13 during the five-year period but remained statistically insignificant at less than 1 percent of all contracts negotiated in any given survey year.

Again, one-year contracts were far more frequently negotiated by all organizations in each survey year than contracts of longer durations. Table 2 reveals, however, that while the number of one-year contracts negotiated by both NEA affiliates and AFT locals rose over the five-year period, there was a substantial decline in the percentage of AFT-negotiated one-year contracts as computed on the total number of AFT contracts effective each year. That is, the number of one-year contracts effective in units with NEA representation rose from 64.3 percent in 1966-67 to 74.5 percent in 1970-71, an increase of 10.2 percentage points; over the same period, AFT-negotiated contracts of one-year duration registered a decline of 19.8 percentage points, from 86.9 percent in 1966-67 to 67.1 percent in 1970-71. Independent organizations negotiated one-year contracts more than 80 percent of the time in all three survey years.

With regard to two-year contracts, Table 2 shows a rise of 6.7 percentage points in the number of NEA-negotiated contracts between 1966-67 and 1970-71, while the corresponding increase in AFT activity was recorded at 18.5 percentage points. However, a greater percentage of AFT-negotiated contracts (29.0 percent) were of two years' duration in 1970-71, than were NEA-negotiated contracts (21.5 percent). This indicates a reversal of the 1966-67 situation when 14.8 percent of all NEA agreements and 10.5 percent of all AFT agreements were effective for a two-year period. The percentage of three-year contracts negotiated by NEA affiliates dropped sharply from 20.9 percent in 1966-67 to 4.0 percent in 1970-71 (a decline of 16.9 percentage points), while the percentage of contracts of like duration in units with AFT representation increased slightly from 2.6 percent in 1966-67 to 3.9 percent in 1970-71.

TABLE 3.—TEACHER CONTRACT DURATION BY MONTHS AND LENGTH OF AGREEMENT, 1,535 COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS,[1] 1970-71

Duration by months	One-year agreements		Two-year agreements		Three-year agreements
	Number	Percent	Number	Percent	Number	Percent
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
January 1 to December 31	22	2.0%	9	2.7%	2	3.3%
July 1 to June 30	671	59.6	158	47.7	21	34.4
August 1 to May 31[2]	18	1.6	5	1.5	5	8.2
August 1 to July 31	59	5.2	17	5.1	2	3.3
September 1 to May 31[2]	46	4.1	20	6.1	11	18.0
September 1 to August 31	213	18.9	74	22.4	12	19.7
Other[3]	97	8.6	48	14.5	8	13.1
Totals[4]	1,126	100.0%	331	100.0%	61	100.0%

[1] This figure represents the preliminary total number of agreements analyzed in the 1970-71 edition of the NAP.

[2] Contracts of nine- or ten-month durations cover a specific school year or years (as opposed to a calendar year or a fiscal or budget year) and generally contain provisions or appendixes extending portions of the contract's coverage to the summer session immediately following expiration of the contract.

[3] This category includes contract durations which occurred infrequently in the analysis and those which were ill-defined or incomplete in terms of the specific months and dates of coverage.

[4] Seventeen 1970-71 agreements which contained no indication of duration have been eliminated from the table, so the totals in the adjoining line add up to 17 less than the preliminary total of 1,535 agreements.

Table 3 more specifically defines teacher contract durations by designated months and dates as derived from an analysis of the preliminary total of 1,535 agreements effective during the 1970-71 school year. Nearly 60 percent of all one-year contracts effective that year extended from July 1 to June 30, while approximately 20 percent of those agreements were effective from September 1 to August 30. Among the two-year agreements in effect during 1970-71, 158 agreements (47.7 percent) extended from July 1 to June 30, and 74 agreements (22.4 percent) had duration dates of September 1 to August 31. Three-year agreements also most frequently specified the two duration periods previously mentioned; of all three-year agreements effective in 1970-71, 21 (34.4 percent) extended from July 1 to June 30, and 12 (19.7 percent) were effective from September 1 to August 31. In addition, a significant percentage of three-year agreements (18.0 percent) indicated duration dates of September 1 to May 31.

Overall, the great majority (1,260 or 82.1 percent) of the preliminary total of 1,535 agreements effective during the 1970-71 school year extended for full calendar years. Of these 1,260 agreements, 850 (67.5 percent) extended from July 1 to June 30, and 299 (23.7 percent) were effective from September 1 to August 31. Only 6.8 percent (105) of all agreements effective during the 1970-71 school year had duration dates linked to the nine- or ten-month school year per se, i.e., August 1 to May 31 or September 1 to May 31. The remaining 153 agreements (10 percent) effective that year were classified in the "other" category because their duration dates occurred infrequently in the analysis, or were incomplete or ill-defined. Seventeen agreements which contained no indication of their effective and termination dates were eliminated from the analysis presented in Table 3.

CONSUMER PRICE INDEX, JULY 1971; 10-YEAR AVERAGES AND 1971 BY MONTH

Data published by the U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), indicated that the July 1971 Consumer Price Index (CPI) all-items figure rose 0.2 percent above the previous month to 121.8 (1967=100). That rise placed the CPI 4.4 percent above the figure recorded a year ago. Food prices increased 0.6 percent in July, while the prices of food away from home advanced 0.5 percent. More than 80 percent of the rise in consumer services charges was attributed to increased costs for household and medical care services. All data used in computing the July CPI were based entirely upon prices prevailing before the President's August 15 announcement of the wage-price freeze; the August index will reflect prices collected both before and after the freeze since pricing for the CPI is conducted throughout the month.

The CPI is designed to measure "average changes in prices of goods and services usually bought by urban wage earners and clerical workers, both families and single persons living alone." Prices of some 400 items which represent the price movements of all goods and services purchased by wage earners and clerical workers regularly are obtained in urban portions of 39 Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas (SMSA's) and 17 selected small cities. Price changes used in calculating the CPI are averaged and then weighted according to their importance in spending. In the total index, all SMSA and city data are combined and weighted on the basis of the 1960 populations of SMSA's and the cities they represent. While index numbers used to be computed on the base 1957-59=100, a new base reference point of 1967=100 became effective January 1971. Statistical series expressed as indexes are affected by the change in base, but the rebasing of the CPI does not alter percentage changes between index figures over time, except for rounding differences. The CPI is rounded to one decimal point.

The following tables provide a comparative study of the CPI all-items index for 25 selected SMSA's or cities from 1961 to 1970 (Table 1), and for the first seven months of 1971 (Table 2). All figures are computed on the base 1967=100.

TABLE 1.—CONSUMER PRICE INDEX, ALL ITEMS, SELECTED CITIES OR SMSA'S, 1961-1970 (1967=100)

SMSA/city	All items
	1961	1962	1963	1964	1965	1966	1967	1968	1969	1970
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
U.S. city average[a]	89.6[b]	90.6[b]	91.7[b]	92.9[c]	94.5	97.2	100.0	104.2	109.8	116.3
Atlanta, Ga.	89.7	90.5	91.4	92.8	94.0	97.0	100.0	104.0	110.2	116.3
Baltimore, Md.	89.9	90.6	92.0	92.9	94.4	97.7	100.0	104.1	110.5	117.0
Boston, Mass.	87.7	89.6	91.4	92.7	94.5	97.7	100.0	104.1	110.0	116.5
Buffalo, N. Y.	(NA)	(NA)	(NA)	92.0	94.2	97.4	100.0	104.5	109.6	116.1
Chicago, Ill.-Northwestern Ind.	91.2	92.1	93.0	93.4	94.7	97.4	100.0	104.3	109.9	116.3
Cincinnati, Ohio-Ky.	90.4	91.3	92.2	93.7	94.4	97.2	100.0	104.8	109.8	115.7
Cleveland, Ohio	91.4	91.7	92.7	93.2	94.7	97.2	100.0	105.9	111.9	119.3
Dallas, Texas	(NA)	(NA)	(NA)	92.6	93.8	97.1	100.0	104.5	111.3	117.8
Detroit, Mich.	88.7	88.9	89.8	90.5	92.6	96.7	100.0	104.3	110.6	117.4
Honolulu, Hawaii	(NA)	(NA)	92.8	92.9	94.6	97.3	100.0	103.8	108.5	114.2
Houston, Texas	89.7	91.4	92.3	93.7	94.8	97.5	100.0	104.3	111.0	116.8
Kansas City, Mo.-Kansas	88.0	89.4	90.3	92.5	95.5	98.0	100.0	104.0	109.6	115.8
Los Angeles-Long Beach, Calif.	89.6	90.6	92.0	93.7	95.7	97.5	100.0	103.9	108.8	114.3
Milwaukee, Wis.	90.8	92.0	92.9	93.9	95.8	98.0	100.0	103.5	109.5	115.8
Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn.	89.9	91.0	92.3	93.2	94.5	96.8	100.0	104.6	109.9	117.5
New York, N.Y.-Northeastern N.J.	88.1	89.4	91.3	92.8	94.3	97.5	100.0	104.3	110.8	119.0
Philadelphia, Pa.-N.J.	89.4	90.1	91.8	93.2	94.7	97.3	100.0	104.8	110.4	117.8

1967

TABLE 1.—CONSUMER PRICE INDEX, ALL ITEMS, SELECTED CITIES OR SMSA'S, 1961-1970 (1967=100) (Cont'd)

SMSA/city	All items
	1961	1962	1963	1964	1965	1966	1967	1968	1969	1970
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
Pittsburgh, Pa.	91.3	92.1	93.1	94.3	95.8	98.3	100.0	104.7	110.4	116.4
Portland, Oreg.[d]	88.1	88.5	90.2	92.2	94.6	97.5	100.0	103.5	108.6	113.2
St. Louis, Mo.-Ill.	89.0	90.0	90.9	92.6	94.1	97.2	100.0	104.0	109.2	115.2
San Diego, Calif.	(NA)	(NA)	(NA)	(NA)	95.2	97.1	100.0	104.1	109.5	115.3
San Francisco-Oakland, Calif.	88.9	90.3	91.5	92.9	94.7	97.1	100.0	104.5	110.2	115.8
Scranton, Pa.[d]	88.2	89.7	90.9	92.6	94.1	97.4	100.0	104.1	109.5	116.3
Seattle, Wash.	89.3	90.6	92.1	93.4	94.5	97.1	100.0	104.1	109.2	114.0
Washington, D.C.-Md.-Va.	89.0	89.8	91.3	92.8	94.1	97.3	100.0	104.7	111.2	117.6

Sources:

U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics. Consumer Price Index for Urban Wage Earners and Clerical Workers, All Items—Series A (1967=100). Washington, D.C.: the Bureau, 1971.

U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics. "Current Labor Statistics." Monthly Labor Review 94, 7: 104; July 1971.

[a]Based on 46 cities through 1963, 50 urban areas for 1965, and 56 metropolitan areas and nonmetropolitan urban places beginning in January 1966. Excludes Portland, Oreg., and Scranton, Pa. For 1965, excludes Cincinnati, Ohio-Ky.; Houston, Texas; Kansas City, Mo.-Kansas; Milwaukee, Wis.; Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn.; and San Diego, Calif.

[b]Excludes Alaska and Hawaii.

[c]Beginning in 1964, the index structure was revised to reflect the buying patterns of urban wage earners and clerical workers in the 1960's, including single workers living alone as well as families with two or more persons. Indexes for prior years apply only to families of two persons or more.

[d]Old series—i.e., old market basket components.

TABLE 2.—CONSUMER PRICE INDEX, ALL ITEMS, SELECTED CITIES OR SMSA'S, 1971 BY MONTH (1967=100)

SMSA/city	All items—1971[a]
	January	February	March	April	May	June	July[b]
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
U.S. city average[c]	119.2	119.4	119.8	120.2	120.8	121.5	121.8
Atlanta, Ga.	...	...	120.4	...	...	122.3	...
Baltimore, Md.	...	...	122.1	...	...	123.5	...
Boston, Mass.	120.7	...	...	121.7	...	...	122.9
Buffalo, N.Y.	...	119.6	...	...	121.4	...	...
Chicago, Ill.-Northwestern Ind.	119.1	119.4	119.9	120.2	120.6	120.9	120.9
Cincinnati, Ohio-Ky.	...	...	119.8	...	...	120.7	...
Cleveland, Ohio	...	121.5	...	...	122.0	...	...
Dallas, Texas	...	119.8	...	...	120.4	...	...
Detroit, Mich.	120.3	120.0	120.1	120.1	120.9	121.9	121.8
Honolulu, Hawaii	...	...	116.7	...	...	118.5	...
Houston, Texas	119.3	...	...	119.5	...	...	121.3
Kansas City, Mo.-Kansas	...	...	119.2	...	...	120.6	...
Los Angeles-Long Beach, Calif.	116.7	116.2	116.9	116.7	118.1	118.7	119.1
Milwaukee, Wis.	...	119.0	...	...	119.1	...	...
Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn.	120.1	...	...	120.3	...	...	121.9
New York, N.Y.-Northeastern N.J.	122.5	123.5	124.3	124.6	125.2	126.1	126.8
Philadelphia, Pa.-N.J.	121.3	121.8	122.2	122.6	123.4	124.1	123.7

1968

TABLE 2.—CONSUMER PRICE INDEX, ALL ITEMS, SELECTED CITIES OR SMSA'S, 1971 BY MONTH (1967=100) (Continued)

SMSA/city	All items—1971[a]
	January	February	March	April	May	June	July[b]
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
Pittsburgh, Pa.	119.2	...	...	120.9	...	...	121.8
Portland, Oreg.	114.9	...	...	114.7	...	...	...
St. Louis, Mo.-Ill.	...	...	118.2	...	...	119.9	...
San Diego, Calif.	...	118.2	...	...	119.5	...	...
San Francisco-Oakland, Calif.	...	...	119.1	...	...	119.9	...
Scranton, Pa.	...	118.9	...	...	120.8	...	...
Seattle, Wash.	...	114.6	...	...	115.5	...	...
Washington, D.C.-Md.-Va.	...	120.9	...	...	122.2	...	...

Sources:

U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics. Consumer Price Index—July 1971. Washington, D.C.: Government Printing Office, August 20, 1971.

U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics. "Current Labor Statistics." Monthly Labor Review 94, 8: 113; August 1971.

[a]Foods, fuels, and several other items are priced every month in all cities. Most other goods and services are priced according to the following schedule:

1. Every month—city average: Chicago, Ill.-Northwestern Ind.; Detroit, Mich.; Los Angeles-Long Beach, Calif.; New York, N.Y.-Northeastern N.J.; and Philadelphia, Pa.-N.J.
2. January, April, July, October: Boston, Mass.; Houston, Texas; Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn.; and Pittsburgh, Pa.
3. February, May, August, November: Buffalo, N.Y.; Cleveland, Ohio; Dallas, Texas; Milwaukee, Wis.; San Diego, Calif.; Seattle, Wash.; and Washington, D.C.-Md.-Va.
4. March, June, September, December: Atlanta, Ga.; Baltimore, Md.; Cincinnati, Ohio-Ky.; Honolulu, Hawaii; Kansas City, Mo.-Kansas; St. Louis, Mo.-Ill.; and San Francisco-Oakland, Calif.

[b]The July index is based entirely upon prices prevailing before the President's August 15 announcement of the wage-price freeze.

[c]Based on 56 metropolitan areas and nonmetropolitan urban places. Excludes Portland, Oreg., and Scranton, Pa.

Special Reports

BRIEFS OF RECENT AGREEMENTS

Topeka, Kansas

Between the Board of Education of Unified School District No. 501 and NEA-Topeka, effective May 15, 1971, to June 1, 1972. Approximately 1,265 certificated professional employees. Provision for automatic renewal of agreement for successive one-year periods unless either party notifies the other in writing of a desire to renegotiate no less than 7 months nor more than 8 months prior to June 1, 1972, or any successive anniversary of that date. Once the notice to terminate is received, the parties must submit their written proposals for items to be included in the new agreement within 30 days.

Compensation: B.A., $6,600 to $8,650, 9 increments; B.A. plus 15 hours, $8,902 maximum; M.A., $7,167 to $10,540, 14 increments; M.A. plus 15 hours, $10,792 maximum; Ph.D., $12,115 maximum; employees at the top of each 1970-71 salary schedule lane shall receive a base salary increase of $460 for the 1971-72 school year; longevity pay of $100 after 3 years' system experience, $200 after 7 years' experience, and $400 after 20 years' experience; "step-up advancement" program allowing a "tenure teacher with extraordinary ability" to be advanced a maximum of 3 steps on the salary schedule in accordance with specified procedures and appraisals (see following provision reprint); "over and beyond" advancement program whereby the "rare tenure teacher of unusual merit" who has attained the tenth step on the salary schedule and has at least 6 years' system experience may be considered for a super-maximum of $1,000 per year beyond the regular maximum; separate salary schedule provided for school psychologists, social workers, and the special education coordinator. Differentials: (for coaching positions, compensation is stated as an index of the B.A. base, and the schedule sets forth a maximum dollar amount for each position which, when exceeded, renders the index factor inapplicable) high-school head football and basketball coaches, $759 each (.115 of B.A. base); high-school head track coach, $495 (.075 of B.A. base); high-school head wrestling and swimming coaches, and chief assistant football and basketball coaches, $429 each (.065 of B.A. base); high-school head golf, tennis, and cross-country coaches, $297 each (.045 of B.A. base); junior-high head coach, $627 (.095 of B.A. base); student council sponsors at all levels, $200 each; high-school debate coach, and vocal and instrumental music directors, $600 each; high-school journalism sponsor, $300; high-school drama coach, $400; elementary-school counselors, $600; remedial and developmental reading teachers, minimum of $300 if teaching in one building, and $500 if teaching in 2 or more buildings; driver training teachers, $4.49 per hour for "behind the wheel" instruction, and $3.50 per hour for class instruction outside the regular school day; teachers with multiple building assignments, $200. Hourly pay scale for certificated and noncertificated personnel ranging through 10 steps and paying $4.49 per hour to $6.02 per hour for employees with a B.A. degree, and $4.90 to $6.47 per hour for personnel with an M.A. degree. Schedule for compensating teachers for nonteaching duty assignments provides hourly rates of $2.50 to $4.00 according to the type of activity (e.g., supervising crowds at athletic events, bus supervision, supervising pupil parties and other social or cultural events, and inventorying school books).

Leaves: 10 days' annual sick leave credited at beginning of school year, unlimited maximum accumulation; a hospitalized, regular, full-time, tenure teacher may be allowed additional sick leave days not to exceed the number of days accumulated and used at the time of hospitalization, provided that the borrowed days be charged against sick leave days subsequently earned by the teacher, that no days be accumulated by the teacher until the total number of borrowed days has been earned and repaid, and that the teacher be credited with only 5 sick leave days at the beginning of each year until he has repaid all borrowed days; upon the death of a member of the immediate family, 2 separate days' leave shall be allowed to attend a funeral held within the county, and 3 separate days' leave shall be allowed to attend a funeral outside the county; paid leave for jury duty less any court allowances received; full-time employees who have attained age 60, and who have completed 3 consecutive years' service immediately preceding retirement or death and 10 or more years of school service (as recognized by the state and/or district retirement plans) are eligible for additional compensation as follows: 25 percent of total unused sick leave for 10-19 years' school service, 50 percent of total unused sick leave for 20-29 years' school service, and 100 percent of total unused sick leave for 30 or more years' school service, provided that in each case the total number of days not exceed 60; in the case of disability retirement, an employee must have completed 15 or more years' school service, regardless of age, to qualify for the preceding benefits.

Insurance: Board-paid Blue Cross-Blue Shield hospital, surgical, and medical insurance for individual coverage, although the board will pay the equivalent of two single memberships toward a family contract if both husband and wife are certificated personnel; board shall provide comprehensive liability insurance protection against damages arising out of a teacher's negligence while acting within the scope of his duties; board will reimburse an employee for any personal property damage sustained in the course of his employment to a maximum of $100 per incident; board will pay the full costs of all medical, surgical, or hospital services (less any insurance or workmen's compensation payments received) to a maximum of $750 per incident in the case of any injury sustained by a teacher as a result of being subjected to violence, assault, or physical abuse in the course of his employment.

Association: Payroll dues deduction for local association; no-strike, no lockout clause; association representatives may discuss organization business during their nonduty time provided that the building administration is notified of their presence and there is no interference with the instructional program; association officers or representatives shall be granted short unpaid leaves of absence to participate in area, regional, state, and national organization activities.

Instruction: For elementary teachers, the maximum weekly teaching load shall consist of 30 instructional hours and 5 hours for preparation and the performance of noninstructional professional duties (e.g., staff meeting, program evaluation, and parent-teacher conferences); for secondary teachers, the normal weekly teaching load shall consist of 25 instructional hours, 5 hours' preparation time, and 5 hours for the performance of noninstructional professional duties; a teacher shall not be required to work with more than one student teacher per year without his consent.

Personnel: Grievance procedure ends with final and binding arbitration; a teacher has the right to review his personnel file and respond to any unfavorable materials before placement therein; when applicants for reassignments or transfers are equally qualified, preference shall be given to the applicant with the greatest district seniority; mandatory retirement at age 65; nontenure teachers shall be formally evaluated at least once each semester, while tenure teachers shall be formally evaluated at least once each year.

STEP-UP ADVANCEMENT

A tenure teacher with extraordinary ability may grow in professional skill more rapidly than the average and be eligible for faster than average advancement on the salary schedule. Such a tenure teacher may be advanced not more than three (3) groups on the salary schedule, including his regular annual group advancement. A teacher's name may be submitted only once in a two (2) year period.

An accurate appraisal of such growth or the lack of it is difficult to determine. Because there is no generally accepted scientific means of making such determination and since such judgments must in reality be made, appropriate precautions must be taken to protect the teacher and the taxpaying community from biased or unjust appraisal by school authorities who might believe their judgment to be infallible. The precautions which must be taken to protect the teacher and community from improper appraisal are listed:

1. Request for a Special Appraisal of a person's services may be initiated in the following ways.
   a. At his own request.
   b. Through request, in writing, by three (3) or more of his fellow workers,
   c. Through written request by the building principal or any administrative or supervisory officer.
2. The building principal, departmental supervisor (if secondary) and the Consultant for Elementary Education (if elementary) should be in agreement that this person is a suitable nominee for the "step-up" special appraisal prior to the nomination.
3. This nominee for the "step-up" special appraisal should have been given the highest rating the last two (2) evaluation periods by the building principal.

4. If in any one year the number of requests for special appraisal is so great that there is obviously not sufficient time to make them, a review committee will be set up jointly by the Deputy Superintendent of Instruction and the President of NEA-Topeka to establish the priority list for evaluation.
5. The person in general charge of the special appraisal of professional service is the Deputy Superintendent of Instruction for the School System. Requests for special appraisals must be made in writing to the Deputy Superintendent of Instruction on or before November 15 of the school year the appraisal is to be made. Since numerous hours of work are involved in each special appraisal, there will not be sufficient time to undertake it if the request comes after that date. For teachers being appraised because of some doubt as to their competency the principal or supervisor or administrative staff may submit this name for appraisal at any time when there seems to be a noticeable decline of professional services. This is true of tenure and non-tenure teachers.
6. Members of the Special Appraisal Committee will be selected from the following:
   a. The person being appraised.
   b. Principal of the building in which the individual works.
   c. Departmental supervisor of the subject matter area in which the person works.
   d. Deputy Superintendent of Instruction.
   e. Consultant for Elementary Education or the Director of Secondary Education.
   f. Deputy Superintendent of Personnel.
   g. Other persons, if any, designated by the Superintendent of Schools.
7. The initial special appraisal meeting will be called by the Deputy Superintendent of Instruction. He will outline the plan for the appraisal procedure at this meeting.
8. The Deputy Superintendent of Instruction or a person designated by him will serve as chairman of the special appraisal committee.
9. The appraisal shall be based on numerous visitations and conferences with the person whose services are being appraised. (Topeka, Kansas)

"OVER AND BEYOND" ADVANCEMENT

1. For the rare tenure teacher of unusual merit who has attained the tenth (10th) group on the salary schedule and who has served in the Topeka Public Schools not less than six (6) consecutive years, there is a "hall of fame" super maximum of $1,000 per year beyond the regular maximum.
2. The person in general charge of this advancement is the Deputy Superintendent of Instruction for the school system. Nominations must be made on or before November 15 of a given year.
3. A person may be considered for this advancement:
   a. At his own written request.
   b. Through nomination, in writing, by three (3) or more of his fellow workers.
   c. Through written nomination by the building principal or any administrative or supervisory officer. (Topeka, Kansas)

Northampton, Massachusetts

Between the Northampton School Committee and the Northampton Teachers' Association, effective June 30, 1970, to June 30, 1972. Approximately 310 certificated professional employees. Provision for a reopener solely on matters of compensation and other conditions of employment by October 1 of each contract year. Provision for automatic renewal of agreement for successive one-year terms unless either party notifies the other in writing by November 1 of the year preceding the year of contract expiration of its desire to modify or amend the contract.

Compensation: (1970-71) B.A., $6,600 to $10,120, 9 increments; M.A., $7,205 to $11,220, 9 increments; M.A. plus 30 hours, $11,550 maximum; Ph.D., $12,210 maximum; schedule establishes supermaximums of $400 each above the B.A., M.A., M.A. plus 30 hours, and Ph.D. maximums in accordance with a provision allowing 4 professional increments of $100 each for professional study or its equivalent in travel (see outline of contract's professional improvement provisions below for further explanation); retirement pay of $300 for each of the final 2 years of service provided that a teacher applies in September for retirement in June, 2 years hence.

(1971-72) B.A., $7,194 to $11,031, 9 increments; M.A., $7,853 to $12,230, 9 increments; M.A. plus 30 hours, $12,590 maximum; Ph.D., $13,310 maximum; supermaximum and retirement provisions outlined above also are applicable here.

Differentials: (identical for both years of contract) high-school football coach, $1,200; high-school varsity basketball coach, $1,000; high-school varsity baseball coach, $800; high-school cross-country, junior varsity baseball, and girls' varsity basketball coaches, $300 each; high-school band director, $1,100; high-school choral director, and debate and dramatics coaches, $200 each; junior-high newspaper, yearbook, and student council advisors, $100 each; junior high band directors, $175 each; department heads receive $900 to $1,050 and up to 2 periods of released time according to the number of teachers supervised and the subject matter of the department. Inexperienced substitutes, $17 per day; substitutes with a B.A. degree and no regular full-time experience, $25 per day; substitutes with a B.A. degree and experience or an M.A. degree, $30. Regular teachers acting as substitutes receive $5 for each period substituted. Teachers who must travel to more than one school in any one day receive $12 per month.

Leaves: 15 days' annual sick leave, unlimited maximum accumulation; extended sick leave at partial pay for the same number of days as the teacher has years of district service; 2 days of personal leave deducted from accumulation may be granted with the approval of the superintendent; time as needed may be deducted from accumulation in the event of an illness or death in the immediate family or among close relatives; 2 separate days for school visitation upon approval by the superintendent and according to the importance of such visits to the schools; provision stating that "teachers should attend as many professional conferences as possible" and providing for reimbursement for reasonable expenses incurred when attending such conferences at the request of and/or with the advance approval of the teacher's principal and the superintendent; in the event of a teacher's death, his estate shall be paid the balance of his unused accumulated sick leave at the rate of 1/200 of his salary; sabbatical leave at 75 percent of salary (provided such pay when added to any program grant does not exceed the teacher's full annual rate) for up to one year after 7 years' service.

Insurance: Committee pays half the cost of group health and life insurance coverage for individual; tax sheltered annuity plan available; Association makes available group health accident insurance for individual coverage.

Association: Payroll dues deduction for local association; an association representative or member involved in investigating or processing a grievance at Level IV (arbitration) during the school day shall be allowed released time without loss of pay.

Instruction: Junior and senior high-school teachers and elementary teachers in the departmental structure shall not be required to teach more than 2 major subjects, or have more than a total of 3 teaching preparations at any one time; released time once a month is provided for all teachers for attendance at curriculum meetings; class size provision stating that the Committee "will continue . . . to make every effort to retain the standards of an average of twenty-five (25) pupils per teacher"; pupil-teacher ratios for special classes include one teacher for 15 educable pupils, one teacher for 10 trainable pupils, one teacher for 8 emotionally disturbed pupils whose ages fall within a 3-year range, and one teacher for 6 emotionally disturbed pupils if their ages range more than 3 years apart; provision stating that "whenever possible, secondary principals will not assign more than one hundred (100) students to English teachers."

Personnel: Grievance procedure ends with final and binding arbitration; all teachers are allowed a duty-free lunch period equal in length to the pupils' lunch period; in secondary schools with a work day of 7 periods or longer, teachers shall have one preparation period daily; elementary teachers may leave their classrooms when classes are being conducted by specialists; teachers have the right to review their personnel files and respond to any derogatory material before placement therein; nontenure teachers shall be evaluated semiannually in an evaluation conference with their principal or department head and may appeal an adverse evaluation through the grievance procedure only on grounds of bad faith or discrimination; if a teacher is to be disciplined or reprimanded by a member of the administration above the level of his principal, he may have an association member present; suspension provision stating that the school committee, the superintendent, or any other school official designated by the superintendent may suspend a teacher without pay for a maximum of 10 days "for unbecoming conduct or for any other cause which such Committee, Superintendent, or official deems adequate," although the teacher shall have the right of appeal to the full committee and shall be reinstated with back pay if his suspension is not upheld; provision setting forth department heads' duties, responsibilities, and conditions of employment (see following provision reprint); professional improvement program allowing 4 increments of $100 each for professional study (2 approved courses totaling 4 semester hours or more of credit are required for one increment) or its equivalent in travel (only 2 increments may be earned through travel); only one $100 increment may be earned during any 12-month period except through full-time study, an excess of credits earned in one year cannot be carried over into a succeeding year, and no teacher shall receive more than 5 annual increments unless he "presents evidence of approved professional study in his field of work equal to six (6) college credits earned during each five (5) year period"; increments may be withheld from any teacher whose work is judged unsatisfactory by the superintendent, and the combined evaluation of the elementary supervisor, department head, and principal in charge of his work, provided that he be given written notice of the reasons for such an action at least 60 days in advance of the awarding of contracts, and provided that tenure teachers who so request have been granted a hearing before the school committee.

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF HEADS OF DEPARTMENTS

A. Heads of Department are under the general supervision of the Superintendent of Schools, and are directly responsible to the principal of the school to which they are assigned as a teacher. In addition they shall have staff responsibility to each principal of a school in which a member of their department is assigned. They will maintain liaison between their respective departments and the administration.

B. Heads of Department are responsible for periodic review of all departmental courses with the aim of improving the content and organization of the courses.
   1. Heads of Department will be responsible for encouraging and directing research and study of new course content and of new methods of teaching.
   2. Heads of Department are responsible for the final recommendations to the Superintendent of new textbooks for their departments. Individual teacher recommendations will be considered before final recommendations are made.

C. Heads of Department are responsible for the supervision and guidance of teachers within their departments, especially new appointments. Reports of evaluation will be submitted on all tenure teachers annually and nontenure teachers semi-annually to the Superintendent. These reports will be based on competence in subject matter area, evidence of preparation, and presentation.

D. Heads of Department are responsible for submitting an annual departmental budget.

E. Heads of Department are responsible for compiling an annual inventory of books and equipment.

CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT

A. Heads of Department will be allowed to interview candidates for openings within their departments and their recommendations will be considered in the appointment to fill each vacancy.

B. Department Heads will have a reduced teaching load commensurate with the size and scope of their respective departments.
   1. Each Department Head will be assigned classes on the basis of the following:
      a. Industrial Arts & Home Economics – 5 Classes
      b. Latin, Speech & Business – 4 Classes
      c. Mathematics, Science, Fine Arts & Social Studies – 3 Classes
      d. English & Languages – 2 Classes
      e. Special Education & Athletics – No Classes
   2. No Head of Department will be assigned any study period unless it is used to substitute for an academic class.

C. Department Heads will have the opportunity to visit other schools and attend conventions and conferences in order to keep abreast of current trends in their respective fields. (Northampton, Massachusetts)

Corry, Pennsylvania

Between the Corry Area Joint Schools and the Corry Area Education Association, effective July 1, 1971, to June 30, 1972. Approximately 135 certificated professional employees. Provision for the negotiation of a successor agreement to begin on December 15, 1971.

Compensation: B.A., $6,800 to $10,700, 13 increments; B.A. plus 24 hours, $10,850 maximum; M.A., $7,100 to $11,300, 14 increments; M.A. plus 30 hours, $11,600 maximum; separate salary schedules provided for counselors and librarians, and vocational agriculture teachers which set forth beginning salaries according to the number of years' experience and the type of degree held; longevity pay of $100 annually beginning with the 25th year of service; retirement pay of $25 per year of district service (to a maximum of 20 years' service) for teachers with at least 10 years' district service. Differentials: athletic director and head basketball coach, $1,000 each; head football coach, $1,050; assistant football, basketball and wrestling coaches, $475 each; swimming coach, $650; cross-country coach, $275; yearbook advisor, $365; junior class play director, $150; senior class sponsor, $175; band director, $500; stage crew advisor, $300; senior high audio-visual director, $125. Summer school teachers, $725 (which rate is effective for both the 1971 and 1972 summer sessions). Driver education, adult education, and homebound teachers, $6 per hour. Special education teachers receive $200 above the regular teacher scale at all steps.

Leaves: 10 days' annual sick leave, which "shall be cumulative from year to year," according to the state school code; a maximum of 25 days' accrued sick leave may be transferred from one district in the state to another in accordance with state law; 3 hardship and emergency leave days deducted from accumulation, one of which "may be taken by the employe at any time that he deems a personal hardship to exist," and the other 2 of which may be used as emergency sick leave in the event of an illness in the immediate family; 3 separate days' bereavement leave in the event of a death in the immediate family; 1 separate day of leave for the death of a near relative; 1 day of leave at partial pay to attend the commencement of a son or daughter; paid leave for jury duty less any court allowances received, although a teacher may elect to take one day of personal leave at full pay.

Insurance: Board-paid Blue Cross-Blue Shield coverage for individual; prior to the beginning of the 1971-72 school year, the board shall arrange for and maintain liability insurance coverage "which shall cover employes for liability over and above any individual liability coverage the employe has" and shall protect an employee "against any liability for an act or omission arising from the authorized use of his own automobile in the performance of school duties."

Association: Payroll dues deductions for local, state, and national associations; released time without loss of pay shall be made available to association representatives engaged in negotiation, grievance proceedings, or conferences during the school day, although all negotiating sessions and grievance meetings shall be held after the school day except as mutually agreed otherwise; a total of 4 days' paid leave shall be made available to association representatives "according to a schedule which shall be submitted by the president of the bargaining unit prior to the beginning of each school year, provided that there shall be no expense to the employer for substitute teachers required, in the opinion of the employer, because of such leave."

Personnel: Grievance procedure ends with final and binding arbitration; duty-free lunch period of 30 minutes for all teachers; when elementary-school classes are being conducted by a specialist, elementary teachers will be relieved of classroom supervision; tuition reimbursement of $40 per college credit (which amount shall not exceed the actual cost charged per credit) to a maximum of 10 credits per year, provided that courses taken have the prior approval of the superintendent; extracurricular activities, and adult education, driver education, and summer school courses shall be assigned with the consent of the teacher, and preference shall be given to regularly employed teachers according to their experience, competency, and qualifications; in emergency situations, teachers may volunteer as substitutes during their non-teaching time, although regular teachers may be assigned as substitutes in the absence of volunteers; mandatory retirement at age 65, although a joint committee may extend the retirement age on an emergency basis for periods of one year when suitable replacements are unavailable; school work year consists of 5 in-service days and 180 instructional days, but "if circumstances require make-up days beyond the scheduled school calendar, in order to complete 180 days of instruction, the employes agree to work such make-up days without extra compensation"; provision stating that salaries "shall be paid in twenty-four (24) semi-monthly payments, with 40% of the employe's salary being payable at the mid-month payment period without deductions, and the remaining 60% paid at the end-of-the-month payment period with all applicable deductions taken from said . . . payment"; provision for association selection of building Liaison Committees composed of no more than one member per 25 building teachers which shall meet with the building principal at least 3 times per year "to review and discuss local school problems and practices"; Appendix E of the agreement enumerates 10 "meet and discuss items," including secondary-school attendance and discipline officers, bus scheduling, mailing of report cards, school calendar, the arrangement of teaching specialists' schedules in the elementary grades, guidelines for the institution of an elementary-school library program, and periodic early dismissal for teachers for purposes of attending various meetings and evaluating pupil programs.

Alexandria, Virginia

Between the Board of Education of the Alexandria City Public Schools and the Education Association of Alexandria, effective July 1, 1971, to June 30, 1971. Approximately 875 certificated professional employees.

Compensation: (stated as an index scale with B.A. base equal to 1.00) B.A., $7,550 (1.00) to $13,213 (1.75), 13 increments; B.A. plus 30 hours, $14,723 (1.95) maximum; M.A., $8,683 (1.15) to $15,629 (2.07), 15 increments; M.A. plus 30 hours, $16,988 (2.25) maximum; Ph.D., $18,196 (2.41) maximum; provision for hiring teachers and other nonteaching personnel on a 12-month basis at an additional 20 percent of the 10-month salary rates plus prorated benefits; a teacher who is eligible for retirement under the state retirement system and who notifies the district of his impending retirement by July 1 prior to the contract year in which the retirement occurs shall receive retirement pay at the rate of .05 of the B.A. base. Differentials: high-school head football coach, $1,200; high-school head baseball, basketball, and track coaches, $1,100 each; high-school crew, gymnastics, intramurals, and wrestling coaches, $1,000 each; high-school assistant baseball, basketball, crew, gymnastics, track, and wrestling coaches, $700 each; high-school girls' intramurals coach, $400; high-school choral music sponsor, $250; high-school guidance counselors on 10-month contracts, $200; high-school club and activity sponsors have 4 classes, one planning period, and one sponsor period, and are compensated according to the type of activity: debate ($500), dramatics ($600), newspaper and literary magazine ($250 each), student council and yearbook ($300 each), and stagecraft ($800); high-school department heads who supervise two or more instructors including themselves receive $500 and have duties limited to 4 classes, one planning period, and one supervisory period; special education teachers, $200.

Leaves: 12 days' annual sick leave credited at beginning of school year, unlimited maximum accumulation; teachers with 2 years' service who are disabled or confined to a hospital shall, upon expiration of their accumulated regular sick leave, be granted an undefined "major medical sick leave" in the amount needed (up to 3 full months) or until the end of the contract period; 3 separate days for personal leave, and such leave may be granted to cover jury duty or required court appearances less any court allowances received; upon prior approval, an undefined leave will be granted for school visitations and professional conferences with the board paying expenses at the prevailing per-diem rate if a teacher attends a conference at the district's request; a teacher may request professional leave (early departure prior to the close of school) without loss of pay for required attendance at an NDEA institute or other approved scholarship program provided he has completed his end of the year obligations to the satisfaction of his principal and has furnished the personnel office with verification of his program enrollment; provision stating that a teacher may accumulate annual leave for up to 45 days and shall be reimbursed for all unused leave up to that amount upon termination; professional employees with 3 years' district service will receive severance pay at the rate of $10 per day of sick leave accumulated since the beginning of the 1970-71 school year to a maximum of 45 days; sabbatical leave at 75 percent of salary for an unspecified period of time after 6 years' service.

Insurance: Board pays $14 per month per employee toward group hospitalization and major medical insurance coverage for individual, and an additional $6 per month toward the family rate; effective July 1, 1971, the board will participate for all full-time district employees in the supplemental retirement system adopted for city employees; tax-sheltered annuity plans made available by board; provision stating that the board will report to the association by July 1, 1971, the results of a study regarding the feasibility of carrying disability and/or liability insurance to protect teachers during their hours of employment.

Association: Payroll dues deductions for local, state, and national associations; the association president will be given "appropriate" released time according to plans developed with the principal involved, and an intern will be assigned to work in the president's classroom and serve in his place when necessary; an association representative shall be named to the superintendent's calendar committee and shall participate in committee deliberations, present the association position on calendar items, and assist in drafting the calendar to be presented to the board; provision for the establishment of a joint 12-member council which shall meet at least bimonthly during the school year to "review and discuss any matters relating to the educational program" and determine future handling of each item.

Instruction: A "reasonable effort" will be made to schedule teachers with no more than 2 course preparations per day; a minimum of one reading teacher per elementary school will be employed; provision stating that "every effort will be made to reproduce and distribute curriculum materials developed during the summer as close to the first day of the school year as possible."

Personnel: Grievance procedure ends with association submission of the matter to a 3-member fact-finding panel; a teacher has the right to review his personnel file and respond in writing to any derogatory material before placement therein; the board will provide additional aides or other necessary personnel during the 1971-72 school year so that all teachers may have a duty-free lunch period of at least 30 minutes; elementary teachers shall have a minimum average of 30 minutes' preparation time daily; probationary teachers shall be evaluated at least twice each year by their building principal or his designee, while tenure teachers are to be evaluated once each year; any teacher recommended for dismissal or nonrenewal by the superintendent shall have the opportunity to review the charges against him with the appropriate association committee and have the right to a hearing before the board prior to its final action, and the association may further appeal the matter through the grievance procedure in the event the board concurs with the superintendent's recommendation; provision stating that "when possible, the Director of Personnel will include teachers as observers or participants with teams recruiting and interviewing new teachers as part of the teachers' in-service development program. Best use of teachers in this regard is to be an administrative determination"; in addition, the board "will strengthen its efforts to recruit and to employ more minority teachers for assignment in all schools"; professional district employees "shall have first opportunity" to apply for vacant administrative or supervisory positions, and positions will be filled "by promotion of the best qualified employee applicant, provided that the applicant's qualifications are at least equal to those of other applicants from outside the staff"; establishment of a sum of $5,000 in the 1971-72 budget primarily to cover the cost of tuition payments for fully certified personnel taking certain courses of study as a result of their assignment to specialized teaching areas for which they are not fully prepared; provision for the continuation of a summer curriculum program (depending upon program needs, curriculum design, and budget allocations) whereby teachers may be assigned to curriculum development and research projects at an additional 20 percent of their 10-month salary for 32 days plus 18 days of nonaccumulative annual leave.

Franklin Pierce (Tacoma), Washington

Between Franklin Pierce School District No. 402 and the Franklin Pierce Education Association, effective July 1, 1971, to June 30, 1972. Approximately 388 certificated professional employees.

Compensation: B.A., $6,936 to $9,920, 9 increments; B.A. plus 15 hours, $10,277 maximum; (schedule sets forth a B.A. plus 30 hours column but stipulates that teachers holding an M.A. degree receive $500 extra; the $500 figure is incorporated here) M.A., $8,176 to $11,822, 11 increments; B.A. plus 60 hours, $12,495 maximum (for M.A. plus 30 hours, $12,995 maximum); B.A. plus 90 hours, $13,770 maximum (for M.A. plus 60 hours, $14,270 maximum); separate salary schedules for administrators according to type of position held and ranging across 6 steps with the proviso that M.A. degree holders receive $500 above the schedule, and personnel with Ph.D. degrees receive $800 above the schedule. Differentials: (4-year experience schedule with the first year reported here) high-school athletic director, and head football and basketball coaches, $922 each; high-school head track coach, $597; high-school cross-country and boys' tennis coaches, $325 each; junior-high head football and basketball coaches, $563 each; junior-high head track and wrestling coaches, $359 each; high-school band director, $827; high-school vocal music director, $454; drill team advisor, $196; debate and drama coaches, newspaper sponsor, and counselors, $325 each; department chairmen, $359. Substitute teachers receive $5,105 (.736 of B.A. base) for the first 20 days of service, and are placed at the B.A. base upon beginning the 21st continuous day of service. The hourly rate for all but regular teaching and/or lump sum extra pay assignments ranges from $6.13 per hour for the first year to $7.49 per hour for the fifth year.

Leaves: 10 days' annual sick leave, 180 days' maximum accumulation; 5 separate days of personal leave at partial pay for a serious family illness, the death of a close relative, unusual and hazardous travel conditions, and "for purposes designed to improve the performance of a certified employee such as an education conference or institute"; 3 separate days' leave (which may be taken only once per year) for a terminal illness or death in the immediate family; 1 separate day of leave for the death of a close relative whose place of residence is elsewhere than in the home of the employee; paid leave for jury duty or court subpoena less any court allowances received; up to 15 days' paid leave for military reserve obligations; teacher exchange program with the American School of Vientiane allowing teachers an unpaid two-year leave of absence to teach in overseas schools during which time they will be considered on temporary reassignment, will receive credit for their experience on the district salary schedule, may transfer all unused sick leave from Vientiane, receive their same position upon return to the district, and retain district seniority rights; sabbatical leave at the B.A. base (for those who receive no grant in aid), or for those who receive a grant in aid, at one-half of the employee's normal salary or the B.A. base, whichever is less, for one year after 7 years' service.

Insurance: Board contributes up to $6 per month per employee for group health insurance coverage for individual; board shall provide liability insurance coverage for each certificated employee in the amount of $1 million, which coverage "shall be afforded in excess of any and all coverages that the applicant may have at the time of the loss" and is intended to cover losses during the performance of school duties, on school premises, and at school sponsored activities; tax-sheltered annuity plan made available by board.

Association: One association representative may be named to serve as a full voting member on each screening committee called to evaluate candidates for nonteaching certified positions in the district; elementary teachers provided with early release on nine specific dates to attend association board of directors' meetings.

Instruction: Three teachers shall be appointed by the association president to the Curriculum Advisory Committee, one of whom will be a member for one year and attend all meetings while the other two will be appointed according to the subject area being discussed; the committee shall give "priority consideration to the task of obtaining materials relevant to minority groups and to recommend the adoption and incorporation of such materials into all levels of the District curriculum"; provision setting forth a procedure for engaging controversial speakers (see following provision reprint).

Personnel: Grievance procedure ends with final and binding arbitration; the board "agrees to make all reasonable efforts" to provide preparation time for elementary teachers by hiring additional music and physical education teachers; new employees shall be evaluated by their principal, vice-principal, or both within the first 90 calendar days of employment in accordance with statute, shall be notified in writing of their areas of deficiency along with recommendations for improvement by February 1 of each year, and shall be allowed to demonstrate improvement during a February 1 to April 15 probationary period; all teachers must have a tentative written or oral evaluation by January 15, and the final written evaluation must be completed by May 31; mandatory retirement by June 30 of the fiscal year in which a teacher reaches age 65; provision allowing certificated employees and one guest to use their school's athletic facilities without charge when pupil activities are not scheduled.

CONTROVERSIAL SPEAKERS PROCEDURE

PROCEDURE:

The following procedure is recommended for all controversial speakers:

1. Request by a regular staff member should be submitted to the Advisory Committee at least one week prior to the presentation.
2. The staff member shall present the structure for the presentation at the same time that the request is submitted.
3. After review by the Advisory Committee, the decision of the committee shall be presented to the principal.
4. If the principal disapproves of the Advisory Committee's decision, he may request the committee to reconsider. Either the principal or requesting staff member may appeal a decision of the Advisory Committee to a committee composed of the following persons: Assistant Superintendent, Instruction; Administrative Assistant—Secondary Education; Director of Elementary Education.

GUIDELINES:

a. A speaker's topic must pertain to the teaching-learning objectives of the sponsoring individual or group.
b. Only invited speakers shall be present.
c. Evidence should be presented that the speaker is reputable and an authority on the subject.
d. The speaker should agree to use suitable language and be audio- and/or video-taped.
e. The speaker should agree to speak to the structure and subjects requested and if he does NOT, students will be excused.
f. The structure for the presentation should pertain to the current subject matter being dealt with in the classroom.
g. The speaker should be willing to participate in a question and answer session following his presentation.
h. No speaker shall be permitted to pass out literature to the students unless previously previewed and approved by the responsible teacher.
i. Adequate preparation and follow-up is imperative.
j. Students should not be required to listen to highly controversial speakers if they choose not to.

k. Only students in the classes involved shall be permitted to attend.
l. The Advisory Committee shall be composed of two permanent members elected annually by the building faculty and all members of the department and/or grade level securing the speaker. The building faculty shall designate one of the permanent members as chairman.
m. The classroom teacher possesses the professional expertise and has the primary responsibility for designing and implementing learning experiences appropriate to the teaching-learning objectives of the class.
n. The principal has the major responsibility for the administration and supervision of instruction in his building. (Franklin Pierce, Washington)

RESOURCE PUBLICATIONS FOR RESEARCH IN NEGOTIATION

This annotated bibliography of resource publications can provide negotiators with valid and reliable statistical information necessary to analyze and present their local conditions in comparison with other school districts, communities, professions, occupations, states, and the nation. Most of these publications are periodically revised. This list also provides negotiators with a variety of types of information they should be looking for on a local basis.

NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION, 1201 SIXTEENTH STREET, N.W., WASHINGTON, D.C. 20036.

RESEARCH DIVISION

NOTE: A subscription to all Research Division Research Reports is available from the NEA Records Division at the address above for $18 per year and includes approximately 15 to 20 research reports and summaries. For an additional $2 (a total of $20), a subscriber also may receive issues of the NEA Research Bulletin, a quarterly publication. The following publications are included in the $18 subscription price and also are available on an individual basis.

- Biennial Salary Survey of Public-School Professional Personnel (biennial, 1970-71 in process) gives mean and median salaries paid, and distributions of all salaries paid teachers, principals, superintendents, and others in public school systems. (Latest publication: 1970-71 data. Vol. I, Research Report 1971-R5. 183 p. $4.00. #435-25474. Vol. II, Research Report 1971-R6. 194 p. $4.00. #435-25476)

- Economic Status of the Teaching Profession (annual) compares trends in salaries paid teachers and other instructional staff members with salaries of other professional and nonprofessional workers; includes family budget and price index data. (Latest publication: 1970-71 data. Research Report 1971-R4. 87 p. $2.00. #435-25470)

- Estimates of School Statistics (annual) reports the number of basic administrative units (school districts), board members, and school superintendents, school-age population, fall and cumulative enrollments, average daily membership and attendance, number of high school graduates, numbers of teachers and instructional staff, salaries of teachers and instructional staff, revenue and nonrevenue school receipts, current expenditures per pupil in average daily membership and attendance, capital outlay, and interest on school debt for 50 states, the District of Columbia, and outlying areas. (Latest publication: 1970-71 data. Research Report 1970-R15. 38 p. $1.25. #435-25462)

- Faculty Salary Schedules in Colleges and Universities (annual; 1970-71 in process) provides salary schedules, policies regarding schedules, minimum and maximum salaries, and increments for teaching staff in institutions granting four-year or higher degrees. (Latest publication: 1969-70 data. Research Report 1970-R13. 45 p. $1.25. #435-25458)

- Faculty Salary Schedules in Community-Junior Colleges (annual; 1970-71 in process) provides salary schedules and policies relating to salary schedule structure for the teaching staff of two-year higher education institutions. (Latest publication: 1969-70 data. Research Report 1970-R11. 48p. $1.25. #435-25454)

- Rankings of the States (annual) classifies the states on a variety of economic, demographic, and social data relating to population, state and local governments, and education revenue and expenditures. (Latest publication: 1971 data. Research Report 1971-R1. 76 p. $1.50. #435-35464)

- Salaries in Higher Education (biennial) presents data on salaries paid in the nation's higher education institutions, both two-year and four-year. (Latest publication: 1969-70 data. Research Report 1970-R6. 95 p. $1.50. #435-22930)

• Salary Schedules for Administrative Personnel (annual) provides average and median salary summary tables and tables for individual school systems enrolling 6,000 or more pupils with respect to minimum and maximum scheduled salaries for administrators and building supervisors, and the percent relationship to scheduled salaries for classroom teachers. (Latest publication: 1970-71 data. Research Report 1971-R2. 100 p. $2.50. #435-25466)

• Salary Schedules for Teachers (annual) provides summary tables and tables for individual school systems enrolling 6,000 or more pupils with respect to minimum and maximum salaries, increments scheduled for teachers with bachelor's degrees, master's degrees, six years of preparation, and doctor's degrees, maximum placement for experience on the bachelor's degree scale, provisions for recognizing superior service or merit, number of teachers, and number of days on duty. (Latest publication: 1970-71 data. Research Report 1970-R12. 127 p. $1.25. #511-20834)

NOTE: The following NEA Research Division publications are not included in the $18 full-year research subscription but are provided upon request or separate subscription basis only.

• Merit Pay for Teachers—Pros and Cons presents a description of merit pay, alternatives to the system, and a bibliography of references on merit pay. (Research Memo 1971-2. June 1971. 6 p. $.25. #431-25510)

• Negotiation Agreement Provisions (biennial, 1970-71 in process) provides a master subject index of over 300 items contained in more than 900 comprehensive classroom teacher agreements, and a system-by-system listing of schools enrolling 1,000 or more pupils which have negotiated each identified item. (Latest publication: 1968-69 edition. 3 vols. $25.00 for NEA members, #841-24058; $40.00 for nonmembers, #841-24056)

• Negotiation Research Digest (monthly, September-June) publishes data on negotiation agreements, contract provision analyses; decisions of courts, labor boards, and arbitrators; fact-finders' recommendations, state negotiation statutes, and other material relative to public-school negotiation. (Periodical: $3.00 single copy. $15.00 a year for NEA members; $30.00 a year for nonmembers)

• School Law Summaries: Tenure and Contracts; Leaves of Absence; Tort Liability and Liability Insurance (all are published as warranted by legislative enactments). These three school law series provide state-by-state summaries of legislative and/or regulatory provisions relative to the particular topic. (Latest publications: Tenure and Contracts. September 1970. Research Report 1971-R3. 93 p. $2.00. #435-25468; Leaves of Absence. December 1968. 26 p. $1.00. #431-13388; Tort Liability and Liability Insurance. March 1969. 18 p. $.50. #431-22828)

• Survey of Merit Provisions for Teachers and Administrators, 1970-71, analyzes merit provisions in 173 school systems reporting such provisions in the 1970-71 NEA Research Division annual salary schedule survey. (Research Memo 1971-14. April 1971. 14 p. $.40. #431-22514)

• Teacher Retirement System Summaries (biennial, 1971 in process) is a compilation in summary form of retirement legislation in 50 states and 16 local retirement systems. (Latest publication: 1969 data. December 1969. loose-leaf series, complete set for $3.50. #898-25586)

COMMITTEE ON EDUCATIONAL FINANCE

• Financial Status of the Public Schools (annual) documents trends in school enrollment, teacher supply and demand, teacher salaries, school revenues and expenditures, and property taxes and federal grants for school purposes. (Latest publication: 1971 data. 43 p. $1.25. #511-20834)

EDUCATIONAL RESEARCH SERVICE

NOTE: The following materials (as well as other NEA Research Division publications) are available from the ERS Information Service at a subscription price of $80.00 per year. Single publications also are available upon request.

• Educational Research Service Circulars (irregular) survey and analyze current practices in local school administration. (Latest pertinent publications: Professional Growth Credit for Educational Travel. ERS Circular No. 2, 1971. $1.50; Framework for Student Involvement. ERS Circular No. 6, 1970.

$1.25; The Evaluatee Evaluates the Evaluator. ERS Circular No. 5, 1970. $1.50; School Year for Pupils and Teachers. ERS Circular No. 4, 1970. $1.25; Severance Pay for Professional Employees in Public-School Systems. ERS Circular No. 5, 1969. $1.25; Duty-Free Lunch Periods for Elementary School Teachers. ERS Circular No. 4, 1968. $1.25)

• Educational Research Service Information Aids (irregular) briefly examine topical school system subjects. (Latest pertinent publications: Leaves of Absence to Teach Abroad. No. 7, November 1970. $.50; Full Year Contracts for Teachers, No. 5, September 1970. $.50; The Ombudsman in Public Education. No. 4, August 1970. $.50; Chief Negotiator for the Administrator-Board Team. No. 3, February 1970. $.50; Release of Classroom Teachers for Inservice Training. No. 2, December 1969. $.50)

U.S. GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS ARE AVAILABLE FROM THE SUPERINTENDENT OF DOCUMENTS, U.S. GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D.C. 20402

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE, BUREAU OF THE CENSUS

• Census of Governments (5-year intervals) provides data concerning numbers and characteristics of governments in the United States, the number of elective officials, the value of taxable property, the number of public employees and payrolls, and the amounts of governmental revenues, expenditures, debts, and financial assets. (Latest publications: 1967 data. Vols. I through VII as follows:

Vol. I—Government Organization. $3.25
Vol. II—Taxable Property Values. $1.50
Vol. III, No. 1—Finances of School Districts. $.75
No. 2—Finances of Special Districts. $.75
No. 3—Finances of County Governments. $.75
No. 4—Finances of Municipalities and Township Governments. $.75
No. 5—Compendium of Government Finance. $.75
Vol. V—Local Government in Metropolitan Areas. $5.00
Vol. VI, No. 1—Popular Elected Officials of State and Local Government. $1.50
No. 2—Employee Retirement Systems of State and Local Government. $.45
No. 3—State Reports on State and Local Government Finance. $1.00
No. 4—State Payments to Local Government. $1.00
No. 5—Historical Statistics in Government Finances and Employment. $1.25
No. 7—Graphic Summary of the 1967 Census of Governments. $.50
Vol. VII—State Reports (a separate report for each state, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico with prices ranging from $.35 to $1.25)

• Current Population Reports (annual; various reports) provides population estimates for selected counties and metropolitan areas, states, and the United States for total resident population. (Latest publications: eight reports in the P series, based upon 1970 census data. Price varies for single copy of a series. $14.00 a year for complete series)

• 1970 Census of Population and Housing (several series of advance reports are now available) consists of a report for each state and the District of Columbia, and a United States summary report. Individual reports are:

1. Population Census Report. Series PC(V1) reports final population counts for states, counties, county subdivisions, all incorporated places, and unincorporated places with a population of 1,000 or more. Series PC(V2) reports selected data on age, sex, race, and relationship to head of household for states, SMSA's, counties, and places with a population of 10,000 or more. (Latest publications: issued between September 1970 and March 1971. Series PC(V1). $13.00 per set, or $.25 per individual state report; Series PC(V2). $15.60 per set, or $.30 per individual state report)
2. Housing Census Report. Series HC(V1) reports selected data on housing characteristics for states, SMSA's, counties, and places with a population of 10,000 or more. (Latest publication: issued between September 1970 and March 1971. Series HC(V1). $15.60 per set, or $.30 per individual state report)

• Public Employment (annual) covers public employment and payrolls of federal, state, and local governments by function and type of government. (Latest publication: 1970 data. GE70 No. 1. 31 p. $.40)

• State Government Finances (annual, several reports) covers federal, state, and local finances by revenue source, expenditure by type and function, indebtedness and debt transactions, and various other governmental finance transactions. (Latest publication: 1968-69 data. Series GF69 No. 1. 60 p. $.50)

• State Tax Collections (quarterly) covers national totals of state and local tax revenues by level of government and type of tax. (Latest publication: 1969 summary. Series GT69 No. 1. 40 p. $.50)

• Statistical Abstract of the United States (annual) provides numerous summaries of statistics on the social, political, and economic organization of the United States and a guide to source references. (Latest publication: 1970. 91st edition. 1,018 p. $5.75-cloth)

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE, OFFICE OF BUSINESS ECONOMICS

• Economic Report of the President (annual) provides statistical data on a national basis for income or expenditure, population, employment, and wages, production and business activity, prices, money supply, credit and finance, corporate profits and finance, and government finance. (Latest publication: February 1971. 332 p. $1.50)

• Survey of Current Business (monthly) provides general business indicators and trends on national income and production statistics, commodity and consumer prices, construction and real estate, domestic and foreign trade, labor force, employment and earnings, and finance and selected activities for various manufacturing industries. (Periodical: $1.00 single copy. $9.00 a year which includes weekly supplement)

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE, OFFICE OF EDUCATION

• Digest of Educational Statistics (annual) covers selected statistics on instructional staff, graduates, and school expenditures related to personal income. (Latest publication: 1969 edition. 128 p. $1.50. #OE-10024-69)

• Statistics of State School Systems (biennial) covers school-age population and enrollment, public-school employment, and revenues and expenditures for public-school systems. (Latest publication: 1967-68 preliminary. 17 p. $.30. #OE-20006-68)

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE, PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE

• Vital Statistics of United States (monthly) covers selected statistics on births, deaths, marriages, and divorces. (Periodical: annual summary for the United States, October 20, 1970. 19 p. free upon request to the National Center for Health Statistics as long as supply lasts)

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE, SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION, OFFICE OF RESEARCH AND STATISTICS

• Social Security Bulletin (monthly) regularly publishes statistics on public benefit plans for social security, medicare, unemployment insurance, and public assistance, as well as special articles on private employee benefit plans and costs for health insurance and retirement. (Periodical: $.35 single copy. $4.00 a year)

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF LABOR, BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS

• Analysis of Health, Insurance, Pension, and Other Employee-Benefit Plans (irregular; titles vary) covers prevalence of plans, digests of plan provisions, detailed analyses of selected provisions, and administrative and financial characteristics of all plans under Disclosure Act or selected plans. (Latest publications: Benefits for Active and Retired Workers Age 65 or Over, Early 1968. Bulletin 1502-1. 1968. 33 p. $.40; Digest of 100 Selected Health Insurance Plans Under Collective Bargaining, Early 1966. Bulletin 1502. September 1966. 152 p. $1.00; Digest of 100 Selected Pension Plans Under Collective Bargaining. 1970 edition. 300 p. $5.00)

• Collective Bargaining Agreements Analysis (annual; 5-10 reports) covers prevalence of contract provisions by major industry groups, subject matter, and other classifications. (Latest publications: five reports on Major Collective Bargaining Agreements. Administration of Negotiated Pension, Health, and Insurance Plans. Bulletin 1425-12. May 1970. 52 p. $.60; Seniority in Promotion and Transfer Provisions. Bulletin 1425-11. March 1970. 82 p. $.75; Paid Vacation and Holiday Provisions. Bulletin 1425-9. November 1969. 127 p. $1.25; Plant Movement, Transfer, and Relocation Allowances. Bulletin 1425-10. November 1969. 116 p. $1.25; Characteristics of Agreements Covering 5,000 Workers or More. Bulletin 1686. 1971. 81 p. $.70)

• Consumer Expenditure Survey (varies for different areas and population categories) covers income, expenditures, and changes in assets and liabilities by income class, family size, and other demographic and economic characteristics. Survey is based upon the decennial census, but publications relative to the 1970 Census have not yet been released. (Latest publications: BLS Reports 237-1 through 237-93. Consumer units in urban population by individual city data, regional and United States summaries, 1960-61. Special cities, 1963; BLS Reports 237-1 through 237-83 published in 1962, 1963, and 1964. Consumer units in rural farm and rural nonfarm population by regional and United States summaries, 1960-61; BLS Reports 237-84 through 237-88 published in 1966. Consumer units in combined urban and rural population by regional and United States summaries, 1960-61; BLS Reports 237-89 through 237-93 published in 1966. Furnished upon request to BLS as long as supply lasts)

• Consumer Price Index (monthly) covers indexes for all items and major groups and subgroups for the United States and 23 large cities. (Releases: U.S. city average and selected areas, monthly. Selected items and groups, quarterly. Furnished upon request to BLS as long as supply lasts.)

• Current Wage Developments (monthly; quarterly summary) contains summaries of major wage developments by amount and nature of changes in wages and related benefits, identified by individual companies and unions with number of workers affected, and listed by industry group and location. (Releases: monthly. Furnished upon request to BLS as long as supply lasts.)

• Employer Expenditures for Selected Supplementary Employee Compensation Practices (annual for selected industries) covers percent of payroll and cents per hour employer expenditures for paid leave, premium pay, legally required payments, and private welfare plans for selected manufacturing and nonmanufacturing industries. (Latest publications: "Wages and Benefit Developments in Manufacturing." reprint from Monthly Labor Review. p. 40-49. November 1968; Wages and Related Benefits in Metropolitan Areas, 1966-67. Bulletin 1530-87. pt. 1, 85 metropolitan areas, occupational earnings, and supplementary practices, November 1967. 96 p. $.50. pt. 2, metropolitan areas, United States and regional summaries, July 1968. 118 p. $.65; Employer Expenditures for Selected Supplementary Compensation Practices for Production and Related Workers, Composition of Payroll Hours, Manufacturing Industries, 1962. Bulletin 1428. April 1965. 126 p. $1.00; Supplementary Compensation for Nonproduction Workers, 1963. Bulletin 1470. December 1965. 110 p. $.70; Pay Supplements in Private Industry and Federal Government Compared. News Release USDL 11-202. 1970. 4 p. Furnished upon request to BLS as long as supply lasts.)

• Employment, Hours, and Earnings (monthly) covers gross hours and earnings, spendable weekly earnings, and overtime for employees in mining, construction, manufacturing, trade, finance, and other selected industries. (Latest publication: monthly reports published in Monthly Report on the Labor Force. See item 35. Labor force. Employment and Earnings Statistics for States and Areas, 1939-68. August 1969. 582 p. $7.00)

• Labor Force (monthly) covers employment status of the labor force by various demographic breakdowns. (Periodical: $.65 single copy. $7.00 a year)

• Monthly Labor Review (monthly) publishes articles on industrial relations, labor problems, labor economics, the labor movement, and labor law, and summarizes major studies by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. (Periodical: $.75 single copy. $9.00 a year)

• Occupational Outlook (biennial; quarterly for selected items of interest) provides analyses of the employment outlook, nature of the work, training, requirements for entry, line of advancement, location of jobs, earnings, and working conditions for 700 occupations and 30 major industries. (Latest publication: Occupational Outlook Handbook, 1970-71 edition. Bulletin 1650. 1970. 859 p. $6.25)

• Occupational Wages—community wage surveys (monthly; each area surveyed annually) covers averages and distributions of wage and salary rates for clerical, skilled maintenance, custodial, and material handling jobs, work schedules, and supplementary benefits for approximately 85 metropolitan areas. (Latest publications: Area Wage Surveys—Selected Metropolitan Areas, 1969-70. Bulletin 1660-91.

1970. 110 p. $1.00; Occupational Earnings and Wage Trends in Metropolitan Areas, 1969-70. 12 p. furnished upon request to BLS as long as supply lasts. Latest area wage surveys for: San Diego, Calif. Bulletin 1685-20. 18 p. $.30; Boise City, Idaho. Bulletin 1685-21. 24 p. $.35; San Francisco-Oakland, Calif. Bulletin 1685-23. 32 p. $.40; Memphis, Tenn.-Ark. Bulletin 1685-30. 20 p. $.30; Philadelphia, Pa.-N.J. Bulletin 1685-34. 46 p. $.50)

• Occupational Wages—industry studies (monthly on a 2-to-5-year cycle) covers averages and distributions of wage rates for representative jobs, work schedules, and supplementary benefits in 50 manufacturing and 20 nonmanufacturing industries. (Latest publications: Industry Wage Survey: Communications, 1969. Bulletin 1696. 14 p. $.30; Industry Wage Survey: Auto Dealer Repair Shops, August 1969. Bulletin 1689. 36 p. $.50; Industry Wage Survey: Educational Institutions, Non-teaching Employees. Bulletin 1671. March 1969. 44 p. $.50; Wage Chronology: North American Rockwell Corporation, 1967-70. Bulletin 1564. December 1970. 11 p. Furnished upon request to BLS as long as supply lasts; Wage Chronology: International Shoe Company. Bulletin 1479. May 1970. 7 p. furnished upon request to BLS as long as supply lasts; Directory of Wage Chronologies 1948-June 1969. Bulletin 4387. 10 p. Furnished upon request to BLS as long as supply lasts.)

• Professional, Administrative, Technical, and Clerical Pay (annual) furnishes averages and distributions of salary rates for about 85 occupational work level categories of professional, administrative, technical, and clerical jobs. (Latest publication: June 1970 data. Bulletin 1693. January 1971. 81 p. $1.00)

• Standard Budgets (irregular) provides estimated costs of annual budgets for different types of urban families. (Latest publications: Three Budgets for a Retired Couple in Urban Areas of the United States, 1967-68. Bulletin 1570-6. 74 p. $.70; Spring 1970 Cost Estimates for Urban Family Budgets (4-person family). News Release USDL 11-606. December 21, 1970. Furnished upon request to BLS as long as supply lasts.)

• Union Wage Scale (irregular) covers averages and distributions of union wage and hour scales by industry for the building and printing trades, local transit, and local trucking in cities with a population of 100,000 or more. (Latest publications: Directory of Industry Wage Studies and Union Scale Studies, 1960-October 1968. 1969. 21 p. $.20. Latest union wages and hours studies for: Local Transit Operating Employees, July 1, 1969, and Trend 1929-69. Bulletin 1667. 12 p. $.25; Printing Industry, July 1, 1969. Bulletin 1670. 65 p. $.65; Building Trades, July 1, 1969. Bulletin 1668. 49 p. $.55; Local Truck Drivers and Helpers, July 1, 1969. Bulletin 1669. 39 p. $.50)

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF LABOR, WOMEN'S BUREAU

• Handbook on Women Workers (irregular) provides factual information on women in the labor force by employment, occupations, income and earnings, education and training, and laws governing women's employment and status. (Latest publication: 1969 handbook. Bulletin 294. 1970. 384 p. $1.00)

U.S. TREASURY DEPARTMENT

• Annual Report of the Secretary of the Treasury on the State of Finances for the Fiscal Year (annual) covers total collections and refunds on individual income and employment, corporation income, excise tax, and estate and gift tax. (Latest publication: fiscal year 1970. 1971. 522 p. $2.25)

MISCELLANEOUS AGENCIES AND PUBLICATIONS

• American Arbitration Association. Arbitration in the Schools (monthly) summarizes arbitration awards and fact-finding recommendations involving affiliates of the National Education Association, the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, and the National School Boards Association. (Periodical: $60.00 a year)

• Bureau of National Affairs. Basic Patterns in Union Contracts (irregular) outlines major types of negotiated provisions and their frequency in a sample of 400 collective bargaining contracts drawn from a cross-section of industries, unions, number of employees covered, and geographical areas. (Latest publication: February 1971. 100 p. $5.00)

• Bureau of National Affairs. Collective Bargaining Negotiations and Contracts (biweekly) reports key management-union contracts in full text, categorizes actual contract clauses according to a number of different subjects, and reports new wage trends and developments in bargaining strategy. (Loose-leaf series: $210.00 a year)

• Bureau of National Affairs. Government Employee Relations Report (weekly) reports information, developments, and activities relative to public employer-employee relations on the local, state, and federal levels, and reprints studies by the Bureau of Labor Statistics and other agencies. (Periodical: $198.00 a year)

• Bureau of National Affairs. Personnel Policies Forum Survey (irregular) reports the activities of the Personnel Policies Forum, a group of personnel and industrial relations executives who meet periodically with the Bureau of National Affairs to discuss present personnel practices, innovations, and problems of personnel and industrial relations. (Latest publications: Personnel Policies for Unorganized Employees, November 1968; Fringe Benefit Practices, August 1969; Training Employees, November 1969; Absenteeism and Its Control, June 1970. Survey reports are sent to users of BNA labor reports; individual reports are available from BNA at $2.00 each)

• Chamber of Commerce. Fringe Benefits. Washington, D.C. (biennial) covers selected fringe benefit costs for all industries and selected manufacturing and nonmanufacturing industries, and compares industry variations for major types of fringe payments, regional variations, size of company, and growth of fringe benefits. (Latest publication: 1969 data. 1970. 39 p. $1.50)

• College Placement Council. Salary Survey, A Study of Beginning Offers. Bethlehem, Pa. (annual) provides average annual beginning salary offers to bachelor's and master's degree candidates for various curriculum fields. (Latest publication: 1970-71 data. June 1971. 6 p. available only through Journal of College Placement subscription. $18.00 a year)

• Commerce Clearing House. Labor Law Reporter (weekly or more frequently) in an extensive loose-leaf series reporting and updating federal and state labor statutes and regulations, NLRB and state labor board decisions, court rulings, specimen union contracts, arbitration procedures and awards, federal and state employment practices, and subject and case indexes. Designed as an aid in handling labor problems, the reports are compiled in a series of 12 volumes dealing with federal labor relations (five volumes), federal wages and hours rules and decisions (two volumes), state laws (three volumes), union contracts and arbitration (one volume), and employment practices (one volume). (Publication cost: $350.00 a year)

• Commerce Clearing House. 1971 Guidebook to Labor Relations (annual) briefly explains and summarizes interpretations of and actions under federal labor relations statutes with respect to employee representation, bargaining units, unfair labor practices, collective bargaining, concerted activities, and numerous other selected areas. (Latest publication: 1971 edition. 384 p. $7.50)

• Endicott, Frank S. Trends in Employment of College and University Graduates in Business and Industry. Evanston, Ill. (annual) provides average starting salaries for men and women graduates with bachelor's or master's degrees in various subject fields. (Latest publication: 25th annual report. 1971. 14 p. Furnished upon request to Northwestern University.)

• International City Managers' Association. Municipal Year Book. Washington, D.C. (annual) contains regular sections on salaries of chief municipal officers, financial data, special census, directories of officials for municipalities with a population of over 5,000 or 10,000, and reflects upon contemporary problems relative to city government. (Latest publication: 1971 yearbook. $17.50)

• National Industrial Conference Board. Economic Almanac. New York, N.Y. (biennial) contains facts about business, labor, and government in the United States. (Latest publication: 1967-69 data. 18th edition. 1969. 695 p. $2.95)

• Public Personnel Association. Personnel News (monthly newsletter) and Public Personnel Review (quarterly) discuss aspects of personnel management. The Association also publishes various materials concerning recruitment and selection, classification and pay, performance evaluation, and labor relations. (Periodicals: $8.00 per year for each. A list of other publications is available from the Association, 1313 East 60th Street, Chicago, Illinois 60637)

• Sales Management (periodical) "Survey of Buying Power" New York: (annual, June issue) provides demographic and economic information for population, per capita and household income, and total and type of retail sales for metropolitan areas, counties, regions, and states. (Periodical: $10.00 for June issue. $18.00 a year)

• School Management (periodical) "Cost of Education Index" Greenwich: Conn. (annual, January issue) provides statistics on public school district spending for current expenditures on administration, instruction, health, operation, maintenance, and other charges and services, capital outlay, and debt service on a regional and national basis. (Periodical: $2.00 single copy. $15.00 a year)

PUBLISHED BIBLIOGRAPHIES OF GENERAL INFORMATION ON NEGOTIATION IN EDUCATION

• Department of Administration and Supervision, College of Education, University of Toledo. Collective Negotiation in Education. provides an extensive bibliography of 630 readings related to negotiation in education. (1968. 43 p. $1.00)

• Markus, Frank W. Negotiations Bibliography. School of Education, University of Missouri, Kansas City, Mo. provides a list of numerous journal articles, pamphlets, and books on negotiation. (January 1968. $.50)

• Shimaoka, Helene. Bibliography–Public Employee Collective Bargaining. The Library of Industrial Relations Center - College of Business Administration, University of Hawaii, Honolulu, Hawaii. contains references to public employee collective bargaining (particularly on the state level) and establishes a coding key identifying designated subject matter contained in the listed publications. (July 1971. Single copies are available from the Center as long as supply lasts.)

Texts

ARKANSAS

HOUSE BILL 265

FOR AN ACT TO BE ENTITLED: "AN ACT TO PROVIDE THAT SCHOOL DISTRICTS SHALL HAVE WRITTEN PERSONNEL POLICIES; AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES."

BE IT ENACTED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF ARKANSAS:

Sec. 1. Each school district in the State shall have a set of written personnel policies legally adopted by its Board of Directors.

Sec. 2. The school board shall designate a Committee on Personnel Policies consisting of classroom teachers, administrators and members of the board designated by the board with the superintendent as an ex-officio member.

Sec. 3. The committee shall assist the board, when requested, in the development of personnel policies. The Board of Directors shall have authority to adopt, reject, amend, or refer back to the Committee on Personnel Policies for further study and revision any proposed policies or amendments to existing policies that are submitted to the board for action.

Sec. 4. Each teacher or administrator being employed by a school district for the first time shall be given a copy of the district's personnel policies in effect at the time of his employment. Each teacher or administrator who was employed before the effective date of this Act shall be given a copy of the district's personnel policies at the time his contract is renewed or extended. Each teacher or administrator shall be furnished a copy of any amendments to the personnel policies of an employing district within thirty (30) days after approval of such amendments by the Board of Directors of such district.

Sec. 5. After July 1, 1972 no district which does not have written Personnel Policies shall be accredited by the Arkansas State Department of Education.

Sec. 6. If any provision of this Act or the application thereof to any person or circumstance is held invalid, such invalidity shall not affect other provisions or applications of the Act which can be given effect without the invalid provision or application, and to this end the provisions of this Act are declared to be severable.

OKLAHOMA

PROFESSIONAL NEGOTIATION

BE IT ENACTED BY THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF OKLAHOMA:

Sec. 1. It is the purpose of this act to strengthen methods of administering employer-employee relations through the establishment of an orderly process of communications between school employees and the school district.

Sec. 2. The local board of education shall recognize a professional organization that secures authorization signed by a majority of the professional educators designating said organization as their representative for negotiations. The members of the professional organization shall be professional educators employed by and serving in the district they propose to represent and no other person shall be authorized to represent the professional educators. The bargaining representatives of the professional organization shall be elected by a majority of the professional educators of the district they are to represent at an election called after proper notice is given to all the professional educators of the district. Any person who desires not to be represented by any organization, as provided for herein, may so state in writing to his board of education.

Sec. 3. The local board representatives shall be presently serving on the board or employed by said board and no other person shall represent the board. Provided nothing herein shall prohibit the employment of legal counsel for consultatives purposes by local board or professional organization.

Sec. 4. Professional educators shall be defined as certified public school teachers.

Sec. 5. All employees of a school district other than those employees who are professional educators shall likewise be eligible to designate an organization composed exclusively of such employees to represent them in negotiating and concluding an agreement with such school district on the terms and conditions of their employment. Such nonprofessional educator employees shall have the same rights and duties with respect to such matters as those conferred upon professional educators and professional organizations by this act. Any representatives for said organizations shall be employed by the school district within the district, and no other person shall be authorized to represent said organization.

Sec. 6. Once the organization has been determined, the board of education or its duly designated representative must meet with duly designated representative of the organization and within (60) days shall complete an agreement outlining negotiation procedures. The board of education and the representatives of the organization must negotiate in good faith on items affecting the performance of professional services.

Sec. 7. A procedure for resolving impasses will be developed by the board of education and the representatives of the professional or nonprofessional organization; if agreement cannot be reached, the items causing the impasse shall be referred to a three-member committee. This committee shall consist of one member selected by the representatives of the professional organization or the nonprofessional organization as the case might be, one member selected by the local board of education and the third member selected by the first two members, and this third member shall serve as chairman of the committee. This committee shall meet with the board of education or its duly designated representatives and the duly designated representatives of the professional or nonprofessional organization for the purpose of fact finding. Subsequently, this committee shall make recommendations to each of the above parties.

Sec. 8. The procedure provided for herein for resolving impasses shall be the exclusive recourse of the professional organization. It shall be illegal for the professional organization or the nonprofessional organization to strike or threaten to strike as a means of resolving differences with the board of education. Any member of the professional or nonprofessional organization engaging in a strike shall be denied the full amount of his wages during the period of such violation. If the professional or nonprofessional organization or its members engage in a strike, then the organization shall cease to be recognized as representative of the professional or nonprofessional educators and the school district shall be relieved of the duty to negotiate with such organization or its representatives.

Sec. 9. No employee shall be discriminated against by the board of education, superintendent or any other administrative officer of a district or by the professional or nonprofessional organization, its officers or any member thereof because of his exercise or nonexercise of rights under this act.

Sec. 10. Nothing in this act shall be construed to annul or modify or to preclude the renewal or continuation of any lawful agreement heretofore entered into between any school district and any representative of its employees, except to the extent that such agreement is in conflict with the provisions of this act.

VOL. 5 NO. 3
NOV. 1971

NRD
NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST

CONTENTS

Page

Case Reviews 3
- Criminal Contempt Fine Set Aside for Lack of Proper Procedure
- Motion to Enjoin State Association's Sanctions Against School District Denied
- PERB Expansion of One Unit into Another Ruled Improper; Election Annulled
- Court Finds Continuing Contract Teacher Has Tenure; Termination Hearing Ruled Improper
- Nontenure Professor's Right to Procedural Safeguards in Nonrenewal Matter Upheld
- Probationary Counselor's Dismissal Allegedly for Union Activities Judged Untenable

Board Findings and Rulings 9
- School Board Cannot Unilaterally Cancel Negotiated Early Class Dismissals for "Necessary" Teacher Meetings
- Back Pay Awarded Where School Board Improperly Assigned Co-curricular Jobs to Nonunit Employees
- Department Heads and Directors Accidentally Excluded from Teacher Unit May Be Included Upon Unit Election
- Philadelphia Archdiocese Ruled Employer Under Act 195; Election Directed Among Elementary Lay Teachers

Negotiation Notes 14
- MLRC Must Verify Representation Petition Signatures If Requested by 5 Percent of Unit Members
- Unit of University Medical School Interns and Residents Found Appropriate for Bargaining Purposes
- State Is Obligated to Negotiate Classified Employees' Employment Conditions in Good Faith
- Teacher Bargaining Statute Extensively Amended
- Grievance Procedure Acts for State and Local Employees Enacted
- Amendments to E.O. 11491 Issued

Statistics 20
- What Are Teachers Negotiating?

Special Reports 39
- Briefs of Recent Agreements
- Long-Term Leaves of Absence for Organization Work

Text 49
- Oregon Teacher Bargaining Statute

RESEARCH DIVISION
NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

Copyright © 1971 by the
National Education Association
All Rights Reserved

1990

Case Reviews

MASSACHUSETTS

CRIMINAL CONTEMPT FINE SET ASIDE FOR LACK OF PROPER PROCEDURE

The Massachusetts Supreme Court upheld a $50,000 fine levied against members of the New Bedford Teachers Association for their participation in a September 1969 strike, but set aside a $5,000 criminal contempt fine imposed upon a Massachusetts Teachers Association (MTA) field representative who took part in the strike. According to the court, the field representative "was never put to trial on the question of criminal contempt, and no evidence was presented against him on that charge."

When members of the New Bedford Teachers Association and the MTA representative went on strike in the fall of 1969, the local school committee sought reimposition of restraining orders issued by the Bristol County Superior Court during a strike the previous year. The court issued a September 3, 1969, temporary restraining order, then a preliminary injunction, and a final decree which found 48 defendants (including the field representative) guilty of civil contempt for violation of the injunction and imposed a $50,000 compensatory fine upon them. The MTA representative also was found in criminal contempt and fined $5,000 in addition.

In the present appeal, the state supreme court found that the lower court had imposed the $50,000 fine after defendants had pleaded guilty to the charge of civil contempt, and after a damages hearing at which the school superintendent testified that the total expense of the strike was about $100,000. The high court commented that > these defendants who in open court admitted the charges of civil contempt made against them thereby waived their right to have a trial on their innocence or guilt, and waived the necessity of having their accusers present evidence in support and proof of the charges . . . . After such defendants admitted their guilt of civil contempt, nothing remained to be done by the court except to determine the disposition to be made thereof.

At that same hearing, however, the lower court judge asked counsel for the school committee what evidence he "would have presented to the court in the event of a trial" as to the "guiding influence" of the strike. Counsel answered that the MTA field representative and other local Association officers would have been shown to have "influenced the events of the last few days." Despite the lack of further evidence or a hearing, the lower court judge then found the MTA representative guilty of criminal and civil contempt and imposed the $5,000 criminal contempt fine because the field representative "was the director of the conduct of the other defendants and all the members of the [Association] . . . and . . . his directing provided irresponsible leadership."

In its present appeal, the Association questioned the amount of the $50,000 civil contempt fine, but the state supreme court found no error since "this court, upon appeal, is precluded from considering matters that do not appear from the record to have been before the trial court." But the high court ruled differently with respect to the $5,000 criminal contempt fine imposed upon the MTA field representative in finding that his > admission of guilt was limited to civil contempt. He was never asked specifically whether he admitted guilt of criminal contempt, and he never specifically admitted such guilt. He was never put to trial on the question of criminal contempt, and no evidence was presented against him on that charge. The burden of proving that charge was on the plaintiffs, and it was not incumbent on [the field representative] to disprove it. This was not a case of a contempt which had occurred or been committed in the presence of the judge. It was a contempt sometimes referred to or described as an "indirect or constructive" contempt to distinguish it from a "direct" contempt committed in the presence of a judge who may act thereon summarily.

The high court accordingly modified that portion of the lower court's final decree which found the MTA representative guilty of criminal contempt because the imposition of the $5,000 fine did not comply with basic requirements adhering in criminal contempt cases. (School Committee of New Bedford, et al. v. Gerald E. Dlouhy, et al., Massachusetts Supreme Court, June 30, 1971.)

NEW YORK

MOTION TO ENJOIN STATE ASSOCIATION'S SANCTIONS AGAINST SCHOOL DISTRICT DENIED

A lower court's refusal to enjoin the New York State Teachers Association (NYSTA) from advising its members to avoid employment in UFSD No. 3 (Brookhaven), as well as its denial of a motion to dismiss the injunctive action, was upheld by a majority of the New York Supreme Court, Appellate Division. In a dissenting opinion, however, one appellate court justice voted to dismiss the school district's cause of action because while "the statement of NYSTA may have been shallow or misguided or unfair, . . . the correction must come by the persuasive force of a counter statement from the school district, and not by court injunction."

A two-year agreement was signed by representatives of the Port Jefferson Station Teachers Association and the UFSD No. 3 education board in September 1969, but matters of contract interpretation and enforcement subsequently arose. An arbitrator was appointed in December at the local Association's request, but the district sought a stay of arbitration one month later.

The local Association (which comprises about 240 members) is not affiliated with either NYSTA or the National Education Association (NEA), but some 175 local Association members also belong to NYSTA, and about 115 members belong to the NEA. In March 1970, NYSTA issued an "urgent advisory" to all its affiliates maintaining that UFSD No. 3 "is not an appropriate place at present in which professional teachers should seek employment." Stating that the district had "blatantly frustrated peaceful methods of maintaining harmonious and cooperative employer-employee relationships," the NYSTA "advisory" urged "all teachers in the state not to make application or take employment" in the district until the conflict between the local Association and the district was solved.

A month later the district sought to enjoin NYSTA and the NEA from distributing such an "advisory" or applying sanctions against any teacher who applied for and took employment in the district. In addition, the district sought to require the associations to distribute a notice stating that their actions in issuing the "advisory" were illegal. The Suffolk County Supreme Court dismissed the district's motion for an injunction in August 1970 and additionally denied the associations' motion to dismiss the district's complaint.

On appeal here, a majority of the five-member appellate court affirmed without comment the lower court's refusal to dismiss the district's complaint. One justice, however, dissented in finding that the district's cause of action bordered upon unconstitutional prior restraint of free speech. That is, the district argued that the associations' (NYSTA and NEA) ability to impose effective sanctions upon members who do not comply with the request to refuse employment and their actions in hindering the district's efforts to obtain teachers constitute unlawful coercion, thereby cancelling their constitutional right to free speech.

But the justice found nothing in the record to support the district's contentions since the NEA had not issued any critical statements about the district, had not urged its members to refuse district employment, and had not imposed or threatened to impose sanctions against any of its members who accepted district employment. With regard to the "urgent advisory" issued by NYSTA, the appellate court justice found that "NYSTA has not adopted any punitive measures against a teacher who takes or continues employment against the direction; and the NYSTA expressly disclaims any power or intention to discipline a member who does so." He additionally determined that "the record is clear that the school district did not stop its operations because of the statement or that the quality of instruction was impaired because the school district could not acquire an adequate teaching staff on that account."

Referring to provisions of the state's Taylor Law which promotes harmonious relationships between public employers and employee organizations and prohibits specified improper practices, the appellate court justice pointed out that the associations did not engage in a refusal to negotiate collectively, nor did their conduct interfere with or coerce a public employee in his right to join or refuse to join a union. Rather, what they did was support the local bargaining unit in its dispute with the school district; and its support went no further than verbal exhortations not to seek employment with the school district.

A balance between individual rights of freedom and the public interest in maintaining the efficiency of the school system must be recognized . . . . But the burden is always on the state to prove that the action to be restrained would materially interfere with the necessary operations of a public function . . . . Unless it is demonstrated, therefore, that the exercise of the right of free expression is accompanied by intentional falsity, or overbearing tactics, which so far disturb the balance between the opposing parties that it cannot be restored by the response of the lawful means open to the one attacked, that right of free expression should not be curtailed. On this record the school district's cause of action, considered in the light of the undisputed facts, shows neither that the balance was put awry or that the operations of the school district were materially impeded.

I vote accordingly to reverse the order insofar as appealed from and to dismiss the school district's cause of action.

(Board of Education of Union Free School District No. 3, Town of Brookhaven, et al. v. National Education Association and New York State Teachers Association, New York Supreme Court, Appellate Division, Second Department, July 6, 1971.)

PERB EXPANSION OF ONE UNIT INTO ANOTHER RULED IMPROPER; ELECTION ANNULLED

The Nassau County Supreme Court canceled a representation election ordered by the Nassau County Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) in an expanded unit of Nassau Community College faculty. As the PERB unilaterally had altered a petition entered by one organization to include full-time faculty already represented by another organization, the court held that the latter organization was denied due process in not being notified of or allowed to participate meaningfully in the petition hearings. It accordingly ruled that the PERB had exceeded its authority and that the election must be annulled.

The Faculty Senate of Nassau Community College (an NEA affiliate) was certified by the PERB in November 1968 as representative of a unit of full-time faculty and nonfaculty staff, excluding part-time personnel and certain administrators. It subsequently negotiated a contract effective from September 1, 1969, to August 31, 1971. In February 1970, an independent organization petitioned the PERB to represent a unit of part-time faculty excluded from the senate unit, but dropped its petition when the United Federation of College Teachers (an AFL-CIO affiliate) intervened.

Proceeding on the federation's petition, the PERB held hearings on the appropriateness of the unit sought. A hearing officer's report issued in early January 1971 recommended that the appropriate unit would be "one unit . . . for both full-time faculty and part-time faculty who are not management employees." However, the senate was not directly notified of the hearings, nor did it participate in them.

Upon learning that the proposed unit would include certain employees it represented, the senate objected that it had been denied due process by the PERB's failure to notify it of the federation's petition. Another hearing was held at which time the senate restated its objections. The hearing officer overruled the objections and reaffirmed his initial recommendations which were adopted by the PERB in its direction of a July 15 election for the senate-represented unit "deleting therefrom the exclusion of part-time faculty and . . . adding thereto all part-time, night school, and summer school faculty, who are not management employees."

The senate then instituted the present proceedings against the PERB, the college, and the federation wherein the PERB maintained that it had complied with statutory procedures in its determination and that the senate's unchallenged representation status ended on March 17, 1971. But the court stayed the election in finding that under the state's Taylor Law, the senate was entitled to unchallenged representation status for a period "not to continue beyond July 14, 1971" (i.e., the county's budget submission date immediately preceding the expiration date of the effective agreement). As such, the senate was entitled to unchallenged status during the entire period of the petition proceedings.

Regarding the lawfulness of the PERB's decision and the absence of senate participation in the original petition hearing, the court found that PERB rules require that direct notice of certification petitions be given "any employee organizations that have . . . claimed to represent any of the employees in the [requested] unit." Moreover, the rules require that notice of a petition be posted at the PERB office and at "suitable offices of the county."

Since the actual federation petition involved college employees not represented by the senate, the court held that the senate had no interest in that petition and was not entitled to notice of it. "By the same reasoning, however, the hearing officer was not entitled in the absence of prior notice to the senate to go beyond the bounds of a petition not affecting the senate by including in his report recommendations which directly concerned the senate's interests." It additionally observed that this error was adopted and perpetuated in the county PERB's order. Concluding that the second hearing did not allow the senate meaningful participation and was insufficient to rectify the original error, the court pointed out that > PERB rules permit an amendment of an existing bargaining unit only on application of the county or the recognized representative of that unit. . . . No such application was received here, and it was improper for PERB to direct that result in the absence of a proper application and ensuing procedures.

>
> The pending [federation] application was only for certification of part-time faculty as an appropriate bargaining unit. If PERB considered the unit inappropriate, the proper procedure would have been to deny the application rather than amend an existing and separate unit represented by a separate employee organization. An original application for the single unit of full and part-time faculty would have to be accompanied by indications of support from 30 percent of the members of that proposed unit. The procedure followed here by PERB circumvents that requirement by permitting action upon the support of only 30 percent of a small unit, without any opportunity of rebuttal from full-time faculty members or their exclusive representative.
>
> Transforming the [federation] petition for a separate bargaining unit into a petition for expansion of the senate unit denied the senate due process of law under these circumstances, and exceeded the authority of the hearing officer and PERB. To the extent that PERB determination goes beyond a denial of the [federation] petition, it is in excess of PERB's authority and must be annulled. The representation election for the proposed new unit will be cancelled.

(Faculty Senate of Nassau Community College v. PERB, Nassau Community College, and United Federation of College Teachers, Nassau County Supreme Court, August 3, 1971.)

WYOMING

COURT FINDS CONTINUING CONTRACT TEACHER HAS TENURE; TERMINATION HEARING RULED IMPROPER

The Wyoming Supreme Court ruled that an elementary school teacher's contract termination hearing as conducted by the Fremont County school board was prejudiced and unfair and remanded the case for a determination of what relief, if any, should be granted. While emphasizing the fact that it was not ruling upon the merits of the teacher's termination, the high court held that "the district court needs to set aside the action of the board" owing to serious procedural improprieties evident in the hearing.

According to the Wyoming Teacher Employment Law, a continuing contract teacher is one whose contract has been renewed for four consecutive years in one district, or who has reached continuing contract status in one district and taught three consecutive years in another district. The teacher involved herein was under continuing contract in School District No. 9, Fremont County, claimed to have tenure, and asserted that he was denied a fair and impartial hearing by the board's action in terminating his contract.

Noting that both the district and the trial court seemingly believed that a continuing contract teacher does not have tenure under state law, the state supreme court commented that "our past history has been such that it is difficult for some of us to accept legislation which, in school affairs, eliminates the principle that a school board as employer can hire and discharge teachers as it sees fit." The high court pointed out that a continuing contract teacher is protected by tenure and emphasized the legislative distinctions between dismissals and terminations.

That is, the Wyoming Teacher Employment Law establishes criteria for teacher dismissals during the school year and upon proper notice, but does not indicate the grounds for terminations at the end of any given school year. As a result, the Fremont district apparently thought it could terminate the elementary teacher at will and irregardless of grounds. But the high court found itself unable to "accept this naive theory"; it held that "administrative officers and boards will not be permitted to act in an arbitrary, capricious or fraudulent manner, and courts will restrain such administrative agencies from becoming despotic."

The state supreme court also stated that good cause (supported by substantial evidence) must be shown during a hearing on the termination of a continuing contract teacher, or "a decision on the part of the board to terminate will be arbitrary." In the instant matter, the court found that the teacher was granted a hearing only at his attorney's insistence and after the board had made its decision to terminate. Thus, although a hearing was conducted, > it is clear from the record as a whole . . . that [the teacher] did not have a bona fide hearing to determine whether there was just cause for his termination. Instead, the hearing was an exercise engaged in for the sole purpose of making a record which could make legal and justifiable the decision which the board had already made prior to the hearing.

Moreover, the hearing was procedurally improper because the school board's attorney acted as presiding officer, prosecutor, and hearing officer, composed and executed the reasons for the teacher's termination, ruled on objections, argued with opposing counsel on the latter's objections, interrogated witnesses, entered objections and ruled upon them, sat with the board when it made its final decision, made public comments about the necessity of the hearing to members of the hearing audience, and cross-examined witnesses for the board.

The high court also found that the district failed to adopt and file rules of procedure governing the hearing (as required by state law), and ruled that "we cannot, in this case, excuse the school district for its noncompliance." Absent such rules and any authority for excusing the district's failure to adopt procedural rules, the court held that the burden of proving that the teacher was not prejudiced lay with the district. It concluded that the district "failed to meet this burden" and remanded the case on procedural grounds. (Dale I. Monahan v. Board of Trustees of School District No. 9, Wyoming Supreme Court, July 2, 1971.)

OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST

NONTENURE PROFESSOR'S RIGHT TO PROCEDURAL SAFEGUARDS IN NONRENEWAL MATTER UPHELD

The U.S. Court of Appeals, Seventh Circuit, affirmed a lower court's grant of partial summary judgment (NRD, 9-70, 6) to a nontenured assistant professor who was discharged by Wisconsin State University without a statement of reasons for nonretention and a hearing on the merits of the decision to discharge. Finding itself bound by the U.S. Supreme Court decision in Cafeteria Workers v. McElroy, the federal district court had concluded that "under the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment the decision not to retain a professor employed by a state university may not rest on a basis wholly unsupported in fact, or on a basis wholly without reason."

On appeal, defendants (the board of regents of the Wisconsin state colleges) argued the traditional principle that "government employment, in the absence of legislation, can be revoked at the will of the appointing officer." The appeals court, however, elaborated upon the balancing formula employed in Cafeteria Workers which holds that "consideration of what procedures due process may require under any given set of circumstances must begin with a determination of the precise nature of the government function involved as well as of the private interest that has been affected by governmental action." It observed that the Cafeteria Workers opinion itself suggests that if the government action jeopardized a right to follow a chosen trade or profession, that fact would weigh upon the side of the individual. In Goldberg v. Kelly the Supreme Court referred generally to relevant constitutional restraints applying to discharge from public employment, among other types of government action, and after stating that "The extent to which procedural due process must be afforded the recipient is influenced by the extent to which he may be 'condemned to suffer grievous loss,'. . . and depends upon whether the recipient's interest in avoiding that loss outweighs the governmental interest in summary adjudication," quoted the balancing language from Cafeteria Workers. . . . Several courts have found a due process right where dismissal or non-retention of a public employee jeopardized an interest in practicing a profession, or in preserving a professional reputation. We think the district court properly considered the substantial adverse effect non-retention is likely to have upon the career interests of an individual professor and concluded, after balancing it against the governmental interest in unembarrassed exercise of discretion in pruning a faculty, that affording the professor a glimpse at the reasons and a minimal opportunity to test them is an appropriate protection.

The appeals court additionally noted that plaintiff was discharged after a school year in which he publicly criticized the university administration and board of regents during serious school disturbances. It appeared to the court that those public statements were considered by defendants [in their decision to discharge], albeit in a context of supposed relevancy to his performance of his duties. Although the principle announced by the district court applies by its terms to all non-retention decisions, an additional reason for sustaining application in the instant case, and others with a background of controversy and unwelcome expressions of opinion, is that it serves as a prophylactic against non-retention decisions improperly motivated by exercise of protected rights.

In a lengthy dissent, one appeals court judge discussed the administrative and procedural problems posed by the majority opinion, his belief that the district court opinion "is both unwise and unworkable . . . [and] might well . . . make the Federal Courts the final arbiters of all similar cases," the educational system for administrative review of nonretention cases, and the procedural safeguards afforded tenure teachers (i.e., "cause") but denied nontenure teachers in nonrenewal matters. Pointing out that the majority opinion "goes far beyond the present state of the law and, in fact, now places this Circuit in direct conflict with two other Circuits in this area of the law," the judge concluded that "the majority's holding is both unprecedented and represents an unwarranted intrusion of the Federal Judiciary into state educational systems." (David E. Roth v. The Board of Regents of State Colleges, et al., U.S. Court of Appeals, Seventh Circuit, July 1, 1971.)

PROBATIONARY COUNSELOR'S DISMISSAL ALLEGEDLY FOR UNION ACTIVITIES JUDGED UNTENABLE

A nontenure high-school counselor who was dismissed for "lack of self-direction and lack of cooperation with administration in following prescribed procedures" was denied relief by the U.S. Court of Appeals, Seventh Circuit. While appellant argued that the stated reasons for his dismissal were untenable and that he had been denied tenure for constitutionally protected union activities, the appeals court affirmed a trial court's finding that the Lockport (Ill.) Township High School District No. 205 school board had acted in good faith in denying appellant a contract.

Appellant was denied a third and tenure-conferring contract for the 1969-70 school year upon the written recommendation of his principal. That recommendation asserted that appellant had refused to perform any duties not included in his contract without extra compensation, and concluded with the statement that "I have received cooperation from [appellant] only when great pressure has been brought to bear." A March 29, 1969, letter sent by the school board to appellant advised him of his dismissal (for the reasons stated above) and further referred to his "resistance" to attendance at evening parent meetings, his refusal to submit weekly guidance reports, his refusal to assist with a student photo identification project, and his failure to assume extra teaching duties in emergency situations.

In examining the evidence, the appellate court found "several areas of contention between school officials and the counselors, in general, and plaintiff in particular." However, while other counselors and teachers erratically or begrudgingly performed certain uncompensated extra duties when requested, appellant "took the position that he had no obligation to undertake any duty not set forth in his contract" (despite several discussions with his principal about the necessity for assuming such duties). In addition, the court found substantial evidence that plaintiff's attitude toward his own personal performance of duties deemed necessary by the school administration was diametrically opposed to the views and directions of the administrators. Though some of the teachers considered such extra duties as voluntary, it is certain that the school administration felt that teachers were obligated to accept some such duties when they were necessary to the interests of the school system and its students. . . . The evidence adequately supports the conclusion that the Board elected to dismiss plaintiff because of his "lack of self direction . . . and cooperation" in relation to extra-curricular duties, as stated to him in his notice.

With respect to appellant's union activities, the appeals court found that he was an active member of the Lockport Township Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, Local 1291, that he had served on the federation negotiating committee, and that he and another man had acted as spokesmen for all district counselors in meetings with school and board officials which were attended by "some degree of acrimony." The court noted that such activities "unquestionably . . . are protected by the First Amendment," but found "untenable" appellant's contention that he was dismissed for those activities:

There is no evidence to indicate any animosity by the Board to [the union] or its members. It recognized the organization. It met with its representatives. [The other counselor representative], who was an officer of [the federation], was promoted to the position of department head at about the same time that plaintiff was dismissed.

The appellate court also dismissed appellant's contention that he was denied equal protection of the laws, explaining that while other counselors who shared his views were retained, the record does not suggest . . . that those retained teachers shared plaintiff's declared view that there was no obligation to perform any duty which was not written into the teacher's contract. There is nothing to suggest that the Board's action was irrational or that it was not "free from invidious discrimination." . . . There is no evidence in this record to support the contention that the Board did not act in good faith. To the contrary, the record amply supports the conclusion that the Board made a bona fide value judgment based upon information available to it and that it fairly exercised a discretion with which it was clothed in performance of its important public responsibility.

One appellate court judge, concurring with reservations, found a possible implication in the trial court's opinion that plaintiff "had failed to prove to the court's satisfaction that [he] was discharged for his union activities and consequently not in violation of his First Amendment right to freedom of association." While concurring in the present judgment because he thought the trial court's inference was justified by the record, the judge declined to approve any implication, if any there be in the opinion, that a school board's good faith judgment in terminating a counselor's employment is per se justified. Furthermore, I would not approve an implication that a school board's good faith adoption of a principal's recommendation based on arbitrary or unconstitutional grounds would be justified.

This court's references to plaintiff's "duties" imply that plaintiff had an obligation not arising from his employment contract, but from the circumstances under which the defendant board was operating at the time the counselors and teachers were being asked to cooperate. I reserve judgment as to whether plaintiff had "duties."

I am not clear as to what "self-direction"—as a reason for termination of employment—means in the context of this case, although I think that the record here does support a finding that plaintiff did not cooperate. However, it is my view that during a probationary period a school board is not limited in its determination that a counselor has proven his worth—before achieving tenure—to the school system by a showing of mere competence as counselor. Beyond competence and contractual duties there is a grey area in which the board should have discretion to determine that a technically competent teacher or counselor may nevertheless not be suitable for the school system. Insistence of a school board in this grey area upon complete unquestioning cooperation and compliance could have a suffocating, repressive effect upon the quality of the school system, yet only in the most extreme cases, in my opinion, would courts be justified in finding an abuse of board discretion. The defendant board members are selected by the residents of the community, and the community will get the school system that the members it elects provide.

(Daniel Simcox v. Board of Education of Lockport Township High School, District No. 205, Will County, Illinois, et al., U.S. Court of Appeals, Seventh Circuit, May 12, 1971.)

Board Findings and Rulings

ILLINOIS

SCHOOL BOARD CANNOT UNILATERALLY CANCEL NEGOTIATED EARLY CLASS DISMISSALS FOR "NECESSARY" TEACHER MEETINGS

An arbitrator ruled that West Harvey School District No. 147 could not unilaterally cancel teacher committee meetings and related early school dismissals provided for in an agreement with the West Harvey Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO. In interpreting a contractual reference to "necessary" meetings, the arbitrator held that the necessity for such meetings is to be determined by the teacher committees, not the school board. He also found a violation in the board's unilateral cancellation of workshops established in the approved 1970-71 school calendar.

The 1970-71 contract provision in question (the pattern for which had been established in two prior agreements) stated:

> On the first and third Tuesday of each month, schools will be dismissed at 2:30 p.m. for necessary District, building and teacher's meetings. Attendance at said meetings beyond 3:30 p.m. shall be voluntary. Any teacher not attending a meeting will be expected to work in his building until the end of the regular school day.

That agreement also established various committees on educational issues and provided that participating teachers would be allowed time between 2:30 P.M. and 3:30 P.M. on certain days to conduct the business considered to be necessary. The first Tuesday of each month was allotted for committee meetings.

In the fall of 1970, the board decided that committee meetings to be held under the early dismissal provision (including meetings held on the first and third Tuesdays of each month) were unnecessary. It asserted that such meetings created bus scheduling problems, that parents felt their children were being short-changed on their education, and that there were difficulties in equalizing class time for pupils attending school on split shifts.

But the arbitrator pointed out that if the board were permitted to determine the necessity for such meetings, the committees would be rendered meaningless. He accordingly held that when the contract specifically set up certain committees it was the intent to leave in the hands of the committee members the determination as to the need for meetings. This would, of course, have to be done by majority vote of the committee members. Article XI, Paragraph 1, indicates that the teacher membership on the committees will be recommended by the union and the "number will be determined by the purposes of the committee." It would appear that teachers would be in the majority on a committee. Under the language of Article XI, Paragraph 1 it would seem improbable that more administrators than teachers would have a right to membership on a committee. Hence the decision as to the need of a committee meeting may frequently be dictated by the members who are teachers.

He additionally determined, however, that the early dismissal provision was inapplicable to meetings which were held on the third Tuesday of each month and which did not involve committee business, were chaired by union officials, and were devoted to developing negotiating proposals. As nothing in the parties' contract implied that these meetings were "necessary," the arbitrator held that the board was authorized to decide the necessity for such meetings under the contractual management rights clause.

Finally, the arbitrator found that the board violated the parties' agreement when it unilaterally cancelled workshops provided for in the 1970-71 school calendar, which formally had been approved and adopted by the parties. (Board of Education, School District No. 147 and West Harvey Federation of Teachers, June 28, 1971.)

MICHIGAN

BACK PAY AWARDED WHERE SCHOOL BOARD IMPROPERLY ASSIGNED CO-CURRICULAR JOBS TO NONUNIT EMPLOYEES

Some 170 teachers employed by Warren Consolidated School District were awarded more than $93,000 by an arbitrator who found that the district violated its contract with the Warren Education Association by discontinuing certain co-curricular positions during the 1970-71 school year and assigning the duties involved to nonunit employees. While acknowledging the "vast difference between maintaining conditions of employment and guaranteeing employment itself," the arbitrator held that the parties' > entire contract history . . . assure[s] that any of the Co-Curricular functions actually performed must be performed by unit employees. . . . While the Board may have felt extreme pressure to economize, it could not do so by assigning unit jobs to non-unit employees, any more than it could layoff teachers and assign their teaching tasks outside the unit.

The parties' 1967-70 agreement established a joint committee for the purpose of examining and recommending job descriptions, work responsibilities, hours, and compensation for co-curricular activities, including the positions of building chairmen and service squad sponsors. The recommendations which issued were approved by the parties and incorporated as an addendum to the 1967-70 agreement; that addendum provided that removal from a co-curricular assignment would be based only upon "just cause."

Then during negotiation of a 1970-71 agreement, the district proposed that the functions of building chairmen and service squad sponsors be transferred to nonunit employees to reduce expenses. The proposal was dropped following Association objections, and the 1970-71 contract specifically included schedules governing co-curricular assignments.

But, when the board was preparing its budget for the 1970-71 fiscal year, it found a deficit of more than $1 million and resolved on August 12, 1970, to eliminate the co-curricular positions of building chairmen and service squad sponsors. The decision was publicly announced, and two meetings were held between the board and Association representatives to discuss the cutback; while the executive secretary of the Association objected to the cutback, he offered no alternative proposal.

On September 8, 1971, the Association filed a grievance on behalf of the 170 affected teachers seeking reinstatement and remuneration for lost pay and alleging violation of five articles in the parties' contract, including the maintenance of standards clause. The district contended that the cutback was contractually permissible, was the best means of cost reduction while maintaining quality education, and had the least impact upon the unit, students, and education generally. In later testimony, the deputy superintendent of schools verified that the jobs in question were being performed on an unpaid basis by building administrators, including principals, and assistant principals, and clerical personnel.

Before the arbitrator, the Association pointed out that the district attempted to transfer the jobs in question to nonunit personnel during 1970-71 negotiation and failed to do so, that the unit jobs were being performed by supervisors, and that Art. 1, sec. 1 of the parties' contract prohibits the transfer of unit functions to supervisors or others outside the unit. It also argued that the contract's maintenance of standards clause "requires the maintenance of minimum standards in effect when the agreement was signed and . . . is not to be interpreted to deprive teachers of professional advantages previously enjoyed."

That is, it contended that the board was contractually required to maintain the positions at issue, that the board's violation was deliberate and effected without prior bargaining with the Association, and that the board's reliance upon financial disability as the basis for disregarding its contractual obligations was unjustified. The Association additionally argued that the aggrieved teachers were in effect demoted by being deprived of extra compensation for co-curricular assignments, that demotions can be only for just cause, and that the just cause requirement was a condition of employment whose continuance was assured by the maintenance of standards clause.

Pleading financial disability, the board maintained that the Association had never questioned the need for the cutback, that many public and private employers have eliminated positions for economic reasons without union objections, that it cannot legally operate the district under a deficit budget, and that one of its extra-contractual powers is to determine the number of persons to be employed. The board further argued that a collective agreement is no guarantee of employment (in the absence of clear and unequivocal language to the contrary), that a negotiated co-curricular job schedule is no guarantee that jobs will be filled, and that only those personnel selected by the superintendent (whatever the number) are provided extra pay under the co-curricular job schedule.

In addition, the board pointed out that "there is a clear distinction between employment itself, and conditions of employment, once the relationship is undertaken," and contended that maintenance of standards provisions have never been considered a guarantee of employment or protection against layoff. Urging denial of the grievance, the board argued that the layoffs were economically justified, a proper management prerogative, devoid of malice or discrimination, and unrelated to discipline or the concept of just cause.

Agreeing that the concepts of discipline and just cause were not involved in the matter, the arbitrator framed the "fundamental issue" as "the right of the Board to layoff, or fail to appoint any teachers to specific Co-Curricular positions." He noted the fact that "no contract clause guarantees continuance of all Co-Curricular programs for the life of the agreement," and emphasized that while the maintenance of standards clause in question "specifically guarantees conditions of employment, it does not guarantee, or insure, continued employment." However, the parties' history of bargaining shows a clear intention that, if the Co-Curricular functions are to be performed, they must be performed by unit employees. The attempt of the Board to substitute non unit employees for the jobs in question in the 1970-71 negotiations, the care taken to set up such functions by a mixed Committee and the language of Article XX guaranteeing maintenance of standards and conditions in effect when the agreement was signed, attest to this proposition, as does the recognition clause of the agreement.

Thus, while the board's action was motivated only by serious and compelling financial concerns, it could not assign unit jobs to nonunit employees, "there is no contractual basis for dividing the contract remuneration agreed upon and the teachers who would have otherwise been entitled to act as Service Squad Sponsors and Building Chairmen must be compensated at the contract rate of pay for the 1970-71 school year." The arbitrator declined, however, to award interest or other compensation since there was "no showing of invidious intent" and the aggrieved teachers were largely relieved of the performance of co-curricular assignments. (Warren Education Association and Warren Consolidated School District, American Arbitration Association, September 3, 1971.)

DEPARTMENT HEADS AND DIRECTORS ACCIDENTALLY EXCLUDED FROM TEACHER UNIT MAY BE INCLUDED UPON UNIT ELECTION

Nine department heads and directors employed by the Bridgeport Community Schools who were excluded from the teacher bargaining unit "as a result of a historical accident" were found to be nonsupervisory personnel who may be included in the teacher unit upon a Bridgeport Education Association (BEA) petition for an over-all unit election. In so ruling, the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) dismissed a refusal to bargain charge brought by the BEA against the district and altered that portion of the trial examiner's recommended order which maintained that a self-determination election should be held within the "fringe group of unrepresented employees."

In its charge, the BEA alleged that the district was refusing to bargain the terms and conditions of employment of secondary-school department heads, the athletic director, the director of guidance, and the director of secondary music. The trial examiner noted that the charge was "the culmination of a long standing dispute between the parties as to the inclusion in the collective bargaining unit" of the disputed positions. Since 1966, when the BEA voluntarily was granted recognition by the district, the recognition clauses of the parties' agreements remained substantially the same and provided:

All certificated classroom teachers, permanent substitute teachers, guidance counselors, adult diploma teachers, school librarian, but EXCLUDING superintendent, principals, assistant principals, team leaders in the following departments: english, social studies, industrial arts, mathematics, business education, science; and director of athletics, administrative intern, director of instructional materials, director of music, research directors, dean of students, director of curriculum, director of elementary education, nurses, substitute permanent teachers, daily substitute teachers, and supervisory and executive personnel.

The trial examiner found it clear that the disputed positions were never part of the teacher bargaining unit and determined that these classifications constitute a fringe group of unrepresented employees who, if otherwise eligible must be given an opportunity to vote as to whether or not they desire representation by the [BEA] before they may appropriately be included in the current bargaining unit. The policy of providing self-determination elections for fringe groups of employees omitted from an existing collective bargaining unit was set forth by the National Labor Relations Board [NLRB] in Zia Co., . . . and it appears that the [MERC] would follow a similar policy under [the Michigan Public Employment Relations Act (PERA)]. . . . It is also clear that in view of the fact that the department heads have existed throughout the history of the collective bargaining relationship between the parties and there has been explicit exclusion of them from the collective bargaining agreements between the parties, albeit under protest by the [BEA], these employees are not an accretion to the teacher bargaining unit, and they are, therefore, entitled to a self-determination election before being added to that unit.

The examiner accordingly recommended dismissal of the refusal to bargain charge since the district "has no obligation to bargain in regard to such employees until it is satisfied that a majority of all the unrepresented employees who are appropriately a part of the [BEA's] unit have designated and selected the [BEA] as their collective bargaining representative."

While a determination as to the supervisory status of the disputed positions was not necessary to the disposition of the charge entered, the trial examiner decided to consider that issue "in order to help eliminate further needless controversy in this matter." With respect to the department heads, he found that they "mainly act as channels of communication regarding problems in their departments and coordinate the activities of their departments." More specifically, they requisition supplies, request substitutes as needed, and assist the administration with setting up schedules and assigning teachers to classes. Some department heads screen prospective teachers for academic qualifications, while others make informal oral or written evaluations of teachers on a sporadic basis for use by the administration in tenure and other personnel decisions. All department heads teach two to four periods daily with most teaching four periods.

The three directors involved herein were found to be "essentially department heads who perform the specialized functions of their particular department," and the trial examiner perceived "no sound basis to distinguish [them] . . . from the other department heads of the Employer." He accordingly concluded that > the record does not establish . . . that the [personnel] involved in this proceeding exercise effective supervisory authority over the teachers in their departments. On the contrary, I find that the department heads [and directors] are part of the Employer's overall educational team, that their duties . . . are such as to make them coordinators and channels of communication with the administration, and that any evaluations or recommendations in regard to new or prospective teaching personnel are independently reviewed by the administration and are not effective as that term is used in determining supervisory authority. . . . Therefore, I conclude and find that none of the [disputed personnel] . . . are supervisors within the meaning of PERA, and that they have employment interests closely allied with the teaching employees in the [BEA's] contractual unit. They may, therefore, appropriately be added to such unit in an appropriate representation proceeding, if all unrepresented teaching employees are included in said proceeding.

Before the MERC, the BEA took exception to the trial examiner's finding that the representation issue with respect to the nine disputed positions could be resolved only by holding an election among those employees, who then would be accreted to the over-all bargaining unit if they selected the BEA as their bargaining agent. Finding merit to this exception, the MERC pointed out that it "has always included all non-supervisory teaching employees in an overall appropriate unit composed of teaching employees" and has "refused to permit severance of a group of teaching employees from an overall teaching unit." Concluding that it would not have found the nine employees to constitute an appropriate bargaining unit, the MERC explained that > had the parties submitted to the Commission the question of the appropriateness of the bargaining unit in a formal representation procedure, the department heads would have been included in the overall teaching employees bargaining unit. The record indicates that the exclusions of these employees from the bargaining unit was apparently the result of a historical accident occurring [in] the 1965-1966 negotiations during the early stages of the [PERA].

The MERC additionally commented at length upon the trial examiner's reliance upon Zia Co., pointing out that that decision was reconsidered and modified by the NLRB in D.V. Displays Corp.

> to the extent that where . . . there is a question of representation in the historical unit and the incumbent union seeks to add a previously unrepresented fringe group whom no other union is seeking to represent on a different basis, we shall direct only one election which will include all the employees in the unit found to be appropriate. . . . To grant a self-determination election to [such a fringe group resulting from historical accident] would, in practical effect, be to permit them to perpetuate that fringe defect by voting to maintain their unrepresented status. This contingency we believe should be obviated. Indeed, we agree with the view . . . that it is more consistent with our statutory responsibility for determining the appropriate unit, now that the unit placement of these employees has been raised as an issue before the Board for the first time, to correct that fringe defect in the historical unit. We also believe, contrary to the view expressed in Zia, that the inclusion of these employees is the more democratic approach because it gives all employees in the appropriate unit an equal voice in choosing a bargaining representative for that unit.

Tracing subsequent applications and expansions of the D.V. Displays Corp. doctrine, the MERC decided to adopt that rationale here and "permit the Association to file a petition in an overall unit which would include the [personnel] . . . found to be non-supervisory by the Trial Examiner and who have been excluded from the bargaining unit as a result of a historical accident." In ordering dismissal of the complaint and charges, the MERC observed that > the Michigan Supreme Court has directed this Commission to constitute the largest unit which in the circumstances of a particular case best effectuates the policies of PERA. . . . To permit the Association to file only a self-determination election, would be contrary to [that] . . . edict. . . . It could lead to two incongruous situations. There could be established two bargaining units of teachers holding a common community of interest, one of a unit of 150 teachers represented by the Association, and another collective bargaining appropriate unit consisting of nine unrepresented teachers. A further incongruous possibility could also result in that the Association would represent approximately 150 teachers and a second labor organization could represent nine teachers . . . which would require the employer to bargain with both groups separately, despite their overwhelming common community of interest.

(In re Bridgeport Community Schools and Bridgeport Education Association, Michigan Employment Relations Commission, April 6, 1971.)

PENNSYLVANIA

PHILADELPHIA ARCHDIOCESE RULED EMPLOYER UNDER ACT 195; ELECTION DIRECTED AMONG ELEMENTARY LAY TEACHERS

The Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board (PLRB) decided that the Archdiocese of Philadelphia is a public employer within the meaning of the state's Public Employe Relations Act (Act 195) and that lay teachers employed in the city's parochial elementary schools are covered by the Act. It accordingly directed an election among all elementary lay teachers employed by the archdiocese upon a petition for a consent election properly filed by the Association of Catholic Teachers, American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, Local 1776.

Under Act 195, the term public employer includes in part "any nonprofit organization or institution and any charitable, religious, . . . educational or welfare institution receiving grants or appropriations from local, state or federal governments." "Public employe," as defined by the Act, excludes "clergymen or other persons in a religious profession, [and] employes or personnel at church offices or facilities when utilized primarily for religious purposes."

The archdiocese argued that its schools are nonprofit institutions within the meaning of the Act, but the PLRB found that the archdiocese is a school district recognized by federal and state governments, and that it receives state services and materials, although it does not receive state monies. Moreover, the parochial schools' instructional program includes both religious instruction (approximately 13 percent of each school day) and the state-required curriculum. Concluding that the archdiocesan schools are not used primarily for religious purposes, the PLRB held that "the mere fact that lay teachers work for a religious institution does not exclude them from coverage under the Act."

In objecting to the assertion of PLRB jurisdiction, the archdiocese contended that it is not an employer at all since the parochial schools are operated and maintained by parish priests, thereby rendering them educational subdivisions of the parish. The PLRB found, however, that the archdiocese controls the schools in the areas of hiring, assigning, and firing lay teachers, establishing teacher qualifications, salary scales, and the school calendar, and regulating class hours and testing and reporting procedures. Thus, while the individual parish priest might be responsible for teaching religion to parish members, the archdiocese primarily is responsible for all matters of parish religious and academic instruction. Under these circumstances, the PLRB held that "the Archdiocese of Philadelphia Elementary School System is in fact the 'employer' for the purposes of Act No. 195."

As the archdiocese (not the parish priest) is in effect the superintendent of the archdiocesan schools and consequently would be responsible for labor-management relations, the PLRB concluded that > it would be impractical to recognize the individual parish as the employer for purposes of this Act. Since the Archdiocese of Philadelphia Elementary School System has set the mandatory salary schedule and norms for employment of teachers . . . any attempt by a union to negotiate with the individual parish pastors with respect to such matters would be an exercise in futility, and collective bargaining within units structured in a parish by parish basis could result in problems endangering the system itself.

Upon ordering an election among all lay teachers employed in the city's parochial elementary schools, the PLRB dismissed the archdiocese's constitutional objection to Act 195 as unreasonable interference with religious freedom. It found "nothing in the record in this case which requires the board to pass upon any allegation of interference with religious freedom," and pointed out that "any questions concerning actual interference [with] the freedom of religion or freedom of religious instruction may be taken up in due course if and when a situation arises." (In re Employees of the Archdiocese of Philadelphia Elementary School Systems, Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board, August 5, 1971.)

Negotiation Notes

MASSACHUSETTS

MLRC MUST VERIFY REPRESENTATION PETITION SIGNATURES IF REQUESTED BY 5 PERCENT OF UNIT MEMBERS

An amendment to sec. 178H(2) of the Massachusetts Municipal Employee Relations Act requires the Massachusetts Labor Relations Commision (MLRC) to verify the signatures on a representation or decertification petition if, within 10 days of the filing of the petition, at least 5 percent of the employees in a particular unit enter a written request for such verification. Moreover, the verification process and subsequent MLRC determination as to the validity of the petition's signatures are to be conducted before the MLRC orders a hearing on the petition. The amendment became effective September 14, 1971.

MICHIGAN

UNIT OF UNIVERSITY MEDICAL SCHOOL INTERNS AND RESIDENTS FOUND APPROPRIATE FOR BARGAINING PURPOSES

A Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) decision found that the University of Michigan Interns-Resident Association is a labor organization under the state's Public Employment Relations Act (PERA) and ruled upon the appropriateness of the bargaining unit sought. Despite employer contentions that interns and residents employed at University Hospital are not covered by the PERA since they "are essentially advanced students of medicine" engaged primarily in educational activities, the MERC decided that > the educational relationship is not one exempted by the statutory definition of employee. We have held that when a student performs work in an existing bargaining unit he is not precluded from coverage by the contract and membership in the unit. . . . The instant case is one of first impression before this commission in that these students are performing, not work of a unit of nonstudent employees, but services intimately related to and flowing from the very nature of their studies. However, . . . we find that the interns and residents are performing employment services for the Employer under the direction and supervision of the Employer and the fact that these services are directly related to the professional goals of the interns and residents does not detract from the employment relationship as contemplated by PERA.

In examining the employment relationship questioned by the University, the MERC found that the intern or resident "functions essentially within the hospital . . . [and is exposed to] a wide variety of relatively structured educational or training experiences . . . within the hospital setting." His "primary activity" is patient care under the guidance and direction of more senior or supervisory personnel, but the supervisory relationships are "multi-tiered" and are not "rigid or absolute."

The MERC also commented at length upon the existing employer-employee relationship in light of the University's argument that services performed by interns and residents are so related to educational goals that they cannot be the basis of an employment relationship:

> Clearly the work of a physician may be the subject of an employment relationship. Equally clearly, there are educational situations which in no sense bespeak an employment relationship. To speak of the performance of services means that an act is performed for the benefit of another and not that the employee is engaged in pursuits of his own. Thus, a student in the ordinary classroom situation is not performing a service for the school when he engages in his own studies. The requirement of yearly, signed, mutually binding agreements is another fact not indicative of a purely student-school relationship. The Employer in its brief and on the record stresses the educational content of the various programs, that every program must meet medical education standards set by various medical societies and national groups. Without a doubt, the programs are designed to be approved by these medical authorities. This content does not, however, diminish the fact that the interns/residents are simultaneously engaged in performing services. It is the performance of these services under appropriate controlled conditions that constitutes the essence of the sets of standards. A further implication of this argument and of the evidence is that but for the conscious effort of the hospital to secure approval of its programs by concentrating on the teaching aspect of the clinical situation, these same interns/residents would go about their principal business—treating patients—and not receive accreditation based on the standards of the various third party agencies. Put another way, the Employer's position seems to equate goals and means. The goal may be educational—to produce medical specialists, but the means is one of service—to employ the individuals in the performance of services to the institution.

As to the conditions of employment involved, the MERC noted that both interns and residents are employed on a year-to-year basis, sign a written employment agreement considered to be binding on both parties, receive taxable compensation, and are provided benefits similar to those provided for regular University employees. The MERC rejected the employer's argument that interns and residents are employed on a casual or ephemeral basis since the year-to-year renewal of their contracts does not render their employment relationship "casual" as that term is applicable to bargaining unit exclusions.

The unit sought by the Association in its petition was described as "all residents, interns and fellows employed by the Employer possessing the equivalent of a minimum of an MD or DDS degree; excluding post-doctoral fellows in the basic sciences and all other employees."

The University maintained that "trainees" in health-related training programs at the University medical center (i.e., physical and occupational therapy, dietetics, pharmacy, and nurse anesthetist training programs) also should be included, but the MERC decided that such trainees "do not have a community of interest with the larger body of interns and residents." It noted the short duration of the physical and occupational therapy programs, and pointed out that since two of the longer programs (pharmacy and dietetics) were conducted by schools outside the medical school, these trainees are in an [administrative, professional, and educational-service] matrix other than that of the interns and residents. Furthermore, it does not appear that the responsibilities of these trainees compares with that of the interns or residents in areas such as overall patient responsibility, on-call hours, day and night duty, and overall relationship to the hospital situation.

However, the MERC decided that post-doctoral fellows in the basic sciences (in addition to those in the clinical sciences) should be included in the unit since the former "are engaged in work similar to that of members of the proposed unit, under direction of medical school faculty; within the same facilities, under the same working conditions, and have a sufficient community of interest with the proposed unit to be included therein."

It accordingly directed an election in a unit of all interns, residents and fellows employed by the Regents of the University of Michigan possessing the equivalent of a minimum of an M.D. or D.D.S. degree, and post-doctoral fellows in the clinical and basic sciences, EXCLUDING pharmacy interns, dietetic interns, physical and occupational therapy trainees, nurse anesthetist trainees, chaplaincy interns, and all other employees.

OREGON

STATE IS OBLIGATED TO NEGOTIATE CLASSIFIED EMPLOYEES' EMPLOYMENT CONDITIONS IN GOOD FAITH

The Oregon Personnel Division's refusal to bargain matters of compensation with four unions representing state print shop employees was ruled a violation of the state's public employee bargaining statute by the Oregon Public Employe Relations Board (PERB). In what is hailed as a landmark case, the PERB held that despite statutory use of the word "confer" as a definition of collective bargaining, the statute's "obvious patterning after the National Labor Relations Act [compels] us to the conclusion that the legislature intended to create an obligation essentially similar to that created by the federal act."

The PERB also made it clear that even though the duty to bargain in good faith does not involve an obligation to agree, we see no merit in the contention that the state's duty as to classified service employees is somehow lessened by the fact that the governor must approve a change in the classification rates. It is quite true that the bargainers cannot bind the governor as it is equally true that the bargainers cannot bind the union membership. There is nothing to prevent the parties from negotiating to a point at which the governor has either accepted or not accepted a proffered agreement.

ORS 243.711 provides in part that

(1) "Collective bargaining" means the performance of the mutual obligation of a public employer and the representative of its employes to meet at reasonable times and confer in good faith with respect to employment relations, or the negotiation of an agreement, or any question arising thereunder, and the execution of a written contract incorporating any agreement reached if requested by either party. However, this obligation does not compel either party to agree to a proposal or require the making of a concession.

(2) "Employment relations" includes, but is not limited to, matters concerning direct or indirect monetary benefits, hours, vacations, sick leave, grievance procedures and other conditions of employment.

According to the PERB, the foregoing excerpts "make it clear that the legislature intended public employers to bargain over wages, to do so in good faith, to hopefully reach agreement on the issue and to be prepared to memorialize that agreement in the form of a contract." The PERB also held that the term "public employer" and the legal obligations attached thereto are broader than assumed by the state personnel division since the term is defined as "the state and any of its agencies and institutions" (emphasis added).

Finally, while the personnel division argued that it could only consider the wage rate adjustments recommended to it by the printers' unions, the PERB found that it could not be assumed that the legislature intended to "exempt the state from a duty to bargain in good faith as to classified employees. . . . Instead the board concludes that the legislature intended these statutes to be applied in a manner which harmonizes them." The PERB accordingly decided that the personnel division's refusal to bargain constituted a violation of its "mutual obligation to bargain collectively in good faith" as required by ORS 243.745.

TEACHER BARGAINING STATUTE EXTENSIVELY AMENDED

Extensive amendments to the Oregon teacher bargaining statute expand the original law to include definitions, allow rival organizations to intervene in representation elections, provide for a one-year election bar period, and provide for challenges to any choice of representation. Effective September 9, 1971, the amendments additionally provide mediation and fact-finding procedures for use in the resolution of impasse.

The original law referred to "certificated school personnel below the rank of superintendent," but has been amended to distinguish between teachers and administrators according to the following definitions:

(1) "Administrator" means a certificated staff member who devotes a majority of his employed time to service as a supervisor, principal, vice principal or director.

. . .

(6) "Teacher" means any person who holds a position requiring a teacher's certificate as provided in ORS 342-125 who is regularly employed on at least a half-time basis in a school district and who is not an administrator.

An amendment to ORS 342.460(1) extends the scope of "confer, consult and discuss" subjects to include "grievance procedures and compensation beyond the normal duties for which the teacher or administrator is employed." The phrase "confer, consult and discuss in good faith" now is defined in ORS 342.450(3) as "the process whereby a school board, teachers and administrators or such representatives as each may designate, have the mutual obligation to meet and confer in order to exchange freely information, opinions, and proposals, to endeavor to reach agreement on matters described in [ORS 342.460(1)], and to seek to implement agreements reached."

While the original law provided that "the individuals representing the certificated employes in consultations with the district board must also be certificated employes of the district," an amendment to ORS 342.460(2) states that when an employee organization is elected exclusive representative it "shall have the right to select its representatives." With respect to election procedures established by the law, local school boards or their designees are to conduct representation elections, and an election may be called at the request of an employee organization. In addition, any organization or committee seeking placement on an election ballot (committees formerly were automatically included on a ballot containing the names of other organizations) now must submit a petition containing the signatures of 30 percent (formerly 15 percent) of the district's teachers or administrators.

Amendments to ORS 342.460(4) allow an intervening organization to be placed on a ballot by filing a petition signed by 10 percent of the teachers or administrators, and provide for a runoff election in the event no representation choice receives a majority. Challenges to the choice of representation now are permitted in accordance with the following amendment to ORS 342.460 (5):

However, a petition signed by 30 percent of the teachers or administrators may be filed within 15 days after the first day of the school year requesting a new election be held to determine the choice of representation and an election shall be held. In lieu of the petition, any organization not representing the teachers or administrators but having a membership enrollment of at least 40 percent of the teachers or administrators may require an election. However, no such election shall be held until at least one year after election of any choice of representation and such election must be held within the period specified in subsection (3) of this section.

While the original law provided that either party could request the appointment of "consultants" in the event of "a persistent disagreement over a matter of salaries or economic policies," the amended statute states in ORS 342.470(1) that mediation "shall be invoked" if the parties have not reached agreement over any matter within the scope of the law by "60 days prior to the date programmed in the budget calendar for delivery of the budget message." The parties mutually shall select a mediator, but if there is no agreement within five days, the superintendent of public instruction shall appoint a mediator from a list of qualified persons.

If agreement is not reached within 10 days of appointment of the mediator, a fact-finder shall be appointed by the superintendent of public instruction. Within 15 days of his appointment, the fact-finder is to submit a written report to the parties containing his recommendation "for a reasonable basis for the settlement of the disagreement." The statute further provides that consultation between the parties "may continue during the time that mediation or factfinding is being conducted," and mandates district school boards to provide "a procedure for determining teachers' and administrators' views on issues other than matters described in [ORS 342.460(1)]."

The full text of the Oregon teacher bargaining statute is reprinted in the "Texts" section of this DIGEST.

2004

SOUTH CAROLINA

GRIEVANCE PROCEDURE ACTS FOR STATE AND LOCAL EMPLOYEES ENACTED

While South Carolina public employees have no statutory right to organize and bargain collectively, the state general assembly has enacted two separate laws providing state and municipal employees with procedures for airing employment grievances. The State Grievance Procedures Act, which was enacted as S.B. 121 and became effective June 1, 1971, provides that each state government agency and department "shall establish" a written employee grievance procedure. The Local Grievance Procedures Act (S.B. 124) became effective June 4, 1971, and is permissive in that a governing body of a county or incorporated municipality "may by ordinance or resolution adopt a plan for the hearing and resolution of employee grievances."

Both acts define grievances in substantially the same terms. The state act provides the following:

> As used in this section, grievances may include but are not necessarily limited to classification, dismissal, suspensions, involuntary transfers, promotions and demotions. Compensation shall not be deemed a proper subject for consideration under the grievance procedure except as it applies to alleged inequities within a particular agency or department.

In addition, both acts provide for the establishment of committees serving as appeals bodies in the event that a grievance remains unresolved after discussion with the appropriate agency, department, or municipal governing body. The state act creates a State Employee Grievance Committee comprised of seven members who are to be appointed by the State Budget and Control Board and selected "on a broadly representative basis from among the career service or appointed personnel of the several state agencies." In the event that the committee hears a grievance "initiated by or involving an employee or an agency of which a committee member also is an employee, such members shall be disqualified from participating in the hearing."

A chairman who will have control of all proceedings is to be selected by the committee from among its members, and the act stipulates that the parties to a proceeding "will abide" by the chairman's decisions, "except when a committee member objects to a decision to accept evidence, in which case the majority vote of the committee will govern."

The state grievance committee is to report its findings and decision to the State Budget and Control Board within 20 days after hearing an appeal. If the state board does not take action to reject the decision within 30 days, the state committee's decision shall be final. However, if the State Budget and Control Board "rejects the decision of the committee, the board shall make its own decision without further hearing, and that decision shall be final."

Under the Local Grievance Procedures Act any municipal governing body "which elects to establish an employee grievance procedure pursuant to this act shall appoint a committee composed of not less than three nor more than nine members." As in the state act, committee members are to be selected on a broadly representative basis, the chairman is to be selected by the committee from its membership, and similar statements of the chairman's authority and the effect of a majority committee vote are provided.

The local grievance committee is to transmit its findings and decision to the municipal governing body within 20 days after hearing an appeal, and that decision shall become final if approved by the governing body. But if the committee's decision is rejected by the governing body, that body shall make its own final decision without further hearings.

Both acts provide that any permanent state, county, or municipal employee (as applicable) "who has completed six months of satisfactory service" may appeal a grievance to the appropriate committee once all prior administrative procedures and/or remedies have been exhausted.

OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST

AMENDMENTS TO E.O. 11491 ISSUED

Executive Order 11616, issued by President Nixon on August 26, 1971, amends portions of the two-year-old Executive Order 11491 (Labor-Management Relations in the Federal Service, NRD, 12-69, 5, 16) dealing with contract negotiation during working time and the negotiation of grievance and grievance arbitration procedures. The order also deletes all mention of formal recognition from E.O. 11491 in accordance with the July 1, 1971, deadline for the termination of formal recognition (NRD, 10-71, 16; 6-71, 17) established by the Federal Labor Relations Council (FLRC). Other amendments grant the Assistant Secretary of Labor for Labor-Management Relations exclusive jurisdiction over unfair labor practice complaints and procedural grievance arbitration questions, and make the administrative costs of dues check-off arrangements a negotiable item.

Due to become effective within 90 days of issuance, the amendments are the product of an FLRC review and assessment of operations under

E.O. 11491 as directed by President Nixon at the time the original order was signed. Public hearings held by the FLRC in October 1970 (NRD, 11-70, 14) were followed by intensive Council study of major policy issues related to the order. Then in May 1971 the Council submitted a report of its review and recommendations for amendment of E.O. 11491 to the President for consideration.

The most extensive single amendment contained in E.O. 11616 greatly extends sec. 13 of the original order which deals with grievance procedures. That section formerly provided that a labor organization which is the exclusive representative of employees in an appropriate unit "may provide procedures, applicable only to employees in the unit, for the consideration of employee grievances and of disputes over the interpretation and application of agreements," provided that such procedures meet applicable Civil Service Commission requirements. Moreover, any negotiated grievance procedure which conforms to applicable laws and agency regulations "is the exclusive procedure available to employees in the unit when the agreement so provides." Sec. 13, as amended and now entitled "Grievance and arbitration procedures," provides the following:

(a) An agreement between an agency and a labor organization shall provide a procedure, applicable only to the unit, for the consideration of grievances over the interpretation or application of the agreement. A negotiated grievance procedure may not cover any other matters, including matters for which statutory appeals procedures exist, and shall be the exclusive procedure available to the parties and the employees in the unit for resolving such grievances. However, any employee or group of employees in the unit may present such grievances to the agency and have them adjusted, without the intervention of the exclusive representative, as long as the adjustment is not inconsistent with the terms of the agreement and the exclusive representative has been given opportunity to be present at the adjustment.

(b) A negotiated procedure may provide for the arbitration of grievances over the interpretation or application of the agreement, but not over any other matters. Arbitration may be invoked only by the agency or the exclusive representative. Either party may file exceptions to an arbitrator's award with the Council, under regulations prescribed by the Council.

(c) Grievances initiated by an employee or group of employees in the unit on matters other than the interpretation or application of an existing agreement may be presented under any procedure available for the purpose.

(d) Questions that cannot be resolved by the parties as to whether or not a grievance is on a matter subject to the grievance procedure in an existing agreement, or is subject to arbitration under that agreement, may be referred to the Assistant Secretary for decision.

(e) No agreement may be established, extended, or renewed after the effective date of this Order which does not conform to this section. However, this section is not applicable to agreements entered into before the effective date of this Order.

In conjunction with the provisions of sec. 13 as amended, sec. 14 of E.O. 11491 which dealt with the arbitration of grievances was revoked. Amendments to sec. 6 of the order now provide that the Assistant Secretary of Labor for Labor-Management Relations shall "(4) decide unfair labor practice complaints and alleged violations of the standards of conduct for labor organizations; and (5) decide questions as to whether a grievance is subject to a negotiated grievance procedure or subject to arbitration under an agreement." In addition, sec. 19 dealing with unfair labor practices was amended in subparagraph (d) to provide the following:

Issues which can properly be raised under an appeals procedure may not be raised under this section. Issues which can be raised under a grievance procedure may, in the discretion of the aggrieved party, be raised under that procedure or the complaint procedure under this section, but not under both procedures. Appeals or grievance decisions shall not be construed as unfair labor practice decisions under this Order nor as precedent for such decisions. All complaints under this section that cannot be resolved by the parties shall be filed with the Assistant Secretary.

Sec. 20 of the order, which concerns the use of official time for negotiation, was most often identified as a shortcoming of the order by labor witnesses during the public hearings. As originally enacted, the section provided that "solicitation of membership or dues, and other internal business of a labor organization, shall be conducted during the non-duty hours of the employees concerned. Employees who represent a recognized labor organization shall not be on official time when negotiating an agreement with agency management." That section has now been amended beginning with the second sentence to provide the following:

Employees who represent a recognized labor organization shall not be on official time when negotiating an agreement with agency management, except to the extent that the negotiating parties agree to other arrangements which may provide that the agency will either authorize official time for up to 40 hours or authorize up to one-half the time spent in negotiations during regular working hours, for a reasonable number of employees, which number normally shall not exceed the number of management representatives.

The portion of E.O. 11491 providing for dues check-off arrangements (sec. 21) has been amended to the extent that all language stating that an agency "shall recover the costs of making the deductions" has been deleted. As such, the cost of administering a dues check-off system is now a negotiable item.

Another amendment to the order rewrote a portion of the definition of labor organization (sec. 2) in accordance with a federal district court ruling (NRD, 12-70, 15; 12-69, 3) which declared unconstitutional portions of a federal statute and an implementing employment oath which prohibited government employees from asserting the right to strike or holding membership in any organization asserting the right to strike. Sec. 2(e)(2) consequently provides that any labor organization eligible for recognition under the order will not include an organization which "assists or participates in a strike against the Government of the United States or any agency thereof, or imposes a duty or obligation to conduct, assist or participate in such a strike."

Two other amendments alter slightly the composition of the FLRC (sec. 4) by including the Director of the Office of Management and Budget as a member, and state that recognition of a labor organization (sec. 7) does not "preclude an agency from consulting or dealing with" a professional association (as well as other types of associations previously specified) which is not qualified as a labor organization. Sec. 7(d)(1) also was amended to provide that recognition of a labor organization does not "preclude an employee, regardless of whether he is in a unit of exclusive recognition, from exercising grievance or appellate rights established by law or regulations; or from choosing his own representative in a grievance or appellate action, except when presenting a grievance under a negotiated procedure as provided in section 13."

CONSUMER PRICE INDEX, AUGUST 1971

Figures released by the U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), indicated that the August 1971 Consumer Price Index (CPI) all-items index rose 0.3 percent above the previous month to 122.2 (1967=100). That rise placed the CPI 4.5 percent above the figure recorded a year ago. BLS pointed out that "because the August index is based on prices collected both before and after the announcement of the wage-price freeze on August 15, the index does not reflect the effect of the freeze."

The greatest proportion of the 0.5 percent rise in consumer services charges in August resulted from increases in household and medical care services, according to BLS. Some food items increased in price that month, while the costs for fresh vegetables, automobiles, and clothing declined. The price index of food purchased in grocery stores remained unchanged for the first time since January 1971. Prices for nonfood commodities rose 0.5 percent in August, and BLS attributed most of this increase to the largest rise in gasoline prices in more than a year.

Statistics

WHAT ARE TEACHERS NEGOTIATING?

The NEA Research Division's biennial analysis of teacher/board negotiation agreement provisions has been completed and yields extensive data about classroom teacher agreements effective during the 1970-71 school year. Data for the 1970-71 analysis were compiled from documents in the NEA Research Division's depository of agreements with the aid and cooperation of local school systems and state NEA affiliates.

Of the 7,122 school systems with enrollments of 1,000 or more surveyed during the 1970-71 school year, 3,522 returned the survey questionnaire and validated negotiation with a copy of an agreement. Only those responding systems which filed a copy of their 1970-71 agreement were included in this analysis. In addition, only those agreements covering classroom teacher units were included in this report; administrator and paraprofessional agreements will be analyzed separately. Of the 3,522 classroom teacher agreements analyzed, 43.4 percent (1,529) were comprehensive. These comprehensive agreements covered 53.5 percent (654,992) of all teachers represented in school systems with negotiation agreements.

A comparison with similar data compiled in the 1968-69 and 1966-67 analyses reveals that the number of 1970-71 classroom teacher agreements increased 34.2 percent above the 2,624 agreements in the 1968-69 survey, and 130.0 percent over the 1,531 agreements in the 1966-67 survey.[1] In addition, the number of 1970-71 comprehensive agreements increased 56.3 percent over the 978 comprehensives analyzed in 1968-69, and 293.1 percent above the 389 comprehensives analyzed in 1966-67. While only 13 states reported comprehensive agreements in 1966-67, and 24 states and the District of Columbia reported comprehensives in 1968-69, 39 states and the District of Columbia reported comprehensive agreements in the 1970-71 survey.

A portion of the 1970-71 increase in negotiation activity can be attributed to the enactment of negotiation statutes in Alaska (1970), Delaware (1969), and Kansas (1970), and the revision of the Oregon statute to provide exclusive representation rights for a duly-elected employee organization in an appropriate unit of certificated personnel. To date, the full impact of professional negotiaton laws enacted in five states (Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Oklahoma, and Pennsylvania) during the 1970-71 school year probably has not been felt. Since the 1966-67 analysis, the total number of professional negotiation laws has increased from 15 to 29.

In the 1966-67 analysis, agreements were coded for approximately 150 content items. Both the 1968-69 and the 1970-71 analyses, however, coded over 300 content items; the data derived from those two analyses are compatible and may be directly compared. It must be emphasized that if an item is not included in an agreement, it may be included in a state statute, or may be specifically excluded by a court ruling, state statute, or for some other reason. Certain items which have not been negotiated or changed by negotiation may continue in effect and be found in a given school system's policies. As such, this analysis is only a listing of provisions contained in 1970-71 negotiation agreements, not an all-inclusive listing of school system policies and practices.

The following tables summarize the data contained in 1970-71 comprehensive agreements covering classroom teacher units. The number of comprehensive agreements and the number of agreements containing an indicated provision are presented on a state-by-state basis. A complete analysis is available in the Negotiation Agreement Provisions, 1970-71 Edition, which is being processed for publication.

---

[1] Summary tables for the 1966-67 and 1968-69 surveys of negotiation agreement provisions were published, respectively, in the February 1968 and February 1970 issues of the NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST. In addition, the June 1970 issue of the DIGEST reported a three-year comparison of negotiation activity during the 1966-67, 1967-68, and 1968-69 school years.

TABLE 1.–NUMBER OF 1970-71 COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS CONTAINING CERTAIN PROVISIONS

State	Number of agreements	Scope of agreement: General statement of parties to agreement or recognition	Classification of persons covered or excluded	Lists specific items included or excluded	No discrimination clause	Maintenance of standards	Savings clause	Waiver clause	Effect on prior rules and policies
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
Alaska	2	2	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Arizona	7	7	0	2	1	0	3	0	1
Arkansas	1	1	0	0	1	0	1	0	1
California	13	13	3	2	6	0	8	0	6
Colorado	10	10	6	3	4	3	7	0	2
Connecticut	60	59	38	1	21	2	42	7	9
Delaware	12	11	6	0	5	2	10	1	4
District of Columbia	1	1	1	0	1	0	1	0	0
Florida	2	2	2	0	1	0	2	0	0
Idaho	2	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Illinois	83	83	57	26	43	8	49	4	14
Indiana	20	20	12	3	7	2	11	1	9
Kansas	1	1	0	0	0	0	1	0	1
Kentucky	2	2	1	1	2	0	2	0	2
Maine	19	18	11	6	8	1	12	2	8
Maryland	21	21	8	10	5	3	10	3	6
Massachusetts	124	124	101	5	18	5	69	24	20
Michigan	242	242	221	0	159	29	201	36	167
Minnesota	10	10	1	2	2	0	4	0	3
Montana	1	1	1	0	0	0	1	0	0
Nebraska	5	5	0	2	0	0	1	0	0
Nevada	2	2	1	0	0	0	0	0	0
New Hampshire	6	6	4	1	0	0	4	0	1
New Jersey	228	223	175	5	68	39	13	39	57
New Mexico	1	1	1	0	1	0	1	0	0
New York	367	367	223	26	54	63	248	49	157
North Dakota	3	3	2	0	0	0	1	0	0
Ohio	59	59	17	15	6	3	21	5	7
Oklahoma	1	1	0	0	1	0	0	0	0
Oregon	3	3	1	0	0	1	1	1	1
Pennsylvania	30	30	14	2	3	2	6	0	3
Rhode Island	21	21	12	0	9	2	11	6	4
South Dakota	2	2	0	1	0	0	1	0	0
Texas	1	1	5	1	1	0	0	0	1
Utah	6	6	0	1	3	2	4	4	3
Vermont	3	3	0	0	2	0	1	0	0
Virginia	3	3	1	5	0	0	1	2	1
Washington	22	22	5	0	3	5	4	0	3
Wisconsin	131	131	72	4	36	10	71	12	30
Wyoming	2	1	0	0	0	1	0	0	1
Total	1,529	1,525	1,006	124	471	183	823	192	522

TABLE 1.—NUMBER OF 1970-71 COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS CONTAINING CERTAIN PROVISIONS (Cont'd)

State	Scope of agreement			Negotiation procedure[a]				Rights of representative organization
	Effect on future changes in board policies and regulations	Mergers of school districts	Distribution of agreement	Provisions for negotation sessions	Procedure for impasse	Advisory decision on impasse and method of selecting third party	Binding decision on impasse and method of selecting third party	Nondiscrimination clause against membership in employee organization	Check-off or dues deduction
1	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19
Alaska	0	0	1	1	0	0	0	0	1
Arizona	0	0	3	6	3	4	0	3	2
Arkansas	1	0	1	1	1	1	0	1	1
California	4	0	3	5	1	1	0	7	8
Colorado	0	0	1	9	8	8	0	5	5
Connecticut	21	0	17	46	18	18	0	25	41
Delaware	1	0	8	8	2	0	0	7	8
District of Columbia	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	1	1
Florida	0	0	0	2	2	2	0	1	2
Idaho	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Illinois	20	1	23	60	41	50	1	41	44
Indiana	4	0	5	15	10	0	0	3	12
Kansas	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Kentucky	0	0	1	2	2	1	0	2	0
Maine	5	0	6	13	8	8	0	7	9
Maryland	5	0	11	9	5	5	0	6	15
Massachusetts	12	0	43	71	23	22	0	35	100
Michigan	64	35	162	186	75	77	4	135	225
Minnesota	1	0	1	1	0	0	0	3	3
Montana	1	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	1
Nebraska	0	0	0	1	1	1	0	0	1
Nevada	0	0	0	1	2	2	0	0	2
New Hampshire	1	0	1	3	3	3	0	2	4
New Jersey	56	0	105	176	20	19	1	51	111
New Mexico	0	0	1	1	1	1	0	1	1
New York	115	5	216	258	155	142	2	83	285
North Dakota	0	0	0	3	0	2	0	0	1
Ohio	7	0	4	40	34	26	0	15	16
Oklahoma	1	0	0	1	1	1	0	0	0
Oregon	1	0	1	1	5	0	0	0	1
Pennsylvania	0	0	3	17	0	6	0	2	7
Rhode Island	3	0	7	9	2	1	1	11	17
South Dakota	0	0	0	2	1	1	0	0	0
Texas	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0
Utah	3	0	1	6	4	4	0	4	3
Vermont	0	0	1	1	1	1	0	1	1
Virginia	1	0	1	2	1	1	0	0	2
Washington	5	0	6	12	6	6	0	3	2
Wisconsin	21	2	15	87	45	45	0	23	50
Wyoming	0	0	0	1	1	1	0	0	1
Total	353	43	649	1,059	482	460	9	478	983

[a]For both negotiation and grievance procedures, the Negotiation Agreement Provisions (NAP) lists the source from which the impartial arbitrator is selected.

TABLE 1.—NUMBER OF 1970-71 COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS CONTAINING CERTAIN PROVISIONS (Cont'd)

State	Rights of representative organization (Cont'd)
	Use of building facilities, e.g., assembly hall	Use of school equipment, typewriters, and duplicating machines	Use of school communication system, bulletin boards, and mailboxes	Information pertinent to negotiations, e.g., financial and budgetary reports made available to representative organization	Time off to negotiate	Time off for grievance hearings	Conducting official organization business during the school day	Time off to attend professional organization conferences or conventions	Leave of absence for full-time service to organization without loss of tenure
1	20	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28
Alaska	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	2	0
Arizona	3	1	4	3	3	2	1	0	1
Arkansas	1	1	1	0	0	0	0	0	0
California	5	0	8	6	3	2	6	1	1
Colorado	5	1	5	2	0	1	5	6	6
Connecticut	16	3	19	5	14	15	11	9	9
Delaware	7	6	10	7	6	4	4	3	4
District of Columbia	0	0	1	0	1	1	1	0	1
Florida	2	1	2	1	0	1	0	1	2
Idaho	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Illinois	39	20	44	46	12	11	24	20	11
Indiana	12	4	11	8	1	4	9	3	6
Kansas	1	1	1	0	0	1	0	0	1
Kentucky	2	0	2	0	0	0	2	1	1
Maine	7	4	8	6	6	6	4	3	3
Maryland	15	7	15	5	4	3	5	4	11
Massachusetts	73	24	67	17	22	30	14	33	49
Michigan	214	120	194	204	104	83	89	127	106
Minnesota	1	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	1
Montana	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Nebraska	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Nevada	2	0	2	1	0	0	1	0	0
New Hampshire	2	0	2	1	0	0	1	0	0
New Jersey	133	99	125	79	66	72	60	34	33
New Mexico	1	1	1	1	1	0	1	0	1
New York	179	90	166	79	55	23	83	116	65
North Dakota	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Ohio	9	5	13	14	6	4	7	8	5
Oklahoma	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	1	0
Oregon	1	0	1	1	0	2	0	0	0
Pennsylvania	9	2	10	7	3	0	3	2	1
Rhode Island	12	3	16	4	9	10	4	6	8
South Dakota	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0
Texas	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	1	0
Utah	3	0	3	1	2	1	1	1	2
Vermont	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0
Virginia	1	1	0	0	1	0	2	2	1
Washington	4	0	2	3	0	0	2	5	0
Wisconsin	37	18	33	18	5	6	9	11	2
Wyoming	1	1	1	0	1	0	1	0	1
Total	797	413	767	523	325	282	352	400	332

TABLE 1.–NUMBER OF 1970-71 COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS CONTAINING CERTAIN PROVISIONS (Cont'd)

State	Rights of representative organization (Cont'd)				Teacher activity
	Wearing insignia or pins	No-strike clause	Building representative provisions	Agency shop clause	Individual or minority representation to the administration	Teachers' rights not abridged	Personal activities outside school	Employment outside school	Political activities outside school	Academic freedom
1	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38
Alaska	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Arizona	0	0	0	0	1	1	1	0	1	2
Arkansas	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	1
California	0	4	1	0	0	3	0	0	0	6
Colorado	1	2	4	0	0	3	0	1	0	4
Connecticut	0	16	2	0	0	3	7	7	5	7
Delaware	5	1	4	0	0	5	5	0	3	4
District of Columbia	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Florida	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1
Idaho	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Illinois	1	52	9	0	1	29	5	0	6	23
Indiana	4	4	8	0	0	0	2	1	6	10
Kansas	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	1	1
Kentucky	0	1	1	0	0	2	1	0	1	2
Maine	5	5	1	0	1	9	2	0	1	1
Maryland	21	4	3	0	1	5	10	1	9	9
Massachusetts	83	63	7	0	3	22	23	4	29	10
Michigan	0	132	34	149	7	179	97	10	93	79
Minnesota	0	0	1	0	1	0	1	0	1	0
Montana	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Nebraska	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0
Nevada	0	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
New Hampshire	0	2	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
New Jersey	59	20	27	0	0	104	33	3	21	43
New Mexico	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
New York	7	109	73	3	10	65	35	8	27	95
North Dakota	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Ohio	1	10	8	0	6	1	2	2	0	8
Oklahoma	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Oregon	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0
Pennsylvania	0	5	3	0	1	2	0	0	0	2
Rhode Island	0	2	1	1	0	2	1	0	0	1
South Dakota	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Texas	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Utah	0	1	0	0	1	0	0	2	0	0
Vermont	0	1	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0
Virginia	0	1	2	0	0	0	1	1	2	1
Washington	0	2	1	0	0	2	0	1	1	5
Wisconsin	0	43	5	0	3	8	2	12	15	5
Wyoming	1	1	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0
Total	188	485	196	153	36	449	230	53	222	320

TABLE 1.–NUMBER OF 1970-71 COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS CONTAINING CERTAIN PROVISIONS (Cont'd)

State	Teacher activity	Board rights	Committees established in agreement		One or more specific subject joint committees established in agreement[b]	Instructional program
	Polygraph tests	General board rights	Committee which meets regularly	General or professional study committee		Curriculum review	Teacher qualifications	Development of special education programs	Hiring of specialists
1	39	40	41	42	43	44	45	46	47
Alaska	0	0	0	0	7	2	1	0	1
Arizona	0	5	1	1	13	3	2	2	0
Arkansas	0	0	0	0	1	0	1	0	0
California	0	4	1	5	31	5	2	3	4
Colorado	0	4	4	1	7	2	1	0	1
Connecticut	0	25	6	12	61	23	2	2	17
Delaware	0	4	3	9	20	3	6	1	3
District of Columbia	0	0	1	0	2	1	0	0	0
Florida	0	2	0	1	4	1	1	0	1
Idaho	0	0	0	0	3	1	0	0	0
Illinois	0	38	19	15	100	18	22	6	6
Indiana	0	13	4	1	50	9	11	3	3
Kansas	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0
Kentucky	0	1	0	1	3	1	2	0	0
Maine	0	11	6	3	24	5	7	1	3
Maryland	0	5	1	3	39	4	5	4	4
Massachusetts	0	66	12	28	159	31	17	9	30
Michigan	27	98	40	80	503	83	145	42	43
Minnesota	0	4	0	0	10	1	4	1	2
Montana	0	0	0	0	2	0	1	0	0
Nebraska	0	1	0	0	4	0	0	0	0
Nevada	0	1	0	0	4	0	0	1	0
New Hampshire	0	2	0	2	0	0	0	0	0
New Jersey	0	62	44	62	246	27	68	3	53
New Mexico	0	1	1	1	8	1	1	1	0
New York	0	72	73	108	589	128	102	39	52
North Dakota	0	1	0	0	5	1	1	0	1
Ohio	0	13	5	8	77	11	13	4	3
Oklahoma	0	0	0	0	4	1	0	1	0
Oregon	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0
Pennsylvania	0	4	2	3	31	5	6	3	5
Rhode Island	0	5	4	5	33	5	5	3	4
South Dakota	0	0	0	0	1	0	1	0	0
Texas	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Utah	0	2	2	4	3	0	2	0	0
Vermont	0	1	0	0	2	1	1	0	0
Virginia	0	2	1	2	7	2	1	1	1
Washington	0	5	2	1	25	6	0	4	2
Wisconsin	0	80	5	9	95	13	38	6	7
Wyoming	0	0	1	0	2	1	1	0	0
Total	27	532	238	366	2,176	395	470	140	246

[b]In the NAP, the area of study is given for each joint committee. There are 96 possible areas of study.

TABLE 1.–NUMBER OF 1970-71 COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS CONTAINING CERTAIN PROVISIONS (Cont'd)

State	Instructional program (Cont'd)
	Development of tax or bond programs	Application of state and federal funds	Evaluation and application of testing programs	Distribution of budgetary items	Evaluation of teachers' performance	Selection and distribution of textbooks	Pupil-teacher ratio and class size	Instructional aids available for the teachers' use in the development, planning, and teaching in classroom	Teacher aides for extraneous duties
1	48	49	50	51	52	53	54	55	56
Alaska	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	1
Arizona	0	0	0	0	0	1	3	0	3
Arkansas	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	1
California	1	2	0	1	0	4	8	6	3
Colorado	0	0	0	1	2	3	5	4	4
Connecticut	0	5	0	1	1	24	38	5	23
Delaware	0	1	0	1	0	3	4	2	2
District of Columbia	0	0	0	0	0	1	1	0	1
Florida	0	1	0	1	1	1	1	2	2
Idaho	1	1	0	0	0	0	2	0	2
Illinois	1	5	3	1	4	19	38	14	10
Indiana	0	0	2	1	4	8	11	8	6
Kansas	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	1
Kentucky	0	0	0	0	0	1	1	1	0
Maine	0	1	0	0	1	4	6	2	4
Maryland	1	0	0	1	4	5	12	6	5
Massachusetts	35	1	0	4	6	46	84	14	46
Michigan	0	12	4	9	20	85	219	134	71
Minnesota	0	0	0	0	0	1	2	1	1
Montana	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Nebraska	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Nevada	0	0	0	0	0	1	1	0	0
New Hampshire	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	1
New Jersey	0	5	0	1	14	23	80	15	50
New Mexico	0	0	0	0	1	1	1	1	0
New York	1	11	5	14	37	92	254	69	177
North Dakota	0	0	0	0	0	1	1	0	0
Ohio	4	5	0	1	3	8	19	3	16
Oklahoma	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Oregon	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Pennsylvania	0	1	0	2	1	3	9	1	6
Rhode Island	0	1	0	1	2	15	20	4	11
South Dakota	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	1
Texas	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Utah	0	1	0	0	0	0	1	0	1
Vermont	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	1
Virginia	0	0	0	1	1	0	1	1	2
Washington	1	1	0	0	0	2	8	5	5
Wisconsin	0	0	1	2	3	12	53	5	30
Wyoming	0	0	0	0	1	1	1	0	2
Total	45	54	15	43	106	366	888	306	489

TABLE 1.—NUMBER OF 1970-71 COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS CONTAINING CERTAIN PROVISIONS (Cont'd)

State	Instructional program (Cont'd)								Person'l policies and prac's
	Secretarial and clerical assistance	School calendar or year	Pupil progress reports, promotion, and policies	Supervision of student extracurricular activities	Selection of supervisors	Assignment of department chairmen	Parent-teacher conferences	Integration of education for textbooks pupils, and staff	Individual contract terms
1	57	58	59	60	61	62	63	64	65
Alaska	0	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	1
Arizona	2	4	0	1	0	2	1	0	1
Arkansas	0	1	0	0	0	1	1	0	0
California	2	6	2	1	0	4	2	4	1
Colorado	1	3	1	3	0	2	3	0	1
Connecticut	6	40	3	13	0	9	18	1	31
Delaware	1	3	2	1	0	3	1	2	2
District of Columbia	0	0	1	1	0	0	1	1	0
Florida	1	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Idaho	0	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Illinois	15	41	5	14	1	10	16	8	16
Indiana	4	12	2	3	0	6	7	1	4
Kansas	0	1	0	0	0	1	1	1	0
Kentucky	0	1	1	1	0	1	0	0	0
Maine	0	11	1	2	0	3	3	0	7
Maryland	5	10	0	4	0	1	8	1	3
Massachusetts	12	43	8	38	0	29	41	0	20
Michigan	44	192	13	45	3	52	110	30	81
Minnesota	0	6	0	2	0	2	2	1	1
Montana	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1
Nebraska	0	1	0	0	0	0	1	0	0
Nevada	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	1
New Hampshire	0	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	3
New Jersey	15	126	18	23	2	22	28	1	52
New Mexico	0	1	1	1	0	0	1	0	1
New York	50	225	27	89	7	75	155	8	50
North Dakota	1	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Ohio	3	19	5	3	1	6	18	0	14
Oklahoma	1	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0
Oregon	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Pennsylvania	2	12	2	7	1	5	4	1	3
Rhode Island	4	14	5	8	0	6	10	0	4
South Dakota	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Texas	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Utah	0	0	0	1	0	0	1	0	2
Vermont	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	1
Virginia	2	3	0	1	0	0	2	0	1
Washington	2	6	0	1	0	1	1	0	3
Wisconsin	9	105	2	29	3	23	23	29	58
Wyoming	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	1
Total	182	897	100	292	18	264	466	60	364

TABLE 1.—NUMBER OF 1970-71 COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS CONTAINING CERTAIN PROVISIONS (Cont'd)

State	Personnel policies and practices (Cont'd)
	Issue and return of individual contract	Employment year—12-month contracts	Reporting procedures	Teaching hours	Teaching load or schedule of class periods	Teaching assignment in subject areas	Teaching assignment for special education programs	Hours of service before and after regular class periods	Planning period—elementary
1	66	67	68	69	70	71	72	73	74
Alaska	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Arizona	1	0	0	1	2	2	1	1	1
Arkansas	0	0	0	0	1	1	0	1	1
California	1	2	0	3	2	2	6	8	2
Colorado	1	0	1	4	2	5	4	1	5
Connecticut	3	3	0	30	29	31	13	27	26
Delaware	0	1	2	4	3	3	4	4	6
District of Columbia	0	0	1	1	0	0	1	1	1
Florida	0	1	0	2	1	2	1	1	1
Idaho	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0
Illinois	3	3	3	32	26	27	19	18	25
Indiana	2	2	2	10	8	10	10	7	11
Kansas	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	1
Kentucky	0	0	0	1	1	2	2	0	1
Maine	1	1	0	10	6	10	0	4	5
Maryland	0	7	3	8	3	13	9	9	13
Massachusetts	5	8	0	87	70	91	49	79	60
Michigan	22	10	5	187	158	192	64	147	148
Minnesota	2	1	0	5	4	1	2	2	4
Montana	1	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0
Nebraska	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Nevada	0	0	0	2	0	0	0	2	2
New Hampshire	1	0	0	1	1	2	1	2	1
New Jersey	41	38	74	84	69	74	34	89	58
New Mexico	1	0	0	1	0	1	1	1	1
New York	11	19	28	211	182	155	93	137	194
North Dakota	0	0	0	1	1	0	0	0	0
Ohio	3	3	1	22	10	15	9	13	14
Oklahoma	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Oregon	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Pennsylvania	1	3	2	13	6	4	2	5	10
Rhode Island	1	0	0	18	16	10	7	17	13
South Dakota	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Texas	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Utah	1	0	0	3	3	3	3	2	3
Vermont	0	0	0	2	1	0	0	0	0
Virginia	1	3	0	1	0	2	3	1	3
Washington	2	2	0	5	1	1	1	2	7
Wisconsin	22	7	0	69	46	32	14	24	37
Wyoming	0	0	1	1	2	1	1	1	1
Total	129	116	123	819	654	695	354	606	655

TABLE 1.—NUMBER OF 1970-71 COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS CONTAINING CERTAIN PROVISIONS (Cont'd)

State	Personnel policies and practices (Cont'd)
	Planning period—secondary	Lunch period for elementary teachers	Lunch period for secondary teachers	Supervision of student teachers	Non-classroom duties	Regular teacher as a substitute	Qualifications for professional growth	Inservice training	Regular teacher meetings
1	75	76	77	78	79	80	81	82	83
Alaska	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0
Arizona	2	1	1	0	2	1	4	1	3
Arkansas	1	1	1	0	1	1	0	0	1
California	2	2	3	3	4	3	3	6	8
Colorado	5	5	5	1	4	3	2	4	3
Connecticut	35	43	44	1	26	12	9	16	38
Delaware	7	6	6	0	3	3	1	3	5
District of Columbia	1	1	1	0	1	1	0	0	1
Florida	2	1	0	1	2	1	0	1	1
Idaho	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	1	0
Illinois	28	31	32	8	24	31	31	27	32
Indiana	10	14	14	5	8	4	5	10	9
Kansas	1	1	1	0	1	1	0	0	0
Kentucky	1	0	0	0	2	0	1	1	1
Maine	5	10	10	0	8	1	5	3	9
Maryland	13	17	15	2	8	4	6	6	10
Massachusetts	79	89	87	14	69	32	55	46	81
Michigan	173	218	213	87	109	94	49	83	133
Minnesota	3	4	4	0	3	3	5	4	3
Montana	0	1	0	0	1	0	1	0	0
Nebraska	0	0	0	2	2	0	1	0	0
Nevada	1	2	2	0	1	0	1	2	1
New Hampshire	0	2	0	0	1	0	1	0	2
New Jersey	64	111	111	0	90	54	42	37	95
New Mexico	1	1	0	1	1	0	1	1	1
New York	181	216	200	52	155	86	78	204	186
North Dakota	1	1	1	0	1	0	1	0	0
Ohio	18	16	15	7	12	11	6	17	24
Oklahoma	0	1	1	0	0	1	1	0	0
Oregon	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0
Pennsylvania	8	8	7	4	10	6	5	4	9
Rhode Island	16	16	15	3	13	7	2	5	17
South Dakota	0	1	1	1	1	0	0	1	1
Texas	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Utah	1	5	5	1	3	1	3	3	3
Vermont	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0
Virginia	1	3	3	0	0	1	1	1	1
Washington	3	0	0	3	5	2	6	5	1
Wisconsin	40	55	54	2	45	31	71	37	40
Wyoming	1	1	0	0	1	1	1	1	1
Total	704	884	852	198	617	397	400	534	720

TABLE 1.—NUMBER OF 1970-71 COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS CONTAINING CERTAIN PROVISIONS (Cont'd)

State	Personnel policies and practices (Cont'd)
	Promotion to higher classification, supervisor or administrator	Temporary assignment to higher classification	Vacancies	Transfers	Layoff and recall	Dismissal procedure	Resignation procedure	Retirement procedure
1	84	85	86	87	88	89	90	91
Alaska	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Arizona	1	0	2	3	0	0	2	0
Arkansas	1	0	1	1	0	1	0	0
California	3	0	6	8	0	1	0	1
Colorado	3	1	5	4	2	2	0	0
Connecticut	44	0	34	48	0	7	6	6
Delaware	6	0	7	8	0	4	0	0
District of Columbia	1	0	0	1	0	1	0	0
Florida	2	0	2	2	0	1	1	1
Idaho	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Illinois	23	2	41	38	5	12	2	11
Indiana	12	1	15	11	3	3	1	10
Kansas	0	0	1	1	0	0	0	0
Kentucky	1	1	1	2	0	1	1	0
Maine	4	0	6	9	0	5	2	2
Maryland	15	1	17	16	0	5	4	1
Massachusetts	82	4	99	85	1	8	20	12
Michigan	178	72	227	216	138	39	31	92
Minnesota	1	0	3	2	0	2	4	6
Montana	0	0	1	1	0	1	0	0
Nebraska	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Nevada	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
New Hampshire	2	0	1	2	0	0	2	0
New Jersey	89	3	101	102	1	22	6	7
New Mexico	1	0	0	1	0	1	1	1
New York	172	19	232	214	17	38	39	30
North Dakota	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1
Ohio	14	1	17	23	2	14	5	5
Oklahoma	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0
Oregon	1	1	0	0	0	0	0	0
Pennsylvania	6	1	8	9	0	3	3	3
Rhode Island	20	1	19	17	0	2	6	1
South Dakota	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0
Texas	1	0	1	1	0	1	1	1
Utah	2	0	3	5	5	5	3	2
Vermont	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	0
Virginia	2	0	2	2	1	1	1	1
Washington	2	1	4	4	2	3	1	1
Wisconsin	13	0	35	48	8	66	35	73
Wyoming	1	0	1	1	0	0	0	0
Total	703	109	893	886	185	250	177	268

2018

TABLE 1.–NUMBER OF 1970-71 COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS CONTAINING CERTAIN PROVISIONS (Cont'd)

State	Personnel policies and practices (Cont'd)
	Grievance procedures[a]				Professional code of ethics	Teacher discipline or reprimand	Teacher's personnel file	Protection of teachers against assault, etc.	Pupil discipline
	Grievance procedure	Binding decision and method of selecting third party	Advisory decision and method of selecting third party	Provisions for cost of third party
1	92	93	94	95	96	97	98	99	100
Alaska	1	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Arizona	5	0	3	3	3	3	3	1	2
Arkansas	1	0	0	0	1	1	1	1	1
California	9	4	3	7	1	3	7	2	6
Colorado	8	0	6	6	3	2	4	4	4
Connecticut	58	38	14	47	29	2	17	38	6
Delaware	10	2	2	3	0	7	7	6	6
District of Columbia	1	1	0	1	0	0	1	0	1
Florida	2	0	0	0	0	0	2	2	1
Idaho	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Illinois	66	23	19	37	24	7	46	30	39
Indiana	19	4	9	10	8	8	11	11	12
Kansas	1	0	0	0	0	1	1	1	1
Kentucky	2	0	1	1	1	1	2	1	2
Maine	17	12	4	15	1	4	6	6	2
Maryland	20	5	7	0	1	2	16	14	16
Massachusetts	119	96	19	105	17	64	83	73	9
Michigan	241	174	52	179	138	189	172	210	170
Minnesota	5	1	0	1	0	1	4	1	1
Montana	1	1	0	1	0	1	0	0	0
Nebraska	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Nevada	2	1	1	2	0	1	0	2	2
New Hampshire	4	3	1	2	0	0	3	0	0
New Jersey	215	60	114	146	7	85	69	65	60
New Mexico	1	0	1	1	1	0	1	0	1
New York	339	161	109	228	81	91	199	165	123
North Dakota	2	2	0	2	0	0	0	0	0
Ohio	36	9	9	16	13	8	20	12	16
Oklahoma	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Oregon	1	0	0	0	0	0	1	1	0
Pennsylvania	14	8	3	10	3	4	9	5	7
Rhode Island	21	15	6	9	0	10	19	18	8
South Dakota	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Texas	1	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Utah	5	0	3	3	3	3	5	4	4
Vermont	2	0	2	0	0	0	1	0	0
Virginia	3	0	3	3	0	0	2	2	2
Washington	8	1	2	2	4	3	5	5	4
Wisconsin	119	49	44	63	6	19	31	18	12
Wyoming	1	0	1	1	1	1	1	1	1
Total	1,362	672	438	904	346	521	749	699	519

TABLE 1.–NUMBER OF 1970-71 COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS CONTAINING CERTAIN PROVISIONS (Cont'd)

State	Personnel policies and practices (Cont'd)
	Liability case procedures	Damaged or stolen property	Absence report procedure	Procedure for teacher evaluation	Teacher facilities, e.g., lounge	Probationary period	Seniority	Substitute teachers
1	101	102	103	104	105	106	107	108
Alaska	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Arizona	0	0	1	3	1	2	1	0
Arkansas	0	1	0	1	1	1	0	1
California	2	4	1	8	4	3	1	6
Colorado	2	2	0	6	5	3	2	4
Connecticut	14	15	8	26	35	4	3	18
Delaware	2	0	2	9	8	2	0	3
District of Columbia	0	1	1	1	1	1	0	1
Florida	2	0	2	2	2	1	1	2
Idaho	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Illinois	17	11	10	32	39	12	14	25
Indiana	8	1	6	13	11	11	3	9
Kansas	0	1	1	1	0	0	0	1
Kentucky	1	0	1	1	1	0	0	0
Maine	3	1	2	8	7	4	0	1
Maryland	2	7	7	14	14	4	2	4
Massachusetts	41	22	25	86	71	15	5	45
Michigan	103	116	143	207	199	97	48	148
Minnesota	0	0	2	2	2	5	0	4
Montana	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	1
Nebraska	0	1	0	0	0	1	0	1
Nevada	1	0	0	0	2	0	0	0
New Hampshire	0	0	1	2	0	0	0	0
New Jersey	26	23	41	120	73	17	4	45
New Mexico	0	0	1	1	1	1	1	1
New York	93	73	96	237	160	147	28	191
North Dakota	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0
Ohio	0	4	9	18	13	9	2	12
Oklahoma	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0
Oregon	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0
Pennsylvania	3	1	4	7	5	1	1	5
Rhode Island	11	10	2	16	14	3	2	11
South Dakota	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0
Texas	0	0	1	1	0	0	0	0
Utah	3	2	1	4	4	2	0	1
Vermont	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Virginia	2	0	0	2	1	2	0	2
Washington	3	2	0	3	2	1	0	4
Wisconsin	8	8	18	50	12	32	6	34
Wyoming	0	0	1	1	1	0	0	0
Total	347	307	388	884	690	381	124	58

TABLE 1.—NUMBER OF 1970-71 COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS CONTAINING CERTAIN PROVISIONS (Cont'd)

State	Person'l policies & prac's (Cont'd)	Salary policy[C]
	Health requirements	Salary schedule	Salary credits for prior growth and experience	Salary credit for military experience	Salary increments for professional preparation	Deviation from salary schedule	Extra duty pay for special activities	Premium pay
1	109	110	111	112	113	114	115	116
Alaska	0	2	1	1	1	1	1	1
Arizona	2	7	2	0	3	0	4	2
Arkansas	0	1	0	0	1	0	1	0
California	1	12	5	3	10	0	6	1
Colorado	1	10	4	1	4	3	7	2
Connecticut	6	56	39	33	36	5	47	1
Delaware	0	10	6	7	2	0	7	1
District of Columbia	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0
Florida	1	1	1	1	0	0	0	0
Idaho	0	2	1	0	2	0	0	0
Illinois	13	69	50	22	53	9	62	19
Indiana	7	17	12	7	12	1	10	7
Kansas	0	1	1	1	1	0	1	0
Kentucky	1	1	0	0	0	0	1	0
Maine	3	18	9	7	10	5	15	1
Maryland	2	20	13	7	10	2	15	0
Massachusetts	20	114	88	59	93	25	109	6
Michigan	81	219	213	101	141	5	160	55
Minnesota	2	9	8	3	9	2	10	1
Montana	0	1	0	0	1	0	1	0
Nebraska	0	5	2	0	3	1	2	1
Nevada	1	1	1	0	1	0	1	0
New Hampshire	0	6	3	0	2	0	1	0
New Jersey	29	213	119	111	98	21	135	15
New Mexico	1	1	1	0	1	0	1	0
New York	94	347	206	157	258	38	321	103
North Dakota	0	3	1	0	1	0	2	0
Ohio	7	52	24	16	27	2	32	1
Oklahoma	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0
Oregon	0	3	2	0	2	0	2	0
Pennsylvania	1	26	114	8	19	6	18	1
Rhode Island	4	17	10	6	14	1	13	2
South Dakota	0	2	1	0	1	0	0	0
Texas	0	1	0	0	1	0	1	0
Utah	2	0	4	2	4	1	2	1
Vermont	1	2	3	2	2	0	3	0
Virginia	1	2	1	2	2	1	14	1
Washington	1	16	8	5	13	1	0	0
Wisconsin	35	123	125	35	96	54	22	63
Wyoming	1	2	2	1	2	0	2	0
Total	318	1,393	1,080	598	936	184	1,130	285

[C]In the NAP the following salary benchmarks are given: B.A. minimum; M.A. maximum; M.A. Step 10; Non-doctorate maximum. The number of steps also is provided.

TABLE 1.—NUMBER OF 1970-71 COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS CONTAINING CERTAIN PROVISIONS (Cont'd)

State	Salary policy[c] (Cont'd)					Fringe benefits
	Overtime pay	Part-time pay	Longevity pay	Incentive pay	Pay period	Tuition reimbursement	Physical examination	Holidays	Vacation
1	117	118	119	120	121	122	123	124	125
Alaska	0	0	1	0	1	0	0	1	0
Arizona	1	2	0	0	0	0	0	2	0
Arkansas	1	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0
California	3	5	6	0	2	0	0	3	3
Colorado	3	1	4	1	0	1	3	0	0
Connecticut	9	7	24	2	35	22	5	10	0
Delaware	0	0	3	0	2	6	0	0	0
District of Columbia	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Florida	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0
Idaho	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Illinois	32	19	13	2	45	25	8	1	2
Indiana	4	1	4	0	12	5	6	6	2
Kansas	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0
Kentucky	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0
Maine	0	1	4	1	17	12	2	1	0
Maryland	2	2	9	0	9	16	2	1	1
Massachusetts	22	18	33	15	75	58	4	7	4
Michigan	129	59	56	8	111	63	53	46	12
Minnesota	2	4	2	0	5	1	3	2	0
Montana	0	1	1	0	1	0	0	1	0
Nebraska	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Nevada	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
New Hampshire	0	0	0	0	2	5	0	0	0
New Jersey	33	13	76	10	122	130	7	15	8
New Mexico	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	8
New York	53	60	223	29	178	53	55	22	0
North Dakota	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0
Ohio	6	12	12	2	17	8	5	6	1
Oklahoma	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0
Oregon	0	1	1	0	9	2	0	0	0
Pennsylvania	5	2	11	2	16	14	0	2	2
Rhode Island	7	4	11	0	0	4	1	3	1
South Dakota	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Texas	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	1
Utah	1	0	0	0	5	0	0	0	0
Vermont	0	0	0	0	0	1	1	0	0
Virginia	2	0	2	0	1	2	1	1	0
Washington	2	5	1	2	1	3	0	0	0
Wisconsin	44	26	22	16	86	58	51	13	5
Wyoming	1	1	0	0	1	0	0	1	1
Total	365	244	520	90	758	489	207	147	51

TABLE 1.—NUMBER OF 1970-71 COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS CONTAINING CERTAIN PROVISIONS (Cont'd)

State	Fringe benefits (Cont'd)
	Health services	Payroll deductions	Terminal leave or severance pay	Employment injury benefit	Travel allowances	Conference and meeting fees	Mileage allowance	Payment of subject organization dues
1	126	127	128	129	130	131	132	133
Alaska	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Arizona	0	2	0	0	1	0	1	0
Arkansas	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0
California	1	1	2	5	1	1	2	0
Colorado	0	1	1	2	2	2	3	0
Connecticut	0	31	33	31	13	20	15	0
Delaware	1	1	0	0	0	3	6	0
District of Columbia	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0
Florida	0	1	2	2	0	0	0	0
Idaho	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0
Illinois	1	27	18	19	20	22	27	1
Indiana	2	10	15	9	5	7	5	0
Kansas	0	1	0	1	0	0	0	0
Kentucky	0	0	0	0	0	1	1	0
Maine	1	7	7	4	3	3	7	1
Maryland	1	11	7	10	3	3	13	0
Massachusetts	0	26	37	51	42	49	50	0
Michigan	7	100	108	105	61	83	97	2
Minnesota	0	2	0	0	1	2	3	0
Montana	0	1	1	0	0	0	1	0
Nebraska	0	0	0	0	0	1	1	0
Nevada	0	0	0	0	1	2	1	0
New Hampshire	1	0	0	0	0	0	2	0
New Jersey	3	69	11	33	22	28	86	1
New Mexico	1	1	1	0	0	0	1	0
New York	10	111	60	125	87	121	110	2
North Dakota	0	0	0	0	1	1	0	0
Ohio	0	12	2	3	6	9	5	0
Oklahoma	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Oregon	0	1	1	0	0	1	0	0
Pennsylvania	0	6	16	1	1	3	3	0
Rhode Island	2	7	4	16	3	2	9	0
South Dakota	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Texas	0	0	1	0	1	1	0	0
Utah	0	3	4	3	1	2	2	0
Vermont	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0
Virginia	0	0	1	1	2	2	2	0
Washington	1	2	0	4	3	5	5	0
Wisconsin	2	26	18	17	16	21	63	0
Wyoming	0	0	0	1	1	1	2	0
Total	34	460	351	444	297	397	524	7

TABLE 1.—NUMBER OF 1970-71 COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS CONTAINING CERTAIN PROVISIONS (Cont'd)

State	Fringe benefits (Cont'd)		Insurance coverage[d]					Long-term leaves of absence[e]
	Tax-sheltered annuity	Workmen's compensation	Group health insurance	Group life insurance	Group liability insurance	Group income protection or disability	Pension or retirement	General leave	Sabbatical leave
1	134	135	136	137	138	139	140	141	142
Alaska	0	0	2	0	0	1	0	0	2
Arizona	0	0	5	1	2	1	0	1	2
Arkansas	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	1
California	1	2	10	2	1	2	0	3	7
Colorado	0	2	6	4	3	3	1	4	6
Connecticut	20	21	58	53	1	4	1	15	52
Delaware	0	0	9	8	3	6	1	1	8
District of Columbia	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Florida	2	1	2	0	0	2	0	1	1
Idaho	0	0	2	0	0	0	0	0	0
Illinois	21	14	63	35	10	4	1	16	45
Indiana	11	10	16	13	6	7	2	4	12
Kansas	1	1	0	0	0	1	0	0	0
Kentucky	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	1	0
Maine	4	5	14	3	3	1	1	1	12
Maryland	7	6	20	13	3	1	1	4	14
Massachusetts	61	40	75	63	2	7	5	23	112
Michigan	70	148	229	123	30	52	1	55	111
Minnesota	6	3	10	7	0	7	0	0	5
Montana	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	1
Nebraska	0	0	4	2	0	1	0	0	1
Nevada	0	0	2	0	0	0	0	1	0
New Hampshire	1	2	6	4	0	1	1	1	4
New Jersey	15	29	209	10	14	1	1	39	118
New Mexico	1	1	1	1	0	1	1	0	1
New York	139	108	330	74	16	31	10	89	326
North Dakota	1	1	1	0	0	0	1	0	0
Ohio	8	10	46	15	1	4	2	2	12
Oklahoma	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0
Oregon	1	1	3	0	1	1	0	0	1
Pennsylvania	3	5	23	19	3	3	0	1	4
Rhode Island	7	8	21	5	3	2	1	6	20
South Dakota	1	1	2	1	0	0	0	0	0
Texas	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Utah	2	2	6	2	3	0	0	4	5
Vermont	0	0	3	0	0	0	0	0	1
Virginia	2	1	3	0	5	3	2	1	3
Washington	3	2	13	0	0	1	0	2	10
Wisconsin	31	49	130	74	28	19	7	25	22
Wyoming	1	0	1	0	0	1	0	1	1
Total	411	475	1,326	532	138	168	40	302	920

[d]The NAP indicates the extent and nature of board participation in the various group insurance plans. The types of health insurance are itemized.

[e]The NAP gives the lengths of extended and sabbatical leaves and indicates whether they are at full or partial pay.

TABLE 1.—NUMBER OF 1970-71 COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS CONTAINING CERTAIN PROVISIONS (Cont'd)

State	Long-term leaves of absence[e] (Cont'd)
	Sick leave bank	Extended sick leave	Holding public office or conducting political campaigns	Exchange teaching—general	Foreign exchange teaching	Domestic exchange teaching	Department of Defense schools	VISTA
1	143	144	145	146	147	148	149	150
Alaska	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Arizona	0	0	2	1	0	0	0	0
Arkansas	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0
California	0	1	2	4	2	0	0	0
Colorado	0	2	4	1	0	1	0	1
Connecticut	0	10	3	15	8	6	1	5
Delaware	0	0	1	1	2	1	0	2
District of Columbia	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Florida	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0
Idaho	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Illinois	2	7	11	13	8	7	5	2
Indiana	0	0	6	8	3	1	0	2
Kansas	0	0	1	1	0	0	0	1
Kentucky	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Maine	1	0	5	3	0	0	0	3
Maryland	0	2	9	5	3	1	0	9
Massachusetts	8	12	28	48	8	3	2	10
Michigan	55	20	117	56	49	39	27	23
Minnesota	0	1	1	1	1	0	0	1
Montana	0	0	1	0	1	0	0	1
Nebraska	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Nevada	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0
New Hampshire	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	2
New Jersey	2	41	12	50	32	21	7	61
New Mexico	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0
New York	12	60	35	74	26	21	13	70
North Dakota	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Ohio	1	1	4	5	5	1	2	0
Oklahoma	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Oregon	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	1
Pennsylvania	0	2	0	0	0	0	0	0
Rhode Island	1	4	2	10	3	2	2	6
South Dakota	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Texas	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0
Utah	0	0	3	0	1	1	1	0
Vermont	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Virginia	0	1	1	1	1	0	0	1
Washington	0	0	2	4	1	0	2	0
Wisconsin	1	2	6	17	4	3	2	1
Wyoming	0	1	1	0	0	0	0	0
Total	84	169	260	320	158	108	64	202

TABLE 1.—NUMBER OF 1970-71 COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS CONTAINING CERTAIN PROVISIONS (Cont'd)

State	Long-term leaves of absence[e] (Cont'd)						Short-term leaves of absence[f]
	Peace Corps	Maternity leave	Military leave	Health (recovery)	Research, study, travel (unpaid)	Public service appoint-	General leave	Sick leave	Bereavement leave	Personal business leave
1	151	152	153	154	155	156	157	158	159	160
Alaska	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	2
Arizona	1	2	2	2	2	0	0	3	2	4
Arkansas	1	1	1	1	0	0	0	1	1	1
California	0	7	5	1	3	0	0	7	6	5
Colorado	2	4	5	3	3	0	1	7	6	7
Connecticut	20	45	32	13	20	1	6	55	47	58
Delaware	2	5	5	1	1	0	0	6	4	4
District of Columbia	0	1	1	0	1	0	0	0	0	0
Florida	0	2	2	1	2	1	1	2	0	0
Idaho	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	1	2
Illinois	10	57	30	22	24	1	3	71	44	58
Indiana	10	14	11	11	12	1	2	18	17	15
Kansas	1	1	1	1	1	0	0	1	1	1
Kentucky	0	1	1	1	1	0	0	1	1	0
Maine	4	10	8	3	6	0	1	16	13	13
Maryland	9	16	12	11	9	1	1	17	14	18
Massachusetts	58	89	77	54	17	6	6	119	109	108
Michigan	122	227	20	146	166	20	13	238	210	233
Minnesota	3	4	5	2	2	0	1	9	8	8
Montana	1	1	1	1	1	0	0	1	0	1
Nebraska	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	2	0	1
Nevada	0	2	1	1	1	0	1	2	2	1
New Hampshire	2	4	0	0	1	0	0	6	4	5
New Jersey	68	150	98	34	36	1	9	180	171	175
New Mexico	1	1	1	0	0	1	0	1	1	1
New York	93	281	146	90	69	16	11	348	292	344
North Dakota	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	1	2	1
Ohio	6	17	13	11	19	1	2	40	18	39
Oklahoma	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Oregon	1	1	1	0	1	1	0	1	1	1
Pennsylvania	0	6	4	0	1	0	2	10	10	20
Rhode Island	13	17	15	7	5	0	3	20	21	17
South Dakota	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	1	1
Texas	0	1	1	0	1	0	0	1	1	1
Utah	0	5	5	3	2	0	1	5	4	5
Vermont	1	1	0	1	0	0	0	2	2	2
Virginia	1	3	3	1	2	0	1	3	1	3
Washington	1	8	5	3	7	1	1	10	11	11
Wisconsin	6	64	41	25	41	2	6	130	98	80
Wyoming	0	1	1	0	1	0	0	1	0	1
Total	437	1,051	554	450	459	54	72	1,339	1,125	1,247

[f]In addition to the four short-term leaves listed here, the NAP contains information concerning 17 other types of short-term leaves (exact length of leave, with or without pay, deducted from other leave or separate), and lists the amount and maximum accumulation of annual leave.

Special Reports

BRIEFS OF RECENT AGREEMENTS

Oakhurst (Ocean Township), New Jersey

Between the Ocean Township Board of Education, Monmouth County, and the Ocean Township Teachers' Association, effective July 1, 1971, to June 30, 1973. Approximately 150 certificated professional employees. Provision for a reopener on salary schedules and fringe benefits with Association submission of its proposals to the board on or before October 15, 1971.

Compensation: (1971-72) B.A., $7,700 to $14,100, 13 increments; B.A. plus 30 hours, $14,700 maximum; M.A., $8,200 to $15,100, 13 increments; M.A. plus 30 hours, $16,100 maximum; Ph.D., $17,100 maximum; separate salary schedule for nurses with degrees ranging from $6,600 to $9,200 in 14 steps; longevity pay (based upon years of service within or outside the district) of $300 after the 14th year of service and $200 after the 17th year of service. Differentials: (1971-72; first year of a five-year schedule) director of athletics, $1,155; head football and basketball coaches, $901 each; head soccer, baseball, wrestling, and track coaches, and equipment manager, $770 each; cross country track, field hockey, girls' track, tennis, and golf coaches, $462 each; senior class advisor, $400; student council advisor, $450; stage crew manager, high-school band director, and play director, $650 each; newspaper and yearbook advisors, $550 each; chess club advisor, $200; elementary chorus and band directors, $500 each; school psychologist, $500. Department chairmen receive $500 to $1,000 according to the years of experience as chairman (a maximum of 5 years' experience outside the district may be counted at the superintendent's discretion), as well as $30 per teacher supervised.

Leaves: 10 days' annual sick leave, unlimited maximum accumulation; extended sick leave at partial pay for absences beyond the accumulated sick leave and up to 60 days; teachers with 10 or more years' district experience will be granted 2 additional sick leave days for each year of district employment after all accumulated sick leave and personal leave have been exhausted; 2 separate days for personal business; 5 separate days' bereavement leave for a death in the immediate family; paid educational leave days will be granted by the superintendent when such leave "will be of direct benefit to the teacher and the school system"; paid leave shall be granted as necessary to meet military reserve obligations with no deduction for any military remuneration received; sabbatical leave at "fifty percent of . . . salary for the time involved" for one semester or one full school year after 7 years' service.

Insurance: Board pays full cost of comprehensive group health insurance plan and major medical insurance plan for family coverage.

Association: Payroll dues deductions for local, county, state, and national Associations; when the parties determine that negotiating sessions shall be scheduled during the school day, Association representatives shall be allowed released time without loss of pay; upon request, an Association representative may speak to teachers for at least 10 minutes at the close of each teachers' meeting; Association shall be allowed one hour of scheduled time during the annual orientation program; teachers may wear the insignia or other identification of Association membership; Association shall select building liaison committees comprised of no more than one member for every 10 building teachers (but not less than 3 members) which shall meet with the principal at least once each month "to review and discuss local school problems and practices, and to be consulted in the revision and development of building policies."

Instruction: All teachers are required to be available for remedial instruction for at least one 45-minute period per week; provision for the June 1, 1971, establishment of a joint 8-member Class Size Study Committee which shall meet regularly, submit a final report with recommendations to the board no later than September 15, 1971, and give "immediate attention" to the capacity of teaching facilities, the appropriateness of each classroom to course content, the availability of equipment for teacher and pupil use, and the necessity for an adequate number of competent specialists; provision for the establishment of an Instructional Council no later than September 1971, which shall be composed of 5 representatives appointed by the superintendent, 7 Association representatives, and 2 board members, is empowered to form specific study committees, and shall advise the board "on such matters as curriculum improvements, teaching techniques, extra- and Co-curricular projects, in-service training, pupil testing and evaluation, [district] philosophy and educational goals . . . , teacher recruitment, research and experimentation, [and] educational specifications for buildings."

Personnel: Grievance procedure ends with Association submission of grievances relating to the contract or its interpretation to final and binding arbitration; teacher may review his personnel file upon written request; duty-free lunch period of no less than 30 minutes for all teachers employed in both the morning and afternoon sessions; provision stating that board "shall strive to make every effort to provide at least one (1) professional period per day or five (5) professional periods per week"; provision stating that teachers "may be required" to remain after school no more than 3 days per month (unless an emergency exists) for the purpose of attending faculty or other professional meetings which shall begin no later than 10 minutes after the pupil dismissal time; all teachers shall be acquainted with evaluative procedures and instruments (including who shall observe and evaluate their performance) within the first 5 weeks of school and shall be evaluated in writing at least twice annually, which evaluation shall be presented to the teacher within 5 school days of the observation and shall be followed by a conference with the observer within 10 school days; professional improvement clause stating that in order to receive any increment or adjustment, a teacher must take a minimum of 2 credit hours or an approved in-service course every 3 years and shall be reimbursed for the entire cost of the required credits provided those credit hours or programs have the prior approval of the superintendent; teachers will be reimbursed for each credit hour over the required minimum at the rate of $25 per approved credit hour, provided said courses or credits have the prior approval of the superintendent and were started after the beginning of the teacher's district service; when applicants for transfers are equally qualified, "seniority in the school system shall control."

State University of New York

Between the Executive Branch of the State of New York and the Senate Professional Association (an NEA affiliate), effective July 1, 1971, to June 30, 1974. Approximately 11,000 faculty members and 4,000 nonteaching professional staff. Provision for a reopener on or after November 1, 1971, "solely to amend this Agreement with respect to changes in employees' basic annual salary as of June 30, 1971, such change, if any, to take effect on July 1, 1972, July 14, 1972, or September 1, 1972, . . . and changes in employees' basic annual salary as of June 30, 1973, such changes, if any, to take effect on July 1, 1973, July 14, 1973, or September 1, 1973."

Compensation: By means of appropriate legislation, the basic annual salaries of incumbents in professional University positions as of June 30, 1971, "shall be increased by 6 percent, adjusted to the next higher whole dollar amount commencing (1) July 1, 1971 for employees having a calendar year professional obligation [defined as a 12-month professional obligation], or (2) September 1, 1971 for those employees having an academic year professional obligation" (defined as all employees other than calendar year employees); present standards with respect to the granting of service increases to employees in unallocated positions are to be continued for the 1971-72 academic year.

Leaves: Full-time employees accrue sick leave at the rate of 1-3/4 days per month during each month of University service or major fraction thereof, 165 days' maximum accumulation; upon the exhaustion of accumulated sick leave credits, additional leave at full pay may be granted by the campus president, provided that such additional leave together with any accumulated leave shall not exceed a total of 6 months; calendar year employees serving on a full-time basis accrue vacation leave at the rate of 1-3/4 days per month during each month of University service or major fraction thereof, 40 days' maximum accumulation; calendar year employees serving on a part-time basis accrue vacation leave on a prorated basis, while academic year employees do not accrue vacation leave credits; in conjunction with a negotiated maternity leave provision, an employee granted such leave may be permitted to reduce the amount of leave without pay by the use of any earned vacation leave credits upon approval by the campus president; provision stating that subject to the approval of the chancellor, leaves of absence at full or reduced salary may be granted an employee for the purpose of professional development, or acceptance of an assignment of limited duration at other institutions, organizations, or agencies; provision stating that in recognition of "the importance of attendance at national and state professional meetings to professional growth and development . . . , departments are encouraged to make funds available for attendance at such meetings"; calendar year employees required to work on any of 11 legally prescribed holidays "shall be granted an equivalent day off to be scheduled at time mutually convenient to the employee and the University"; upon separation, resignation, retirement, a change in the professional obligation from the calendar year to an academic year, or death, an employee eligible to accumulate vacation leave credits shall be paid for those credits to a maximum of 30 days on the basis of his current annual salary.

Insurance: Effective October 1, 1971, and upon the passage of appropriate legislation, all employees eligible to participate in the Statewide Health Insurance Program or covered by the Special Health Insurance Program may elect to participate in the State Dental Insurance Plan at no cost to the employee; in the event improvements are made in the state health or dental insurance plans, such improvements shall be extended to employees covered by this agreement on the date they are extended to other state employees; if an employee dies in the course of service, the state will provide a death benefit to the named beneficiary or the employee's estate of "three times annual salary, not to exceed $20,000, reduced by the value of a death benefit payable under a retirement program from monies attributable to contribution by the State, except that in no event shall any benefit payable pursuant to this article result in a payment greater than the value of the death benefit which would have been payable had the deceased employee been a member of the New York State Employee's Retirement System."

Association: Payroll dues deductions for local Association; employees involved in negotiation or grievance proceedings shall suffer no loss in pay; the local campus Association president and grievance chairman shall, upon request, be granted employee organization leave (defined as leave with pay and without charge to the employee's other leave credits) "for the purpose of implementing provisions of this Agreement"; Association delegates, representative council members, and members of its standing committees shall be granted employee organization leave for 3 delegate meetings per year which shall not exceed one day per meeting; members of the Association's executive committee shall be granted employee organization leave for 8 executive meetings per year; members of Association standing committees shall be granted employee organization leave for 4 meetings per committee per year; the chancellor will furnish the Association with a copy of the advance agenda of each regular meeting of the board of trustees at least 2 weeks prior thereto, and also will furnish the Association with 10 copies of the minutes of each board meeting; provision stating that if legislation is enacted which permits public employers and employee organizations to enter into agency shop arrangements, if the New York Court of Appeals removes legal impediments to the negotiation of such an arrangement, and if "a substantially mixed political subdivision of the State of New York enters into such an agreement, then SPA shall have the right to reopen contract negotiations with the State solely to seek agreement upon an agency shop provision permissible in accordance with law"; provision for the chancellor or his designee to meet with Association representatives twice each semester to discuss university-wide matters of mutual concern, and for the campus president or his designee to meet with Association representatives once each month to discuss local matters of mutual concern.

Personnel: Grievance procedure ends with final and binding arbitration, although disputes relating to termination for cause are not grievable; employee has right to review his personnel file and file written responses to any materials contained therein; retrenchment provision setting forth procedures to be followed in the event of financial or program curtailments (see following provision reprint); provision stating that "no employee shall be transferred to another college within the University without his consent," and that employees "whose services are satisfactory, but whose services are terminated because of change in program, lack of promotional opportunity or otherwise through no fault of their own, and who desire to transfer to other colleges within the University, shall be given special consideration for appointment to appropriate available positions in such other colleges"; provision for the establishment of a joint 8-member committee which shall study "the adequacy of salary schedules for full-time academic employees having academic rank at the colleges of medicine and dentistry at the University Health Sciences Centers," and shall report its findings to the parties' negotiating committees by November 1, 1971; provision for the establishment of a joint 12-member committee to study and make recommendations with respect to a system for the evaluation of professionals, which recommendations shall be reported to the state and the Association executive committee no later than January 15, 1972; any of the foregoing recommendations which are accepted shall be implemented by February 1, 1972, while those which are unacceptable may be the subject of "reopened negotiations, provided that the party wishing such reopened negotiations shall give notice on or before March 1, 1972"; a joint 12-member committee shall study a system for the promotion of professionals and report its recommendations to the state and the Association executive committee no later than February 15, 1972; any of the foregoing recommendations which are accepted shall be implemented by March 15, 1972, while those deemed unacceptable may be the subject of reopened negotiation, provided that the party requesting a reopener give notice on or before April 15, 1972; provision for the establishment of two University Standing Committees on Termination whose members shall be appointed by the chancellor upon the mutual approval of the University and the Association and which shall separately consider termination for cause matters involving (1) persons holding academic rank, and (2) all persons other than those holding academic rank; the termination committees shall, upon the request of the employee involved or at the direction of the chancellor, hold hearings upon a proposed termination and, if the appropriate committee finds the employee innocent of the charges presented against him, the charges shall be dismissed; if the employee against whom the charges have been preferred is found guilty by the appropriate termination committee, the chancellor shall recommend the penalty recommended by the committee or such lesser penalty as is deemed appropriate.

RETRENCHMENT

A. Retrenchment as the result of financial or program curtailment shall be applied in the following manner:

1. Termination of employment of incumbents of positions which are subject to retrenchment shall be made from among incumbents holding the same or similar positions in the unit, department or program, as appropriate.

2. Under normal circumstances, and consistent with the educational mission of the Department or program affected, termination shall first take place as follows:

a. Among the part-time employees in the department or program before full-time employees are terminated.

b. Among full-time employees holding academic rank, such termination shall be made from those holding temporary appointments before the termination of employees holding term appointments, and from those holding term appointments before the termination of employees holding continuing appointments. Such removal shall be made in the inverse order of appointment within each such group.

c. Among full-time professional employees, such termination shall be made in the inverse order of original appointment, provided, however, such removal shall be made from among employees having temporary appointment before the removal of employees having term appointments.

3. The State will notify the persons affected as soon as practicable recognizing that, where circumstances permit, it is desirable to provide the following notice of termination:

a. For those holding a term appointment, at least four (4) months.

b. For those holding a continuing appointment, at least one (1) semester.

4. Persons removed as a result of retrenchment shall be advised of the opportunity for reemployment in the same or a similar position at the college for a period of two years, and must accept such offer within 15 days after such offer, such acceptance to take effect not later than the beginning of the semester immediately following the date such offer was made. The University shall make every effort to place an incumbent so separated within the University, provided that a suitable position for which the person is otherwise qualified, is available for such appointment.

5. The original appointment shall mean the date of first appointment to University service followed by continuous and uninterrupted service with the University up to the time of reduction and abolishment of position. Authorized leave of absence at full salary and reduced salary or without salary shall not be deemed an interruption of service with the University. In the event an incumbent believes such date has been incorrectly determined, he shall so advise the college, and indicate the date he believes to be correct. (State University of New York)

Chester, Pennsylvania

Between the Chester Board of School Directors and the Chester Education Association, effective July 1, 1971, to June 30, 1972. Approximately 600 certificated professional employees. Provision for the negotiation of a successor agreement to begin no later than November 1 of the year preceding the calendar year of expiration.

Compensation: B.A., $7,300 to $12,000, 14 increments; B.A. plus 24 hours, $12,700 maximum; M.A., $7,900 to $12,900, 15 increments;

M.A. plus 45 hours, $13,500 maximum; Ph.D., $13,700 maximum; longevity pay of $100 after the first 10 years' service, and $100 after every 5 years' service thereafter; severance pay of $20 per year of service after 10 years' service when the employee retires effective July 1, 1971. Differentials: high-school head football and basketball coaches, $1,200 each; high-school head soccer, baseball, and track coaches, $775 each; high-school head cross country and tennis coaches, $450; high-school girls' head hockey coach, $450; high-school band director, $725; junior high head football and basketball coaches, $350 each; junior high girls' basketball, hockey, and softball intramurals coaches, $200 each.

Leaves: 10 days' annual sick leave credited at beginning of school year, unlimited maximum accumulation; teachers with accumulated sick leave in another state district may transfer such leave to a maximum of 25 days; 1 separate day of personal leave, 5 days' maximum accumulation; 5 separate days' bereavement leave for a death in the immediate family; 1 separate day of leave for the death of a near relative; up to 1 day of leave for school visitations or attendance at educational conferences; paid leave as necessary for any legal proceedings, provided a copy of the subpoena is submitted with the request for leave; paid leave to a maximum of 30 days for military reserve obligations with no deductions for any military remuneration received; retirement or severance pay of $10 per day of unused accumulated sick leave (excluding all transferred days) after 6 years' district service; sabbatical leave at half-pay for a half or a full school term or 2 half school terms within a 2-year period after at least 10 years' service in the state, at least 5 years of which must have been served in the Chester district.

Insurance: Board-paid Blue Cross-Blue Shield and major medical insurance for individual coverage; board-paid straight life insurance coverage of $10,000 for individual; a teacher who is absent as a result of a service-connected assault or injury shall be entitled to full salary and other benefits for the period of his absence, shall not forfeit any sick or personal leave, and shall be reimbursed for all medical, surgical, and hospital costs incurred.

Association: Payroll dues deduction for local Association; teachers involved in negotiation or grievance proceedings during school hours shall be allowed released time with no loss of pay; when necessary, Association representatives may transact Association business on school time with the knowledge of the principal, within a reasonable amount of time, and with arrangements for class coverage and supervision; teachers may wear the insignia or other identification of Association membership; upon an advance request, building or Association representatives may speak to teachers for at least 10 minutes during teachers' meetings and may request additional time of the principal; up to 3 days' paid leave may be granted to each of 7 Association representatives to attend conventions of the state and national Associations; when the Association president is a secondary teacher, he shall not be assigned more than 4 pupil instruction-supervision periods daily and shall be excused from regular study hall duties and homeroom assignments; when the Association president is an elementary teacher, he cannot be given regular time off, but should not be scheduled for extra-duty assignments; all orientation programs are to be co-sponsored by the board and the Association, with the latter obligated to assume only such costs as are mutually agreed upon during the planning of such programs.

Instruction: Provision stating that while "normally" a teacher will be given no more 3 teaching preparations, "unusual circumstances may dictate a fourth preparation [although] this practice may not be continued regularly with the same teacher"; barring limitations in facilities, secondary teachers "shall not be required to change subject area teaching stations more than three (3) times during the school day"; secondary teachers "shall not normally be required to teach continuously for more than three (3) periods, nor four (4) where double periods are used. When scheduling, limited facilities, and shifts dictate otherwise, continuous teaching beyond the aforementioned shall be rotated within the department"; elementary teachers shall not be required to teach continuously for more than 3 hours in the morning and 2½ hours in the afternoon; department heads shall not be assigned more than 4 pupil instruction-supervision periods daily and shall be excused from regular study hall duties and homeroom assignments; provision stating that the board "hopes to accomplish . . . within the next three (3) years" ultimate class size goals of a maximum of 22-25 pupils per elementary class, and 25-27 pupils per secondary class.

Personnel: Grievance procedure ends with Association submission of grievances to final and binding arbitration; teacher has right to review his personnel file upon reasonable notice and respond in writing to any material therein; duty-free lunch period of 30 minutes for all elementary teachers, although one teacher shall be assigned on a rotating basis to be "on call" in each building; duty-free lunch period of a minimum of 30 minutes for all junior high teachers, while senior high teachers are to take their lunch period on their own time until a new high school is built or the school day is lengthened; elementary teachers are relieved of classroom responsibilities when a specialist is in attendance; provision stating that in the elementary schools "principals shall make every effort through administrative arrangements to attempt to provide a fifteen minute break during the A.M. sessions"; teachers may be required to remain after the end of the regular school day for 4 days each month for the purpose of attending faculty or other professional meetings which shall begin no later than 15 minutes after pupil dismissal time and shall last no longer than 60 minutes; provision for the establishment of a joint, 10-member Evaluation Committee which shall study and recommend specific criteria and procedures for teacher evaluation, and submit its recommendations to the superintendent and the board no later than December 15, 1971, for their review and adoption as an addendum to the current contract and as a substitute for present practices; in accordance with law, all probationary professional employees shall be "notified" at least twice each year "of the professional quality, professional progress, and rating of his or her services."

LONG-TERM LEAVES OF ABSENCE FOR ORGANIZATION WORK

An analysis of the 1,529 comprehensive agreements effective during the 1970-71 school year in systems with a pupil enrollment of 1,000 or more revealed that 332 agreements (21.7 percent) contained provisions for a long-term leave of absence for organization work. These leaves generally are granted for the purpose of allowing teachers to work on a full-time basis for the employee organization, whether on the local, state, regional, or national level. Moreover, there are two basic types of long-term organization leave: one is designed specifically for an elected official of the local organization (usually the president), while the second allows selected teachers to serve the organization in various capacities. Most of the leaves are unpaid and extend for a year or more; conditions affecting the teacher while on leave and upon return from leave vary.

A sample of 76 agreements (23.0 percent) drawn from every state in which a long-term leave for organization work has been negotiated was selected for further analysis. As one of the agreements contained a clause providing for both types of long-term organization leave, the number of provisions analyzed totals 77. Table 1 indicates the major negotiated content areas found in the 77 selected provisions, but it does not distinguish between the two basic types of leave. Categories listed in the table are not mutually exclusive since most provisions contained more than one feature. In addition, the analysis is limited to what appears in written negotiation agreements; no attempt is made to cross-reference the analyzed provisions with other negotiated content which indirectly may affect a leave of absence for organization work. Many of the sample provisions reprinted here represent only the pertinent portions of negotiated articles containing other peripheral and/or unrelated subject matter.

TABLE 1.—LONG-TERM LEAVES OF ABSENCE FOR ORGANIZATION WORK, 77 SELECTED PROVISIONS, 1970-71

General negotiated content	Incidence of designated content
	Number	Percent
1	2	3
TOTAL NUMBER OF AGREEMENTS WITH SELECTED PROVISIONS ANALYZED	76	100.0%
Agreements with provisions relating to personnel other than organization president	63	82.9
Agreements with provisions relating to organization president	12	15.8
Agreements with provisions relating to both	1[a]	1.3
TOTAL NUMBER OF SELECTED PROVISIONS ANALYZED	77	100.0%
Purpose	77	100.0
To engage full time in organization business (local, state, regional, or national) as president or other personnel	57	74.0
To serve full time as organization president	13	16.9
To serve as elected organization officer, executive, or advisor	7	9.1
Leave requirements	34	44.2
Eligibility
Tenure in district	10	13.0
Organization membership	5	6.5
Prior district service of at least two years	2	2.6
Application procedures
Must apply in writing	10	13.0
Must apply by specified date	6	7.8
Leave must be requested by organization president	1	1.3
Selection of candidates	27	35.1
Designated or requested by organization	13	16.9
Decision by school board or superintendent	13	16.9
Joint decision by administrator/teacher committee	1	1.3

TABLE 1.—LONG-TERM LEAVES OF ABSENCE FOR ORGANIZATION WORK, 77 SELECTED PROVISIONS, 1970-71 (Continued)

General negotiated content	Incidence of designated content
	Number	Percent
1	2	3
Number of teachers granted leave per year	26	33.8
One	10	13.0
Two	10	13.0
Three or more	6	7.8
Duration of leave	61	79.2
One year maximum	30	39.0
Two year maximum	21	27.2
One year with possible extension	6	7.8
For organization president's term of office	4	5.2
Salary while on leave	73	94.8
Unpaid	65	84.4
Other personnel	59	76.6
Organization president	6	7.8
Paid	8	10.4
Organization president
Paid by school board	3	3.9
Paid by organization	3	3.9
Shared by school board and organization	1	1.3
Other personnel
Paid by school board	1	1.3
Maintenance of fringe benefits	35	45.5
Sick leave benefits retained but not accumulated	28	36.4
Usual benefits retained if premiums paid by employee or organization	7	9.1
Conditions upon return from leave
Salary	52	67.5
Full salary credit	35	45.4
No salary credit	9	11.7
Undefined	8	10.4
Job status	34	44.2
Assigned same or similar position	30	39.0
No assurance of same position	4	5.2

[a]One provision contained separate long-term leaves for organization work for both the organization president and personnel other than the president. As such, this provision is counted twice when dictated by variations in the conditions attending the two types of leaves. Thus, while the number of agreements analyzed totals 76, the total number of provisions included in the analysis is 77.

Leaves for Teachers Other Than the Organization President

Of the 77 selected provisions, 64 (83.1 percent) provided a long-term leave for organization work for teachers other than the organization president. A majority of these provisions specified that leave would be granted for the purpose of full-time involvement in organization business. Others variously provided leave for teachers serving as elected organization officers, or organization executives or advisors. Three sample provisions are:

A leave of absence of up to one (1) year shall be granted to any teacher, upon application, for the purposes of participating in . . . the Illinois Education Association or the National Education Association as an officer or staff member of the association. (Champaign, Illinois)

* * *

The Committee agrees that up to two (2) teachers designated by the Association will, upon request, be granted a leave of absence for up to two (2) years without pay for the purpose of engaging in Association (state or national) activities. (Danvers, Massachusetts)

* * *

The Committee agrees that up to three (3) teachers designated by the Association may, upon individual request to the School Committee, be granted a leave of absence for up to two (2) years without pay for the purpose of serving as an elected officer in a local, state, or National Education Association. The exercise of this discretion by the School Committee will be reasonable. (Framingham, Massachusetts)

Teachers eligible to apply for a long-term leave of absence for organization work must be tenured in 13.0 percent of the provisions, must be organization members in 6.5 percent of the provisions, and must have prior district service of at least two years in 2.6 percent of the provisions. Application procedures most often consisted of applying for leave in writing and by a specified date.

More than one-third of the 64 pertinent provisions indicated who selects leave candidates, and a majority of these stipulated that the teacher is to be designated by the employee organization. In several provisions, leave candidates are to be selected by the school board or the superintendent; occasional clauses provide for a joint decision by an administrator/teacher committee. A sample provision is:

The Board agrees that up to two (2) teachers designated by the Association may, upon request, be granted a leave of absence without pay for up to one (1) year for the purpose of engaging in activities of the Association or its affiliates. (Fort Kent, Maine)

In addition more than one-third of the 64 provisions specified how many teachers could be granted leave at any given time. Most provided leave for either one or two teachers, while some provisions allowed a long-term leave for organization work for as many as 20 teachers. Leaves ranged in duration from one to five years, although more than two-thirds of the pertinent provisions granted leaves for a maximum of one or two years' duration. Occasional agreements provided leave for one year with a possible extension. One of the lengthier leaves found is contained in the following provision:

Leaves of absence without compensation will be granted for a teacher who is appointed to a full-time position with the Association, except that such leave shall not be extended beyond a total of five years. (Racine, Wisconsin)

Nearly all of the long-term leaves for organization work available to personnel other than the organization president were unpaid. However, more than one-third of the provisions stated that the teacher's accumulated sick leave and other fringe benefits would be retained but not accumulated during his leave. Several other provisions stipulated that such benefits would be retained if the teacher paid the applicable premiums for the term of his leave.

Conditions upon return from leave generally included mention of salary credit (or the lack thereof) and the status of the teacher's future district employment. Approximately one-half of the 64 provisions stated that the teacher would receive full salary credit for the period of his leave in that his salary upon return would be equivalent to that he would have received if actively employed by the district. A number of other provisions included indefinite references to salary credit upon return, or indicated that no salary credit would be given. Less than one-half of the clauses provided that the teacher would be assigned to his former position or a similar one upon return from leave. Two sample provisions are:

Upon the termination of a leave under this Article, the teacher will be restored as soon as practicable to the position which such teacher held at the time he began his leave, or a substantially equivalent position. . . . Failure to be available for assignment at the termination of such leave shall constitute resignation. (Waltham, Massachusetts)

* * *

Upon return from such leave such teachers shall be placed at the same position of the salary schedule as they would have been had they taught in the system during such period. (Jefferson, Michigan)

As noted in Table 1, occasional agreements provide two types of long-term leaves for organization work. One type of leave is granted to personnel other than the organization president (as discussed above), while the second type of leave is designed exclusively for an official of the local organization. A sample provision is:

A leave of absence without pay of up to one (1) year may be granted to any teacher upon application for the purpose of serving as an officer of the National or State Association or on its staff. Upon return from such leave, such teachers shall be placed at the same position on the salary schedule as they would have been had they taught in the system during such period.

The Board will grant a year's leave of absence, without loss of pay, to the President of the Association during his term of office. The Association will pay the salary of the replacement teacher for the President. (This is to be at the option of the Association.) (Salt Lake City, Utah)

Leaves for Organization Presidents

In the 76 agreements analyzed, 13 provisions (16.9 percent) provided long-term leaves of absence for the organization president in order to free him from his teaching duties so that he might devote his full time to organization work. A majority of the clauses granted this leave in the interests of the local organization, although some provisions allow leave for the president's employment with state, regional, or national affiliates of the organization. Procedures for obtaining such leave variously include prior school board approval, a specific request by the organization that the president be granted leave, and/or school board notification of an upcoming leave by a specified date.

More than one-half of the pertinent provisions granted leave for a period of one year, while approximately one-third provided leave for the president's term of office. Some agreements provided for the extension of a one-year leave. Of the seven provisions for paid leave, three indicated that the president's salary would be paid by the school board, three specified that the organization would pay the president's salary, and the remaining provision stated that the school board and the organization would share the cost of the president's salary. In addition, two of the three clauses providing for organization payment of the president's salary stated that the organization would pay the premiums for the president's fringe benefits during his leave.

Nearly one-half of the pertinent provisions indicated that upon return from leave, the president would be granted salary credit as if he had been actively employed by the district. Several other provisions specified that the president would return to the same position he had held prior to his leave.

Text

OREGON

TEACHER BARGAINING STATUTE

ORS 342.450. The Legislative Assembly, recognizing that teaching is a profession, declares that in matters arising between district school boards and certificated school personnel, it is in the best interest of public education in this state to establish a procedure for the orderly, equitable and expeditious resolution of such matters.

As used in ORS 342.450 to 342.470, unless the context requires otherwise:

(1) "Administrator" means a certified staff member who devotes a majority of his employed time to service as a supervisor, principal, vice principal or director.

(2) "Budget calendar" means a chronological list of dates set by the district school board for preparation, presentation, and adoption of the budget.

(3) "Confer, consult and discuss in good faith" means the process whereby a school board, teachers and administrators or such representatives as each may designate, have the mutual obligation to meet and confer in order to exchange freely information, opinions, and proposals, to endeavor to reach agreement on matters described in subsection (1) of ORS 342.460, and to seek to implement agreements reached.

(4) "Factfinding" means investigation of a persistent disagreement by an impartial individual who submits a report to the parties describing the issues involved in the disagreement, and containing recommendations for settlement.

(5) "Mediation" means efforts by an impartial third party to assist in reconciling a dispute between school boards and teachers or administrators regarding matters described in subsection (1) of ORS 342.460.

(6) "Teacher" means any person who holds a position requiring a teacher's certificate as provided in ORS 342.125 who is regularly employed on at least a half-time basis in a school district and who is not an administrator.

ORS 342.460. (1) Teachers and administrators, in separate categories, in a school district, shall have the right to confer, to consult and discuss in good faith with the district school board by which they are employed on matters of salaries and related economic policies affecting professional services, grievance procedures and compensation beyond the normal duties for which the teacher or administrator is employed.

(2) The board may be represented by a committee of its members or may designate a representative. The teachers or administrators may be represented (a) individually in a district employing 10 or fewer teachers or administrators, respectively; (b) by a committee of such teachers or administrators elected by a majority of the teachers or administrators; or (c) by an employee organization elected by a majority of teachers or administrators. In the event an employee organization is elected, the organization shall have the right to elect its representatives. However, nothing in this section is intended to affect the powers and duties of the district school board over matters of salaries and economic policies affecting professional services.

(3) The district school board shall establish election procedures to insure that teachers and administrators shall have the opportunity, not later than 30 days after the first day of school year, to determine by one or more elections conducted by the board or by its designee whether the teachers or administrators shall be represented under ORS 342.450 to 342.470 individually, by a committee of teachers or administrators, or by a particular employee organization. Notwithstanding subsection (7) of this section, all elections must be held within the period specified in this subsection.

(4) Such election may be called at the request of and an organization may be placed on the ballot either (a) by certifying to the district board that an organization has a membership enrollment of at least 40 percent of the teachers or administrators in the district, or (b) by petition containing the signatures of 30 percent of the teachers or administrators of the district. Committees may be placed on the ballot by petition in the same manner. Any other employee organization may intervene and be placed on the ballot by filing a petition signed by 10 percent of the teachers or administrators. If no choice of representation receives a majority, the subsequent ballots shall contain only the two choices receiving the highest and next highest number of votes.

(5) The committee or organization selected to represent the teachers or administrators of the district shall be the exclusive representative of the teachers or administrators for the purposes of this section. However, a petition signed by 30 percent of the teachers or administrators may be filed within 15 days after the first day of school year requesting a new election be held to determine the choice of representation and an election shall be held. In lieu of the petition, any organization not representing the teachers or administrators but having a membership enrollment of at least 40 percent of the teachers or administrators may require an election. However, no such election shall be held until at least one year after election of any choice of representation and such election must be held within the period specified in subsection (3) of this section.

(6) If requested by either party, agreements reached under the provisions of ORS 342.450 to 342.470 shall be completed 25 days prior to the date fixed in the budget calendar for the delivery of the budget message.

(7) District School Boards shall provide a procedure for determining teachers' or administrators' views on issues other than matters described in subsection (1) of ORS 342.460.

ORS 342.470. (1) A school district shall adopt a budget calendar in September of each school year. If 60 days prior to the date programmed in the budget calendar for the delivery of the budget message, teachers or administrators or their representatives meeting with the board under ORS 342.460 have not reached agreement over any matter within the scope of the right granted in ORS 342.460, mediation shall be invoked. The mediator shall be selected by mutual agreement but if there is no agreement within five days, the Superintendent of Public Instruction shall be notified by the board and shall appoint a mediator from a list of qualified persons compiled and published by him and containing names and mediators and factfinders.

(2) if the mediation does not result in agreement within 10 days of the appointment of the mediator, the mediator shall so report and a factfinder shall be appointed by the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

(3) Within 15 days of the time of his appointment, the factfinder shall submit in writing to the board and to the employees' representatives his reports, including a recommendation for a reasonable basis for the settlement of the disagreement.

(4) Consultation may continue during the time that mediation or factfinding is being conducted.

VOL. 5 NO. 4
DEC. 1971

NRD
NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST

CONTENTS

Page

Case Reviews 3
- Right to Arbitration Questioned: Back Pay Award Vacated
- Stay of Arbitration Granted in Two Sabbatical Leave Cases
- Execution of Collective Agreement Renders Strike Dispute Moot
- Court Denies Federal Effort to Enjoin Louisiana Teacher Pay Raises Under Freeze
- School Board's Dismissal of Nontenure Teacher Found Devoid of Anti-union Bias

Board Findings and Rulings 7
- Agency Shop Fee May Include State and National Dues and May Be Retroactive
- No Pant Suit Rule Found Unreasonable and Contrary to Negotiated Management Rights Clause
- Summer School Teachers Share Community of Interest with Regular Teachers
- Chairmen and Other Supervisory Employees Excluded from Teacher Bargaining Unit
- Teachers are Employees (Not Professionals) for Bargaining Purposes, PLRB Says
- NLRB Includes Part-time Faculty and Chairmen in Full-time Faculty Units at Two Universities

Negotiation Notes 13
- Dues Deduction Privileges May Be Granted to Teaching Staff But Withheld from Nonteaching Personnel
- Public Employee and State Employee Bargaining Statutes Amended
- School-Board Committees May Not Discuss Teacher Salaries and Personnel Policies in Secret
- County College Employees Are Not Covered by State Civil Service Regulations
- Taylor Law Amended
- PSEA Affiliate Wins State College Representation Election
- Consumer Price Index, September 1971
- Rules Governing Petitions for National Consultation Rights Are Issued
- Supreme Court Acts Upon Four Public Employee Strike Right Cases
- Declines Review of Supreme Court Exclusive Check-off Grant to Majority Union

Statistics 19
- Negotiation Agreements: Teacher Discipline and Reprimand Provisions

Special Reports 25
- Briefs of Recent Agreements
- State Economic Indicators Publications
- Selected Negotiated Provisions: Retirement, Dismissal, and Resignation

RESEARCH DIVISION
NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

Copyright © 1971 by the
National Education Association
All Rights Reserved

2039

Case Reviews

MASSACHUSETTS

RIGHT TO ARBITRATION QUESTIONED: BACK PAY AWARD VACATED

A lower court's confirmation of a grievance arbitration award issued in an extracurricular pay dispute between the Worcester Education Association and the local school committee was reversed and the award was vacated by the Massachusetts Supreme Court. In a matter complicated by procedural, jurisdictional, and timeliness issues, the high court decided that the language of the parties' negotiated grievance procedure "does not constitute an agreement by the Committee that it will submit any controversy to the [state] board for arbitration."

The parties' 1968-70 grievance procedure stated in part that "the Association may file at the request of the employee an application with the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration for further review [of an unresolved grievance pursuant to specified statutory provisions]. The School Committee reserves the right to insist upon a court determination of the jurisdiction of the arbitrator."

In the instant matter, the parties filed an application with the state board "for arbitration" of the extracurricular pay dispute. The application concluded with the statement that "the parties hereby agree to abide by the decision of the Board in accordance with the law," and was signed by counsel for the Association and the School Committee Chairman.

When the state board determined that the school committee had violated the parties' agreement by not paying grievants the full amount of extracurricular pay contractually due them, the Association sought court confirmation of the award. The trial court dismissed as untimely the committee's motion to vacate the award, and subsequently issued an order confirming the award. It found that the committee had obligated itself to arbitrate the dispute, and ruled that if there was a jurisdictional question (as alleged in the committee's motion to vacate), the committee did not act within statutorily prescribed time limits.

On appeal here, the state supreme court disagreed with those conclusions in finding that the statutory provisions for filing an application for review by the state board nowhere contain the word "arbitration," and do not limit board action to a binding decision. Moreover, the parties' grievance procedure provided that the Association may seek "review" (not arbitration) of a controversy, and that the school committee has a right to insist upon a court determination of the jurisdiction of the reviewing body.

While the school committee consequently is not obligated to submit any controversy to arbitration by the state board, the high court pointed out that it may so obligate itself by properly applying to the board for arbitration. However, the application filed herein did not so obligate the committee because it did not comply with statutory procedures for filing a joint application for arbitration; that is, the committee chairman's signature on the application did not (under statute) bind the committee to arbitration. Thus, the state board did not acquire jurisdiction over the controversy.

With respect to the timeliness of the jurisdictional issue raised by the school committee, the state supreme court found that the question "was seasonably raised." It concluded that the school committee "was under no obligation to arbitrate the controversy unless it agreed to do so, either by some provision of the collective bargaining agreement, or by joining in the application to the board for arbitration." As neither situation occurred here, the state board had no jurisdiction, and its award was unenforceable. (Franklin L. Sheahan, Jr. et al. v. School Committee of Worcester, Massachusetts Supreme Court, June 22, 1971.)

NEW YORK

STAY OF ARBITRATION GRANTED IN TWO SABBATICAL LEAVE CASES

Two separate decisions rendered by the Nassau County Supreme Court granted a stay of arbitration to local school boards in cases involving teachers' alleged rights to sabbatical leave. In both decisions, the court found that the granting or withholding of sabbatical leaves is a policy matter which is discretionary with the school board; therefore, so the leave denials involved herein were not grievable or arbitrable matters.

The court additionally referred to an amended portion of sec. 82 of the state Civil Service Law (Chap. 124, L. 1971) which became effective April 12, 1971, and prohibits sabbatical leaves for the year commencing July 1, 1971. A portion of sec. 82 stipulates that "this section shall not be construed so as to impair any contractual right to a leave of absence or sabbatical leave of absence where such contractual right was in existence and enforceable prior to the effective date of this section." Brief reviews of the two cases follow.

• When UFSD No. 24 (Hempstead) denied a teacher's application for sabbatical leave, the Valley Stream Teachers Association attempted to submit the dispute to advisory arbitration pursuant to the parties' agreement. The court, however, found that the Association had "misconceived both the nature of the advisory arbitration and the Board power with respect to sabbatical leave." It noted the nonmandatory language of the contractual sabbatical leave clause and concluded that "there is no sabbatical leave entitlement . . . only an indication that such leaves 'may be granted' on 'application.' . . . Accordingly, there appears no 'grievance' to be arbitrated in the sense of [a contract] violation or misinterpretation."

Furthermore, the contractual provision for advisory arbitration was inapplicable since the parties' agreement "makes it quite plain that the advisory arbitration procedure is for action below the Board level. The arbitration is advisory to the Board. . . . There is no contractual provision for compelling the Board itself to go to advisory arbitration." (Board of Education of Union Free School District No. 24 of the Town of Hempstead v. Valley Stream Teachers Association, New York Supreme Court, Nassau County, June 30, 1971.)

• In the second case, three teachers alleged that the superintendent of UFSD No. 6 (Babylon) orally had granted them sabbatical leaves on March 30, 1971, and then cancelled those leaves on April 19. The Amityville Teachers Association grieved the cancellations and subsequently filed a demand for arbitration which the district sought to stay in the present proceeding.

Again, the court pointed out that sabbatical leaves are discretionary with the board and ruled on the evidence submitted that the district had not granted the leaves prior to April 12, 1971, or the effective date of the Civil Service Law prohibition against such leaves. Since the board lacked authority to grant leaves after that date, the court held that "a 'grievance' did not exist . . . and there would be no arbitrable grievance or controversy."

In addition, since the parties' agreement provides that all leave requests "will be applied for and granted in writing," the court ruled that the superintendent's alleged oral statements "are an insufficient basis for holding that the Board . . . had in fact granted the leaves on or before March 30, 1971, however much they may reflect on the credibility of the Superintendent in his present denial that any leaves were granted." (Board of Education, Union Free School District No. 6, Town of Babylon v. Amityville Teachers Association, New York Supreme Court, Nassau County, August 10, 1971.)

PENNSYLVANIA

EXECUTION OF COLLECTIVE AGREEMENT RENDERS STRIKE DISPUTE MOOT

As the execution of a collective bargaining agreement resolved a strike controversy between the Scranton Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, Local 1147, and the local school district, the Pennsylvania Supreme Court held that an appeal of a preliminary injunction against the strike was rendered moot.

The controversy between the union and the district began December 21, 1970, when teachers struck in support of wage and contract demands. A trial court issued a preliminary injunction against the strike, but the present appeal of that injunction was dismissed since the parties reached collective agreement on July 15, 1971. (School District of the City of Scranton v. Scranton Federation of Teachers, Local 1147, et al., Pennsylvania Supreme Court, October 12, 1971.)

OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST

COURT DENIES FEDERAL EFFORT TO ENJOIN LOUISIANA TEACHER PAY RAISES UNDER FREEZE

The U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Louisiana denied a Justice Department suit to enjoin payment of $400 raises to Orleans and Jefferson Parish (La.) teachers under the Nixon administration's wage/price freeze. In a one-paragraph order, the court found that "the pay raises for teachers in Orleans Parish and Jefferson Parish sought to be enjoined . . . were in effect prior to and during the 30-day critical period ending August 14, 1971, and . . . therefore the injunction relief sought by the plaintiff United States of America . . . should be and the same is hereby denied."

In 1968, the Louisiana legislature adopted an act providing a $1,600 per year increase for state teachers to be implemented in four stages; the 1971-72 school year was to be the final year of the schedule. Monies providing 75 percent of the raises were appropriated by the legislature in 1970, and funds for implementing the remaining $400 increase were appropriated effective June 28, 1971.

On July 14, 1971, the Jefferson Parish school board adopted its 1971-72 budget and new teacher salary schedules incorporating the legislatively approved $400 increase. Both were made retroactive to July 1 since all parish school boards operate on a July 1 to June 30 fiscal year. When the Jefferson board paid that increase in September, the Justice Department filed a complaint asking the federal district court to restrain the board "from making wage and salary payments to teachers . . . in excess of wages and salaries paid to such teachers during the 30-day period" prior to August 14, 1971, which is the critical base period used in determining the highest wages and salaries payable under the freeze.

Meanwhile, the Orleans Parish school board adopted its 1971-72 budget and new teacher salary schedules on July 26, 1971, and made both retroactive to July 1. When local teachers subsequently were denied their increases under the new salary scale, they filed suit in the Civil District Court for the Parish of Orleans. That court found that Orleans Parish teachers are normally paid one-tenth of their annual salary, every four weeks for forty weeks, commencing four weeks after the opening of schools. Thus, they are paid one-tenth of their annual salary for working one-thirteenth of a year so that each check includes 10/130 for the work actually performed and 3/130 for their vacation time, which vacation time is conditioned upon their working 200 days or forty 5-day work weeks.

Noting that teachers are under continuing employment arrangements until formally severed and that funds for implementing the legislatively enacted increases were effective well before the freeze, the court found that teacher salaries adopted by the Orleans Parish school board on July 26 and made effective July 1, "were actually in effect during the [30-day] base period and are based upon a substantial number of actual transactions for services of a like or similar nature," as required by the freeze. It consequently prohibited and enjoined the Orleans Parish school board from paying teachers any salaries other than those contained in the new schedule since as of July 26, 1971, teachers employed by the Orleans Parish School Board had an enforceable right to the salary set forth in the schedule adopted by the Board on July 26 and the Board had an obligation to pay said salaries, even though the teachers' right was contingent on their reporting for duty on a specified date, and working a specified number of days during the fiscal year July 1, 1971 - June 30, 1972; and, [t]he teachers employed by the Orleans Parish School Board actually accrued earnings (at the new rate) for the fiscal year July 1, 1971 - June 30, 1972, which covered a period prior to August 15, 1971 [the effective date of the freeze].

The Justice Department subsequently moved to add the Orleans Parish board to its original suit against the Jefferson Parish board and asked that both districts be enjoined from paying teachers the legislatively approved $400 raise. In denying that motion, the federal district court noted conflicts and inconsistencies in regulations and guidelines issued by the Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) and the Cost of Living Council under the freeze. It relied upon Economic Stabilization Regulation No. 1 (the only OEP regulation promulgated to date) in reaching the conclusion that "the disputed pay raises became operative on July 1, 1971 and were in fact in effect as of that date. Since the raises were in effect prior to and during the 30-day base period ending August 14, 1971, those raises are not prohibited by the Executive Order."

The U.S. district court also commented upon the meaning of the phrase "substantial number of actual transactions" as a determinative factor for computing a remunerative based figure for purposes of construing the Order. . . . The Government argued in its brief that it is "patently clear" that this term was meant to apply almost exclusively to prices and is not applicable to teachers' pay raises. The Government's view was opposed by the argument that the concept of substantial transactions was in fact relevant, in that over 10% of the school board employees in each parish were actually working before August 15 at the higher rate, and that since a significant percentage of employees were actually working, the test of "substantial transactions" applied in such a way as to validate the salary increases.

Though unwilling to confine the "substantial number of actual transactions" test to prices alone, the Court holds that standard to be inapplicable herein. It is the Court's opinion that the test of substantial transactions applies in instances in which varying rates of compensation were paid or received during the critical period. However, the test of substantial transactions has no application where an increased and proportionately equal salary schedule was already in effect prior to and during the base period. Although "substantial transactions" certainly is applicable to the case of a merchant who sells articles at varying prices, that yardstick is not applicable to the case of teacher employees who receive by legislative mandate an equal and fixed percentage pay raise effective prior to the critical base period.

(Cheryl Ann Epling, et al. v. James E. Dean, Jr., et al. consolidated with Marilyn Pierre, et al. v.

Harold Porter, et al., Civil District Court for the Parish of Orleans, October 1, 1971; United States of America v. Jefferson Parish School Board, U.S. District Court, Eastern District of Louisiana, October 8, 1971.)

NOTE: The National Education Association, joined by 36 of its state associations, seven local associations, and the Florida education commissioner, filed suit on September 24 against the Cost of Living Council, its members, and the Office of Emergency Preparedness in an effort to enjoin defendants from taking any legal action which would prevent the payment of teacher salary increases under the wage/price freeze. The action was entered in the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia and is due to be heard November 12. It asks the court to > adjudge and declare that defendants have acted arbitrarily in issuing vague, inconsistent and contradictory rulings, interpretations and policy statements with respect to teacher salary increases; that defendants have failed to provide fair warning of the circumstances in which the payment or receipt of teacher salary increases, or the request therefore, is unlawful; and that any enforcement of the Economic Stabilization Act of 1970, Executive Order 11615 or ES Reg. No. 1 against plaintiffs in these circumstances would constitute a deprivation of their rights under the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

SCHOOL BOARD'S DISMISSAL OF NONTENURE TEACHER FOUND DEVOID OF ANTI-UNION BIAS

The U.S. Court of Appeals, Seventh Circuit, affirmed a federal district court's dismissal (NRD, 4-71, 7) of a suit brought by a probationary high-school teacher who was denied tenure by the Griffith (Ind.) school board. Plaintiff, an active member of the Griffith Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, Local 761, argued that his dismissal was in retribution for his union activities. But the appellate court found that the board's action was proper, because the record contained substantial evidence of plaintiff's improper classroom behavior, unprofessional attitude, and inappropriate actions and activities.

Citing Pickering v. Board of Education, the appeals court recognized, "as did the District Court, that the decision of a school board not to renew a teacher's contract is impermissible if it deprives a teacher of his constitutionally protected rights." But, pointing out that the board had given other active union members tenure and had even promoted some members, the appellate court ruled that "the decision of the defendants in refusing tenure status to the plaintiff was based on a nonprejudicial appraisal of his performance as an educator [and] no evidence or finding supports plaintiff's contention of anti-union bias by the defendants." (Thomas C. Knarr, et al. v. The Board of School Trustees of Griffith, Indiana, U.S. Court of Appeals, Seventh Circuit, October 4, 1971.)

Board Findings and Rulings

MICHIGAN

AGENCY SHOP FEE MAY INCLUDE STATE AND NATIONAL DUES AND MAY BE RETROACTIVE

Reaffirming prior decisions which held that "an agency shop provision is a mandatory subject of bargaining in the public sector" (NRD, 5-70, 4, 9), the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) dismissed an unfair labor practice charge brought by a teacher against the Swartz Creek Community Schools for enforcement of an agency shop provision negotiated with the Swartz Creek Teachers Association. The MERC adopted a trial examiner's recommended order and reiterated its stance that termination of employment for failure to pay a required agency shop fee is proper and subject exclusively to MERC jurisdiction.

The MERC additionally held that it is not illegal to require in an agency shop provision that nonmembers pay an amount equivalent to Association members' annual dues, even though part of those dues are sent to the parent state and national associations. It noted that the $80 dues (and agency shop fees) are payable to the Swartz Creek Teachers Association, that local Association members are required to join the state and national associations as well, and that the distribution of funds to the state and national associations is made by the local association.

It cited NLRB v. General Motors Corporation in which the Supreme Court of the U.S. held that "under agency shop provisions, continued employment would be conditioned on payment of sums equal to the initial fee and the regular monthly dues paid by the union members. It further held that the agency shop arrangement places the option of membership on the employee, while still requiring the employee to contribute the same monetary support as would be required under a union shop."

Concluding that such a procedure "is indicative of the common practice that most unions follow" and that a similar arrangement with respect to the disbursement of Swartz Creek Teachers Association dues is not illegal under the PERA, the MERC commented that

> It is virtually impossible to be able to separate the portion of dues which are spent for collective bargaining purposes. Both the National Education Association and the Michigan Education Association provide a large variety of services to local units as the needs arise. The payment of all dues eventually relate to collective bargaining, as was held by the U.S. Supreme Court in Retail Clerks International Association, Local 1625, AFL-CIO, et al. v. Schermerhorn, et al.

Finally, the MERC determined that an agency shop clause may be given retroactive effect since the Swartz Creek agreement was made retroactive in its entirety, and the contract benefits applied equally and retroactively to all unit members. (In Re Swartz Creek Community Schools, et al. and Kathryn Jackson and Swartz Creek Teachers Association and Michigan Association of School Boards, Michigan Employment Relations Commission, July 29, 1971.)

NO PANT SUIT RULE FOUND UNREASONABLE AND CONTRARY TO NEGOTIATED MANAGEMENT RIGHTS CLAUSE

A rule promulgated by the Kingsley education board which prohibited women teachers from wearing pant suits was ruled contrary to a negotiated management rights clause and an individual's constitutional right to freedom of expression. Finding the rule unreasonable because "standards of behavior and modes of dress have so changed that pant suits are now acceptable attire for women teachers," the arbitrator additionally observed that courts have established the principle that individual liberties may be restricted only upon a showing that an individual mode of expression interferes with the educational process.

In thus upholding a grievance entered by the Kingsley Education Association on behalf of two women teachers who were told by an elementary-school principal that pant suits were unacceptable classroom attire, the arbitrator commented upon the pros and cons of such garb:

> A pant suit within the context of this arbitration is a tailored garment which is the counterpart of a man's business suit. The top of the suit must cover the hips, and the top and bottom must match or be coordinated. A pant suit is not slacks and a sweater or blouse. It does not include the type of garment with trousers, worn by women at evening parties as a substitute for a formal gown, some of which exhibit characteristics of pajamas.

The thrust of the school district argument is that a pant suit worn by a teacher damages her "image." Teachers should, the board urges, wear clothes which are above the average of those worn by ordinary citizens. This standard may be correct. But no evidence was offered by the board to support the view that properly tailored pant suits may not be "above the average . . . worn by ordinary citizens." There is no distinction between dresses and pant suits with respect to their being above or below the average worn by citizens, generally. Dresses vis-a-vis pant suits has nothing to do with the comparison of the type of clothes worn by teachers and others in the community.

The arbitrator also quoted a statement of a former chief justice of the Michigan Supreme Court which found "nothing inappropriate about trouser suits for women lawyers appearing in the Supreme Court, or any other court in the state." He observed that "women's garb appropriate for the Michigan courts should be equally suitable in the schools," and referred to several elementary teachers' testimony that many education activities "could be performed more effectively in pant suits than in skirts." Furthermore, he pointed out that "a number of the problems which are eliminated by pant suits appear to result from the miniskirt, a form of female garb to which the school administration and board apparently have no objections."

Determining that the school board's pant suit rule was unreasonable, the arbitrator found it "unnecessary to decide whether the constitutional issue should be applied in Kingsley School District" in view of Art. V, sec. B, of the parties' contract. That clause states that "the board retains the right to establish and equitably enforce, reasonable rules and personnel policies relating to duties and responsibilities of the teacher and the working conditions which are not inconsistent with this agreement or in violation of law."

As the board essentially argued that the Association grievance "was a direct attack on the board's right to govern any kind of dress," the arbitrator concluded that "this concept is directly contrary to Section B of Article V . . . [and] is also contrary to the constitutional rule enunciated by several federal courts." (School District of Kingsley and Kingsley Education Association, June 4, 1971.)

NEW YORK

SUMMER SCHOOL TEACHERS SHARE COMMUNITY OF INTEREST WITH REGULAR TEACHERS

Three decisions on the representation of summer school teachers employed in school districts in the towns of Hempstead and North Hempstead have been rendered by the New York Public Employment Relations Board (PERB). While the circumstances attending the certification petitions filed by three teachers organizations vary somewhat, the PERB decisions indicate that summer school teachers are entitled to representation where they have a sufficient continuity of employment, and will be included in a unit of regular full-time teachers where they have a sufficient community of interest with such teachers. However, summer school teachers will not be accreted to an existing regular teacher unit where the existing unit enjoys unchallenged representation status pursuant to statute. Brief reviews of the three cases follow.

• Upon a petition filed by the Great Neck Teachers Association for certification as exclusive representative of all summer school teachers employed by the Great Neck education board, UFSD No. 7 (North Hempstead), the PERB found a sufficient continuity of employment to warrant their inclusion in a negotiating unit. It noted that the district had conducted a continuous summer school program since 1962, that teachers who previously had participated in the program are given first preference in hiring, and that some 65 percent of the summer school staff "are returnees from the immediately preceding summer."

But the PERB reversed its acting representation director's recommendation that a separate unit for summer school teachers be established in finding "the most appropriate unit to be a joint unit comprised of both the existing regular teacher unit and the summer school teachers."

In establishing the community of interest between summer school staff and regular teachers, the PERB noted that the duties of the two "are more similar than dissimilar," that all are certified and use the same facilities and materials, and that summer school compensation is based upon the rate of compensation paid regular teachers. "Most importantly," according to the PERB, is the fact that over 85% of the summer school teachers are also regular Great Neck teachers and already members of the unit. This overlap insures that no conflict of interest will take place between the two groups. Additionally, the preference given by the employer to Great Neck teachers in hiring for the summer school makes it in the interest of all Great Neck teachers to protect the rights of the minority group since any of them, potentially, could be in that group. . . . Consideration of the second criterion of CSL § 207.1, competence of the officials at the level of the unit, also leads to the conclusion that a single amalgamated unit is most appropriate. The employer for both the summer school teachers and the regular teachers is the Board of Education. In both cases the official with whom they deal is the Superintendent of Schools and in both cases the chain of command during any negotiations would be the same.

Finally, as to the third statutory criterion, the compatability of the unit with the joint responsibilities of the employer and the employees, Helsby v. Board of Education of the City School District of the City of Poughkeepsie . . . makes it clear that a combined unit is preferable. In that case the judge pointed out that having a unit of just summer school teachers would compress the formation of the employee organization, its recognition or certification, and negotiations into the brief period of the six-week summer school session. . . . This would not occur in the larger unit, where summer school conditions would be negotiated—contingent upon there being a summer school—when the regular contract would be negotiated. This creates no greater burden than is normally placed on the parties in the collective negotiating situation.

While concluding that the appropriate unit should contain both regular teachers and summer school teachers, the PERB was constrained from ordering accretion of the summer school teachers to the existing regular teachers' unit by the existing unit's statutory period of unchallenged representation. Therefore, it had no alternative but to dismiss the Association's petition, with the opinion that "after the expiration of the period of unchallenged representation, representation should be on the basis of the combined unit." (In Re Great Neck Board of Education, Union Free School District No. 7, Town of North Hempstead and Great Neck Teachers Association, New York Public Employment Relations Board, March 8, 1971.)

• Faced with a similar situation in a matter involving summer school employees of Central High School District No. 2 (Hempstead and North Hempstead), the PERB's representation director dismissed a certification petition filed by the Sewanhaka Federation of Teachers owing to the period of unchallenged representation enjoyed by the existing unit of year-round teachers.

Again, summer school teachers were found to have a sufficient continuity of employment to be eligible for representation. Moreover, the summer school program "involves substantially the same teachers (75 to 91 percent) as those in the year-round program," thus indicating "an obvious community if not identity of interest between the summer school and year-round staff." Referring to the PERB decision above, the representation director concluded that the summer school employees should be included in the basic year-round unit after the expiration of the existing unit's unchallenged representation status. (In Re Central High School District No. 2 of the Towns of Hempstead and North Hempstead and Sewanhaka Federation of Teachers, New York Public Employment Relations Board, April 5, 1971.)

• The third case represents a departure from the previous two in that summer school teachers employed in a cooperative summer school program alternately administered by two school districts were found to be "casual employees who do not have a sufficient continuity of employment with the same employer to warrant mandated representation rights." In so ruling, the PERB's representation director dismissed a petition filed by the Mineola Teachers Association for certification as exclusive representative of summer school teachers employed by UFSD No. 9 and UFSD No. 10 (both North Hempstead).

While the Association contended that the two districts are joint employers of summer school teachers, the representation director found that in the past five years, the two districts in alternate years, have sponsored and been responsible for the functioning of the summer school. The Board of Education of the sponsoring school district . . . annually determines that a summer school program will be offered, appropriates the necessary funding, develops curriculum, provides books and materials, permits the use of its year-round school building and other facilities, hires the teaching staff, and controls the day-to-day activities of the summer school. . . . Both [districts] grant a preference in hiring to those teachers who have rendered prior satisfactory service in the summer school program. The next preference, if additional staffing is required, is given to year-round teachers of [the districts], and then to teachers from other districts. . . . Summer school teachers are all paid the same salary and, apart from a pension contribution, receive no fringe benefits.

Referring to one PERB case in which a joint employer relationship was found to exist, the PERB director noted that there "one of the employers had sole and exclusive control of the wages to be paid to the employees at issue, whereas the other employer concurrently controlled the day-to-day work activities of the employees." He determined that such a situation "clearly" is not true here since there is only one entity . . . which each year exclusively determines all the terms and conditions of employment of summer school teachers. . . . For there to be a joint employer relationship, the entities involved must have simultaneous responsibility regarding terms and conditions of employment of the employees.

Given the lack of a joint employment relationship, the director concluded that although seasonal employees who continually work for the same employer each summer are clearly "public employees" entitled to the benefits of the Act, such is not the situation in the instant case. Here we are dealing with employees who have an on-going relationship with their employer only during alternate summers; . . . . Their summer school relationship with both of these employers is, accordingly, a highly tenuous one. Thus, . . . I find that these summer school teachers are casual employees [ineligible for representation rights].

(In Re UFSD No. 9, Town of North Hempstead, and UFSD No. 10, Town of North Hempstead, and Mineola Teachers Association, New York Public Employment Relations Board, April 8, 1971.)

PENNSYLVANIA

CHAIRMEN AND OTHER SUPERVISORY EMPLOYEES EXCLUDED FROM TEACHER BARGAINING UNIT

The Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board (PLRB) determined that part-time Title I teachers and a social worker should be included in an appropriate unit of North Hills district teachers and other employees. But it excluded department chairmen, secondary and elementary chairmen, district coordinators, the director of cafeterias, and the home and school visitor from the unit on grounds that they have supervisory responsibilities. As the North Hills Education Association (NHEA) had proved that a majority of unit employees desired NHEA representation and no other organization had entered a similar claim, the PLRB certified the NHEA as exclusive representative of the unit.

According to the PLRB, the fact that Title I teachers are part-time, are paid by federal funds and employed according to their availability, and do not work under contract does not defeat their inclusion in the unit. It emphasized the great difference between substitute teachers and regular part-time personnel, and pointed out that Title I teachers receive compensation based upon the salaries of other unit employees.

The district social worker also was included in the unit, despite the employer's contention that she has access to "confidential" information. Relying upon interpretations of the term "confidential employee" as used in the National Labor Relations Act, the PLRB held that only those employees who encounter confidential labor-management relations information used by the employer should be denied representation.

In excluding department chairmen, secondary and elementary chairmen, and district coordinators from the unit, the PLRB found that while their primary function is teaching, they perform recognized supervisory functions, must meet certain degree and experience qualifications, and receive added compensation for the extra duties they perform. Such supervisory duties include recommending curriculum, textbooks, and employee selection and retention, according to the PLRB.

The director of cafeterias (whom the NHEA acknowledged to be a supervisor) and the home and school visitor (who also serves as director of transportation) were excluded from the unit on supervisory grounds. While both individuals supervise a class of employees which would not be included in the teacher unit, the PLRB noted that the state's bargaining statute excludes supervisors from the statute's coverage without reference to the type of employee supervised. It concluded that > supervisory exclusion is based upon the premise that the nature of supervisory duties requires that a supervisor associate himself with the interests of management. This association comes from the fact that the supervisors are at least expected to enforce, if not participate, in the making of management policy, and such an association would be expected to exist regardless of the type of employees supervised.

(In Re Employees of the North Hills School District, Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board, July 21, 1971.)

TEACHERS ARE EMPLOYEES (NOT PROFESSIONALS) FOR BARGAINING PURPOSES, PLRB SAYS

Acting upon an unfair labor practice charge filed by the State College Area Education Association against the local school board, the Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board (PLRB) pointed out that while teachers are professionals, they are employees under the state's public employee bargaining statute (Act 195). It noted the Act's repeated references to "public employee" and held that the statutory definition of professional employee is applicable "solely" to a distinction between professional and nonprofessional employees "in the determination of the kinds of employes composing an appropriate unit in accordance with . . . the Act."

In dismissing the Association's charge, which was based upon the State College Area School District's refusal to bargain enumerated items, the PLRB discussed portions of the Act setting forth the parties' bargaining obligations and the scope of negotiable items. Sec. 701 of the Act states in part that collective bargaining "is the performance of the mutual obligation of the public employer and the representative of the public employes to meet at reasonable times and confer in good faith with respect to wages, hours and other terms and conditions of employment."

Sec. 702 then provides that > public employers shall not be required to bargain over matters of inherent managerial policy, which shall include but shall not be limited to such areas of discretion or policy as the functions and programs of the public employer, standards of services, its overall budget, utilization of technology, the organizational structure and selection and direction of personnel. Public employers, however, shall be requried to meet and discuss on policy matters affecting wages, hours and terms and conditions of employment as well as the impact thereon upon request by public employe representatives.

Noting the "broad discretionary powers" given school authorities in exercising their policy-making functions, the PLRB held that a school board is not required by the Act "to bargain over matters which are the responsibility and perogative [sic] of management, but is required to 'meet and discuss' policy matters affecting wages, hours and terms and conditions of employment as well as the impact thereon upon request of employes representatives." Since the items enumerated in the Association's charge were found by the PLRB to be nonnegotiable "maters of inherent managerial policy" and the Association refused to consider them on a "meet and discuss" basis, the charge was dismissed. (The Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board v. State College Area School District Board of School Directors, Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board, October 14, 1971.)

NOTE: Exceptions to the PLRB's decision have been filed by the Association and are due to be heard in mid-November. The Association reportedly will seek court review of the decision if PLRB action on its exceptions is unfavorable.

OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST

NLRB INCLUDES PART-TIME FACULTY AND CHAIRMEN IN FULL-TIME FACULTY UNITS AT TWO UNIVERSITIES

Two recent decisions of the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) determined appropriate faculty bargaining units at the University of Detroit and Fordham University, and directed a representation election at the latter institution. In both cases, part-time faculty and department chairmen were included in a unit of full-time faculty, although a separate unit of law school faculty was deemed appropriate at Fordham University. Summaries of the two decisions follow.

• Upon petitions by the Fordham University chapter of the American Association of University Professors and the Law School Bargaining Committee, the NLRB determined two separate, appropriate bargaining units—one comprised of some 480 full-time and 235 part-time faculty members outside the law school, and the other of 21 full-time and 10 part-time law school faculty. All parties had agreed to exclude the university's more than 150 graduate assistants and teaching fellows from any bargaining unit.

While the university contended that all faculty members (except instructors) are supervisors, the NLRB ruled to the contrary in finding it clear that the faculty exercises its role in policy determination only as a group. . . . In our view, the presence of faculty members in the Faculty Senate and on a number of university-wide committees does not require a different result, even assuming that such bodies have power effectively to recommend major policy decisions. The faculty members serving on these committees are elected by other faculty members to represent the faculty as a whole, and no one faculty representative can make the policy decisions in question. The role played by these representatives in governing the University is thus one of participation in a group determination and does not make them individually supervisors. Similarly, the selection of graduate assistants and teaching fellows and the renewal of their assistantships or fellowships are determined collectively by each department. While many assistants work under particular faculty members, the faculty member in such cases . . . is simply exercising the same kind of supervision over the assistant that he would exercise over any graduate student working toward his degree. . . . It seems clear, therefore, that the relationship between a faculty member and his graduate assistant is basically a teacher-student relationship which does not make the faculty member a supervisor.

Finally, individuals hired by faculty members directing research grants are not employees of the Employer. Therefore, even if such faculty members are supervisors with respect to these individuals, they are not supervisors in their relationship to the Employer. For these reasons, we find that the faculty members are not supervisors, and are professional employees within the meaning of Section 2(12) of the Act, and are entitled to all the benefits of collective bargaining if they so desire.

The university additionally contended that all department or division chairmen and assistant chairmen are supervisors ineligible for representation. But, in reviewing the duties, authority, and employment conditions of department chairmen, the NLRB found that decisions as to appointment, promotion, and tenure are in fact made not by the chairman alone, but by the faculty of the department, acting as a group. To the extent that the chairman's recommendations concerning these matters are given more weight than those of other faculty members, this fact appears to reflect the chairman's superior knowledge and experience, and does not indicate possession of the type of authority contemplated in the statutory definition of a supervisor. The Chairman does not direct the work of faculty members. While the chairman prepares the budget for this department, he does so only with the advice and consent of the faculty members. His recommendations as to salaries are subject to review at three levels of administrative authority, and his views are not always followed. We cannot, therefore, find that the chairman has power effectively to recommend salary increases. While the chairman exercises some direction over his secretary and plays some part in the selection, it does not appear that he has statutory authority over that employee. . . . Thus, the record does not indicate that a chairman makes the final selection for hiring, or has authority to discharge a secretary or effectively to recommend discharge. . . . In addition, it is significant that the department chairmen consider themselves, and are considered by faculty members, to be representatives of the faculty rather than of the administration. There is some indication that the University views them similarly. . . . Accordingly, we find that the department chairmen are not supervisors and shall include them in the unit.

Assistant chairmen likewise were included in the unit since there was no evidence that they possess any supervisory authority. With respect to the inclusion of part-time faculty, the NLRB cited its New Haven decision, wherein it was decided that "regular part-time faculty members must be included in the same unit as the full-time faculty, absent agreement of the parties to exclude them." As the facts of this case paralleled those of New Haven, the NLRB included part-time faculty in both units found appropriate herein with the stipulation that "if the parties cannot reach agreement as to the regularity of employment of any individual part-time faculty members, such individuals may vote subject to challenge."

Two other groups of employees permitted to vote subject to challenge were professional librarians (whose supervisory status in some cases was unclear) and ancillary support professionals such as counselors, employees in the admissions and placement office, and laboratory technicians (whose status as professional employees could not be ascertained from the record). Finally, the NLRB also included some 70 full-time faculty members who are Jesuits in the unit since there was "no evidence that membership in the Order is in any way inconsistent with collective bargaining with respect to a Jesuit's salary or other terms and conditions of employment."

In determining that university law school faculty should constitute a separate appropriate unit for bargaining purposes, the NLRB explained that such faculty constitute > an identifiable group of employees whose separate community of interests is not irrevocably submerged in the broader community of interest which they share with other faculty members. Members of the law school faculty have specialized training, work in a separate building under their own supervisor (the dean of the law school), and, acting as a group, have a voice, separate from that of the faculty of the remainder of the University, in determining their working conditions. There is little or no interchange between them and other faculty members. As a result of its separate calendar, the law school is open for brief periods while other parts of the University are shut down, and vice versa. . . . On this record, we cannot conclude that the operation of the law school is so highly integrated with that of the remainder of the University as to compel a finding that an overall unit alone is appropriate. Finally, we note that there is no bargaining history on a broader basis and that no labor organization seeks to include the law school faculty in a broader bargaining unit.

(Fordham University and American Association of University Professors, Fordham University Chapter; Fordham University and Law School Bargaining Committee, National Labor Relations Board, made public September 19, 1971.)

• Referring again to its New Haven decision, the NLRB included part-time University of Detroit faculty in a unit of full-time faculty since the former were found to be professional employees having a substantial community of interest with the latter. Department chairmen also were included in the unit because there was no evidence of supervisory authority in their recommendations regarding the appointment, promotion, tenure, or discharge of other faculty members. Moreover, chairmen usually receive no additional compensation, and the university apparently regards them as faculty members rather than administrators. (University of Detroit and University of Detroit Chapter, American Association of University Professors, National Labor Relations Board, October 6, 1971.)

Negotiation Notes

ARIZONA

DUES DEDUCTION PRIVILEGES MAY BE GRANTED TO TEACHING STAFF BUT WITHHELD FROM NONTEACHING PERSONNEL

In upholding a trial court's ruling, the Arizona Court of Appeals decided that Alhambra Elementary School District No. 63 legally could grant dues deductions privileges to district teaching employees while withholding such privileges from nonteaching personnel. It emphasized, however, that "this opinion deals with the respective rights and privileges between employees of the school district and does not deal with discrimination as between unions representing either teachers or nonteachers."

The court's decision was based upon a determination that the state and federal constitutions require only that all individuals in a certain class be treated equally, and that the classification itself be reasonable. One test of reasonableness is whether there are substantial differences between those individuals within and outside a given class. While Alhambra district teaching and nonteaching personnel all are district employees and their terms and conditions of employment are a matter of contract, the court found that there does exist a "valid reasonable classification" between the two classes of employees "for the purpose of allowing the school district to contract on different terms of employment between these groups." it explained:

To make clear that insofar as teachers are concerned, they occupy a unique status in the public education of our youth, we need only point out that the very existence and purpose of a school district depends upon the employment of qualified and dedicated teachers together with the necessity to compete with other school districts for such personnel. Therefore, the classification of teachers vis-a-vis nonteachers for purposes of employment and inducements for employment has long been recognized.

One of the inducements which in our opinion could be held out to teachers and withheld from nonteachers, is the privilege of payroll deductions.

We therefore hold, that in the first instance, the board of trustees could, by contracts of employment, legally grant as a condition of employment, the right to teachers to have payroll deductions for whatever purposes they may desire and could legally, by contracts of employment, withhold this same privilege from nonteachers as a condition of employment. The fact, as far as appears of record, that the privilege of payroll deductions was not a matter of contract between the teachers and the school district is not material. If, as we have held, the classification is reasonable for contract purposes, we see no reason why that classification should become unreasonable when voluntarily applied without a contract.

HAWAII

PUBLIC EMPLOYEE AND STATE EMPLOYEE BARGAINING STATUTES AMENDED

An amendment to the Hawaii public employee bargaining statute permits employee participation in the collective bargaining process during regular working hours without loss of pay. The amendment, which became effective June 22, 1971, was enacted by H.B. 124, L. 1971, and has been incorporated in the statute as subsection (c) of sec. 8:

Employee participation in the collective bargaining process conducted by the exclusive representative of the appropriate bargaining unit shall be permitted during regular working hours without loss of regular salary or wages. The number of participants from each bargaining unit with over 2,500 members shall be limited to one member for each 500 members of the bargaining unit. For bargaining units with less than 2,500 members, there shall be at least 5 participants, one of whom shall reside in each county; provided that there need not be a participant residing in each county for the bargaining unit established by [sec. 6(a)(8), which relates to an appropriate unit comprised of personnel of the University of Hawaii and the community college system, other than faculty]. The bargaining unit shall select the participants from representative departments, divisions or sections to minimize interference with the normal operations and services of the departments, divisions or sections.

The Hawaii Employment Relations Act (which covers state employees) also has been amended to extend the definition of "labor dispute." That amendment was enacted by S.B. 822, L. 1971, became effective May 24, 1971, and reads as follows:

Sec. 90-2(h) "Labor dispute" includes any controversy concerning terms, tenure or conditions of employment, or concerning the association or representation of persons in negotiating, fixing, maintaining, changing, or seeking to arrange terms or conditions of employment, regardless of whether the disputants stand in the proximate relation of employer and employee.

IOWA

SCHOOL-BOARD COMMITTEES MAY NOT DISCUSS TEACHER SALARIES AND PERSONNEL POLICIES IN SECRET

In interpreting portions of Iowa's 1967 open meeting law, the state attorney general advised the state superintendent of public instruction that school-board committees may not hold secret meetings to discuss teachers' salaries and the development of general personnel policies, nor may they regularly hold secret meetings for any reason.

The attorney general found that "committees of the board are squarely within the statute," and that the committees in question were established to transact "board business, i.e., public business, with curriculum, finances, [and] the salaries of public employees." Under the circumstances, the public would have a right to attend [such board committee] meetings, even if no board members served on them. It would be a strange construction, indeed, if a statute enacted to assure that board meetings would be open to the public could be frustrated by handing over the board's duties, or some of them, to be exercised in secret by the board's employees.

One portion of the open meeting law provides that "any public agency may hold a closed session . . . when necessary to prevent irreparable and needless injury to the reputation of an individual whose employment or discharge is under consideration . . . or for some other exceptional reason so compelling as to override the general public policy in favor of public meetings." When the state superintendent asked whether this stipulation would be applicable to board discussion of teacher salary schedules or general personnel policies, the attorney general asked how anyone [can] conceive that "irreparable and needless injury" could be done anybody's reputation by discussion in open meeting of a "salary schedule," "the development of general policies in regard to personnel," or simply "personnel?" And, what is there about matters of this sort that possibly could generate in favor of secrecy "some exception reason so compelling as to override the general public policy in favor of public meetings?" It is fact that the Federal Constitution was drafted behind locked doors in the utmost secrecy. But, somehow it is difficult to equate framing general policy by a school board with the drafting of the fundamental law of the land.

With respect to that portion of the statute stating that "no regular or general practice or pattern of holding closed sessions shall be permitted," the attorney general pointed out that whether school-board meetings are or are not in compliance with the law "is a question wholly ad hoc, which can be resolved only upon consideration of the facts in each case." But he held that "the stated purpose of such meetings' would not, in our view, have anything to do with whether or not there was a 'regular or general practice or pattern of holding closed sessions. "

Finally, the attorney general stated that minutes of any closed board meeting must be kept and be open to the public, that the statute does not require advance publication of a meeting agenda, and that "reasonable" advance notice of a meeting must be given to the public.

NEW JERSEY

COUNTY COLLEGE EMPLOYEES ARE NOT COVERED BY STATE CIVIL SERVICE REGULATIONS

State civil service regulations adopted by New Jersey county governments pursuant to state law are not applicable to nonprofessional and noninstructional employees of county community colleges, according to a ruling of the New Jersey Supreme Court. The court pointed out that county governments and county college boards of trustees are separate governmental entities, and held that "since the County College Law was enacted after the Civil Service Law and is in conflict with it, we can only conclude the legislature meant to exclude county college employees from Civil Service."

The court's ruling affects 15 county colleges in the state, 14 of which are located in counties which have adopted civil service regulations for employees in the paid service of the county. The state Department of Civil Service (defendant in the case) contended that county financial support of the two-year colleges places college employees within the paid service of the county. But the court found that the County College Law grants authority over such colleges to boards of trustees who are empowered (in part) "to appoint or employ such other officers, agents and employees as may be required to carry out the provisions of this chapter and to fix and determine their qualifications, duties, compensation, terms of office and all other conditions and terms of employment and retention."

The court concluded that these powers represent legislative intent to create county colleges as bodies independent of local county governments, and added that "we see no reason why the legislature cannot exempt parts of county government if it so chooses."

NEW YORK

TAYLOR LAW AMENDED

Amendments to the New York Public Employees' Fair Employment Act (the Taylor Law) exclude managerial and confidential employees from coverage under the Act and membership in public employee organizations, provide a period of unchallenged representation, and limit the terms of collective agreements to three years measured upon the employer's fiscal year. Other amendments provide that members and other appointees and officials of the Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) may not volunteer or be compelled to disclose information officially obtained in the resolution of negotiation disputes, indicate the basis for computing payroll deductions for striking, and provide for more timely judicial review and enforcement of PERB decisions. The amendments were enacted by H.B. 7989 and S.B. 7070, L 1971, and became effective September 1, 1971.

Sec. 201 of the Act, which deals with definitions, was amended in subsection 7 to provide in pertinent part the following:

> The term "public employee" . . . shall not include . . . persons who may reasonably be designated from time to time as managerial or confidential upon application of the public employer to the appropriate board. . . . Employees may be designated as managerial only if they are persons (a) who formulate policy or (b) who may reasonably be required on behalf of the public employer to assist directly in the preparation for and conduct of collective negotiations or to have a major role in the administration of agreements or in personnel administration provided that such role is not of a routine or clerical nature and requires the exercise of independent judgment. Employees may be designated as confidential only if they are persons who assist and act in a confidential capacity to managerial employees described in clause (b).

A legislative note appended to the above section states that > it is the intention of the Legislature that designations of employees as management or confidential pursuant to [sec. 201.7] as amended . . . reflect the extent to which a public employer has from time to time organized itself for collective negotiation. It is not the intention of the Legislature to destroy existing employer-employee negotiating units such as principals or other school administrators who do not formulate policy or who do not have a significant role in employee relations as described in [sec. 201.7] as amended.

A new sec. 214 then provides that no managerial or confidential employee "shall hold office in or be a member of any employee organization which is or seeks to become pursuant to this article the certified or recognized representative of the public employees employed by the public employer of such managerial or confidential employee."

Other amendments to sec. 201 repeal a former definition of the employer's "budget submission date," and define a school district's "chief legal officer" as the school district attorney. A new paragraph (b) added to subdivision 6 states that the PERB may determine that a government or public employer is "a joint public employer of public employees in an employer-employee negotiating unit . . . when such determination would best effectuate the purposes of this chapter."

Sec. 205 of the Act now provides in subsection 4(b) that > no member of the board or its appointees pursuant to this subdivision, including without limitation any mediator or factfinder employed or retained by the board, shall, except as required by this article, be compelled to nor shall be voluntarily disclosed to any administrative or judicial tribunal or at the legislative hearing . . . any information relating to the resolution of a particular dispute in the course of collective negotiations acquired in the course of his official activities under this article, nor shall any reports, minutes, written communications, or other documents pertaining to such information and acquired in the course of his official activities under this article be subject to subpoena or voluntarily disclosed [except in criminal cases other than a criminal contempt matter involving or resulting from a violation of this article].

Sec. 208 of the Act, which concerns the rights accompanying recognition or certification, was amended by a new paragraph (c) specifying that a public employer shall extend the recognized or certified employee organization the right > to unchallenged representation status until seven months prior to the expiration of a written agreement between the public employer and said employee organization determining terms and conditions of employment. For the purposes of this subdivision, (a) any such agreement for a term covering other than the fiscal year of the public employer shall be deemed to expire with the fiscal year ending immediately prior to the termination date of such agreement, (b) any such agreement having a term in excess of three years shall be treated as an agreement for a term of three years and (c) extensions of any such agreement shall not extend the period of unchallenged representation status.

Negotiation impasse resolution procedures provided in sec. 209 of the Act previously were contingent upon a failure to achieve agreement within a specified time period prior to the employer's budget submission date. With the elimination of that reference, an impasse now is deemed to exist "if the parties fail to achieve agreement at least 120 days prior to the end of the employer's fiscal year (sec. 209.1). Moreover, subdivision 3(c) requires specified action of a PERB appointed fact-finding board if a negotiation dispute "is not resolved at least eighty days prior to the end of the fiscal year of the public employer or by such other date determined by the board to be appropriate." Finally, subdivision 3(e) provides for a public hearing by the appropriate governmental legislative body if the parties to a negotiation dispute do not accept the recommendations of the fact-finding board.

Strike prohibitions contained in sec. 210 of the Act were amended in subdivision 1(e) to provide that when an employee is notified that he has been found to have committed a violation, he also shall be notified "of his right to object to such a determination" pursuant to statutory procedures. Subdivision 2(g) also was amended to provide the following means for computing the "two-for-one" deductions to be made from a public employee's salary for striking:

In computing the aforesaid thirty to ninety day period of time following the determination of a violation pursuant to subdivision (d) of paragraph two of this section and where the employee's annual compensation is paid over a period of time which is less than fifty-two weeks, that period of time between the last day of the last payroll period of the employment term in which the violation occurred and the first day of the first payroll period of the next succeeding employment term shall be disregarded and not counted.

Amendments to sec. 212 (which deals with local government procedures) make the following new sections applicable to local governments which have adopted provisions and procedures for mini-PERBs governing local public employer-employee relations: sec. 205.4(b) (confidentiality of mediators' and fact-finders' information), sec. 213 (judicial review and enforcement of PERB orders), and sec. 214 (management and confidential employees' membership and office in employee organizations).

Finally, subdivision 4 of sec. 210 was amended and renumbered as new sec. 213, which contains procedures for the judicial review and enforcement of PERB orders. Major changes in this section stipulate that PERB orders must be reviewed (pursuant to Art. 78, CPLR) within 30 days after service of the order, representation proceedings are reviewable only after certification of the employee organization, and unit determinations may not be reviewed separately prior to certification.

With respect to enforcement proceedings, a respondent may raise defenses available under Art. 78 only if the PERB brings a proceeding to enforce one of its orders within 30 days after the order. That is, if a respondent has not sought judicial review of a PERB order within 30 days, he may not challenge the merits of the order in an enforcement proceeding entered more than 30 days after the order. However, if a substantial evidence defense is properly raised in an enforcement proceeding, the proceeding is to be transferred to the appellate division and will be governed by applicable provisions of Art. 78.

PENNSYLVANIA

PSEA AFFILIATE WINS STATE COLLEGE REPRESENTATION ELECTION

The Association of Pennsylvania State College and University Faculty, Pennsylvania Association for Higher Education (APSCUF/PAHE), won 55.5 percent of the votes cast in an October 6 election conducted by the state labor relations board among the more than 4,000 faculty employed in the 14 state-controlled colleges. An affiliate of the Pennsylvania State Education Association, APSCUF/PAHE garnered 2,009 votes; 1,282 votes were cast for the American Association of University Professors, and 158 votes were cast for the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO. Ballots indicating no representation numbered 169.

Negotiation of the state college system's first contract under the Pennsylvania public employee bargaining statute (Act 195) already has begun.

Institutions included in the state college system are Bloomsburg, California, Cheyney, Clarion, East Stroudsburg, Edinboro, Indiana University of Pennsylvania, Kutztown, Lock Haven, Mansfield, Millersville, Shippensburg, Slippery Rock, and West Chester.

OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST

CONSUMER PRICE INDEX, SEPTEMBER 1971

Data published by the Labor Department, Bureau Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), indicate that the Consumer Price Index (CPI) all-items figure rose 0.2 percent in September to 122.4 (1967= 100). That rise placed the index 4.2 perceent above the figure recorded a year ago.

Prices of food purchased in grocery stores fell 1.0 percent in September (twice the usual seasonal decline for that month), while half of the increase in the index of nonfood commodities reflected seasonal price changes. Consumer services charges advanced slowly as the costs of gas and electricity remained unchanged from August for the first time in several months, and medical care service charges rose less than in August. College tuition increased almost 9 percent above a year ago.

In gauging the impact of the wage-price freeze upon the September CPI, BLS noted that most of the increase in that index "for items covered by the freeze occurred prior to August 15 or was due to seasonal or other price changes which, under certain conditions, are permissible under the freeze." Moreover, the September index also includes price changes of items which are exempt from the freeze (such as raw agricultural products, and tax and mortgage interest rates), or are subject to special regulations permitting increases under certain conditions.

BLS reported that if the effect of price changes for these (especially the substantial decline in raw agricultural products' prices) and other exempt items were excluded from the September index, the CPI would have increased 0.4 percent that month. Slightly less than half of this 0.4 percent rise was attributed to largely seasonal increases in apparel prices, while more than one-fifth of the change reflects price changes of previous months since certain items included in the CPI are priced by BLS on a quarterly, biannual, or other intermittent basis. Nearly one-tenth of the 0.4 percent change was attributed to increased college tuition rates, and about 2½ percent of the change resulted from higher prices for imports (particularly imported apparel items and cars). According to BLS, "the impact of the freeze on the remaining 20 to 25 percent of the change cannot be determined specifically."

RULES GOVERNING PETITIONS FOR NATIONAL CONSULTATION RIGHTS ARE ISSUED

Rules for processing and granting petitions for national consultation rights under sec. 9 of E.O. 11491, as amended, were issued by the Assistant Secretary of Labor for Labor-Management Relations and became effective September 29, 1971. They comprise sec. 202.2(d) of the Assistant Secretary's rules and regulations for exercising his functions according to sec. 6 of the Order.

Sec. 9(a) of the Order provides in part that "an agency shall accord national consultation rights to a labor organization which qualifies under criteria established by the Federal Labor Relations Council as the representative of a substantial number of employees of the agency." Criteria established by the Council in its rules and regulations (sec. 2412.2) state that a labor organization which holds exclusive recognition for either 10 percent or more of the employment, or 5,000 or more of the employees of an agency or a primary national subdivision (defined as a "first-level organizational segment [of an agency] which has functions national in scope that are implemented in field activities") shall be accorded national consultation rights.

Once a labor organization has been accorded national consultation rights, it is to be consulted by the agency on "proposed substantive changes in personnel policies that affect employees it represents," may suggest changes in the agency's personnel policies and "have its views carefully considered," and may confer at reasonable times and upon request with appropriate officials on personnel policy matters. However, an agency "is not required to consult with a labor organization on any matter on which it would not be required to meet and confer if the organization were entitled to exclusive recognition."

In the event an agency or primary national subdivision refuses to grant national consultation rights to a labor organization, the union may petition the Assistant Secretary for such rights pursuant to the new rules. Such a petition is to be filed with the appropriate area administrator within 30 days after the agency's refusal to accord national consultation rights, and is to be accompanied by a showing that the union holds adequate exclusive recognition under Council criteria, a statement that such showing was made to and rejected by the agency, and a statement of any agency reasons for its rejection. The agency then has 15 days in which to respond to the petition.

The area administrator is to conduct any necessary investigations and report his findings to the regional administrator who may request withdrawal of the petition if he determines that the labor organization does not qualify for national consultation rights. If such a withdrawal is not effected within a reasonable time, the regional administrator may dismiss the petition subject to review by the Assistant Secretary, or refer the matter to hearing before a hearing examiner whose findings and recommendations are transmitted to the Assistant Secretary for a final determination.

The rules additionally state that an agency or primary national subdivision > shall provide notice of its intention to terminate national consultational rights not less than 15 days prior to the intended termination date. A labor organization after receiving such notice, but prior to the intended termination date, may duly file a petition under this section and thereby cause to be stayed further action by the agency or primary national subdivision pending ultimate review and decision by the Assistant Secretary. An agency or primary national subdivision may terminate national consultation rights if no petition has been filed during the notice period prescribed herein.

SUPREME COURT ACTS UPON FOUR PUBLIC EMPLOYEE STRIKE RIGHT CASES

Four court cases reported in previous issues of the DIGEST were among those dealt with by the Supreme Court of the United States on October 12, 1971. Brief reviews of each case, as well as a summary of any Supreme Court action taken, follow.

• The high court affirmed a three-judge federal court panel's dismissal (NRD, 6-71, 17) of a suit brought by the United Federation of Postal Clerks (UFPC) in an attempt to invalidate portions of federal statues which prohibit federal employee strikes and impose criminal penalties (fines of up to $1,000 and/or imprisonment for a year and a day) upon persons judged guilty of violating those statutes. The suit also challenged the no-strike provisions of E.O. 11491.

Reiterating the common law rule that "no employee, whether public or private, [has] a constitutional right to strike," the panel decided that in the absence of such a right, "it is not irrational or arbitrary for the Government to condition employment on a promise not to withhold labor collectively, and to prohibit strikes by those in public employment." In addition, the panel held that the right to strike cannot be considered a "fundamental" right and emphasized that the absence of such a right does not interfere with public employees' fundamental and constitutionally protected right to organize for bargaining purposes.

• In a second case involving the right to strike (Rogoff v. Anderson), the Supreme Court dismissed for want of a substantial federal question an appeal of a decision rendered by the New York Supreme Court, Appellate Division (NRD, 2-71, 12). That ruling granted summary judgment to the New York City Office of Collective Bargaining (OCB) in upholding the constitutionality of a portion of the New York Taylor Law requiring public employee unions to disavow the right to strike as a prerequisite to certification as exclusive bargaining representative.

Concluding that within the context of certification "the condition imposed is reasonable for the benefits conferred, and is reasonably calculated to achieve the ultimate desired end," the state court ruled that the requirement (if properly construed) does not infringe upon the exercise of First Amendment rights and exerts no "'chilling effect' on free expression so evident as to warrant [its] rejection as unconstitutional." The court accordingly declared constitutional an OCB rule implementing the statutory provision.

• The Supreme Court denied review of a U.S. Court of Appeals, Fourth Circuit, ruling which upheld a federal district court's denial of relief to employees of the West Virginia State Road Commission who were terminated for engaging in a March 1969 strike (NRD, 6-70, 5). In granting defendants' motions for dismissal, the U.S. District Court held that under a portion of the West Virginia constitution "which makes the 'common law' the law of this State . . . it is axiomatic that a strike by public employees for any purpose is illegal . . . and no statutory declaration of their illegality is necessary."

The federal district court further held that "the Governor and the State Road Commissioner had the right, if not indeed the responsibility, to terminate the plaintiffs' employment with the State. This action by the defendants . . . not only comported with the law of the State, but it violated no federal constitutional rights of the employees so discharged."

• The Supreme Court also declined to review an appeal of a Kentucky Court of Appeals ruling (NRD, 3-71, 4) which sustained an injunction issued against striking Jefferson County (Louisville) teachers last year. The state court had held that under common law and in accordance with legislative intent, public employees do not have the right to strike. Moreover, it found that the "record contains ample proof of serious and irreparable impairment of the school system of Jefferson County" warranting an injunction.

DECLINES REVIEW OF SUPREME COURT EXCLUSIVE CHECK-OFF GRANT TO MAJORITY UNION

An unreported order of the Supreme Court of the United States denied review of a New York Court of Appeals determination that the state's Director of Employee Relations properly discontinued the dues check-off privileges of a minority union since a public employer may grant check-off privileges exclusively to the majority union. The case, brought by the president of Council 50, AFL-CIO, challenged exclusive privileges granted by the state to the Civil Service Employees Association, Inc., as the duly elected and certified bargaining representative of a unit of state employees.

Statistics

NEGOTIATION AGREEMENTS: TEACHER DISCIPLINE AND REPRIMAND PROVISIONS

An NEA Research Division analysis of 1,529 classroom teacher agreements, effective during the 1970-71 school year in systems with a pupil enrollment of 1,000 or more, identified 521 agreements (34.1 percent) with teacher discipline and reprimand provisions. Of the 521 provisions a random sampling of 111 agreements (21.3 percent) was selected for further analysis. The sample was a selection of every fifth agreement that had a teacher discipline and reprimand provision, with at least one agreement selected from each state.

For the purpose of this analysis, teacher discipline and reprimand was defined as any action brought against a teacher for alleged misconduct while serving in a capacity as an educator. The provisions analyzed here were restricted to those coded under the teacher discipline heading for 1970-71. But this does not preclude the possibility of relevant provisions appearing under other provision headings, for example those covering teacher suspension and dismissal, Code of Ethics, or teacher evaluation. Furthermore, this analysis did not consider the influence state statutes have on the development and implementation of teacher discipline and reprimand policies.

Although the provisions analyzed covered various aspects of teacher discipline and reprimand procedure, the majority of the agreements contained a variety of elements for reporting the charges against the teacher, notifying the teacher of charges, teacher rights during the discipline meetings, and the final disposition of charges, but did not outline the procedural steps to be followed, while only 12 (10.8 percent) of the agreements specified the exact procedural steps to be taken in the discipline and reprimand of teachers. The various categories of teacher discipline and reprimand policy and procedure negotiated in the 111 agreements selected for further analysis are shown in Table 1.

TABLE 1.—GENERAL NEGOTIATED CONTENT IN DISCIPLINE AND REPRIMAND PROVISIONS, 111 SELECTED PROVISIONS, 1970-71

Negotiated content	Number	Percent
1	2	3
NUMBER OF AGREEMENTS CONTAINING DISCIPLINE AND REPRIMAND PROVISIONS	521	...
NUMBER OF AGREEMENTS IN THE SELECTED ANALYSIS	111	100.0%
Type of offense which results in discipline or reprimand	49	44.1
Abuses of professional ethics and infractions of administrative regulations	30	27.0
Abuses of professional ethics	15	13.5
Infractions of administrative regulations	4	3.6
Teacher organization's role in discipline and reprimand	85	76.6
Representative may be present at disciplinary meeting	52	46.8
Teacher organization may correct breaches of ethics or institute proceedings against teacher for breaches of ethics	20	18.0

TABLE 1.–GENERAL NEGOTIATED CONTENT IN DISCIPLINE AND REPRIMAND PROVISIONS, 111 SELECTED PROVISIONS, 1970-71 (Continued)

Negotiated content	Number	Percent
1	2	3
Teacher organization is notified of charges brought against a teacher	13	11.7
Origin of charges against the teacher which result in discipline and reprimand	111	100.0
Charges introduced by school employees	81	73.0
Charges introduced by school employees or persons other than school employees	24	21.6
Charges introduced by persons other than school employees	6	5.4
Protection of teacher against capricious disciplinary action	91	82.0
No teacher will be disciplined or reprimanded without just cause	75	67.6
Charges against teachers must be in writing	14	12.6
Charges must be in writing and signed	9	8.1
Charges must in in writing	5	4.5
Charges must be evaluated by an administrator before any action is taken	2	1.8
Notification of the teacher	48	43.2
Teacher will be notified of charges against him	32	28.8
Teacher will be notified of charges against him in writing	16	14.4
Who may institute disciplinary proceedings against the teacher	70	62.9
Board of education	40	36.0
Principal	20	18.0
Other administrators	10	8.9
Teacher rights during disciplinary meetings	80	72.1
Right to counsel during disciplinary meetings	57	51.3
Right to have a representative from the teachers organization present at a disciplinary meeting	52	46.8
Right to have other counsel present at a disciplinary meeting	5	4.5
Right to privacy during disciplinary meetings	23	20.7
Number of procedural steps	12	10.8
2	5	4.5

TABLE 1.–GENERAL NEGOTIATED CONTENT IN DISCIPLINE AND REPRIMAND PROVISIONS, 111 SELECTED PROVISIONS, 1970-71 (Continued)

Negotiated content	Number	Percent
1	2	3
3	2	1.8
4	3	2.7
5	2	1.8
Final disposition of charges	68	61.2
Charges can be appealed through the grievance procedure	48	43.2
Report of the teachers discipline and reprimand will be placed in teacher's personnel file	5	4.5
Board of education will indicate a correction of deficiency and a time period for correction	4	3.6
Final decision will be made by the board of education	4	3.6
Teacher will be given a final report of the disciplinary conference	2	1.8
Decision will result from a joint conference of principal, teacher and complainant	2	1.8
Final report of disciplinary conferences will be sent to the superintendent of schools	2	1.8
Final decision by superintendent and board of education	1	0.9

The categories listed in the table are not mutually exclusive. Furthermore, the analysis is limited to what appears in written negotiation provisions specifically covering teacher discipline and reprimand, with no attempt made to cross-reference the analyzed provisions with other negotiated content that indirectly affects the discipline and reprimand of teachers.

There were great variations among the provisions concerned with discipline and reprimand. One of the main reasons for these variations was the obligation of teachers not only to adhere to administrative regulations, but also to uphold the Code of Ethics adopted by the teachers' organization. Therefore, teacher misconduct could often be considered both an infraction of administrative regulations and a breach of the Code of Ethics. Herein lies the problem: in what category was an act of misconduct to be considered and what correctional procedure was to be followed. Lacking guidelines for determining whether an action was an infraction of an administrative rule or breach of the Code of Ethics, many school systems developed methods for handling these two types of offenses. A total of 44.1 percent of the agreements analyzed specified the offenses covered by discipline and reprimand provisions: 27.0 percent covered both breaches of the Code of Ethics and infractions of administrative regulations, 13.5 percent covered only Code of Ethics abuses, and 3.6 percent covered infractions of administrative regulations alone.

The role of the teachers organization in the discipline and reprimand of teachers distinguished between ethical and administrative offenses since the organization is usually more directly involved in cases concerning breaches of ethics. The teachers organization had a role in the discipline of teachers in 78.4 percent of the agreements: 46.8 percent of these agreements provided that a representative of the teachers organization could be present at a teacher's disciplinary meeting; 18.0 percent gave the teachers organization the right to correct breaches of ethics or to institute proceedings against teachers for breaches of ethics, and 11.7 percent provided that the teachers organization was to be informed of charges against the teacher.

Another discipline-and-reprimand issue involved the determination of the origins of charges of misconduct which could result in teacher discipline or reprimand. Analysis found that the primary origins of misconduct were school employees (i.e., administration, the teachers organization, or another teacher) or persons other than school employees (usually parents and pupils). Of the 111 pertinent agreements, 105 covered charges originated by school employees, 30 covered those charges made by persons outside the school staff, with 24 of these covering charges introduced by both school employees and persons other than school employees.

Many of the agreements analyzed contained clauses designed to protect the teacher from malicious and capricious disciplinary action. Of the 111 agreements, two-thirds contained a general statement similar to the following:

No teacher will be disciplined, reprimanded or reduced in rank or compensation or deprived of any professional advantage without just cause. (Katonah-Lewisboro, New York)

The agreement provisions for discipline and reprimand of teachers for just cause (according to the courts' dealings with both tenure and nontenure teachers) should contain procedural safeguards such as a statement of charges and a hearing concerning charges. However, not all agreements specify safeguards. Clauses providing that the teacher is to be notified of charges were found in 48 (43.2 percent) of the agreements, and 16 of these 48 further specify that the teacher must be notified of the charges in writing. Other clauses which seek to protect teachers from malicious action are those which require that complaints against teachers be in writing (12.6 percent) with signatures (in a majority of the cases) or that the charges be investigated by the administration before any action may be taken (1.8 percent).

Many of the agreements analyzed provided that only one person or body could institute the discipline proceedings against the teacher. Of these agreements, 36.0 percent provided for disciplinary action against the teacher instituted by the board of education, 18.0 percent for principal-instituted action and 8.9 percent for action instituted by other administrators.

During disciplinary meetings teachers must be accorded certain rights; for example, a right to counsel during disciplinary meetings was specified in 57 agreements (51.3 percent), and that the counsel will be a representative of the teachers organization was specified in 52 agreements. Examples of such provisions are:

If a teacher is to be disciplined or reprimanded by a member of the administration above the level of the principal, he shall be entitled to request a representative designated by the Casper-Midwest Teachers Association. (Casper-Midwest, Wyoming).

Every staff member shall have the right to have all conferences which relate to his transfer, demotion, suspension or dismissal in provate, or, if he so chooses, in the company of a counselor of his choosing. (Rockford, Illinois).

Over half of the 111 pertinent agreements included statements on the final disposition of the charges against the teacher. Of these agreements, 43.2 percent stated that the discipline and reprimand of teachers would be subject to the grievance procedure and 4.5 percent stated that if the charge is found to be valid, the final report of the teacher's discipline and reprimand would be placed in the teacher's personnel file. In 3.6 percent of the agreements the board of education was to require correction of the deficiency within a specified time period. An example of such a provision states:

The Board, in recognition of the concept of progressive correction, shall notify the teacher in writing of the alleged delinquencies, indicate expected correction, and indicate a reasonable period for correction. (Gwinn, Michigan).

In addition, 2.8 percent of the agreements indicated that a final report of the disciplinary conference would be given to the teacher, and another 2.8 percent provided that the final report of the discipline would be sent to the superintendent of schools.

Twelve of the pertinent agreements outlined the procedural steps to be followed in the disciplining and reprimanding of teachers. The number of steps in the procedures ranged from two to five. Five of the 12 procedures dealt with the discipline of teacher for charges made by school employees, four agreements provided procedures designed to handle charges made by persons outside the school staff, and three contained procedures for handling charges originating either within or outside the school staff.

The following are several provisions for discipline/reprimand procedures. These are only samples; they are not to be regarded as exemplary.

UNPROFESSIONAL CONDUCT

There shall be established a procedure for dealing with unprofessional conduct. Such conduct is defined as action not consistent with Board of Education policies and/or reasonable and accepted rules of procedure established in a given school. The procedure is as follows:

A. Principal counsels individual concerning unprofessional conduct.

B. Principal verbally informs individual of possible suspension if conduct continues.
C. Written verification is given to teacher within two (2) days of the verbal warning with a copy to the Superintendent and the chairman of the FEA Professional Rights and Responsibilities Committee.
   1. Notice would refer to specific conduct.
   2. Notice would indicate date of the verbal warning.
D. The Professional Rights and Responsibilities Committee shall be expected to take appropriate action to correct the specific conduct in the warning.
   1. Professional Rights and Responsibilities Committee shall counsel the teacher within five (5) days of receipt of the warning.
   2. Professional Rights and Responsibilities Committee shall submit a written report to the Teacher, Principal, and Superintendent.
E. In the event the unprofessional conduct continues, the Principal shall be empowered to recommend to the Superintendent suspension for one (1) day.
F. Verbal notice with written verification of the suspension without pay for one (1) day shall be given to the teacher by the Superintendent of Schools.
G. The teacher shall have five (5) working days to appeal through the Grievance Procedure. (Fond du Lac, Wisconsin)

* * *

D. Procedure

1. The Board may forward complaints within the terms of this article to the Superintendent of Schools. The complaint shall be specified in writing and a copy sent to the appropriate committee of the Association. The Superintendent shall confer on the complaint with the appropriate principal, and department head (if applicable) and the teacher subject to the complaint. The teacher shall have the right to the representation and assistance of the Association at this conference. The Superintendent shall advise the Board in writing of the outcome of the conference.

2. If the Board is not satisfied with the outcome of the conference, the Board may reinstitute complaints to the designated Committee of the Association. This Committee shall, within (10) days, or at the next regularly scheduled meeting of the Board, meet with the Board and the teacher concerned. This Committee shall, within five (5) days after such meeting, give its decision and any recommendation for action, such as reprimand, corrective procedures, and/or probationary notice, in writing to the Board.

3. If the Board and/or Superintendent is not satisfied with the disposition of the complaint, the Board may submit the complaint to arbitration, within five (5) days or at the next regularly scheduled meeting of the Board of Education, and shall so notify the Association in writing. Arbitration shall be conducted according to the procedure described in Article IV - Level 4 (4c, 4d, 4e, 4f). (Durham-Middlefield Regional School District 13 (Durham), Connecticut)

* * *

PERSONNEL PROCEDURES

1. No teacher shall be suspended, discharged, or otherwise penalized, except for "just cause." No teacher shall be involuntarily transferred, non-renewed or placed on a day-to-day assignment as a disciplinary measure. In the event a teacher is accused of misconduct in connection with his employment, the accusation, except in emergency cases as referred to herein, shall be processed as follows:

a. The principal or supervisor shall promptly notify the teacher, by means of a personal conference, as to the nature of the charges of misconduct in an effort to resolve the matter. If the principal or supervisor decides on further action, he shall specify the charges in writing with the aid of the Division of Administrative and Pupil Personnel Services, and then furnish them to the teacher and the MTEA and attempt to resolve the matter. The teacher and the MTEA shall have a reasonable opportunity to investigate and to prepare a response.

b. If the matter is not resolved in this manner, a hearing shall be held within ten working days to hear the charges and the response before the Assistant Superintendent of Personnel or his designee, at which time the teacher may be represented by the MTEA, legal counsel or any other person of his choosing. Within five working days of the hearing, the teacher and the MTEA shall be notified of the decision relative to the charges in writing and the reasons substantiating such decision.

c. The Superintendent shall, within five working days, review the decision of the Assistant Superintendent of Personnel and issue his decision thereon.

d. 1) The teacher may, within ten working days of receipt of the decision of the Superintendent, request a hearing before the Committee on Rules and Complaints, which shall be held within 45 working days of the request. The Committee, after a full and fair hearing which shall be public or private, at the teacher's request, shall make a written decision specifying its reasons and the action and recommendations, prior to the next full meeting of the Board.

2) Tenure Teacher. In any case where the Superintendent, after review of the Assistant Superintendent's recommendation, recommends dismissal of a tenure teacher, the matter shall be processed in accordance with the provisions of this Article, except that the full Board, rather than the Committee on Rules and Complaints, shall conduct the hearing.

e. The MTEA may, within ten working days, invoke arbitration, as set forth in the sixth step of the grievance procedure. A teacher who elects to proceed to arbitration shall be considered to have waived the right to pursue the matter in the courts, except as provided in Chapter 293, Wisconsin Statutes. (Milwaukee, Wisconsin)

* * *

A. Complaints About an Individual Teacher, Materials or Teaching Methods

a. Complaints about an individual teacher, materials, or teaching methods directed to School Committee members or administrators will be referred immediately to the Principal or other high school administrator most appropriate to handle the complaint. Failure to refer such complaint and, therefore, to initiate action under this procedure will mean that the complaint is considered invalid.

b. Since an administrator sometimes receives crank complaints or calls that seem merely petty, the administrator shall use good judgment about handling these matters. Failure to continue with the complaint procedure will mean that the complaint is considered invalid.

c. If in the judgment of the administrator the complaint sounds serious, could lead to further problems, or will be used in any way to affect the rehiring or placement of a teacher, the administrator or department head must receive the complaint or criticism courteously but restrict his own comments on the case until he has followed this procedure. The critic should be thanked for his or her interest in the education of the community's children. The name and address of the complainant must be requested.

d. If the complainant is unwilling to identify himself, the complaint will be considered invalid. This still may be discussed with the teacher if the administrator thinks it is wise to do so in order to ascertain the facts, or clear up any doubts he has unavoidably developed in his mind.

e. When the complainant identifies himself, he should be informed that a procedure has been established for handling such complaints. The receiver of the complaint will then record the complaint on a form or offer to send the form and school philosophy to the complainant. (Forms to be used for this purpose will be developed mutually by the Committee and the Association.) After the identification has been verified, the administrator or department head will inform the teacher involved in the complaint that a criticism has been received and the complaint procedure has been initiated.

f. Within three school days after the receipt of the written or recorded complaint, the administrator, department head and the teacher or teachers involved will consider the complaint and together decide upon a solution consistent with good teaching methods and the objectives of the school. If the written form is sent and not received, the complaint will be considered invalid and the teacher involved so notified.

g. If at this point the matter still cannot be resolved or if the administrator feels that there may be a serious public reaction, a meeting will be set up to discuss the complaint with the complainant. Those meeting with the complainant will be the administrator and a representative of teacher involved, except that such representative must not be a representative or an officer of any teacher organization other than the Association.

h. If this meeting cannot end the criticism in the community, the Superintendent and the School Committee shall be apprised of the situation and urged to issue a strong statement in defense of the joint decisions that have been reached.

i. Use of verbal complaints or any complaints considered invalid as defined in this procedure by any administrator, department chairman, School Committee member or teacher is a clear violation of the intent of this procedure. (Ipswich, Massachusetts)

Special Reports

BRIEFS OF RECENT AGREEMENTS

Boulder, Colorado

Between the Board of Education of Boulder Valley School District No. RE-2J and the Boulder Valley Education Association, effective September 1, 1971, to August 31, 1972, except that all economic items are effective January 1, 1972, to December 31, 1972. Approximately 1,200 certificated professional employees. Provision for automatic renewal of contract for additional one-year periods unless either party wishes to reopen any provisions and submits its desired changes to the other party by February 15; any provisions not reopened shall automatically be renewed.

Compensation: (January 1, 1972, to August 31, 1972; stated as an index schedule with B.A. base equal to 1.00) B.A., $6,850 (1.00) to $10,138 (1.48), 7 increments; B.A. plus 36 hours, $11,851 (1.73) maximum; M.A., $7,398 (1.08) to $12,536 (1.83), 12 increments; M.A. plus 36 hours, $13,974 (2.04) maximum; Ph.D., $14,659 (2.14) maximum; separate salary schedule for teachers with outside experience and less than 3 years' district experience which is divided into three sections representing the first through third years of district service, ranges across all degree levels, makes allowance for up to 5 years' outside experience, and provides base amounts of $7,124 (1.04), $7,535 (1.10), and $8,220 (1.20) in the first, second, and third years of district service, respectively; separate salary index for psychologists and social workers with a base of $8,768 (1.28) predicated upon an M.A. degree and the first year of experience, provision for added index points according to the type of degree held and the number of years' experience (maximum experience credit of .47 for 5 years' outside experience, and over-all maximum experience credit of .79), with a maximum salary of $14,933 predicated upon a Ph.D. degree and 13 years' experience; separate salary schedule for counselors ranging from $8,426 (1.23) to $16,098 (2.35) with provision for a differential based upon the number of years of outside experience.

For the period September 1, 1972, to December 31, 1972, the parties jointly shall study the teachers' salary schedule in an attempt to agree upon an improved index scale. If agreement cannot be reached by September 1, 1972, a base of $7,000 shall apply to the first three steps of the schedule, and the index points for the remaining steps shall be recalculated so as to result in dollar amounts nearly equal to the comparable amounts calculated upon the $6,850 base and effective during the January 1, 1972, to August 31, 1972, period. The resultant schedule is: B.A., $7,000 (1.00) to $10,136 (1.448), 7 increments; B.A. plus 36 hours, $11,651 (1.693) maximum; M.A., $7,560 (1.08) to $12,537 (1.791), 12 increments; M.A. plus 36 hours, $13,972 (1.996) maximum; Ph.D., $14,658 (2.094) maximum; outside experience salary schedule as outlined above, except that the base amounts in the first, second, and third years of district service will be $7,280 (1.04), $7,700 (1.10), and $8,400 (1.20), respectively; separate salary schedule for psychologists and social workers remains the same; separate salary schedule for counselors maintains the same minimum amount, but the maximum amount will become $16,128 (2.304).

Differentials: (January 1, 1972 to August 31, 1972; for coaches, compensation is based upon years of district coaching experience [up to 8] and computed as a varying percentage of a varying dollar base [the percentage declines by one-tenth of a percentage point as the base rises in accordance with steps on the B.A. lane of the teachers salary schedule]; all amounts presented here represent the first step on the coaching schedule) high-school head football and basketball coaches, $671.30 (.098 of B.A. base) each; high-school head wrestling, baseball, and track coaches, $513.75 (.075 of B.A. base) each; high-school head gymnastics, cross country, tennis, and golf coaches, $315.10 (.046 of B.A. base) each; junior high and high-school intramurals coaches, $157.55 (.023 of B.A. base) each; high-school band director, $300 (first year of a 9-year experience schedule); high-school drama and speech directors, $160 per play (first year of a 9-year experience schedule); high-school radio program director, $350 for approximately 30 programs (one per week); high-school choir or orchestra director, $200 (first year of a 9-year experience schedule); high-school sponsor of a weekly newspaper, $300 if publication is produced on school time, $600 if publication is produced after school; high-school yearbook sponsor in schools with a minimum enrollment of 1,000, $750; high-school student council sponsor, $360; high-school audio-visual aids supervisor, $360; junior high-school newspaper sponsors, $100 each. Regular teachers assigned to cover classroom vacancies receive $4 per hour or major fraction thereof; regular teachers assigned charge of a building in the principal's absence receive $200 annually if the school has less than a full-time principal, or $100 annually if the school has a full-time principal.

Leaves: 10 days' annual sick leave credited at beginning of school year, unlimited maximum accumulation; extended sick leave at 50 percent of salary for 20 additional, consecutive, noncumulative days per year for a teacher's own illness, quarantine, or disability; absences due to a serious illness or death in the immediate family are deducted from sick leave; 2 separate days' personal leave which may be added to accumulation if unused; time off to vote without loss of pay; paid leave as needed and approved to attend professional conferences with board paying appropriate per-diem expenses and the cost of a substitute teacher; released time without loss of pay for school and industry visitations; released time without loss of pay for jury duty and court appearances in matters involving the teacher as a district employee; up to 2 days' paid leave for court appearances not involving work-related matters, although the teacher must reimburse the district for the cost of a substitute if any additional days are needed; full-time employees required to attend annual two- and three-week military reserve training periods are granted leave at half-pay; provision for "Educational Improvement Leave" for one academic quarter, one academic semester, or one academic year after 5 years' district service; teachers granted the foregoing leave may apply to the board for a scholarship of $500 for one academic quarter, $750 for one academic semester, or $1,500 for one academic year.

Insurance: Board-paid hospitalization, health, and long-term disability insurance under comparable plans and coverages as provided in 1971, except that the district will be responsible for increases in the premium to a maximum $40,000 increase; board continuance of a liability insurance policy covering district employees within the scope of their employment; board contributions to the state retirement and workmen's compensation systems in the amount of 9¼ percent of each unit member's salary for the former, and 6¢ per $100 of each unit member's salary for the latter.

Association: Payroll dues deduction for local Association; during his term of office the Association president shall be relieved of his teaching duties without loss of salary, seniority, or fringe benefits, and the Association shall reimburse the district for the cost of his replacement; provision for 100 paid Association leave days (see following provision reprint); Association representatives shall have the right to schedule Association meetings before or after school or during lunch periods.

Instruction: In all secondary teaching assignments (except physical education and music), "every reasonable effort shall be made so that the total load shall not exceed a maximum of 750 students per week exclusive of study hall"; if educationally or physically handicapped children are integrated into regular classrooms 2 or more hours per day, each handicapped child shall be counted as 2 pupils; summer school class sizes "will be held to 30"; provision stating that "it is the goal of the School District to limit the size of kindergarten and first grade classes to a maximum of 25"; provision for elementary-school teacher aides (see following provision reprint); teachers involved in curriculum development programs will be provided "released time and/or payment . . . at the prorated amount of the participant's regular salary, to the extent that finances permit, or as mutually agreed upon by the teachers involved, the Association, and the administration."

Personnel: Grievance procedure ends with advisory arbitration; teacher has right to review his personnel file and respond in writing to any derogatory material before placement therein; duty-free lunch period of a minimum of 60 minutes for kindergarten teachers, and 30 minutes for secondary teachers; teachers of grades 1 through 6 shall be allowed 60 minutes for lunch provided that during the lunch period they "may be utilized for supervision during inclement weather or other uncontrollable circumstances," in which cases the duty-free lunch period shall be no less than 30 minutes; elementary teachers shall have a minimum of 180 minutes of preparation time per week, inclusive of that time resulting from a shorter instructional day by the early dismissal of primary classes; high-school teachers working a 6-period day and junior-senior high-school teachers working a 7-period day shall be allowed no less than one planning period per day; junior high-school teachers shall be assigned no more than the equivalent of 6 periods of teaching, nor less than 2 planning periods per day, and "every effort shall be made to assign . . . the equivalent of five periods of teaching and one study hall (or other non-preparatory responsibility) per day where subject areas taught and/or nature of assignments warrant"; professional growth requirements that teachers holding a state life certificate complete 6 semester hours of college credit every 5 years if they have a B.A. plus 35 hours or less, and 6 semester hours of college credit every 10 years if they have a B.A. plus 36 hours or more; provision stating that "the instrument used by principals in evaluating teachers shall have separate sections dealing with the teacher's performance in the classroom and with the teacher's performance in extra-curricular assignments"; provision stating that candidates for principalships or assistant principalships shall be screened by a committee which includes teachers selected by the faculty from the building in which the vacancy exists; after beginning employment in the Boulder Valley district, all teachers must have a board-paid health examination and tuberculin test every 3 years; provision stating that "teachers at their discretion may bar a visitor from their classrooms until a conference is held with the principal."

PROFESSIONAL LEAVE FOR ASSOCIATION BUSINESS

The Board shall grant to the Association representing Unit B, 100 days paid leave for its representatives to attend workshops, conferences, and other activities of the Association and its state and national affiliates. Additional leave days shall be granted to the Association provided the expense of the substitute shall be paid by the Association. The amount of leave is to be allocated to individual members at the discretion of the Association. Such requests shall be processed through the Association.

The Board recognizes that members of Unit B should be encouraged to seek election or appointment to state and national offices of their professional organizations. Leave taken under this provision to serve in such official capacity shall not be charged to the number of leave days mentioned in the preceding paragraph.

Request for released time must be submitted before seeking the office and approval received from the building principal and appropriate director. If approved, such time released will be with pay. (Boulder Valley, Colorado)

TEACHER AIDES

Elementary teachers will be provided teacher's aides according to the following formula:

a. Kindergarten class size of 26, 27, 28—one 3-hour aide for each two sections, and in the event of an odd section—one 3-hour aide for that section.
   Kindergarten class size of 29 and over—one 3-hour aide for each section.
   For other classes, additional sections will be made as needed, provided the new sections contain 20 or above pupils.
b. Grades one (1), two (2), and three (3) with an enrollment of 28 and over shall be supplied one 3-hour teacher aide.
c. Grades four (4), five (5), and six (6) with an enrollment of 30 and over shall be supplied one 3-hour teacher aide.
d. Any elementary class of grades 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 with an enrollment of 35 and over shall be supplied one 6-hour teacher aide.

ASSIGNMENT: The assignment of teacher aides for the first semester (Fall) will be based on the enrollment report received by the Pupil Personnel Office on the third (3rd) Friday that school is in session; the assignment of teacher aides will be made the following week insofar as possible.

The assignment of teacher aides for the second semester shall be made on the basis of the enrollment on the first Friday of the second semester. The assignment of teacher aides will be made the following week insofar as possible. There will be no other adjustment in the assignment of teacher aides during the school year.

Teachers shall participate in the interview and selection of their teacher aides. The principal shall submit three names to the teacher. The teacher shall select the aides from these candidates. (Boulder Valley, Colorado)

Darien, Connecticut

Between the Board of Education and the Darien Education Association, effective July 30, 1971, to June 30, 1974. Approximately 365 certified professional employees below the rank of superintendent of schools and assistant superintendent. Provision for reopener on insurance benefits on or before October 15, 1972; resulting changes in insurance shall not become effective until July 1, 1973. Provision for negotiation of a successor agreement commencing not later than October 15, 1973.

Compensation: (1971-72, stated as an index scale with the B.A. base equal to 1.00) B.A., $8,350 (1.00) to $13,861 (1.66), 11 increments; B.A. plus 15 hours, $14,362 (1.72) maximum; M.A. $9,382 (1.12+) to $15,394 (1.84+), 12 increments; M.A. plus 60 hours, $18,357 (2.19+) maximum; Ph.D., $19,068 (2.28+) maximum.

(1972-73, stated as same index scale as 1971-72 with the B.A. base equal to 1.00) B.A. $8,675 to $14,400, 11 increments; B.A. plus 15 hours, $14,921 maximum; M.A., $9,747 to $15,993, 12 increments; M.A. plus 60 hours, $19,072 maximum; Ph.D., $19,810 maximum.

Differentials: (4 or 5-step extracurricular compensation schedule, with the first step shown here) high-school football and basketball head coaches, $1,350 each; high-school swimming head coach, $810; soccer head coach, $720; high-school faculty manager, $1,890; high-school theatre director, $700; debate coach and high-school stage manager, $500 each; chess club advisor, $150; literary magazine, yearbook and school newspaper advisors, $100 each.

Administrators: 1971-72 full-time administrators' base salary, $13,047, with 4 automatic experience increments and 4 horizontal columns (with superintendent-determined placement) and with indices ranging from 1.05 to 1.40; 1971-72 provisions include a 4 percent across-the-board raise, distribution of $15,000 "to those full time administrators whose performance is deemed meritorious" according to specified criteria, and a fund for salary inequity adjustments equal to 2 percent of the full-time administrators payroll; 1972-73 provisions include across-the-board 3.8 percent raise, distribution of $15,000 for meritorious performance, and a fund for the adjustment of salary inequities equal to 1.2 percent of the full-time administrators payroll. 1971-72 part-time administrators receive additional compensation based on a 2 column, 7 step schedule, which ranges from $597 to $2,837.

Leaves: annual sick leave and maximum accumulation undefined; 5 personal days annually to cover death or sickness in the immediate family, legal obligations or "other justifiable reasons"; 1 personal day may be taken without specification of reasons; additional paid leave to "allow for visiting days at institutes, organizational meetings, conferences, etc."; paid leave for jury duty less court allowance; sabbatical leave at full pay for one-half a year and 3/4 pay for one year after 4 consecutive years' service in the district (see following provision reprint).

Insurance: 80-percent board-paid individual and family health and medical coverage for Blue Cross with extended plan, outpatient and maternity riders, surgical, major medical, and dental insurance with $75 deductible for individual coverage to a maximum $225 deductible for family coverage with a $50,000 limit.

Personnel: grievance procedure ends with final and binding arbitration; time off with pay for negotiating and grievance meetings scheduled during the work day; right to review personnel file; no derogatory material may be placed in personnel file without teacher's knowledge and the opportunity to submit a written reply, which is to be reviewed by the superintendent and attached to the file copy; attendance at "evening functions other than Fall and Spring open houses" and meetings during weekend, holidays, or vacations is voluntary; required meeting attendance to be limited to 1½ hours 2 days each month or the "equivalent of 3 hours per month"; 15-day posting period for vacancies; when all else is equal, candidates from within the school system will be given preference for vacancies, promotions, and transfers; full pay for up to 6 months for job-related injury; joint committee with the board and Association represented by 3 representatives each for the purpose of determining the 1973-74 compensation system and for distribution of a fund for salary increases that "shall equal two percent (2%) of the total compensation paid to employees covered by this agreement in 1972-73" and shall "be further increased by an amount equivalent to the percentage increase in the National Consumer Price Index for the period January 1, 1972 through December 31, 1972"; "total fund shall not exceed" 7 percent of the 1972-73 payroll; method of compensation adopted by the Committee shall be binding upon all parties; criteria for evaluation of administrators (see provision reprint).

SABBATICAL PROGRAM

A. Purpose

A Darien Sabbatical Leave may be granted to any teacher of the Darien Public School System for the purpose of increasing his or her capacity to render a higher degree of excellence in educational service. This includes formal study, research, and/or writing, travel and other activities related to education. The granting of such leave shall be subject to the approval of the Board as provided for herein.

B. Eligibility

Any professional employee of the Darien School System who meets with following qualifications shall be eligible to apply for a sabbatical award.

1. An applicant must have four consecutive years of satisfactory service as a full time professional employee of the Darien Public School System.

2. Subsequent sabbatical leaves may be obtained after eligibility has been re-established by service of an additional consecutive four years of satisfactory service as a full time professional employee of the Darien Public School System.

3. The professional employees who may be granted sabbatical leaves will be determined by the Board. The Board shall provide funds sufficient to enable 2% of the staff to participate in the sabbatical program in accordance with all Sections of Article XI.

4. A sabbatical leave will be granted for a period of not less than one-half year nor more than one full year.

C. Application – Requirements and Procedures

1. Applications for a sabbatical leave must be filed on a prescribed form which may be obtained from the Association Building Representative or Superintendent's Office. Upon completion of this form it shall be forwarded to the President of the Association, the Superintendent of Schools and the Chairman of the Review Committee on or before December 15 of the year prior to the sabbatical leave year.

2. Applications shall include the following information about the intended project:

a. For formal study: A program of work shall be outlined which will indicate its purpose for general professional improvement. Formal, full time graduate study shall be considered to be a minimum of 20 points, and a maximum of 30 points of study for a full year's sabbatical. This would be a minimum of 10 points and a maximum of 15 points of study for a half year sabbatical leave. This study may be in courses which are audited; a written statement of acceptance of such a program from the college or university must be submitted with the application. Formal research in connection with approved universities shall include the writing of masters' theses and doctoral dissertations. (Course work for fulfillment of Connecticut certification requirements will not be accepted.)

b. For research and/or writing: The proposed project will be outlined and approved in relation to the present and prospective service of the applicant in this his profession. Independent research may be undertaken in consultation with the Review Committee when the research is directly related to the program of the Darien Public Schools. Included in this category would be curriculum research including the writing of new courses of study, programmed instructional materials, the development of tapes, recordings, and other materials to be used in classrooms or laboratories, statistical studies to determine the value of existing or proposed programs of study, the writing of course material, or other approved research projects designed to enhance the education program.

c. For travel: A plan, including the proposed itinerary, shall be submitted, stating the professional objectives which are sought through such travel.

d. For other reasons: A plan shall be submitted in detail which must result in a complete project that can be implemented, upon return, in the Darien Public School System.

D. Review and Approval Procedures

1. The Review Committee shall consist of:

a. Six members including:

b. Assistant Superintendent for Personnel and the President of the Association.

c. One additional member shall be appointed by the Superintendent of Schools.

d. Three members appointed by the Representative Council of the Association, one each from the elementary, junior high and senior high levels.

2. The Review Committee shall make an examination of all applications to determine the following:

a. Does the purpose of the leave meet the requirements as outlined in Section C hereof?

b. Does the merit of the proposal and potential benefit to the school system exist to the degree that it should be taken before the Board?

3. A formal oral presentation by an applicant must be made upon request of the Review Committee for the purpose of further clarification of the application.

4. The Review Committee shall make a formal presentation of recommended applications to the Superintendent on or before January 27th annually. All recommendations of the Review Committee, whether recommended by the Superintendent or not, shall be forwarded to the Board by February 3rd annually and the Review Committee may present its views to the Board with respect to all applications at the Board's first February meeting.

5. The Board may, at its own discretion, accept or reject any request for sabbatical leave. Any rejection shall be stated in writing and forwarded to the Review Committee.

6. Applicants for sabbatical leave will be notified of the approval or disapproval of application in writing on or before March 15 annually.

7. The final determination of the Board shall not be subject to grievance or arbitration.

E. Requirements and Status While on Leave

1. During the time of the leave, the teacher or administrator shall be in the employ of and responsible to the Board.

2. A sabbatical award, once granted, may not be terminated before the expiration date except as agreed upon by the Board and the applicant.

3. During sabbatical leave, the recipient of the award shall be entitled to participate in any other benefits that may be provided for by this Agreement and rules and regulations of the Board.

4. The regular sick leave policy shall apply to an employee on sabbatical leave. The Superintendent must be notified promptly of accident or illness. This information must be sent within ten days after an accident or the beginning of an illness. Upon request, evidence of accident or illness must be provided for the Superintendent's consideration.

5. A sabbatical leave granted shall also operate as a leave of absence without pay from all other school activities unless otherwise agreed upon by the recipient of the award, the Board and the Review Committee.

6. The employee on leave shall immediately request approval from the Board for any substantial changes in the planned program as outlined in the approved application.

7. Salary policy:

a. Remuneration will be calculated on the sabbatical leave year's salary schedule at the following rate:

Half-year leave – one half of yearly salary as set forth on the salary schedule in effect at the commencement of the leave.

Full-year leave – three fourths of yearly salary as set forth on the salary schedule in effect at the commencement of the leave.

b. Payment of salary to a staff member on leave shall be made in accordance with the provisions of the Board in payment of salary to other members of the professional staff. The employee on leave shall be responsible for keeping the Superintendent of Schools informed of his address and other changes in his status during that year.

c. A term of sabbatical leave shall entitle an employee to salary schedule increments at the beginning of the next full year of school following his return to service in the school system.

F. Requirements and Status Upon Returning from Sabbatical Leave

1. At the expiration of a sabbatical leave the employee shall be restored to his position or to a position of like nature, status and pay provided that the employee remains eligible for reinstatement.

2. An employee returning from a sabbatical leave shall file a final report with the Superintendent of Schools not later than one month (30 days) after the day on which the employee resumes active service. The Superintendent of Schools will make copies available to the Review Committee, if requested. The report shall include the name of the institution(s) attended, courses taken, credits received, itinerary of travel, materials accumulated and available, experience gained; together with the applicant's appraisal of the professional value of the activities while on leave and the manner in which the knowledge and the experience gained may be applied to the benefit of the Darien Public School System. (Darien, Connecticut)

EVALUATIVE CRITERIA FOR FULL TIME ADMINISTRATORS

Full time administrators will meet for individual evaluation conferences with the Superintendent of Schools. The purpose of the conference will be to discuss the administrator's performance in his area of responsibility. It is expected there will be a discussion of the administrator's strengths and weaknesses in the categories listed below where they apply to his responsibility area.

Prior to the evaluation conference, the Superintendent shall prepare a written evaluation. Wherever possible, the evaluation should be based on first-hand experience and personal observation on the part of the Superintendent. This evaluation shall be sent to each administrator prior to the evaluation conference. Each administrator is expected to review his own performance and should be prepared to provide evidence of meritorious service in any of the listed categories.

1. Instructional Leader

Is the principal or director able to assess the weaknesses and strengths of his school or curriculum area? Does he work effectively with his staff to eliminate weaknesses?

Does the principal or director provide the leadership, energy and enthusiasm to encourage his staff members to want to work with him to improve the school program?

Does the principal or director give the teachers an opportunity to participate in decision making?

Does the principal or director enjoy rapport with the pupils in his charge? Do they respect him for the contribution he makes to his school or area of responsibility?

Does the principal or director encourage teachers to visit other schools, participate in conferences and attend professional meetings?

To what extent does the principal or director contribute to the system as a whole? Does he contribute constructive ideas to discussions of systemwide problems? Does he take responsibility for systemwide projects and carry them through effectively?

2. Staff Relations

Does the principal or director enjoy a healthy rapport with his staff? Is he interested in their problems? Does he solicit their opinion on matters related to the operation of his school?

Does he have a good working relationship with the non-professionals in his school?

3. General Administration

Is the principal or director a well organized person? Does his school function smoothly? Are preparations made to permit the school year to get off to a good start? Does he see to it that supplies are available and schedules are organized and workable?

Does the principal or director show interest in plant maintenance? Does he initiate projects and programs to improve the appearance of his school? By his example, does he encourage teachers and pupils to take pride in the appearance of his school?

Does the principal or director give adequate attention to reports and requests for information for Central Office personnel?

Is the school's or director's office well organized to meet the needs of teachers, pupils and parents?

Does the principal or director work with his staff to establish rules, regulations and policies for pupils which are fair and operable?

4. Public Relations

Does the principal or director have the support of the parents in his school and the community? Although they may not always agree with him, do parents respect the principal or director as a knowledgeable and effective professional?

Does the principal or director provide many opportunities for parents and citizens of the community to find out what is going on in the schools? Is he able to handle their questions and criticisms well? Does he give them the feeling that he cares about what they think?

To what extent does the principal or director participate in community activities? Does he accept responsibility for jobs in civic groups or contribute in some other way to the community as a whole?

5. Personal Qualities

Is the principal or director a person of integrity and does he show respect for the integrity of others? Is he tactful and empathetic? Does he practice self-control and remain poised in difficult situations? Is he industrious, cooperative and willing to consider the ideas of others?

Does he show initiative? Are his health and energy good? Does he present the appearance of a professional person? Is he a person of culture and refinement?

6. Contributions to the Profession

In what ways does the administrator give of himself to improve the profession? Does he take responsibility for committee work at the local, state or national level?

7. Professional Improvement

Does the principal or director keep abreast of new trends and materials by attendance at professional meetings and wide reading in the professional literature? Does he participate in systemwide workshops and inservice training courses?

Does he recognize his weaknesses and attempt to improve in areas where he is deficient? Does he care or attempt to find out how his staff feels about him as an administrator?

Guidelines for Implementing Administrators' Merit Awards

1. Merit will not be used to correct existing or past inequities in base salaries or serve as a longevity increment.
2. A written evaluation will be prepared by the Superintendent and will be seen and signed by the administrator being evaluated.
3. The evaluation report will be retained in the administrator's personnel file. (Darien, Connecticut)

Carroll County (Westminister), Maryland

Between the Board of Education of Carroll County and the Carroll County Education Association, effective July 1, 1971, to June 30, 1973. Approximately 765 certificated professional employees. Provision for reopener at the request of the Association, if any of the terms are not approved by the board or the county commissioners. Provision for reopener at the option of the Association if after one year the board or county commissioners do not approve any and all terms of the agreement with respect to the second year.

Compensation: (1971-72, stated as an index with B.A. base equal to 1.00) B.A., $7,040 (1.00) to $11,475 (1.63), 13 increments; M.A., $7,674 (1.09) to $12,250 (1.74), 13 increments; M.A. plus 30 hours, $12,883 (1.83) maximum; Ph.D., $13,517 (1.92) maximum; longevity increment of 5 percent of the base salary for teachers with at least a M.A. after 20 years' teaching experience.

(1972-73, stated as the same index as 1971-72 with a B.A. base equal to 1.00) B.A., $7,500 to $12,225, 13 increments; M.A., $8,175 to $13,050, 13 increments; M.A. plus 30 hours, $13,725 maximum; Ph.D., $14,400 maximum; longevity increment of 5 percent of the base salary for teachers with at least a M.A. after 20 years' experience.

Differentials: football coach, $800; basketball coach, $400; track and baseball coaches, $250; gymnastics coach, $150; girls field hockey coach, $250; instrumental music director, $400; dramatics director, $150 per production (1 production per year); publications' advisors, $150 per production; extracurricular assistants receive half of regular extracurricular compensation.

Other: summer school compensation, prorated sum based on the sum normally received up to the M.A. maximum; after July 1, 1971, compensation for part-time evening and federal employment shall be $6.00 per hour; reimbursement of 12 cents per mile for business travel; department chairmen shall receive an additional $300 annually; team leaders shall receive an extra $100 annually; compensation for teaching summer school programs and working in summer production workshops shall be $6.00 per hour.

Leaves: 1 day per month sick leave which is available at the beginning of school year, maximum accumulation of 120 days'; 3 separate days' for personal business; maximum of 5 days' for death in the immediate household; leave for approved inter-school visitations and educational conferences; leave for jury duty or time necessary for job-related legal appearances; upon retirement or death, 50 percent of accumulated sick leave is paid to employee or estate at the rate of the annual salary per contract day, but if less than 20 years' service, pay is based on one-half the current salary; sabbatical leave available to a maximum of 1 percent of the negotiating unit at half pay for one semester or one year after 5 years' service in the school system.

Insurance: Board-paid health and major medical insurance for individual coverage; board-paid $5,000 term life insurance policy; liability policy covering acts or omissions "complained of," while the teacher was "acting within the scope of his employment"; compensation for work-related injury "for which workmen's compensation and/or medical bills are paid" shall be the full salary for "the period of disability not to exceed five (5) years, provided the teacher gives the Board all allowances received from workmen's compensation because of the injury and waives all medical bills after that date"; tax-sheltered annuity plan.

Association: Payroll deduction for local, state, and national associations; Association will be given agenda of board meetings prior to said meetings and will be provided with the minutes as soon as possible after board meetings; Association officers to have access to school phones "when not engaged in assigned duties"; Association shall be given a "a period of time" during preschool orientation of new teachers; Association members shall be permitted to wear pins or other identification of membership.

Instruction: Secondary teachers shall not be required to teach more than 2 subject areas; student teachers to be assigned only with the sponsoring teacher's written consent.

Personnel: grievance procedure ends with binding arbitration for grievances involving questions of interpretation of contract provisions; teachers have the right to review their personnel files and to have an Association representative present; no derogatory material shall be placed in a teacher's personnel file without his knowledge and the opportunity to submit a response to be reviewed by the superintendent and attached to the file; duty-free lunch period "as guaranteed by law" during which teachers may leave the building; all teachers shall "have an average of at least one planning period per day"; department chairman shall have 2 "non-teaching" periods a day; provision for payment of full cost of tuition, textbooks, and transportation "incurred in connection with any courses, seminars, conferences, in-service training sessions. . . required or requested by the administration"; board-paid tuition reimbursement of "$30 per credit hour for 6 credit hours per school year" available to teachers with professional certificates; nontenure teachers shall receive a written evaluation at least twice annually; "non-tenure teachers in their third year or more. . .will receive one written evaluation prior to April 1st; tenure employees will be given preference for voluntary transfers and reassignments; "employee's area of competence, major or minor field of study, length of service, and the best interest of the school district" will be criteria for involuntary transfers and reasisgnments; these criteria, the quality of the employee's performance, and attendance records shall be the criteria used for selection of teachers for evening, special, and summer school positions when all other factors are equal; when all else is equal, preference for promotional positions shall be given to employees of the school district with the greatest length of service; establishment of a joint committee to develop "an appropriate guideline for handling student problems," i.e. problem students; reimbursement of up to $200 for personal damage resulting from an assault occurring on school property; maintenance of standards provision; reimbursement of travel expenses at the rate of 12 cents a mile for employees assigned to more than one school.

STATE ECONOMIC INDICATORS PUBLICATIONS

An article published in the September 1971 issue of the Monthly Labor Review reported that 15 states now periodically issue economic indicators as distinct publications, and three additional states report indicator data in other publications. While comprehensive economic data are issued in various forms by public and private agencies in many other states, the 18 state economic indicator projects dealt with here were developed as a result of the annual Conference on Labor Statistics, with the aid of the Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), and Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census.

Table 1 provides general information on the 18 publications and indicates where they may be obtained. Most all of the publications contain seasonally corrected data series and are charted on national reference cycle grids in such a way as to facilitate comparison. Half of the 18 publications follow a similar basic format comprised of seasonally adjusted charts, tabular material, and interpretative commentary. This basic format has been extended by six states (California, Florida, Idaho, New Jersey, Virginia, and Wisconsin) to include feature stories and varying special data presentations.

The 18 publications vary widely in style and substance and cover various sectors of economic activity. In general, they present a broader spectrum of data than was available several years ago when BLS cooperative programs predominated. The article noted some experimentation in certain states, including the use of diffusion indicators in Idaho, composite indexes in Minnesota and Washington, and small charts comparing recent state and national cyclical movements for leading and coincident indicators in Connecticut, New Jersey, and Wisconsin. In addition, the Arizona and Wyoming publications utilize small supplementary charts showing state indicators for recent months in an effort to allow the reader to interpret most recent movements more easily.

TABLE 1.–ILLUSTRATIVE STATE ECONOMIC INDICATORS PUBLICATIONS[a]
AS OF MAY 1, 1971

Publication	Frequency of publication	Number of pages	Chart series	Table series	Published by
1	2	3	4	5	6
Arizona Economic Indicators . . .	Monthly	10	19 series from 1961	Annual averages from 1961; monthly data from 1969	Employment Security Commission of Arizona, Unemployment Compensation Division P.O. Box 6123 Phoenix, Ariz. 85005
California Economic Indicators . . .	Bimonthly	22	8 leading, 7 coinciding, 5 other from 1958	Monthly adjusted data from 1968	Department of Finance, Budget Division Sacramento, Calif. 95814
Connecticut Economic Indicators .	Monthly	9	6 leading, 8 coinciding from 1956	Annual averages from 1956; monthly data from 1967	Connecticut Labor Department Employment Security Division Hartford, Conn. 06115
Florida Economic Indicators . . .	Monthly[b]	4	4 leading, 3 coinciding, 1 unclassified from 1968	. . .	Bureau of Economic and Business Research, University of Florida Gainesville, Fla. and Florida Department of Commerce, Office of Research and Planning Tallahassee, Fla. 32304
Idaho Economic Indicators . . .	Monthly	22	5 leading, 6 coinciding, 9 other from 1958	Monthly data from 1969; annual averages from 1961; diffusion index from 1964	Department of Employment, Research and Analysis P.O. Box 7189 Boise, Idaho 83707
Kentucky Economic Outlook . . .	Monthly	8	6 leading, 7 coinciding from 1957	Monthly data from 1970	Kentucky Department of Labor, Division of Research and Statistics Frankfort, Ky. 40601
New Jersey Economic Indicators . . .	Monthly	22	12 leading, 6 coinciding from 1948	Monthly data from 1968	New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry, Division of Planning and Research Trenton, N. J. 08625

TABLE 1.—ILLUSTRATIVE STATE ECONOMIC INDICATORS PUBLICATIONS[a] AS OF MAY 1, 1971 (Continued)

Publication	Frequency of publication	Number of pages	Chart series	Table series	Published by
1	2	3	4	5	6
Oklahoma Economic Indicators . . .	Monthly	18	7 leading, 9 coinciding, 1 lagging from 1957	Monthly data from 1969	Oklahoma Employment Security Commission, Research and Planning Division Oklahoma City, Okla. 73105
South Carolina Economic Indicators .	Monthly	11	7 leading, 7 coinciding, 6 other from 1950	Monthly data from 1970	South Carolina Employment Security Commission, Research and Statistics Section Columbia, S. C. and School of Business Administration, University of South Carolina Columbia, S. C. 29208
Texas Economic Indicators	Monthly	4	7 leading, 4 coinciding from 1962	Data from 1970	Bureau of Business Research, The University of Texas at Austin Austin, Texas 78712
Virginia Economic Indicators . . .	Monthly	21	6 leading, 6 coinciding, 5 other, 1 lagging, 3 diffusion indexes from 1957	Monthly data from 1968 with MCD moving average	Virginia Employment Commission, Manpower Research Division 703 East Main Street Richmond, Va. 23219
Washington Economic Indicators .	Monthly	10	6 leading, 6 coinciding from 1962	Monthly data from 1968; composite index and 4 activity sector indexes from 1962	State of Washington Employment Security Department P.O. Box 367 Olympia, Wash. 98501
West Virginia Economic Indicators .	Monthly	7	4 leading, 5 coinciding from 1957	Annual average from 1957; monthly data from 1969	West Virginia Department of Employment Security, Research and Statistics Department 112 California Avenue Charleston, W. Va. 25305
Wisconsin Economic Indicators . . .	Monthly	14	10 leading, 10 coinciding from 1965	Recent data and change from previous period and year for 35 indicators	Department of Industry, Labor, and Human Relations, Bureau of Manpower Information, Wisconsin State Employment Service P.O. Box 1607 Madison, Wis. 53701

2074

2075

TABLE 1.–ILLUSTRATIVE STATE ECONOMIC INDICATORS PUBLICATIONS[a]
AS OF MAY 1, 1971 (Continued)

Publication	Frequency of publication	Number of pages	Chart series	Table series	Published by
1	2	3	4	5	6
Wyoming Economic Indicators . . .	Monthly	17	6 leading, 6 coinciding, 6 other from 1957	Monthly data from 1966	Wyoming Department of Labor and Statistics 304 Capitol Building Cheyenne, Wyo. 82001
Michigan "Economic Indicators" in Michigan Manpower Quarterly Review	Quarterly[c]	. . .	4 leading, 6 coinciding from 1960	Annual averages from 1961; monthly data from 1968	Michigan Department of Labor, Michigan Employment Security Commission 7310 Woodward Avenue Detroit, Mich. 48202
Minnesota "Leading Indicators of Change" in Highlights of the Minnesota Economy	Monthly	15	(Some being developed)	24 indicators, showing most recent data for previous period and year, for Minnesota and United States, and percent change from previous year	Minnesota Department of Manpower Services, Research and Planning Section 390 North Robert Street St. Paul, Minn. 55101

TABLE 1.–ILLUSTRATIVE STATE ECONOMIC INDICATORS PUBLICATIONS[a] AS OF MAY 1, 1971 (Continued)

Publication	Frequency of publication	Number of pages	Chart series	Table series	Published by
1	2	3	4	5	6
New York "Leading Indicators" and "Roughly Coinciding Indicators" in New York Employment Review.	Monthly	2	4 leading, 3 coinciding, 1 lagging, seasonally adjusted, from 1960	...	New York State Department of Labor, Division of Employment Albany, N. Y. 12201

Source:

Stark, Harry F. "Economic Indicators Issued by States." Monthly Labor Review 94:47-50; September 1971.

[a]Issued as distinct publications with historical charts. All show state series seasonally corrected and charted on national reference cycle grid, and provide unadjusted and adjusted monthly data in tabular form with commentary unless otherwise indicated.

[b]To be issued quarterly starting with July 1971, with additional data for major Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas.

[c]Charts also issued monthly as part of Michigan Manpower Review.

2078

2079

SELECTED NEGOTIATED PROVISIONS: RETIREMENT, DISMISSAL, AND RESIGNATION

An analysis of 1,529 comprehensive classroom teacher agreements, effective during the 1970-71 school year in systems with a pupil enrollment of 1,000 or more, indicated that 510 (33.3 percent) contained procedures dealing with the voluntary or involuntary termination of a teacher's contract. Of the 510 pertinent agreements, 149 (29.2 percent) contained only a retirement procedure; 129 (25.3 percent) contained only a dismissal procedure, and 79 (15.5 percent) provided for resignation procedures alone. Table 1 indicates the incidence of the three types of provisions and combinations thereof in the agreements studied.

TABLE 1.—NEGOTIATED PROVISIONS RELATING TO TEACHER RETIREMENT, DISMISSALS, AND RESIGNATIONS, 1970-71

Item	Agreements containing designated content
	Number	Percent
1	2	3
Total number of agreements analyzed	1,529	...
Total number of pertinent provisions	510	100.0%
Retirement procedure only	149	29.2
Dismissal procedure only	129	25.3
Resignation procedure only	79	15.5
Dismissal and retirement procedures	54	10.6
Dismissal and resignation procedures	35	6.8
Dismissal, resignation, and retirement procedures	33	6.5
Resignation and retirement procedures	31	6.1

The negotiation of resignation procedures and dismissal procedures is generally influenced by statutory regulations and limitations and significant judicial decisions. But the analysis here is restricted to provisions listed under the dismissal, retirement, and resignation headings of the 1970-71 bargaining agreement analysis. Other references to circumstances applicable to termination may be found under the headings for discipline and reprimand, terminal or severance pay, reduction in force, teacher evaluation, and the various long-term leaves, but such references are not included in this study.

Retirement Procedures

Of the termination provisions analyzed, retirement procedure provisions, which were found in 52.3 percent of the agreements selected for analysis, were negotiated more frequently than dismissal or resignation procedures. These retirement procedures were generally predicated upon age and number of years of service in relation to retirement benefits provided under various state and local retirement systems. The retirement age specified in the agreements ranged from 55 to 77 years with the usual required statutory age being 65 years. Some school systems permitted earlier retirement, but had requirements for minimum years of service. In some instances early retirement could be requested because of family illness, disability, or some other emergency. For example, the following provision permits the retirement of > 3. Any teacher who . . . after reaching age 55 who has fifteen (15) years service in the Flint School System if retirement is the result of ill health sufficient to qualify such teacher for disability retirement under the Michigan Retirement System for Public School Employees Act. (Flint, Michigan)

In most of the agreements analyzed, procedure for retirement of teachers 65 years old or older required that written notice of the intention to retire be given by a specific date in the spring of the year preceding the effective date of retirement. In many cases, however, upon written request and with board approval, the teacher might be granted an extended contract with the school district on a year-to-year basis, depending very often upon medical examination requirements. A selection of typical retirement procedures follow:

- Retirement or terminal pay benefit plans generally required that notification of the intention to retire be given before the end of the school year prior to retirement for settlement or budgetary purposes.
- Tenure ceases or the continuing contract is no longer valid after age 65 in most instances.
- Compulsory or mandatory age limit in many provisions is 70.
- Year-to-year contracts may be issued to extend individual teaching positions beyond suggested retirement age under certain circumstances.
- Extended contracts after age 65 may be terminated at any time upon the decision of the board or the superintendent (in some instances with 30 to 60 days' notice).

Examples of negotiated retirement provisions follow:

Employees are required to retire at the age of sixty-five (65) years, however, an employee may be granted an exception to the 65 age requirement on a year to year basis subject to the following:
1. Provide the School Board with a complete physical examination report at the expense of the Board. The Doctor is to be selected by the School Board.
2. Renewal for each additional year will be made by the Superintendent and not subject to a grievance or tenure appeal.
3. Mandatory retirement at age of 70 years. (Freeland, Michigan)

* * *

All professional employees who are under the Wisconsin School Retirement Law shall retire at the close of the school year during which they reach their sixty-fifth (65) birthday. However, they may be contracted to teach beyond their sixty-fifth (65th) birthday upon the recommendation of the school administrator. (Sun Prairie, Wisconsin)

11. Retirement Options

A. Compulsory retirement age for certified personnel is at the end of the school year during which age 67 (sixty-seven) is attained.

B. Certified personnel may retire at the end of any school year after the age sixty (60) is attained.

C. Certified personnel may retire after thirty (30) years of service in the Hurst-Euless-Bedford School System. (Hurst, Texas)

* * *

Teachers are to be retired at 65 years of age except that the Board of Education may use their discretion on extension. (Hortonville, Wisconsin)

Dismissal Procedures

Dismissal procedures, which were found in 49.2 percent of the agreements selected for analysis, were the second most frequently negotiated termination procedure, and they too seemed to be influenced by tenure statutes and other legislation. In some instances, state tenure laws are specifically referred to in the dismissal provisions. In addition to providing for the continuing employment of teachers who under the terms of tenure law have acquired permanent or tenure status, tenure laws require school boards to comply with prescribed procedural provisions providing for notice of dismissal, statement of charges and the teacher's right to a hearing before being dismissed or before the nonrenewal of his employment contract can be effective. In a few states, the same dismissal procedures protecting tenure teachers also apply to probationary teachers. In other states, however, these rights are not accorded nontenure teachers, although recent court decisions are requiring school boards to provide substantive and procedural due process rights for nontenure teachers. [National Education Association, Research Division, Teacher Tenure and Contracts, Research Report 1971-R3, 1971, p. 5-6.]

Frequently the reasons for dismissal of a teacher, regardless of tenure or nontenure status, were mentioned in the agreements selected. These included insubordination, immorality, incompetence, agency shop violations, abuses of academic freedom or of sick leave, and the failure of a teacher to show a "significant improvement" after receiving an unsatisfactory evaluation at the end of the probationary period.

The procedures for dismissal outlined in the agreements analyzed contained the following elements:

• Some dismissal procedures distinguish between tenure and nontenure teachers. Still, in a Rhode Island arbitration case, an arbitrator found that a nontenure teacher may not be arbitrarily dismissed during the contract term and directed the school board to give the teacher a statement of the reason for dismissal and a hearing on the matter in accord with the Fourteenth Amendment provision for due process (NRD, 10-70, 14).

• The board is required to give written notice of reason for dismissal. For example, when an Illinois school board failed to notify a teacher of an adverse evaluation placed in his personnel file prior to his dismissal, the arbitrator ruled that the board had denied the teacher his guaranteed right to contradict the judgement of his evaluators and ordered that he be reinstated. (South Stickney School District No. 220 (Oaklawn), Illinois, and Reavis High School Federation of Teachers Local 1951, August 28, 1970.)

• If the notice of dismissal is not submitted to the teacher within certain time limits, the board must rehire the teacher for the following year.

• During a period ranging from five to 30 days, the teacher may submit a written request for a hearing conducted either privately or publicly.

• Pending the hearing, the teacher may be suspended, generally without pay.

• At the hearing, the teacher may have counsel or an Association representative present or may call witnesses.

• The board in most cases renders its decision within 30 days after the appeal.

• Final decision of the appeal is made by a majority or full board vote.

• All records regarding dismissal proceedings are expunged from the personnel file if the decision is in the teacher's favor.

• Acquittal generally gives the teacher immediate reinstatement with back pay benefits.

• Some school systems established "fair dismissal" joint committees for the purpose of developing specific criteria for termination of a probationary teacher's contract.

• While tenure teachers may submit grievance to arbitration, probationary teachers may not in some instances.

The following are examples of dismissal procedures provisions found in agreements:

"1. A complaint serious enough to affect the rehiring or discharge of any teacher must be in writing, signed by the person making the complaint and inserted in the teacher's open personnel file. The affected teacher shall be notified in writing of such complaint within fifteen (15) working days.

4. If a teacher is to be discharged, the teacher must be notified at least sixty (60) teaching days prior to dismissal. In the event that the teacher is not notified within the time limit, the teacher in question must be rehired for the following year. (Chicago Heights, Illinois)"

* * *

SECTION 1. Fair Dismissal Policy

(a) No teacher shall be suspended or discharged except for just cause.

(b) Notification of suspension or discharge shall be given to the teacher in writing with a copy to the Federation. The reason for such discharge or suspension shall be stated therein.

(c) The teacher may, if he so desires, upon receipt of notification of suspension or discharge, file a grievance at the third step of the grievance procedure, provided in this Agreement. If suspension or discharge is found to be unjustified at any step of this procedure, the teacher's full pay and benefits shall be restored for the full period of his suspension or discharge.

(d) A teacher suspended or discharged shall not have recourse to arbitration except as provided in ARTICLE I, Section 8 hereof, but in lieu of arbitration such teacher shall have all the rights set forth in Section 10-151 of the Connecticut General Statutes or ARTICLE XXXVII, Section 196, of the Charter of the City of New Haven, whichever applies, including the right to appeal the suspension or discharge to the Board and the right to appeal from the decision of the Board in accordance with the aforesaid provisions of the General Statutes or the Charter of the City of New Haven.

(e) Any hearing held by the Board of Education with respect to the suspension or discharge of a teacher shall be deemed held in satisfaction of Step 4 of the Grievance and Arbitration Procedure contained in ARTICLE III of this Agreement as well as the relevant provisions of the Connecticut General Statutes and the Charter of the City of New Haven. (New Haven, Connecticut)

* * *

B. If a tenure teacher is subject to possible dismissal by the Board, the teacher will receive a written notice including the reasons for possible dismissal from the Superintendent calling for a meeting to discuss the reasons for a pending dismissal.

If a probationary teacher is dismissed, it shall be according to State of Maine Law. (Section 473, of State of Maine Laws Relating to Public Schools).

Except as provided above, the foregoing will in no way limit the authority of the Superintendent to recommend dismissal under State Law to the School Board, or the authority of the School Board, under State Law, to dismiss teachers.

In the case of a suspension without pay pending dismissal of a tenure teacher, the statutory dismissal hearing shall be held not later than 14 days after the commencement of such suspension, except in instances when a reasonable extension is requested by the teacher or when criminal proceedings pertaining to the matter giving rise to the suspension are pending or iminent. If the teacher is dismissed, he shall not be entitled to receive any salary for time not actually worked. If the teacher is not dismissed, he shall be entitled to receive his regular salary for the period of suspension.

A Board decision on dismissal of a teacher shall be final subject to the teacher's right to appropriate judicial review. (Fort Kent, Maine)

* * *

Cause for Discipline and Discharge

The Board shall demote or discharge any teacher only for reasonable and just cause, including, but not limited to, continued or repeated refusals to:

Carry out in a professional manner the curriculum guides and course outlines adopted by the Board, or prepare in a professional manner for carrying out the same;

Carry out work assignments made by the Board and not in conflict with the provisions of this Agreement;

Comply with policies and procedures established by the Board and not in conflict with the provisions of this Agreement;

Provide supervision of and discipline among students in the charge of that teacher.

Procedure for Teacher Discipline or Discharge

No teacher shall be demoted or discharged for conduct under this article unless such teacher has first been counselled with regard to the same by his principal, or other supervisory person.

Any complaint directed toward a teacher from which a disciplinary action or reprimand may result, shall be promptly called to the teacher's attention by whoever receives the complaint on behalf of the school. Teachers are entitled to know the identity or source and the details of all such complaints.

No teacher shall be formally reprimanded or have any record of any reprimand added to his personnel file unless:

The Association and the teacher have been notified in writing of the specific complaint;

The teacher has been given opportunity and time to seek counsel of his choice;

The teacher has had one hearing at which the complaint is read and the teacher is allowed to respond.

The teacher has had a second hearing at which the reprimand is read as it will appear on the record.

The appropriate administrator shall inform a teacher that he may be represented by counsel of his choice at all hearings for disciplinary purposes. When request for such representation is made, no action shall be taken against the teacher until representation is provided. However, the time limit for providing such representation shall be no more than one (1) working day.

The appropriate administrator(s) may confer with teachers in order to investigate facts or allegations in cases that may result in disciplinary action.

Any disciplinary action imposed by the Board on any teacher may be processed as a grievance. If such action includes demotion or discharge, all of the provisions of the Michigan Teachers' Tenure Act covering teachers on continuing tenure (including charges, notice, hearing, determination and appeal to the State Tenure Commission) shall apply for all teachers. The grievance may be initiated at the second step (Superintendent) of the Formal Grievance Procedure, and appeal to the Commission (rather than Arbitration) shall, where applicable, constitute the fourth and final step of the Procedure. (Ann Arbor, Michigan)

Resignation Procedures

An analysis of selected negotiation resignation provisions indicated that the procedure specified in the agreement provisions often tended to neglect the following concerns:

- Resignations were generally discouraged during the school year except when there was an emergency or when the teacher and the board had mutually agreed to the resignation.
- Some resignations were forbidden during the school term or 45 days before school opened (in some school systems five days' notice was sufficient).
- Violation of contract, i.e., resignation without the board's agreement, was deemed unprofessional conduct punishable by the revocation or suspension of certification for one to five years, loss of tenure, or monetary penalty.
- In cases of emergency the board might waiver these resignation restrictions.

Other examples of teacher resignation procedures follow:

- A nontenure teacher resigning without prejudice during the school year was generally required to give 30 days' notice. A tenure teacher resigning as of September was required to give 60 days' prior notice.
- Some provisions requested that the building principal be given 90 days' prior notice of the intention to resign so that a competent replacement could be located.
- Release from a teaching contract was to be granted only if the board were able to find a suitable replacement.
- A few systems indicated that a teacher resigning during the school year without a permissible reason (maternity, personal illness, transfer of husband, military service, or other emergency the board judges proper) might violate his contract and would not be given requested referrals.

A sampling of resignation provisions is reprinted below:

A teacher may terminate his contract without prejudice as follows:

1. A first or second year teacher not on tenure by giving a letter in writing no later than May 1 of a school year.
2. A tenured teacher by giving notice in writing during the months of June or July.
3. Resignation of an emergency nature ruled on and accepted by the Personnel Office.
4. Other resignations that are consented to by the Superintendent or his designee. (Prince Georges Co., Upper Marlboro, Maryland)

* * *

No member may terminate his contract after the tenth day of July or when the schools are in session without the consent of the Board. Members who wish to resign at any other time must submit a resignation in writing to the Assistant Superintendent at least ten days before the effective date of the resignation. (Akron, Ohio)

* * *

Thirty (30) days written notice prior to the effective date of the resignation must be given and mutually accepted by both parties. If the Board is unable to find a satisfactory replacement, no release will be granted.

Under extenuating circumstances, the Superintendent may waive such notice. (Hortonville, Wisconsin)

* * *

4. The employee may terminate his contract, upon forty-five (45) days' written notice, to the deputy superintendent (personnel), before the first calendar day of school.
   (a) After the first calendar day of school each year, the employee may terminate his contract upon thirty (30) days' written notice to the deputy superintendent (personnel).
5. Damages in an amount of $100 to cover recruitment and other costs will be levied against an employee who fails to give the required notice of his intention to terminate his contract as specified in the Agreement. (Granite City, Utah)

VOL. 5 NO. 5
JAN. 1972

NRD
NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST

CONTENTS

Page

Case Reviews 3

Contract Bar Doctrine Inapplicable to Teacher Collective Bargaining; Representation Election Ordered
PERB Jurisdiction Over Probationary Teacher Dismissal Case Denied
Teachers Violating Taylor Law No-strike Clause Are Subject to Legally Proscribed Penalties

Board Findings and Rulings 5

Departmental Advisory Committees Are Not Labor Unions; Unfair Labor Practice Charges Dismissed
NIRC Asserts Jurisdiction Over Wage Disputes in Two School Districts
Walkout Protesting School Board's Integration Policy Violated the Taylor Law
RILRB Includes Department Chairmen in Unit of Academic University Employees
Teachers Have Statutory Right to Representation at Nonrenewal Conferences

Negotiation Notes 9

State Sets First Minimum Wage Law
University Employee Dues Check-Off Prohibited
City's Workweek Increase Unlawful Because of Failure to Notify and Negotiate With Union
New Public Employee Bargaining Statute Enacted
State Agencies May Bargain Collectively With Employees; Guidelines Issued
Teachers Among Those With Highest Moonlighting Rate
Consumer Price Index, November 1971

Statistics 12

Negotiation Agreements: Board Rights Provisions

Special Reports 16

Briefs of Recent Agreements
Contract Administrative Provisions—Maintenance of Standards, Savings Clause, Effect of Prior Policies, Effect on Future Policies

Texts 26

Minnesota Public Employment Relations Act of 1971

RESEARCH DIVISION
NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

Copyright © 1972 by the
National Education Association
All Rights Reserved

2086

Case Reviews

CONNECTICUT

CONTRACT BAR DOCTRINE INAPPLICABLE TO TEACHER COLLECTIVE BARGAINING; REPRESENTATION ELECTION ORDERED

The Hartford County Superior Court held that the National Labor Relations Board's (NLRB) Contract Bar doctrine was not provided for under the Connecticut teacher negotiation statute, and therefore rejected the school board's contention that an existing negotiated contract acted as a bar to a representation election petitioned-for by the Hartford Education Association (HEA). Pointing out that the teacher negotiation statute requiring petitioned-for teacher representation elections during any school year was "clear, unambiguous, and mandatory," the court granted the Association relief, and ordered that a writ of mandamus be issued requiring the board to conduct the petitioned-for election.

The Hartford Board of Education had contended that the collective bargaining agreement between the board and the Hartford Federation of Teachers, Local No. 1018 (AFL-CIO), effective December 9, 1970, to November 30, 1972, barred the election requested by the HEA. Although the court acknowledged that the Contract Bar doctrine had been applied to cases within the jurisdictions of the NLRB and the state Board of Labor Relations, the court maintained that certified teachers were subject neither to the National Labor Relations Act (NLRA) nor the NLRB's rules nor Chapter 113, Part II, sec. 7-467 of the Connecticut General Statutes entitled "Municipal Employees."

Instead, the court noted that teachers were governed by another standard, and in the case of representation elections, sec. 10-153(e) applied. This section states that the exclusive representative of a teachers' unit "shall continue to be the exclusive representative of such personnel upon expiration of the salary agreement in effect between such organizations and the board of education . . . until and unless employees of such board of education . . . initiate a petition for designation of an organization to represent them." [Italics added.]

Applying this section of the teacher bargaining statutes, the court ruled that the defendant school board had "an obligation imposed on it by statute" to hold the representation election. Accordingly, the court ordered the issuance of a writ of mandamus ordering the board to hold the requested election. (Hartford Education Association v. Hartford Board of Education, Hartford County Superior Court, March 22, 1971.)

NEW YORK

PERB JURISDICTION OVER PROBATIONARY TEACHER DISMISSAL CASE DENIED

The New York Supreme Court, Suffolk County, ruled that the state Public Employee Relations Board (PERB) does not have jurisdiction over probationary teacher dismissal disputes, and affirmed a school board's right under the Education Law to dismiss probationary teachers without giving reason.

Accordingly the court granted the petition of the Central School District No. 5, Towns of Huntington and Babylon, Board of Education to enjoin the PERB's finding that dismissal of a probationary teacher, allegedly for union activities, constituted an improper labor practice. The case in question had been brought before the PERB by the Half Hollow Hills Education Association.

Citing the Commissioner of Education in Matter of Marsh, the court observed that the "clearest reason" for maintaining the board's prerogative was that

> The Legislature has given school districts the right to dismiss a probationary teacher at any time during the probationary period, and no reason need be given. In adopting this rule, the Legislature recognized that it is necessary that school authorities have a fair opportunity to judge the capabilities of a new teacher before such teacher acquires tenure. Any other rule would undermine the right of a board of education to insist on a reasonable level of competence from its teachers.

Continuing, the court presented its position on PERB's assertion of jurisdiction over probationary teacher dismissal cases by citing its ruling in Board of Education, C.S.D. #1, Grand Island v. Helsby:

> When a probationary teachers joins or participates in an employee organization, he is not immune from discharge before his period has expired. Otherwise, such employee could secure tenure during his probation by merely joining an employee organization, thereby, defeating the entire probationary program. Such a reductio ad absurdum was not intended by the Legislature. PERB lacks jurisdiction herein.

Distinguishing between the powers given to the Commissioner of Education by the Education Law and those given to the PERB by the Taylor Law, the court found that the Commissioner had jurisdiction over all legislation relating to the states' educational system. This jurisdiction included the resolution of "cases brought before him by probationary teachers concerning termination of their services." Also noted was the Commissioner's expertise in this field. However, the court found that PERB's jurisdiction was restricted to cases dealing with the Taylor Law's principal function—"collective bargaining in the field of public employment." Furthermore, there was "nothing in the Taylor Law which would warrant the intrusion by PERB into the field of probationary term and tenure of teachers," nor was there any "indication that PERB should act as a judge in an area in which the Commissioner of Education was the recognized expert." Therefore, the court determined that the case in question came within the Commissioner's jurisdiction.

The court concluded that "it was . . . obvious that the Taylor Law was not intended to interrupt a well designed training and evaluation period for teachers before they received the benefits of tenure." Accordingly, it granted the school board's petition to enjoin the PERB's improper practice charge. (Central School District No. 5, Towns of Huntington and Babylon, Board of Education v. Robert D. Helsby et al., New York Supreme Court, Suffolk County, July 9, 1971.)

NEW YORK

TEACHERS VIOLATING TAYLOR LAW NO-STRIKE CLAUSE ARE SUBJECT TO LEGALLY PROSCRIBED PENALTIES

In a class action suit brought by teachers who had participated in a strike, the New York Supreme Court ruled that legally proscribed penalties are justified even though notification of the violations and applications of the penalties are not served immediately after the strike.

The members of the Niagara Teachers Association engaged in a strike from September 8 to 11, 1970, in violation of sec. 210 of the Taylor Law. Notification of penalty imposition, which is prescribed in sec. 210(2)(D), was received on November 2, 1970, and the penalties were applied on January 22, 1971. The petitioners contend that the penalty action should have been taken on September 18, 1970, since payroll records of that date reflect teacher absence during the strike.

The court held that this basis was not sufficient because the September 18 payroll records indicate absences in addition to those resulting from the strike. The question before the court was whether the delay of 50 days between the last day of the strike (September 11) and the date of penalty notification (November 2) constituted an unreasonable delay.

The Taylor Law does not indicate that the sanctions are to be invoked immediately. Under the law, the superintendent, as "the Chief Executive Officer of the Government involved," is given the right to decide the nature, scope and extent of the mandatory investigation. If a final determination is to be made, the investigation must not only indicate that a violation has occurred, but also disclose which employees committed such a violation. The court found that the size of the school district (17,000 pupils in 21 elementary and seven secondary schools), the number of teachers employed (966), and the resulting complex problems of the superintendent had great effect on the time necessary for such an investigation, and thus justified the time lag between the strike and the notification of the penalties.

The Court concluded that the final determination was timely made, that the form and substance of the penalties (payroll deductions and tenure forfeiture) were adequate and that the penalty applied on January 22 was within legal limitations, i.e., "30 days after but not later than 90 days following the making of the determination." The court dismissed the teachers' petition for return of payroll deductions and cancellation of the tenure forfeiture penalties. (Ruben Cirillo et al. v. Niagara Falls Board of Education, New York Supreme Court, County of Niagara, June 15, 1971.)

Board Findings and Rulings

MICHIGAN

DEPARTMENTAL ADVISORY COMMITTEES ARE NOT LABOR UNIONS; UNFAIR LABOR PRACTICE CHARGES DISMISSED

Ruling on two separate Michigan State University (MSU) probationary teacher dismissal cases, the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) determined that the probationary faculty members involved were not denied reappointment because of protected union activities. The commission so ruled after finding that the organizations in which the university teachers were active, the Departmental Advisory Committees (DAC), were not labor unions within the meaning of the Labor Relations and Mediation Act. This act specifies in sec. 2(g) that a " 'labor organization' . . . exists for the purpose, in whole or in part, of dealing with employers concerning grievances, labor disputes, wages, rates of pay, hours of employment, or conditions of work."

MERC found that these advisory committees, which were established by the university Board of Trustees, followed the "traditional pattern of cooperative faculty self-government," wherein the government of the separate departments was to be "entrusted to the university president and respective faculties." However, "it was clear that [DAC's] function . . . [was] merely advisory in nature."

In addition, the commission found that the committees do not "deal or bargain with" the university as representatives for employees, and furthermore that they are not part of any process of bargaining with the university management, since "they are part of the University government."

• In the first case, a probationary associate professor alleged that he was denied tenure owing to his attempt as a member of the DAC to improve working conditions within the Department of Social Sciences. The commission rejected this allegation after finding that the university DAC's were not labor organizations. Also rejected was the allegation that the DAC's interfered with the "employees" freedom of choice to form, join or assist labor organizations and through such organizations . . . bargain collectively with the University." The MERC ruled that > there is no evidence that any managerial representative of Michigan State University has interfered in any way with the right of members of the faculty to select a labor organization to represent them in an appropriate unit pursuant to the proceedings established by the Hutchinson Act. Accordingly, the commission dismissed the unfair labor practice charge filed against Michigan State University. (Michigan State University, Department of Social Science, and John R. Hilderbrand, Michigan Employment Relations Commission, August 9, 1971.)

• Reviewing the second dismissal dispute, MERC found that the two assistant professors involved had attempted to improve working conditions within the Natural Science Department by participating in the DAC. However, the commission determined that these activities were not protected since the DAC was not a labor organization. Accordingly, MERC dismissed charges that the two assistant professors were denied reappointment because of their protected activities. (Michigan State University, Department of Natural Science and Eileen R. Van Tassell and Bertram G. Murray, Michigan Employment Relations Commission, September 8, 1971.)

NEBRASKA

NIRC ASSERTS JURISDICTION OVER WAGE DISPUTES IN TWO SCHOOL DISTRICTS

The Nebraska Industrial Relations Court (NIRC) asserted jurisdiction over two separate teacher salary disputes. NIRC ordered Seward School District to adopt an NIRC established salary schedule. NIRC also directed the court trial of a wage suit filed by the Hastings Education Association (HEA) against the Hastings School District. The NIRC, under sec. 48-818 of the state statute, asserted its prerogative "to establish or alter the scale of wages, hours of labor or conditions of employment, or any one or more of the same," when, under sec. 48-810, "all provisions of [the Nebraska Teachers' Professional Negotiations Act have] been exhausted without resolution of the dispute involved." In addition, the NIRC pointed out in both cases that the scope of the school district's power is restricted by law, since a school district "is, itself, wholly a creature of state statutes and can exercise its statutory powers only in the manner specified by state statutes."

• In the first case the NIRC ordered the Seward School District to adopt a NIRC-established pay schedule that, as stipulated in sec. 48-818 of the state statute, was "comparable to the prevalent wage rates paid [in comparable Nebraska school districts] . . . for the same or similar work." In so ruling, the court rejected the school district's contention that mandating of teacher pay schedules violated the state constitution, which deals with the separation and delegation of powers, and sec. 48-818 of the state statutes, which restricts NIRC's jurisdiction over school districts. However, NIRC explained that it derived its powers from both these documents and that sec. 48-818 gave it jurisdiction over salary disputes as an exception to the separation of powers clause of the state constitution. Thus, the NIRC held that it, not the school district, had final jurisdiction over unresolved wage disputes.

Considering salary schedules in comparable school districts, the court mandated a 1971-72 pay schedule with a base of $6,500, increments of 5 percent, and additional education increments of 3 percent. (Seward Education Association and Seward School District, Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations, August 9, 1971.)

• In the dispute between the HEA and the Hastings School District, the NIRC determined that the Association's wage suit was not barred from NIRC by the signing of individual contracts prior to the completion of collective bargaining. The NIRC held that execution of individual contracts does not "constitute a waiver or abandonment" of collective bargaining procedure provided by law, including "those statutes subjecting governmental employers . . . to the jurisdiction of this court." In conclusion, the NIRC denied the school district's petition seeking a summary judgement for the dismissal of the Association's suit and ordered a court trial of the case. (Hastings Education Association v. Hastings School District, Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations, July 15, 1971.)

NEW YORK

WALKOUT PROTESTING SCHOOL BOARD'S INTEGRATION POLICY VIOLATED TAYLOR LAW

In an unusual interpretation of the Taylor Law, the New York Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) ruled that the Rochester Teachers Association (RTA) had engaged in a strike by scheduling a racial integration conference which forced schools to close, and respecting another organization's picket lines protesting the school board's rejection of an integration plan.

This ruling rejected RTA's contention that teachers attending the March 2 conference did not illegally absent themselves since the superintendent had cancelled school in consideration of student safety. Also rejected was RTA's argument that teachers respecting picket lines on March 3 had acted as individuals in a wildcat strike, and that RTA did not organize or instigate the strike, but merely recognized it. The hearing officer based his finding on a National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) ruling in Seafarers International Union of North America, holding that a "concerted refusal to cross a picket line constitutes a strike." Referring to the NLRB position, the hearing officer concluded that the RTA had "caused, instigated, encouraged, condoned and engaged in a strike."

When community action groups voted to picket schools March 2, the RTA scheduled the conference day on racial integration allegedly to prevent the exposure of students to a potentially dangerous situation. This action in effect forced the superintendent to close schools. However, PERB held that the official cancellation of school did not exonerate RTA since it had urged its members to walkout.

Finding that other groups had instigated the picketing, the hearing officer noted that RTA's action should not be considered in a vacuum. He also pointed out that scheduling of the conference day had "somewhat [eased] the impact [of picketing and boycotting] at least with regard to safety of students." The officer also admitted that the two-day teacher walkout did not seriously hinder the education of children, and other than the substantial evidence related above, he found no significant evidence that RTA engaged in a strike. No strike vote was taken and no negotiation dispute between the RTA and the School Board was pending at the time.

Still the PERB rejected RTA's claim that no strike was called since there had been no concerted action to achieve a stated purpose imposed on the membership under threat of organizational discipline. The PERB pointed out that

> It is not uncommon that strikes take the form of temporary demonstrations and disruptions which are designed to make life uncomfortable for the employer. They do not continue until the employees' goals are attained, but are nevertheless directed at the achievement of those goals. . . . When respondent instructed its members to attend a conference on March 2 and to refuse to cross picket lines on March > 3. it engaged in concerted action. The purposes which it was desirous of achieving were (1) to demonstrate support for the black action groups and others who wished the employer to adopt a more vigorous program for school desegregation, (2) the diminution of danger for the students . . . and (3) the maintenance of rapport which many teachers in the inner city had with the indigenous community. In the public sector, organizational discipline in support of a strike cannot be enforced by the imposition of legal penalties, as is the case in the private sector. It would be most unlikely that a court would sustain penalties assessed against a member of an organization by reason of the member's refusal to perform an illegal act. Nevertheless, organizational discipline can be, and is, generated by social pressures within the organization. A person who refuses to participate in a strike can be made to feel uncomfortable by his peers. Often this is an effective form of discipline.

In addition, the PERB dismissed the Association's contention that some teachers had been absent owing to illness, while others did not cross picket lines for reasons of conscience or for fear of personal injury. The PERB reasoned that absence of some teachers for potentially justifiable reasons did not negate the logical assumption that the majority of teachers were absent owing to the strike.

Similarly, PERB acknowledged RTA's motivations for advising the walkout as commendable. However, PERB upheld the hearing officer's finding that the "Board's actions with respect to integration over the years, . . . were not in pursuance of any policy of extreme provocation against teacher organizations or against teachers as members of such organizations."

In addition, PERB dismissed the Association's allegation that the hearing procedure had violated its due process rights. The PERB found that its ruling on a charge instituted by a PERB employee was not prejudicial.

Finding the two-day strike to be unlawful, the PERB penalized the RTA with a three-month forfeiture of dues check-off rights. (In Matter of Rochester Teachers Association, New York Public Employment Relations Board, July 29, 1971.)

RHODE ISLAND

RILRB INCLUDES DEPARTMENT CHAIRMEN IN UNIT OF ACADEMIC UNIVERSITY EMPLOYEES

Ruling on the request of the University of Rhode Island Professional Association (URIPA), an affiliate of NEA, for exclusive representation of the university's academic employees, the Rhode Island Labor Relations Board (RILRB) determined that the appropriate bargaining unit should include "full-time teaching and research faculty, . . . librarians with faculty status and department chairmen." However administrators, adjunct part-time faculty, graduate assistants and other employees were to be excluded from the unit. In addition, the RILRB considered the American Association of University Professors' (AAUP) intervenor petition for representation of the unit, and ordered a representation election.

The RILRB's determination of the faculty bargaining unit negated the Rhode Island Board of Regents' claim that the case was not within the RILRB's jurisdiction. Also rejected was the employer's assertion that the department chairmen should be excluded from the unit. Noting that "the field of Education is somewhat unique, . . . [that] the supervisory authority either exercised or possessed by the department heads is not sufficient to exclude them under" the State Labor Relations Act, and furthermore that the "Department chairmen did not exercise management controls duties nor was their function dissimilar from other teachers at the University," the RILRB ruled that department chairmen should be included in the faculty bargaining unit. (In Matter of Rhode Island and Providence Plantation Board of Regents and University of Rhode Island Professional Association and American Association of University Professors, Rhode Island Relations Board, October 19, 1971.)

WISCONSIN

TEACHERS HAVE STATUTORY RIGHT TO REPRESENTATION AT NONRENEWAL CONFERENCES

The Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission (WERC) asserted jurisdiction over a teacher contract nonrenewal dispute, and ruled that a school board committed an unfair labor practice by denying a teacher union representation at a private conference. In so ruling, the WERC concurred with the Whitehall Teachers Association's contention that the board interfered with the teacher's rights, and violated sec. 111.70 of the state Municipal Employment Bargaining Act, which specifies that "municipal employees shall have . . . the right to be represented by labor organizations of their own choice in conferences . . . with their municipal employers or their representatives on questions of wages, hours and conditions of employment."

This decision was based on the stance that nonrenewal of a teacher's contract affects tenure, which in turn affects wages, hours, and conditions of employment. Thus, the commission's decision rejected the board's contention that contract nonrenewal was not a matter affecting wages, hours, and conditions of employment, and therefore that the WERC had no jurisdiction over the dispute. Also rejected was the board's argument that a private conference with the teacher, as required by sec. 118.22 of the state statute, had been held, and that such a conference under that section of the law excluded all persons other than the teacher involved and the board.

However, the trial examiner found that while sec. 111.70 (3)(a)(1) did not give the teacher a right to a conference, it gave her a right to representation at such a conference. He also found that sec. 118.22(3) of the state statute gave teachers the right to conference with their employers, and thus he concluded that "taking the two statutes together, there was no evidence of legislative intent to limit the right to representation by the words 'private conference.'"

Since the board's violation was "largely procedural," the examiner decided that "full and complete reinstatement without consideration of the merits for nonrenewal [as requested by the Association] would be in excess of the remedy necessary to make the teacher whole." Instead, he ruled that the remedy should "be to restore the teacher to the status she held as of the moment preceding the improper refusal to permit representation" and to expunge from the teacher's employment record all actions or decisions following the procedural violation.

In addition, the board was ordered "to cease and desist from refusing to permit union representatives to represent members of the recognized bargaining unit of teachers in conferences with the board on questions of wages, hours, and working conditions." (Whitehall Teachers Association, et al. v. Whitehall School District et al., Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission, October 7, 1971.)

Negotiation Notes

ILLINOIS

STATE SETS FIRST MINIMUM WAGE LAW

Illinois' first minimum wage law went into effect on January 1, 1972. It established a minimum wage of $1.40 per hour for employees over 19 and a rate of $1.15 per hour for employees under 19. Effective January 1, 1973, the rates will be raised to $1.60 and $1.25, respectively. In traditional tipping occupations, 50 percent of the minimum wage can be derived from tips. A lower minimum wage has been set for the elderly, the physically and mentally handicapped, and employees in a six-month training program.

Excluded from coverage under the law were agricultural and domestic workers, outside salesmen, employees of religious organizations and corporations, motion theater ushers, ticket takers and candy sellers, and all employees covered by federal minimum wage laws.

IOWA

UNIVERSITY EMPLOYEE DUES CHECK-OFF PROHIBITED

An opinion issued by the Iowa Attorney General on September 10, 1971, held that in absence of appropriate legislation university employees, as employees of the state, cannot authorize and assign deduction of union dues. The reason for the prohibition was that other state employees are not allowed to check-off union dues, and to permit one but not all classifications of employees check-off rights would be unfair. The cost of allowing all voluntary wage assignments would increase the burden of the taxpayer.

MICHIGAN

CITY'S WORKWEEK INCREASE UNLAWFUL BECAUSE OF FAILURE TO NOTIFY AND NEGOTIATE WITH UNION

The Michigan Employment Relations Commission upheld a claim of nine labor organizations representing employees of the City of Detroit who charged that the city unlawfully refused to bargain with the unions and unilaterally increased the workweek. Rejected were the city's contentions that an increase in the workweek was a prerogative of management, and that the union's claim should have been processed through the grievance procedure rather than through the commission.

The basis for MERC's ruling was that the unions' contracts contained maintenance of conditions clauses which gave the unions the right to be notified and to bargain with the employer before a change of working conditions. Since some unions' contracts had expired, not all of the unions were able to resort to the grievance procedure, and also, the use of arbitration was discretionary, not mandatory. The city was ordered to cease and desist from changing the working hours without good faith bargaining with the unions, and to restore all affected employees to their original workweek.

MINNESOTA

NEW PUBLIC EMPLOYEE BARGAINING STATUTE ENACTED

A special session of the Minnesota state legislature enacted the Public Employment Relations Act of 1971 on October 30, 1971. Prior to passing this legislation, two separate labor relations acts were in effect. All public employees except teachers were covered by one act, while separate legislation encompassed only school personnel. The new law, which becomes effective July 1, 1972, includes both groups of employees under its jurisdiction.

Under the new statute, public employees are permitted to "meet and negotiate" on terms and conditions of employment and grievance procedures. Further, professional employees are granted the right to "meet and confer" with employers concerning policy matters. A negotiating timetable is outlined in the statute, also, the law provides for nonbinding arbitration of impasses. Included in the legislation is a list of unfair labor practices, and power is vested in the district court to enjoin certain of these practices. The duties of the director of the Bureau of Mediation Services, which were outlined in previous legislation, are supplemented by the new act. A public employment relations board is established by the statute.

"Public employers," according to the act, are all state and political subdivisions and their agencies, including the University of Minnesota, state and junior colleges, and school districts. Excluded from this category are "charitable hospitals."

A public employee is "any person employed by a public employer" except for elected officials, election officers, national guard personnel, and certain temporary and part-time employees. A teacher is defined as "any person other than a superintendent or assistant superintendent employed in a school district in a position for which the person must be certified by the state board of education;" while a principal is "any person so certificated by the state department of education who devotes more than 50 percent of his time to administrative or supervisory duties."

"Meet and negotiate" is defined as the mutual obligation of representatives of public employers and employees to meet and enter into an agreement concerning the terms and conditions of employment, and grievance procedures. Contrarily, "meet and confer" is the exchange of views between representatives of public employers and employees. Working hours, compensation, fringe benefits and personnel policies are specified as "terms and conditions of employment." Appropriate bargaining units do not include principals, assistant principals, supervisory and confidential employees, although this group may form their own unit and affiliate it with the other employees' organizations.

Employers have the right to negotiate with exclusive or nonexclusive representatives of employees. Exclusive representation can be established in two ways: either by a joint employer-employee request and a vote of at least 50 percent of the unit, or a petition for an election upon a 30 percent showing of majority support in the form of signed authorization cards. The elections are to be held by the director of the Bureau of Mediation Services.

During negotiations, the statute provides that the state will be represented by a team comprised of the administration commissioner and a civil service director or a representative.

The section of the statute concerning negotiation procedures states that employers and employees must execute a written agreement including the terms and conditions of employment and a grievance procedure with binding arbitration. Contracts negotiated between school boards and teachers must extend for two years commencing on July 1 of an even year, all such contracts entered into prior to July 1, 1972, must end by June 30, 1972. Other public sector agreements can be for no longer than three years. If an impasse occurs between the parties, the director of the Bureau of Mediation Services must be informed, and he shall take the necessary steps to settle the disagreement. Under the statute, the employer is required to execute the contract in the form of a resolution or an ordinance.

A section of the statute concerns the right of professional employees and public employers to "meet and confer" on employment policies and matters relating to public services at least once every four months. The representatives of the employers and employees each select a consultant from a list provided by the public employment relations board, the consultants will issue advisory opinions.

Strikes by any public employees are forbidden by the statute. Violators of this provision may be fired upon written notification from the employer. A union which violates the no-strike provision loses its exclusive representative and dues check-off rights for two years.

A list of 10 employer and 17 employee unfair labor practices are included in the law. The act also stipulates that any person or organization can bring action for injunctive relief and damages in a county district court where a practice allegedly occurs.

The responsibilities of the director of the Bureau of Mediation Services are extended under the new legislation. The director is required to investigate all petitions for exclusive certification or decertification of organizations, all petitions from mediation services, all petitions for elections, and all petitions for impasse certification. Determining appropriate bargaining units and mediating disputes between employers and exclusive agents are also the responsibilities of the director. Certain duties relating to the public employment relations board are also required of the director, i.e., to furnish clerical and administrative services and catalogue all decisions of the public employment relations board.

The board instituted by the statute, is to be comprised of five members appointed by the chief justice of the supreme court: two representatives of the public employers, two representatives of public employees, and one representative of the general public. The board will adopt its own rules for procedures. Some of the responsibilities vested with the board are: deciding issues relating to the meaning of supervisory, confidential, professional, and essential employees; hearing appeals from the director on appropriate bargaining units and maintain a list of qualified arbitrators. In the event that an impasse is brought before it, a list of seven arbitrators will be compiled from which the deadlocked parties will select three. If the decision is to be rejected by the public employer, he must notify the board within 10 days.

The full text of the Minnesota Public Employment Relations Board Act of 1971 is published in the "Texts" section.

NEW MEXICO

STATE AGENCIES MAY BARGAIN COLLECTIVELY WITH EMPLOYEES; GUIDELINES ISSUED

The New Mexico State Personnel Board issued guidelines permitting state agencies to bargain collectively with their employees, effective July 1, 1971. In March 1971, the state legislature had defeated a proposed public employee collective bargaining act. Thereafter, the state Attorney General issued opinions recommending that state agencies recognize and negotiate with employee organizations. The State Personnel Board's guidelines evolved from the Attorney General's opinions.

These regulations provide in part for the training of supervisory personnel in labor relations, right of employees to join unions, and the option of employee organizations establishing informal, consultative, or formal relationships with their employer. The guidelines established the procedure by which employee organizations may request recognition, hold representative elections, and become certified. Also delineated in the regulations were the restrictions placed on union activities. These restrictions were in the form of right to work, no strike, and management rights clauses. Rules and regulations pertaining to unfair labor practices were to be established by the board. However, the board retained the authority to give continuing advice and assistance and to "administer and interpret these regulations."

TEACHERS AMONG THOSE WITH HIGHEST MOONLIGHTING RATE

A recent Bureau of Labor Statistics survey of men whose primary jobs are teaching or protective services, firefighters or police, shows that over 15 percent held second jobs, the highest moonlighting rate, more than double the rate for all men. Postal workers and state and local government employees held from 12 to 15 percent of multiple jobs.

The August issue of Manpower, the Labor Department's journal, reported that although money to meet expenses or pay bills was the primary motive, many workers in these professions take on added work to keep up with the times.

On the academic level, college and university faculty members of business, architecture, and engineering schools are often encouraged by their administrators to moonlight in order to keep abreast of trends and events in the marketplace, as well as to maintain connections for their graduating students. Faculty members may lecture at executive training institutes, act as consultants to federal agencies, or teach a graduate seminar at another university. At some schools, the salary policy is kept at a low level in expectation that their faculty will make other arrangements to supplement their income.

The public school teacher in trade or vocational schools often takes an extra workload with money an important consideration, but accompanied by a desire to gain practical skills in his subject. Standards are set in some professions so that the second job does not affect the employee's work performance or competence on the first job. The report further stated that private industry has kept a "hands off" policy when moonlighting does not affect the employee's work.

CONSUMER PRICE INDEX, NOVEMBER 1971

Data reported by the Labor Department, Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) indicate that the November 1971 Consumer Price Index (CPI) all-items figure rose 0.2 percent above the previous month to 122.6(1967=100). The November figure put the all-items figure 3.5 percent above that of a year ago. BLS partially attributed the rise to higher property taxes and prices for fresh vegetables, homes and women's clothing, although they were moderated by lower prices for used cars and gasoline.

Most of the prices in the November index reflect Phase I of the wage-rent-price freeze. It is estimated that almost one-half the increase in the index was due to price increases of freeze-exempt items. If these items are not included in the index, the November increase is less than the corresponding September and October increases.

The November index also reflects the refund to consumers of excise taxes on new cars, as required in the Revenue Act of 1971. Since the refund is retroactive to August 15, 1971, the BLS has revised indexes for August, September and October. The revised indexes are 122.1, 122.2 and 122.4 respectively.

Statistics

NEGOTIATION AGREEMENTS: BOARD RIGHTS PROVISIONS

An NEA Research Division analysis of 1,529 classroom teacher agreements in systems with a pupil enrollment of 1,000 or more, effective during the 1970-71 school year, revealed that 532 agreements contained provisions concerning school board rights. The percentage of negotiated agreements containing board rights provisions has steadily declined since 1966-67. In 1966-67, 70.4 percent of the 398 agreements analyzed contained board rights provisions, while in the 1968-69 analysis, 50.9 percent of the agreements contained such provisions. The 1970-71 survey revealed that only 34.8 percent (532) of the agreements provided for board rights. The total number of agreements selected for further analysis was 280. These agreements were taken from every school district in Strata 1 through 5 and a random selection of school districts in Strata 6 through 8.

The purpose of board rights provisions can be viewed in two different ways: as a limit on the powers of the board, or as a license for the school board to act on certain matters. In either case, the provisions attempt to define the scope of the board's authority.

This analysis concerns provisions coded under the general board rights heading in 1970-71. The analysis neither excludes the possibility that specific board rights may be found under different headings (e.g., a board's right to determine the teacher's workday may be found in a section on Teacher Assignment), nor attempts to cross-reference the analyzed provisions with other negotiated content that indirectly affects board rights. Table 1 illustrates the general negotiated content found in board rights provisions. Categories listed in the table are not mutually exclusive since most provisions contained more than one feature.

School systems operate under state laws, and are regulated by constitutional provisions and legislation. The school board, acting as an agent of the state, is accorded certain rights and responsibilities by law. The majority of provisions analyzed (85.0 percent) stated that the school board reserves all rights delegated to it by law. Many of the provisions (193) qualified such statements by mentioning the effect of the terms of the negotiation agreement on board rights. More than half of the provisions analyzed (156) stated that board rights could be limited by the express terms of the agreement. An additional 21 provisions indicated that nothing in the agreement could diminish the legal rights of the school board. Examples of these statements are:

> The Board hereby retains and reserves unto itself, without limitation, all the powers, rights, authority, duties and responsibilities conferred and invested in it by the laws and Constitution of the State of Michigan and of the United States, except as expressly limited by the terms of the Agreement
>
> Flint, Michigan

> It is recognized by the parties that the Board is invested by the laws of the state of Ohio with the management and control of all the public schools in the Columbus City school district . . . Nothing in this agreement shall constitute a derogation or transfer of the authority of the Board as established by the laws of the state of Ohio.
>
> Columbus, Ohio

Other provisions contained statements concerning the effect of the agreement on general, not necessarily legal rights. The question of whether the exercise of board rights was subject to the grievance procedure was considered in 22 provisions. The exercise of board rights was not subject to the grievance procedure in 17 provisions, while five provisions indicated that the exercise of board rights was subject to the grievance procedure. Statements concerning the right of the school board to make final decisions were contained in 12 provisions. Seven of the 12 provisions stated that any decision of the board would be final, while the other five provisions granted the board the right to make final decisions except as provided by the agreement. Nine provisions stated that all rights held by the school board prior to the agreement were to be retained by the board; and seven provided that the school board reserves all rights not mentioned in the agreement.

Many agreements specified the rights reserved for the board. Specific rights found in the provisions can be divided into three categories: rights concerning the general administration of the

2096

TABLE 1.—GENERAL NEGOTIATED CONTENT IN BOARD RIGHTS PROVISIONS, 280 SELECTED PROVISIONS, 1970-71

Negotiated content	Number	Percent
1	2	3
NUMBER OF AGREEMENTS CONTAINING BOARD RIGHTS PROVISIONS	532	...
AGREEMENTS IN THE SELECTED ANALYSIS	280	100.0%
Rights reserved by law	238	85.0
Rights as affected by the agreement	227	81.1
Can limit rights	156	55.7
Cannot limit legal rights	21	7.5
Exercise of rights is not subject to grievance	17	6.1
Rights held prior to agreement are retained	9	3.2
All rights not covered are reserved for the board	7	2.5
Board's decisions are final	7	2.5
Exercise of rights is subject to grievance	5	1.8
Board's decisions are final except as provided in the agreement	5	1.8
Specific rights to administer school district	239	85.4
Administer school system, properties, and employees	88	31.4
Establish policies, rules, and regulations	52	18.6
Manage school district	37	13.2
Maintain efficiency of school district	18	6.4
Direct school district in emergency	12	4.3
Determine number, location, and use of facilities	10	3.6
Determine fiscal policies	8	2.9
Maintain discipline on district property	5	1.8
Contract or sub-contract its work	3	1.1
Other	6	2.1
Specific rights concerning the educational program	188	67.1
Determine methods of instruction, textbooks, teaching materials, and aids	66	23.6
Establish grades, courses of instruction, and special programs	62	22.1
Approve class schedules and teacher assignments	23	8.2
Establish educational policy	21	7.5
Determine age, number, and qualifications of students	6	2.1
Assign or transfer students in classes	4	1.4
Designate which schools shall be attended by which students	4	1.4
Determine school calendar	2	0.7
Rights concerning employees	130	46.4
Hire, fire, discipline, promote, transfer, determine hiring qualifications and conditions of employment	110	39.2
Direct the teaching force	17	6.1
Other	3	1.1
Right to delegate authority	36	12.9
Rights cannot be delegated	26	9.3
May delegate authority to superintendent and other administrators to conduct certain school district operations	9	3.2
Failure to exercise a right does not indicate a waiver of the right	1	0.4

school district, rights pertaining to the board-teacher relationship, and rights relating to the educational program of the school district.

Of the pertinent provisions specifying administrative rights, 85.4 percent gave the board the right to manage and control the school district, its properties, and staff. Most of these statements are similar to the following:

> [The board has the right] to maintain executive management and control of the school district and its properties and facilities, and the professional activities of its employees as related to the conduct of school affairs.
>
> Argo, Illinois

The board was granted the right to establish policies, rules, and regulations as deemed necessary for the operation of the school district in 52 (18.6 percent) of the analyzed provisions. The content of these clauses is similar to the following:

> It is understood and agreed that the board may continue to make and enforce any and all reasonable rules and regulations and policies relative to anything whatever necessary for the proper establishment, maintenance and management and carrying on of the public schools of the school districts.
>
> L'Anse Creuse School District
> Mt. Clemens, Michigan

A general statement granting the school board the right to manage or operate the school district is found in 37 (13.2 percent) of the provisions. These clauses are not as detailed as those previously discussed. An example of such a clause is:

> The Association recognizes that the Board has a responsibility and authority to manage and direct, in behalf of the public, all the operations and activities of the school corporation. . . .
>
> Hammond, Indiana

Another general clause which was included in 18 (6.4 percent) of the provisions gave the school board the right "to maintain the efficency of the school district." More specific administrative rights were granted to the board in 44 (15.8 percent) of the provisions. The board was given the right to direct the operation of the school district in times of emergency in 18 provisions; 10 provisions reserved the right to determine the maintenance and use of school district facilities for the board; and eight provisions granted the board the right to determine fiscal policies and to authorize expenditures of public monies within the school system. Various other rights reserved to the board included rights to maintain discipline on school property; to contract or subcontract any of its work; to determine safety and health measures, public relations programs, inventories, quality standards of work, and parent relations programs.

Of the provisions concerning the educational program of the school district, 23.6 percent gave the board the right to select means and methods of instruction, textbooks, and teaching materials to be used in the schools. The right to establish grades and courses of instruction, including special programs, was granted to the board in 22.1 percent of the provisions. A more general statement relating to the right of the board to establish educational policies was contained in 21 provisions.

More specific rights were included in 14.0 percent of the agreements. The board was given the right to approve class schedules and teacher assignments in 21 provisions; and six provisions granted the board the right to determine the age, number, and qualifications of pupils admitted to the schools. The remaining provisions granted the board the right to assign pupils to programs and classes, to designate schools which shall be attended by various children within the school district, and to determine the school calendar. Sample provisions illustrating these rights are:

> (The board has the right) to decide upon the means and methods of instruction, the selection of textbooks and other teaching materials, and the use of teaching aids of every kind and nature.
>
> Northwest School District
> Jackson, Michigan

> [The board has the right] to establish courses of instruction, including special programs, and to provide for athletic, recreational and social events for students as deemed necessary.
>
> Van Dyke, Michigan

> [The board has the right] to determine class schedules, hours of instruction and the duties, responsibilities assignments of teachers and other employees with respect thereto, and with respect to administrative and non-teaching activities. . . .
>
> Lodi, Wisconsin

Of the 280 pertinent provisions, 130 contained clauses concerning board rights relative to the board-teacher relationship. The majority (110) of these provisions accorded the board the right to hire, fire, discipline, promote, and assign teachers, while 17 provisions contained a more general statement that gave the school board the right to direct the teaching force. These statements are similar to the following:

> [The board has the right] to hire, promote, transfer, assign and retain employees in positions in the school district, and for just cause, to suspend, to demote, discharge, or take other disciplinary action against employees.
>
> Alfred I. Dupont, Delaware

> [The board has the right] to direct the employees.
>
> Ripon, Wisconsin

The board's right to delegate its authority was considered in 38 provisions. The majority of these provisions (26) stated that the board's rights could not be delegated. Nine provisions indicated that the board could delegate authority to the superintendent and other administrators to conduct certain school district operations. An occasional agreement stated that the failure of the board to exercise a right does not indicate a waiver of the right. A typical board rights provision is similar to the following sample provision.

Article III. MANAGEMENT RIGHTS

1. The Board of Education, on its behalf and on behalf of the electors of the district, hereby retains and reserves unto itself, without limitation, all powers, rights, authority, duties, and responsibilities conferred upon and vested in it by the laws and the Constitution of the State of Wisconsin and of the United States, including, but without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the right:
   a. To the executive and administrative control of the school system and its properties and facilities and the activities of its employees;
   b. To hire all employees, and subject to the provisions of law, to determine their qualifications and the conditions for their continued employment or their dismissal or demotion, and to promote and transfer all such employees;
   c. To establish grades and courses of instruction, including special programs, and to provide for athletic, recreational and social events for students, all as deemed necessary or advisable by the Board;
   d. To decide upon the means and methods of instruction, the selection of textbooks and other teacher materials, and the use of teaching aids of every kind and nature.
   e. To determine class schedules and hours of instruction, the duties, responsibilities and assignments of teachers and other employees with respect to administrative and non-teaching activities, and the terms and conditions of employment.
2. The exercise of the foregoing powers, rights, authority, duties and responsibilities by the Board, the adoption of policies, rules, regulations and practices in furtherance thereof, and the use of judgment and discretion in connection therewith shall be limited only by the specific and express terms of a written agreement and then only to the extent such specific and express terms hereof are in conformity with the Constitution and laws of the State of Wisconsin and of the United States.

Oconto Joint School District #1
Oconto, Wisconsin

Special Reports

BRIEFS OF RECENT AGREEMENTS

Woburn, Massachusetts

Between the School Committee of the City of Woburn and the Woburn Teachers Association, effective September 1, 1971 to August 31, 1973. Approximately 511 certified professional employees. Provision for contract renewal from year to year unless either party notifies the other of desire to terminate or modify the agreement, commencing October 15 of the prior calendar year. If such notice is filed, the subject matter of such reopener is to be limited to salaries and/or subject matter of no more than three contract articles selected by the Association and three selected by the school committee.

COMPENSATION: (Effective September 1, 1971) B.A., $7,580 to $12,135, 11 increments; B.A. plus 15 hours, $12,440 maximum; M.A., $8,185 to $12,740, 11 increments; C.A.G.S. or M.A. plus 30 hours (subject field), $13,345 maximum. Longevity pay of $200 starting the 16th year of service, $100 starting the 21st year and every five years thereafter. Differentials: (Effective 1971-72) Head football coach, $2,300; head basketball, hockey, baseball coaches and trainer, $1,200 each; junior high school faculty manager, $900; outdoor track, soccer, gymnastics, wrestling coaches at $850 each; girls' softball, basketball, field hockey, tennis and gymnastics coaches, $550 each; yearbook advisor, $1,100; high school band director, $600; mathematics team coaches (3), $350 each; debating and drama coaches and part-time director of high school visual aids, $400 each; director of concert choir, $450; all special teachers in elementary schools shall be provided transportation reimbursement at rate of 10¢ a mile in excess of 10 miles per week.

LEAVES: 13 days' annual sick leave credited at beginning of the school year, unlimited maximum accumulation; 2 separate days' leave (when requested three days in advance) for personal business and if unused can be accumulated as sick leave days; maximum of three days' leave shall be allowed for death in the immediate family, absences for deaths of other near relatives shall be deducted from any current or cumulative leave days; deductions for absences whether business or illness shall be made on basis of 1/200 of annual salary; no more than two days plus fees and expenses granted for school visitation, nor more than one, if the schools are closed for any convention; a teacher awarded an education grant, or institute requiring an early departure at end of school year may be compensated up to a maximum of three days upon recommendation of the superintendent; sabbatical leave at full pay for a half year or half pay for a full year after seven years' service (provided that any grant or aid received shall not exceed the salary to which he would have been entitled).

INSURANCE: (Effective September 1, 1971) School committee will pay maximum percentage permitted by city government enactment of the cost of Blue Cross-Blue Shield as "presently available" to teachers for individual and/or family coverage and a $2,000 life insurance plan currently available; tax-sheltered annuity plan provided for eligible teachers; personal injury benefits, if permitted by law, are provided to employees or dependents resulting from job-related incapacity or death.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll deduction for dues of local, state, and national Associations; Association has use of school and athletic facilities and equipment plus payment of custodial fees incurred; wearing of insignia or other membership identification permitted.

INSTRUCTION: No teacher in secondary level should be required to teach in more than two subject areas; desirable class size as follows: elementary school (grades 1-2), 20-36 pupils; (grades 3-6), 25-36 pupils; junior and senior high school academic subjects, 25-36 pupils; physical education, 25-50 pupils; study hall, 25-50 pupils; industrial arts, 20-36 pupils; "every effort shall be made to use the lower level figure as stated above;" Association shall be notified prior to implementation of experimental programs necessitating an exception to the desired class size; curriculum development innovation committee will submit program evaluations and recommendations to the superintendent prior to his recommendations to the school committee; sufficient textbooks will be provided for proper instruction of each subject in accordance with the approved program or syllabus for the grade or subject; all teachers shall be in their rooms 15 minutes before school begins and elementary teachers shall be available after school for 20 minutes; secondary teachers are expected to be available for extra help for student or parent conferences, one period, two days per week as designated by principal and 15 minutes after school closing on other days; elementary school day, 6 hours and 10 minutes; secondary teacher's school day is 6 hours; there will be a 15 minute morning recess and a 5 minute afternoon recess.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with final and binding arbitration; personnel file may be reviewed by a teacher upon request and he may be accompanied by Association representative during such review; "teachers will be shown a copy of any evaluation report prepared by the evaluation supervisor and will have the right to discuss and sign such report with their supervisor;" duty-free lunch period for teachers equal in time to students' in their building; elementary teachers shall have the right to leave the classroom during special subject teacher's time and use the time as preparation period, providing the special subject teacher leaves an outline of what she wants the regular teacher to teach in the subject in the specialist's non-visit weeks; each elementary teacher shall have one 40 minute duty-free period each day which will include lunch period and preparation period, said teacher shall remain in the building for the entire period; secondary teachers shall have at least one duty-free planning period per day; requests for transfer must be submitted between September 1 and April 1 of each school year for the next school year, all requests will be acknowledged in writing; vacancy notice posted with qualifications for position within 15 days after opening, consideration given to all qualified teachers employed within the system; school committee will furnish legal counsel and act as liaison between teacher, police or courts to defend teacher in criminal or assault charges; school committee will maintain its existing effort of a bilingual program for children who speak Spanish; a committment of available school funds for inaugurating and funding a comprehensive psychological services program for assistance to problem learners; teachers should give at least four weeks prior notice of intent to resign but no resignations shall be expected during May or June except in the event of incapacity; notice shall be submitted on or before March 1 so that superintendent or school committee may fill position at or before April meeting; parent-teacher meetings shall not exceed two and a half hours each; interim report cards shall be issued at midpoint of each reporting period to the parents of those pupils who are failing; provision made for one full-time guidance counselor for every 400 children enrolled with provision for a daily free period.

ARTICLE XVIII

GUIDANCE

A. Junior High School and Senior High School

1. There shall be one full-time guidance counselor for every four hundred (400) children enrolled in the Secondary Schools effective in September 1971.

2. All Guidance Counselors shall work the same hours as teachers. They shall also have a lunch period equal in time to that given to pupils.

3. Each Counselor shall have one free period daily.

4. One Junior High Counselor and one Senior High Counselor as assigned by the Director and Assistant Director shall return to work one week before the re-opening of schools each year, and shall be paid for the week involved.

5. At the close of schools each June all Counselors shall continue until his regular work is completed and certified in writing by the Director of Guidance to the Superintendent of Schools. The number of days, however, shall not exceed one week.

6. Full compensation shall be considered by the School Committee for expenses incurred while counselors are visiting schools, colleges, career conferences, conventions, and industrial plants. Outside visits involving compensation for expenses shall be presented to the School Committee in advance for consideration by the School Committee.

ARTICLE XXV

CURRICULUM DEVELOPMENT AND INNOVATION

A. There shall be three curriculum development and innovation committees in the Woburn Public Schools. There shall be one committee for each level in the system: Elementary, Junior High School and Senior High School.

B. The members of each of said Committees shall be three (3) Administrators to be chosen by the Administrative unit of the WTA. The Administrators shall not serve for more than two (2) consecutive years whenever possible. Three (3) teachers to be chosen by the Woburn Teachers' Association. Members of the faculty, Dept. Heads, Supervising Principals, Coordinators, and students at the High School level in related areas of discussion shall be consulted by the members of the Committee.

C. The recorded report of said committees shall be presented to the School Committee for its consideration and action. The related action taken by the School Committee shall be reported to said Committee and other school personnel.

D. These committees shall be activated by the 15th of September of each school year and continue to function until June of that school year. The committees shall meet as often as found necessary by the committees.

E. The function of said committees shall be to recommend the following:

1. Establishment of curriculum innovations.
2. Selection of texts and materials.
3. Revision of existing curriculum.
4. Provisions for adequate supplies and facilities.
5. Cost Estimates to implement 1-4 above.

Albuquerque, New Mexico

Between the Board of Education of Albuquerque Public Schools and the Albuquerque Classroom Teachers Association, effective August 26, 1971 to August 1, 1972. Approximately 3,600 certificated professional employees.

COMPENSATION: B.A., $6,100 to $9,394, 12 increments; B.A. plus 15, $9,669 maximum; M.A., $6,649 to $10,218, 13 increments; M.A. plus 30, $11,041 maximum, 14 increments; Ph.D., $12,048 maximum, 15 increments. Longevity pay of $200 at 21st step and every five years thereafter. Differentials: senior high head football coach, $500; senior high head wrestling and baseball coaches, assistant football coach, $250; senior high head basketball and track coach, $300; cross country, swimming, golf coach, $125; assistant wrestling and baseball coach, $175; speech, dramatics, band, orchestra, and chorus teachers, $100 (senior high) and $75 (junior high); high school department heads, $150; high school activity director, $400; junior high coaches at $112.50 for each sport coached; secondary counselors and high school librarians shall work 10 extra days and elementary counselors shall work three extra days and are paid a prorated daily differential from their basic salary.

LEAVES: 10 days' annual sick leave, 200 days' maximum accumulation, one day per month sick leave for those on extended contract with the accumulation to match annual contract, additional sick leave after accumulated leave has been exhausted is granted upon request at superintendent's discretion with loss of substitute pay only; one day paid leave for personal business which may be accumulated as sick leave if unused; 3 separate days paid leave for bereavement in immediate family, two additional days will be granted upon request; leave with pay for attendance at school-related professional meetings as approved by superintendent; up to 3 days sick leave may be used for each critical family illness; paid leave for teachers responding to legal process which requires absence from duty; paid leave less substitute pay for teachers to appear in personal legal suit; up to 5 days emergency leave per year with deductions from gross pay of teacher for substitute pay during leave days taken for serious family illness, religious holiday, birth of a child, death of near relative or friend; provision stating that "abuse of any leave with pay privileges by teacher shall be considered just cause for dismissal;" sabbatical leave at half pay for unspecified time.

INSURANCE: Health: Board pays 40% of cost of comprehensive group health insurance coverage (including major medical plan) for individual and family; health care plan includes outpatient psychiatric limitation providing 50% reimbursement of charges to a maximum of $10 per visit, with a further limitation of $500 per individual per 12-month period; board-paid life insurance for individual coverage to a maximum of $4,000, with board contributing 20% of cost of any additional coverage, provision for dependent group life insurance with employee paying 70¢ per month; board contributes 20% of cost of dental insurance coverage for individual and family; disability income plan in addition to accumulated sick leave pay or workmen's compensation indemnity; tax deferred annuity plan available.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll dues deduction for Association; 100 days' substitute covered leave granted for use of Association; Association to be placed on the distribution list for copy of board agenda for each official meeting.

INSTRUCTION: Teachers shall not be assigned outside the scope of their teaching certificates, changes in grade or subject assignment shall not be made without prior discussion between the principal and teacher affected; six and one-half hour work day for teachers; teachers in class 15 minutes before and after classes; minimum nonteaching duties to be assigned on equitable basis; three area curriculum councils to be established; system of grading and reporting pupil progress for each school will be developed by building committee and principal; general assignment provision for special services counselors, nurses, librarians, consultants, therapists, and homebound teachers.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with advisory arbitration; two personnel files kept for each teacher: (a) confidential (containing only preemployment references, references directly related to internal promotions), (b) open file (containing all other information pertaining to the teacher); teacher accompanied by any individual of his choosing has access to open file only; teacher has the right to respond to any derogatory material on file; 30 minutes duty-free lunch period which may be taken on or off school grounds upon notification of school office when leaving; 200 minutes minimum per week for preparation and planning; faculty meeting, conferences, inservice meetings and other functions after class upon 48 hour prior notice; institute for professional development to be developed; eligibility for professional growth increments upon submission of transcripts prior to September 15 for verification of college work other than degree work; qualified applicants for employment must have at least a bachelor's degree and a currently valid provisional, continuing, or life teaching certificate from the state; joint program for administration of a tuberculin testing program for teachers; non-tenure teachers evaluated at least two 15 minute periods of each school year by their principal or supervisor, monthly evaluations of those teachers receiving an unsatisfactory evaluation; promotional position for principal and assistant principal accepted once a year during February; vacancies posted at least two weeks prior to filling of position.

Erie, Pennsylvania

Between the Board of Education of the City of Erie and the Erie Education Association, effective July 1, 1971, to June 30, 1972. Approximately 865 certificated professional employees.

COMPENSATION: (1971-72) B.A., $7,500 to $11,150, 11 increments; B.A. plus 30 hours, $11,650, maximum; M.A., $8,300 to $12,600, 13 increments; M.A. plus 30 hours, $13,100 maximum; Ph.D., $13,400 maximum. Teachers who had not reached the maximum limit of their classification the previous year shall have their salaries increased by $825 and those who had reached their maximum limit the previous year shall have their salaries increased by $700. Extra assignment activities, such as summer school, driver education, adult evening school, etc., currently being paid at the rate of $6.00 per hour shall be increased to $7.00 per hour; teachers required to use own car for assigned school duties to be reimbursed at 10¢ per mile.

LEAVES: 10 days' annual sick leave credited as of the first day of the employment year, unlimited maximum accumulation; one day personal business leave; five consecutive days' paid leave beginning with the day following death in immediate family, paid leave permitted through day of funeral for close relative, paid leave for day of funeral of near relative; one day paid leave for parental responsibility for birth of child; no loss of pay or sick leave for communicable disease; teachers in summer school programs granted two noncumulative sick leave days for use during that period.

INSURANCE: Board will waive employee monthly contribution for dependent insurance for those employees who have contributed for two or more years; board paid life insurance and accidental death and dismemberment protection of at least $2,000; tax sheltered annuity plan provided through qualified companies and administered by the board at no expense to the teachers; retiring teacher paid his unused accumulated sick days at the rate of $10 a day, but not to exceed $500, in any case the terminal pay shall be not less than $100; paid leave not charged to sick leave for absence owing to job-related injury, not to exceed two calendar years from date of injury (providing the teacher agrees in writing to return to board workman's compensation and social security benefit payments related to the injury), total disability benefits will be 70% of the teacher's salary including other payments.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll dues deduction authorized for the Association; released time for Association representative to participate in negotiations or grievance proceedings during work hours with no loss in pay; president of Association or his designee shall be allowed to visit other schools to investigate teacher complaints without interference to his regular duties or the instructional programs of the schools visited; Association use of school facilities and communication system including the interschool mail (Association use limited to one 9x12 envelope per school per week); bimonthly meetings of the Association representatives and superintendent to discuss mutual concerns; bimonthly meetings or more often for building representatives and the principal on matters pertaining to the agreement; superintendent shall invite Association president or his designee to discuss formulation of school calendar.

INSTRUCTION: Secondary school teachers have at least five unassigned periods per week on the average of one per day; "it is the position of the board that split grades should be phased out," such classes should not exceed 25 students; to help relieve classroom teachers of noninstructional duties, the board agrees to engage not less than one aide per school; when board is considering a change in textbooks, the appropriate administrative official will discuss the change with teachers who will be affected by the change, school day begins about 8 a.m. and ends no later than 4 p.m. with a seven hour and five minute work day for elementary teachers and shall not exceed 6 hours and 55 minutes for secondary teachers, this total time includes lunch periods, instructional period, preparation periods, and rest breaks where applicable; teachers shall be available for special help to students or preparation of work one day per week for a half hour after regular classes; board issues a written statement for Internal Revenue Service purposes for teachers who are required to do preparation for regular teaching duties at home.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with binding arbitration and both parties agree that "judgement thereon may be entered in any court of competent jurisdiction;" personnel file of teacher may be examined at "reasonable times" and "with reasonable advance notice;" teachers are not permitted to see confidential letters of recommendation; duty-free lunch period of at least 30 minutes for secondary teachers and 65 minute lunch period for elementary teachers until a new educational program is established (teachers leaving the building at this time should notify the principal), during planning period teachers may leave school building for causes such as medical, dental, legal, and banking business which is inconvenient after school hours, school or work-related activity, home, and family matters of emergency nature, etc.; monthly faculty meetings to be scheduled on school time and completed by end of regular school day; promotional vacancies posted at least 3 calendar weeks before the position is filled except on a temporary basis; in filling these positions from applicants with equal qualifications preference is given to those with the greatest continuous service, transfers based on reduction in staff or the need for additional staff in a particular school is based (unless voluntary) on reverse seniority, the least senior teacher is transferred first; complaints by parents of students or by members of community directed at teacher becomes a matter of record and is brought to the teacher's attention within 2 working days; board shall make an "equitable financial adjustment" to the teacher in the event of vandalism or theft to personal property occurring on school premises. [Disruptive student discipline procedure is reprinted below.]

Discipline Procedure

The principal responsibility for maintaining discipline remains with the teacher. It is recognized, however, that there are times when teachers will have to make use of special disciplinary procedures. In this connection disruptive students may be removed from the regular classroom or school when, in the professional judgment of the teacher, normal corrective measures have been ineffective in bringing about satisfactory improvement.

Such student shall be reported to the principal and he may take whatever action that he deems necessary except that he may not return the student to the classroom of the same teacher or retain the student in the school without the teacher's approval.

If this disruptive student is assigned to the regular classroom of another teacher, this teacher shall be apprised of the conditions and circumstances which led to the student's removal. He, too, has the right to refuse to accept the disruptive student in his classroom.

If this disruptive student is assigned to another school, the teacher committee of the receiving school shall be apprised of the conditions and circumstances that led to the student's removal. They, too, have the right to refuse the acceptance of the student in their school.

Such student may be placed in a special class which has been designed to meet his educational needs.

If the principal or any other administrator feels that the disruptive student should be considered for return to the regular classroom or school against the wishes of the teacher, a committee of three (3) teachers from the building selected by the teachers in that building shall meet and decide whether or not the student should be returned to the regular classroom or permitted to attend the school.

This committee shall utilize school specialists and the principal, if needed, to help formulate their decision. The decision of this committee shall be limited only to the question of whether or not the student should be returned to the regular classroom or permitted to attend the same school. If the student is not returned to the regular classroom or school, he shall be returned to the principal for further action. If, at a later date, it appears that this student should be returned to his regular class or school the Board shall refer the matter back to the committee for approval.

Implementation of this procedure will require that a program of special instruction be established to handle those students who cannot be returned to the regular class or school.

The Board shall design such a program to be completed the opening of school in September 1971.

Milwaukee, Wisconsin

(School Aides)

Between the Milwaukee Board of School Directors and the Milwaukee Teacher Education Association as representatives of the School Aides, effective January 1, 1971, to December 31, 1972. Approximately 1,200 general aides, technical aides, and paraprofessional employees. Provision for automatic renewal and continuance from January 1, 1972 through December 31, 1972, contingent upon board adoption of 1972 financial budget. If otherwise, the reopener shall take effect December 31, 1971.

COMPENSATION: (Salary rates are adjusted without regard to regular service increments which are adjusted with each 1,150 hours of service). Effective January 1, 1971: General aides (playground, bus, cafeteria), $2.50 minimum; $2.60 per hour, 1,150 hours; $2.70 per hour, 2,300 hours; Technical aides (education aide, data processing, media equipment), $2.99 per hour minimum; $3.09 per hour, 1,150 hours; $3.21 per hour, 2,300 hours; Paraprofessional aides (classroom-theme reader, foreign language aide, library aide), $3.54 per hour, minimum; $3.63 per hour, 1,150 hours; $3.77 per hour, 2,300 hours; Lead aides receive an additional 15¢ per hour when placed in charge of other aides by the principal; overtime assigned to full-time school aides working over 8 hour day or 40 hour week compensated at time and a half.

Effective January 1, 1972;

General School Aides, $2.65 per hour; $2.77 per hour, 1,150 hours; $2.90 per hour, 2,300 hours;

Technical Aides, $3.17 per hour; $3.29 per hour, 1,150 hours; $3.45 per hour, 2,300 hours;

Paraprofessional Aides, $3.75 per hour; $3.87 per hour, 1,150 hours; $4.50 per hour, 2,300 hours.

LEAVES: 1 1/4 hours per 8 hour day and 40 hour week sick leave, 120 days maximum accumulation at full pay thereafter with unlimited accumulation (prorated on the basis of 20 or more working days) at half pay, kept in separate accounts; 2 separate days for personal business (court subpoena, graduation exercise, child adoption proceeding, settlement of recently purchased home, selective service, Internal Revenue, religious discipline making it necessary to remain away from daily occupation).

INSURANCE: Health: board paid group hospital-surgical and major medical benefits for aides employed 20 or more hours per week; board paid group life insurance after one year of service to employees working 20 or more hours per week in an amount equal to annual earnings; effective January 1, 1971, full premium paid on first $4,000 and $3.60 per thousand above that with employee paying balance, effective January 1, 1972-full premium paid on first $8,000 and additional $3.60 per thousand above that with employee paying balance; board paid life insurance continued for enrolled employees with 30 years service who take an immediate annuity before age 65; in addition the board agrees that enrolled employees taking an immediate annuity at age 60 or after, with 15 years service, may retain full life insurance coverage by paying full premium until age 65; at age 65 and over, life insurance is provided without cost to enrolled employees as follows: on March 1 after 65th birthday, life insurance coverage is reduced to 75% of original coverage, at age 66 coverage is reduced to 50%, at age 67 or over coverage is reduced to 25% of original and continued at that amount; provision for board paid liability insurance.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll dues deduction authorized for local Association with 50¢ service charge per member paid by Association to board; school aides released without loss of pay to attend scheduled negotiation meetings and when necessary for a grievance scheduled outside grievant's school; no strike clause; use of school mail facilities.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with binding arbitration; full-time aides receive a 30 minute paid lunch period and aides working five or more hours per day allocated a minimum of 30 minutes for an unpaid lunch period; Association will make recommendations in regard to training program to be conducted to improve work skills; one year probationary period before permanent status attained unless notified of extension of probationary period an additional 95 days for dissatisfaction of service (subject to grievance procedure); superintendent appoints and reassignes school aides; reduction of aides by layoff based on work qualifications and presence in a building with the greatest system-wide seniority, board will discuss with the Association the seniority status of affected aides 10 days prior to layoff; legal assistance provided by city attorney's office in case of job-related assault; however if city is unable to defend the aide, minimum bar fees will be provided when case is dismissed or when aide is found not guilty; no new aides will be assigned more hours than any aide already employed in the building; aides working "less than full time" may be offered additional hours when available in order of seniority.

A. EVALUATION

1. Probationary Employes. Any school aides employed previous to January 1, 1970, shall have permanent status, except those aides upon due notice who had their probationary period extended for one year. Those school aides employed after January 1, 1970, shall be given permanent status as a school aide one school year (190 days) after the date of employment, unless they are notified by the Division of Personnel that the probationary period will be extended an additional 95 days, in which case the Division of Personnel will explain to them why such action is being taken. Every opportunity will be given to the employe to correct his misconduct or inefficiency prior to discharge. Where the principal is recommending dismissal of a probationary employe, he shall notify the employe in writing of the reasons for his recommendation ten days prior to the intended dismissal. The employe shall have the right to appeal the principal's recommendation to the Assistant Superintendent of the Division of Personnel and proceed through the grievance procedure, including the sixth step.

   Where an employe is accused of a serious act, he shall be promptly furnished with written charges and the principal's recommended disposition. If the employe is not satisfied with the principal's recommendation, he may appeal the matter through the grievance procedure, beginning at Step Two and proceeding through the sixth step.

2. Permanent Employes.

   a. School aides who successfully complete their probationary period shall be considered permanent employes and shall be discharged only for good and just cause. Should the principal consider discipline or discharge recommendations, he shall first call the aide into a conference, at which the aide may be represented by the MTEA or some other person, explaining the reasons why he is considering such a recommendation, and the aide be given the opportunity to respond thereto. Thereafter, if the principal recommends discipline or discharge, he shall set forth the same in writing specifically, stating the reasons for such recommendation, with a copy for the MTEA.

   b. Within ten days, the school aide shall be granted a hearing and discussion with the Assistant Superintendent of the Division of Personnel or his designee, at which meeting he may again be represented by the MTEA or some other person of his choosing. Within five working days of the hearing, the school aide and the MTEA shall be notified of the decision relative to the charges in writing and the reasons substantiating such decision.

   c. The Superintendent shall, within five working days, review the decision of the Assistant Superintendent of the Division of Personnel and issue his decision thereon.

   d. The aide may, within ten working days of receipt of the decision of the Superintendent, request a hearing before the Committee on Rules and Complaints, which shall be held within 45 working days of the request. The Committee, after a full and fair hearing which shall be public or private at the aide's request, shall make a written decision specifying its reasons and the action and recommendations, prior to the next full meeting of the Board.

e. The MTEA may, within ten working days, invoke arbitration, as set forth in the sixth step of the grievance procedure. An aide who elects to proceed to arbitration shall be considered to have waived the right to pursue the matter in the courts, except as provided in Chapter 298, Wisconsin Statutes.

3. Emergency Situations. When an allegation of serious misconduct, which is related to his employment, is made, the administration may conduct an administrative inquiry which would include ordering the aide to the Central Office for a period not to exceed three days. No aide shall be temporarily suspended prior to the administrative inquiry, nor without the opportunity to respond to the charges and have representation of his choice as set forth above. No aide may be suspended unless a delay beyond the period of the administrative inquiry is necessary, for one of the following reasons:

a. The delay is requested by the aide.

b. The delay is necessitated by criminal proceedings involving the aide.

c. Where, after the administrative inquiry, probable cause is found to believe that the aide may have engaged in serious misconduct.

In the event the aide suspended is cleared of the charges, he shall be compensated in full for all salary lost during the period of suspension, minus any interim earnings.

CONTRACT ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS–MAINTENANCE OF STANDARDS, SAVINGS CLAUSE, EFFECT OF PRIOR POLICIES, EFFECT ON FUTURE POLICIES

The following analysis of four contract administrative provisions (maintenance of standards, savings clause, effect of prior policies, effect on future policies) is drawn from 1,529 comprehensive agreements effective during the 1970-71 school year. The analysis presents an over-all picture of the nature and incidence of such provisions negotiated in school systems with a pupil enrollment of 1,000 or more. Table 1 gives the incidence of the four provisions.

TABLE 1.–CONTRACT ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS CONTAINED IN 1,529 COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS, 1970-71

Type of provision	Agreements containing designated content
	Number	Percent
1	2	3
Total comprehensive agreements	1,529	100.0%
Total agreements containing contract administrative provisions	1,020	66.7%
Maintenance of standards	183	12.0
Savings clause	922	60.3
Effect of prior policies	522	34.1
Effect on future policies	353	23.1

Out of 1,529 reported agreements, 1,020 (66.7 percent) contained at least one or a combination of the four contract administrative provisions. Table 2 shows these combinations.

TABLE 2.–COMBINATIONS OF CONTRACT ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS CONTAINED IN AGREEMENTS, 1970-71

Combinations	Agreements containing designated content
	Number	Percent
1	2	3
Total agreements containing contract administrative provisions	1,020	100.0%
Single administrative provisions
Effect of prior policies only	53	5.2
Maintenance of standards only	30	2.9
Savings clause only	255	25.0
Effect on future policies only	34	3.3
Combination of administrative provisions
Effect of prior policies, maintenance of standards, savings clause, effect on future policies	90	8.8
Effect of prior policies, savings clause, effect on future policies	382	37.5
Maintenance of standards, savings clause, effect on future policies	66	6.5
Savings clause, effect on future policies	110	10.8

Of the four provisions, the savings clause was most often found in the reported agreements. There were 922 (60.3 percent) such provisions contained in the 1,529 agreements. Generally, the clause provided that if any provision in an agreement were in conflict with any law, that provision would be rescinded or renegotiated, all other clauses remaining in full force and effect. Examples of the savings clause are:

> If any provision of this Agreement or any application of this Agreement to any employee or group of employees is held to be contrary to any law, administrative order or ruling of the Federal or State governments, then such provisions or application shall not be deemed valid or subsisting except to the extent permitted by law, but all other provisions or applications shall continue in full force and effect. (Newark, Delaware)
>
> In the event any of the provisions set forth in these rules are declared illegal, the parties shall immediately meet and negotiate a substitute provision. (Butte, Montana)

There were 522 (34.1 percent) agreements containing the effect of prior policies clause. It usually stipulated that the present agreement would supersede any conflicting previous agreements, board policies, teacher contracts, informal practices, etc. The following extracts are examples of effect of prior policies clause:

> Any previously adopted policies, practices, procedures, customs, rules, regulations or writings of the Board which are in conflict with this policy shall be superseded by the terms set forth herein. The Board shall not amend this policy or make or execute decisions or policies which violate this policy. (Wichita, Kansas)
>
> This Agreement shall supersede any rules, regulations, or practices of the Board which shall be contrary to or inconsistent with terms contained in any individual teacher contracts heretofore in effect. (Hobart, Indiana)

The effect on future policies clause was incorporated in 353 (23.1 percent) of the reported agreements. Generally, it enumerated the circumstances under which the school board may change or adopt various policies and regulations. Policies may usually be altered, changed, deleted, or modified only through the voluntary consent of both parties, in a written and signed amendment to the agreement. Here are some examples of the effect on future policies provision:

> This agreement may be altered, changed, added to, deleted from, or modified only through the voluntary mutual consent of the parties, in written and signed amendment to this agreement. (Caro, Michigan)
>
> The parties mutually agree that the terms and conditions set forth in this agreement represent the full and complete understandings and commitments between the parties hereto, which may be altered, changed, added to, deleted from, or modified only through the voluntary, mutual consent of both parties in an amendment hereto. (Portland, Oregon)

Fewer contracts (183, 12.0 percent) provided for a maintenance of standards clause. The maintenance of standards provision relates to the application of the minimum standards negotiated in an agreement. This clause stipulates that no teacher may be deprived of advantages enjoyed prior to ratification of the current agreement. However, if an individual enjoys rights and privileges that conflict with the current agreement, these may only be rescinded if expressly stated in the agreement.

> All conditions of employment and general working conditions shall be maintained at not less than the highest minimum standards in effect in the district at the time this Agreement is signed, provided that such conditions shall be improved for the benefit of teachers as required by the express provisions of this Agreement. This Agreement shall not be interpreted or applied to deprive teachers of professional advantages heretofore enjoyed unless expressly stated herein. (Caro, Michigan)
>
> All rights and privileges granted to teachers not in conflict with the provisions of this agreement shall remain in full force and effect. Rights and privileges granted teachers in conflict with this agreement are hereby rescinded. (Coventry, Rhode Island)

Texts

MINNESOTA

PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS ACT OF 1971
(Effective July 1, 1972)

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"SECTION 1. [PUBLIC POLICY.] It is the public policy of this state and the purpose of this act to promote orderly and constructive relationships between all public employers and their employees, subject however, to the paramount right of the citizens of this state to keep inviolate the guarantees for their health, education, safety and welfare.

The relationships between the public, the public employees, and their employer governing bodies imply degrees of responsibility to the people served, need of cooperation and employment protection which are different from employment in the private sector. So also the essentially and public desire for some public services tend to create imbalances in relative bargaining power or the resolution with which either party to a disagreement presses its position, so that unique approaches to negotiations and resolutions of disputes between public employees and employers are necessary.

Unresolved disputes between the public employer and its employees are injurious to the public as well as to the parties; adequate means must therefore be established for minimizing them and providing for their resolution. Within the foregoing limitations and considerations the legislature has determined that overall policy may best be accomplished by:

(1) granting to public employees certain rights to organize and choose freely their representatives;

(2) requiring public employers to meet and negotiate with public employees in an appropriate bargaining unit and providing for written agreements evidencing the result of such bargaining; and

(3) establishing special rights, responsibilities, procedures and limitations regarding public employment relationships which will provide for the protection of the rights of the public employee, the public employer and the public at large.

SEC. 2. [CITATION.] This act shall be known and may be cited as the public employment labor relations act of 1971.

SEC. 3. [DEFINITIONS.] Subdivision 1. For the purposes of this act, the terms defined in this section have the meanings given them.

Subd. 2. "Director of mediation services" or "director" means the director of the bureau of mediation services established by section 179.02.

Subd. 3. "Board" means the Minnesota public employment relations board unless otherwise clearly stated,

Subd. 4. "Public employer" or "employer" means the state of Minnesota and its political subdivisions and any agency or instrumentality of either; including the university of Minnesota, the state and junior colleges and school districts and their respective representatives; the term does not include a "charitable hospital" as defined in section 179.35, subdivision 2.

Subd. 5. "Employee organization" means any union or organization of public employees whose purpose is, in whole or in part, to deal with public employers concerning grievances and terms and conditions of employment.

Subd. 6. "Exclusive representative" means an employee organization which has been designated by more than 50 percent of the appropriate unit and has been certified pursuant to section 7.

Subd. 7. "Public employee" or "employee" means any person appointed or employed by a public employer except:

(a) elected public officials;

(b) election officers;

(c) commissioned or enlisted personnel of the Minnesota national guard;

(d) emergency employees who are employed for emergency work caused by natural disaster;

(e) part time employees whose service does not exceed 14 hours per week;

(f) employees who hold positions of a basically temporary or seasonal character for a period not in excess of 100 working days in any calendar year;

(g) employees of charitable hospitals as defined by section 179.35, subdivision 3.

Subd. 8. "Confidential employee" means any employee who works:

(1) in the personnel offices of a public employer or who has access to information subject to use by the public employer in meeting and negotiating; or

(2) in a close continuing relationship with public officers or representatives associated with meeting and negotiating on behalf of the employer.

Subd. 9. "Supervisory employee" means any person having authority in the interests of the employer to hire, transfer, suspend, promote, discharge, assign, reward or discipline other employees or responsibly to direct them or adjust their grievances on behalf of the employer, or to effectively recommend such action, if in connection with the foregoing the exercise of such authority is not merely routine or clerical in nature but requires the use of independent judgment.

Subd. 10. "Professional employee" means:

(a) any employee engaged in work (i) predominantly intellectual and varied in character as opposed to routine mental, manual, mechanical, or physical work; (ii) involving the consistent exercise of discretion and judgment in its performance; (iii) of such a character that the output produced or the result accomplished cannot be standardized in relation to a given period of time; (iv) requiring knowledge of an advanced type in a field of science or learning customarily acquired by a prolonged course of specialized intellectual instruction and study in an institution of higher learning or a hospital, as distinguished from a general academic education or from an apprenticeship or from training in the performance of routine mental, manual, or physical processes;

(b) any employee, who (i) has completed the courses of specialized intellectual instruction and study described in clause (iv) of paragraph (a), and (ii) is performing related work under the supervision of a professional person to qualify himself to become a professional employee as defined in paragraph (a).

Subd. 11. "Essential employee" means any person within the definition of subdivision 7 of this section whose employment duties involve work or services essential to the health or safety of the public and the withholding of such services would create a clear and present danger to the health or safety of the public.

Subd. 12. "Strike" means concerted action in failing to report for duty, the willful absence from one's position, the stoppage of work, slowdown, or the abstinence in whole or in part from the full, faithful and proper performance of the duties of employment for the purposes of inducing, influencing or coercing a change in the conditions or compensation or the rights, privileges, or obligations of employment.

Subd. 13. "Teacher" means any person other than a superintendent or assistant superintendent, employed by a school district in a position for which the person must be certificated by the state board of education; and such employment does not come within the exceptions stated in section 3, subdivision 7, or defined in section 3, subdivisions 8, 9, or 15.

Subd. 14. "Principal" and "assistant principal" means any person so certificated by the state department of education who devotes more than 50 percent of his time to administrative or supervisory duties.

Subd. 15. "Meet and confer" means the exchange of views and concerns between employers and their respective employees.

Subd. 16. "Meet and negotiate" means the performance of the mutual obligations of public employers and the exclusive representatives of public employees to meet at reasonable times, including where possible meeting in advance of the budget making process, with the good faith intent of entering into an agreement with respect to terms and conditions of employment; provided, that by such obligation neither party is compelled to agree to a proposal or required to make a concession.

Subd. 17. "Appropriate unit" or "unit" means a unit of employees, excluding supervisory employees, confidential employees and principals and assistant principals, as determined pursuant to section 11, subdivision 3, and in the case school districts, the term means all the teachers in the district.

Subd. 18. The term "terms and conditions of employment" means the hours of employment, the compensation therefor including fringe benefits, and the employer's personnel policies affecting the working conditions of the employees. In the case of professional employees the terms mean the hours of employment, the compensation therefor, and economic aspects relating to employment, but does not mean educational policies of a school district. The terms in both cases are subject to the provisions of section 6 of this act regarding the rights of public employers and the scope of negotiations.

SEC. 4. [STRIKES: PROHIBITION; PENALTIES.] Subdivision 1. No person holding a position by appointment or employment in the government of the state of Minnesota, or in the government of any one or more of the political subdivisions thereof, or in the service of the public schools, or of the state university, or in the service of any authority, commission or board or any other branch of the public service, whether included or excepted from this act may engage in a strike, nor shall any such person or organization of such persons or its officials or agents cause, condone, instigate, encourage, or cooperate, in a strike.

Subd. 2. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, any public eemployee who violates the provisions of this section may have his appointment or employment terminated by the employer effective the date the violation first occurs. Such termination shall be effective upon written notice served upon the employee. Service may be made by certified mail.

Subd. 3. For purposes of this subdivision an employee who is absent from any portion of his work assignment without permission, or who abstains wholly or in part from the full performance of his duties without permission from his employer on the date or dates when a strike occurs is prima facie presumed to have engaged in a strike on such date or dates.

Subd. 4. A public employee who knowingly violates the provisions of this section and whose employment has been terminated pursuant to this section, may, subsequent to such violation, be appointed or reappointed, employed or reemployed, but the employee shall be on probation for two years with respect to such civil service status, tenure of employment, or contract of employment, as he may have theretofore been entitled.

No employee shall be entitled to any daily pay, wages or per diem for the days on which he engaged in a strike.

Subd. 5. Any public employee, upon request, shall be entitled, as hereinafter provided, to establish that he did not violate the provisions of this section. Such request must be filed in writing with the officer or body having the power to remove such employee, within ten days after notice of termination is served upon him; whereupon such officer, or body, shall within ten days commence a proceeding at which such person shall be entitled to be heard for the purpose of determining whether the provisions of this section have been violated by such public employee, and if there be laws and regulations establishing proceedings to remove such public employee, the hearing shall be conducted in accordance therewith. The proceedings may upon application to the court by an employer, an employee, or employee organization and the issuance of an appropriate order by the court include more than one employee's employment status if the employees' defenses are identical, analagous or reasonably similar. Such proceedings shall be undertaken without unnecessary delay. Any person may secure a review of his removal by serving a notice so requesting upon the employer removing him within 20 days after the results of the hearing referred to herein have been announced. This notice, with proof of service thereof, shall be filed within ten days after service, with the clerk of the district court in the county where the employer has its principal office or in the county where the employee last was employed by the employer. The district court shall thereupon have jurisdiction to review the matter the same as on appeal from administrative orders and decisions. This hearing shall take precedence over all matters and may be held upon ten days written notice by either party. The court shall make such order in the premises as is proper; and an appeal may be taken therefrom to the supreme court.

Subd. 6. An employee organization which has been found pursuant to section 8 to have violated this section shall upon such finding lose its status, if any, as exclusive representative following such finding; and may not be so certified by the director for a period of two years following such finding; nor may any employer deduct employee payments to any such organization for a period of two years.

Subd. 7. An unfair labor practice by an employer is not a defense to violation of this section but may be considered by the court in mitigation of or retraction of any penalties as to employees and employee organizations.

SEC. 5. [RIGHTS AND OBLIGATIONS OF EMPLOYEES.] Subdivision 1. Nothing contained in this act shall be construed to limit, impair or affect the right of any public employee or his representative to the expression or communication of a view, grievance, complaint or opinion on any matter related to the conditions or compensation of public employment or their betterment, so long as the same is not designed to and does not interfere with the full faithful and proper performance of the duties of employment or circumvent the rights of the exclusive representative if there be one; nor shall it be construed to require any public employee to perform labor or services against his will.

Subd. 2. Public employees shall have the right to form and join labor or employee organizations, and shall have the right not to form and join such organizations. Public employees in an appropriate unit shall have the right by secret ballot to designate an exclusive representative for the purpose of negotiating grievance procedures and the terms and conditions of employment for such employees with the employer of such unit.

Subd. 3. Public employees who are professional employees as defined by section 3, subdivision 11, of this act have the right to meet and confer with public employers regarding policies and matters not included under section 3, subdivision 18, pursuant to section 13 of this act.

Subd. 4. Public employees through their certified exclusive representative have the right and obligation to meet and negotiate in good faith with their employer regarding grievance procedures and the terms and conditions of employment, but such obligation does not compel the exclusive representative to agree to a proposal or require the making of a concession.

Subd. 5. Public employees shall have the right to request and be allowed dues check off for the employee organization of their selection, provided that dues check off and the proceeds thereof shall not be allowed any employee organization that has lost its right to dues check off pursuant to sections 4 to 15 of this act.

Subd. 6. Supervisory and confidential employees, principals and assistant principals, may join and participate in employee organizations and may form their own organizations, provided, however, that nothing in this section authorizes supervisory or confidential employees, or principals and assistant principals, to be included in an appropriate unit. Affiliation of a supervisory or confidential employee or principal or assistant principal organization with another employee organization which has as its members non-supervisory employees or non-confidential employees, or non-principals or non-assistant principals is permitted. An employer shall not, and shall not be required by the director to extend exclusive recognition to a representative of or an organization of supervisory or confidential employees, or principals and assistant principals, for the purpose of negotiating terms or conditions of employment, but an employer may consult and otherwise communicate with such an organization on appropriate matters.

Subd. 7. An exclusive representative shall have the right to petition the director for arbitration under section 9, subdivision 3; provided the exclusive representative has first petitioned the director for mediation services as are available under section 9, subdivision 1.

SEC. 6. [RIGHTS AND OBLIGATIONS OF EMPLOYERS.] Subdivision 1. A public employer is not required to meet and negotiate on matters of inherent managerial policy, which include, but are not limited to, such areas of discretion or policy as the functions and programs of the employer, its overall budget, utilization of technology, the organizational structure and selection and direction and number of personnel.

Subd. 2. A public employer has an obligation to meet and negotiate in good faith with the exclusive representative of the public employees in an appropriate unit regarding grievance procedures and the terms and conditions of employment, but such obligation does not compel the public employer or its representative to agree to a proposal or require the making of a concession.

Subd. 3. A public employer has the obligation to meet and confer with professional employees to discuss policies and those matters relating to their employment not included under section 3, subdivision 18, pursuant to section 13 of this act.

Subd. 4. A public employer has the obligation to meet and confer with supervisory employees, confidential employees, principals and assistant principals, or their representative regarding the terms and conditions of their employment.

Subd. 5. Any provision of any contract required by section 10, which of itself or in its implementation would be in violation of or in conflict with any statute of the state of Minnesota or rule or regulation promulgated thereunder or provision of a municipal home rule charter or ordinance or resolution adopted pursuant thereto, or rule of any state board or agency governing licensure or registration of an employee, shall be void and of no effect.

Subd. 6. Nothing in this act shall be construed to impair, modify or otherwise alter, or indicate a policy contrary to the authority of the legislature of the state of Minnesota to establish by law schedules of rates of pay for its employees or the retirement or other fringe benefits related to the compensation of such employees.

Subd. 7. The employer shall not meet and negotiate or meet and confer with any employee or group of employees who are at the time designated as a member or part of an appropriate employee unit except through the exclusive representative if one is certified for that unit or as provided for in section 9, subdivision 1.

Subd. 8. An employer shall have the right to petition the director for arbitration under section 9, subdivision 3; provided the exclusive representative or the employer has first petitioned the director for mediation services as are available under section 9, subdivision 1.

Subd. 9. An employer may hire and pay for arbitrators desired or required by the provisions of this act.

SEC. 7. [EXCLUSIVE REPRESENTATION; ELECTIONS; DECERTIFICATION.] Subdivision 1. Any employee organization holding formal recognition by order of the director or by employer voluntary recognition on the effective date of this act under any law that is repealed by this act is hereby certified as the exclusive representative until such time as it is decertified or another representative is certified in its place pursuant to this act. Any teacher organization as defined by Minnesota Statutes, Section 125.20, Subdivision 3 who on the effective date of this act has a majority of its members on a teacher's council in a school district as provided in Minnesota Statutes, Section 125.22 is hereby certified as the exclusive representative of all teachers of that school district until such time as the organization is decertified or another organization is certified in its place pursuant to this act.

Subd. 2. An employee organization may be certified as the exclusive representative of public employees in an appropriate unit upon complying with and qualifying under the provisions of this section.

Subd. 3. The director may certify an employee organization as an exclusive representative in an appropriate unit upon the joint request of the employer and the organization if, after investigation, he finds that no unfair labor practice was committed in initiating and submitting the joint request and that the employee organization does in fact represent over 50 percent of the employees in the appropriate unit. The provisions of this subdivision shall not in any case reduce the time period or nullify any bar to the employee organization's certification existing at the time of the filing of the joint request.

Subd. 4. Any employee organization may obtain a certification election upon petition to the director wherein it is stated that at least 30 percent of the employees of a proposed employee unit wish to be represented by the petitioner or that the certified representative no longer represents the majority of employees in the unit.

Subd. 5. The director shall, upon receipt of an employee organization's petition to the director wherein it is stated that at least 30 percent of the employees of a proposed employee unit wish to be represented by the petitioner or that the exclusive representative of a unit no longer represents the majority of the employees in the unit, investigate to determine if sufficient evidence of a question of representation exists and hold hearings as necessary to determine the appropriate unit and such other matters as may be necessary to determine the representation rights of the affected employees and employer.

Subd. 6. In determining the numerical status of an employee organization for purposes of subdivisions 2, 3, 4, and 8 of this section, the director shall require representation authorization signatures of affected employees as verification of the statements contained in the joint request or petitions. Such authorization signatures shall be privileged and confidential information available to the director only and shall be dated.

Subd. 7. An employee organization shall be certified as the exclusive representative of an appropriate unit upon receiving a majority of votes of the employees in the appropriate unit at a certification election.

Subd. 8. The director shall issue his order providing for a secret ballot election by the employees in a designated appropriate unit. The election shall be held in the premises where those voting are employed unless the director shall determine that the election cannot be fairly held, in which case it shall be held at such a place as the director shall determine.

Subd. 9. The ballot in a certification election may contain as many names of representative candidates as have demonstrated that the candidate has 30 percent of the employees in the unit desiring it as their exclusive representative. The ballots shall, in every case, contain an appropriate space for employees to indicate that no representation is desired.

Subd. 10. The director shall provide for and count absentee ballots in all elections.

Subd. 11. If no choice on the ballot receives a majority of those employees in the unit, the director shall conduct a run off election wherein the ballot shall contain only the two choices receiving the greater number of votes.

Subd. 12. Upon a representative candidate receiving a majority of votes of all employees in a unit, the director shall certify that representative candidate as the exclusive representative of all employees in the unit.

Subd. 13. Upon a finding by the director of an unfair labor practice being committed by an employer or representative candidate or an employee or group of employees, which unfair labor practice affected the result of an election held pursuant to this section, the director may void such election result and order a new election.

Subd. 14. Upon the director certifying an exclusive representative, he shall not consider the question again for a period of one year, unless the exclusive representative is decertified by a court of competent jurisdiction, or by the director as authorized by section 11 of this act.

SEC. 8. [UNFAIR PRACTICES.] Subdivision 1. The practices specified in this section are unfair practices. Any employee, employer, employee or employer organization, exclusive representative, or any other person or organization aggrieved by an unfair labor practice as defined in this act, may bring an action in district court of the county wherein the practice is alleged to have occurred for injunctive relief and for damages caused by such unfair labor practice, An unfair practice by a public employer is not a defense to an unlawful strike.

Subd. 2. Public employers, their agents or representatives are prohibited from:

(1) interfering, restraining or coercing employees in the exercise of the rights guaranteed in this act;

(2) interfering with the formation, existence or administration of any employee organization;

(3) discriminating in regard to hire or tenure to encourage or discourage membership in an employee organization;

(4) discharging or otherwise discriminating against an employee because he has signed or filed an affidavit, petition or complaint or given any information or testimony under this act;

(5) refusing to meet and negotiate in good faith with the exclusive representative of its employees in an appropriate unit;

(6) refusing to comply with grievance procedures contained in an agreement as required by section 10;

(7) distributing or circulating any blacklist of individuals exercising any legal right or of members of a labor organization for the purpose of preventing individuals so blacklisted from obtaining or retaining employment;

(8) violating any of the rules and regulations established by the director regulating the conduct of representation elections or other orders relating to certification of an exclusive representative;

(9) refusing to comply with the provisions of a valid decision of an arbitration panel or arbitrator acting pursuant to this act; provided, however, rejection of an arbitration decision by an employer as authorized by section 12, subdivision 9, is not an unfair labor practice;

(10) violating or refusing to comply with any lawful order or decision issued by the director or the board.

Subd. 3. Employee organizations, their agents or representatives, and public employees are prohibited from:

(1) restraining or coercing employees in the exercise of their rights as provided in this act;

(2) restraining or coercing a public employer in the election of his representatives to be employed for the purposes of meeting and negotiating or the adjustment of grievances;

(3) refusing to meet and negotiate in good faith with a public employer, if they have been designated in accordance with the provisions of this act as the exclusive representative of employees in an appropriate unit;

(4) violating any of the rules and regulations established by the director regulating the conduct of representation elections;

(5) refusing to comply with the provisions of a valid decision of an arbitration panel or arbitrator acting pursuant to this act;

(6) calling, instituting, maintaining or conducting a strike or boycott against any public employer on account of any jurisdictional controversy;

(7) coercing or restraining any person with the effect to:

(a) force or require any public employer to cease dealing or doing business with any other person or;

(b) force or require a public employer to recognize for representation purposes an employee organization not certified by the director;

(c) refuse to handle goods or perform services;

(d) preventing an employee from providing services to the employer;

(8) committing any act designated to damage or actually damaging physical property or endangering the safety of persons while engaging in a strike;

(9) forcing or requiring any employer to assign particular work to employees in a particular employee organization or in a particular trade, craft, or class rather than to employees in another employee organization or in another trade, craft or class;

(10) causing or attempting to cause a public employer to pay or deliver or agree to pay or deliver any money or other thing of value, in the nature of an exaction, for services which are not performed or not to be performed;

(11) engaging in a strike;

(12) any picketing which results in a refusal by any person to deliver goods or perform services;

(13) picketing which has an unlawful purpose such as, but not limited to, the furthering of a strike;

(14) picketing which unreasonably interferes with the ingress and egress to facilities of the public employer;

(15) seizing or occupying or destroying property of the employer;

(16) violating or refusing to comply with any lawful order or decision issued by the director of the board as authorized by this act;

(17) the persistent insistence to negotiate items clearly excluded as negotiable under section 3, subdivision 19.

SEC. 9. [PROCEDURES.] Subdivision 1. When any employees or representative of employees shall desire to meet and negotiate an agreement establishing terms and conditions of employment, they shall give written notice to the employer and the director, and it shall thereupon be the duty of the employer to recognize the employee representative for purposes of reaching agreement on terms and conditions of employment of the employees or the employer shall within ten days of receipt of the written notice object or refuse to recognize the employees' representative or the employees as an appropriate unit. The employer or employees' representative may thereupon petition the director to take jurisdiction of the matter whereupon the director shall then be authorized and shall perform those duties as provided in section 11, subdivision 2 (a) and (b) of this act.

Upon the certified exclusive representative and the employer reaching agreement on terms and conditions of employment, they shall execute a written contract or memorandum of contract containing the terms of such agreement. The contracts or memoranda shall in every instance be subject to the provisions of section 10 of this act.

A petition by an employer shall be signed by him or his duly authorized officer or agent; and a petition by an exclusive representative shall be signed by its authorized officer. In either case the petition shall be served by delivering it to the director in person or by sending it by certified mail addressed to him at his office. The petition shall state briefly the nature of the disagreement of the parties. Upon receipt of a petition, the director, or by September 1, whichever date is earlier shall fix a time and place for a conference with the parties to the matter upon the issues involved in the matter, and he shall then take whatever steps he deems most expedient to bring about a settlement of the matter, including assisting in negotiating and drafting an agreement. It shall be the duty of all parties to respond to the summons of the director for joint or several conferences with him and to continue in such conference until excused by the director.

Subd. 2. All negotiations, mediation sessions, and hearings between public employers and public employees or their respective representatives shall be public meetings except when otherwise provided by the director.

Subd. 3. The director shall certify a matter to the board when either or both parties petition for arbitration stating that an impasse has been reached and the director has determined that further mediation efforts under subdivision 1 of this section would serve no purpose. Upon such certification, the parties shall each submit their respective final positions on matters not agreed upon. The parties may stipulate to the board those agreed upon items to be excluded from arbitration.

Subd. 4. The employer and exclusive representative shall execute a written contract or memorandum of contract as provided in section 10 at least 90 days prior to the last date the employer is required by statute, charter, ordinance, or resolution, to submit its tax levy or budget, or certify the taxes voted, to the appropriate public officer, agency, public body or office, or by September 1, whichever date is earlier.

Subd. 5. In the event the employer and exclusive representative fail to execute a contract pursuant to subdivision 4 of this section, they shall each submit their respective final positions on those terms and conditions of employment not agreed upon by the parties to the board at least 75 days prior to the last date the employer is required to submit its tax levy or budget, or certify the taxes voted to the appropriate public officer, agency, public body or office, or by October 1, whichever date is earlier. The parties may stipulate to the board those agreed upon items to be excluded from arbitration.

Subd. 6. Upon the director certifying a dispute under subdivision 3 of this section to the board or the board receiving the final positions of disputing parties under subdivision 5 of this section, the board shall take jurisdiction of the matter and proceed in accordance with section 12 of this act.

Subd. 7. This section shall not apply to any confidential employee, supervisory employee, or principal and assistant principal, nor shall any such employees derive any rights from this section.

SEC. 10. [CONTRACTS; GRIEVANCES; ARBITRATION.] Subdivision 1. A written contract or memorandum of contract containing the agreed upon terms and conditions of employment and such other matters as may be agreed upon by the employer and exclusive representative shall be executed by the parties. The contracts shall not be for a term exceeding three years. Contract between employer school board and exclusive representative of teachers shall in every instance be for a term of two years commencing on July 1 of each even numbered year, except, however, such contracts entered into prior to July 1, 1972 shall expire on June 30, 1972. All contracts shall include a grievance procedure which shall provide compulsory binding arbitration of grievances. In the event that the parties cannot reach agreement on the grievance procedure, they shall be subject to the grievance procedure promulgated by the director pursuant to section 11, subdivision 5 (i).

Subd. 2. The employer shall implement the terms of the contract in the form of an ordinance or resolution. If the implementation of the terms of the contract require the adoption of a law, ordinance, or charter amendment, the employer shall make every reasonable effort to propose and secure the enactment of such law, ordinance, resolution, or charter amendment.

Subd. 3. In the event the employer and exclusive representative are bound by the terms of any arbitration decision of the arbitration panel or other terms established by operation of law, they shall execute a written contract or memorandum of contract containing the terms of such arbitration decision or such terms as are established by law. Upon execution of such contract, the employer shall implement its terms as required by subdivision 2 of this section.

Subd. 4. If the parties to a contract cannot agree upon an arbitrator or arbitrators as provided by the contract grievance procedures or the procedures established by the director, the parties shall, under direction of the chairman of the board, alternately strike names from a list of five arbitrators selected by the board until only one name remains which arbitrator shall make his decision regarding the grievance and it shall be binding upon the parties. The parties shall share equally the costs and fees of the arbitrator.

Subd. 5. All arbitration decisions authorized or required by a grievance procedure shall be subject to those limitations of arbitration decisions contained in section 12, subdivision 7.

Subd. 6. For purposes of this section, "grievance" means a dispute or disagreement as to the interpretation or application of any term or terms of any contract required by this section.

SEC. 11. [DIRECTOR'S POWER, AUTHORITY AND DUTIES.] Subdivision 1. The director of mediation services is authorized to and shall perform those duties provided in this section.

Subd. 2. The director shall accept and investigate all petitions for:

(a) certification or decertification as the exclusive representative of an appropriate unit;

(b) mediation services;

(c) any election or other voting procedures provided for in this act;

(d) certification to the board of arbitration.

Subd. 3. The director shall determine appropriate units. In determining the appropriate unit he shall take into consideration, along with other relevant factors, the principles and the coverage of uniform comprehensive position classification and compensation plans of the employees, the history and extent of organization, involvement of professions and skilled crafts and other occupational classifications, relevant administrative and supervisory levels of authority, the desires of the employees and employers, geographical location, and the recommendation of the parties.

He shall not designate an appropriate unit which includes employees subject to section 3, subdivision 11, with employees not included in section 3, subdivision 11.

Subd. 4. Public employers and exclusive representatives of employees may voluntarily participate in joint negotiations in similar or identical appropriate units. It is the policy of this act to encourage such areawide negotiations and the director shall encourage it whenever possible.

Subd. 5. In addition to all other duties imposed by this section, the director shall:

(a) retain mediation jurisdiction over the parties for purposes of this subdivision until such time as the parties reach agreement; provided, however, he may continue to assist parties after the parties have submitted their final positions as provided or required under section 12, subdivision 6; or section 9, subdivision 6;

(b) issue notices, subpoenas and orders as may be required by law to carry out his duties under this act. Issuance of orders shall include those orders of the Minnesota public employment relations board;

(c) certify to the Minnesota public employment relations board those items of dispute between parties to be subject to the action of the Minnesota public employment relations board under section 9, subdivision 3;

(d) assist the parties in formulating petitions, notices, and other papers required to be filed with the director or the board;

(e) certify the final results of any election or other voting procedure conducted pursuant to this act;

(f) furnish clerical and administrative services to the Minnesota public employment relations board as may be required;

(g) adopt reasonable and proper rules and regulations relative to and regulating the forms of petitions, notices, orders and the conduct of hearings and elections subject to final approval of the Minnesota public employment relations board. Such rules and regulations shall be printed and made available to the public and a copy delivered with each notice of hearing; provided, that every such rule or regulation shall be filed with the secretary of state, and any change therein or additions thereto shall not take effect until 20 days after such filing;

(h) receive, catalogue and file in a logical manner all orders and decisions of the Minnesota public employment relations board and all arbitration panels authorized by this act as well as all grievance arbitration decisions and the director's own orders and decisions. All orders and decisions catalogued and filed shall be made readily available to the public;

(i) promulgate a grievance procedure to effectuate the purposes of section 10, subdivision 1. Such grievance procedures shall not provide for the services of the bureau of mediation services. The exercise of authority granted by this clause shall be subject to the provisions of Minnesota Statutes, Chapter 15;

(j) conduct elections.

Subd. 6. The director may at the request of a certified exclusive representative or employer who is a party to a labor dispute render assistance in settling the dispute without the necessity of filing the petition referred to in section 9, subdivision 1. If the director takes mediation jurisdiction of the dispute as a result of such a request, he shall then proceed as provided in section 9.

Subd. 7. The director shall not furnish mediation services to any employees nor any employee representative who is not at the time certified as an exclusive representative.

Subd. 8. Hearings and mediation meetings authorized by this section shall be held in the county which best meets the conveniences of the witnesses, but such hearings may be held at a time and place as is agreed to by the petitioner and those parties affected by the petition.

SEC. 12. [PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS BOARD: POWERS AND DUTIES; ARBITRATION.] Subdivision 1. There is hereby established a public employment relations board with the powers and duties assigned to it by this section. The board shall consist of five members appointed by the chief justice of the supreme court. Two members shall be representatives of public employees; two shall be representative of public employers; and one shall be representative of the public at large. Public employers and employee organizations representing public employees may submit for consideration names of persons representing their interests to serve as members of the board. Members shall be appointed for a term of four years, except that of the members first appointed two shall be appointed for a term ending the first Monday in April, 1974, and three for a term to expire on the first Monday in April, 1976. Members shall hold office until their successors are appointed and qualified and vacancies shall be filled by the chief justice of the supreme court for the unexpired term. The board shall select one of its members to serve as chairman for a term beginning May 1 each year. The director of mediation services shall provide secretarial and administrative services to the board.

Subd. 2. The board shall adopt its own rules governing its procedure and shall hold regular and special meetings as are prescribed in such rules. The chairman shall preside at meetings of the board. Members of the board shall be reimbursed at the rate of $35 per day when in attendance at meetings of the board and shall be allowed their actual and necessary travel or other expenses incurred in the performance of their duties pursuant to the laws and rules governing such expenses for state employees.

Subd. 3. In addition to the other powers and duties given it by law, the board has the following powers and duties;

(a) to hear and decide issues relating to the meaning of the terms "supervisory employee", "confidential employee", "essential employee" or "professional employee", as defined by section 3 of this act;

(b) to hear and decide appeals from determinations of the director relating to the appropriateness of a unit under section 7 of this act;

(c) to approve or disapprove the rules and regulations promulgated by the director under section 11, subdivision 5 (g).

Subd. 4. The board shall adopt rules pursuant to chapter 15 governing the presentation of issues relating to matters included in subdivision 3 of this section; and the taking of such appeals. All issues and appeals presented to the board shall be construed to be a contested case as defined by section 15.0411, subdivision 4, and shall be subject to all the provisions of chapter 15 relating to contested cases.

Subd. 5. The board shall maintain a list of names of arbitrators qualified by experience and training in the field of labor management negotiations and arbitration. Names on the list may be selected and removed at any time by a majority of the board. In maintaining the list of such persons the board shall, to the maximum extent possible, select persons from varying geographical areas of the state.

Subd. 6. When final positions certified to the board as provided in section 9, subdivision 3, or submitted to the board as provided in section 9, subdivision 5, the board shall constitute an arbitration panel as follows:

The parties shall, under the direction of the chairman of the board, alternately strike names from a list of seven arbitrators until only three names remain, which three members shall be members of the panel; provided, however, that by mutual agreement the parties may select a single arbitrator to hear the dispute. If the parties are unable to agree on who shall strike the first name, the question shall be decided by the flip of a coin. In submitting names of arbitrators to the parties the board shall endeavor whenever possible to include names of persons from the general geographical area in which the public employer is located. The panel shall assume and have jurisdiction over the items of dispute certified to the board for which the panel was constituted. The panel's orders shall be issued upon a majority vote of members considering a given dispute. The members of the panel shall be paid their actual and necessary traveling and other expenses incurred in the performance of their duties plus a per diem allowance of $100 for each day or part thereof while engaged in the consideration of a dispute. All expenses and costs of the panel shall be shared and assessed equally to the parties to the dispute.

Subd. 7. The arbitration panel selected by the parties shall resolve the issues in dispute between the parties as submitted by the board, and the panel's decision and order shall be final and binding upon the parties; subject, however, to the provisions of subdivision 9 of this section and provided, however, that no decision of the panel which violates any provision of the laws of Minnesota or rules or regulations promulgated thereunder or municipal charters or ordinances or resolutions enacted pursuant thereto, or which causes a penalty to be incurred thereunder, shall have any force or effect. In considering a dispute and issuing its order the panel shall give due consideration to the statutory rights and obligations of public employers to efficiently manage and conduct its operations within the legal limitations surrounding the financing of such operations. The panel's orders shall be issued by a majority vote of members considering a given dispute. The panel shall have no jurisdiction over nor authority to entertain any matter or issue not within the definition stated in section 3, subdivision 18; provided, however, items not within terms and conditions of employment may be included in an arbitration decision if such items are contained in the employer's final position. Any issue or order or part thereof issued by the panel determining any matter not included under section 3, subdivision 18 or the employer's final position shall be void and of no effect. The panel shall render its decision within ten days from the date of submission of the parties respective positions, but in any event must issue its order by the last date the employer is required by statute, charter, ordinance or resolution to submit its tax levy or budget or certify its taxes voted to the appropriate public officer, agency, public body or office, or by November 1, whichever date is earlier. The panel's order shall be for such period as the panel shall direct, except that orders determining contracts for teacher units shall be effective to the next June 30 of the next even numbered year.

Subd. 8. The arbitration panel may issue subpoenas requiring the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of evidence which relates to any matter involved in any dispute before it. The panel may administer oaths and affidavits, and may examine witnesses. Attendance of witnesses and the production of evidence may be required from any place in the state at any designated place of hearing; provided, however, the panel's meeting shall be held in the county in which the principal administrative offices of the employer are located, unless another location is selected by agreement of the parties. In case of contumacy or refusal to obey a subpoena issued under this section, the district court of the state for the county where the proceeding is pending or in which the person guilty of such contumacy or refusal to obey is found, or resides, or transacts business shall on application of the panel have jurisdiction to issue to such person an order requiring such person to appear before the panel, there to produce evidence as so ordered, or there to give testimony touching the matters in issue, and any failure to obey such order of the court may be punished by the court as a contempt thereof.

Subd. 9. Upon issuing its decision and order involving any dispute, the panel shall transmit the order to the board and to the appropriate representative or officer of the public employer and the employees.

The public employer shall have ten days from the receipt of the order to accept or reject the decision and order; if the public employer takes no action within the ten day period the order shall be deemed to have been accepted and shall be final. The public employer may reject the order by certification to the director and if so rejected the order shall be of no force or effect.

Subd. 10. At the request of both parties to a dispute involving other than essential employees, the parties may agree that the decision of an arbitration panel established under this section shall be binding on both notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision 9 of this section. The parties may stipulate those agreed upon items to be excluded from arbitration.

Subd. 11. At the request of both parties to a dispute involving any essential employees, the board shall consider only the final positions of the parties in establishing an arbitration panel and the panel shall make its decision and order in terms of either of the final positions and the order shall be binding on both notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision 9 of this section. The parties may stipulate those agreed upon items to be excluded from arbitration.

Subd. 12. The parties to an arbitration proceeding may at any time prior to or after issuance of an order of the arbitration panel, agree and settle upon terms and conditions of employment regardless of the terms and conditions of employment determined by the order. The parties shall, if so agreeing and settling, execute a written contract or memorandum of contract pursuant to section 10, subdivision 1.

Subd. 13. This section shall not apply to any state employee, confidential employee, supervisory employee, principal and assistant principal, nor shall any such employees derive any rights from this section.

SEC. 13. [POLICY CONSULTANTS.] Subdivision 1. The legislature recognizes that professional employees possess knowledge, expertise, and dedication which is helpful and necessary to the operation and quality of public services and which may assist public employers in developing their policies. It is, therefore, the policy of this state to encourage close cooperation between public employers and professional employees by providing for discussions and the mutual exchange of ideas regarding all matters not specified under section 3, subdivision 18 of this act.

Subd. 2. The professional employees shall select a representative to meet and confer with a representative or committee of the public employer on matters not specified under section 3, subdivision 18 relating to the services being provided to the public. The public employer shall provide the facilities and set the time for such conferences to take place, provided that the parties shall meet together at least once four months.

Subd. 3. Any suggestion or recommendation regarding those matters referred to in subdivision 1 may be brought before consultants for their consideration and advisory opinions.

Subd. 4. Upon the petition of a public employer or an organized group of professional employees, the public employment relations board shall submit a list of qualified consultants experienced in the subjects to be taken under advisement. The public employer and the representative of the professional employees shall each select one consultant, or upon mutual agreement jointly select one consultant, who shall meet with the parties and join in the consideration of matters presented. At the conclusion of their discussions and presentations, the consultants shall submit advisory opinions to the parties regarding the matters presented to it.

Subd. 5. Consultants to the parties shall be compensated equally by the parties involved at a rate not to exceed a total of $100 per day, and all other necessary expenses except as may be otherwise agreed to by the parties.

SEC. 14. [STATE AND ITS EMPLOYEES; NEGOTIATING TEAM; APPROPRIATE UNITS.] Subdivision 1. For purposes of this section the term "appointing authority" has the meaning given it by section 43.01, subdivision 11.

Subd. 2. The employer of state employees shall be the employee's appointing authority for purposes of this act.

Subd. 3. In all negotiations between the state and exclusive representatives the state shall be represented by a negotiating team consisting of the commissioner of administration or his representative, and the director of civil service or his representative. The attorney general, and each appointing authority shall cooperate with the negotiating team in conducting negotiations and shall make available such personnel and other resources as are necessary to enable the team to conduct effective negotiations.

Subd. 4. The negotiating team shall meet and negotiate with the exclusive representative of appropriate units in the manner prescribed by this act; provided, however, that the director of mediation services shall define appropriate units of state employees as all the employees under the same appointing authority except where professional, geographical or other considerations affecting employment relations clearly require appropriate units of some other compensation. Regardless of unit determination, the governor may upon the unanimous written request of exclusive representatives of units and appointing authorities direct that negotiations by conducted for one or more appointing authorities in a common proceeding.

Subd. 5. The negotiating team is authorized to and may enter into tentative agreements to be submitted to the legislature.

SEC. 15. [PENALTIES AND ENFORCEMENT.] Subdivision 1. The district courts of this state are hereby vested with jurisdiction to enjoin and restrain violations or threatened violations of this act.

Subd. 2. A temporary restraining order may be issued without notice and hearing upon a proper showing that a violation of section 4 by any employer, union, employee organization, or representatives or members of an employer, union or employee organization is imminent or occurring. It shall not be necessary to allege or prove that an adequate remedy at law does not exist to obtain such temporary restraining order nor shall the court be required to inquire into the equities of the parties.

Subd. 3. A permanent restraining order or an injunction may be issued prohibiting threatened or actual violations of any provisions of this act upon a finding after notice to all parties and a hearing that such threat or violation exists. It shall not be necessary to prove or have findings of fact relating to the equities of the parties, but laches shall in any case be a good defense.

Subd. 4. The court may enforce its orders and punish violations of such restraining orders or injunctions as are authorized by subdivisions 2 and 3 of this section the same as in any case of enforcement or violation of the court's restraining orders or injunctions. In addition to such penalties as the court may assess for violations of its order under this section, the court shall order the decertification of any exclusive representative found in violation of any court order and the order shall prohibit recertification for a period not to exceed two years from the time of the court's order. Such orders shall deny to any employee organization found in violation of the court's orders issued pursuant to this section its right to dues check off for a period of two years.

Subd. 5. The court may at any time appoint a referee to hear all parties to a suit brought under this section. The compensation of a referee shall be fixed by the court and shall be payable from the general revenue funds of the county in which the suit is venued. Upon the conclusion of hearings on each case or at any time requested by the court, the referee shall transmit to the court all papers relating to the case together with his findings in writing. The court may then with or without further hearings or inquiry make its findings and issue its permanent restraining order or injunction or dissolve a temporary restraining order as authorized by this section.

Subd. 6. Any employer, employee, or employee organization affected or involved in a violation or threatened violation of any provisions of this act, or the public employment relations board through the attorney general of the state by direction of the governor, may bring suit under this section.

Subd. 7. The court may assess the costs of the action against any party found in violation of any provisions of this act as the court may deem just in the premises.

Subd. 8. Minnesota Statutes 1969, Sections 185.07 to 185.18, shall not be held to apply to any public employee, including those specifically excepted from the definition of public employee in section 3, subdivision 7.

Subd. 9. In addition to the jurisdiction and powers granted to district courts by this section, the district courts shall have jurisdiction to hear and decide appeals from arbitration decisions rendered under any grievance procedure provided by section 10, subdivision 1, and orders made or issued by any arbitration panel under section 12 on the grounds that the award or order violates the provisions of section 12, subdivision 7, relating to the scope of the award or order. The arbitration panel decisions and orders shall be deemed to be those of the board and appeal from such arbitration panel decisions and orders shall be as an appeal from an administrative decision or order under Minnesota Statutes, Chapter 606.

SEC. 16. [INDEPENDENT REVIEW.] It shall be the public policy of the state of Minnesota that every public employee should be provided with the right of independent review, by a disinterested person or agency, of any grievance arising out of the interpretation of or adherence to terms and conditions of employment. When such review is not provided under statutory, charter, or ordinance provisions for a civil service or merit system. the governmental agency may provide for such review consistent with the provisions of law or charter. If no other procedure exists for the independent review of such grievance to the public employment relations panel under procedures established by the board.

SEC. 17. [REPEALS.] Minnesota Statutes 1969, Sections 125.19, 125.20, 125.21, 125.22, 125.23, 125.24, 125.25, 125.26, 179.50, 179.51, 179.52, 179.521, 179.522, 179.53, 179.54, 179.55, 179.56, 179.57, 179.571, 179.572, 179.58, 418.21, 418.22, 418.23, and 418.24 are repealed.

SEC. 18. [EFFECTIVE DATES.] Subdivision 1. Section 12, Subdivision 1, is effective on March 1, 1972.

Subd. 2. Sections 7 and 9, subdivisions 1 and 7 are effective on May 1, 1972.

Subd. 3. All other sections of this act are effective on July 1, 1972.

Subd. 4. Negotiations in process begun under any procedure contained in statutes repealed or amended by this act may continue until their conclusion, but in no event beyond July 1, 1972.

SEC. 19. [SEVERABILITY OF PROVISIONS.] Subdivision 1. The provisions of this act shall be severable, and if any provision thereof or the application of any such provision under any circumstances is held invalid, it shall not affect any other provisions of this act or the application of any provision thereof under different circumstances.

Subd. 2. If the appointment procedure provided for in section 12, subdivision 1, is held to be invalid for any reason, the appointments required to be made by section 12, subdivision 1, shall be made by the governor."

Further amend the title by striking everything after "A bill for an act" and insert in lieu thereof the following:

> "relating to labor relations between public employees and their public employers; creating a Minnesota public employment relations board and designating its membership, powers and duties; adding to the duties of the director of the bureau of mediation services; providing for exclusive representation of public employees; providing for meeting and conferring by public professional employees and their public employers and making available qualified consultants therefor; providing for arbitration of disputes between public employees and their public employers; prohibiting strikes by public employees and providing penalties for violation thereof; providing jurisdiction to district courts to enjoin strikes by public employees; providing jurisdiction to district courts to enjoin the committing of unfair labor practices by public employees and public employers; repealing Minnesota Statutes 1969, Sections 125.19, 125.20, 125.21, 125.22, 125.23, 125.24, 125.25, 125.26, 179.50, 179.51, 179.52, 179.521, 179.522, 179.53, 179.54, 179.55, 179.56, 179.57, 179.571, 179.572, 179.58, 418.21, 418.22, 418.23, and 418.24."

VOL. 5 NO. 6
FEB. 1972

NRD
NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST

CONTENTS

Page

Case Reviews 3

Grievance Procedure and Other Conditions of Employment Are Negotiable Items
Denial of Negotiated Supplemental Leave Granted at the Superintendent's Discretion Raised Arbitrable Issues
Teacher Strike During Pendency of Collective Bargaining Procedures Is Prohibited
Denying a Minority Association Leave Granted Another Teacher Union Is Discriminatory
Dispute Over Favorable Arbitration Award Remanded; Federal Court Retains Jurisdiction Over Dismissal Case

Board Findings and Rulings 7

School Policy Decisions Nonnegotiable; Impact of Such Policy Is
No Discrimination Found In School District's Application of Negotiated Convention Leave Policy
NLRB Refuses to Assert Jurisdiction Over Private Nonprofit Hospitals Operated By Universities
Appropriate Teacher Bargaining Unit Determined For Bureau of Indian Affairs' Navajo Region

Negotiation Notes 10

Winton Act Amended
Supervisor's Dismissal Returned to Negotiated "Special Complaints" Procedure Owing to Superintendent's Lack of Protection
Employee-Management Relations Law Amended
Albuquerque Passes Local Public Employee Bargaining Ordinance
First Negotiated Contract for State Employees
Municipal Employee Bargaining Statute Amended to Allow Negotiation of Agency Shop
Consumer Price Index, December 1971

Statistics 13

Negotiated Personal Leave Provisions Found in Comprehensive Classroom Teacher Agreements
White Collar Pay Increase, June 1970-June 1971

Special Reports 18

Briefs of Recent Agreements
Negotiated Association Privileges for Use of Building Facilities, School Equipment, and Communication Systems

Texts 27

Nevada: Local Government Employee-Management Relations Act

RESEARCH DIVISION
NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

Copyright © 1972 by the
National Education Association
All Rights Reserved

2122

The NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST is published 10 times per year, September through June. Single copy, $3.00; 2-9 copies, 10% discount; 10 or more copies, 20% discount.

Subscription Rate: One year subscription to the NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST for NEA members and NEA affiliates, $15.00; for others, $30.00. Send inquiries to the NEA Records Division.

Reproduction: No part of this DIGEST may be reproduced in any form without written permission from the NEA Research Division, except by NEA departments and affiliated associations. In all cases, reproduction of the NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST materials must include the usual credit line and copyright notice.

Services: Subscribers who request full text reprints of major articles in the Case Reviews or Board Findings and Rulings will be sent copies where available, or citations for judicial decisions.

Subscribers may order copies of full text agreements or negotiation provisions analyzed or reprinted in the DIGEST for a minimum charge of $2.00. This charge provides up to 15 pages of xeroxed material; pages in excess of 15 are charged at the rate of 10¢ each. Each request should include a check for $2.00 payable to the National Education Association.

Address communications regarding the DIGEST to Donald P. Walker, Chief, Negotiation Research Unit, or Joseph A. Falzon, Senior Staff Associate, Research Division, National Education Association, 1201 Sixteenth Street, N.W., Washington, D. C. 20036

Case Reviews

NEBRASKA

GRIEVANCE PROCEDURE AND OTHER CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT ARE NEGOTIABLE ITEMS

The Nebraska Industrial Relations Court (NIRC) in two separate cases determined that grievance procedures and other conditions of employment, which are not management prerogatives, must be negotiated in good faith by school boards. This determination affected collective bargaining in the Central City and Norfolk School Districts. In its rulings, the NIRC noted that grievance procedures have been consistently considered a negotiable condition of employment by the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) and the courts. Further, the Supreme Court of the United States termed grievance procedure "part and parcel of the collective bargaining process itself."

Although binding grievance arbitration may not be enforceable under Nebraska law, the NIRC held that grievance procedures and other items considered were "terms and conditions of employment," and therefore were negotiable items.

In both cases, the court noted that Nebraska laws provide that an order compelling a school district to negotiate in good faith with its employees does not compel the district "to enter into any contract or agreement, written or otherwise."

- The NIRC ordered Central City School District to negotiate a grievance procedure meeting statutory limitations with the Central City Education Association (CCEA). The court thereby overruled the district's unilateral adoption of a binding grievance procedure giving the school board the final say. This decision was made in light of the Nebraska Public Employee Bargaining Law, which specifies the negotiation procedures for "settlement of grievances arising under, the terms and conditions of employment" with a recognized employee organization. The court established that grievance procedure was a term and condition of employment and as such was negotiable. (Central City Education Association v. School District of Central City, Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations, September 22, 1971.)
- The NIRC resolved a dispute between the Norfolk Education Association (NEA) and the Norfolk School District by ordering the parties to negotiate grievance procedure, listing of teacher assignments, and some personnel policy changes such as school calendar, snowstorm policy, and teaching hours, including reporting time, departure time, lunch time, and preparation time. The court also ruled that the method of teacher evaluation was negotiable, but that the right to evaluate teachers, "when teachers [were] to be evaluated and how evaluations [were to be] graded and used" is a board prerogative. However, the court found that some personnel policies were not negotiable. The use of the school stage was not negotiable since it was not a condition of employment.

Rejecting the school district's arguments to the contrary, the court asserted jurisdiction over the parties' dispute when the parties had exhausted all procedures outlined in the teachers Professional Negotiation Act. The court reasoned that the school district was a governmental service and that under law the NIRC had jurisdiction over "all disputes involving governmental service." Accordingly, the court reviewed the Association's complaint that the board had refused to bargain on any subject other than "base salary," and therefore had refused to negotiate in good faith.

The court concurred with its decision in Central City Education Association v. Central City School District, and ruled that grievance procedure was a negotiable condition of employment. However, nonnegotiable subjects, i.e., those not concerning wages and terms and conditions of employment, were to be excluded from arbitration. This exclusion was in line with the NLRB's stance which held nonnegotiable only those subjects "considered to be prerogatives of management."

On the negotiation of personnel policy in general, the court concluded that a clause requiring discussion of policy changes so as to prevent "unilateral changes in the teachers conditions of employment" may be negotiated. However, such discussions would not be required "if the policy [were] a management prerogative and therefore not a condition of employment." Furthermore, the decision as to the negotiability or nonnegotiability of certain personnel policies was to be made on a case-by-case basis since some policies were negotiable and others were not. (Norfolk Education Association v. School District of Norfolk, Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations, October 6, 1971.)

NEW YORK

DENIAL OF NEGOTIATED SUPPLEMENTAL LEAVE GRANTED AT THE SUPERINTENDENT'S DISCRETION RAISED ARBITRABLE ISSUES

Denial of supplemental leave at the superintendent's discretion, when provided in a collective bargaining agreement, is an arbitrable issue. The New York Supreme Court so ruled when it denied the petition of the Board of Education of Union Free School District No. 7, Town of Babylon, Deer Park, to stay arbitration of grievance cases submitted by the Deer Park Teachers' Association.

The disputed grievances arose out of the district principal's discretionary denial of teachers' requests for leave for court appearances and religious observances. Although such leaves were not specifically provided for in the parties' collective bargaining agreement, a supplementary leave clause empowered the "District Principal [with] additional discretionary authority to grant leaves on request for situations not specifically covered under present policy."

The court considered the application of this provision in light of state laws. Specifically, sec. 203 of the Taylor Law provides for negotiation of the "terms and conditions of employment and the administration of grievances thereunder." The Civil Practices Laws and Regulations (CPLR), sec. 7501, required the court to determine whether the grievances came "within the terms of the agreement." Consequently, the arbitrability, not the merits, of the grievances was considered.

The agreement defined a "grievance" as "any dispute between the parties hereto with respect to the meaning or interpretation of any provisions of this agreement." The court concluded that the disputed grievances provided "two such questions of interpretation" to arbitration. Thus, the board's contention that grievances not specifically mentioned in the agreement were not arbitrable was rejected. The court ordered the school board to arbitrate the issues certified for advisory arbitration. (Board of Education, Union Free School District No. 7, Town of Babylon, Deer Park, v. Deer Park Teachers' Association, New York Supreme Court, Suffolk County, April 8, 1971.)

PENNSYLVANIA

TEACHER STRIKE DURING PENDENCY OF COLLECTIVE BARGAINING PROCEDURES IS PROHIBITED

A teacher organization may not engage in a strike until all collective bargaining procedures specified in the Public Employment Relations Act (PERA) have been utilized and exhausted. In so ruling the York County Court of Common Pleas upheld the York Suburban School District's allegation that a strike called by the York Suburban Education Association (YSEA) two days before expiration of the required 20-day mediation period was illegal. Accordingly, the court continued the preliminary injunction entered against the Association's strike.

In its ruling, the court applied the PERA's definition of a legal public employee strike. Public employees, according to sec. 1003, have a limited right to strike "after the collective bargaining processes set forth in sections 801 and 802 . . . of this act have been completely utilized and exhausted." Mediation of a negotiation impasse "within twenty-one days after negotiations have commenced, but in no event later than one hundred fifty days prior to the 'budget submission date'" is provided for under sec. 801 of the Act. "Once mediation has commenced" and if "an agreement has not been reached within twenty days after mediation has commenced or in no event later than one hundred thirty days prior to the 'budget submission date,'" sec. 802 provides that the school board shall be notified that, if they wish, they may appoint a fact-finding panel.

The Association had requested mediation of a negotiation impasse February 26, 1971, and had called the strike May 17, 1971. Although the school district's budget submission date was June 30, 1971, the court did not consider the failure of the parties to comply with time limits relative to this date. The court reasoned that neither party "should be prejudiced" by noncompliance with this time limit since compliance was "beyond the control of either of the parties."

However, the court saw "no reason why a failure to comply" with the 20-day mediation period requirement "should be excused." It found that the Association had struck two days prior to the proper date for notifying the board that there was an impasse so that the board might appoint a fact-finding panel. No formal notice of an impasse was given the board by the Association. However, the court held that such notice, even if served, would have been ineffective since the condition for the decision to appoint a fact-finding panel—expiration of the 20-day mediation period—never occurred. Thus, the final step in the bargaining process never occurred, and the bargaining procedures were not completed. The court, in accord with sec. 1002, concluded that a strike "by public employees during the pendency of collective bargaining procedures set forth in sections 801 and 802 . . . [was] prohibited." (York Suburban School District v. York Suburban Education Association, York County Court of Common Pleas, May 28, 1971.)

WISCONSIN

DENYING A MINORITY ASSOCIATION LEAVE GRANTED ANOTHER TEACHER UNION IS DISCRIMINATORY

The Wisconsin Supreme Court found that a collective bargaining agreement, providing a majority teacher union with paid union convention leave, discouraged membership in the Ashland Education Association (AEA), a minority union that was denied similar leave. The court ruled that such a contract provision is discriminatory, and therefore is "void as a matter of law." This ruling upheld the Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission's (WERC) finding that the Ashland Federation of Teachers, Local 1275, AFL-CIO, (AFT) and the Unified School District No. 1 Board of Education violated sec. 111.70 of the Wisconsin statutes, which prohibits municipal employers from "encouraging or discouraging membership in any labor organization . . . by discrimination in regard to hiring, tenure or other terms or conditions of employment."

The court affirmed the WERC ruling, ordering the AFT and the school board to cease and desist from enforcing the discriminatory contract provision, but reversed the WERC's award of back pay to members of the minority union who attended their union's regional convention.

The bargaining contract containing the clause in question outlined the terms and conditions of employment for all the district's teachers. Thus, a provision giving members of one union time off with pay, but not giving members of other unions time off for such conventions, discriminates against the minority group. Such a clause discourages membership in the AEA by affecting the members' terms and conditions of employment.

The court noted that sec. 115.01 of state statutes included state teacher convention days in the definition of "school days" (on which school is not taught), but excluded regional convention days from the definition. However, sec. 118.2 of the state laws gives the "board of education . . . discretion as to whether teachers individually or collectively will be given time off to attend any educational convention, including a state or regional convention." Thus, the court found that it was within the discretion of the board to grant or to deny teachers convention leave.

The court pointed out that the discretion exercised by the board "must not be unreasonable, illegally motivated nor arbitrary." Further, although determination of convention leave is a discretion of the board, it is a negotiable item. Even though the court found that discrimination occurred when members of one union were permitted to attend their state convention while members of another union were denied this privilege, it ruled that the board had the discretion to deny the minority union members leave to attend their regional convention. Accordingly, the court reversed the WERC's ruling awarding back pay to AEA members who had attended the regional convention.

A minority of the court dissented from the court's reversal of the back pay award. This opinion reasoned that > once . . . discrimination has been found, the WERC under sec. 111.70 and sec. 111.07 of state laws possesses substantial powers to grant remedial relief and for this reason had the authority to provide in its order that the Ashland school board pay the minority union employees for the days they attended their convention.

(Board of Education, Unified School District No. 1 et al. vs. Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission, November 5, 1971.)

OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST

DISPUTE OVER FAVORABLE ARBITRATION AWARD REMANDED; FEDERAL COURT RETAINS JURISDICTION OVER DISMISSAL CASE

The United States Court of Appeals, First Circuit, abstained from deciding, but retained jurisdiction over a teacher's contention that a state court-ordered arbitration award—favorable to him—would be overturned on appeal in a Massachusetts Superior Court. Since the teacher had appealed with the claim that he had been denied his right to due process under the Fourteenth Amendment, the appellate court reasoned that it was preferable "in a case raising a federal or statutory claim, to retain jurisdiction, rather than to dismiss."

Previously, in a court-ordered arbitration proceeding, the teacher, who had been discharged from his nontenured positions of football coach, athletic director, and head of the physical education department without a hearing, was awarded reinstatement and reimbursement of back pay. This award was based on the Westford School Committee's failure to adhere to the dismissal procedure provided in the collective bargaining agreement between the committee and the Westford Education Association (WEA).

The committee had challenged the arbitration award in the Massachusetts Superior Court. Thereafter, the teacher appealed the committee's challenge to the Federal Court of Appeals. The teacher was seeking substantially the same relief on constitutional grounds to protect himself against the possibility that the state court would vacate the arbitrator's award.

His appeal was based on the Massachusetts Supreme Court's decision in DeCanio v. School Committee of Boston, which held that a probationary teacher has no guaranteed right, legal or constitutional, to a hearing prior to dismissal (NRD, 12-70, 3). The court determined that it was "by no means clear" that the DeCanio precedent would negate the procedural protection afforded a nontenured teacher by the WEA's collective bargaining agreement. The court pointed out that Massachusetts law provided for contracts between school committees and teachers, including provision for the resolution of disputes through arbitration.

The Federal Court of Appeals retained jurisdiction, but abstained from deciding the teacher's Fourteenth Amendment violation claim. Accordingly, the appellate court remanded the case to the district court. (Chesley A. Steele v. Rita M. Haley et al., United States Court of Appeals, First Circuit, December 1, 1971.)

Board Findings and Rulings

NEW YORK

SCHOOL POLICY DECISIONS NONNEGOTIABLE; IMPACT OF SUCH POLICY IS

In a ruling stemming from improper practice charges, the Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) upheld a school board's right to make policy decisions without first submitting them to arbitration. However, PERB held, as it did in its decision in City School District of New Rochelle v. New Rochelle Federation of Teachers, that the impact of such decisions on employees is a matter for obligatory negotiations (NRD, 10-71, 9).

New York has no statutory provision defining or limiting the scope of negotiations; the Taylor Law requires a public employer only to recognize an employee organization and "to negotiate collectively with such employee organization in the determination of . . . terms and conditions of employment of the public employees."

Determining the scope of contract negotiations, PERB dismissed the alleged improper practice charges brought by the West Irondequoit Teachers Association against the West Irondequoit Board of Education.

The Association contended that the school board refused to negotiate its maximum class size and promotional policy proposals. The promotional policy proposal called for the creation of an employer-union committee to determine qualifications and duties for promotional positions both within and outside the bargaining unit.

The school board had presented a class size proposal which stressed flexibility and continual review of the "relationships between effective learning and class size and teacher load . . . in order to determine optimal classroom conditions for pupils."

Subsequently, the school board rejected both of the Association's proposals, contending that those subjects were nondelegable duties of an employer. The school board was upheld by a hearing officer.

WITA argued before PERB that class size is a term and condition of employment, and as such, class size is a mandatory subject of negotiation and is not in conflict with existing law. The teachers group further argued that the school board had conceded class size limitations as a condition of employment in its counterproposal which stated that "excessive class size or teacher load may affect the emotional or mental well-being of the teachers."

PERB ruled that it is the duty and obligation of the public employer to determine the manner and means by which education service is best rendered, as well as the extent of such service. The public employer should neither be required to delegate this responsibility, nor should implementation of such decisions be subjected to negotiation with employees.

But,

> the impact which such decisions have on terms and conditions of employment is a mandatory subject of negotiation. . . . Class size and teaching loan may seem the same, but as we see them, they are not. The first represents a determination by the public employer as to an educational policy made in light of its resources and other needs of its constituency. This decision may have an impact on hours and wages and the number of teaching periods which are clearly mandatory subjects of negotiations.

However, PERB urged that the school board consult the teacher organization when making basic decisions regarding educational policy "so as to take advantage of the teacher's professional expertise."

Adopting the hearing officer's promotional policy recommendations, PERB ordered the school board to negotiate a promotion policy only as it relates to job duties of unit positions and promotional procedures for posts within the bargaining unit.

The case was dismissed. (Lloyd Herdle, et al., constituting West Irondequoit Board of Education and West Irondequoit Teachers Association. Public Employment Relations Board, September 27, 1971.)

WISCONSIN

NO DISCRIMINATION FOUND IN SCHOOL DISTRICT'S APPLICATION OF NEGOTIATED CONVENTION LEAVE POLICY

The Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission (WERC) dismissed an unfair labor practice complaint brought by the Wisconsin Federation of Teachers against Joint City School District 1, West Allis-West Milwaukee. The WFT, a minority union, alleged that the school district had acted in a discriminatory fashion by allowing teachers to attend the majority union's state convention without incurring a salary forfeiture, while forcing teachers who attended the federation's state convention on a different date to suffer a salary deduction and a loss of one day of personal leave.

The school district had been notified by WFT of its upcoming convention, and apprised of the union's expectation that teachers attending the convention would be paid. The school district replied that it would not pay teachers who attended the federation's convention.

The WFT contended that pursuant to a collective bargaining agreement between the majority union, which is the exclusive bargaining representative of the teachers, and the school district, the teachers in the past had been paid while attending conventions other than conventions of the majority union, as well as for attending other conferences, institutes and professional meetings. Therefore, the federation argued, the school district's action was discriminatory toward some of the teachers.

WERC found that in this case the collective bargaining agreement contained a provision specifying certain dates, on which the majority union held its convention, as teacher convention days. In dismissing the complaining union's case, the WERC held that the school district had not engaged in a prohibited labor practice by refusing to change its calendar to grant teachers time off with pay to attend the minority union's convention since the state convention could easily have been scheduled on the same dates as negotiated by the majority union. (Wisconsin Federation of Teachers v. Joint City School District 1, West Allis-West Milwaukee, et al., Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission, November 19, 1971.)

OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST

NLRB REFUSES TO ASSERT JURISDICTION OVER PRIVATE NONPROFIT HOSPITALS OPERATED BY UNIVERSITIES

The National Labor Relations Board, having asserted its jurisdiction over private, nonprofit colleges and universities, refused to assert its jurisdiction in two cases regarding the status of employees of private, nonprofit hospitals operated by such institutions as part of their educational program.

The Board decided that it could not include employees who spent more than 50 percent of their working time serving these nonprofit hospitals in bargaining units with other employees of the educational institution. The decisions were based on the definition of "employer" as found in Section 2(2) of the Taft Act. This section precludes Board jurisdiction over "any corporation or association operating a hospital, if no part of the net earnings inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual."

- In the case of Duke University, two separate labor unions filed petitions asking the Board to establish appropriate bargaining units of University employees. The National Union of Hospital & Nursing Home Employees, RWDSU, AFL-CIO, Local 1199D, sought to represent a unit composed of "all service and maintenance employees at Duke University Medical Center, a medical teaching center of Duke University," and its satellites. The American Federation of State, City and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) AFL-CIO sought a unit composed of all service employees, excluding maintenance personnel on Duke's campus.

The University took the position that any appropriate unit should be composed of university-wide, bi-weekly employees. The Board examined the structure of Duke Medical Center, including its hospitals and clinics, as well as the relationship of the Center to the University. The bi-weekly service employees were found to share a community of interests, as they are hourly paid, nonprofessional, nonacademic employees throughout all components of the University.

The NLRB dealt first with the petition of Local 1199D as it was affected by Section 2(2) of the Taft Act, since the union primarily sought hospital workers. These workers were found to be spending more than 50 percent of their working time within the hospital; therefore, they came under the exclusions of Section 2(2). The Board dismissed the union's petition because the Act precluded the Board from asserting jurisdiction over such employees of private nonprofit hospitals.

However, an appropriate bargaining unit was found to exist among the workers petitioned-for by AFSME. Consequently, the Board ordered that an election be held, with both unions listed on the ballot. (Duke University and National Union of Hospital & Nursing Home Employees, RWDSU, AFL-CIO, Local 1199D and American Federation of State, City and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, National Labor Relations Board, November 20, 1971.)

- In a similar case before the NLRB, Local 134, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers sought to represent seven electrical maintenance workers employed by Loyola University Medical Center, Maywood Campus.

The IBEW argued that the Board was not precluded from asserting its jurisdiction because application of the Act is limited only to those corporations or associations whose sole concern is the operation of a private, nonprofit hospital.

The Board noted that the literal language of the section is to be applied to the facts as found, and not in the constrictive application as suggested by the union. Further, the Board stated that in the past it had had the opportunity to construe the exemption of the section, and had often disregarded the "corporate facade" and asserted jurisdiction whenever private individuals or shareholders benefited from operation of private, nonprofit hospitals. (Parkvue Medical Center and General Hospital, NLRB, 1970.)

Having determined that the employees in question spend "55-100 per cent of their time performing services directly for and in the hospital" and that Loyola University a private, nonprofit university, is the operating and supporting arm of a private, nonprofit hospital, the Board concluded that it is precluded from asserting jurisdiction because of the specific exemptions of Section 2 (2). (Loyola University Medical Center and Local 134, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, National Labor Relations Board, November 18, 1971.)

• In the two foregoing cases, identical dissenting opinions were filed by an NLRB member. The dissenting opinions were based on the "ambiguity in the statutory language which refers to a 'nonprofit corporation operating a hospital.'"

Since both universities operate a hospital as part of their overall operations, their exclusion from the classification of "employer" according to the narrowly drawn language of Section 2(2) is uncertain.

An examination of the legislative history revealed that the framers of the bill made it "reasonably clear that the purpose of the language was to exempt those charitable organizations whose charity is wholly channelled into the operation of hospitals for the benefit of the local community."

Neither University fit the above prescriptions. The records revealed that each university-owned hospital is self-sustaining and is operated as part of the educational establishment. The dissenting NLRB member stated that though a university is a nonprofit corporation running a nonprofit hospital, such an institution is neither an exempt "employer" within the meaning of the section as the literal language of the Act does not require such a holding. The legislative history further revealed that > congressional treatment of agricultural employees who are excluded from the definition of 'employee' contained in Section 2(2) of the act. . . . demonstates that Congress knew how to extend the provisions of the Act to some, but not all, of the employees of a particular type of employer. The failure to exclude employees employed by a nonprofit hospital from the definition of 'employee' and the exemption instead of corporations or associations operating a nonprofit hospital from the definition of 'employer' clearly forecloses the majority's construction of the statute, for the majority choses a route rejected by Congress.

The dissenting NLRB member stated that "the majority cannot have it both ways." He argued that either a university "is not an 'employer' within the meaning of Section 2 (2) because its operations include a hospital, or it is an 'employer' within the meaning of that section as to all its employees, because it is engaged in much broader operations."

APPROPRIATE TEACHER BARGAINING UNIT DETERMINED FOR BUREAU OF INDIAN AFFAIRS' NAVAJO REGION

The Assistant Secretary of Labor for Labor-Management Relations determined that the appropriate collective bargaining unit for nonsupervisory educational professionals employed by the Department of Interior, Bureau of Indian Affairs, Navajo Region should comprise teachers, education specialists and guidance counselors. An area-wide representation election was ordered by the Assistant Secretary of Labor.

Contenders for representation of the nonsupervisory professional unit were the National Council of Bureau of Indian Affairs Educators/National Education Association (NCBIAE/NEA), the National Federation of Federal Employees (NFFE), and Local 2969 of the American Federation of Government Employees (AFGE).

The teachers, special educators, and guidance counselors in the proposed unit have similar educational backgrounds, teach either part or full time, and report to the school principals. They are the only professional employees at the schools "directly involved with the education and welfare of Navajo children." Although guidance counselors supervise instructional aides, the Assistant Secretary found, they do not effectively recommend the hiring, firing, or promotion of aides. Thus, the inclusion of these employees in the unit was appropriate.

The employees of the region's Shonto and Intermountain schools were excluded from the unit because representation elections had been held at these schools within the previous 12 months. Section 203 (b) of the Labor Department's Rules and Regulations under Executive Order 11491 "bars the processing of any petition involving employees in any unit where certification has been in effect for less than twelve months."

Negotiation Notes

CALIFORNIA

WINTON ACT AMENDED

The Winton Act, California's teacher collective bargaining law, was amended in order to limit the "scope of matters proposed" at meet and confer sessions to matters directly relating to certificated or classified employees. The amendment was to take effect 61 days after the legislature's adjournment.

The amendment states that a public school employer or his representative shall meet and confer with representatives of certificated or classified employee organizations regarding all matters relating to employment conditions and employer-employee relations.

Certificated employees are granted, upon request, the right to meet and confer in regard to procedures concerning > the definition of educational objectives, the determination of the content of course and curricula, the selection of textbooks, and other aspects of the instructional program to the extent such matters are within the discretion of the public school employer or governing board under law.

In meet and confer sessions, the scope of matters proposed must be directly related to certificated or classified employees, except when the employee organization has been first notified, and has had the opportunity to present its opinion. In the event of a disagreement, the public employer retains the right to determine whether a proposal directly affects a certificated or classified employee.

NEW YORK

SUPERVISOR'S DISMISSAL RETURNED TO NEGOTIATED "SPECIAL COMPLAINTS" PROCEDURE OWING TO SUPERINTENDENT'S LACK OF PROTECTION

Under an agreement providing for "special complaints" by supervisors if they were harassed or intimidated, a factfinder recommended re-examination of a junior high-school principal's dismissal because of evidence supporting the grievant's "claim." The Council of Supervisors and Administrators contended that the principal did not receive due "protective support" from the District Superintendent.

The New York City Board of Education claimed that since the principal had been dismissed and was no longer the victim of harassment, her complaint was a questionable one, and not subject to the fact-finder's recommendation.

The factfinder found that as a result of a decentralization law, jurisdiction of the school was transferred during the principal's term to a community school district. The transfer occurred without coordination or supervision. Thereafter, the principal became the subject of controversy and the victim of abuse by teachers, parents, and other community members.

Tape recordings of school assemblies (from which the principal was excluded) at which teachers and parents discussed with students ways to accomplish the removal of the principal, supported the Council's contention. Further, the factfinder found that the Superintendent failed to extend "appropriate supervisory and supportive assistance" to the principal.

The advisory arbitrator determined that "the termination of the grievant (who was still on probation) by the community board was but part and parcel of the continuing acts of intimidation and harassment." Therefore, her removal was "the direct result of conditions in whole or part caused by the conduct of members of the community board, some teachers, parents and others, but chiefly one to the Superintendent's failure to supply protective support to which the grievant was entitled."

The factfinder recommended that the hearing on a request for the discontinuance of the grievant's probationary service be reopened, and that the committee review and consider the report and take appropriate action.

NEVADA

EMPLOYEE-MANAGEMENT RELATIONS LAW AMENDED

The Nevada Local Government Employee-Management Relations Act was recently amended, providing a more comprehensive coverage for public employees. The Amendment requires good-faith bargaining by both parties, and it lists employer prerogatives where any action taken by public employees "shall be construed as a failure to negotiate in good-faith." Further, any agreement between a public employer and employees may now be reduced to writing at the request of either party.

In addition, the act now excludes from an employee bargaining unit "a local government department head, administrative employee or supervisory employee," and provides that "in all cases, confidential employees of the local government employer shall be excluded from any negotiating unit." Three sections added to the act define the terms "administrative employee," "confidential employee," and "supervisory employee."

The amendments which became effective July 1971, also provide that an employee organization desiring to negotiate matters requiring the budgeting of monies by the local government employer must give notice on or before December 1. Portions of the act imposing time limitations upon the submission of a negotiation dispute to mediation have been deleted, and the parties now are permitted mutually to seek mediation "during the course of negotiations."

Section 6 of the act, which provided procedures for and time limitations upon the mandatory submission of a negotiation impasse to an advisory fact-finding panel, was deleted in its entirety and replaced by a permissive provision allowing either party to submit a dispute to a fact-finder for advisory findings and recommendations between March 1 and April 1. If the parties are unable to agree upon a factfinder, they may request a list of seven names from the American Arbitration Association and shall alternately strike names (with the employee organization initiating the process) until the name of only one fact-finder remains. The report of the fact-finder will be made within 30 days, but no later than May 5.

The parties to the dispute may agree, prior to the submission of the dispute to fact-finding, that any decisions of the fact-finder on specific issues will be final and binding. At the request of either party and prior to the submission of the dispute to fact-finding, the governor may order that the decisions of the fact-finder in the particular dispute will be final and binding. The factfinder is to base his decision on such considerations as the financial status of the local government employer, the obligation of the employer to provide goods and services for the public, and the reasonableness of each party's position.

The amended law enumerated prohibited employer-employee practices. Among the prohibited employer practices are: interfering with an employee exercising his guaranteed rights, interferring with the formation of an employee organization, discriminating in regard to employment conditions, discouraging union membership, discriminating against an employee for specific union activities, and refusing to bargain in good faith.

An employee is prohibited from interfering with another employee exercising his guaranteed rights, and with refusing to bargain in good faith. Prohibitions against public employee strikes with accompanying penalties were carried over from the previous law.

["TEXT" Section contains full reprint of Nevada Local Government Employees Management Act.]

NEW MEXICO

ALBUQUERQUE PASSES LOCAL PUBLIC EMPLOYEE BARGAINING ORDINANCE

The City of Albuquerque Employee Relations Ordinance, effective November 5, 1971, provides that the "city government and any [recognized] employee organization . . . shall bargain concerning hours, salary, wages and working conditions and other terms and conditions of employment not in violation of law." It also established the City of Albuquerque Labor Relations Board (CALRB) the duties of which include interpretation of the ordinance, determination of appropriate bargaining units, supervision of representation elections, and resolution of prohibited practice disputes.

Also included in the ordinance were open shop, management rights and no-strike clauses, penalties for strikes and other prohibited practices, and detailed procedures for determination of units, recognition and/or election of exclusive representation organizations, and mediation and fact-finding of negotiation impasses.

The new ordinance preempts "all contrary local ordinances," with the exception of the Merit System Ordinance which will apply when employees have no collective bargaining representative.

PENNSYLVANIA

FIRST NEGOTIATED CONTRACT FOR STATE EMPLOYEES

The state of Pennsylvania and the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees signed the first negotiated contract for state employees under the year-old Public Employees Relations Act. The contract is effective from November 4, 1971, until June 30, 1973, and covers 14,000 state blue-collar employees.

Under the contract, state employees will receive $30.6 million in wages and fringe benefits. Included in this package is a 20 percent salary increase for all employees. Workers will receive a 5 percent increase in wages on four specified dates; by February 1972 the minimum salary for all workers will be $5,007. Overtime pay is time and one half for hours worked over the regular day. Additional contract benefits include: state payment of Blue Cross, Blue Shield and life insurance premiums; 14 paid holidays; an annual vacation allowance of 10-20 days depending on length of employment; a five-step grievance procedure with binding arbitration; and an "anti-patronage clause."

WISCONSIN

MUNICIPAL EMPLOYEE BARGAINING STATUTE AMENDED TO ALLOW NEGOTIATION OF AGENCY SHOP

An amendment to Section 111.70 of the Wisconsin Municipal Employment Relations Act provides for "fair-share agreements" which allow negotiation of agency shop. A "fair-share agreement" is defined as:

> an agreement between a municipal employer and a labor organization under which all or any of the employees in the collective bargaining unit are required to pay their proportionate cost of the collective bargaining process and contract administration measured by the amount of dues uniformly required of all members. Such an agreement shall contain a provision requiring the employer to deduct the amount of dues as certified by the labor organization from the earnings of the employees affected by said agreement and to pay the amount so deducted to the labor organization.

"Fair share agreements" may be continued or terminated at any time by a referendum determined by a majority of employees covered by the agreement.

Eleven new definitions were added to the amended statute. They are bargaining unit, craft employee, election, labor dispute, labor organization, person, and professional employee. Sections concerning employee rights and prohibited practices were revised. Prohibited practices were expanded to include refusals to bargain collectively or to comply with an agreement, violations of contract terms, and discouraging union membership by discriminating in regard to employment conditions. Also amended was the section covering the Wisconsin Employee Relations Commission (WERC), and its powers concerning dispute settlement and unit determination.

(Text of amended law to appear in March issue of Digest)

CONSUMER PRICE INDEX, DECEMBER 1971

The Labor Department, Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) revealed that the December Consumer Price Index (CPI) all-items figure rose 0.4 percent above the previous month to 123.1 (1967=100). This was the smallest December to December increase in four years, a 3.4 percent from last year. Higher food prices, especially fresh vegetables which are exempt from the Economic Stabilization Program, were responsible for the increase.

After seasonable adjustment, the December increase was still 0.4 percent. During Phase I of the Economic Stabilization Program, from August to November, the average monthly increase was 0.1 percent, while in the six months preceding Phase I, the average monthly increase was 0.3 percent. In December, the seasonally adjusted food price index rose 0.7 percent, the same as in November. The index for non-food commodities, which did not change from August to November, rose 0.3 percent, while the index for services rose 0.3 percent, the same as in November. The November to December change in the index does not exclusively represent changes from Phase II of the Economic Stabilization Program since some prices are collected only once every three months.

Statistics

NEGOTIATED PERSONAL LEAVE PROVISIONS FOUND IN COMPREHENSIVE CLASSROOM TEACHER AGREEMENTS

A survey conducted by the NEA Research Division of 1,529 comprehensive agreements effective during the 1970-71 school year in school systems with 1,000 or more pupils revealed that 1,243 agreements (81.3 percent) contained personal leave provisions. The purpose of personal leave is to provide the teacher with paid short-term leave to handle private matters during working hours. Some provisions contained specific purposes for taking personal leave, while others contained only a general statement of purpose.

Since 1966, the numbers and percentages of agreements containing personal leave provisions increased. (Note Table 1) Personal leave provisions contained in comprehensive negotiated agreements increased from 43.4 percent in 1966-67 to 81.3 percent in 1970-71. The largest increase occurred between 1966-67 and 1967-68. As of 1970-71, slightly more than four-fifths of the agreements contained personal leave provisions.

TABLE 1.–NUMBER AND PERCENT OF PERSONAL LEAVE PROVISIONS, 1966-1971

	Number of Comprehensive Agreements	Agreements Containing Personal Leave Provisions
		Number	Percent
1966-67	389	169	43.4%
1967-68	603	412	68.3
1968-69	978	783	80.1
1970-71	1,529	1,243	81.3

All personal leave provisions found in 1967-68 and 1970-71 agreements were analyzed for amount and source of leave in Table 2. The annual allowance of days leave for personal reasons ranged from one to 10 days in 1970-71. From 1967-68 to 1970-71, there was a decrease in one day annual allowance for personal leave from 21.8 percent to 10.4 percent of the personal leave provisions. In both years, a majority of the agreements provided for personal leave days apart from days allotted for other leaves. The source of leave shifted slightly from a separate personal leave allowance to deduction from sick leave accumulation.

TABLE 2.–AMOUNT AND SOURCE OF PERSONAL LEAVE, 1967-68 and 1970-71

Negotiated Content	1967-68		1970-71
	Number	Percent	Number	Percent
NUMBER OF AGREEMENTS CONTAINING PERSONAL LEAVE PROVISIONS	412	100.0%	1,243	100.0%
Annual allowance
1 day	90	21.8	129	10.4
2 days	161	39.1	459	36.9
3 days	79	19.2	258	20.8
4 days	5	1.2	23	1.9
5 days	27	6.6	75	6.0
Over 5 days	3	0.7	17	1.4
Undefined	47	11.4	282	22.7
Source of leave
Separate from other leave	278	67.5	975	78.4
Deducted from sick leave	134	32.5	264	21.2
Combined with other leave	a]	a]	4	0.3

a] Not available

A sample of 256 agreements (20.6 percent) of the 1,243 from every state having negotiated personal leave provisions was selected for further analysis. The general negotiated content of these provisions is shown in Table 3. These categories are not mutually exclusive since most provisions contained more than one feature. The analysis is limited to what appears in written negotiation agreements as personal paid-leave provisions.

Of the 256 selected provisions, two provisions merely incorporated existing board policy into the agreement. The majority of provisions contained specific negotiated content, namely, the purpose for the leave, procedures for requesting leave, administrative approval and processing of leave, and restrictions on the taking of leave.

TABLE 3.–GENERAL NEGOTIATED CONTENT OF 256 SELECTED PERSONAL LEAVE PROVISIONS, 1970-71

General Content	Agreements Containing Designated Content
	Number	Percent
1	2	3
Total Number of Selected Provisions	256	100.0%
Incorporated Existing Board Policy	2	0.8
Specific Negotiated Policies	254	99.2
SPECIFIC NEGOTIATED ITEMS	254	100.0%
Purpose of leave	254	100.0
Request procedures	134	52.8
Administrative approval and processing of leave	186	73.2
Restrictions on leave	162	63.8

PURPOSES

Over two-thirds of the provisions outlined in general terms the purposes of the leave. The second most frequent statement of purpose combined both general terms and specific guidelines. The third type provided only specific guidelines for uses for such leave.

The general statement of purpose usually identified personal business, personal business that can be handled only during the school day, or personal emergencies. Of all provisions containing broad purposes statements, 9.1 percent (23) were identified as being for personal emergencies; 32.7 percent (83) were intended for personal business that can only be transacted during school hours; and the highest percentage, 44.9 (114), granted leave for personal business. (See Table 4) An example of this type of provision is as follows:

> The Board shall grant two days personal leave at full pay which can be used for personal business.
>
> Fenton Community H.S.D.
> Bensenville, Illinois

Statements which specified the use of personal leave either as a separate feature or in combination with a broad purpose statement are similar to the following:

> Three of these days may be used for the following personal business–closing title on his home; a special religious ceremony, i.e., confirmation, circumcision of own child; graduation of member of immediate family or close friend.
>
> Central H.S.D. #1
> Valley Stream, New York

TABLE 4.–PURPOSES OF PERSONAL LEAVE, 254 SELECTED PROVISIONS, 1970-71

Purpose of Leave	Agreements Containing Designated Content
	Number	Percent
TOTAL NUMBER OF PERSONAL LEAVE PROVISIONS	254	100.0%
Provisions with broad purposes for leave	175	68.9
Provisions with specific purposes for leave	34	13.4
Provisions with broad and specific purposes for leave	45	17.7
Broad Purposes	220	86.6
Specific Purposes Identified in Agreements	79	31.1
Legal matters	55	21.7
Business matters	36	14.2
Religious matters	34	13.4
Non-family funerals	29	11.4
Family matters	29	11.4
Graduations	25	9.8
Court appearances	25	9.8
Household matters	23	9.1
Weddings	21	8.3
Family illness	21	8.3
Emergencies (i.e., car accidents, fires, etc.)	17	6.7
Fatherhood	5	2.0
Professional matters	4	1.6
College activities	4	1.6
Medical checkups	3	1.2
Award ceremonies	3	1.2
Other	8	3.1

Examples of statements containing both general and specific purposes for taking leave are illustrated below:

> Personal business, as defined herein, shall mean an activity that requires the teachers' presence during the school day and is of such a nature that it cannot [be] attended to at a later time when schools are not in session or at the conclusion of a working day or on weekends. Certain types of family obligations, legal commitments, religious observances, and emergencies are considered to be justification for the utilization of personal business leave.
>
> Gateway Schools
> Monroeville, Pa.

> The personal business leave shall be used only in situations of urgency, for the purpose of conducting personal business which is impossible to transact on the weekend or after school hours. Certain types of family obligations, legal commitments, religious observances, unusual circumstances related to professional growth and emergencies are considered to be justification for the utilization of personal business policy.
>
> Gwinn, Michigan

REQUEST AND ADMINISTRATIVE APPROVAL PROCEDURE

Request procedures for obtaining leave were outlined in approximately two-thirds of the provisions. (See Table 5) A written notice requesting personal leave was required in about one-fifth of the agreements. Of those provisions stipulating a written notice, 33 provided no time limit, and 17 required prior written notice from 1 to 5 days.

TABLE 5.–PROCEDURES FOR AND ADMINISTRATORS RESPONSIBLE FOR APPROVAL OF PERSONAL LEAVE REQUESTS, 254 SELECTED PROVISIONS, 1970-71

Negotiated Content	Agreements Containing Designated Content
	Number	Percent
1	2	3
TOTAL NUMBER OF PERSONAL LEAVE PROVISIONS	254	100.0%
Request procedures	167	65.7
Written notice required	50	19.7
Prior notification only	97	38.2
Statement of reasons required	33	13.0
Other	4	1.6
Administrators responsible for final approval or processing of leave	186	73.2
Superintendent	86	33.9
Principal	67	26.4
Administration	12	4.7
Supervisor	10	3.9
Other administrators	11	4.3

Prior notification for requesting leave ranged from one day to one week: of those provisions, 15.7 percent (40) required one day's notice; 10.2 percent (26), two days' notice; 3.9 percent (10), three days' notice; 7.1 percent (18), 5 days' notice; and 1.2 percent (3), one week's notice.

In conjunction with the prior notification requirement, some agreements contained provisions requiring the teacher to state a reason for the taking of personal leave at all times, 8.3 percent, while others, 4.7 percent, only required that a reason be stated some of the time.

Approval of personal leave requests were required in nearly three-fourths of the provisions, the person to whom this responsibility was most often delegated was the superintendent, followed by the principal.

RESTRICTIONS ON LEAVE

Restrictions on the purposes for which personal leave may be taken was found in approximately two-thirds (63.8 percent) of the provisions analyzed. (Note Table 6) These limitations on the use of leave are based on the reasons and effect of the teacher's absence on the operation of the school.

TABLE 6.–RESTRICTIONS ON PERSONAL LEAVE, 254 SELECTED PROVISIONS, 1970-71

Restrictions on Leave	Agreements Containing Designated Content
	Number	Percent
1	2	3
TOTAL NUMBER OF PERSONAL LEAVE PROVISIONS	254	100.0%
Total containing restrictions on personal leave	162	63.8
Restrictions on use of personal leave	140	55.1
Not to extend a vacation	83	32.7
Not for recreation or gainful employment	39	15.4
Other	5	2.0
Restrictions on granting of personal leave	22	8.7
Limits on the number or ratio of teachers taking leave at one time	10	3.9
Restrictions on school days when leave cannot be taken	12	4.7

The majority of these provisions identified the reasons for which a teacher could not use such leave. The primary restraint was placed on the extension of vacations, however, 20 (7.9 percent) of these restrictive provisions allowed for such use only with prior approval. The use of personal leave was deemed improper when taken for recreation, shopping, job-hunting, fishing, pursuing economic profits, attending a convention with a spouse, bad weather conditions, or association business.

A small percentage of the agreements defined when and under what conditions leave could be taken. Some provisions (4) granted leave to no more than ten percent of the district teaching force at one time; an equal amount of provisions stipulated that no more than two teachers from any one school could be granted leave simultaneously, and two provisions limited the number of teachers to five.

Teachers were prohibited from taking personal leave during the closing week of school and in-service training periods in three provisions, while two provisions restricted personal leave during the opening week of school. Two provisions specified that the granting of personal leave was contingent on the normal maintenance of school operations, and two granted leave only on the condition that an appropriate substitute was found.

Four selected personal leave provisions are reprinted below. These are sample provisions only, and they are not intended to be regarded as exemplary.

A. At the beginning of every school year, each teacher shall be credited with seven (7) days to be used for the teacher's personal business, without loss of salary in each school year for any one or a combination of the reasons set forth below:

1. Serious illness or death in immediate family
2. Religious observance
3. Subpoenaed or called to court or hearing
4. Graduation exercise by family member
5. Appointment for college admittance of family member
6. Taking child to college as freshman
7. School or college special honor to family member
8. Special honor bestowed on family member
9. A house closing or specified necessary business requirement
10. Being married
11. Attending a wedding as participant
12. Attending a family wedding
13. Moving to a new home
14. Emergency repairs in home

The duration of each absence under No. 4 to 14 above shall be reasonable.

B. The leave provided in this Article shall be non-cumulative.

C. A first year teacher shall be entitled to three days and a second year teacher to five days personal leave as provided in this Article, but any leave in excess of the foregoing limits up to a maximum of seven days shall be charged against his or her sick leave for that year, and shall be allowed only to the extent such sick leave is available.

Merrick, New York

Personal leave (with pay, but not chargeable to sick leave.)

1. Any full time personnel regularly employed by the Board of Education shall be granted two (2) days of leave per year to transact personal business as defined below:

PERSONAL BUSINESS:

A. Activities of legal nature which require the presence of the individual.
B. Activities of an urgent nature the absence from which would cause the individual serious financial and/or personal loss.
C. Attendance at the funeral services of a person whose relationship to the employee is other than immediate family.

The above is to serve as guidelines for the Superintendent in granting or denying a request for business leave. Requests for the extension of vacation periods, job hunting, accompanying a spouse to conventions, etc. shall not be construed as qualifying reasons for personal leave under this section but can, at the discretion of the Superintendent, be granted under Section F, Article X.

Arrangements for personal leave as herein mentioned in Article X, Section E-1, shall be made as follows:

A. Application for such leave shall be made with the Superintendent of Schools at least 24 hours in advance except in the case of emergency.
B. On the approval of the personal leave request, the teacher will be given the personal leave absence form which is to be completed at once and left with the Superintendent.
C. The Superintendent will notify the Principal of the school concerned as to the date or dates of the teacher's absence. The Principal will make arrangements for obtaining a substitute replacement for the said period of leave.

Reed City, Michigan

A. At the beginning of every school year, every teacher shall be credited with five (5) days to be used as personal leave without deduction in pay. Such leave shall not be cumulative.
B. Personal leave may be used for the following purposes.
   1. Death or serious illness of a member of the immediate family.
      (Immediate family shall be considered to include father, mother, son, daughter, brother, sister, husband, wife, grandparents, grandchildren, father-in-law, mother-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, and other members of the family living in the same household.)
   2. Marriage or graduation of the teacher or his son or daughter.
   3. Required court appearances involving no moral turpitude on the part of the teacher.
   4. Legal, business, or family matters which require absence during school hours.
C. Other than death or serious illness of a member of the immediate family, application for personal leave will be made at least twenty-four (24) hours before taking such leave. The teacher may be asked to explain in detail the reason for any personal leave requested.

Little Rock, Arkansas

WHITE COLLAR PAY INCREASE, JUNE 1970-JUNE 1971

According to data released by the Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) white-collar pay in private industry rose 6.6 percent from June 1970 to June 1971. This figure is 4 percentage points more than the 6.2 percent increase recorded from June 1969 to June 1970, and is also the largest increase recorded in the 11 years that the BLS has conducted its survey. White-collar salaries rose 6.6 percent in this period, while the Consumer Price Index rose 4.5 percent. Pay for professional, administrative and technical groups rose an average of 6.7 percent, while that in clerical and clerical supervisory occupations rose an average of 6.5 percent. The largest percentage increase in the professional, administrative and technical occupations was 9.1 percent for chief accountants. An increase of 7.4 percent was recorded for stenographers in the clerical and clerical supervisory category.

AVERAGE SALARIES OF EMPLOYEES IN SELECTED WHITE-COLLAR OCCUPATIONS IN PRIVATE ESTABLISHMENTS[a]

Occupational and Class	Number of Employees[b]	Average Salaries[c] Annual	Percent Increase, 1970 to 1971
Accountants and Auditors
Accountants I	4,353	$ 8,975	5.6
Accountants II	10,697	10,213	6.3
Accountants III	25,722	11,383	6.5
Accountants IV	17,787	13,654	7.0
Accountants V	6,282	16,626	7.4
Auditors I	786	9,401	5.7
Auditors II	2,177	10,643	6.9
Auditors III	4,099	12,227	6.6
Auditors IV	2,557	15,136	7.8
Chief accountants I	396	14,449	3.8
Chief accountants II	1,274	17,191	9.9
Chief accountants III	697	20,897	11.3
Chief accountants IV	218	24,597	6.3
Attorneys
Attorneys II	1,099	14,345	5.6
Attorneys III	2,109	17,509	3.7
Attorneys IV	1,543	22,178	9.2
Attorneys V	806	26,277	3.5
Attorneys VI	476	33,375	1.0
Buyers
Buyers I	2,704	8,998	5.7
Buyers II	9,637	10,375	6.3
Buyers III	12,340	12,585	7.9
Buyers IV	4,672	14,785	6.4
Personnel Management
Job analysts I	106	9,232	3.3
Job analysts II	332	10,397	8.6
Job analysts III	564	12,016	7.4
Job analysts IV	568	14,103	8.2
Directors of personnel I	1,034	13,730	9.0
Directors of personnel II	1,651	15,920	7.3
Directors of personnel III	1,134	19,823	7.6
Directors of personnel IV	379	23,872	8.9
Chemists and Engineers
Chemists I	1,346	9,688	5.7
Chemists II	4,161	10,776	5.3
Chemists III	8,492	12,459	6.2
Chemists IV	9,911	15,036	5.8
Chemists V	7,643	17,928	5.1
Chemists VI	4,218	20,514	4.1
Chemists VII	1,541	24,520	6.9
Chemists VIII	458	29,714	7.2
Engineers I	9,867	10,677	4.6
Engineers II	28,748	11,694	5.6
Engineers III	78,762	13,117	6.2
Engineers IV	108,091	15,535	5.7
Engineers V	73,938	17,979	6.7
Engineers VI	38,892	20,547	5.5
Engineers VII	14,169	23,508	5.3
Engineers VIII	3,296	26,736	5.3
Technical Support
Engineering technicians I	3,675	6,854	8.8
Engineering technicians II	11,307	7,963	5.9
Engineering technicians III	23,903	9,148	7.1
Engineering technicians IV	27,440	10,389	5.6
Engineering technicians V	15,744	11,815	7.0
Draftsmen-tracers	4,084	5,884	3.7
Draftsmen I	16,204	7,215	6.0
Draftsmen II	29,384	8,810	5.3
Draftsmen III	26,398	10,811	5.9
Clerical Supervisory
Keypunch supervisors I	1,109	7,193	4.5
Keypunch supervisors II	1,695	8,204	5.7
Keypunch supervisors III	1,141	8,883	7.1
Keypunch supervisors IV	398	10,692	8.1
Keypunch supervisors V	98	11,320	(d)
Clerical
Clerks, accounting I	89,884	5,603	6.4
Clerks, accounting II	61,325	7,198	5.6
Clerks, file I	27,637	4,395	6.7
Clerks, file II	26,908	4,831	5.7
Clerks, file III	7,820	5,813	5.5
Keypunch operators I	59,691	5,469	6.9
Keypunch operators II	49,114	6,228	7.0
Messengers (office boys or girls)	27,635	4,853	6.7
Secretaries I	90,644	6,649	6.2
Secretaries II	94,398	7,439	6.6
Secretaries III	53,670	8,018	6.8
Secretaries IV	16,545	8,684	6.6
Stenographers, general	56,786	5,923	8.1
Stenographers, senior	52,000	6,660	6.6
Typists I	71,877	5,014	6.3
Typists II	40,825	5,794	5.9

Source: "White Collar Pay Up 6.6 Percent, June 1970-June 1971," U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, November 16, 1971.

[a]Includes establishments with 250 workers or more in manufacturing and retail trade; 100 or more in transportation, communication, electric, gas, and sanitary services, wholesale trade, engineering and architectural services, and commercially operated research, development, and testing laboratories; and 50 or more in the finance, insurance, and real estate industry division.

[b]Occupational employment estimates relate to the total in all establishments within scope of the survey and not to the number actually surveyed.

[c]Salaries reported relate to the standard salaries for standard work schedules; i.e., the straight-time salary excluding overtime hours. Nonproduction bonuses are excluded, but cost-of-living bonuses and incentive earnings are included.

[d]1970 data did not meet publication criteria.

Special Reports

BRIEFS OF RECENT AGREEMENTS

South Bend, Indiana

Between the Board of School Trustees of the South Bend Community Corporation and the Community Education Association of South Bend, effective August 15, 1971, to August 15, 1972. Approximately 1,500 certificated professional employees.

COMPENSATION: (Effective January 1, 1972) B.A., $7,100 to $11,076, 14 increments; B.A. plus 30, $12,496 maximum; M.A., $7,668 to $13,348, 18 increments; M.A. plus 30, $13,916 maximum; Ph.D., $15,336 maximum.

Severance pay: Retiring teachers upon termination after 15 years of service, are paid at the rate of one day's pay at the B.A. base multiplied by the number of years of service in the system.

Differentials: (Athletic), athletic director (no coaching), head basketball and football coaches, $1,378; $1,484; $1,590, salary steps; athletic director (one coaching assignment), $1,060; $1,166; $1,272, salary steps; boys athletic and intramural director (7-9), $843; $954; $1,060; cross country, 9th grade baseball and wrestling coaches, $318; $424; $530; golf, tennis, elementary baseball coaches, $212; $318; $424; gymnastics coach, girls high school swim coach, $106; $212; $318; Yearbook sponsor, orchestra and choral director, $530; $636; $742; department chairman (7-9), more than 25 classes, $318; $424; $530; student activities sponsor (7-9), stage manager, drama coach, debate coach, ticket manager, $212; $318; $424; audio visual coordinator (over 1,000), student council sponsor, $106; $212; $318; lunchroom supervision, $530; special education assignment, $424.

LEAVES: 10 days' annual sick leave, 160 days maximum accumulation; 2 separate days of personal leave and may be accumulated as sick leave; one day of paid leave for draft board examination; 2 separate sick leave days for summer and evening school teachers; 5 days bereavement leave in immediate family; one day of leave for bereavement for near relative; paid leave for attending professional meetings or conferences, school visitation, and jury duty less court fees; sabbatical leave at half pay after 6 years' service.

INSURANCE: Board-paid Blue Cross-Blue Shield and Major Medical, health insurance for each teacher for 12 month period; board contributes $3.04 for $10,000 (double indemnity) term life insurance; liability insurance provided; long-term disability insurance provided subject to non-duplication offset provision of policy (social security, early retirement, etc.) at half pay to age 65 after a six-month waiting period; tax-deferred annuity plan available.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll dues deductions for local, state, and national Associations; Association has right to use gymnasium and school auditorium; teachers are permitted to wear identification of Association membership; Association interschool mail to be distributed by school mail service; monthly building representative discussions and meetings permitted.

INSTRUCTION: Teaching load in six-period schedule comprises 5 teaching periods, one preparation period, and a homeroom, in a seven-period schedule, 6 teaching periods, one preparation period, and homeroom; maximum class size for grades K-6, 32 pupils, grades 7-12, 32 pupils with a possible 10% upward adjustment; teacher's hours from 8:00 to 3:30 p.m., with teachers not required to remain longer than 15 minutes after student dismissal; effective this agreement additional teacher's aides to be added to the staff of each K-8 school for three hours in the mornings; four half days released time for each section granted to elementary teachers in grades 1-3 for parent-teacher conferences; joint curriculum development committee of six members to participate in decision-making regarding curriculum innovations and implementation, and textbook selection.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends in advisory arbitration; personnel file available to teacher upon request and teacher may respond to unfavorable material; 30-minute duty-free lunch period; faculty meetings scheduled twice monthly; others may be called on 24-hour notice; development of teacher reference library; board will provide multi-level and/or multi-text materials for all pupils; special education program to be expanded; elementary teachers released when their classes are being taught by specialist; upon completion of 50 credit hours for professional growth, teachers are eligible to receive payment of $100 in next year's contract; selections of individuals to fill vacancies, transfers, reduction in staff based in order of priorities on qualifications, contributions to students, opportunity for professional growth of staff member, and length of service; tenure attained after fifth year's service; board provides legal counsel in any suit involving the teacher in the performance of his duties; joint discipline policy committee to study standards of established pupil discipline; cost of required pre-employment medical examinations assumed by school board; teacher contract of 190 days; non-tenured teachers evaluated each year, tenured teachers, once every 3 years.

Flint, Michigan

Between the Board of Education of the Carman School District and the Carman Education Association, effective August 30, 1971, to September 1, 1973. Approximately 406 certificated professional employees. Provision for reopener only upon consent of both parties.

COMPENSATION: (1971-72), B.A., $8,300 to $11,123, 12 increments (scheduled half year increases); B.A. plus 15, $14,196 maximum; M.A., $9,151 to $14,906, 20 increments (scheduled half year increases); M.A. plus 30, $16,434 maximum. (1972-73), B.A., $8,750 to $11,725, 12 increments (scheduled half year increases); B.A. plus 15, $14,965 maximum; M.A., $9,647 to $15,713, 20 increments (scheduled half year increases); M.A. plus 30, $17,324 maximum.

Severance pay: Teachers, retiring at the close of 1972-73 school year, receive a terminal leave payment at the rate of .01 per cent of the current base payable after 10 years for each year of service beyond 10 years, not to exceed $1,000.

Differentials: football, basketball head coach, $1,162. (.14 of current B.A. base); swimming, wrestling, head coach, $996. (.12 of current B.A. base); baseball, track, head coach, $913. (.11 of current B.A. base); J.V. football, basketball, $747. (.09 of current B.A. base); golf, tennis head coach, $581. (.07 of current B.A. base); music production director (one per year), $249. (.03 of current B.A. base); drama production director (two per year), $249. (.03 of current B.A. base); cheerleader, high school, $332. (.04 of current B.A. base); orchestra director, $415. (.05 of current B.A. base); debate coach, $332. (.04 of current B.A. base); yearbook advisor, $207.50. (.025 of current B.A. base); swimming pool supervisor, $5 per hour; adult education instructor, $6; driver education instructor, $6.25 per hour; coordinator of driver education, $500 plus one extra planning period per scheduled day during summer program.

LEAVES: 12 days' sick leave credited at beginning of school year, 180 days' maximum accumulation; 2 days deducted from sick leave for personal business; leave deducted from sick leave for bereavement or family illness; leave with pay for attendance at professional conferences or school visitation; leave with pay, less fees received, for jury duty or work-related court subpoena; leave with pay for selective service physical examination; sabbatical leave with a minimum of half pay for two semesters and full fringe benefits after 7 years' service; sick leave bank mandatory and operated by Association who will establish committee to administer and provide information for the business office records, the director of business will serve as advisor to the committee, persons may not withdraw days from the bank until their accumulated leave is depleted.

INSURANCE: Health: board-paid individual and family coverage for hospital, surgical and major medical insurance, dental care program effective 1971-72 with orthodontic care effective 1972-73 for individual and/or family coverage; board-paid $7,500 group life insurance effective 1972-73 to $10,000 (double indemnity); effective 1972-73 all dividends and future premium reductions shall be applied to additional coverage; long-term disability insurance beginning one year after sickness or accident payable to age 65 or until termination of disability, during first year of agreement the long term disability policy shall pay 60 percent of annual contracted salary with a monthly limit of $750, the second year of the agreement the policy shall pay 60 percent of annual contracted salary with a monthly limit of 75 percent.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll dues deduction to local, state and national Associations; paid released-time for negotiations or grievance hearing; total of 30 days paid leave for Association use upon prior notice to building principal; Association has right to use of school facilities and equipment; the wearing of insignia, pins or other identification of Association membership permitted; school system financial and budgetary information made available to Association; agency shop clause.

INSTRUCTION: A maximum of 25 teaching periods and 5 unassigned preparation periods per week for secondary school teachers; no teachers in secondary schools are assigned more than 3 course preparations unless mutually agreed upon by both teacher and building principal; reduction in class size desired from a maximum of 30 to optimum of 20 in elementary and secondary classes, vocational classes (Industrial arts, drafting, vocational shops, homemaking, etc.) from 25 to 18 students; elementary teaching hours begin 15 minutes before class and end one hour after student dismissal; allocation of $10 per full-time teacher for supplies above pupil allottment; counseling service shall not exceed the ratio of 425 to 1, at least two counselors shall be employed in each senior high school for a period of two weeks prior to the official school employment date of teachers.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends in binding arbitration; teacher has right upon request to review contents of his file except college credentials, letters of recommendation or medical reports; 45 minute duty-free lunch period for elementary teachers and 41 minute duty-free lunch period for secondary teachers with a ten minute supervised break for senior high teachers, cost free lunch for special education teachers; probationery teacher evaluated at least three times during the school year, tenured teacher evaluated at least every two years by immediate supervisor; joint committee to improve special education program; no poligraph or lie detector shall be used in any investigation of a teacher by the board; each teacher agrees to substitute one hour per year in an emergency with additional substitution at $7.50 per hour; board will provide legal counsel to advise the teacher of his rights with regard to any job-related assault and, if assaulted while on duty, the board "will fairly reimburse" the teacher for any losses, damage or destruction of personal property; teachers affected by a reduction in staff will be automatically granted a leave of absence without pay. (See reprint)

STAFF REDUCTION

A. No teacher shall be discharged or laid off pursuant to a necessary reduction in personnel unless there is a substantial decrease in the students enrolled in the school district or there is a substantial decrease in the revenues of the school district.

B. Before the Board makes any necessary reduction in personnel, it will first negotiate with the Association regarding the effects of such reduction. This will include, but not be limited to, such problems as the criteria used for the determination as to who will be discharged or laid off and the reemployment rights of such persons.

C. In the event that a reduction of staff is deemed necessary, leaves of absence without pay will automatically be granted to any and all teaching staff affected by this reduction. These leaves of absence shall not prohibit the teachers from seeking and accepting gainful employment elsewhere, and shall not be terminated for that reason except on written request of the teacher. A teacher may elect to take and will be granted leave of absence during the staff reduction irrespective of his position on the seniority list.

D. During said leave of absence such teacher shall receive no insurance benefits at board expense, but may elect to continue insurance benefits by paying the premiums therefore at the Board offices. This section is contingent upon approval by the respective insurance carriers.

E. During said leave of absence such teacher's seniority shall remain unbroken despite such leave, and his accumulated sick leave shall not be cancelled but shall remain credited to him.

F. Any teacher who would have qualified for retirement during the reduction year shall be permitted to teach that year so as to acquire needed service.

G. The fact that a teacher is placed on leave of absence for the purpose of staff reduction shall not result in loss of status or credit for previous years of service. Upon return to the Carman School District he shall receive full credit for professional service, and credit will be given for one year of non-professional service.

H. If a reduction of staff is necessitated in accordance with the above provisions, reduction of personnel will be made according to the following:

1. Seniority for the purposes of this addendum shall be defined as nonterminated years of employment in the Carman District. Leaves of absence shall not be considered terminations.
2. A seniority list shall be prepared by the Board and verified by the Association that includes all present bargaining unit personnel.
3. Non-classroom positions will include the following: reading consultants, librarians, diagnosticians, social workers, speech therapists, counselors, Director of Library Services, and all Schedule B positions with the exception of special education positions which shall receive no additional pay over the salary schedule.
4. Non-classroom positions will be eliminated prior to classroom positions. Personnel employed in these positions will move into classroom positions for which they are certified and according to the rank they hold on the seniority list of the total bargaining unit.
5. Teachers on probationary or annual contract will be placed on leave of absence prior to teachers on tenure or continuing contract.
6. Within Classification 4 and 5, the order of reduction and recall will be according to academic needs, certification, and seniority.

I. The Board and Association will mutually agree upon transfers and assignments regarding the reduction and recall of the professional staff.

J. If a position exists within the Carman School District for which the teacher is qualified and certified, the teacher shall be notified by certified mail. Within ten (10) days of the receipt of a written offer to return to employment the teacher shall accept the position by replying in writing or it shall be determined that he has declined the position.

The teacher shall notify the Personnel Office by April 15 of the current school year of his intent to return to the Carman School District the following year or his leave shall be terminated. No new staff shall be hired until all staff on leave in accordance with this addendum have been offered an opportunity in writing to return to active employment. It is the teacher's responsibility to keep his address with the Personnel Office current.

K. As funds become available teachers on leave will be reemployed according to the provision H-6. All full time classroom and non-classroom positions shall be reinstated before Schedule B compensation is reinstated, unless otherwise mutually agreed by the Board of Education and the Association.

L. All Schedule B personnel that are recalled shall be reinstated in their previous Schedule B positions as funds become available.

M. This addendum in no way abrogates Articles VII and VIII–Leaves of Absence, however during a reduction in personnel as provided for in Section A of this addendum, it shall supersede Sections D and E of Article IX–Vacancies, Promotions, Transfers, of the master agreement.

Huntington, New York

Between the Board of Education of Union Free School District No. 1, Suffolk County, and the Elwood Teachers Association, effective July 1, 1970 to June 30, 1972. Approximately 250 certificated professional employees. Provision for automatic renewal for successive two year periods. This agreement is subject to reopener for 1971-72 salary schedule based on the average cost-of-living index during April 1, 1970 to March 31, 1971. Other items to be renegotiated by mutual written consent by November 1, 1971.

COMPENSATION: (effective 1971-72), B.A., $8,560 to $12,855, 13 increments; B.A. plus 60, $15,480 maximum; M.A., $10,255 to $16,205, 13 increments; M.A. plus 60, $18,860 maximum; Ph.D., $19,995 maximum.

Differentials: (Athletic) Based on 1970-71 B.A. base; football coach, varsity, $1,115.10 (.14 of base the first year, with .01 increase each succeeding year up to the 4th year); basketball coach, varsity, $955.80 (.12 of base); wrestling coach, varsity, $876.15 (.11 of base); soccer, baseball, varsity, $716.85 (.09 of base); golf and tennis coaches, varsity, $477.90 (.06 of base); game photographer, $20 per event for 15 events; crowd control, $20 per event; head ticket seller, $25 per event; football scout, $159.30; yearbook director, $637.20; director of student activities, $1,274.40; musical director, $477.90; home tutoring, $8 per hour; part-time secondary teachers, 18% of their step per assignment; drama director, $398.25; longevity pay: 10% of B.A. base beyond schedule maximum salary paid per year after 5 years service, additional 10% of B.A. base per year after 10 years service beyond schedule; provision for maintenance and accumulation of years stays at top step in salary grade and moves to new salary grade for longevity pay purposes; upon achieving tenure status, teacher receives additional $200 increment; incentive pay of $200 per year after 6 years, $400 per year after 12 years according to specific criteria and administrator's recommendation.

LEAVES: 12 days' sick leave, unlimited accumulation; extended sick leave after accumulated leave is exhausted for tenured teachers for an academic year, or non-tenured teachers who are eligible after serving 3 calendar months may extend through the balance of the school year; one separate day personal leave; maximum of 5 days leave for bereavement in immediate family; maximum of 3 days leave for religious reasons with 7 days prior notice; paid leave for jury duty or job-related court subpoena less compensation received for such duty; 30 days paid leave for military reserve obligation; sabbatical leave at half pay for one year or full pay for one semester after 7 years service; paid leave for school visitation or attendance at school-directed function; paid leave for selective service examination.

INSURANCE: Board paid Blue Cross-Blue Shield, Major Medical coverage for individual or family; life insurance equal to 60 percent of annual salary for each full-time teacher with accidental death and dismemberment benefits; disability income insurance for each full-time teacher providing minimum of 60 percent of teacher's income with a 90 calendar day waiting period, board will pay 40 percent of the salary for teachers eligible for extended sick leave, expiration at age 65 for absence due to sickness or accident; board pays 80 percent of group dental insurance for individual or family coverage and upon teacher's authorization may deduct the remaining 20 percent from salary; tax sheltered annuity plan made available through payroll deduction; annual physical examination required with cost paid by board for school physician; full pay for work-related injury with no charge to sick leave.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll dues deduction for local, state and national Associations; paid released time for organizational business "which cannot be performed other than school hours" for Association president or his designee; early dismissal at 2 p.m. one day per semester for professional Association meetings; whenever possible Association president's work load will be reduced or kept to a minimum.

INSTRUCTION: Secondary teachers will not be required to teach more than two subjects nor more than three preparations at any one time on a continuing basis, except in specialized areas as foreign language, business, education, industrial arts, home economics, physical education, etc.; recommended class size for both elementary and secondary schools within specific guidelines and considerations; clerical help and office machines made available to reduce non-teaching duties, budget allocation for lay reader program in junior high school English department; joint committee to recommend changes related to curriculum and instruction, textbooks, and recommend changes in existing policies; elementary teacher's hours 6 hours and 30 minutes, secondary teacher's hours 7 hours, except for faculty meetings held after school; secondary teachers assigned 25 teaching periods, available for student supervision, consultation and small group or individual assistance for 5 class periods per week; teachers notified of their assignments for the coming year no later than April 1 in elementary schools, and no later than June 15 in secondary schools.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with advisory arbitration; teacher has right to review personnel file and to submit response to derogatory material; all teachers have a 40 minute duty-free lunch period; secondary teachers have a 40-minute preparation period daily; building faculty meetings scheduled once a week and departmental meetings scheduled twice a month; course credit granted teachers earning additional graduate credits or inservice courses for salary adjustment purposes; 3-year probationery period with tenure granted upon recommendation of administration; agreement states, "Association strongly recommends that teachers make firm commitments by April 1 or as soon thereafter as salary agreements are available;" seniority preference given in promotion, vacancies and transfer assignments; board provides attorney or fees for work-related legal suit with "save harmless clause" for teacher acting within the scope of his professional duties; specific procedure in the event of inclement weather affecting school closings; pupil discipline policy formulated by a committee of teachers at each school, initiated by the Association with a building administrator; mutual adoption of the Bill of Rights for Teachers as set forth by the state Association and included in this agreement; school calendar reviewed annually by board and Association prior to adoption by June 1.

DENTAL INSURANCE

Eighty percent (80%) of the group dental insurance premium (individual or family coverage, whichever applies in the particular case) for each teacher, except those who normally work less than thirty (30) hours a week. Deductions for the remaining twenty percent (20%) premium cost shall be made from the salaries of those teachers who provide the Board with written authorizations to make such deductions. The Board agrees to allocate $20,212.00 in each of the two years of this Agreement for this program. There shall be a deductible of $25.00 for the individual teacher and $75.00 for the family; pre-conditions will not be covered; reimbursement by the carrier shall be 80% for Class A service charges and 60% for class B.

COMPREHENSIVE DENTAL BENEFITS
CLASS A SERVICES

General
Prophylaxis (cleaning of teeth) including oral examination
Topical application of sodium fluoride
Stannous fluoride application
Palliative (emergency) treatment of dental pain

X-Rays
Periapical (root area) X-Ray
Bitewing X-Ray
Occlusal (contact of teeth) X-Ray
Antero-posterior (front-back) or lateral (side) view of head and jaws or X-Ray or temporomandibular (temporal bone - lower jaw) joint

Root Canal Therapy
Extirpation (removal) of pulp and filling of one or more root canals
Pulpotomy (amputation of pulp)
Apicoectomy (root amputation)

Oral Surgery
Removal of tooth, including anesthesia
Surgical removal of tooth with a soft tissue impaction
Surgical removal of tooth with partial bone impaction
Surgical removal of tooth with complete bone impaction
Aveolectomy (surgical preparation of ridge for denture)

Fillings, Including Inlays
Amalgam filling
Plastic, silicate cement or equivalent filling
Gold inlay
Porcelain inlay
Recementing inlay

CLASS B SERVICES

Crowns
Stainless steel or aluminum crown
Acrylic (plastic) jacket crown, gold shell crown, or three-quarter crown
Cast gold crown without facing
Porceline jacket crown or cast gold crown with facing Chayes or equivalent attachment
Recementing crown

Bridge Pontics
Porcelain pontic with cast gold backing, acrylic (plastic) pontic with cast gold backing or cast gold pontic
Any other bridge pontic
Recementing bridge
Replacing facing

Dentures
Bilateral partial denture, upper or lower
Unilateral partial denture, upper or lower
Complete denture, including immediate denture, upper or lower Adding teeth to partial denture to replace extracted tooth
Addition of clasp to existing partial denture obturator

Repairs To Dentures
Any denture repair
Rebasing denture

Orthodonture
$500.00 per policy year

EXPENSES NOT COVERED

No payment will be made for expenses incurred:
1) As a result of an occupational accident or sickness covered by Workmen's Compensation;
2) For services not listed;
3) For services received in or from a hospital owned or operated by the United States government or through any public program;
4) For which the individual receives payment or is entitled to receive payment under any surgical benefits provided by the medical care plan.

Seattle, Washington

Between the Seattle School District No. 1 and the Seattle Alliance of Educators, effective July 1, 1971, to July 1, 1973. Approximately 4,350 certificated professional employees. Provision for reopener on April 1, 1972 to exchange proposals relative to the 1972-73 certificated staff salary schedule and insurance benefits prior to their finalization as affected by the November 1971 levy election. Planning to include an amount for salary purposes that, "coupled with maintenance of the 1971-72 level of state funding, would provide for increments and educational credit plus an upward adjustment equal to the percent of adjustment allowed for inflation of prices on hard goods and in no case less than 2% of the 1971-72 salaries." Mutually written proposals for a successor agreement will be presented on February 1, 1973.

COMPENSATION: (1971-72), B.A., $7,328 to $8,173, 5 increments; B.A. plus 45, $11,337 maximum; M.A., $7,925 to $11,643, 11 increments; M.A. plus 90, $14,300 maximum; Ph.D., $15,014 maximum.

Differentials: (Athletic), head football, basketball coaches, $1,438; head baseball, track coaches, $1,010; assistant football, basketball coaches, $821; golf, soccer, tennis coaches, $587; cross country, wrestling, gymnastics coaches, $638; activity coordinator, $1,056; (Other), band director, $668; drama advisor, $638; choral music director, $530; orchestra director, $347; newspaper advisor, $683; head counselor, $847; debate advisor, $372; elementary safety patrol advisor, $275; department head (with 7 or more teachers), $954; "workshops and staff development training programs, other than regular staff development credit programs which occur at times when the educator is not otherwise compensated, shall be compensated for at the rate for special summer assignment" within budget limitations; substitute teachers: two classifications of substitutes: short-term (up to 44 days) service) and long-term (45 or more days' service). (The following excerpt is more detailed.)

SUBSTITUTE TEACHERS

1. There shall be two classifications of substitute teacher service:
   a. Short-term substitutes utilized in assignments up to and including forty-four (44) days.
      (1) Regular short-term substitutes: Substitutes who are willing to take all assignments for which they are qualified. Regular short-term substitutes are called, except in unusual circumstances, more frequently than casual short-term substitutes and are given preference for full-day assignments. Substitutes who have served at least one year as a substitute or as a full-time contract teacher in the District are generally categorized as regular short-term substitutes.
      (2) Casual short-term substitutes. Substitutes who are available to serve less frequently and who wish to discriminate as to assignments or days served. Casual short-term substitutes are routinely called less frequently than a regular short-term substitute.
   b. Long-term substitutes utilized in assignments of forty-five (45) or more days.
2. The base daily pay of short-term substitute teachers shall be $30.85. Short-term substitute teachers shall receive an additional $4.85 per day for continuous assignments after the fifth day.
3. Long-term substitute assignments of forty-five (45) days or more shall be paid at the contract teacher rate retroactive to the first day of assignment, except that when in the judgment of the Personnel Department the assignment appears at the onset to be a long-term assignment, the contract teacher rate may be paid from the beginning of the assignment.

4. Except in unusual circumstances, the District shall not use long-term substitutes on a continuing basis for more than one semester in lieu of contract teachers.
5. A short-term substitute assignment made for up to one-half day shall be paid at a one-half rate, plus $1, and any assignment made for more than one-half day will be paid at a full-day rate. A half-day substitute assignment shall consist of up to three (3) fifty-minute periods or up to three and one-half clock hours, whichever is less. An assignment of over three (3) fifty-minute periods or over three and one-half clock hours shall count as a full day of service.
6. Short-term substitute teachers receiving daily rate substitute teacher pay shall receive sick leave allowance of one (1) day per month, as earned.
7. Long-term substitute teachers being paid at the contract teacher rate from the beginning of an assignment shall be entitled to contract teacher fringe benefits.
8. Except in unusual circumstances, building principals shall not require a substitute to supervise another class during scheduled preparation-conference-planning time.

LEAVES: One day for each calendar month of contracted service credited in advance as annual sick leave, 180 days maximum accumulation; 2 separate days' leave for personal business; 3 days' bereavement leave for each occurrence in immediate family; 2 separate days' leave for observance of mandatory religious holidays; one day paid leave to give information at committee meeting of Legislature; paid leave for court subpoena or jury duty with witness fees refunded to school district; paid leave as necessary for professional conference or school visitation with some expenses paid by teacher or school system; adoption leave with pay not to exceed 7 days to complete court process; sabbatical leave at half pay for academic year after 7 years' service.

INSURANCE: Health: Board provides up to $20 per month with additional funding of $5 per month in local funds and an increase of $5 per month in state funding which may be applied toward hospital, medical, surgical and other approved group insurance programs subscribed to by teacher; $500,000 board-paid liability insurance for each teacher; joint committee to review annuity program each year.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll dues deduction for local, state, and national Associations; Association has right to the use of school mail facilities; organization business may be conducted before and after school hours, at lunch time or at other times by special arrangement through the principal provided normal school operation is not hindered.

INSTRUCTION: No more than 3 different course preparations in not more than 2 subject areas for secondary teacher; basic class size in combination or split grades shall be at least one less than average class size; paraprofessionals may be utilized to share instructional and educational duties with classroom teachers; special emphasis will be placed on the availability of textbooks, materials, and supplies for new programs; foreign language enrichment program provided in elementary grades; schedule of kindergarten teachers assigned to 2 buildings must have a 30 minute duty-free lunch period plus necessary travel time between buildings; secondary teachers' preparation-conference-planning period is utilized for conferences, departmental meetings, and other cooperative group planning; teacher's workday begins one half hour before classes and ends one half hour after classes; released time as compensation for teachers visiting homes of their students; elementary instrumental music teachers shall be allowed compensatory time; kindergarten teachers provided with a ten minute break in the morning and afternoon; maintenance of average school ratio of 30 to 1 with staffing guideline of 150 students per teacher per day. (See reprint below).

CLASS SIZE AND ALLOCATION OF PERSONNEL

1. The District recognizes that a lower District-wide pupil-staff ratio is desirable. However, any application of a rigid numerical limitation on class size within schools restricts the staff and the principal in their flexibility in seeking an ideal learning environment. The District maintans that class size and/or pupil-staff ratio must reflect individual school needs and unique problems.
2. In implementing the objectives of instruction policy and in recognition of the problems of discipline, counseling, and instruction when the teaching load is excessively large, the following instructional load standards or guidelines are established. The District will:
   a. Maintain an average District ratio of students to full-time equivalent teachers at no more than 30:1.
   b. Initiate steps to limit regular academic class size to thirty-two (32) students for grades 7-12. This would not necessarily hold for classes where staff and administrators have developed and arranged special variations in curriculum, instructional methods, and staff organization. Following the October enrollment count, a revised projection will be made for each secondary school for the following January. In case the enrollment of any secondary school is projected to be more than a 25:1 pupil-classroom teacher ratio for the following January, appropriate staff will be added as soon as practicable which will be determined within thirty (30) days after the January projections are calculated, but no later than December 1 of the same school year.

c. Maintain a staffing guideline of 150 students per teacher per day, with the exception of special classes and programs where the individual class size has been exceeded in grades 7-12. The area administrator will be notified by the principal of assignments which exceed the guideline, and they will explore possible adjustments.

d. Initiate steps to limit regular academic class size for grades 3-6 to twenty-eight (28) and for grades K-2 to twenty-five (25). This would not necessarily hold for classes where teaching staff and administrators have developed and arranged special variations in curriculum, instructional methods, and staff organization. In situations in which such a limit is exceeded in a regular class in grades K-2 by three(3) students or in grades 3-6 by four (4) students, following the October enrollment count the District will provide additional assistance as identified in consultation between the area administrator and the building staff.

e. Encourage staff and building administrators to develop cooperatively and to explore continually special variations in curriculum, instructional methods, and staff organization to endeavor to achieve an optimum system for instruction in their school.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends in final and binding arbitration; personnel file may be reviewed by teacher and derogatory material may be refuted by him in writing; transfer assignments are based on qualifications, needs of school district, and teacher's expressed desires, vacancies announced first week of May shall be completed by June 1 for the following year; legal counsel provided teacher in job-related law suit, reimbursement for loss or damage to personal property of "first-dollar losses up to limit of usual $100 insurance deductible" after teacher has exhausted his own insurance recovery possibility; provision for insistence upon objective scholarship in discussing controversial issues; procedure for placement in special education program; standards of conduct including substantive regulations and due process procedures provided for utilization by professional staff, students, and parents in each building; a joint study to develop a role definition of the need and effective use of school counselors; school librarians provided one half day of released time each month for the purpose of discussion relative to books and materials used in their respective libraries.

NEGOTIATED ASSOCIATION PRIVILEGES FOR USE OF BUILDING FACILITIES, SCHOOL EQUIPMENT, AND COMMUNICATION SYSTEMS

A study of 1,529 comprehensive agreements effective during the 1970-71 school year in systems with a pupil enrollment of 1,000 or more found that 57.9 percent of the agreements contained negotiated provisions granting three major privileges to the teachers' Association. These privileges are the use of building facilities, school equipment, and communication systems with the stipulation that their use does not conflict with scheduled school operations. Each agreement incorporated all or a combination of the three Association privileges in the negotiated provision. Table 1 gives a breakdown of the designated provisions and/or combinations of provisions found within the analyzed agreements.

The Association's use of school assembly halls or classrooms for meetings is usually without cost to the Association providing no additional custodial fees are incurred. The use of school facilities is specifically restricted in some provisions to non-school hours while most provisions limited such use to "reasonable times" not in conflict with scheduled school operations.

School equipment use means access to typewriters, mimeograph machines, calculators, audio-

TABLE 1.–NEGOTIATED PROVISIONS RELATING TO ASSOCIATION USE OF BUILDING FACILITIES, SCHOOL EQUIPMENT AND COMMUNICATION SYSTEMS

Item	Agreements Containing Designated Content
	Number	Percent
1	2	3
Total number of agreements analyzed	1,529	100.0%
Total agreements containing pertinent provisions	886	57.9
Building facilities, school equipment, and communication systems	359	23.5
Building facilities and communication systems	334	21.8
Building facilities only	70	4.6
Communication systems only	60	3.9
Building facilities and school equipment	46	3.0
Communication systems and school equipment	17	1.1

visual and other equipment necessary for Association's purposes. All materials and supplies incidental to such use are to be provided by the Association. Negligent damage to equipment is the responsibility of the Association.

The Association's use of school communication systems refers to the utilization of school mail and mail boxes, bulletin boards, and other available communication services. Organization meetings, activities, special events, and policies may be announced through these services. Some agreements require the school district to provide bulletin boards at various locations or to allot space on existing bulletin boards for Association use. Some agreements provide that copies of all materials for communication are to be given to the building principal, although his approval is not required, the Association usually agreed that no derogatory material to the administration or the school board would be circulated or posted.

Examples of provisions relative to Association's use of building facilities, school equipment, and communication systems are reprinted below. These are sample provisions only; they are not intended as exemplary.

A. The Association will have the right to use school buildings without cost at reasonable times for meetings provided, however, that the Association will be required to pay for any additional custodial costs involved by reason of said meetings. The Principal of the building in question will be notified in advance of the time and place for all such meetings.

B. There will be one (1) bulletin board in each school building, which will be placed in the faculty lounge, for the purpose of displaying notices, circulars, and other Association material. Copies of all such material will be given to the building principal, but his advance approval will not be required. The Association agrees that it will not post any material which is derogatory to the administration, the Board of Education or any member thereof, or the School System.

C. The Association may freely use the teacher mailboxes within the schools for materials dealing with proper and legitimate business of the Association provided such material is distributed before or after the normal student-in-class day. Copies of all materials will be given to the building principal and to the Superintendent of Schools prior to dissemination but their advance approval will not be required. In the cases where a building representative is disseminating materials which he has authored regarding Association business, such material need be presented only to the principal of the building. Though a representative's lunch period may be utilized for disseminating materials to teachers, at no time are preparation or planning periods to be utilized for these purposes, except in emergency.

Bristol School District
Bristol, Connecticut

C. The Association may post notices of its activities and matters of Association concern on teacher bulletin boards, at least one of which may be provided in each school building. The Association may use system-wide mail service and teacher mail boxes for communications to teachers.

D. Representatives of the Association may use school building facilities for meetings providing that the use of such facility is not already scheduled. There shall be no cost to the Association for such meetings so long as no overtime custodial cost is involved. Written application shall be submitted to the building principal for his approval.

E. The Association may use school facilities and equipment, including typewriters, mimeographing machines, other duplicating equipment, calculating machines, and all types of audio-visual equipment when such equipment is not otherwise in use. The Association shall furnish all materials and supplies incident to such use. The Association shall be responsible for any abuse of school equipment.

Highland School District
Highland, Indiana

C. The Association and its representatives shall have the right to use school buildings for meetings in accordance with standard Board procedures in effect for the temporary use of school facilities.

D. The Association shall have the right to use school equipment, including typewriters, mimeographing machines, other duplicating equipment, calculating machines, and all types of audio-visual equipment at times when such equipment is not otherwise in use. The Association shall pay for the cost of all materials and supplies incident to such use.

E. The Association shall have, in each school building, the use of bulletin board space in each faculty lounge or teachers' room. The Association shall also be allotted adequate space on the bulletin board in the central office for Association notes. The location of the above specified bulletin boards shall be designated by the Association with the approval of building administrators.

F. The Association shall have the right to use the inter-school mail facilities and school mailboxes.

Council Rock School District
Richboro, Pennsylvania

A bonafide teacher organization may use existing school facilities for professional activities after school hours. Such groups may also use school mail, mail boxes, and other communications services for the purpose of announcing meetings and special events. Teachers may also use mail facilities and bulletin boards as communications devices for announcement of organization activities, and policy. Such groups may also use school equipment as in the manner provided for under Board policy on community use of school facilities.

Scottsdale School District
Scottsdale, Arizona

Texts

NEVADA

LOCAL GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEE-MANAGEMENT RELATIONS ACT

(As amended, effective July 1, 1971)

Section 1. Title 23 of NRS is hereby amended by adding thereto a new chapter to consist of the provisions set forth as sections 2 to 27, inclusive, of this act.

Sec. 2. This chapter may be cited as the Local Government Employee-Management Relations Act.

Sec. 3. As used in this chapter, unless the context otherwise requires, the words and terms defined in sections 4 to 8, inclusive, and sections 13 to 15, inclusive, of this Act, have the meanings ascribed to them in such sections. [Sec. 3, as amended by H. B. 178, L. 1971, effective July 1, 1971].

Sec. 4. "Board" means the local government employee-management relations board.

Sec. 5. "Employee organization" means any:

1. Association, brotherhood, council or federation composed of employees of the State of Nevada or local government employees or both; or

2. Craft, industrial or trade union whose membership includes employees of the State of Nevada or local government employees or both.

Sec. 6. "Local government employee" means any person employed by a local government employer.

Sec. 7. "Local government employer" means any political subdivision of this state or any public or quasi-public corporation organized under the laws of this state and includes, without limitation, counties, cities, unincorporated towns, school districts, hospital districts, irrigation districts and other special districts. [Sec. 7, as amended by H. B. 178, L. 1971, effective July 1, 1971].

Sec. 8. "Strike" means any concerted:

1. Stoppage of work, slowdown or interruption of operations by employees of the State of Nevada or local government employees;

2. Absence from work by employees of the State of Nevada or local government employees upon any pretext or excuse, such as illness, which is not founded in fact; or

3. Interruption of the operations of the State of Nevada or any local government employer by any employee organization.

Sec. 9. 1. It is the right of every local government employee, subject to the limitation provided in subsection 3, to join any employee organization of his choice or to refrain from joining any employee organization. A local government employer shall not discriminate in any way among its employees on account of membership or nonmembership in an employee organization.

2. The recognition of an employee organization for negotiation, pursuant to this chapter, does not preclude any local government employee who is not a member of that employee organization from acting for himself with respect to any condition of his employment, but any action taken on a request or in adjustment of a grievance shall be consistent with the terms of an applicable negotiated agreement, if any.

3. A police officer, sheriff, deputy sheriff or other law enforcement officer may be a member of an employee organization only if such employee organization is composed exclusively of law enforcement officers.

Sec. 10. 1. It is the duty of every local government employer, except as limited in subsection 2, to negotiate in good faith through a representative or representatives of its own choosing concerning wages, hours, and conditions of employment with the recognized employee organization, if any, for each appropriate unit among its employees. If either party requests it, agreements so reached shall be reduced to writing. Where any officer of a local government employer, other than a member of the governing body, is elected by the people and directs the work of any local government employee, such officer is the proper person to negotiate, directly or through a representative or representatives of his own choosing, in the first instance concerning any employee whose work is directed by him, but may refer to the governing body or its chosen representative or representatives any matter beyond the scope of his authority.

2. Each local government employer is entitled, without negotiation or reference to any agreement resulting from negotiation:

(a) To direct its employees;

(b) To hire, promote, classify, transfer, assign, retain, suspend, demote, discharge or take disciplinary action against any employee;

(c) To relieve any employee from duty because of lack of work or for any other legitimate reason;

(d) To maintain the efficiency of its governmental operations;

(e) To determine the methods, means and personnel by which its operations are to be conducted; and

(f) To take whatever actions may be necessary to carry out its responsibilities in situations of emergency.

Any action taken under the provisions of this subsection shall not be construed as a failure to negotiate in good faith. [Sec. 10, Subsecs. 1 and 2, as amended by H. B. 178, L. 1971, effective July 1, 1971].

Sec. 11. 1. An employee organization may apply to a local government employer for recognition by presenting:

(a) A copy of its constitution and bylaws, if any;

(b) A roster of its officers, if any, and representatives; and

(c) A pledge in writing not to strike against the local government employer under any circumstances.

A local government employer shall not recognize as representative of its employees any employee organization which has not adopted, in a manner valid under its own rules, the pledge required by paragraph (c).

2. If an employee organization, at or after the time of its application for recognition, presents a verified membership list showing that it represents a majority of the employees in a negotiating unit, and if such employee organization is recognized by the local government employer, it shall be the exclusive negotiating representative of the local government employees in that negotiating unit.

3. A local government employer may withdraw recognition from an employee organization which:

(a) Fails to present a copy of each change in its constitution or bylaws, if any, or to give notice of any change in the roster of its officers, if any, and representatives;

(b) Disavows its pledge not to strike against the local government employer under any circumstances; or

(c) Ceases to be supported by a majority of the local government employees in the negotiating unit for which it is recognized.

4. If an employee organization is aggrieved by the refusal or withdrawal of recognition, or by the recognition or refusal to withdraw recognition of another employee organization, the aggrieved employee organization may appeal to the board. If the board in good faith doubts whether any employee organization is supported by a majority of the local government employees in a particular negotiating unit, it may conduct an election by secret ballot upon the question. Subject to judicial review, the decision of the board is binding upon the local government employer and all employee organizations involved.

Sec. 12. 1. Each local government employer which has recognized one or more employee organizations shall determine, after consultation with such recognized organization or organizations, which group or groups of its employees constitute an appropriate unit or units for negotiating purposes. The primary criterion for such determination shall be community of interest among the employees concerned. A local government department head shall not be a member of the same negotiating unit as the employees who serve under his direction. A principal, assistant principal or other school administrator below the rank of superintendent, associate superintendent or assistant superintendent shall not be a member of the same negotiating unit with public school teachers unless the school district employs fewer than five principals but may join with other officials of the same specified ranks to negotiate as a separate negotiating unit. A local government department head, administrative employee or supervisory employee shall not be a member of the same negotiating unit as the employees under his direction. Any dispute between the parties as to whether an employee is a supervisor shall be submitted to the board. In all cases, confidential employees of the local government employer shall be excluded from any negotiating unit.

2. If any employee organization is aggrieved by determination of a negotiating unit, it may appeal to the board. Subject to judicial review, the decision of the board is binding upon the local government employer and all employee organizations involved. The board shall apply the same criterion as specified in subsection 1. [Sec. 12, Subsecs. 1 and 2, as amended by H. B. 178, L. 1971, effective July 1, 1971].

Sec. 13. 1. Whenever an employee organization desires to negotiate concerning any matter which is subject to negotiation pursuant to this chapter, it shall give written notice of such desire to the local government employer. If the subject of negotiation requires the budgeting of money by the local government employer, the employee organization shall give such notice on or before December 1.

2. This section does not preclude, but this chapter does not require, informal discussion between an employee organization and a local government employer of any matter which is not subject to negotiation or contract under this chapter. Any such informal discussion is exempt from all requirements of notice or time schedule. [Sec. 13, Subsecs. 1 and 2, as amended by H. B. 178, L. 1971, effective July 1, 1971].

Sec. 14. 1. The parties shall promptly commence negotiations. During the course of negotiations the parties may mutually agree to utilize the services of a mediator to assist them in resolving their dispute. [Sec. 14, as amended by H. B. 178, L. 1971, effective July 1, 1971].

Sec. 15. 1. If by March 1, the parties have not reached agreement, either party, at any time up to April 1, may submit the dispute to an impartial factfinder for his findings and recommendations. These findings and recommendations are not binding on the parties except as provided in subsections 6 and 7.

2. If the parties are unable to agree on an impartial factfinder within 5 days either party may request from the American Arbitration Association a list of seven potential factfinders. The parties shall select their factfinders from this list by alternately striking one name until the name of only one factfinder remains, who will be the factfinder to hear the dispute in question. The employee organization shall strike the first name.

3. The local government employer and employee organization each shall pay one-half of the cost of factfinding. However, each party shall pay its own costs of factfinding incurred in the preparation and presentation of its case in factfinding.

4. The factfinder shall report his findings and recommendations to the parties to the dispute within 30 days after the conclusion of the factfinding hearing. Such report shall be made no later than May 5 except as modified by the provisions of subsection 5.

5. In a regular legislative year, the factfinding hearing shall be stayed up to 10 days after the adjournment of the legislature sine die.

6. The parties to the dispute may agree, prior to the submission of the dispute to factfinding, to make the findings and recommendations on all or any specified issues final and binding on the parties.

7. If the parties do not mutually agree to make the findings and recommendations of the factfinder final and binding, the governor shall have the emergency power and authority at the request of either party and prior to the submission of the dispute to factfindings, to order prior to April 1 that the findings and recommendations on all or any specified issues of a factfinder in a particular dispute will be final and binding. The exercise of this authority by the governor shall be made on a case by case consideration and shall be made on the basis of his evaluation regarding the overall best interests of the state and all its citizens, the potential fiscal impact both within and outside the political subdivision, as well as any danger to the safety of the people of the state or a political subdivision.

8. Any factfinder, whether acting in a recommendatory or binding capacity, shall base his recommendations or award on the following criteria:

(a) A preliminary determination shall be made as to the financial ability of the local government employer based on all existing available revenues as established by the local government employer, and with due regard for the obligation of the local government employer to provide facilities and services guaranteeing the health, welfare and safety of the people residing within the political subdivision.

(b) Once the factfinder has determined in accordance with paragraph (a) that there is a current financial ability to grant monetary benefits, he shall use normal criteria for interest disputes regarding the terms and provisions to be included in an agreement in assessing the reasonableness of the position of each party as to each issue in dispute.

The factfinder's report shall contain the facts upon which he based his recommendations or award. [Sec. 15, Subsecs. 1-8, as amended by H. B. 178, L. 1971, effective July 1, 1971].

Sec. 16. 1. For the purpose of investigating disputes, the factfinder may issue subpoenas requiring the attendance of witnesses before him, together with all books, memoranda, papers and other documents relative to the matters under investigation, administer oaths and take testimony thereunder.

2. The district court in and for the county in which any investigation is being conducted by a factfinder may compel the attendance of witnesses, the giving of testimony and the production of books and papers as required by any subpoena issued by the factfinder.

3. In case of the refusal of any witness to attend or testify or produce any papers required by such subpoena, the factfinder may report to the district court in and for the county in which the investigation is pending by petition, setting forth:

(a) That due notice has been given of the time and place of attendance of the witness or the production of the books and papers;

(b) That the witness has been subpoenaed in the manner prescribed in this chapter;

(c) That the witness has failed and refused to attend or produce the papers required by subpoena before the factfinder in the investigation named in the subpoena, or has refused to answer questions propounded to him in the course of such investigation, and asking an order of the court compelling the witness to attend and testify or produce the books or papers before the factfinder.

4. The court, upon petition of the factfinder, shall enter an order directing the witness to appear before the court at a time and place to be fixed by the court in such order, the time to be not more than 10 days from the date of the order, and then and there show cause why he has not attended or testified or produced the books or papers before the factfinder. A certified copy of the order shall be served upon the witness. If it appears to the court that the subpoena was regularly issued by the factfinder, the court shall thereupon enter an order that the witness appear before the factfinder at the time and place fixed in the order and testify or produce the required books or papers, and upon failure to obey the order the witness shall be dealt with as for contempt of court. [Sec. 16, Subsecs. 1-4, as amended by H. B. 178, L. 1971, effective July 1, 1971].

Sec. 17. The following proceedings, required by or pursuant to this chapter, are not subject to any provision of chapter 241 of NRS:

1. Any negotiation or informal discussion between a local government employer and an employee organization or employees as individuals, whether conducted by the governing body or through a representative or representatives.

2. Any meeting of a mediator with either party or both parties to a negotiation.

3. Any meeting or investigation conducted by a factfinder. [Sec. 17, Subsecs. 3 and 4, as amended by H. B. 178, L. 1971, effective July 1, 1971].

Sec. 18. 1. The local government employee-management relations board is hereby created, to consist of three members, broadly representative of the public and not closely allied with any employee organization or local government employer, not more than two of whom shall be members of the same political party. Except as provided in subsection 2, the term of office of each member shall be 4 years.

2. The governor shall appoint the members of the board. Of the first three members appointed, the governor shall designate one whose term shall expire at the end of 2 years. Whenever a vacancy occurs on the board other than through the expiration of a term of office, the governor shall fill such vacancy by appointment for the unexpired term.

Sec. 19. 1. The members of the board shall annually elect one of their number as chairman and one as vice chairman. Any two members of the board constitute a quorum.

2. The board may, within the limits of legislative appropriations:

(a) Appoint a secretary, who shall be in the unclassified service of the state; and

(b) Employ such additional clerical personnel as may be necessary, who shall be in the classified service of the state.

Sec. 20. The members of the board shall serve without compensation, but are entitled to the expenses and allowances prescribed in NRS 281.160.

Sec. 21. 1. The board may make rules governing proceedings before it and procedures for factfinding and may issue advisory guidelines for the use of local government employers in the recognition of employee organizations and determination of negotiating units.

2. The board may hear and determine any complaint arising out of the interpretation of, or performance under, the provisions of this chapter by any local government employer or employee organization. The board, after a hearing, if it finds that the complaint is well taken, may order any person to refrain from the action complained of or to restore to the party aggrieved any benefit of which he has been deprived by such action.

3. Any party aggrieved by the failure of any person to obey an order of the board issued pursuant to subsection 2 may apply to a court of competent jurisdiction for a prohibitory or mandatory injunction to enforce such order.

Sec. 22. 1. For the purpose of hearing and deciding appeals or complaints, the board may issue subpoenas requiring the attendance of witnesses before it, together with all books, memoranda, papers and other documents relative to the matters under investigation, administer oaths and take testimony thereunder.

2. The district court in and for the county in which any hearing is being conducted by the board may compel the attendance of witnesses, the giving of testimony and the production of books and papers as required by any subpoena issued by the board.

3. In case of the refusal of any witness to attend or testify or produce any papers required by such subpoena, the board may report to the district court in and for the county in which the hearing is pending by petition, setting forth:

(a) That due notice has been given of the time and place of attendance of the witness or the production of the books and papers;

(b) That the witness has been subpoenaed in the manner prescribed in this chapter;

(c) That the witness has failed and refused to attend or produce the papers required by subpoena before the board in the hearing named in the subpoena, or has refused to answer questions propounded to him in the course of such hearing, and asking in order of the court compelling the witness to attend and testify or produce the books or papers before the board.

4. The court, upon petition of the board, shall enter an order directing the witness to appear before the court at a time and place to be fixed by the court in such order, the time to be not more than 10 days from the date of the order, and then and there show cause why he has not attended or testified or produced the books or papers before the board. A certified copy of the order shall be served upon the witness. If it appears to the court that the subpoena was regularly issued by the board, the court shall thereupon enter an order that the witness appear before the board at the time and place fixed in the order and testify or produce the required books or papers, and upon failure to obey the order the witness shall be dealt with as for contempt of court.

Sec. 23. Every hearing and determination of an appeal or complaint by the board is a contested case within the meaning of chapter 233B of NRS. Every such determination is subject to judicial review as provided in chapter 233B of NRS.

Sec. 24. 1. The legislature finds as facts:

(a) That the services provided by the state and local government employers are of such nature that they are not and cannot be duplicated from other sources and are essential to the health, safety and welfare of the people of the State of Nevada;

(b) That the continuity of such services is likewise essential, and their disruption incompatible with the responsibility of the state to its people; and

(c) That every person who enters or remains in the employment of the state or a local government employer accepts the facts stated in paragraphs (a) and (b) as an essential condition of his employment.

2. The legislature therefore declares it to be the public policy of the State of Nevada that strikes against the state or any local government employer are illegal.

Sec. 25. 1. If a strike occurs against the state or a local government employer, the state or local government employer shall, and if a strike is threatened against the state or a local government employer, the state or local government employer may, apply to a court of competent jurisdiction to enjoin such strike. The application shall set forth the facts constituting the strike or threat to strike.

2. If the court finds that an illegal strike has occurred or unless enjoined will occur, it shall enjoin the continuance or commencement of such strike. The provisions of N. R. C. P. 65 and of the other Nevada Rules of Civil Procedure apply generally to proceedings under this section, but the court shall not require security of the state or of any local government employer.

Sec. 26. 1. If a strike is commenced or continued in violation of an order issued pursuant to section 25 of this act, the court may:

(a) Punish the employee organization or organizations guilty of such violation by a fine of not more than $50,000 against each organization for each day of continued violation.

(b) Punish any officer of an employee organization who is wholly or partly responsible for such violation by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each day of continued violation, or by imprisonment as provided in NRS 22.110.

(c) Punish any employee of the state or of a local government employer who participates in such strike by ordering the dismissal or suspension of such employee.

2. Any of the penalties enumerated in subsection 1 may be applied alternatively or cumulatively, in the discretion of the court.

Sec. 27. 1. If a strike is commenced or continued in violation of an order issued pursuant to section 25 of this act, the state or the local government employer may:

(a) Dismiss, suspend or demote all or any of the employees who participate in such strike or violation.

(b) Cancel the contracts of employment of all or any of the employees who participate in such strike or violation.

(c) Withhold all or any part of the salaries or wages which would otherwise accrue to all or any of the employees who participate in such strike or violation.

2. Any of the powers conferred by subsection 1 may be exercised alternatively or cumulatively. [Sec. 27, Subsecs. 1 and 2, as amended by H. B. 178, L. 1971, effective July 1, 1971].

Sec. 28. 1. It is a prohibited practice for a local government employer or its designated representative willfully to:

(a) Interfere, restrain or coerce any employee in the exercise of any right guaranteed under this chapter.

(b) Dominate, interfere or assist in the formation or administration of any employee organization.

(c) Discriminate in regard to hiring, tenure or any term or condition of employment to encourage or discourage membership in any employee organization.

(d) Discharge or otherwise discriminate against any employee because he has signed or filed an affidavit, petition or complaint or given any information or testimony under this chapter, or because he has formed, joined or chosen to be represented by any employee organization.

(e) Refuse to bargain collectively in good faith with the exclusive representative as required in NRS 288.150. Bargaining collectively shall be construed to include the entire bargaining process, including mediation and factfinding, provided for in this chapter.

2. It is a prohibited practice for a local government employee or for an employee organization or its designated agent willfully to:

(a) Interfere with, restrain or coerce any employee in the exercise of any right guaranteed under this chapter.

(b) Refuse to bargain collectively in good faith with local government employer, if it is an exclusive representative, as required in NRS 288.150. Bargaining collectively shall be construed to include the entire bargaining process, including mediation and factfinding, provided for in this chapter.

(c) Refuse to participate in good faith in the mediation, factfinding and arbitration procedures set forth in NRS 288.190.

(d) Refuse or fail to comply with any provision of this chapter.

(e) Violate the terms of a collective bargaining agreement. [As added by H. B. 178, L. 1971, effective July 1, 1971].

Sec. 29. Any controversy concerning prohibited practices may be submitted to the board in the same manner and with the same effect as provided in subsections 2 and 3 of NRS 288.110. [As added by H. B. 178, L. 1971, effective July 1, 1971].

Sec. 30. "Administrative employee" means any employee whose primary duties consist of work directly related to management policies, who customarily exercises discretion and independent judgment and regularly assists an executive. In addition, it includes the chief administrative officer, his deputy and immediate assistants, department heads, their deputies and immediate assistants, attorneys, appointed officials and others who are primarily responsible for formulating and administering management policy and programs. [As added by H. B. 178, L. 1971, effective July 1,1971].

Sec. 31. "Confidential employee" means an employee who is privy to decisions of management affecting employee relations, including all employees of the personnel department or its equivalent. [As added by H. B. 178, L. 1971, effective July 1, 1971].

Sec. 32. "Supervisory employee" means any individual having authority in the interest of the employer to hire, transfer, suspend lay off, recall, promote, discharge, assign, reward or discipline other employees. [As added by H. B. 178, L. 1971, effective July 1, 1971].

Sec. 33. There are hereby appropriated from the general fund in the state treasury for the support of the local government employee-management relations board the following sums:

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1969	$ 5,000
For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1970	15,000
For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1971	15,000

Sec. 34. This act shall become effective upon passage and approval, but no employee organization, local government employer or other person may submit to the local government employee-management relations board before October 1, 1969, any appeal, complaint or other request for action by the board.

VOL. 5 NO. 7
MARCH 1972

NRD
NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST

CONTENTS

Page

Case Reviews 3
- Maternity Leave Granted to Nontenured Teacher
- Teacher Pay Must Reflect Prior Teaching Experience
- State Supreme Court Rules on Three Sabbatical Leave Cases Under New Amendment
- Elimination of Negotiated School Programs Arbitrable
- Right to Strike Upheld, Clear and Present Danger More than Usual School Disruption
- Suit to Stay PLRB-Ordered Representation Election Dismissed

Board Findings and Rulings 7
- MERC Determines Appropriate Bargaining Units in Higher Education Facilities
- Nontenured Teachers Receive Compensatory Award for Board's Failure to Follow Contractual Procedures in Nonrenewal of Services
- Arbitrator Rules Board's Unilateral Schedule Change Violates Contract
- WERC Orders Change of Teacher's "Very Easy Schedule"
- Suspension of Negotiation Allowed Because of Representation Elections; Unfair Labor Practice Charges Dropped

Negotiation Notes 11
- Teachers Avoid Strike; Win First Statewide Contract
- Agency Shop in Public Employment Invalid
- Fordham University Representation Election Results Hinge on Disposition of Challenged Ballots
- Arbitrators Order City to Pay Overdue Wage Increases and Benefits to Employees
- Agency Shop and Maintenance of Membership Provisions Illegal in Public Employee Agreements; Nonrevocable Dues Deduction Held Bargainable
- Moderate Income Urban Family Budget Higher

Statistics 13
- Annual Salaries of Patrolmen and Firefighters Increase
- Employee Compensation Reaches $4.54 An Hour
- School Board Members and School Administrators As Negotiators

Special Reports 24
- Briefs of Recent Agreements
- Exchange Teaching and Service Program Leave Provision

Texts 32
- Wisconsin: Amendments to Collective Bargaining in Municipal Employment

RESEARCH DIVISION
NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

Copyright © 1972 by the
National Education Association
All Rights Reserved

2154

CASE REVIEWS

GEORGIA

Maternity Leave Granted to Nontenured Teacher

A pregnant nontenured teacher brought a class action suit against the Atlanta Board of Education seeking injunctive and declaratory relief on her behalf as well as on behalf of all those in a similar situation. In July, the teacher notified the school board through her attorney that she desired maternity leave and would return to her duties after she gave birth in October. The school board denied her request for leave and subsequently dismissed her, claiming that her contract was void as she signed it fully aware of her condition.

The U.S. District Court for Northern Georgia ruled in the teacher's favor. The court found that the maternity leave policy for nontenured teachers as promulgated by the board was arbitrary and violated the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. The court also found that board policy in regard to maternity leave "has no rational basis and bears no relevance" to either the board's administrative scheme or to the state's Teacher Tenure Act which delegates to the local school board with discretionary authority to establish a leave policy for all teachers.

The court found that board policy was inconsistent with its practices in regard to the granting of "study leave, bereavement leave, personal illness leave, emergency leave, and military service leave to both tenured and untenured teachers."

The board was ordered by the court to refrain from denying maternity leave to nontenured teachers, and enjoined the board to reemploy the plaintiff if she chose to resume teaching, on the condition that a vacancy existed within the school system at such time.

The court, however, vacated the teacher's motion for back pay in case the school board refused to reemploy her on the grounds that her position had been filled. (Barbara Jinks, For Herself and For All Others Similarly Situated v. Dr. Benjamin E. Mays et al, United States District Court, N.D. Georgia, 28 September 1971.)

ILLINOIS

Teacher Pay Must Reflect Prior Teaching Experience

An appeals court upheld a lower court decision that teacher pay scales must reflect prior public school experience. The lower court case had ruled favorably on a suit filed by eight teachers against the Lawrenceville Board of Education.

The teachers contended that they were entitled to pay increases under a revised school code which granted them raises above the minimum starting salaries "based on experience in a school district."

The lower court found that while the teachers were paid the amounts specified according to the new rates computed by listing the teacher's degree plus semester hours beyond the degree and years of experience in teaching, subject to state law, the school district refused to credit experience gained outside the district in determining salaries. The court held that the ambiguous language of the school code could be interpreted to mean teaching experience gained in any district or only for years of teaching in a school district. Subsequent to the court's decision, the legislature amended the school code to read "based upon previous public school experience." The court saw this amendment as a clarification of legislative intent and entered a favorable judgment for the teachers. The court ruled that the school board was arbitrary and discriminatory in refusing to comply with state law.

The school board appealed the judgment, contending that the legislative language of the original enactment left no room for any interpretation, and that the revision constituted a major change in the legislation. The board buttressed its arguments with a similar opinion issued by the state superintendent of public education. The school board further contended that the lower court decision should be set aside as there was no evidence that the board actions were arbitrary or discriminatory.

The appeals court concurred with the lower court decision and rejected the board's contentions. The court noted that the amended code was a clarification, not a major change, since the effective date of the provisions was unchanged even though the amendment was passed more than a year later. The court observed that the interpretation of statutes should be made in such a way as to ascertain and give effect to legislative intent.

The board's contention that the lower court decision should be vacated because there existed no evidence of arbitrary or discriminatory conduct was considered unnecessary as the court found the school board to be noncompliant with state law. (Kenneth G. Hardway, et al. v. Board of Education of Lawrenceville Township High School, District No. 71; Appellate Court of Illinois, Fifth District, September 16, 1971.)

NEW YORK

State Supreme Court Rules on Three Sabbatical Leave Cases Under New Amendment

The New York State Supreme Court ruled on three separate cases involving the application of Chapter 124 of the Laws of 1971 mandating a one year moratorium on sabbatical leave for public employees beginning July 1, 1971.

• In the first case, the New York State Supreme Court, Yates County, supported the Penn Yan Teachers Association (PYTA), ruling that the "moratorium act" did not apply.

The PYTA and the Penn Yan Central School District #1 signed a collective bargaining agreement, effective July 1970 to June 1972. The agreement provided "for mandatory leaves of absence to the extent of one for every one hundred of its members or majority part thereof." In carrying out this provision, the board approved sabbatical leave for two teachers. Approval was given after April 11, 1971, the date the statutory moratorium became effective. The board then refused to grant the leave because of the moratorium.

In upholding the Association's contention that the sabbatical leave should be granted, the court referred to Section 3 of the law, the "construction clause." This clause states that any contractual right to a sabbatical leave will not be impaired by the "moratorium act." The court stated that the contractual right to sabbatical leave existed and was enforceable prior to the effective date of the amendment. The execution of these rights was not in question. The court concluded that the terms of the "moratorium act" were not applicable to this case. (Penn Yan Teachers Association and the Board of Education, Penn Yan Central School District #1, Supreme Court, Yates County, June 25, 1971.)

• The Supreme Court, New York County, denied a motion by the Legislative Conference of the City University of New York, which requested that the Board of Higher Education grant sabbatical leave.

The Legislative Conference signed an agreement with the Board of Higher Education for a period of one year, commencing July 1, 1971. The agreement contained a provision granting teachers the right to apply for sabbatical leave.

A member of the Legislative Conference submitted an application for sabbatical leave at the same time that the statutory moratorium became effective. The board responded that the amendment prohibited such leave. The teachers group contended that the right to sabbatical leave existed under contractual rights which could not be abrogated.

The court found that the agreement gave the teachers the right to apply for sabbatical leave. However, the contract posted the board with the final decision to grant sabbatical leave. The court concluded that no contractual right to a sabbatical leave was in existence and enforceable prior to the date of the amendment, and Section 3 did not apply to the case. Therefore, the plaintiff's motion to compel the school-board to grant a sabbatical leave was denied. (Legislative Conference of the City University of New York and the Board of Higher Education, Supreme Court, New York County, June 22, 1971.)

• In the third case, a petition by the Mahopac Teachers Association (MTA) to review an arbitration award was dismissed by the New York Supreme Court, Putnam County.

The arbitrator found that the final procedure for granting sabbatical leave was not completed until April 20, 1971, eight days after the effective date of the moratorium statute. In reviewing the case, the court found that the procedures for granting a sabbatical leave had not progressed to such a point that the granting of sabbatical leave became a "contractual right." The court took the view that "the existing enforceable contractual right referred to in Chapter 124 of the Laws of 1971 was a right accruing to the individual teacher applicants for sabbaticals, rather than a vested contractual right by virtue of the employment contract between the teachers Association and the School District." Since no contractual right to sabbatical leave existed, the petition for review of the arbitration case was rejected. (Mahopac Teachers Association and the Board of Education, Central School District #1, Putnam County, Supreme Court, Putnam County, July 21, 1971.)

Elimination of Negotiated School Programs Arbitrable

The New York Supreme Court denied a motion to stay arbitration brought by the Board of Education, U.F.S.D. #4, Town of Huntington, against the Northport Teachers Association. The court was asked to decide whether the elimination of a dental hygiene program and summer school program specifically negotiated in an agreement, and the rescinding of existing board policy regarding sabbatical leave were arbitrable.

The board contended that the "power over the matters in controversy has been exclusively delegated by law to the Board of Education and hence are not arbitrable," and that the amended Section 124 of the laws of 1971 placing a one-year moratorium on sabbatical leave was retroactive and changed preexisting board rules.

The court treated the first two issues conjunctively. It found that the board entered into an agreement with the NTA, which specifically mentioned a dental hygiene program and a summer school program, and that the Association acted as the catalyst between the board and the teachers. The court determined that the matters before it were not subject to its jurisdiction, citing Long Island Lumber Company v. Martin. The court stated that it is now a familiar rule "that, where a labor agreement contains an arbitration provision the assumption is that questions of arbitrability are for the arbitrator."

In the final matter, the denial of sabbatical leave, the court found that the amended section of the state law was not retroactive but prospective, and that this section did not seek to impair obligations already contracted.

The court determined that no prohibition against arbitration existed within the Education Law or in the agreement. (In Re Board of Education, U.F.S.D. #4, Town of Huntington and Northport Teachers Association, Supreme Court, Suffolk County, August 12, 1971)

PENNSYLVANIA

Right to Strike Upheld, Clear and Present Danger More Than Usual School Disruption

The petition of the Hazelton Area School District to enjoin and restrain the Hazelton Education Association from continuing its strike was dismissed by the Court of Common Pleas.

The school district alleged that the Association struck prematurely, having failed to fully comply with the collective bargaining statutes of the Public Employe Relations Act before engaging in a legal strike. The district further alleged that the strike constituted a clear and present danger and posed a threat to public health, safety, and welfare.

At a factfinding hearing, the school district conceded that the Association had complied with the negotiation and mediation provisions of the law, and did have the right to strike as specified by the law.

In support of the allegation that HEA's strike posed a clear and present danger, the school board pointed out that the strike would affect the flow of state funds to the school district; operation of the summer school programs; adult education activities; extracurricular activities; work programs and inservice training programs; and completion of the school calendar. A strike would also result in an inadequate education program for all students, insufficient personnel to maintain class discipline, and would possibly completely prevent operation of schools.

The court made it clear at the outset that the issue at hand was the legality of the strike in light of the "clear and present danger" clause of the law. The court determined that in granting the teachers the right to strike, the legislature was cognizant of the devastating consequences, namely, the complete or partial closing of the schools and the severe impairment of the educational process which would adversely affect the public, and particularly the student.

Since the school district's items were clearly considered by the legislature to be the usual consequences of a teacher strike, the court rationalized that the legislature must have intended the courts to use criteria other than those presented by the district to determine when a strike creates a clear and present danger or is a threat to the health, safety, and welfare of the public. To do otherwise, the court stated, would in effect place the legislature in the position of giving the right to strike with one hand and taking it back with the other.

The court ruled that since the burden of proof was with the school district, and since the district had not presented or established something more than the usual, yet disruptive, effects of a teachers' strike, the preliminary injunction prohibiting the strike was dissolved. (Hazelton Area School District v. Hazelton Education Association, Pennsylvania Court of Common Pleas, September 22, 1971.)

Suit to Stay PLRB-Ordered Representation Election Dismissed

The Commonwealth Court of Pennsylvania dismissed a suit filed by the Philadelphia City Education Association (PCEA) and the Get Set Organization against the Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board (PLRB) and the Philadelphia Federation of Teachers (PFT), Local 3, American Federation of Teachers.

The suit alleged that the PLRB refused to acknowledge PCEA's certified right to represent Get Set employees. The court upheld PLRB's rejection of the PCEA's certification on the basis that Get Set's professional employees were not given the legally required option of choosing inclusion in a nonprofessional bargaining unit. In addition, the appellate court determined that PCEA's appeal of the lower court decision confirming a second election was "not appealable" because the election order did not constitute a refusal to certify the PCEA. According to the applicable section of the Public Employee Relations Act (PERA), section 1502, only questions of certification or refusal of certification were subject to court review.

The representation dispute arose when the PERA took effect one month after the PCEA won the right to represent the professional and nonprofessional employees of the Get Set Organization, a day care center for preschool and elementary school children. Section 604 of the PERA stipulates that professional employees must have the option of voting on their inclusion in a unit composed of nonprofessional employees. The employees were not given the opportunity to exercise this option. Therefore, the court concluded that PLRB before certifying any representative, "must find the appropriate unit . . . and initially hold a further election before it can under the provisions . . . of the Act, approve or refuse the requested certification. Therefore, a telegram indicating that the PLRB was making plans to hold an election can in no way be considered an order which is reviewable." Ruling that the "PCEA's appeal was clearly premature and overhasty," the appellate court dismissed the PCEA's petition to stay the PLRB ordered election. (Get Set Organization, Philadelphia City Education Association-National Education Association v. the Public Employee Relations Board and the Philadelphia Federation of Teachers, Local 3 and the School District of Philadelphia, Commonwealth Court of Pennsylvania, September 23, 1971.)

BOARD FINDINGS AND RULINGS

MICHIGAN

MERC Determines Appropriate Bargaining Units in Higher Education Facilities

The Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) ruled on two bargaining unit cases in higher education facilities.

• The first case involved a union's petition for an election in a unit of university teaching fellows. The university challenged the appropriateness of the bargaining unit on several grounds. The institution first contended that a majority of the group that initiated the petition were no longer affiliated with the university. This contention was rejected since a petition cannot be withdrawn because of employee turnover.

A second claim asserted that MERC did not have jurisdiction over the university, an independent constitutional body. MERC and the courts had previously rejected such a claim.

Lastly, the university contended that the proposed unit was inappropriate because teaching fellows are students rather than university employees, and if teaching fellows were employees, an appropriate unit would include all graduate assistants, of which teaching fellows are only a part. The union agreed in part with the university's contention that graduate assistants other than teaching fellows, are students.

Commission findings indicated that teaching fellows comprised the largest group of graduate assistants. Teaching fellows are distinguishable from other graduate assistants in that they are more classroom-oriented, restricted primarily to teaching undergraduate courses. Moreover, all graduate assistants shared a community of interests in the education process, working conditions, salaries, and method of payment; and they are all students.

MERC ruled that the unit of teaching fellows inappropriate because it did not include all graduate assistants. (University of Michigan Teaching Fellows Union and the University of Michigan, Michigan Employment Relations Commission, December 6, 1971.)

• The second case concerned a union's petition to include "part-time instructors, lab technicians, supervisors and part-time lab technicians employed by a community college" in an existing bargaining unit. The existing unit represented full-time professors, associate professors, assistant professors, instructors, teaching technicians, lecturers, and counselors.

The college opposed the inclusion of part-time faculty in any bargaining unit because they were employed on a term-by-term basis. The laboratory employees, the college contended, should be included in a unit comprised of paraprofessionals and secretarial employees.

The Commission found that part-time instructors teach the same subjects as full-time faculty; part-time teachers work 4-8 class hours per week while a full-time load is 22 class hours. Previously, MERC determined that part-time faculty members who do the same work as full-time employees share a community of interest with them, and can be included in the full-time bargaining unit.

Lab technicians and supervisors assist professional faculty members and supervise laboratories. Some are regular college employees, while others are retained through a state university study program. The lab technicians and supervisors, as college employees, are under the same authority as faculty members. The Commission rejected this motion, stating that an appropriate bargaining unit is comprised of the largest number of members according to the circumstances and is not determined by a collective bargaining agreement.

The Commission ordered an election for the part-time faculty members and designated lab technicians. If they vote for union affiliation, they will become part of the existing faculty unit. (Lansing Community College Chapter, Michigan Association of Higher Education and Lansing Community College, Michigan Employment Relations Commission, December 6, 1971.)

NEW JERSEY

Nontenured Teachers Receive Compensatory Award for Board's Failure to Follow Contractual Procedures in Nonrenewal of Services

An arbitrator awarded six nontenured teachers compensation and optional rehiring because the Madison Township Board of Education failed to follow contractual procedures.

The teachers filed a grievance because the board notified them of their nonrenewal 17 days after the date specified in their collective bargaining agreement. The board also failed to provide the teachers with four contractually required supervisory reports during the school year.

The board contended that the grievance was not arbitrable since the agreement vested the school board with the final decision to renew nontenured teachers' contracts. The relevant provision states:

> "Nontenure teachers whose contracts are not to be renewed fo the following school year are to be so informed by the administration by March 1st. On request of the employee in writing, the administration will give its reasons in writing to the employee. If the employee grieves the matter, the Board of Education's decision in connection therewith shall be final."

The arbitrator found that the provision gave the board the sole discretion to determine the reasons for nonrenewal. But, the contract stipulated certain procedural steps on which this discretion is to be based. The procedures to be followed are arbitrable; if they were not, the contract would be ineffectual.

The board, citing relevant cases, argued that even if the grievance was arbitrable, any affirmative relief would be contrary to the New Jersey teacher tenure law. The arbitrator found that the cases cited did not concern enforcement of contract provisions, but rather the responsibility of a school board to provide nontenured teachers with reasons for contract nonrenewal. He stated that the possibility of tenure accruing as a result of the award did not exclude the possibility of an award. He continued, "A contract has been violated and thereby a wrong committed which requires a remedy."

The arbitrator awarded the six teachers "compensation and optional rehiring" whereby the teachers would receive compensation for the 1971-72 school year as if they had not been notified of their nonrenewal, while the board would be allowed to determine whether their professional services would be continued for the school year. By this award the arbitrator reasoned: "The board despite my award will maintain its prerogative as to deciding whether to renew nontenure teachers; all the board has to do in the future is to follow the rules of the contract as they had agreed to do." (Madison Township Board of Education and the Madison Township Education Association, American Arbitration Association, September 15, 1971.)

NEW YORK

Arbitrator Rules Board's Unilateral Schedule Change Violates Contract

In an attempt to solve overcrowding in two high schools, the Buffalo Board of Education unilaterally scheduled "split sessions" which differed from the teachers' negotiated workday. A PERB arbitrator supported the Buffalo Teacher Federation's (BTF) claim that such a schedule change must be negotiated.

The BTF and the board negotiated a collective bargaining agreement, effective July 1970 to June 1972. The agreement stipulated that the teacher's workday would extend from 8:20 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. In June 1971, the school board, expecting overcrowded classrooms, adopted a "split session" schedule for two high schools, effective in September 1971.

Following the board's action, several grievances were filed, including one by the president of the BTF. The collective bargaining agreement provided for binding arbitration of grievances. The grievances contended that the adoption of the new schedule violated the agreement and requested that the board rescind its decision and negotiate with the teacher association. During the summer of 1971, meetings were held to process the grievances.

The board held the position that the new schedule change resulted in a slight decrease in the teacher's workday and permitted a more efficient use of lunchroom facilities. At the grievance meetings held during the summer, there was a general acceptance of the plan. The board considered that these meetings, although they were not for negotiation, revealed its good faith. Furthermore, the BTF did not specifically request negotiation at that time.

In supporting its claim, the BTF cited relevant sections of the negotiation agreement which indicated that nonnegotiated changes made in the agreement were void. The BTF stated that there were no "contractual exceptions" to the 8:20 to 3:00 teaching day, nor was there any room for interpretation. The teacher's association concluded that since "the contract cannot be legally changed except by an instrument duly executed by the parties, no departure can constitute a waiver of enforcement rights." The grievance meetings, the BTF stated, were not equivalent to negotiation, nor did they serve to change the agreement.

The arbitrator acknowledged that the board's action violated the contract. He noted that the relationship between the Buffalo board and the BTF was in a stage of development, with the board maintaining "a paternalistic attitude" toward the BTF. The board's unilateral change in the contract did not lead to a "healthy relationship." It was the duty of the arbitrator, he said, "to promote a cooperative relationship." Although the contract was violated, the arbitrator did not find it necessary that the school board revert to the negotiated schedules. Rather, he ordered the board to negotiate with the BTF in good faith and according to procedures contained in the negotiation agreement. (Buffalo Board of Education and the Buffalo Teachers Federation, New York Public Employment Relations Board, October 20, 1971.)

WISCONSIN

WERC Orders Change of Teacher's "Very Easy Schedule"

The Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission (WERC) ruled that a school board violated a section of the Wisconsin statutes when it denied union representation to a teacher at a private conference on contract renewal. The ruling upheld the Crandon Education Association's (CEA) contention that the board interfered with the teacher's rights by violating Section 111.70 of the Wisconsin statutes which mandate that municipal employees shall have the right "to be represented by labor organizations of their own choice . . . in conferences and negotiations with their municipal employer or their representatives on questions of wages, hours, and conditions of employment."

The WERC dismissed the board's contention that the commission had no jurisdiction in this case, holding that contract nonrenewal and loss of tenure does affect wages, hours, and working conditions. The commission decided that the school board violated Section 118.22(3) which discusses the nonrenewal procedures of teacher contracts and provides that the board notify the teacher in regard to contract nonrenewal. In addition, this section provides that upon request the teacher has the right to a private conference, which the board contended excludes everyone except the teacher and the board of education.

The examiner decided that "the key issue in this case is whether the term 'private conference' as used in Section 118.22 (3) imposes a limitation on the term 'conferences and negotiations' found in Section 111.70(2)." He found that Section 111.70 did not give the teacher a right to have a conference with his employer, but it gave the teacher the right to be represented. The examiner added that Section 118.22 provided for a conference which is mandatory upon the employer. He concluded that the two statutes taken together impose no limitation on the right to representation by the words "private conference."

Ordering the school board to cease and desist from denying teachers the right to representation in conferences, the examiner further directed that references to actions taken prior to the violation be expunged from the teacher's record. The board was ordered to reinstate the teacher "with all rights and privileges enjoyed by him."

Because the board had hired a replacement, the complainant was given "a very easy schedule to make him whole as directed:" a preparation period, one seventh grade science class, and five study halls.

But WERC decided that "unless the complainant was teaching the subjects as outlined by the board during the 1970-71 school year, this schedule would not make the teacher whole." Therefore, the commission amended the order to provide for the teacher's reinstatement with all rights and privileges he enjoyed during the 1970-71 school year, "to teach the subjects taught by him in the same number of classes assigned to him during the 1970-71 school year." (Crandon Education Association and Richard Staska vs. Crandon Joint School District No. 1 and Board of Education, Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission, September 28, 1971.)

OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST

Suspension of Negotiation Allowed Because of Representation Elections; Unfair Labor Practice Charges Dropped

A Department of Labor hearing examiner found that a principal of a U.S. Army military dependents school in Germany did not commit an unfair labor practice by refusing to bargain with Local 1551 of the Overseas Federation of Teachers. The examiner recommended to the Assistant Secretary of Labor that the union's contention that the principal violated Section 19 (a)(1),(5), and (9) of Executive Order 11491 be dismissed and that the employer's motion for dismissal of the case be rejected on grounds of mootness.

The Kaiserslautern American High School and Local 1551 negotiated an agreement containing a continuous negotiation clause which listed 16 specific items to be negotiated during the term of the contract. The parties negotiated these items on a regular basis while the agreement was in effect.

Negotiation for a successor agreement were stalemated as of the expiration date of the old contract; however, the principal continued negotiation for a new contract, but only would consult and confer on the negotiable items in the previous agreement.

Numerous negotiation sessions took place during which the union asserted that the continuous negotiation clause applied as the old contract was still in effect, while management would only discuss these items. In his efforts to reach a new agreement, the principal remained steadfast in regard to negotiated content, but did forward to the union the option to negotiate any items designated as negotiable by Executive Order 11491.

The union filed a complaint with the Labor Department, stating that the school refused to bargain. At this time, the National Education Association (NEA) submitted a petition for exclusive recognition of a broad, world-wide unit which included the Kaiserslautern teachers. Local 1551 also submitted a petition for exclusive recognition.

Following these events, the U.S. Army, under whose auspices the schools are operated, sent a memo suspending contract negotiation until a unit determination election could be held. The principal agreed to extend the expired contract, but would not recognize the continuous negotiation clause nor continue to consult or confer on these items.

When the principal received a transfer, the school filed a motion to dismiss the unfair practice charge on grounds of mootness, maintaining that the transfer removed "management animus."

In his report, the hearing examiner stated that in view of the NEA's bid for representation, the suspension of negotiation was an appropriate action. A remedy could be awarded to the union only if management refused to bargain in good faith prior to the suspension of negotiations.

Considering the school's contention that the case be dismissed on grounds of mootness, the examiner recommended dismissal of the motion, stating that an agency which removes employees accused of unfair labor practices does not relieve itself of charges. (Department of the Army, Directorate, U.S. Dependent Schools European Area [USDESEA] and Local 1551, Overseas Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, Case No. 46-1807 (CA), report and recommendations of hearing examiner, October 28, 1971.)

NEGOTIATION NOTES

HAWAII

Teachers Avoid Strike; Win First Statewide Contract

The statewide strike set for February 17 by the Hawaii State Teachers Association (HSTA) was averted minutes before school was scheduled to begin. After an all-night session, HSTA President Yuriko Tasaka announced: "The Association has a firm offer in writing." The contract is the first negotiated by HSTA under Hawaii's 1970 professional negotiation law and the first statewide teacher contract in history. Major points won are: 1) elimination of nonprofessional duties such as lunch room supervision and custodial chores; 2) hiring of an additional 500 teachers for 1972-73 in order to reduce class size and permit teacher preparation periods; 3) duty-free lunch periods for all teachers of not less than 30 minutes beginning next school year; 4) improvements in personal and sick leave policies, including maternity leave which may begin beyond the fourth month of pregnancy, depending on a doctor's recommendation; 5) binding arbitration as a terminal step in grievance procedures; and 6) a 5.5 percent salary increase as of Sept. 1, 1972, to be funded by the 1973 legislature and made retroactive to that date.

NEW JERSEY

Agency Shop in Public Employment Invalid

The New Jersey Superior Court upheld the New Jersey Turnpike Authority's contention that an agency shop violates statutory provisions protecting the right of public employees to refrain from joining or assisting any employee organization.

The New Jersey Turnpike Employees' Union contended that without the proposed agency shop provision, nonunion members would be unjustly enriched by union representation unless they paid a proportionate share of the costs.

The court pointed out that the state bargaining statutes omit any reference to an agency shop, and could be construed as prohibiting or, at the very least, not authorizing an agency shop. The court reasoned that public employees who are not now members of the union would join if faced with assessments identical to union dues.

The court, "in view of the legislative declaration of the right of public employees to refrain from union activity, . . . and in the absence of legislative authorization for an agency shop in public employment," would not compel assessment of nonunion employees. (New Jersey Turnpike Employees' Union, Local 194, American Federation of Technical Engineers, AFL-CIO, vs. New Jersey Turnpike Authority, New Jersey Superior Court, December 2, 1971.)

NEW YORK

Fordham University Representation Election Results Hinge on Disposition of Challenged Ballots

The outcome of a representation election petitioned for by the Fordham University Association of University Professors (AAUP) hinges on disposition of 28 challenged ballots. In the election, 207 employees voted for AAUP representation and 226 employees preferred "no union" affiliation.

In a second election held the same day, the University's Law School Bargaining Committee unanimously won representation of the Law School Faculty by a vote of 16 to 0.

The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) held the November 11 elections subsequent to its September 1971 decision that separate bargaining units were appropriate for the law school faculty and for faculty outside the law school. The AAUP sought a unit composed of part-time and full-time faculty including department chairmen, but excluding graduate assistants. Similarly part- and full-time law school faculty were included in the unit petitioned-for by the Law Bargaining Committee. (NRD, 12-71, 11.)

OHIO

Arbitrators Order City to Pay Overdue Wage Increases and Benefits to Employees

In two cases, arbitrators directed the City of Cleveland to pay municipal workers $3 million in overdue wage increases and fringe benefits, as provided in an agreement with the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, Local 100 (AFSCME).

- In the first case, the AFSME grieved that no salary increases or longevity pay were received in 1971, although they were effective as of January 1, 1971. The union pointed out that selected employees, inside and outside the union, were given salary increases during 1971.

The city replied that it was unable to pay the contracted increases because of declining revenues, defeat of tax levies at the poll, increasing costs in essential services, and depletion of financial resources. The city further stated that the negotiated agreement was subject to federal, state, and municipal regulations. The Cleveland city charter prohibits appropriation of funds without official approval, and imposes the obligation to keep expenditures within available revenues. The City also contended that the wage-price freeze preempted it from paying any past due wage increases and longevity pay.

The arbitrator acknowledged that the negotiated wage increases and benefits were subject to the city council's approval, and that the city's financial resources were exhausted. He pointed out that the city voluntarily negotiated these wage increases and benefits, and its employees were led to believe that they would receive such payments. The wage-price freeze did not affect the wage increases due as of July 1970, nor bar payment of past-due wage increases and longevity payments. Therefore, the city was obligated to grant the wage increases and longevity pay, and ordered to take all necessary steps to provide the funds. (City of Cleveland and Cleveland City Employees Local 100, AFSCME, District Council 78, American Arbitration Association, October 27, 1971.)

• Another arbitrator ruled on a case involving AFSCME and the City of Cleveland. The AFSCME accused the city of violating the agreement by neglecting to pay the full cost of hospitalization insurance as of July 1, 1971, and of failing to pay life insurance benefits to the estates of employees who died after July 1.

Assuming a posture similar to its position in the former case, the city contended that the city council did not approve such appropriations, and added that it could not engage in deficit spending.

The arbitrator acknowledged that although the city was justified in deferring fringe benefit payments, it was not relieved of paying these benefits in the future. As for the legal restrictions contained in the agreement, the arbitrator believed that these restrictions "merely indicate(s) a recognition of the public character of the employer." He found the city obligated to honor its bargaining agreement, and ordered the city to pay the benefits effective from July 1, 1971. (City of Cleveland and Cleveland City Employees Local 100, AFSCME, District Council 78, American Arbitration Association, November 12, 1971.)

OREGON

Agency Shop and Maintenance of Membership Provisions Illegal in Public Employee Agreements; Nonrevocable Dues Deduction Held Bargainable

An opinion issued by the Attorney General of Oregon held that the traditional agency shop and maintenance of membership provisions cannot be included in public employee collective bargaining agreements. But clauses which provide for nonrevocable voluntary check-off rights can be included in future agreements.

The State Department of Higher Education solicited the Attorney General's opinion when two labor organizations representing separate groups of employees at the University of Oregon Medical School proposed that agency shop and maintenance of membership clauses be included in their negotiated agreements.

The Attorney General stated that both agency shop and maintenance of membership clauses necessitated dismissal of employees for nonpayment of union dues. He pointed out that state civil service statutes contain merit system laws which specify reasons for employee dismissal, among which nonpayment of union dues is not included. Therefore, such clauses would be contrary to these laws.

The Attorney General also held that according to a newly amended state law, an employee may request dues deduction or termination of check-off privileges "unless there is a contract to the contrary." He concluded by stating that state agencies may enter into agreements which provide that any future nonrevocable dues deduction authorizations signed by employees shall be regarded as nonrevocable without the consent of the labor organization and shall remain in effect during the period in which the labor organization serves the unit.

Cost of Living Budget for Moderate Income Urban Family Higher

The intermediate urban family budget is now $11,300 according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS). The budget figure, based on the cost of living for a family of four, has increased 6 percent from the May 1970 figure of $10,644. This increase parallels the 6 percent rise in the Consumer Price Index (CPI) for the same period. The intermediate budget of a family of four living in a metropolitcan city is $11,590 per year.

The BLS has recommended revision of the system for determining family budgets. The proposed system would base city indices on the same data as the CPI and would determine actual consumer expenditures at different income levels to arrive at a true norm.

STATISTICS

RISE IN AVERAGE ANNUAL SALARIES OF PATROLMEN AND FIREFIGHTERS

A Labor Department, Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), study indicates that the average annual salaries of patrolmen and firefighters rose approximately 5.5 percent during the year ending January 1971. The BLS study was conducted in cities with populations of 100,000 or more. Minimum salary for patrolmen averaged $8,898 in January 1971, a 5.1 percent increase above the previous year; maximum salaries averaged $10,589, a 5.5 percent rise. For firefighters, the minimum and maximum average annual salary of $8,513 and $10,068 constituted advances of 5.6 percent and 6.1 percent respectively above the figures recorded in January 1970.

Regional statistics revealed that in January 1971, the highest annual minimum and maximum salaries for police and firefighters were paid by western states, while the lowest salaries were found in the South. Minimum salaries for firefighters and patrolmen in the West were $9,437 and $9,546; comparable figures in the South were $7,006 and $7,365. Maximum salary for firefighters and patrolmen averaged $11,324 and $11,647 in the West, as compared to averages of $8,556 and $9,085 in the South.

Minimum salaries for patrolmen in the largest cities averaged $9,723 per year, while firefighters averaged $9,708. Maximum pay amounted to $11,514 for patrolmen and $11,468 for firefighters. Among cities with populations of 100,000 to 249,999 minimum salaries increased 7.7 percent to $7,912, while firemen advanced 7.6 percent to $7,616. Maximum pay increased 8.3 percent to $9,254 for patrolmen and 8 percent to $8,921 for firefighters.

AVERAGE MINIMUM AND MAXIMUM ANNUAL SALARY OF FIREMEN AND POLICEMEN BY CITY SIZE AND REGION, 1966-71

Employee Group and Year	All Cities 100,000 and over	City Size: Over 999,999	500,000 to 999,999	250,000 to 499,999	100,000 to 249,999	Region[a]: Northeast	South	North Central	West
	Minimum annual salary
Firemen:
1966	$5,945	$6,808	$5,827	$5,586	$5,265	$6,278	$4,908	$5,830	$6,946
1967	6,264	7,033	6,227	5,915	5,614	6,439	5,286	6,365	7,199
1968	6,774	7,672	6,775	6,254	6,061	7,136	5,710	6,722	7,669
1969	7,445	8,618	7,518	6,732	6,584	7,979	6,225	7,472	8,170
1970	8,066	9,354	8,085	7,441	7,081	8,631	6,697	8,218	8,854
1971	8,513	9,708	8,521	7,936	7,616	8,990	7,006	8,868	9,437
Policemen:
1966	6,173	6,756	5,851	5,746	5,396	6,465	5,111	6,027	7,044
1967	6,482	6,999	6,224	6,061	5,758	6,611	5,482	6,561	7,293
1968	7,039	7,655	6,821	6,412	6,203	7,315	5,935	7,022	7,779
1969	7,768	8,591	7,392	6,903	6,750	8,223	6,518	7,733	8,251
1970	8,475	9,340	8,105	7,662	7,343	8,945	7,025	8,572	8,988
1971	8,898	9,723	8,475	8,161	7,912	9,242	7,365	9,241	9,546
	Maximum annual salary
Firemen:
1966	6,998	8,079	6,835	6,558	6,154	7,439	5,813	6,816	8,090
1967	7,464	8,601	7,356	6,978	6,523	7,865	6,271	7,449	8,401
1968	7,988	9,058	8,049	7,400	7,057	8,357	6,890	7,959	8,886
1969	8,749	10,157	8,830	7,947	7,680	9,224	7,491	8,906	9,470
1970	9,494	10,961	9,642	8,779	8,262	9,934	8,142	9,745	10,381
1971	10,068	11,468	10,211	9,369	8,921	10,325	8,556	10,529	11,324
Policemen:
1966	7,327	8,007	7,048	6,802	6,321	7,663	6,165	7,178	8,216
1967	7,823	8,547	7,541	7,220	6,717	8,108	6,585	7,865	8,567
1968	8,324	8,998	8,201	7,650	7,235	8,535	7,231	8,394	9,061
1969	9,216	10,154	8,833	8,308	7,914	9,511	7,898	9,485	9,673
1970	10,038	10,985	9,829	9,127	8,548	10,265	8,596	10,454	10,626
1971	10,589	11,514	10,273	9,769	9,254	10,548	9,085	11,258	11,647

Source: "Fire and Policemen Salary Trends." Current Wage Development. U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, September 1971.

[a]Regions used in these studies are: Northeast—Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Vermont; South—Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, District of Columbia, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, and West Virginia; North Central—Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota, Wisconsin; and West—Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming.

Data relate only to cities that had a population of 100,000 or more in 1960.

EMPLOYEE COMPENSATION REACHED $4.54 AN HOUR IN 1970

According to a Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics' (BLS), study of employee compensation during 1968-70, pay and employer benefit programs increased.

In 1970, total compensation in private nonfarm industries averaged $4.54 per hour, an increase of 65 cents or 17 percent above the 1968 level. In contrast with a 12 percent consumer price increase over the two-year period, hourly compensation in terms of purchasing power rose 5 percent.

Pay for working time, $3.72 an hour, was 50 cents higher than in 1968, and accounted for 81.9 percent of compensation. The remainder consisted of vacation pay, holidays, other paid leave, and employer expenditures for retirement, insurance, and welfare programs. (See Table 1.)

Employer expenditures for retirement programs, the second largest element of compensation, amounted to 29 cents an hour. Combined with increased payments for social security, overall retirement expenditures increased 5 cents per hour or about 21 percent.

Pay for leave, other than sick leave, was up 4 cents from the 1968 level to 25 cents per hour. Vacation pay accounted for 15 cents of the total and 3 cents of the increase.

Expenditures for life insurance and health benefit programs rose 27 percent during the two-year period, up 4 cents to 19 cents an hour.

Unemployment benefits and nonproduction bonuses were up 4 cents an hour, while expenditures for savings and thrift plans remained at their 1968 levels.

Total employee compensation in manufacturing averaged $4.87 an hour compared with $4.36 in nonmanufacturing, a 66 percent increase for both groups. Pay for working time increased 52 cents an hour in nonmanufacturing and 48 cents in manufacturing. Pay for working time, $3.63 an hour, in nonmanufacturing was 26 cents less than in manufacturing, accounting for half the difference of 51 cents in total compensation.

In addition, expenditures for the other major elements of compensation were higher in manufacturing than nonmanufacturing. Between 1968 and 1970, leave pay and expenditures for life and health insurance each increased 7 cents in manufacturing, but only 3 cents in nonmanufacturing. In contrast, expenditures for retirement programs rose 6 cents in nonmanufacturing, but 5 cents in manufacturing.

Office worker compensation (all industries) amounted to $5.79 (a 78 cent increase) which was 49 percent more than the $3.88 (50 cent increase) for nonoffice workers. Pay for working time was up 60 cents to $4.68 an hour for office workers and 39 cents to $3.21 for nonoffice workers.

Pay for leave time was substantially higher for office workers (37 cents) than for nonoffice workers (19 cents an hour). In addition, expenditures for retirement programs amounted to 39 cents for office workers and 24 cents for nonoffice workers. The rate of increase in expenditures for health and life insurance as well as nonproduction bonuses, was also higher for office workers.

Between 1959 and 1970, compensation for nonoffice workers in manufacturing rose 62 percent from $2.61 to $4.24 an hour. The annual rate of increase was only 3.4 percent between 1959 and 1966, but accelerated to 5.7 percent between 1966 and 1968 and 7.2 percent between 1968 and 1970. Pay for working time increased by $1.16, 71 percent of the increase in total compensation between 1959 and 1970, but declined from 85.4 to 80.1 percent of the total compensation due to increases in retirement programs, life insurance and health benefit programs, and paid leave.

TABLE 1.–EMPLOYEE COMPENSATION IN THE PRIVATE NONFARM ECONOMY, 1970

Compensation Practice	ALL INDUSTRIES						MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES						NONMANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES
	All Employees		Office Employees		Nonoffice Employees		All Employees		Office Employees		Nonoffice Employees		All Employees		Office Employees		Nonoffice Employees
	Percent of Compensation	Dollars Per Hour of Work	Percent of Compensation	Dollars Per Hour of Work	Percent of Compensation	Dollars Per Hour of Work	Percent of Compensation	Dollars Per Hour of Work	Percent of Compensation	Dollars Per Hour of Work	Percent of Compensation	Dollars Per Hour of Work	Percent of Compensation	Dollars Per Hour of Work	Percent of Compensation	Dollars Per Hour of Work	Percent of Compensation	Dollars Per Hour of Work
Total compensation	100.0	$4.54	100.0	$5.79	100.0	$3.88	100.0	$4.87	100.0	$6.70	100.0	$4.24	100.0	$4.36	100.0	$5.45	100.0	$3.66
Pay for working time	81.9	3.72	80.9	4.68	82.7	3.21	79.8	3.89	79.1	5.30	80.1	3.39	83.2	3.63	81.6	4.45	84.6	3.09
Straight-time pay	79.8	3.63	80.0	4.63	79.7	3.09	76.8	3.74	78.1	5.23	76.2	3.23	81.6	3.56	80.9	4.41	82.3	3.01
Premium pay	2.1	.09	0.8	.05	3.0	.12	2.9	.14	1.1	.07	4.0	.17	1.5	.07	0.7	.04	2.3	.08
Overtime, weekend and holiday work	1.7	.08	0.7	.04	2.6	.10	2.4	.11	0.9	.06	3.2	.13	1.4	.06	0.6	.03	2.2	.08
Shift differentials	0.3	.01	0.1	.01	0.4	.02	0.6	.03	0.2	.01	.8	.03	0.1	.01	0.1	.01	0.2	.01
Pay for leave time (except sick leave)	5.6	.25	6.4	.37	4.9	.19	6.7	.33	7.2	.48	6.5	.27	4.9	.21	6.0	.33	3.8	.14
Vacations	3.3	.15	3.7	.22	2.9	.11	4.0	.19	4.2	2.8	3.9	.16	2.8	.12	3.5	.19	2.2	.08
Holidays	2.1	.09	2.4	.14	1.8	.07	2.5	.12	2.7	.18	2.4	.10	1.8	.08	2.3	.12	1.4	.05
Civic and personal leave	0.1	.01	0.2	.01	0.1	a	0.2	.01	0.3	.02	0.1	.01	0.1	.01	0.2	.01	0.1	a
Employer payments to vacation and holiday funds	0.1	a	a	a	0.1	.01	a	a	a	a	a	a	0.1	a	a	a	0.2	.01
Employer expenditures for retirement programs	6.5	.29	6.7	.39	6.3	.24	6.5	.32	6.4	.43	6.5	.28	6.4	.28	6.9	.37	6.1	.22
Social security	3.4	.16	3.0	.17	3.8	.15	3.4	.16	2.8	.19	3.7	.16	3.5	.15	3.1	.17	3.8	.14
Private pension plans	3.0	.14	3.7	.22	2.5	.10	3.2	.15	3.6	.24	2.9	.12	3.0	.13	3.8	.21	2.2	.08
Employer expenditures for health benefit programs[b]	4.2	.19	3.7	.21	4.7	.18	5.0	.25	4.4	.30	.54	.23	3.7	.16	3.3	.18	4.2	.15
Life, accident and health insurance	2.6	.12	2.3	.13	2.9	.11	3.6	.17	3.1	.20	3.9	.16	2.1	.09	2.0	.11	2.2	.08
Sick leave	0.7	.03	1.0	.06	0.4	.02	0.6	.03	1.0	.07	.4	.02	0.7	.03	1.0	.05	0.5	.02
Workmen's compensation	0.9	.04	0.3	.02	1.3	.05	0.8	.04	.3	.02	1.0	.04	0.9	.04	0.3	.02	1.5	.05
Employer expenditures for unemployment benefit programs	0.8	.04	0.6	.03	1.0	.04	0.9	.04	0.7	.05	1.0	.04	0.8	.03	0.6	.03	1.0	.04
Unemployment insurance	0.7	.03	0.5	.03	0.9	.03	0.7	.03	0.5	.03	0.8	.03	0.7	.03	0.5	.03	0.9	.03
Severance pay	0.1	a	0.1	.01	a	a	0.1	a	0.2	.01	a	a	0.1	a	0.1	a	0.1	a
Severance pay funds and supplemental unemployment benefit funds	a	a	a	a	0.1	a	0.1	.01	a	a	0.2	.01	a	a	a	a	a	a
Nonproduction bonuses	0.9	.04	1.5	.09	0.4	.01	0.8	.04	1.5	.10	0.4	.02	0.9	.04	1.5	.08	0.3	.01
Savings and thrift plans	0.2	.01	0.3	.02	0.1	a	0.3	.01	0.6	.04	0.1	a	0.1	a	0.1	.01	0.1	a
Wages and salaries (gross payroll)[c]	89.0	4.04	89.8	5.20	88.4	3.43	88.0	4.28	89.1	5.97	87.4	3.70	89.6	3.91	90.2	4.91	89.1	3.26
Supplements to wages and salaries[d]	11.0	.50	10.2	.59	11.6	.45	12.0	.59	10.9	.73	12.6	.53	10.4	.45	9.8	.53	10.9	.40

Source: "Employee Compensation Reached $4.54 an Hour in 1970." (News Release) U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, November 23, 1971.

[a]Less than 0.05 percent or $0.005.

[b]Includes other health benefit programs principally state temporary disability insurance not presented separately.

[c]Wages and salaries include all direct payments to workers. They consist of pay for working time; pay for vacations, holidays, sick leave and civic and personal leave; severance pay; and nonproduction bonuses.

[d]Supplements to wages and salaries include all employer expenditures for compensation other than for wages and salaries. They consist of expenditures for retirement programs (including direct pay to pensioners under pay-as-you-go private pension plans); expenditures for health benefit programs (except sick leave); expenditures for unemployment benefit programs (except severance pay); payments to vacation and holiday funds, and payments to savings and thrift plans.

NOTE: Because of rounding, sums of individual items may not equal totals.

TABLE 2.–EMPLOYER EXPENDITURES FOR COMPENSATION OF PRODUCTION AND RELATED WORKERS IN MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES, 1959 AND 1970

Compensation Practice	1959		1970
	Percent of Compensation	Dollars Per Hour of Work	Percent of Compensation	Dollars Per Hour of Work
Total compensation[a]	100.0	$2.61	100.0	$4.24
Pay for working time	85.4	2.23	80.1	3.39
Straight-time pay	81.5	2.13	76.2	3.23
Premium pay	3.9	.10	4.0	.17
Overtime, weekend and holiday work	3.1	.08	3.2	.13
Shift differentials	.8	.02	.8	.03
Pay for leave time (except sick leave)[b]	5.2	.14	6.5	.27
Vacations	3.3	.09	3.9	.16
Holidays	1.9	.05	2.4	.10
Employer expenditures for retirement programs	4.2	.11	6.5	.28
Social security	2.0	.05	3.7	.16
Private pension plans	2.2	.06	2.9	.12
Employer expenditures for health benefit programs[c]	3.0	.08	5.4	.23
Life, accident and health insurance	2.0	.05	3.9	.16
Sick leave	.2	.01	.4	.02
Workmen's compensation	.8	.02	1.0	.04
Employer expenditures for unemployment benefit programs[d]	1.5	.03	1.0	.04
Wages and salaries (gross payroll)[e]	91.4	2.38	87.4	3.70
Supplements to wages and salaries[f]	8.6	.23	12.6	.53

Source: "Employee Compensation Reached $4.54 an Hour in 1970." (News Release) U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, November 23, 1971.

[a]Includes data for nonproduction bonuses, savings and thrift plans not presented separately.

[b]Data for civic and personal leave and employer payments to vacation and holiday funds included.

[c]Includes other health benefit programs, principally State temporary disability insurance, not presented separately.

[d]Includes unemployment insurance, severance pay, and severance pay funds and supplemental unemployment benefit funds.

[e]Wages and salaries include all direct payments to workers. They consist of pay for working time; pay for vacations, holidays, sick leave, and civic and personal leave; severance pay; and nonproduction bonuses.

[f]Supplements to wages and salaries include all employer expenditures for compensation other than for wages and salaries. They consist of expenditures for retirement programs (including direct pay to pensioners under pay-as-you-go private pension plans); expenditures for health benefit programs (except sick leave); expenditures for unemployment benefit programs (except severance pay); payments to vacation and holiday funds; and payments to savings and thrift plans.

NOTE: Because of rounding, sums of individual items may not equal totals.

SCHOOL BOARD MEMBERS AND SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS AS NEGOTIATORS

Annually, the NEA Research Division has conducted a national survey of written negotiation agreements and procedures in school systems with a pupil enrollment of 1,000 or more. All surveys posed similar questions regarding the involvement of school-board members and school superintendents in negotiations with teacher organizations.

The first survey showed that most superintendents considered themselves as advisors to both school-board and teacher-negotiators; succeeding surveys have indicated that more superintendents are advising only the school-board negotiators.

In the 1970-71 survey, a new classification has been identified under school-board negotiators that shows 81 (2.4 percent) school systems using "outside negotiators" during negotiations sessions. School-board members or school administrators in these systems do not serve as negotiators. The use of "outside negotiators" seems to be prevalent in the smaller school systems. Table 1 provides comparative percentages for the five survey years.

Fifteen states reported 50 or more school systems with written negotiation agreements in 1970-71. Data on the role of the superintendent in negotiation and on who negotiates for the school-board were tabulated in separate contingency tables for each of these states and for the country.

Stratum	School System Enrollment
1	100,000 or more
2	50,000 - 99,999
3	25,000 - 49,999
4	12,000 - 24,999
5	6,000 - 11,999
6	3,000 - 5,999
7	1,200 - 2,999
8	1,000 - 1,199

TABLE 1.—ROLE OF SUPERINTENDENT AND SCHOOL-BOARD MEMBERS IN NEGOTIATION SESSIONS, 1966-67 TO 1970-71

Item	Survey Response Year
	1966-67	1967-68	1968-69	1969-70	1970-71
1	2	3	4	5	6
Role of Superintendent
Negotiator with full authority	21.7%	20.2%	20.3%	19.4%	18.5%
Negotiator with limited authority	16.0	17.7	17.2	16.1	15.5
Advisor to school board negotiators only	13.4	19.8	30.3	37.8	42.4
Advisor to school board and teacher negotiators	41.1	34.6	25.2	19.6	15.0
Neutral resource person	6.8	6.4	4.9	4.3	4.5
Nonparticipant	1.1	1.3	2.0	2.8	4.1
Response	100.1%	100.0%	99.9%	100.0%	100.0%
Negotiators for School Board
Board members only	33.2%	17.4%	14.6%	13.3%	13.2%
Superintendent only	26.3	17.7	13.4	10.5	9.4
Other school administrators	3.6	4.3	7.1	9.4	12.7
Board members and superintendent	21.2	32.9	32.5	31.4	27.8
Board members and other school administrators	0.9	2.9	5.5	6.7	7.4
Board members, superintendent and other school administrators	6.8	12.8	13.9	15.4	14.1
Superintendent and other school administrators	8.0	12.1	13.0	13.4	12.9
Outside negotiator	...	...	...	...	2.4
Response	100.0%	100.1%	100.0%	100.1%	99.9%

ROLE OF SUPERINTENDENT IN NEGOTIATION SESSIONS

STATE OR STRATUM	NUMBER OF AGREEMENTS		NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY		NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY		ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS SCHOOL BOARD ONLY		ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS BOARD AND TEACHERS		ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON		ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS NONPARTICIPANT
	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15
ALABAMA	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
ALASKA	7	100.0	1	14.3	0	.0	4	57.1	0	.0	1	14.3	1	14.3
ARIZONA	30	100.1	6	20.0	5	16.7	8	26.7	6	20.0	3	10.0	2	6.7
ARKANSAS	7	100.1	3	42.9	1	14.3	1	14.3	1	14.3	1	14.3	0	.0
CALIFORNIA	398	100.1	126	31.7	169	42.5	62	15.6	24	6.0	10	2.5	7	1.8
COLORADO	32	100.1	8	25.0	6	18.8	15	46.9	3	9.4	0	.0	0	.0
CONNECTICUT	96	100.1	5	5.2	3	3.1	59	61.5	19	19.8	6	6.3	4	4.2
DELAWARE	11	100.0	1	9.1	1	9.1	7	63.6	0	.0	0	.0	2	18.2
DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA	1	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	1	100.0
FLORIDA	11	100.1	2	18.2	0	.0	4	36.4	3	27.3	0	.0	2	18.2
GEORGIA	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
HAWAII	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
IDAHO	14	100.1	2	14.3	6	42.9	4	28.6	2	14.3	0	.0	0	.0
ILLINOIS	210	100.0	30	14.3	19	9.0	93	44.3	46	21.9	12	5.7	10	4.8
INDIANA	60	100.0	11	18.3	10	16.7	23	38.3	13	21.7	3	5.0	0	.0
IOWA	22	100.0	2	9.1	4	18.2	11	50.0	4	18.2	0	.0	1	4.5
KANSAS	38	99.9	4	10.5	7	18.4	13	34.2	10	26.3	3	7.9	1	2.6
KENTUCKY	19	100.0	5	26.3	3	15.8	6	31.6	3	15.8	2	10.5	0	.0
LOUISIANA	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
MAINE	35	100.0	3	8.6	1	2.9	20	57.1	6	17.1	4	11.4	1	2.9
MARYLAND	21	100.1	1	4.8	1	4.8	16	76.7	0	.0	0	.0	3	14.3
MASSACHUSETTS	185	99.9	5	2.7	6	3.2	116	62.7	33	17.8	18	9.7	7	3.8
MICHIGAN	351	100.1	112	31.9	41	11.7	161	45.9	15	4.3	2	.6	20	5.7
MINNESOTA	123	100.0	4	3.3	7	5.7	87	70.7	19	15.4	2	1.6	4	3.3
MISSISSIPPI	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
MISSOURI	61	100.0	8	13.1	14	23.0	8	13.1	24	39.3	7	11.5	0	.0
MONTANA	19	100.2	1	5.3	4	21.1	4	21.1	9	47.4	1	5.3	0	.0
NEBRASKA	20	100.0	0	.0	3	15.0	10	50.0	5	25.0	1	5.0	1	5.0
NEVADA	2	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	1	50.0	0	.0	0	.0	1	50.0
NEW HAMPSHIRE	17	100.0	0	.0	1	5.9	9	52.9	4	23.5	2	11.8	1	5.9
NEW JERSEY	259	100.0	7	2.7	20	7.7	144	55.6	57	22.0	21	8.1	10	3.9
NEW MEXICO	12	100.0	2	16.7	6	50.0	2	16.7	1	8.3	1	8.3	0	.0
NEW YORK	452	100.0	88	19.5	43	9.5	244	54.0	35	7.7	9	2.0	33	7.3
NORTH CAROLINA	3	100.0	0	.0	1	33.3	0	.0	2	66.7	0	.0	0	.0
NORTH DAKOTA	15	100.1	0	.0	1	6.7	7	46.7	6	40.0	1	6.7	0	.0
OHIO	293	100.1	123	42.0	67	22.9	60	20.5	31	10.6	5	1.7	7	2.4
OKLAHOMA	8	100.0	2	25.0	1	12.5	3	37.5	2	25.0	0	.0	0	.0
OREGON	62	99.9	1	1.6	1	1.6	18	29.0	30	48.4	9	14.5	3	4.8
PENNSYLVANIA	89	100.0	8	9.0	7	7.9	40	44.9	20	22.5	9	10.1	5	5.6
RHODE ISLAND	23	100.0	1	4.3	2	8.7	16	69.6	2	8.7	2	8.7	0	.0
SOUTH CAROLINA	2	100.0	1	50.0	1	50.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
SOUTH DAKOTA	12	99.9	0	.0	3	25.0	7	58.3	1	8.3	0	.0	1	8.3
TENNESSEE	3	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	2	66.7	1	33.3	0	.0	0	.0
TEXAS	43	100.1	11	25.6	12	27.9	7	16.3	11	25.6	0	.0	2	4.7
UTAH	7	100.1	2	28.6	0	.0	3	42.9	1	14.3	0	.0	1	14.3
VERMONT	5	100.0	1	20.0	0	.0	1	20.0	2	40.0	1	20.0	0	.0
VIRGINIA	5	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	3	60.0	1	20.0	0	.0	1	20.0
WASHINGTON	106	100.0	26	24.5	23	21.7	30	28.3	20	18.9	6	5.7	1	.9
WEST VIRGINIA	6	99.9	2	33.3	2	33.3	0	.0	2	33.3	0	.0	0	.0
WISCONSIN	144	100.1	6	4.2	15	10.4	88	61.1	24	16.7	7	4.9	4	2.8
WYOMING	11	100.1	0	.0	2	18.2	4	36.4	4	36.4	1	9.1	0	.0
TOTAL	3,350	100.0	621	18.5	519	15.5	1,421	42.4	502	15.0	150	4.5	137	4.1

STRATUM	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15
1	19	100.1	1	5.3	3	15.8	10	52.6	0	.0	1	5.3	4	21.1
2	39	100.0	7	17.9	4	10.3	22	56.4	1	2.6	0	.0	5	12.8
3	64	100.1	14	21.9	6	9.4	34	53.1	4	6.3	1	1.6	5	7.8
4	243	100.0	53	21.8	33	13.6	115	47.3	16	6.6	7	2.9	19	7.8
5	495	100.0	82	16.6	71	14.3	229	46.3	60	12.1	19	3.8	34	6.9
6	823	100.1	158	19.2	126	15.3	343	41.7	124	15.1	37	4.5	35	4.3
7	1,425	99.9	261	18.3	234	16.4	570	40.0	257	18.0	71	5.0	32	2.2
8	242	100.0	45	18.6	42	17.4	98	40.5	40	16.5	14	5.8	3	1.2
T O T A L	3,350	100.0	621	18.5	519	15.5	1,421	42.4	502	15.0	150	4.5	137	4.1

NEGOTIATOR FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19
	NO. OF AGREEMENTS		BOARD MEMBERS ONLY		SUPT. OF SCHOOLS ONLY		OTHER SCHOOL ADMINIS-TRATORS		BOARD MEMBERS AND SUPT.		BOARD MEMBERS AND OTHER SCHOOL ADMINIS-TRATORS		BOARD MEMBERS, SUPTS., AND OTHER SCHOOL ADMINIS-TRATORS		SUPT. AND OTHER SCHOOL ADMINIS-TRATORS		NO BOARD MEMBERS OR ADMINIS-TRATORS NEGOTIATE
STATE	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.
ALABAMA	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
ALASKA	8	100.0	2	25.0	1	12.5	1	12.5	3	37.5	0	.0	1	12.5	0	.0	0	.0
ARIZONA	30	100.1	4	13.3	2	6.7	6	20.0	5	16.7	2	6.7	8	26.7	3	10.0	0	.0
ARKANSAS	7	100.1	3	42.9	1	14.3	0	.0	1	14.3	0	.0	1	14.3	1	14.3	0	.0
CALIFORNIA	405	100.0	9	2.2	157	38.8	51	12.6	57	14.1	5	1.2	24	5.9	102	25.2	0	.0
COLORADO	32	100.1	0	.0	4	12.5	12	37.5	3	9.4	2	6.3	2	6.3	8	25.0	1	3.1
CONNECTICUT	94	100.0	25	26.6	1	1.1	7	7.4	40	42.6	9	9.6	10	10.6	0	.0	2	2.1
DELAWARE	11	100.1	1	9.1	1	9.1	4	36.4	0	.0	2	18.2	2	18.2	1	9.1	0	.0
DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA	1	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	1	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
FLORIDA	11	100.1	3	27.3	1	9.1	2	18.2	3	27.3	1	9.1	1	9.1	0	.0	0	.0
GEORGIA	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
HAWAII	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
IDAHO	14	99.9	0	.0	4	28.6	0	.0	5	35.7	1	7.1	3	21.4	1	7.1	0	.0
ILLINOIS	211	100.1	33	15.6	6	2.8	20	9.5	44	20.9	28	13.3	55	26.1	21	10.0	4	1.9
INDIANA	61	100.0	2	3.3	1	1.6	12	19.7	21	34.4	3	4.9	12	19.7	10	16.4	0	.0
IOWA	23	99.9	1	4.3	2	8.7	1	4.3	12	52.2	0	.0	5	21.7	2	8.7	0	.0
KANSAS	38	100.0	5	13.2	3	7.9	9	23.7	10	26.3	1	2.6	7	18.4	3	7.9	0	.0
KENTUCKY	20	100.0	0	.0	2	10.0	2	10.0	13	65.0	0	.0	3	15.0	0	.0	0	.0
LOUISIANA	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
MAINE	36	100.1	8	22.2	1	2.8	1	2.8	22	61.1	1	2.8	1	2.8	2	5.6	0	.0
MARYLAND	21	100.1	0	.0	0	.0	19	90.5	0	.0	0	.0	1	4.8	0	.0	1	4.8
MASSACHUSETTS	180	100.0	56	31.1	2	1.1	12	6.7	48	26.7	12	6.7	18	10.0	8	4.4	24	13.3
MICHIGAN	351	100.1	9	2.6	15	4.3	80	22.8	80	22.8	19	5.4	70	19.9	69	19.7	9	2.6
MINNESOTA	124	99.9	25	20.2	1	.8	1	.8	54	43.5	22	17.7	19	15.3	1	.8	1	.8
MISSISSIPPI	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
MISSOURI	64	100.2	4	6.3	11	17.2	3	4.7	28	43.8	1	1.6	13	20.3	4	6.3	0	.0
MONTANA	19	100.1	8	42.1	1	5.3	0	.0	8	42.1	0	.0	1	5.3	1	5.3	0	.0
NEBRASKA	20	100.0	5	25.0	0	.0	3	15.0	9	45.0	0	.0	2	10.0	1	5.0	0	.0
NEVADA	2	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	2	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NEW HAMPSHIRE	17	100.0	5	29.4	0	.0	0	.0	9	52.9	1	5.9	2	11.8	0	.0	0	.0
NEW JERSEY	259	100.0	73	28.2	2	.8	5	1.9	109	42.1	19	7.3	39	15.1	5	1.9	7	2.7
NEW MEXICO	12	100.0	1	8.3	1	8.3	2	16.7	3	25.0	0	.0	3	25.0	2	16.7	0	.0
NEW YORK	449	99.9	34	7.6	25	5.6	106	23.6	80	17.8	59	13.1	54	12.0	67	14.9	24	5.3
NORTH CAROLINA	3	99.9	1	33.3	0	.0	0	.0	1	33.3	0	.0	1	33.3	0	.0	0	.0
NORTH DAKOTA	15	100.0	6	40.0	0	.0	1	6.7	6	40.0	0	.0	2	13.3	0	.0	0	.0
OHIO	292	100.0	11	3.8	45	15.4	27	9.2	86	29.5	7	2.4	27	9.2	89	30.5	0	.0
OKLAHOMA	8	100.0	0	.0	1	12.5	3	37.5	2	25.0	0	.0	2	25.0	0	.0	0	.0
OREGON	63	100.0	31	49.2	0	.0	0	.0	22	34.9	6	9.5	3	4.8	0	.0	1	1.6
PENNSYLVANIA	88	99.9	22	25.0	1	1.1	9	10.2	28	31.8	15	17.0	7	8.0	4	4.5	2	2.3
RHODE ISLAND	23	99.8	7	30.4	1	4.3	2	8.7	5	21.7	3	13.0	2	8.7	1	4.3	2	8.7
SOUTH CAROLINA	2	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	1	50.0	1	50.0	0	.0	0	.0
SOUTH DAKOTA	12	100.1	2	16.7	0	.0	2	16.7	5	41.7	1	8.3	2	16.7	0	.0	0	.0
TENNESSEE	4	100.0	1	25.0	0	.0	2	50.0	1	25.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
TEXAS	42	100.1	1	2.4	8	19.0	2	4.8	17	40.5	0	.0	7	16.7	6	14.3	1	2.4
UTAH	7	100.1	0	.0	0	.0	2	28.6	0	.0	1	14.3	1	14.3	3	42.9	0	.0
VERMONT	5	100.0	2	40.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	2	40.0	0	.0	0	.0	1	20.0
VIRGINIA	5	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	2	40.0	1	20.0	1	20.0	1	20.0	0	.0	0	.0
WASHINGTON	107	99.9	19	17.8	13	12.1	7	6.5	33	30.8	5	4.7	13	12.1	16	15.0	1	.9
WEST VIRGINIA	7	100.0	0	.0	1	14.3	0	.0	4	57.1	0	.0	1	14.3	1	14.3	0	.0
WISCONSIN	144	100.1	21	14.6	2	1.4	4	2.8	55	38.2	19	13.2	41	28.5	2	1.4	0	.0
WYOMING	10	100.0	3	30.0	0	.0	1	10.0	1	10.0	1	10.0	4	40.0	0	.0	0	.0
TOTAL	3357	99.9	443	13.2	317	9.4	426	12.7	934	27.8	250	7.4	472	14.1	434	12.9	81	2.4

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19
STRATUM	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.
1	19	100.1	1	5.3	0	.0	13	68.4	0	.0	1	5.3	3	15.8	1	5.3	0	.0
2	38	100.0	1	2.6	0	.0	22	57.9	2	5.3	4	10.5	3	7.9	6	15.8	0	.0
3	66	99.9	2	3.0	4	6.1	37	56.1	2	3.0	3	4.5	3	4.5	14	21.2	1	1.5
4	248	100.1	13	5.2	23	9.3	79	31.9	21	8.5	18	7.3	34	13.7	54	21.8	6	2.4
5	492	99.9	45	9.1	43	8.7	121	24.6	69	14.0	50	10.2	71	14.4	81	16.5	12	2.4
6	821	99.9	106	12.9	66	8.0	97	11.8	186	22.7	73	8.9	135	16.4	129	15.7	29	3.5
7	1430	100.0	232	16.2	143	10.0	54	3.8	544	38.0	89	6.2	197	13.8	140	9.8	31	2.2
8	243	99.9	43	17.7	38	15.6	3	1.2	110	45.3	12	4.9	26	10.7	9	3.7	2	.8
TOTAL	3357	99.9	443	13.2	317	9.4	426	12.7	934	27.8	250	7.4	472	14.1	434	12.9	81	2.4

PATTERNS IN NEGOTIATION
UNITED STATES – 3,320 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATORS FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD

ROLE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT	BOARD MEMBERS		BOARD MEMBERS AND SUPT.		BOARD MEMBERS AND SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS		SUPERINTENDENT		SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS		NO BD MEMBERS OR ADMINISTRATORS NEGOTIATE
	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	3	.1	101	3.0	82	2.5	160	4.8	271	8.2	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	3	.1	165	5.0	98	3.0	132	4.0	119	3.6	1	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	192	5.8	435	13.1	367	11.1	6	.2	344	10.4	58	1.7
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	148	4.5	188	5.7	110	3.3	11	.3	36	1.1	6	.2
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	72	2.2	32	1.0	26	.8	2	.1	7	.2	9	.3
NONPARTICIPANT	21	.6	2	.1	33	1.0	0	.0	73	2.2	7	.2
CALIFORNIA – 308 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	1	.3	8	2.0	6	1.5	61	15.3	50	12.6	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	25	6.3	12	3.0	87	21.9	45	11.3	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	1	.3	12	3.0	3	.8	1	.3	45	11.3	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	4	1.0	10	2.5	4	1.0	4	1.0	2	.5	0	.0
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	3	.8	2	.5	4	1.0	1	.3	0	.0	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	7	1.8	0	.0
CONNECTICUT – 94 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	1	1.1	2	2.1	1	1.1	1	1.1	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	3	3.2	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	17	18.1	29	30.9	6	6.4	0	.0	4	4.3	1	1.1
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	5	5.3	6	6.4	7	7.4	0	.0	0	.0	1	1.1
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	2	2.1	1	1.1	3	3.2	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	1	1.1	0	.0	1	1.1	0	.0	2	2.1	0	.0
ILLINOIS – 208 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	5	2.4	5	2.4	5	2.4	15	7.2	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	4	1.9	9	4.3	1	.5	4	1.9	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	10	4.8	20	9.6	45	21.6	0	.0	15	7.2	2	1.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	15	7.2	13	6.3	14	6.7	0	.0	4	1.9	0	.0
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	6	2.9	2	1.0	3	1.4	0	.0	0	.0	1	.5
NONPARTICIPANT	1	.5	0	.0	6	2.9	0	.0	2	1.0	1	.5

PATTERNS IN NEGOTIATION (Continued)

INDIANA – 58 RESPONSES

NEGOTIATORS FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD

ROLE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT	BOARD MEMBERS		BOARD MEMBERS AND SUPT.		BOARD MEMBERS AND SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS		SUPERINTENDENT		SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS		NO BD MEMBERS OR ADMINISTRATORS NEGOTIATE
	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	2	3.4	1	1.7	0	.0	7	11.9	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	3	5.1	3	5.1	1	1.7	3	5.1	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	1	1.7	7	11.9	5	8.5	0	.0	10	16.9	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	0	.0	9	15.3	4	6.8	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	1	1.7	0	.0	1	1.7	0	.0	1	1.7	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
MASSACHUSETTS – 180 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	2	1.1	0	.0	0	.0	3	1.7	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	1	.6	2	1.1	0	.0	3	1.7	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	30	16.7	35	19.4	21	11.7	2	1.1	8	4.4	16	8.9
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	16	8.9	7	3.9	4	2.2	0	.0	3	1.7	2	1.1
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	9	5.0	2	1.1	0	.0	0	.0	1	.6	6	3.3
NONPARTICIPANT	1	.6	1	.6	3	1.7	0	.0	2	1.1	0	.0
MICHIGAN – 348 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	21	6.0	28	8.0	14	4.0	48	13.8	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	19	5.5	15	4.3	1	.3	6	1.7	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	4	1.1	32	9.2	38	10.9	0	.0	76	21.8	9	2.6
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	2	.6	7	2.0	5	1.4	0	.0	1	.3	0	.0
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	1	.3	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	1	.3	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	2	.6	0	.0	3	.9	0	.0	15	4.3	0	.0
MINNESOTA – 123 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	3	2.4	1	.8	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	6	4.9	1	.8	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	20	16.3	31	25.2	33	26.8	1	.8	1	.8	1	.8
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	3	2.4	13	10.6	3	2.4	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	2	1.6	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	0	.0	0	.0	3	2.4	0	.0	1	.8	0	.0

PATTERNS IN NEGOTIATION (Continued)

MISSOURI – 61 RESPONSES

NEGOTIATORS FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD

ROLE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT	BOARD MEMBERS		BOARD MEMBERS AND SUPT.		BOARD MEMBERS AND SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS		SUPERINTENDENT		SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS		NO BD MEMBERS OR ADMINISTRATORS NEGOTIATE
	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	0	.0	2	3.3	5	8.2	1	1.6	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	9	14.8	1	1.6	3	4.9	1	1.6	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	0	.0	4	6.6	1	1.6	0	.0	3	4.9	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	2	3.3	11	18.0	8	13.1	2	3.3	1	1.6	0	.0
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	2	3.3	2	3.3	1	1.6	1	1.6	1	1.6	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NEW JERSEY – 257 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	4	1.6	2	.8	0	.0	1	.4	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	1	.4	9	3.5	5	1.9	2	.8	3	1.2	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	27	10.5	69	26.8	37	14.4	0	.0	5	1.9	4	1.6
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	23	8.9	23	8.9	10	3.9	0	.0	0	.0	1	.4
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	16	6.2	3	1.2	1	.4	0	.0	0	.0	1	.4
NONPARTICIPANT	6	2.3	0	.0	2	.8	0	.0	1	.4	1	.4
NEW YORK – 446 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	1	.2	9	2.0	13	2.9	21	4.7	44	9.9	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	10	2.2	13	2.9	4	.9	15	3.4	1	.2
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	18	4.0	53	11.9	69	15.5	0	.0	80	17.9	19	4.3
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	12	2.7	6	1.3	8	1.8	0	.0	8	1.8	1	.2
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	2	.4	2	.4	3	.7	0	.0	2	.4	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	0	.0	0	.0	6	1.3	0	.0	23	5.2	3	.7
OHIO – 290 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	22	7.6	5	1.7	30	10.3	65	22.4	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	25	8.6	10	3.4	13	4.5	19	6.6	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	6	2.1	21	7.2	10	3.4	0	.0	22	7.6	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	3	1.0	16	5.5	7	2.4	1	.3	3	1.0	0	.0
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	1	.3	2	.7	2	.7	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	1	.3	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	6	2.1	0	.0

PATTERNS IN NEGOTIATION (Continued)

OREGON – 61 RESPONSES

NEGOTIATORS FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD

ROLE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT	BOARD MEMBERS		BOARD MEMBERS AND SUPT.		BOARD MEMBERS AND SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS		SUPERINTENDENT		SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS		NO BD MEMBERS OR ADMINISTRATORS NEGOTIATE
	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	1	1.6	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	1	1.6	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	5	8.2	11	18.0	2	3.3	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	16	26.2	7	11.5	5	8.2	0	.0	0	.0	1	1.6
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	7	11.5	1	1.6	1	1.6	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	2	3.3	1	1.6	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
PENNSYLVANIA – 87 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	2	2.3	0	.0	1	1.1	5	5.7	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	3	3.4	3	3.4	0	.0	1	1.1	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	9	10.3	13	14.9	13	14.9	0	.0	3	3.4	1	1.1
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	7	8.0	8	9.2	3	3.4	0	.0	2	2.3	0	.0
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	6	6.9	1	1.1	0	.0	0	.0	1	1.1	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	0	.0	0	.0	3	3.4	0	.0	1	1.1	1	1.1
WASHINGTON – 106 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	6	5.7	5	4.7	5	4.7	10	9.4	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	1	.9	10	9.4	2	1.9	6	5.7	4	3.8	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	6	5.7	7	6.6	8	7.5	0	.0	8	7.5	1	.9
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	7	6.6	9	8.5	3	2.8	1	.9	0	.0	0	.0
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	5	4.7	1	.9	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	1	.9	0	.0
WISCONSIN – 144 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	2	1.4	2	1.4	1	.7	1	.7	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	8	5.6	6	4.2	0	.0	1	.7	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	9	6.3	37	25.7	39	27.1	0	.0	3	2.1	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	7	4.9	7	4.9	9	6.3	1	.7	0	.0	0	.0
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	4	2.8	1	.7	2	1.4	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	1	.7	0	.0	2	1.4	0	.0	1	.7	0	.0

SPECIAL REPORTS

BRIEFS OF RECENT AGREEMENTS

Oakland, Michigan

(Community College)

Between the Oakland Community College and the Oakland Community College Faculty Association, effective September 1, 1971, through August 31, 1973. Approximately 266 full-time and 73 part-time professional personnel, including persons employed on a ten-month contract as librarians, counselors, and instructors in Individualized Programmed Learning Laboratories and the Carrel Arcades who work more than 15 hours per week.

COMPENSATION: Based on 10-month contract; 12-month contract pays an amount equal to 120 percent of 10-month salary.

(1971-72)

Instructor, $9,650 to $14,162, 8 increments.
Assistant professor, $11,140 to $16,363, 8 increments.
Associate professor, $12,864 to $18,911, 8 increments.
Professor, $14,860 to $20,829, 7 increments.

(1972-73)

Instructor, $9,750 to $14,262, 8 increments.
Assistant professor, $11,240 to $16,463, 8 increments.
Associate professor, $12,964 to $19,011, 8 increments.
Professor, $14,960 to $20,929, 7 increments.

Longevity pay: based on rank and step after 4 consecutive years' service; 5th year at 1 percent; 6th-9th year at 2 percent; 10th and succeeding years at 3 percent.

Severance pay: one month's salary to staff members on continuing contract if placed on leave of absence without pay.

Overload pay: (See reprint.)

LEAVES: 10 days' sick leave with pay; 2 separate personal leave days, additional days with Provost's approval; paid leave for court appearances, less fees received; vacation leave equivalent to one month when days are taken consecutively or 22 working days, with a maximum carry-over of 22 vacation days to the next contract period for faculty members under 12-month contract; sabbatical leave after 3 years' service for one semester at half pay or for a spring term at full pay, and after 6 years' service, 10 months' leave at half pay or one semester at full pay.

INSURANCE: College pays: medical-health-hospitalization benefits, family coverage at employee's expense; major medical benefit includes $500 maximum psychiatric care provision and prescription drug rider with $1.25 deductible; dental care insurance includes $50 per person and $150 per family deductible annually; short-term disability plan, provides an accident and sickness benefit beginning on the 15th day and not to exceed 13 weeks; long-term disability insurance "beginning 91st day of disability, payment of 60% of current monthly salary up to a maximum salary to be considered of $1,666.67 per month less any amount paid by any available retirement system contributed to by employer;" liability insurance; Workmen's compensation for job-related injury or illness; tuition authorized for faculty member and/or spouse.

ASSOCIATION: Agency shop clause; payroll dues deduction for local Association; office space for Association; reduced teaching load of three credit hours in the fall and six credit hours in the winter and spring sessions for Association president.

INSTRUCTION: "A faculty member's class assignments shall be scheduled within a continuous eight hour period within any one day except as he and the Department might otherwise agree;" night assignments of not more than one evening per week to be made on a rotation basis whenever sufficient full-time faculty members do not volunteer, with exception of spring and summer sessions; maximum load of 30 credit hours distributed evenly over the 10-month contract period, the provision for maximum teaching load is based on student credit hours per faculty member;

> Students shall be assigned to courses by section. The maximum session student credit hours per faculty member shall be as in the table below:
>
> Course Group [course classifications identified in contract]

	Session SCH Load Fall/Winter/Spring or Summer	Maximum Students Per Section
Group A	420/420/210	35
Group B	300/300/150	25

> However, the maximum number of students per section may be increased by two (2) during the regular registration period.

weekly meetings for full-time faculty between 3:00 and 5:00 p.m.; maximum 20 contact hours per week for a faculty member unless he elects overload (see reprint); minimum of four full-time faculty members per department; "Where more than one discipline or applied field is included within a single department, faculty members may petition the Provost for the establishment of a new department. The petition shall include the reason for the request and the names of the faculty member to be included in the new department. If the petition is not granted, the Provost shall indicate the reason of denial;" adequate secretarial, technical, clerical, operating and capital funds to be provided; budget adjustment action to be undertaken only after receipt of the College Budget Council recommendation; consultation between the College and the Association prior to the adoption of the school calendar.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with final and binding arbitration; part-time faculty not to exceed 25 percent of the full-time faculty; applications for vacant professional positions accepted one week after posting; probationary faculty members reviewed by their department twice each year on the basis of established criteria; continuing contract faculty members subject to the same evaluative criteria if department or immediate supervisor deems it necessary; faculty members, upon request, to be provided a copy of any item, including all performance evaluations, from his personnel file, provided such item is not of privileged nature; dismissal for just cause to be preceded by notice of charges and hearing, and full compensation to be paid until actual dismissal; reduction in force on basis of seniority, but if "a particular department will be unable to function because of seniority reduction of staff, inter-departmental transfers of qualified staff members should be considered," further solution to be negotiated; recommendations for promotion initiated by the department in writing by January 15 and negative response to be made by the Provost by February 1; department heads elected in the fall for two-year terms by full-time department members; reduced teaching load for department heads to be based on number of department members supervised; minimum years of experience as criterion for continuing contract member: assistant professor, 4 years; association professors, 7 years; professors, 9 or more years based on exceptional qualifications and demonstrated instructional leadership.

OVERLOADS

CONSENT OF FACULTY MEMBER:

No load in excess of the maximums established in Article II shall be assigned without prior consent of the faculty member.

CRITERIA FOR OVERLOAD

If a faculty member is requested to teach in excess of a maximum instructional credit load, (2.8) his sectional overload, if the section has fifteen (15) or more students, will be computed in the following manner:

n = number of students in overload section s = number of S.C.H. (Student Credit Hours) allocated to the overload section's I.C.H. (Instructional Credit Hours)
h = number of I.C.H. assigned as overload
b = base rate from table below

Group A Courses

Overload Amount = (s - 15h)(.00075 x Faculty 10 month salary) + hb

Group B Courses

Overload Amount = (s - 15h)(.001 x Faculty 10 month salary) + hb

Faculty Member's Rank	Base Rate b
Instructor	$150
Assistant Professor . . .	$195
Associate Professor . . .	$240
Professor	$285

To compute overload pay for a section of less than 15 students the formula to be used is:

$$\text{overload} = \frac{n}{15}(hb).$$

When a section assigned within a faculty member's maximum load has less than the minimum number of students and an overload section has more than the minimum number of students, except in those cases where a faculty member's maximum load has been adjusted downward according to 2.1G in order to avoid an otherwise unnecessary cancellation of a section, the overload section and the within load section shall be reversed in computing overload.

SCH OVERLOAD RATE

If within the faculty member's instructional credit hour load the total number of SCH exceeds the maximum established in 2.1.E, the instructor shall be compensated at the rate of (.00075 faculty-10 month salary), for Group A courses and (.001 x faculty-10 month salary) for Group B courses, per student credit hour exceeding that maximum.

If a faculty member has a load which includes courses from both Group A and Group B, the overload rate will be prorated according to the distribution of SCH between the groups.

MAXIMUM OVERLOAD PAYMENT

No faculty member shall be paid overload payments for a given session in excess of twenty-five per cent (25%) of the amount of his ten (10) months salary that is allocated to that session.

HOURLY RATE FOR WORKING VACATION DAYS FOR LIBRARIANS, COUNSELORS, IPLL, AND CARREL ARCADES FACULTY

Should a faculty member whose maximum load is defined as 30 hours per week work in excess of that maximum or on a day defined as a normal vacation day for teaching faculty he shall be compensated for that excess time at the rate of $11.00 per hour. Such excess hours must have the prior approval of the Provost.

PROVOST'S APPROVAL FOR ADDITIONAL ASSIGNMENTS

Faculty members with the full allowable overload shall not be eligible for any additional College assignments except with the prior knowledge of his department and with the approval of the Campus Provost.

REPORT OF OVERLOAD PAYMENT

A written report of the computation of overload payments shall be provided to the faculty member.

OVERLOAD PAYMENT PERIOD

Overload payments shall commence on the third pay period of the session and be paid bi-weekly over the remaining pay periods of the session.

Rochester, Minnesota

Between the Board of Education of Independent School District #535 and the Teachers of Independent S.D. #535 as represented by the Teachers Council, effective August 1, 1971, to July 31, 1972. Approximately 991 certificated professional employees.

COMPENSATION: B.A., $7,300 to $11,864, 12 increments; B.A. plus 30, $13,367 maximum; M.A., $8,000 to $14,676, 13 increments; M.A. plus 30, $15,157 maximum; Educ. Spec., $15,955 maximum.

Differentials: (Based on years of experience: 0-4, 5-9, and 10 or more.) athletic director, head football, basketball coaches, $1,318, $1,457, $1,597; head wrestling, hockey, swimming, gymnastics coaches, $1,153, $1,293, $1,427; head baseball, track coaches, $988, $1,097, $1,210; science fair director, head tennis, golf, cross country coaches, and junior high-school extramural director, $767, $824, $881; senior high-school yearbook, newspaper advisors, directors of major dramatic productions, $659, $716, $767; cheerleader advisor, forensics coach, visual aids assistant, $551, $592, $639; drill team, band, orchestra, chorus directors, $412, $448, $489; student council advisor, lunchroom-playground supervisor, $355, $386, $412; department chairman differential based on number in department from 2 through 18 for 10- and 11-month contracts, $566 (2 teachers) to $803 (18 teachers) with $15 or $16 adjustments per teacher and 10-month contract, $612 (2 teachers) and $884 (18 teachers) with $16 to $18 adjustments per teacher and 11-month contract.

LEAVES: 10 days' annual sick leave credited at beginning of year, unlimited accumulation; 5 days' bereavement leave (for regular full-time teachers) for each death in the immediate family; 2 days' professional leave for conferences and visitations; elementary teachers absent during scheduled parent-teachers conference periods will have a substitute provided upon return to make-up missed his conferences.

INSURANCE: Board-paid major medical, accident, and health insurance for single coverage and 70 percent of dependents' coverage; if both spouses are employed by the school system board pays the full premium; board pays 50 percent of $5,000 term life insurance; joint committee to study and make recommendations regarding hospitalization, life insurance, and disability insurance program.

INSTRUCTION: Textbooks to be reviewed every fifth year by a committee consisting of building teachers, principal or department heads, and/or subject field advisor; elementary supply budget committee to consist of teachers and principals.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with final decision by board without involving third party; 2 years' teaching experience in the school system required for supervision of student teachers; weekly vacancy lists to be posted in each school; application for transfer or reassignment to be filed by May 1 or within 10 days following posting of vacancy; teachers involuntarily transferred given a "reasonable amount of time off for the purpose of visiting schools within the district in which open positions exist;" professional growth plan for earning Education Specialist, Master's degree or equivalent, credentials must be evaluated by the Director of Personnel, final decision to be made by a committee appointed by the superintendent of schools and including both administrator and teachers.

Akron, Ohio

Between the Akron Board of Education and the Akron Education Association, effective February 1, 1971 to June 30, 1972. Approximately 2,425 certificated professional employees. Provision for reopener contingent upon funds being available for the improvement of scheduled salary and fringe benefits; agreements to be renewed automatically unless either party initiates negotiation for successor.

COMPENSATION: B.A., $7,350 to $12,020, 24 scheduled half-year increments; B.A. plus 30 hours, $12,120 maximum; M.A., $8,000 to $13,700, 24 half-year increments; Ph.D., $14,500 maximum.

Differentials: (effective July 1, 1971, based on B.A. base); football coach, high school, $[illegible],470 (.20); basketball coach, high school, $1,323 (.18); directors of athletics and marching band, high school, $588 (.08); soccer coach, junior high, $441 (.06); drama coach, high school, $220.50 (.03); activities supervisor, high school, $367.50 (.05); debate, vocal music, and instrumental music coaches (1 per high school), $294 (.04); cheerleading supervisor, $147 (.02).

Other: (effective July 1, 1971, except hourly rates effective June 14, 1971); substitute teachers, $23.50 per day first 10 work days, $33.50 daily thereafter on the same assignment; home instruction, $5.75 per hour; supervisor, adult education center, $6 per hour; counselor, 1.10 of "actual grid salary," but not less than actual salary plus $1,100; visiting teacher, 1.06 of grid salary; librarian, 2 percent of salary for each week beyond 38 weeks.

LEAVES: 1 1/4 days' sick leave per month of service, with 5 days credited immediately, 180 days' maximum accumulation; 5 consecutive days of sick leave may be used for serious illness or death in the immediate family; 8 separate days for "justifiable" personal business, e.g., emergencies, court appearances, travel conditions which make it impossible to report to work, religious holidays, attendance at graduation or wedding (teacher or family), selective service physical examination, appearance with civic, musical, or drama groups on a nonpaid basis; maximum of 31 days' paid leave per year for military reserve obligations; 1 separate day for school visitation or professional meetings; emergency leave available when weather or other "uncontrollable conditions" threaten teacher's residence or family; sabbatical leave at partial pay (teacher's expected salary less substitute pay) for 1 or 2 semesters after 5 years' service.

INSURANCE: Board-paid hospital, surgical, and major medical insurance ($100 deductible) for teachers and dependents; board-paid $2,000 life insurance for individual coverage including those over 65 years.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll deduction of state, local and national Associations' dues; 125 days' paid released time for Association representatives serving in official capacity, "additional days beyond 125 may be granted members elected to official bodies of OEA or the NEA;" Association business may be conducted during school hours if it does not disrupt school operations; Association president granted paid leave of absence and fringe benefits (board costs paid by the Association); school representatives not to be given extra duty or a homeroom assignment.

INSTRUCTION: No more than 6 classes or 3 preparations daily for secondary school teachers of academic subjects; one period of special duty (study hall), one conference period, and a homeroom assignment; joint curriculum committee to be composed of members appointed by the Association and by the Assistant Superintendent of Curriculum and Instruction in equal numbers to consider changes in curriculum, teachers affected to be consulted; school calendar to be determined by staff referendum; maximum enrollment for special education classes not to exceed 20; class size guidelines established by the North Central Association to be followed, and as funds become available, the board will reduce class sizes; pupil-teacher ratio to be determined annually after first 25 student days.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with advisory arbitration; teacher may review personnel file and rebut any derogatory material; monthly staff meetings to begin 10 to 15 minutes after dismissal and shall not exceed one hour, two meetings may be held in September or May at the principal's option; secondary school teachers to have a minimum of 5 preparation periods weekly; effort to be made to provide primary teachers with 100 minutes of "break" time per week; 1.5 days with pay for inservice training; transfer requests based on years of service in the system, "whenever the requests for transfer within a building exceeds 30 percent of the number of members within the building, an investigation of causes within the building shall be made during the ensuing school year by a committee" composed of members representing the Association and the Superintendent; promotion procedure for administrative positions:

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSIGNMENT POLICY

Assignment to Administrative Positions

The normal assignment to an elementary school principalship shall be through the cadet-principal program. Secondary school principals are usually selected from assistant principals within the school system. Members who are interested in becoming cadet principals, or assistant principals at the secondary level, shall communicate in writing with the Assistant Superintendent. An application form for an administrative position shall be forwarded to the member upon request.

Eligibility

Five years of successful teaching experience, two of which must be on the level of the position for which application is made.

Master's Degree and proper Ohio Certification.

Satisfactory service in the position held at the time of application.

Objective Evaluation

An objective test in the general area of administration and supervision shall be administered once during each school year; applicants shall be informed of the date, time and place, not less than two weeks before the test is given.

A candidate must obtain a score at or above the fiftieth percentile, as described by national norms for the test, to qualify for further administrative consideration for an administrative position. Each candidate shall be notified in writing of his percentile score within two weeks of the receipt of the test scores.

A person failing to achieve the desired score may retake the examination after a lapse of one year. The expense of the examination must be borne by the candidate.

Fee

Members who have completed five or more years of teaching and/or counseling service, and who have a Master's Degree and proper Ohio Certification, may participate in the testing program without charge.

Employees of the Akron Public Schools who do not meet the prerequisites for administrative appointments outlined previously, or administrative applicants from other school systems, may participate in the testing program upon receipt of a fee covering the cost of the test.

Field Rating

The field rating shall be based upon information obtained from evaluations made by principals and supervisors under whom the candidate has served. The rating will reflect the member's past performance in his assigned duties, as well as his potential for administrative leadership.

Intermediate Composite Score

An initial ranking of candidates shall be determined by the results of the written examination and the field rating. The field rating shall have a weight of 60%; the objective examination, 40%.

Credentials Committee

The Credentials Committee shall consist of the Assistant Superintendent, two elementary principals, one junior high school principal, one senior high school principal, and two member representatives to be recommended by the President. The committee shall meet annually to review the credentials of interested administrative candidates. The Credentials Committee shall prepare a list of names of various eligible candidates who shall appear before the Interview Committee.

Interview Committee

The Interview Committee shall consist of the Superintendent, Assistant Superintendent, directors of elementary and secondary education, and any additional members appointed by the Superintendent. The committee shall meet annually to interview prospective administrative candidates and to nominate personnel for future administrative or supervisory positions.

Final Composite Score

Final rank in determining eligibility shall be based upon the following factors:

Factor	Weight
Intermediate Composite Score	2/3
(a) written examination
(b) field ratings
Interview with Screening Committee . .	1/3

Annual Review

An annual review of the eligibility lists shall be conducted by the Superintendent and the Office of Professional Personnel.

Former Eligibility Lists

Applicants who have successfully passed the objective examination need not participate in that phase of the selection process for a period of five (5) years. If a candidate has not been selected for an administrative position within the five year time interval, his name will be removed from the list of eligible candidates, and he will be notified in writing of this action. The person whose name has been withdrawn from consideration may reactivate his file by submitting to the standardized test for administrative selection and subsequent interview with the Screening Committee.

Separate eligibility lists will be made for elementary and secondary levels. Application for an administrative position may be made for one level only.

maintenance of a pupil personnel file containing a record of student's behavior patterns and office referrals, for the use of all members of the professional staff who are directly concerned; corporal punishment may be administered by either the teacher or the principal in the presence of an adult, but never in the presence of other children; faculty committee selected by the superintendent or his representative to meet with an architect prior to design of new or remodeled schools; retirement at age 70; requirement of annual tuberculosis test or X-ray examination for all teachers.

Granite City, Utah

Between the Board of Education, Granite School District, and the Granite Education Association, effective July 1, 1971, to June 30, 1972. Approximately 2,550 certificated professional employees. Agreement to be extended on yearly basis unless written request for revision is filed 60 days prior to termination.

COMPENSATION: B.A., $6,410 to $9,615, 11 increments; B.A. plus 30, $10,128 maximum; M.A., $6,963 to $11,162, 14 increments; M.A., plus 30, $11,493 maximum; Ph.D., $12,167 maximum.

LEAVES: 10 days' sick leave, 35 days' maximum accumulation, if less than 3 years' service, 180 days if more than 3 years' service; additional day of sick leave granted for each contracted month beyond school year; 2 separate days for personal business; special use of sick leave for serious illness or death in the immediate family may be granted by principal; sabbatical leave at half pay for one year after 6 years' service.

INSURANCE: Board-paid hospital, surgical, and major medical insurance for individual coverage; Workman's compensation insurance provided for job-related injury; board-paid civil liability insurance; retirement benefits of 1/2 of one percent of final base salary times the number of years of service to a maximum of 30 years.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll deduction for Association dues; "Association will be allowed 120 days for teachers to be assigned to workshops, educational conferences and special related programs.

INSTRUCTION: Teachers to report to work 20 minutes before class and remain 30 minutes after closing; 6 daily teaching periods, no more than 2 subject areas and no more than 3 teaching preparations; joint review committee to recommend and implement a solution to excess class size over 1970-71 levels; whenever feasible a substantial reduction in number of first and second-grade combination classes; curriculum review committee composed equally of teachers, patrons, and administrators; regular teacher may use class time of special teacher as preparation period, or parent-teacher conference, or other consultation. Every effort to be made to reduce nonteaching duties; seniority to be considered for teaching assignments in terms of school, schedule, program, or grade level; assignment to adult and community schools to be given to qualified applicant employed by system during regular term with consideration to area of competence, major or minor fields of study, quality of performance, and ability to relate to students.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with advisory arbitration; personnel file to be available for teacher's inspection, and derogatory material to be removed when a teacher's refutation is sustained; 20-minute duty-free lunch periods, and when feasible, a 30-minute duty-free period for elementary teachers; 3-year probationary period with annual written evaluation to be reviewed by the teacher prior to submission to central office file; when applicants for promotion have equal qualifications, preference to be given to those already employed in the system; upon request the board may furnish legal counsel to a teacher in assault cases; teacher found guilty in criminal proceedings is subject to dismissal; right to run for and hold public office; annual physical health report required; disruptive student procedures (See reprint.)

Efforts will be made to find more effective procedures, within the law, to exclude students from regular classes who present a continuous history of disruptive classroom behavior.

A child who threatens or engages in physical violence to himself, his fellow students, or a teacher may be directed by the teacher to report immediately to the principal or other designated supervisor. Such pupil may not be returned to the classroom without consultation with the principal or his designee, the teacher, the parent and the pupil.

Pupils who so seriously disrupt the classroom work as to impede effective instruction may be reported by the teacher to the principal or other designated supervisor. Such report shall be in writing and shall contain substantiating data on the behavior of the child.

Upon receiving a report of disruptive behavior the principal or his designee, shall make a suitable investigation and shall promptly initiate a course of action that will best serve the needs of the school, the child and the teacher.

If the problem is not solved in this manner, after available courses of action have been taken and a decision has been reached by the principal that the child still so seriously disrupts the classroom work as to impede effective instruction, the child shall be referred to other facilities within the school. If no such facilities exist within the school, the principal shall refer the case to the Superintendent or his designee for disposition.

Each plan of action should involve the parents, the teacher, the child and other appropriate personnel. No final decision on placement or care should be arrived at without such participation.

If action by the principal is unduly delayed, or if the child is repeatedly returned to the same teacher's classroom, or if a series of actions by the principal does not resolve the issue, the teacher may appeal to the Superintendent. The Superintendent shall set up an appropriate procedure for review and disposition of such cases.

A written record shall be kept of all actions taken and the results of such actions in each case.

Insolence or rudeness (insubordination) to a teacher by a student may result in immediate suspension of the student for a period of time to be determined by the principal, not to exceed five days.

A joint committee will be established to study, develop, and recommend policies and procedures to deal with the needs of disruptive students. Preliminary recommendations of this committee shall be made to the Board and to the Association within three months of the establishment of the committee.

This committee shall be initially organized as soon as possible after the mutual adoption of this proposal, and at the beginning of each school year thereafter.

This Disruptive Student Committee shall be composed as follows: three classroom teachers appointed by the Association, three administrators appointed by the Board, three parents chosen by the Parent Teacher Association councils in the District, three high school students selected by their respective school counseling staffs, and one judge or referee from the Juvenile Court System.

The Juvenile Court representative may serve either as a regular member or by standing invitation. The other adult members will serve annual terms upon appointment by their appropriate authorities. The student members will be appointed annually, one from each of three high schools as these schools would be listed in alphabetical order.

The internal structure of this committee should be organized so as to provide some overlapping among the terms of new and old members in order to preserve continuity of intent.

In order to avoid interruption of on-going school programs this committee will hold meetings outside of regular school hours. The District will reimburse teachers requested to serve on this committee an appropriate rate mutually agreed upon by the Association and the Board.

SELECTED EXCHANGE TEACHING AND SERVICE PROGRAM LEAVE PROVISIONS CONTAINED IN NEGOTIATED AGREEMENTS

Analysis of 1,529 comprehensive agreements effective during the 1970-71 school year in systems enrolling 1,000 or more pupils found that 547 (42.4 percent) contained extended leave provisions for various exchange teaching or service programs. These programs included foreign and domestic exchange teaching, Department of Defense schools (serving dependents of military and government personnel outside the United States), VISTA, and Peace Corps. Table 1 shows the incidence of these leave provisions found in the agreements.

Leaves for exchange teaching and participation in service programs are generally non-compensatory and granted for periods of one to two years. Teachers are sometimes recruited by American-sponsored schools abroad. This recruitment is facilitated by pairing an American school with a foreign school in a school-to-school project; for example, one agreement contains the following provision:

> The Franklin Pierce School District maintains a school-to-school relationship with the American school of Vientiane. To further this relationship, the district encourages qualified personnel to accept teaching assignments for two years in the overseas school. Teachers accepted in this program will be considered as district teachers on temporary reassignment during their teaching tour in the overseas school. They will receive credit for their experience on the district salary schedule, may transfer all unused sick leave from Vietiane; receive their same position back upon return to the district, unless a waiver were signed prior to leaving for the overseas assignment; and be considered a district teacher during this period for seniority purposes. These provisions also apply to administrative assignments.
>
> (Tacoma, Washington)

It should be noted that board policies may have detailed regulations governing such long-term leaves.

TABLE 1.—NEGOTIATED LEAVE PROVISIONS CONCERNING TEACHER EXCHANGE AND SERVICE PROGRAMS IN COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS, 1970-71

Item	Number	Percent
1	2	3
TOTAL COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS ANALYZED	1,529	100.0%
Total Agreements Containing Provisions on Exchange Teaching and Service Programs	547	42.4
Peace Corps	437	34.0
Exchange teaching, general	320	24.8
VISTA	202	15.6
Exchange teaching, foreign	158	12.2
Exchange teaching, domestic	108	8.4
Department of Defense schools	64	5.0
Extent of Coverage of Agreements:
General, domestic, and foreign exchange teaching, VISTA, Peace Corps, and Department of Defense schools	111	20.3
General, domestic, and foreign exchange teaching, VISTA, and Peace Corps	141	25.7
General and foreign exchange teaching, VISTA, Peace Corps, and Department of Defense schools	46	8.4
Domestic and foreign exchange teaching, VISTA, and Peace Corps	88	16.1
Foreign exchange teaching only	18	3.3
Peace Corps only	94	17.2
General exchange teaching only	49	9.0
TOTAL	547	100.0%

The leave usually coincides with the academic year. The teacher is usually required to submit a written application between March 15 and April 1, or at least 60 days prior to the start of the leave. Notification of teacher's return is usually submitted at the same time as his application for leave, or at some undefined time prior to expiration of the leave. Generally, a returning teacher is offered a position comparable to the one he occupied, and at the salary step which he would have reached had he remained at the school.

A selection of the content found in typical provisions follows:

- Tenure or continuous years of service is required prior to submission of request for leave.
- The application must contain a statement of intent to return to the system.
- Exchange teachers are generally chosen on the basis of seniority and teaching ability.
- School board has final approval on selection of teachers.
- Verification of plans or statement of purpose is required by some systems in order to grant leave.
- The number of teachers participating in an exchange program at any given period of time is limited.
- Leave for exchange teaching or service program is generally granted for one year, renewable for an additional year.
- The exchange teacher coming to the school system must have ability comparable to that of the exchange teacher and be approved by the superintendent.
- The exchange teacher is paid his salary by his own school system if counterpart is paid by his.
- Full salary credit may be allowed for the leave period upon return to the school system.
- Fringe benefits, previously accumulated are retained during the period of leave.

Examples of the type of provisions included in the agreements are reprinted below.

LEAVE FOR PARTICIPATION IN THE ARMED FORCES DEPENDENTS SCHOOL PROGRAM

Upon the recommendation of the Superintendent and approval of the Board, employees under tenure may be granted a leave of absence to participate in the Dependents School Program of the Armed Forces.

A teacher applying for a leave of absence must submit a letter requesting the leave to the Superintendent of Schools.

Leave of absence for this purpose shall be for the minimum tour of duty only and for not more than once in a five year period.

A teacher granted such a leave shall return to his specific position, if at all possible.

The teacher shall be placed on the same salary level which he would have attained during his leave without loss of seniority providing the teacher on leave teaches not less than 120 full time days in the same teaching position while on leave.

(Oregon, Ohio)

EXCHANGE TEACHER LEAVE

Upon application leave without pay for exchange teacher positions under either national or international programs may be granted to tenure teachers. Said leave will only be granted when the exchange teacher coming into the system is acceptable to the Board.

The regular salary increment shall accrue.

No benefits such as, but not necessarily limited to, paid leave shall be granted or accrue for the period of time spent in exchange teacher leave.

Upon return from leave the teacher shall be restored to his position or a position of like nature, seniority, and pay. When said teacher is reinstated all previously accrued benefits such as, but not necessarily limited to, paid leave shall be reinstated.

(Albion, Michigan)

Leave of absence of up to one (1) year will be granted to any teacher who serves as an exchange teacher or joins the Peace Corps and who is a full-time participant in either of such programs. If the employee has completed five (5) or more consecutive years of service, he may, upon recommendation of the Superintendent and with the approval of the Board, be paid for the leave of absence for exchange teaching. Upon return to the Corporation persons who have been granted leaves of absence for the Peace Corps or exchange teachers in programs under the auspices of the United States government will be considered as if they were actively employed by the Board during the period of leave and will be placed on the salary schedule at the level they would have achieved had they not been absent. Credit on the salary schedule as described herein shall be reflected in the salary schedule published by the South Bend Community School Corporation. Such leaves may be extended by the Superintendent on request.

(South Bend, Indiana)

A leave of absence without pay of up to two (2) years will be granted to any tenure teacher who joins the Peace Corps, and a leave of absence up to one (1) year will be granted to any tenure teacher who serves as an exchange teacher or an overseas teacher, and is a fulltime participant in any such program. Upon return from such leave, a teacher will be considered for salary purposes as if he were actively employed by the Committee during the leave and will be placed on the salary schedule at the level he would have achieved if he had not been absent.

(Sommerville, Massachusetts)

TEXTS

WISCONSIN

Amendments to Collective Bargaining in Municipal Employment

[effective Nov. 11, 1971]

Sec. 111.70 MUNICIPAL EMPLOYMENT (1) Definitions.—As used in this subchapter:

(a) "Municipal employer" means any city, county, village, town, metropolitan sewerage district, school district, or any other political subdivision of the state which engages the services of an employe and includes any person acting on behalf of a municipal employer within the scope of his authority, express or implied. [Reads as amended by Ch. 124, L. 1971, effective November 11, 1971.]

(b) "Municipal employe" means any individual employed by a municipal employer other than an independent contractor, supervisor, or confidential, managerial or executive employe. [Reads as amended by Ch. 124, L. 1971, effective November 11, 1971.]

(c) "Commission" means the employment relations commission.

(d) "Collective bargaining" means the performance of the mutual obligation of a municipal employer, through its officers and agents and the representatives of its employes, to meet and confer at reasonable times, in good faith, with respect to wages, hours and conditions of employment with the intention of reaching an agreement, or to resolve questions arising under such an agreement. The duty to bargain, however, does not compel either party to agree to a proposal or require the making of a concession. Collective bargaining includes the reduction of any agreement reached to a written and signed document. The employer shall not be required to bargain on subjects reserved to management and direction of the governmental unit except insofar as the manner of exercise of such functions affects the wages, hours and conditions of employment of the employes. In creating this subchapter the legislature recognizes that the public employer must exercise its powers and responsibilities to act for the government and good order of the municipality, its commercial benefit and the health, safety and welfare of the public to assure orderly operations and functions within its jurisdiction, subject to those rights secured to public employes by the constitutions of this state and of the United States and by this subchapter.

(e) "Collective bargaining unit" means the unit determined by the commission to be appropriate for the purpose of collective bargaining.

(f) "Craft employe" means a skilled journeyman craftsman, including his apprentices and helpers, but shall not include employes not in direct line of progression in the craft.

(g) "Election" means a proceeding conducted by the commission in which the employes in a collective bargaining unit cast a secret ballot for collective bargaining representatives, or for any other purpose specified in this subchapter.

(h) "Fair-share agreement" means an agreement between a municipal employer and a labor organization under which all or any of the employes in the collective bargaining unit are required to pay their proportionate share of the cost of the collective bargaining process and contract administration measured by the amount of dues uniformly required of all members. Such an agreement shall contain a provision requiring the employer to deduct the amount of dues as certified by the labor organization from the earnings of the employes affected by said agreement and to pay the amount so deducted to the labor organization.

(i) "Labor dispute" means any controversy concerning wages, hours and conditions of employment, or concerning the representation of persons in negotiating, maintaining, changing or seeking to arrange wages, hours and conditions of employment.

(j) "Labor organization" means any employe organization in which employes participate and which exists for the purpose, in whole or in part, of engaging in collective bargaining with municipal employers concerning grievances, labor disputes, wages, hours or conditions of employment.

(k) "Person" means one or more individuals, labor organizations, associations, corporations or legal representatives.

(l) "Professional employee" means:

1. Any employe engaged in work:

a. Predominantly intellectual and varied in character as opposed to routine mental, manual, mechanical or physical work;

b. Involving the consistent exercise of discretion and judgment in its performance;

c. Of such a character that the output produced or the result accomplished cannot be standardized in relation to a given period of time;

d. Requiring knowledge of an advanced type in a field of science or learing customarily acquired by a prolonged course of specialized intellectual instruction and study in an institution of higher education or a hospital, as distinguished from a general academic education or from an apprenticeship or from training in the performance of routine mental, manual or physical process; or

2. Any employe who:

a. Has completed the courses of specialized intellectual instruction and study described in subd. 1. d;

b. Is performing related work under the supervision of a professional person to qualify himself to become a professional employe as defined in subd. 1.

(m) "Prohibited practice" means any practice prohibited under this subchapter.

(n) "Referendum" means a proceeding conducted by the commission in which employes in a collective bargaining unit may cast a secret ballot on the question of authorizing a labor organization and the employer to continue a fair-share agreement. Unless a majority of the eligible employes vote in favor of the fair-share agreement, it shall be deemed terminated and that portion of the collective bargaining agreement deemed null and void.

(o) "Supervisor" means:

1. As to other than municipal and county firefighters, any individual who has authority, in the interest of the municipal employer, to hire, transfer, suspend, lay off, recall, promote, discharge, assign, reward or discipline other employes, or to adjust their grievances or effectively to recommend such action, if in connection with the foregoing the exercise of such authority is not of a merely routine or clerical nature, but requires the use of independent judgment.

2. As to firefighters employed by municipalities with more than one fire station, the term "supervisor" shall include all officers above the rank of the highest ranking officer at each single station. In municipalities where there is but one fire station, the term "supervisor" shall include only the chief and the officer in rank immediately below the chief. No other firefighter shall be included under the term "supervisor" for the purposes of this subchapter. [111.70 (1)(d) to (o) reads as added by Ch. 124, L. 1971, effective November 11, 1971.]

(2) RIGHTS OF MUNICIPAL EMPLOYES.—Municipal employees shall have the right of self-organization, and the right to form, join or assist labor organizations, to bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing, and to engage in lawful, concerted activities for the purpose of collective bargaining or other mutual aid or protection, and such employes shall have the right to refrain from any and all such activities except that employes may be required to pay dues in the manner provided in a fair-share agreement. Such fair-share agreement shall be subject to the right of the municipal employer or a labor organization to petition the commission to conduct a referendum. Such petition must be supported by proof that at least 30% of the employes in the collective-bargaining unit desired that the fair-share agreement be terminated. Upon so finding, the commission shall conduct a referendum. If the continuation of the agreement is not supported by at least the majority of the eligible employes, it shall be deemed terminated. The commission shall declare any fair-share agreement suspended upon such conditions and for such time as the commission decides whenever it finds that the labor organization involved has refused on the basis of race, color, creed or sex to receive as a member any employe of the municipal employer in the bargaining unit involved, and such agreement shall be made subject to this duty of the commission. Any of the parties to such agreement or any municipal employe covered thereby may come before the commission, as provided in section 111.07, and ask the performance of this duty. [Reads as amended by Ch. 124, L. 1971, effective November 11, 1971.]

(3) PROHIBITED PRACTICES AND THEIR PREVENTION.—(a) It is a prohibited practice for a municipal employer individually or in concert with others:

1. To interfere with, restrain or coerce municipal employes in the exercise of their rights guaranteed in sub. (2).

2. To initiate, create, dominate or interfere with the formation or administration of any labor or employe organization or contribute financial support to it, but the employer shall not be prohibited from reimbursing its employes at their prevailing wage rate for the time spent conferring with the employes, officers or agents. Supervisors may remain members of the same labor organization of which their subordinates are members, but such supervisor shall not participate in determinations of the collective bargaining policies of such labor organization or resolution of grievances of employes. After January 1, 1974, said supervisors shall not remain members of such organizations.

3. To encourage or discourage a membership in any labor organization by discrimination in regard to hiring, tenure, or other terms or conditions of employment; but the prohibition shall not apply to a fair-share agreement.

4. To refuse to bargain collectively with a representative of a majority of its employes in an appropriate collective bargaining unit. Such refusal shall include action by the employer to issue or seek to obtain contracts, including those provided for by statute, with individuals in the collective bargaining unit while collective bargaining, mediation or fact-finding concerning the terms and conditions of a new collective bargaining agreement is in progress, unless such individual contracts contain express language providing that the contract is subject to amendment by a subsequent collective bargaining agreement. Where the employer has a good faith doubt as to whether a labor organization claiming the support of a majority of its employes in an appropriate bargaining unit does in fact have that support, it may file with the commission a petition requesting an election to that claim. An employer shall not be deemed to have refused to bargain until an election has been held and the results thereof certified to the employer by the commission. The violation shall include, though not be limited thereby to the refusal to execute a collective bargaining agreement previously agreed upon. The term of any collective bargaining agreement shall not exceed 3 years.

5. To violate any collective bargaining agreement previously agreed upon by the parties with respect to wages, hours and conditions of employment affecting municipal employees, including an agreement to arbitrate questions arising as to the meaning or application of the terms of a collective bargaining agreement or to accept the terms of such arbitration award, where previously the parties have agreed to accept such award as final and binding upon them.

6. To deduct labor organization dues from an employe's or supervisor's earnings, unless the municipal employer has been presented with an individual order therefor, signed by the municipal employe personally, and terminable by at least the end of any year of its life or earlier by the municipal employe giving at least 30 days' written notice of such termination to the municipal employer and to the representative organization, except where there is a fair-share agreement in effect.

(b) It is a prohibited practice for a municipal employe, individually or in concert with others:

1. To coerce or intimidate a municipal employe in the enjoyment of his legal rights, including those guaranteed in sub. (2).

2. To coerce, intimidate or induce any officer or agent of a municipal employer to interfere with any of its employes in the enjoyment of their legal rights, including those guaranteed in sub. (2), or to engage in any practice with regard to its employes which would constitute a prohibited practice if undertaken by him on his own initiative.

3. To refuse to bargain collectively with the duly authorized officer or agent of a municipal employer, provided it is the recognized or certified exclusive collective bargaining representative of employes in an appropriate collective bargaining unit. Such refusal to bargain shall include, but not be limited to, the refusal to execute a collective bargaining agreement previously agreed upon.

4. To violate any collective bargaining agreement previously agreed upon by the parties with respect to wages, hours and conditions of employment affecting municipal employes, including an agreement to arbitrate questions arising as to the meaning or application of the terms of a collective bargaining agreement or to accept the terms of such arbitration award, where previously the parties have agreed to accept such awards as final and binding upon them.

5. To coerce or intimidate an independent contractor, supervisor, confidential, managerial or executive employe, officer or agent of the municipal employer, to induce him to become a member of the labor organization of which employes are members.

(c) It is a prohibited practice for any person to do or cause to be done on behalf of or in the interest of municipal employers or municipal employes, or in connection with or to influence the outcome of any controversy as to employment relations, any act prohibited by par (a) or (b).

(d) Nothing in this subchapter shall preclude law enforcement or firefighting supervisors from organizing separate units of supervisors for purposes of negotiating with their municipal employers. The commission shall by rule establish procedures for certification of such units of supervisors and the levels of supervisors to be included. The commission may require that the representative in a supervisory unit shall be an organization that is a separate local entity from the representative of the employes but such requirement shall not prevent affiliation by a supervisory representative with the same parent state or national organization as the employer representative. [111.70(3) reads as recreated by Ch. 124, L. 1971, effective November 11, 1971.]

(4) POWERS OF COMMISSION.—The commission shall be governed by the following provisions relating to bargaining in municipal employment in addition to other powers and duties provided in this subchapter:

(a) Prevention of Prohibited Practices.—Section 111.70 shall govern procedure in all cases involving prohibited practices under this subchapter except that wherever the term "unfair labor practices" appears in section 111.70 the term "prohibited practices" shall be substituted. [Reads as amended by Ch. 124, L. 1971, effective November 11, 1971.]

(b) Mediation.—Whenever a dispute arises between a municipal employer and a union of its employes concerning the duty to bargain on any subject, the dispute shall be resolved by the commission on petition for a declaratory ruling. The decision of the commission shall be issued within 15 days of submission and shall have the effect of an order issued under s. 111.07. The filing of a petition under this paragraph shall not prevent the inclusion of the same allegations in a complaint involving prohibited practices in which it is alleged that the failure to bargain on the subjects of the declaratory ruling is part of a series of acts or pattern of conduct prohibited by this subchapter.

(c) Methods for Peaceful Settlement of Disputes.—1. "Mediation." The commission may function as a mediator in labor disputes. Such mediation may be carried on by a person designated to act by the commission upon request of one or both of the parties or upon initiation of the commission. The function of the mediator shall be to encourage voluntary settlement by the parties but no mediator shall have the power of compulsion.

2. "Arbitration." Parties to a dispute pertaining to the meaning or application of the terms of a written collective bargaining agreement may agree in writing to have the commission or any other appropriate agency serve as arbitrator or may designate any other competent, impartial and disinterested person to so serve.

3. "Fact-finding." If a dispute has not been settled after a reasonable period of negotiation and after the settlement procedures, if any, established by the parties have been exhausted, and the parties are deadlocked with respect to any dispute between them arising in the collective bargaining process, either party, or the parties jointly, may petition the commission, in writing, to initiate fact-finding, as provided hereafter, and to make recommendations to resolve the deadlock.

a. Upon receipt of a petition to initiate fact-finding, the commission shall make an investigation with or without a formal hearing, to determine whether a deadlock in fact exists. After its investigation the commission shall certify the results thereof. If the commission decides that fact-finding should be initiated, it shall appoint a qualified, disinterested person or 3-member panel, when jointly requested by the parties, to function as a fact-finder.

b. The fact finder may establish dates and place of hearings which shall be where feasible, and shall conduct the hearings pursuant to rules established by the commission. Upon request, the commission shall issue subpoenas for hearings conducted by the fact finder. The fact finder may administer oaths. Upon completion of the hearing, the fact finder shall make written findings of fact and recommendations for solution of the dispute and shall cause the same to be served on the parties and the commission. Cost of fact-finding proceedings shall be divided equally between the parties. At the time the fact finder submits a statement of his costs to the parties, he shall submit a copy thereof to the commission at its Madison office.

c. Nothing herein shall be construed as prohibiting any fact finder from endeavoring to mediate the dispute, in which he is involved, at any time prior to the issuance of his recommendations.

d. Within 30 days of the receipt of the fact finder's recommendations, or within the time period mutually agreed upon by the parties, each party shall advise the other, in writing as to its acceptance or rejection, in whole or in part, of the fact finder's recommendations and, at the same time, transmit a copy of such notice to the commission at its Madison office.

(d) Selection of representatives and determination of appropriate units for collective bargaining. —1. A representative chosen for the purposes of collective bargaining by a majority of the municipal employes voting in a collective bargaining unit shall be the exclusive representative of all employes in the unit for the purpose of collective bargaining. Any individual employe, or any minority group of employes in any collective bargaining unit, shall have the right to present grievances to the municipal employer in person or through representatives of their own choosing, and the municipal employer shall confer with said employe in relation thereto, if the majority representative has been afforded the opportunity to be present at the conferences. Any adjustment resulting from these conferences shall not be inconsistent with the conditions of employment established by the majority representative and the municipal employer.

2. a. The commission shall determine the appropriate bargaining unit for the purpose of collective bargaining and shall whenever possible avoid fragmentation by maintaining as few units as practicable in keeping with the size of the total municipal work force. In making such a determination, the commission may decide whether, in a particular case, the employes in the same or several departments, divisions, institutions, crafts, professions or other occupational groupings constitute a unit. Before making its determination, the commission may provide an opportunity for the employes concerned to determine, by secret ballot, whether or not they desire to be established as a separate collective bargaining unit. The commission shall not decide, however, that any unit is appropriate if the unit includes both professional employes and nonprofessional employes, unless a majority of the professional employes vote for inclusion in the unit. The commission shall not decide that any unit is appropriate if the unit includes both craft and noncraft employes unless a majority of the craft employes vote for inclusion in the unit. Any vote taken under this subsection shall be by secret ballot.

b. Any election held under subd. 2. a. shall be conducted by secret ballot taken in such a manner as to show separately the wishes of the employes voting as to the unit they prefer.

c. A collective bargaining unit shall be subject to termination or modification as provided in this subchapter.

d. Nothing in this section shall be construed as prohibiting 2 or more collective bargaining units from bargaining collectively through the same representative.

3. Whenever, in a particular case, a question arises concerning representation or appropriate unit, calling for a vote, the commission shall certify the results in writing to the municipal employer and the labor organization involved and to any other interested parties. Any ballot used in a representation proceeding shall include the names of all persons having an interest in representing or the results. The ballot should be so designed as to permit a vote against representation by any candidate named on the ballot. The findings of the commission, on which a certification is based, shall be conclusive unless reviewed as provided by s. 111.07(8).

4. Whenever the result of an election conducted pursuant to subd. 3 is inconclusive, the commission, on request of any party to the proceeding, may conduct a runoff election. Any such request must be made within 30 days from the date of certification. In a runoff election the commission may drop from the ballot the name of the candidate or choice receiving the least number of votes.

5. Questions as to representation may be raised by petition of the municipal employer or any municipal employe or any representative thereof. Where it appears by the petition that a situation exists requiring prompt action so as to prevent or terminate an emergency, the commission shall act upon the petition forthwith. The fact that an election has been held shall not prevent the holding of another election among the same group of employes, if it appears to the commission that sufficient reason for another election exists. [111.70(4)(b) to (d) reads as amended and recreated by Ch. 124, L. 1971, effective November 11, 1971.]

(1) Right to Strike.–Nothing contained in this subchapter shall constitute a grant of the right to strike by any county or municipal employe and such strikes are hereby expressly prohibited.

(5) PROCEDURE.–Municipal employers, jointly or individually, may employ a qualified person to discharge the duties of labor negotiator and to represent such municipal employers, jointly or individually, in conferences and negotiations under this section. In cities of the 1st, 2nd or 3rd class any member including the mayor of the city council who resigns therefrom may, during the term for which he is elected, be eligible to the position of labor negotiator under this subsection, which position during said term has been created by or the selection to which is vested in such city council, and section 66.11(2) shall be deemed inapplicable thereto. [Reads as amended by Ch. 124, L. 1971, effective November 11, 1971.]

(6) DECLARATION OF POLICY.–The public policy of the state as to labor disputes arising in municipal employment is to encourage voluntary settlement through the procedures of collective bargaining. Accordingly, it is in the public interest that municipal employes so desiring be given an opportunity to bargain collectively with the municipal employer through a labor organization or other representative of the employes' own choice. If such procedures fail, the parties should have available to them a fair, speedy, effective and, above all, peaceful procedure for settlement as provided in this subchapter. [Reads as added by Ch. 124, L. 1971, effective November 11, 1971.]

SEC. 111.71 GENERAL PROVISIONS.–(1) The commission may adopt reasonable rules relative to the exercise of its powers and authority and its proceedings thereunder.

VOL. 5 NO. 8
APRIL 1972

NRD
NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST

CONTENTS

Page

Case Reviews 3
- State Superintendent's Strike Settlement Barred
- Kansas Negotiation Law Does Not Mandate An Agreement
- NIRC Jurisdiction Applied Upon Negotiation Impasse
- PERB Authorized to Review Constitutionally Questionable Teacher Dismissals
- Minority Union Denied Use of School Facilities; Constitutional Rights Are Not Abridged
- Issuance of Individual Contracts Prior to Completion of Negotiation is Not Improper

Board Findings and Rulings 6
- PERB Determined Appropriate Bargaining Units
- Association Ordered to Cease Interfering With School Student Teacher Program
- Teacher Reinstated For Board's Failure to Follow Dismissal Procedures
- Strictness Is Not Just Cause for Dismissal
- NLRB Holds Dismissal For Union Activity Discriminatory
- Arbitrator Rejects School Nurse's Grievance
- NLRB Refuses Jurisdiction Over "Quasi-Public" Institution

Negotiation Notes 10
- Anti-Moonlighting Provision Unconstitutional
- State-Operated Hospitals Subject to the Fair Labor Standards Act
- New York City Collective Bargaining Law Amended
- Residency Requirement is a Management Prerogative
- Grandfather Agency Shop Clause Banned Under PERA
- Pennsylvania Public Employee Rules and Regulations Amended
- IRS Orders Correction of 5.5 Percent Pay Violation
- Attorney General's Opinions
- Federal Pay Board Guidelines

Statistics 13
- Pupil-Staff Ratio Provisions
- Pay Differences Between Men and Women

Special Reports 16
- Briefs of Recent Agreements
- Hiring and Advancement Provisions
- Sick Leave Bank Provisions

RESEARCH DIVISION
NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

Copyright © 1972 by the
National Education Association
All Rights Reserved

2190

CASE REVIEWS

ILLINOIS

Court Dismisses State Superintendents Strike Settlement

The Illinois Circuit Court dismissed a suit brought by the Superintendent of Public Instruction of the State of Illinois against the Decatur Board of Education. The superintendent sought a mandatory injunction to force the board to accept the terms of a proposed contract to settle a strike by the Decatur Education Association (DEA).

The court held that the superintendent neither had the authority to determine the prevailing differences between the board and the DEA, nor impose his solution upon them. The court ruled that its powers did not extend to imposing a solution to an illegal strike, even though it may enjoin the strike. Further, the court held that its function was to interpret or enforce the law, not to create or legislate power where none exists.

KANSAS

Mandatory Negotiation Law Does Not Require Collective Bargaining Agreement

The first judicial interpretation of the Kansas Professional Negotiations Act for Teachers found that mandatory collective bargaining does not require the parties involved to agree on all topics negotiated. According to Section 1 of the Act, "professional negotiations" is defined as "meeting, conferring, consulting, and discussing in a good faith effort to reach agreement with respect to the terms and conditions of professional service."

In accordance with state statutes, the Johnson County District Court issued a permanent writ of mandamus ordering the Shawnee Mission School District and the National Education Association of Shawnee Mission (NEA-SM) to continue to negotiate the "terms and conditions of professional service."

This permanent writ perpetuated a temporary writ of mandamus. The court noted that subsequent to issuance of the permanent writ, the district's negotiation with the Association had been an "honest, sincere and industrious. . . effort to explore possibilities on areas in dispute," and had continued past the court appointed deadline. The court added that the failure of the parties to agree on all topics discussed was "not, in and of itself the equivalent of bad faith."

The impasse came about when the school district declared that it was "not compelled to maintain collective negotiations with the plaintiff association over matters of basic policy." However, the court emphasized that negotiation on the "terms and conditions of professional service" was mandatory, and covered the areas of > salaries and wages; hours and amounts of work; vacation allowance; holiday, sick and other leave; number of holidays; retirement; insurance benefits; wearing apparel; pay for overtime; jury duty and grievance procedure and such other areas that directly or by implication involve these factors.

The court specified that the school district's educational policies were nonnegotiable since basic policy decisions are the "exclusive legal responsibility of the school board in the exercise of its delegated authority."

The court rejected the school board's contention that its constitutionally established governance of the school district was negated by the Act, rendering the Act unconstitutional. The board argued that interference by the court or plaintiff restricted its contractual liability. The court explained that the "collective bargaining statues in no way impair or per se take away the power of the school district. The statutes merely provide for mandatory negotiations in anticipation that [the Association] may influence that power, but the power itself rests with the Board."

Pointing out "that difficulties in the nature of procedure and interpretation. . . ensue" during the Act's first year, the court decided that the parties negotiated in good faith, and issued a permanent writ of mandamus for the continuation of negotiation. (National Education Association of Shawnee Mission v. Board of Education of Shawnee Mission Unified School District No. 512, District Court of Johnson County, December 10, 1971.)

NEBRASKA

Court Jurisdiction Applied Upon Negotiation Collapse

The Nebraska Industrial Relations Court (NIRC) ruled in two separate cases that items disputed during negotiation between school boards and their recognized employee organizations were not matters within the court's jurisdiction until negotiation procedures were exhausted on all items as stipulated by the Nebraska Teachers' Professional Negotiations Act (NRD, 1-72, 5).

• In a joint suit involving the Central City, Lyons, and Saunders County School Districts, the employee organizations contended that procedures had been exhausted and that the dispute was separate from the agreed agenda. However, in its ruling, the NIRC noted that all negotiable items disputed between the parties constituted a single dispute over the accepted "areas of discussion," and therefore, bargaining had proceeded under proper negotiation procedures.

The court further ruled "that no other issues, as to what events or circumstances constitute an 'exhaustion' of the provisions of the Negotiations Act 'without resolution of the dispute involved,'" were decided. The court held disposition of these cases in abeyance until such time as the negotiation procedures for all items were exhausted. (Central City Education Association v. School District of Central City, Lyons Classroom Teachers Association v. School District of Lyons, Ashland-Greenwood Education Association v. Saunders County School District No. 1, Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations, March 12, 1971.)

• In the second case, the NIRC ruled that negotiation between the Holdrege Education Association and Holdrege School District was not governed by the Nebraska Teachers' Professional Negotiations Act since a previous court case established the court's jurisdiction over salaries and other terms of employment.

The dispute arose when the school district agreed to negotiate salary schedules, but refused to negotiate on other items. The court, having already asserted its jurisdiction as prescribed under Chapter 48 of the state statutes, ordered the school district to negotiate in good faith with the Association in regard to salaries and other terms and conditions of employment. (Holdrege Education Association v. School District of Holdrege, Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations, April 26, 1971.)

NEW YORK

Constitutional Rights Protected from Unilateral Dismissal

In two separate cases, New York State courts upheld a school board's right to dismiss probationary teachers without cause, but ruled that no teacher may be dismissed in retaliation for exercise of constitutional rights.

• The New York Supreme Court, Suffolk County, stayed binding arbitration of a probationary teacher dismissal case brought by the Three Villages Teachers Association (TVTA) against Central School District No. 1, Town of Brookhaven and Smithtown.

The Association claimed the school board violated a contract provision which held that "continuation of appointment and the granting of tenure shall depend upon performance of the teacher." The TVTA contended that the teacher's performance was "satisfactory and competent." This alleged breach of contract, the Association claimed, was in turn a violation of the Taylor Law, and subject to binding grievance arbitration. However, the court pointed to the precedent established in Board of Education v. Associated Teachers of Huntington, Inc., wherein a tenured teacher was dismissed, and the binding arbitration provision of a Taylor Law agreement was voided since it contradicted public policy. Thus, the court held a fortiori that a probationary teacher dismissal grievance was not arbitrable. (Central School District No. 1, Town of Brookhaven and Smithtown, Suffolk County v. Three Village Teachers Association, Inc., New York Supreme Court, Suffolk County, July 14, 1971.)

• The Appellate Division ruled that union activity was not a legitimate reason for teacher dismissal. The appeals court ordered a lower court to reverse its prior ruling denying relief to a teacher dismissed because of her participation in the Monroe-Woodbury Teacher Association. This ruling confirmed the arbitrability of cases involving questions of teachers constitutional rights.

The Monroe-Woodbury Central School District No. 1 denied the grievant tenure in spite of a favorable recommendation by the Superintendent. The board maintained that the "quality of instruction was the only factor considered." However when the grievant petitioned the court to compel the board to grant her tenure, the board took the stance that "it had the absolute right to deny tenure to a probationary teacher for any or no reason."

The lower court dismissed the grievant's petition alleging discrimination as it failed to state a cause of action.

On appeal, the court ruled that school board lacked discretion "to regulate, discipline or otherwise interfere with a teacher's union activity by resorting to means outside the procedure set up by the Taylor Law." Furthermore, a board must have bona fide, legitimate reasons for discharging teachers.

The appellate court remanded the case to the lower court with instructions to reverse its prior decision. (Marian Tischler v. Board of Education of the Monroe-Woodbury Central School District No. 1, New York Supreme Court, Appellate Division, July 23, 1971.)

PERB Authorized to Review Constitutionally Questionable Teacher Dismissals

The Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) has the authority to review probationary teacher dismissals when there is question of a violation of constitutional rights. This New York Supreme Court, Appellate Division, ruling diluted the school boards' formerly absolute discretion to dismiss probationary teachers without citing reasons.

The appellate court reversed a lower court order enjoining the PERB from reviewing improper practice charges filed by the Grand Island Teachers Association (GITA). The GITA charged that the Central School District No. 1, Town of Grand Island, Board of Education "improperly" dismissed five probationary teachers "solely because of their activity in support of the [Association]." PERB directed the school board to answer the charges at a hearing. Thereafter, the school board successfully contested PERB's jurisdiction of probationary teacher dismissal cases in a lower court.

On appeal, the court relied on precedent cases, including Matter of Tischler v. Board of Education Monroe-Woodbury Central School District No. 1, wherein it was maintained "that a school board may not discriminate against teachers for exercising their right to belong or participate in a teacher's union." However, the court cautioned that union membership should not prevent a school board from discharging teachers when there is a valid basis for dismissal. The PERB was designated as the proper authority for determining whether or not a teacher had been improperly dismissed in retaliation for union activity. (Board of Education, Central School District No. 1 for the Town of Grand Island v. Robert D. Helsby et al. and Grand Island Teachers Association, New York Supreme Court, Appellate Division, December 2, 1971.)

FEDERAL

Minority Union Denied Use of School Facilities; Constitutional Rights Are Not Abridged

The United States District Court, District of Delaware, rejected a suit brought by the Federation of Delaware Teachers (FDT) alleging that denial of privileges interfered with the FDT's constitutional right to organize and communicate with teachers. The court held that the De La Warr Board of Education, by denying the FDT privileges granted the De La Warr Education Association (DLWEA), the exclusive bargaining representative, did not violate the FDT's First and Fourteenth Amendment rights. The disputed privileges included: use of inter-school mail facilities, school mail boxes, bulletin boards, building, and equipment. In addition, the court denied the FDT's motion for a preliminary injunction against the alleged recertification of the Association.

The FDT pointed out that Title 14, Section 4009 of the Delaware Code mandates that a school board "shall not interfere, restrain or coerce employees in the right to organize." However, the court found "meagre evidence" to indicate the school board in any way prevented or interfered with the FDT's attempts to organize teachers.

Relying on the precedent established in Local 858 of the American Federation of Teachers v. School District No. 1 in the County of Denver (NRD, 9-70, 3), the court rejected the FDT's complaint that its constitutional rights had been abridged. In the Denver case, the court pointed out that use of certain school facilities was "distinct from pure speech rights." The court noted that First and Fourteenth Amendment rights can be set aside by state action when the state can show a compelling interest that outweighs the asserted right. In the instant case, "the denial of similar rights to the FDT served to promote a compelling state interest, the desire to keep school buildings and grounds from becoming a 'labor battlefield.'"

In light of the above findings, the court concluded that recertification of the DLWEA constituted "no violation of the plaintiffs' rights that would justify [injunctive] relief." (Federation of Delaware Teachers et al. v. De La Warr Board of Education et al. and De La Warr Education Association, Intervenor, United States District Court, District of Delaware, November 8, 1971.)

Issuance of Individual Contracts Prior to Completion of Negotiation is Not Improper

The United States Court of Appeals, Seventh Circuit, affirmed a district court's dismissal of an improper labor practice charge. The decision was appealed by the Hanover Township Federation of Teachers, Local 1954, AFT, AFL-CIO (HTFT), which originally charged the Hanover County School Corporation with failure to bargain in good faith when it sent out individual contracts prior to the completion of collective bargaining.

The district court had ordered the reinstatement of 9 teachers dismissed in retribution for union activity, and enjoined the district from discriminating against the union. However, the lower court dismissed the unfair labor practice charge after finding no constitutional issues existed (NRD, 3-71, 8).

The appellate court confirmed the precedent established in Indianapolis Education Association v. Lewallen that "there is no constitutional duty to bargain collectively with an exclusive bargaining agent." The appellate court further noted that the contracts submitted to union members were not discriminatory as they were similar to those proffered nonunion teachers. The appellate court concluded that the "union has no right to any further relief." (Hanover Township Federation of Teachers, Local 1954 (AFL-CIO) et al. v. Hanover Community School Corporation et al., United States Court of Appeals, Seventh Circuit, January 12, 1972.)

BOARD FINDINGS AND RULINGS

NEW YORK

PERB Determines Appropriate Collective Bargaining Units

The New York Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) ruled on two separate unit determination disputes, and included coaches and special education teachers in units composed of classroom teachers.

• The PERB upheld the Central Islip Teachers Association's (CITA) petition which sought a unit representing "all members of the teaching staff on tenure, probation or interim appointment," including intramural and interscholastic athletic coaches employed by the Central Islip Board of Education, Union Free School District No. 13.

The employer school and the Central Islip Coaches Association (CICA), an intervenor to the petition, held that bargaining units for teachers and coaches should be separate. PERB noted that previously coaches had bargained as a separate unit on those conditions of their employment relating to coaching, and further that coaches were regulated by the New York State High School Athletic Association, an outside agency. However, the PERB accepted the CITA's argument that coaches were teachers of athletic programs designed as extensions of the basic physical education curriculum. Thus, coaches have a "role which [was] complimentary to. . . that of classroom teachers."

PERB, interpreting Section 207 of the Public Employees' Fair Employment Act, concluded that coaches have a "substantial community of interest and no significant conflict of interests which would preclude any group from engaging in fruitful and effective negotiations."

The PERB resolved that the CITA's petition for certification was timely and ordered a representation election among the employees of the appropriate unit. (Central Islip Board of Education, Union Free School District No. 13, Town of Islip and Central Islip Teachers Association and Central Islip Coaches Association, Intervenor, Public Employment Relations Board, August 27, 1971.)

• Teachers of homebound students, of special individual instruction, and of English as a second language were included in a unit composed of full-time classroom teachers. The PERB so ruled upon finding three specialty teacher groups possessed a sufficient community of interest with other members of the Great Neck Teachers Association, Inc. The record indicated that specialty teachers were hourly paid, nontenured, received no fringe benefits other than eligibility for New York State Teachers Retirement System, and could be terminated at anytime without notice. PERB found that these specialty teachers worked varied monthly schedules, instructed the same students and subject to the same supervision as classroom teachers. The high annual return-rate of these teachers—68 to 84 percent—indicated "an ongoing employment relationship with the employer," which entitled these teachers "to representation as 'public employees.'" Thus, the Great Neck Board of Education's contention, which held specialty teachers to be "casual and irregular employees with no guarantee of continued employment and no fixed working schedule" and no qualification for representation, was rejected.

Precedent for this ruling was PERB's prior decision to include summer school teachers in a regular teacher unit (NRD, 12-71, 8).

An election was ordered among the employees of the proposed unit. (Great Neck Board of Education, Union Free School District No. 7 and Great Neck Teachers Association, Inc., Public Employment Relations Board, August 20, 1971.)

PENNSYLVANIA

Association Ordered to Cease and Desist Interfering with School Board's Student Teacher Training Program

The Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board (PLRB) ordered the Beaver County Education Association (BCEA) to cease and desist interfering with the school board's contractual obligation to train student teachers by prohibiting its members from accepting student teacher assignments.

Following a dispute with the Beaver County Board of School Directors in regard to paid teacher meeting and convention leave, the Association passed a resolution requiring teachers to refuse, under penalty of suspension, contractually agreed—to student teacher assignments.

The school board filed an unfair labor practice charge alleging Association interference with the board's contractual obligation to teacher training institutions. The BCEA was found in violation of Section 1201 (b)(7) of the Public Employment Relations Act (PERA), which prohibits "employe organizations" from

> Engaging in, or inducing or encouraging any individual employed by any person to engage in a strike or refusal to handle goods or perform services; or threatening, coercing or restraining any person where an object thereof is to (i) force or require any public employer to cease dealing or doing business with any other person.

The PLRB noted that the teachers had been faced with the choice of complying with the resolution and losing their jobs as a result of breach of contract, or fulfilling their contractual obligations and being suspended from the BCEA. The Board ruled that the Association "not only engaged in conduct the effect of which was to induce and encourage said teachers to refuse to perform services, but its conduct also in effect threatened to force and require the . . . employer to cease dealing with state colleges and universities in the implementation of the student training program." (Matter of Employees of Beaver County Education Association, Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board, July 29, 1971.)

WISCONSIN

Teacher Reinstated With Back Pay For School Board Failure to Follow Negotiated Dismissal Procedures

A jointly selected board of arbitrators reinstated a teacher with back pay after finding that the Madison Board of Education, Joint School District #8, failed to follow negotiated dismissal procedures.

According to the agreement between the Madison Teacners, Inc. and the Board, negative evaluations of a teacher were to be sent to the teachers' association. Also, if a teacher's contract was being considered for nonrenewal, a memorandum was to be sent to the association before informing the affected teacher.

The teacher received several negative evaluations, none of which was forwarded to the association. The most recent evaluation recommended nonrenewal of the teacher's contract. The association contended that it was unable to satisfactorily represent the teacher because the negative evaluations were not timely sent. Further, the association held that dismissal proceedings could have been avoided if the evaluation had been timely sent, and that the school board had violated the agreement by disregarding the procedural machinery.

The school board argued that the agreement provision relating to negative teacher evaluations was illegal. The provision "constitutes Employer and Union interference with an employee's right to refuse Union representation." The school board also pointed out that according to the agreement the employer "has the option of either sending the negative evaluations to the Union or withholding them from the Union." The school board concluded that if the arbitrators found that the negotiated agreement had been violated, they would have the authority to order the teacher's reinstatement. It was argued by the board that only the employer had authority to hire, and that during grievance procedures the parties decided to remedy the situation through negotiation.

The board of arbitrators found the clauses which stipulated that negative evaluations be sent to employee organization were legal, and supported the association's contention that the negotiation agreement mandated the school board to notify the association of negative evaluations and dismissal notices. The arbitrators concluded that the school board's action in terminating the teacher's contract violated the agreement, pointing out that the employer's sole right to "hire and fire" was "limited by the terms of the agreement;" and since the agreement provided for binding arbitration of grievances, it implied the arbitrators' authority to award a remedy to an injured party.

On the basis of these findings, the arbitrators issued an award in the teacher's favor, which ordered that negative evaluations not timely received by the association be expunged from the teacher's personnel file, and that the teacher be reinstated to his former position with a contract for the 1971-72 school year and without a loss in longevity or other benefits. The teacher was also awarded full back pay less any earnings he received while he was not employed by the school board. (Madison Teachers Inc., v. the Board of Education, City of Madison, School District #8, Board of Arbitrators, January 17, 1972.)

Strictness Is Not Just Cause For Dismissal

An arbitrator ordered the Kenosha School Board to reoffer a tenured teacher his extracurricular coaching position after determining that his dismissal was arbitrary and based on "whim and caprice."

The teacher was denied the paid extracurricular position following a poor season. The Kenosha Education Association (KEA) grieved the dismissal which ended with arbitration. The school board contended during the grievance procedure that the dismissal was a "management prerogative." During arbitration, the board held that the dispute was neither arbitrary nor arbitrable, but was based upon "just cause."

The collective bargaining agreement between the KEA and the board states: "No teacher will be disciplined or deprived of any professional advantage without just cause." The KEA argued that the board's reasons for removing the coach were unsubstantiated and that the contract also prohibited the board from exercising its authority and power "in an arbitrary or capricious manner."

The arbitrator found no contrary evidence indicating that the school board's "dismissal of the grievant from basketball coaching was not a violation of the agreement's command against the use of authority in an 'arbitrary manner.'" The arbitrator questioned the allegation that the coach used profane language and scolded players in public. Further, student complaints, which the board emphasized, were discounted since the record indicated that most players sided with the coach, and only a few lodged complaints. The arbitrator pointed out that athletes, disappointed with a bad season, often "incline toward blaming the coach, when the truth of the fault lies in their own lack of ability."

The arbitrator also noted the existence of dissension between the coach and the administrative staff. The assistant superintendent, in particular, "acquired a dislike for the grievant and appears to have actively pushed for his removal." The arbitrator held that removal of a teacher to eliminate a source of friction among the staff was not "just cause" for dismissal.
(Kenosha Unified School District #1 and Kenosha Education Association, November 11, 1971.)

OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST

NLRB Holds Dismissal Precipitated by Union Activity Discriminatory

A National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) trial examiner found that a Monmouth (New Jersey) College instructor was dismissed because of his union activities. The department chairman testified that he informed the economics instructor, a "vociferous and letterwriting proponent" of the Faculty Association of Monmouth College (FAMCO), of his discharge because of his inadequate, progress toward obtaining a Ph.D. However, the NLRB examiner concluded that "the decision to discharge [the instructor] was not made until [the college] learned of his union activities" and therefore, the instructor's dismissal was discriminatory.

The examiner noted that the instructor's progress toward his doctorate degree—six credits per semester—was the maximum allowed part-time candidates. Further, other instructors, who were retained, had been doctoral candidates for up to 11 years without receiving their degree.

The examiner found that the department chairman had considered the instructor's performance satisfactory, given him a raise, and assigned him additional administrative duties, which he competently performed. However, "only after [the instructor] became interested in FAMCO did [the chairman] become disenchanted with [him] and the alleged lack of progress he was making in attaining his doctorate status." (Monmouth College and An Individual, National Labor Relations Board, January 17, 1972.)

OHIO

Arbitrator Rejects School Nurse's Grievance

A grievance filed by the Dayton Classroom Teachers Association on behalf of a school nurse was rejected by a Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service (FMCS) arbitrator. The grievance concerned the board's failure to consult the nurse before changing her 1970-71 assignment which resulted in a too heavy workload. Although school nurses had been included in a teachers unit since 1969-70, their contractural rights did not include the right to grieve excess workloads or administrative transfers. To give nurses such rights was not in the power of the arbitrator, since "to do so he would violate the express provision of the agreement prohibiting him from altering, adding to, or subtracting from the terms of the agreement." (Dayton City Board of Education and Dayton Classroom Teachers Association, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, April 13, 1971.)

PENNSYLVANIA

NLRB Refuses Jurisdiction Over "Quasi-Public" Institution

A National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) majority decision ruled that Temple University, a "quasi-public" institution in relation to Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, was not covered by the National Labor Relations Act (NLRA). The panel dismissed a union petition seeking to represent 1,500 administrative, clerical, and technical employees of the university.

The Board had asserted jurisdiction over private, nonprofit educational institutions in a previous case involving Cornell University, a "state-related school" (NRD, 9-70, 10).

Temple University acknowledged that the criteria used in the Cornell case applied in the instant case, as well as asserting its status as a private, nonprofit educational institution. However, the university argued that the Board's assertion of jurisdiction would constitute interference with "governmental relations." The union contended that the university's admission of its status and its $1 million gross revenue brings it under the Board's jurisdiction.

The Board majority, noting the special relationship between the university and the state, which established the university as a "quasi-public higher education institution to provide low cost higher education for Commonwealth residents," found the state to have substantial influence on the university's finances, and that the state controlled one-third of the Board of Trustees. In light of this special relationship between the state and the university, the NLRB declared that it had no jurisdiction in this case.

The minority opinion held that Cornell also had a special relationship with the State of New York. Cornell operates four schools funded by the state, and their employees were included in a union approved by the NLRB. Therefore, employees of Temple University are under the jurisdiction of the Board.

The majority panel responded that, although the state has some control of Cornell, it is overwhelmingly a private institution. State control of Temple University far exceeds that at Cornell. (Temple University—of the Commonwealth System of Higher Education and Distributive Workers, National Labor Relations Board, January 24, 1972.)

NEGOTIATION NOTES

FLORIDA

Court Ruled Anti-Moonlighting Provision Unconstitutional

The Florida Supreme Court ruled as unconstitutionally vague an anti-moonlighting provision contained in a 1969 state statute. The law prohibited public employees from holding extra jobs that "tend to impair their independence of judgement."

The court's action supported an earlier decision by the Broward County Court in a case involving an electrical inspector who also worked as a night watchman. The supreme court acknowledged that the legislation was intended "to safeguard the public and insure honesty and integrity in government," however, the overriding factor was its unconstitutionality. The court concluded that it was important for the legislature to find a substitute provision.

INDIANA

State-Operated Hospitals Subject to Fair Labor Standards Act

The United States District Court, Southern District of Indiana, rejected a motion by the Health and Hospital Corporation that charges brought against it under the Fair Labor Standards Act by the Secretary of Labor be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction.

The state-operated Marion County General Hospital contended that the Act was not applicable under the federal Constitution, Eleventh Amendment, guarantee of sovereign immunity. The court pointed out that this amendment refers only to suits "commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States by citizens of another State, or by citizens or subjects of any foreign state." In the hospital's case, there was no Eleventh Amendment bar since the suit was brought by the Secretary of Labor, acting for the federal government.

The hospital further contended that the Act was not applicable to the case because "the Hospital is the ultimate consumer of the goods handled by its employees, and that such goods are not included within the definition of Section 3 (i) of the Act." The court replied that the question of the hospital as an "ultimate consumer" was not being considered. The court stated further that Section 3 (r) and (s) specifically included the operation of a hospital within its definitions. The motion by the defendant to dismiss the case was rejected. (James D. Hodgson, Secretary of Labor, United States Department of Labor v. Health and Hospital Corp., Marion County, Indiana, and Marion County General Hospital, United States District Court, Southern District of Indiana, Indianapolis Division, December 3, 1971.)

NEW YORK

New York City Collective Bargaining Law Amended

An amendment to the New York City Collective Bargaining Law (NYCCBL), which became effective January 12, 1972, provides final and binding arbitration in disputes between New York City public employees, and the municipal employer.

New York is the first major city to provide finality in dispute resolution. Other amendments to the law increased the authority of the Office of Collective Bargaining and the New York City Collective Bargaining Law; provided criteria for impasse settlement; set down a list of improper practices; and outlined a grievance machinery for discipline and discharge. The amended NYCCBL also allows for future inclusion in contracts of an agency shop provision, pending revision of the Taylor Law.

The amendments restructured the city's process of labor dispute resolution, and revised both impasse panel procedures and the final resolution of a dispute. The NYCCBL was amended to bring it in line with the 1969 Taylor Law Amendments which required the city to "adopt provisions and procedures which would effectuate the fundamental principles" of the state law. The NYCCBL embraced 300,000 New York City public employees. Excluded from NYCCBL coverage are teachers, para-professional teaching employees, and Transit Authority employees.

Residency Requirement is a Management Prerogative

The New York Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) held that a residency requirement proposed by a school board was a management prerogative, and therefore not subject to negotiation. Accordingly, the PERB dismissed the Rochester School Board's improper practice charge that the Association of Central Office Administrators had refused to bargain on inclusion of the residency requirement in the parties' collective bargaining agreement. (Association of Central Office Administrators and Board of Education, City School District of Rochester, Public Employment Relations Board, July 29, 1971.)

PENNSYLVANIA

New Grandfather Agency Shop Clause Unenforceable Under PERA

The Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board found that inclusion of a grandfather agency shop clause in an agreement between the University of Pennsylvania and the Teamsters Local 8 was an unfair labor practice. Changing the scope of a maintenance of membership clause violated the Public Employee Relations Act (PERA).

The case was brought before the Board by a non-union laboratory technician. The Teamsters and the university had signed a collective bargaining agreement, which extended from October 1967 to May 1970, and which required only employees who designated the union as their "exclusive bargaining representative" to pay union fees. In May 1970, the parties agreed to extend the 1967-70 contract until a new agreement was reached. In December 1970, non-union members of the bargaining unit were informed that they would be required to pay agency shop fees under the new contract, effective January 1, 1971.

The complainant, after some protestation, paid the fees in order to retain employment. In March 1971, the complainant was informed by a union official that unless he continued paying agency shop fees, he would be discharged. A counsel for the university upheld the union official's statement.

A Board majority maintained that "maintenance of membership is the most extensive form of union security permitted" under PERA. Under Section 904 of the PERA, any provision of an agreement in effect on January 1, 1970 which is inconsistent with the PERA, but otherwise legal, shall continue until the expiration of the agreement. Section 904 also provides that "parties to such an agreement may continue voluntarily to bargain on any [such] items after the expiration date of any such agreement and for so long as these items remain in any future agreement." The majority of the Board agreed with the complainant's argument that these particular clauses of Section 904 allow parties to bargain for inclusion of inconsistent terms, but may not include a more severe security clause than contained in a previous agreement.

The dissenting view emphasized the idea of bargaining as "not an activity in which one party merely tries to retain what he has while the other attempts to diminish it;" further Section 904, even though inconsistent with PERA, permitted the "enlargement of contract terms" which remained binding after the passage of the Act. The minority also felt that since the complainant had benefitted from union representation, the union should not be required to refund the agency fees.

The Board ordered the university and Local 8 to stop collecting agency fees from complainant, and directed the union to reimburse complainant for payments made. (Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board v. Teamsters Local Union No. 8 and the Pennsylvania State University, Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board, December 20, 1971.)

PLRB Public Employee Rules and Regulations Amended

The rules and regulations of the Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board (PLRB) were revised, effective September 10, 1971.

The showing of interest required before a public employee representative may intervene in a joint election request was changed from one to 10 percent. A one percent showing of interest was deemed necessary for placement on the ballot.

The words "or agent" were added to the unfair practice proceedings, Rule 3.19. Interested parties in an unfair practice proceeding may now "submit to the board, or any member or agent thereof, for consideration facts, arguments, offers of settlement or proposals of adjustment."

Added to the regulated hearings section was the rule making the transcript of the testimony part of the record unless objections were filed with the board within 15 days. The procedure for reviewing objections was outlined.

RHODE ISLAND

IRS Orders Correction of 5.5 Percent Pay Violation

Pay raises to members of the Johnston Federation of Teachers (JFT), Local 1702, AFT, AFL-CIO, which ranged from 6.6 to 8.2 percent, violated federal wage increase guidelines. The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) informed the Johnston School Board that "immediate corrective action should be taken" to bring the pay increases within the 5.5 percent limit. However, the school board elected to apply for an exception to the guidelines.

The settlement, which had been recommended by an arbitration panel, increased salaries $450 at the bottom of a 10-step pay schedule and $850 at the top. The settlement ended a 5-day walkout.

The IRS investigation apparently resulted from complaints regarding the Johnston settlement. In addition taxpayers have sued for court-ordered enforcement of the 5.5 percent pay increase ceiling and an injunction against the raises. To date, the superior court has declined temporary restraint of payments pending a formal hearing.

ATTORNEY GENERALS' OPINIONS

Iowa

The long-standing practice of deducting union dues from the salaries of university employees was upheld since there was no legislation to the contrary.

New York

A union was to receive dues withheld during a labor dispute between a public employer and public employees. Since the dispute did not constitute a strike, no legal ground for withholding the dues existed because of an alleged strike. The state attorney general authorized the dues deduction for an unrecognized and uncertified union provided the employees so requested in writing.

FEDERAL PAY BOARD GUIDELINES

. . . LONGEVITY AND AUTOMATIC PROGRESSION INCREASES due under existing contracts or prior practices have been exempted "without regard to the 5.5 percent standard."

. . . TERMS AND PAY PRACTICES in effect prior to November 14 may be implemented, but are subject to Board review if challenged "by a party at interest or by five or more members of the Board."

. . . PAY RETROACTIVITY conditional. Congress differs widely on this issue. The House Banking Committee recommends prohibition of retroactive payments only if they are "grossly disproportionate to the rate at which wages or salaries have increased in the economy generally." A stronger stand is taken by the Senate Banking Committee, which would allow back pay if not "unreasonably inconsistent with [Pay Board] standards for wage and salary increases."

. . . FEDERAL EMPLOYEES RECEIVE 5.5 PERCENT INCREASE. The signing of the Economic Stabilization Act of 1971 assured federal white collar workers of a pay increase in early 1972. The Act authorized a single increase of 5.5 percent over the entire year, instead of a delayed increase in June 1972 with an additional increase in October. Dissatisfied blue collar workers also received their anticipated increase which had been embargoed during Phase I. An Executive Order granted raises to skilled and semi-skilled government workers. The Civil Service Commission was directed under this order to limit increases to guidelines established by the Pay Board. The Commission announced that it will review the need to continue to pay premium salaries for certain "shortage" occupations in the professional and scientific fields.

. . . SEPARATE CATEGORY URGED FOR STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES. The Committee for State and Local Government Cooperation recommended that a separate wage review category be established for state and local government employees. The Pay Board asked for a more elaborate statement of intent, but indicated tentative approval of the recommendation. In substance, it calls for "A new pay adjustment category, designated as Category IV, should be established covering all state and local governmental units, regardless of size." However, any pay adjustments which exceed the guidelines would be subject "to the reporting requirements of the regulations." PUBLIC EMPLOYEE UNIONS have been urging that public employees "should not be formally subject to the program (Economic Stabilization Program) but should follow its goals 'in good faith.'"

STATISTICS

PUPIL-STAFF RATIO PROVISIONS: 1970-71

The NEA Research Division analyzed 1,529 negotiated agreements, and found that 100 (6.5 percent) contained pupil-staff ratio provisions. Many agreements also contained provisions for class size.

Pupil-staff ratio provisions stipulate the number of certificated staff to be hired in proportion to pupil enrollment. Pupil-staff ratios vary among grades or classes and among different certificated staff positions. Table 1 lists staff positions covered by pupil-staff ratios. The categories listed in this table and in subsequent tables are not mutually exclusive.

Total certificated staff ratios are contained in 16 provisions, with three excluding administrators. Most provisions specified different ratios for different personnel groups, or one ratio for a specific professional group. Elementary and secondary-school teachers had the highest incidence of pupil-staff ratios; ranking third are agreements specifying ratios for guidance counselors. Specialist teachers of physical education, art, and music are covered by pupil-staff ratios. Pupil services personnel which include librarians, nurses, social workers and psychologists are also considered in determining pupil-staff ratios. Ratios pertaining to certificated staff members fall in two general patterns. One pattern applied to either certificated staff members as a whole or to classroom teachers, and ranged from 20 to 31 pupils per teacher. The second encompassed specialist teachers and pupil services personnel, with a span of 300 to 1,000 pupils per teacher.

All ratios in this study are calculated on the basis of one teacher per x number of pupils, although different provisions in the survey expressed ratios in various forms, i.e., one provision required 40 teachers for every 1,000 pupils, while another required one teacher for every 25 pupils.

Table 2 shows the ratios covering total certificated staff and classroom teachers. The ratios relating to secondary school teachers frequently average between 25 and 27 pupils per teacher, while the largest numbers of elementary school pupil-staff ratios provided for 25 to 27 and 28 to 30 pupils per teacher in equal numbers.

The ratios in the second group (Table 2) ranged from one staff member for every 300 pupils to one staff member for every 1,000 pupils. The variety of ratios in this group is attributed to the diverse duties of the staff members. Pupil-staff ratios for guidance counselors, on the whole, ranged between 300 and 600 pupils, as do the ratios for physical education, art and music teachers and librarians. The ratios for psychologists, nurses and social workers generally ranged between 500 and 1,000 pupils per staff member.

TABLE 1.—PUPIL-STAFF RATIO PROVISIONS: STAFF POSITIONS COVERED BY RATIOS, 1970-71

Staff Position Covered	Number	Percent
1	2	3
TOTAL NUMBER OF AGREEMENTS CONTAINING PROVISIONS CONCERNING PUPIL-STAFF RATIOS	100	100.0%
POSITIONS COVERED:
Total certificated staff	16	16.0%
Total certificated staff excluding administrators	3	3.0
Elementary teachers	68	68.0
Secondary teachers	46	46.0
Guidance counselors	24	24.0
Librarians	7	7.0
Physical education teachers	7	7.0
Music teachers	6	6.0
Art teachers	6	6.0
Nurses	3	3.0
Social workers	2	2.0
Psychologists	2	2.0
Other	7	7.0

All pupil-staff ratio provisions found in negotiated agreements are not necessarily in effect at the time of the agreement: 65 percent contained pupil-staff ratios in effect; 51 percent provided for pupil-staff ratios to be achieved; and 4 percent included both actual and projected staff ratio figures. An example is listed below:

> The Board will provide sufficient budgetary support to allow an increase in the staffing of the schools from 51.8 to 53.0 professional per 1000 students.
>
> [HOWARD COUNTY SCHOOL DISTRICT
> CLARKSVILLE, MARYLAND]

Several examples of varying pupil-staff ratio provisions follow. These are samples only, and are not to be regarded as exemplary.

> The Committee and the Association recognize that desirable pupil-teacher ratios are an important aspect of an educational program. Therefore, although it is agreed that the Committee may not always be able to control the pupil-teacher ratio in some areas, due to lack of

TABLE 2.–PUPIL-STAFF RATIO FOR TOTAL CERTIFICATED STAFF, CLASSROOM TEACHERS, SPECIALISTS, AND NONINSTRUCTIONAL STAFF, 100 AGREEMENTS, 1970-71

Pupils Per Teacher	Total Certificated Staff	Total Certificated Staff Without Administrators	Elementary School Teachers	Secondary School Teachers	Other
1	2	3	4	5	6
20 or fewer	10.0%	...	3.0%	6.0%	...
21-24	...	...	4.0	4.0	...
25-27	4.0	1.0	27.0	21.0	4.0
28-30	1.0	1.0	27.0	14.0	1.0
31 or more	1.0	1.0	7.0	1.0	...

	Guidance Counselors	Librarians	Physical Education Teachers	Music Teachers	Art Teachers	Nurses	Social Workers	Psychologists	Other
	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
300 or fewer	5.0%	1.0%	3.0%	1.0%	1.0%	...	...	...	...
301-399	12.0	...	2.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
400-499	5.0	1.0	1.0	1.0	...	...	...	...	...
500-599	1.0	4.0	1.0	3.0	4.0	1.0	...	...	...
600-999	1.0	1.0	...	1.0	1.0	1.0	1.0	...	1.0
1,000 or over	...	...	...	...	...	1.0	1.0	2.0	1.0

proper facilities, it is also agreed that the Committee will continue to give top priority to providing acceptable pupil-teacher ratios that are conducive to effective teaching and learning.

It is agreed by the Committee and the Association to work cooperatively toward the following desirable goals concerning the average pupil-teacher ratios in the following areas:

Elementary Schools
- Preprimary 15-1
- Grades 1-6 25-1

Junior and Senior High Schools
- Academic Subjects 25-1
- Shop (Industrial Arts Classes) . . . . . 18 - 20-1
- Physical Education 40-1
- Study Hall 65-1
- Special Class (Educable Classes) 18-1*
- Trainable Class 12-1*

*See State Requirements

The Committee and the Association agree that ratios as established above shall be considered as desirable goals for the system; and that transfer of pupils from school to school shall be effected whenever possible, in order to equalize teacher loads to the closest

[FAIRHAVEN, MASSACHUSETTS]

TEACHING CONDITIONS - The Board and the Association recognize the importance of adequate staffing to assure high quality education for all pupils, which is the goal of both the Board and the Association.

There shall be a district-wide ratio of not less than 1 professionally-certified employee to each 17 pupils.

[CROTON, NEW YORK]

THE FOLLOWING GROUP RATIOS SHALL BE IN EFFECT

Elementary Classroom Teachers – 35.52 teachers per thousand students

Secondary Classroom Teachers – 44.9 teachers per thousand students

Elementary Special Services – 6.46 teachers per thousand students

Junior High Counselor – 3.28 counselors per thousand students

Senior High Counselors – 3.34 counselors per thousand students

Special Education Personnel – 2.86 per thousand students

Librarians – 2 per High School and 1 per Junior High.

[WARREN, MICHIGAN]

It is recommended that the Board endeavor to provide the following special area professional services on the basis of the following suggested pupil-teacher load.

Elementary Art	500-600:1
Junior High and Senior High Art	100-125:1
Elementary Music	500:1
Vocal	300:1
Instrumental	125:1
Physical Education-Elementary	275:1
Physical Education-Junior Senior High	300:1
Nurse	500:1
Guidance	250-300:1

[WHITNEY POINT, NEW YORK]

In implementing the objectives of instruction policy and in recognition of the problems of discipline, counseling and instruction when the teaching load is excessively large, the following instructional load standards or guidelines are established. The District will–

Maintain an average District ratio of students to full-time equivalent teachers at no more than 30:1;

[SEATTLE, WASHINGTON]

PAY DIFFERENCES BETWEEN MEN AND WOMEN REPORTED

A Bureau of Labor Statistics' (BLS) study comparing average earnings of men and women in 10 selected job classifications in 85 metropolitan areas for the year July 1969 to June 1970 shows that weekly salaries for men averaged 18 percent more than those for women.

Earnings for men in eight selected office classifications averaged 18.2 percent more than women in similar occupations. In two plant occupations, the male advantage averaged 16.0 percent. In firms employing both men and women, men have an overall wage advantage of 11 percent. The advantage widened to 22 percent in comparisons between firms employing only men and those employing only women.

A comparison of male and female earnings does not conclusively prove or disprove wage discrimination because the study did not eliminate all factors contributing to sex differentials. One such factor is longer job tenure by men (double that of women); another, the differences in specific job descriptions.

Table 1. gives data on pay differences between men and women.

TABLE 1.–AVERAGE EARNINGS[a] OF MEN AND WOMEN IN 10 OCCUPATIONAL CLASSIFICATIONS IN ALL METROPOLITAN AREAS COMBINED, FEBRUARY 1970[b]

Occupation	All establishments			Establishments employing both men and women			Establishments employing only men or women
	Average weekly or hourly earnings		Percent by which men's earnings exceeded women's	Average weekly or hourly earnings		Percent by which men's earnings exceeded women's	Average weekly or hourly earnings		Percent by which men's earnings exceeded women's
	Men	Women		Men	Women		Men	Women
Office
Clerks, accounting, class A	$145.00	$122.00	19	$145.50	$129.50	12	$145.00	$113.50	22
Clerks, accounting, class B	119.50	95.50	24	119.50	105.00	14	121.00	94.50	23
Clerks, order	133.00	99.00	34	137.00	109.50	25	131.00	97.50	34
Clerks, payroll	139.50	110.00	27	144.50	123.00	13	134.50	103.00	25
Office boys or girls	83.50	82.00	8	88.00	83.50	5	88.50	81.00	9
Tabulating machine operators:
Class A	149.00	134.50	11	143.00	140.00	6	149.50	129.00	15
Class B	124.50	112.50	11	123.00	117.50	5	125.50	110.50	14
Class C	106.50	95.00	12	103.00	104.00	4	106.00	93.50	13
Plant
Janitors, porters, and cleaners	2.45	2.13	15	2.42	2.14	13	2.63	1.92	32
Packers, shipping	2.90	2.48	17	2.89	2.62	10	2.91	2.39	22
Unweighted average difference	-----	-----	18	-----	-----	11	-----	-----	22

Source: Buckley, John E., "Pay Differences Between Men and Women in the Same Jobs," Monthly Labor Review, 94:36-39, November, 1971.

[a]Earnings of office workers relate to regular straight-time salaries that are paid for standard workweeks. Earnings of plantworkers relate to hourly earnings, excluding premium pay for overtime and for work on weekends, holidays, and late shifts.

[b]Average month of reference. Data were collected during the period of July 1963 through June 1970.

SPECIAL REPORTS

BRIEFS OF RECENT AGREEMENTS

Elgin, Illinois

Between Board of Education of Elgin Public Schools, District U-46 and Elgin Teachers Association, effective September 2, 1971 to August 18, 1972; automatic renewal unless either party gives written notice of desire to modify the agreement. Approximately 900 certificated professional employees.

COMPENSATION: B.A., $8,200 to $11,939, 12 increments; B.A. plus 24, $13,555 maximum; M.A., $9,512 to $14,924, 15 increments; M.A. plus 24, $16,277 maximum; 6th year, $16,728 maximum.

Differentials: (Step I, II based upon B.A. base) head varsity football, basketball, $1,148 (.14) to $1,230 (.15); head varsity swimming, wrestling, baseball, outdoor track, $738 (.09) to $820 (.10); assistant sophomore football, basketball, head junior high basketball, $615 (.075) to $697 (.085); head varsity cross country, head varsity tennis, golf, junior varsity wrestling, sponsor high-school student council, senior high-school forensics, senior high-school dramatics, $574 (.07) to $656 (.08); senior class sponsor, junior high-school newspaper, girls club sponsor senior high, $328 (.04) to $410 (.05); high school, junior high-school band instructors, $30/parade; high school band instructors, $20/football game.

LEAVES: 12 days' annual sick leave for initial 3 years' service, 10 days thereafter with unlimited accumulation, however, only 90 days in a given year; participation in state retirement program compulsory, provides temporary disability benefit of 40 percent of salary to member with 3 or more years' of service; 2 days personal business leave deducted from sick leave; separate emergency leave days (non-cumulative) with 3-day limitation; sabbatical leave at half pay for one year after 6 years' service.

INSURANCE: Board-paid hospitalization-major medical insurance for individual and family (spouse must indicate lack of other hospitalization), effective one month after initial employment: board-paid $5,000 term life insurance; tax-sheltered annuity program through payroll deduction; board-paid medical examination for all new teachers; annual TB examination performed by other than school facility or mobile unit paid by teacher.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll dues deduction for local, state, and national Associations; Association has right to the use of school facilities and equipment; Association representative allowed school visitation to investigate conditions, problems, etc.; 15 days' leave granted to Association at no expense to the Association or teacher for substitutes; Association designated 60 minutes at the beginning of new teacher orientation with costs paid by Association.

INSTRUCTION: Secondary-school teachers assigned no more than 6 daily class periods; elementary school teachers assigned no more than 26 teaching hours weekly, less scheduled breaks; classroom teachers may use specialist's class time as preparation period; special education program to be expanded with 2 teachers for testing and evaluation of maladjusted children; clerical aides provided in secondary schools, 1 aide to 25 teachers; teachers' committee to establish job description for aides, with hiring subject to teacher's approval; teachers to report "reasonably prior" to the students' dismissal for student and/or parent conferences; Board to provide smocks and safety glasses to teachers assigned subjects requiring their usage; joint school committee with Citizens Advisory Council to evaluate extension of school year; joint instructional council to recommend teaching techniques, innovative research projects, including bi-lingual and minority studies programs; "Supervisory Master teachers" are tenured teachers who accept a student teaching assignment, remuneration paid to the school system shall in turn be paid to the teacher.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with final and binding arbitration; 30 minute duty-free lunch period; 10 minute relief periods for elementary school teachers in the morning and afternoon; monthly staff meetings not to exceed one hour; 5 inservice days during school term; "A plan for inservice education for teachers and administrators to assist them in understanding and dealing with human and inter-group relations problems that exist within the district", funded from school budgetary resources; no-strike clause; professional growth requirement of 5 credits to be earned in each 5-year period relating to the teacher's field or instructional responsibility; promotional vacancies posted 20 days prior to filling vacancy, selection based on applicant's ability to relate to others, personality and character, health, academic background, school district teaching experience, and, usually, a personal interview; procedure for evaluation of teachers; 5 classroom visitations, to be held 3 weeks apart, no less than 30 minutes in length from October thru March; teacher may review all reports placed in personnel file and reproduce, at his own expense, contents other than confidential information; building principals and central administrative staff will "reasonably" support teachers in all matters relating to student discipline; no reprimand or discipline may be taken against a teacher without the Association representative, if requested by the teacher; substitute teachers expected to perform duties normally performed by regular teacher, including special teachers and nurses.

Kodiak, Alaska

Between Kodiak Island Borough School District and Kodiak Borough Education Association, effective September 1, 1971, to December 31, 1972; automatic renewal unless 30 days' notice is given by either party prior to expiration date. Within 20 days' receipt of such notification, a joint conference will be arranged for negotiation of a new agreement. Approximately 160 certificated professional employees.

COMPENSATION: (Based on State-operated school salary base in Area 3) B.A., $10,500 to $14,175, 6 increments; B.A. plus 18, $15,435 maximum; M.A., $11,970 to $17,325, 9 increments; M.A. plus 36, $19,635 maximum; Ph.D., $21,000 maximum.

Differentials: high-school athletic director, music-band director, elementary intramurals, $1,050; varsity basketball, $1,365; wrestling, track, junior varsity basketball, $735; boys' intramurals, drama (2 plays at 3 percent each), music-vocal, $630; student council, $525; high-school cheerleader and Pep Club, photo club, drill team, yearbook, $420; girls' athletic association, cross country, junior class sponsor, $315; senior class sponsor, $158.

Other: Head teachers and teachers in charge receive additional pay ranging from $400 to $600; board pays round trip air fare of village teacher and family plus 200 pounds of air freight from Kodiak to the duty station; vocational equalization compensation based on the amount of work experience required to obtain an Alaska Vocational Certificate:

The Board recognizes the need to compensate vocationally certified personnel for the amount of work experience required to obtain an Alaska Vocational Certificate. The Board shall pay four per cent (4%) of the base salary for each year required, but not to exceed three years, for work experience that meets the following provisions:

A written recommendation for equalization pay by the respective vocational department head and/or the vocational director.

Certified documents from previous employers verifying at least six (6) consecutive months of occupational experience above the learner level in his or her training field for each year of work experience claimed for certification (the six consecutive months requirement may be comprised of twenty six (26) consecutive weeks of forty (40) hours per week or fifty two (52) consecutive weeks with no less than twenty (20) hours per week).

In special cases due to the nature of the vocation, the six consecutive months requirement may be waived.

LEAVES: 2 unrestricted personal leave days, 4 days' accumulation (village teachers allowed 2 extra days' travel time); 3 separate days bereavement leave for death or impending death in immediate family, 7 days if outside Alaska; half-day for observation of other personnel in performing their duties; sick leave bank plan pending legislative approval; sabbatical leave at half pay for one year granted at board's discretion.

INSURANCE: Board pays 80 percent of group health insurance for individual and family; $50,000 accidental death or dismemberment insurance for personnel traveling on school business.

ASSOCIATION: Association has use of school facilities; one hour of school time per month for Association meetings; Association has access to school financial records; Association president allowed an hour released-time per day for organization business, provided his class can be covered without hiring a substitute.

INSTRUCTION: Whenever possible, optimal pupil-teacher ratio to be as follows:

Special education	1 to 10
Kindergarten	1 to 22 (with teacher aides)
Grades 1-3	1 to 25 (with teacher aides)
Grades 4-6	1 to 26
Grades 7-12	1 to 30 (maximum 150 pupils per teacher)
Vocational trade and industry	1 to 15

"Teachers affected by an overload will be excused from extra duties;" Board reimburses employees purchasing minor equipment (nonexpendable items) and other materials for use in their professional duties on a 50-50 matching basis up to $100 per year—"Teachers are required to keep all receipts and records and shall put in one claim for reimbursement by April 15 of each academic year. If a teacher leaves the district in less than three academic years from the initiation of this plan, the nonexpendable materials and equipment shall remain with the school." Otherwise, the items purchased become the property of the teacher. Teachers requested to work on curriculum programs are to be given leave time. The school calendar is to be prepared jointly by the administration and the Association with final approval by the board on or before July 1 of the academic year.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends in final and binding arbitration. Board pays $33 per semester hour for approved courses, with a maximum of 3 semester hours: "A written request including course description and rationale for taking the course must be submitted to the superintendent's office at least 15 days before the course commences. Compensation will be made only to the teachers returning to the District. Tuition will not be allowed in conjunction with sabbatical leave. Teachers shall be encouraged to take appropriate courses in the fields of anthropology, psychology, sociology, as well as education." Joint study of an evaluation plan to be implemented including but not limited to "self-evaluation, peer-evaluation, and where feasible student-evaluation." Board will hire two certified full-time substitutes, one for the elementary level and one for the secondary level. A full-time staff assistant will be hired as village-school coordinator with sufficient travel funds for regular school visits. Joint educational study committee to present recommendations to the Board regarding various policies relating to evaluation, differentiated staffing, performance contracting and automatic salary increases. "If possible, the committee in whole or in part will make on site observations of such educational policies as are being discussed where they are operational. The committee will also have the latitude to call to its meeting various representatives of the Board, community, teacher or university or other informed citizens who may be able to present vital facts to the committee."

Las Vegas, Nevada

Between Clark County School District and Clark County Classroom Teachers Association, effective July 1, 1971 to June 30, 1973; automatic renewal, unless either party gives written notice of a desire to modify the agreement. Approximately 3,000 certificated professional employees.

COMPENSATION: (effective 1971-72) B.A., $7,530 to $9,462, 6 increments; B.A. plus 32, $11,608 maximum; M.A., $8,817 to $12,037, 10 increments; M.A. plus 32, $14,550 maximum.

Differentials: athletic director, $1,054 (.14); head football, basketball, $979 (.13); head baseball, track, wrestling, $904 (.12); head soccer, girls basketball, volleyball, $678 (.09); assistant football, basketball, $828 (.11); girls softball, track, $602, (.08); tennis, golf, bowling, $452, (.06); chorus, drama, $640 (.085); yearbook, $753 (.10); Pep Club, cheerleader, student council, $226, (.03); vocational teachers, certificated, $600; specialist teachers, $200.

Other: Teachers assigned to remote areas, $750 incentive pay; coordinating teachers with supervisory responsibility in speech therapy, homebound teacher, nursing, ESL bilingual program teacher, $1,000; teachers assigned as school bankers (with maximum number of assigned hours based on student enrollment), adult education, and inservice training instruction, $6 per hour.

LEAVES: 15 days' sick leave credited immediately, contingent upon reporting on first day, 75 days maximum accumulation; employees with more than 5 years' service may apply for extended sick leave (which is the amount of leave dropped from the employee's credit because of the 75-day maximum limit); 3 days' bereavement leave deducted from sick leave for each occurrence in the immediate family with additional time allowed for travel, maximum leave not to exceed 5 days; paid leave as needed for jury duty; 10 days' paid leave for military reserve obligation less military pay (applies only to an emergency and not to active duty); 15 days' paid leave for active duty with the national guard.

INSURANCE: (effective July 1, 1971) Board pays $15.76 for group hospitalization-medical insurance plan; (effective October 1, 1971) board pays $20.50 for the same plan; Board pays cost of required TB tests and periodic X-ray examination.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll deduction for local, state, and national Association's dues; Association allowed use of school buildings on school days; 150 man-days with pay granted Association representatives to attend meetings or conferences; Association president granted a year's leave of absence without pay during his term of office; upon written request, Association president-elect is granted a minimum of 15 days' paid leave for school visitation and other matters; Association representatives on the STALC (School Trustees-Association Liaison Committee) released from school duties for monthly meeting.

INSTRUCTION: 7-hour workday for teachers, except for attendance at staff meetings or parent conferences; staff distribution based on 1969-70 budget formula on a district-wide basis; board has established a high priority of providing library services outside the staff allocation in elementary schools with an enrollment of more than 400.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with final and binding arbitration; no written report or reprimand may be included in the teacher's personnel file without the teacher's acknowledgement; 30-minute duty-free lunch period; released time for elementary-school teachers during specialist teacher's class time; classroom teachers, other than vocational or technical, required to have a bachelor's degree; teachers are required to attend no more than 3 evening meetings per school year; summons received in connection with school-related assault or battery must be reported to the principal within 5 days of receipt; legal counsel may be given upon request but is not obligated to officially represent the teacher in civil proceedings; joint committee for school facility shall make recommendations for future priorities; no-strike clause.

Ithaca, New York

Between Ithaca City School District and Ithaca Teachers Association, effective July 1, 1971; automatic renewal, provided that either party desiring to amend the agreement notify the other by December 1 of each school year. Approximately 400 certificated professional employees.

COMPENSATION: (1971-72 salary schedule based on 1.07 x 1970-71) B.A., $7,330 to $10,754, 10 increments; B.A. plus 10, $10,968 maximum; M.A., $7,972 to $11,396, 10 increments; M.A. plus 30, $12,038 maximum; Ph.D., $12,680 maximum.

Differentials: head varsity football, $1,626; head basketball, wrestling, $1,198; swimming, $909; hockey, $856; gymnastics, $775; JV wrestling, $642; lacrosse, $722; tennis, $481; cheerleading, chaperone, $214; newspaper adviser, free period in place of class, plus $150; marching band director, $200; senior class adviser, $200; club adviser, $50.

Other: Home teacher paid 1/6 of 1/230th of teacher's base salary per hour.

LEAVES: 10 days' sick leave credited immediately, unlimited accumulation; 3 personal leave days; 2 days for school visitations or observations; paid leave as necessary to attend professional conferences or court appearances; 5 days bereavement leave for death or serious illness in immediate family; sabbatical leave at full pay for half year or half pay for full year after 7 years' service.

INSURANCE: Board pays 80 percent of Blue Cross-Blue Shield "$7,500" plan with major medical for individual and/or family coverage; tax-sheltered annuity program through payroll deduction; reimbursement for on-the-job property loss or damage; full pay benefit for job-related assault or accident, less Workmen's Compensation.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll deduction of Association dues; Association has use of school facilities, plus a furnished office; Association allotted 10 minutes at the close of faculty meetings for organization business; Association's building representatives allowed free time during school hours for organization business; Association may initiate discussions on development of new programs.

INSTRUCTION: Secondary-school teachers not required to teach more than 2 subject areas and not more than 3 teaching preparations; teachers not required to be in school more than 10 minutes before or after dismissal; early dismissal one hour per week for conferences and workshops; teachers have a voice in textbook selection and budget priorities for supplies and instructional equipment; additional clerical staff to be hired to relieve some of the professional staff from non-teaching duties; additional special area teachers to be hired; joint educational committee to improve and expand curriculum for the immediate career bound student.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with final and binding arbitration; teacher may review his personnel file and respond in writing to derogatory material, administrators are encouraged to file "information of a positive nature indicating special competencies, achievements, performances or contributions of an academic or professional nature," with teacher's written acknowledgement; minimum 30-minute duty-free lunch period; 40-minute daily preparation period for elementary-school teachers which may be scheduled during the specialist teacher's class time, plus 15-minute recess period daily by mutual agreement of building principal and staff; one preparation period daily for secondary school teachers; teachers assigned extra student teaching periods compensated at the rate of 1/6 of day's salary; department heads' duties and responsibilities in teaching, supervision, and administration dependant on the number of teachers in department; attendance at afternoon staff meetings optional; vacancies posted twice a semester at least 15 days prior to submission of last application and no less than 10 days before that date, preference to applicants from within the system; school facilities failing to meet safety standards to be reported, with cost estimates for their correction by a joint committee; teacher peer-evaluation procedure to be further developed with aid of parents and students; teachers act "in loco parentis" to students with disciplinary problems; Board provides legal counsel agreeable to the teacher in defense of any charges from a job-related suit and will save the teacher harmless of all liability in accordance with such statutes; teachers returning to the system within 5 years of resignation from the system, will be restored to the next position on salary schedule or to such higher position as they may be entitled on the basis of experience gained during their absence; pupil-teacher staffing ratios based on enrollment figures of September 30, "upward or downward staffing adjustments will be done on a 1/2 teacher basis using increases or decreases on pupil enrollment based upon 1/2 the staffing ratio for that school;" provision for faculty participation in hiring and assigning school administrators:

HIRING AND ASSIGNING PRINCIPALS—Prior to the hiring and/or assignment of any building principal, the Ithaca Teachers Association will be notified and will appoint a committee of not more than 5 members from the building involved to investigate and recommend relative to the applicants. After the initial screening by the administration, the committee will be advised of the names and qualifications of the candidates being considered for the position and will be afforded an adequate opportunity to interview any or all of said candidates upon its request. After said interviews and such other inquiry as the committee shall deem fit to conduct, and consultation with the Superintendent, the committee will make a confidential report of its evaluation and recommendations to the Superintendent for consideration in hiring and assigning.

TEACHER-PRINCIPAL-PROGRAM EVALUATION—A principal will distribute an evaluation form to the professional staff in his building and/or department no later than February 1 for the purpose of teacher-principal-program evaluation. Some form of feedback and/or discussion will follow within 30 days.

HIRING AND ASSIGNING SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS — Prior to the hiring of a Superintendent of Schools, the Ithaca Teachers Association will be notified and will appoint a committee of not more than 9 members to review and recommend relative to the applicants. The committee will be advised of the names and qualifications of the final candidates being considered for the position and afforded an adequate opportunity to interview any or all of said candidates upon its request. After said interviews and such other inquiry as the committee shall deem fit to conduct, and consultation with the appropriate committee of the Board, the Ithaca Teachers Association's committee will make a confidential report of its evaluation and recommendations to the Board for its consideration in hiring and assigning.

SELECTED NEGOTIATED PROVISIONS: HIRING AND ADVANCEMENT

An analysis of 1,529 comprehensive classroom teacher agreements effective during the 1970-71 school year in systems with a pupil enrollment of 1,000 or more revealed that 1,274 (83.3 percent) contained a variety of provisions relative to hiring practices and professional advancement. The two selected provisions relative to hiring practices were teacher qualifications and salary credit for prior experience and preparation. Three provisions were selected regarding professional advancement through qualifications for professional growth, in-service training, and salary credit for professional preparation. Table 1 provides a breakdown of the designated provisions.

TABLE 1.—NEGOTIATED PROVISIONS RELATING TO HIRING AND ADVANCEMENT

Item	AGREEMENTS CONTAINING DESIGNATED CONTENT
	Number	Percent
1	2	3
TOTAL NUMBER OF AGREEMENTS ANALYZED	1,529	.....
Total number of pertinent agreements	1,274	100.0%
Qualifications and experience credit for new hires, and advancement and salary credit for professional preparation	460	36.1
Experience credit for new hires and advancement, and salary credit for professional preparation	344	27.0
Qualifications and/or experience credit for new hires	171	13.4
Experience credit for new hires, and salary credit for professional preparation	155	12.2
Advancement and/or salary credit for professional preparation	144	11.3

Teacher Qualifications And Salary Credit For Prior Experience

Teacher qualifications provisions usually stipulated the minimum standards necessary to obtain a teaching position. To be eligible for employment, a person must hold a bachelor's degree from an accredited institution plus a valid teaching certificate. But some agreements excepted non-degreed teachers in emergencies, subject to dismissal if they did not advance toward obtaining the B.A. degree.

In some agreements, salary credit for prior experience was allowed at full credit to maximum of preparation lane, while others contained a specific maximum level. The school board reserved the right to evaluate prior experience to determine the appropriate salary level. No credit was usually allowed for a fractional part of a year. Credit for work experience directly related to the teacher's subject was allowed. Examples of teacher qualifications and salary credit for prior experience are as follows:

All newly-employed teachers shall be placed on the proper step of the salary schedule according to their experience and education. Full credit will be given upon initial employment for previous outside teaching experience in a duly accredited school. In addition to such credit, weight shall be given to experience which materially enhances the competence of the employee in the professional work to be undertaken. The Association President will receive by mail data on each person hired in this latter instance within ten (10) days of such hiring. Such data will include the name and additional experience which materially enhances the competence of the employee.

[BALLSTON SPA, NEW YORK]

It shall be the purpose of the Board and the Personnel Department to employ only teachers with a minimum of four years of collegiate training in an approved teacher education institution and a bachelor's degree. The teachers employed shall possess, or be able to secure, proper certification from the Ohio Department of Education in the subject or subjects to be taught.

[DAYTON, OHIO]

The Board and Association agree that fully qualified teachers are a vital aspect in an effective educational program. They agree to work cooperatively toward keeping and securing fully certificated, well-trained professionals in every position. As evidence of this objective, the Board and Association agree that new teachers employed by the Board for regular teaching assignments shall, whenever possible, have at least a Bachelor's Degree or a Baccalaureate Degree from an accredited college or university and, in all cases, a valid teaching certificate. A person with a provisional certificate may be initially employed. It is agreed however, that, except in unusual circumstances, no such person shall be employed in a regular, full-time position for more than two years. Termination for persons employed with provisional certificates shall ordinarily be at the end of the second year of employment in the event that such persons have not qualified for a regular state certificate.

[ARLINGTON, ILLINOIS]

Qualifications For Professional Growth And In-service Training

The analyzed agreements which contained provisions regarding qualifications for professional growth and in-service training usually established the necessary procedures. Most agreements stipulated that professional growth and in-service training were encouraged and necessary. In order to advance on a given salary schedule, a teacher was required to earn a specific number of college or university credits. In some agreements, credits earned for in-service training may be substituted for college or university credits, but only for salary advancement within a salary lane, not towards a new degree lane. Most agreements analyzed merely indicated that some form of in-service training for professional growth was available.

Aside from formal scholastic training, credit for professional growth was allowed in some agreements for travel, related work experience, workshops, and curriculum projects. Examples of professional growth and in-service training provisions are as follows:

The Board and the Association agree that continued accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools is desirable and compliance with State Law is mandatory. It is therefore agreed that in compliance with State Law any teacher who is certificated after July 1, 1967 must acquire a minimum of thirty (30) hours in an approved program or a Master's Degree within ten (10) years for renewal of certificate. In compliance with requirements of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools it is agreed that all teachers must earn at least six (6) semester hours of college credit during each five-year period of employment or the equivalent as approved by the State Committee until said teacher has earned the Master's Degree or the thirty-hour approved program. This requirement is waived for any teacher whose sixtieth birthday occurs during a five-year interval of employment.

Those teachers not meeting this requirement at the end of the fifth year of their employment may have until September 1 of the same year to satisfy this requirement or may request professional leave to obtain same.

[JEFFERSON, KENTUCKY]

In our rapidly changing society teachers must constantly review curricular content, teaching methods and materials, educational philosophy and goals, social change and other topics related to education. The Board recognizes that it shares with its professional staff responsibility for the upgrading and updating of teacher performance and attitudes. The Board and the Association support the principle of continuing training of teachers and the improvement of instruction. The parties further agree that each teacher should fulfill the obligation for professional improvement in ways that best serve the needs of the school district.

Inservice Courses developed to meet local needs may be taken by teachers for salary scale credit (one, two or three credits) depending upon the scope and time factors of the Inservice Course.

The Board of Education and the Audubon Education Association agree that professional courses and Inservice Courses are one method of measuring and increasing teacher efficiency and effectiveness.

[AUDUBON, NEW JERSEY]

All teachers are required to continue their training while employed in the school system by participating in on-campus and/or off-campus courses as follows:

Each teacher is required to earn five (5) semester hours of college credit within every consecutive five-year period. Any teacher not fulfilling this requirement will not receive further salary increments until this requirement is completed. If a teacher at the top of the salary schedule fails to meet this requirement he will drop one step on the salary schedule and remain there until the requirement is completed. Any teacher who has not fulfilled this requirement will advance only one salary increment per year once the requirement is completed. The required work for such credit must be completed prior to September 1, of any year in order to apply to that school year.

Experienced teacher new to the Brandywine School system who do not meet the requirement in subsection

(a) above, will be required to complete the work for at least two (2) semester hours of credit by September 1, following their first year of employment, and to complete the work for the full five (5) semester hours of credit by September 1 following their second year of employment.

Teachers who have been employed in the Brandywine School system five (5) or more years prior to September 1, 1968, and who have not fulfilled the requirements in subsection (a) above, must complete said full five (5) semester hours prior to September 1, 1969.

In lieu of formal scholastic training required in subsection (a) above, a maximum of two (2) semester hours credit may be granted for approved travel, non-credit workshops, curriculum projects, related work experience, or other approved educational experiences. Travel, workshops, etc. will not be allowed for credit for meeting certification requirements. A teacher, to count any of the experiences in this section toward the teacher growth requirements, shall present a written request to his principal prior to the proposed starting date of the experience. The request shall contain a description of the experiences and an explanation of how it relates to the teacher's work. An evaluation committee composed of the teacher's building principal, Department Head or Grade Chairman, and the TEPS Chairman of the Brandywine Education Association will study the request and make recommendations to the Superintendent of Schools as to whether or not the request should be approved and the amount of credit recommended. As soon as practicable, but in no case later than September 30, the teacher shall submit a written report on the experience to the evaluation committee for final recommendations to the Superintendent who shall determine whether such credit shall be given.

[BRANDYWINE, MICHIGAN]

Salary Increments For Professional Preparation

Many agreements stipulated that to advance on a salary schedule all post-baccalaureate courses must meet the following criteria:

- Courses must be taken at an accredited institution.
- Courses must be creditable towards a college or university degree.
- Courses must have been taken following completion of preparation necessary for the bachelor's degree.

Credit for courses sponsored by the school district may be earned, but usually may not be credited toward a college or university degree. The agreements usually incorporated schedules indicating the salary range for credit earned beyond the bachelor's level. Examples of salary increments for professional preparation are as follows:

To earn credit on the salary schedule for post-baccalaureat training, all courses claimed must meet the following criteria:

a. must be taken at accredited higher educational institutions;
b. must be creditable by the sponsoring institution toward a college or university degree;
c. must have been taken following completion of all of the preparation necessary for the awarding of the bachelor's degree which the teacher holds.

The only courses not creditable toward a college or university degree for which salary credit may be earned are those sponsored by either the School District of the City of Niagara Falls, the State of New York or the U.S. Office of Education for the purposes of inservice training, provided the sponsoring institution equates the program with semester hours of credit.

To claim reclassification on the salary schedule teachers shall follow established administrative procedures by submitting form SP3 which will be made available in all school offices. Receipt of this form will be acknowledged by the Staff Personnel Office.

[NIAGARA FALLS, NEW YORK]

DIFFERENTIALS FOR ADVANCED PREPARATION

Position Classification:
B. Teacher, Bachelor's Degree
C. Teacher, Standard Professional Certificate

Increments Above Bachelor's Degree Using Scales B or C as the Base

1. $500 to holders of:
   A. A Master's Degree who do not otherwise qualify for an Advanced Professional Certificate, or
   B. An Advanced Professional Certificate which has been issued on the basis of a Master's Degree equivalent.
2. $700 to holders of a Master's Degree and an advanced Professional Certificate.
3. $1100 to holders of a Master's Degree plus 30 hours of acceptable credit without an Advanced Professional Certificate.
4. $1300 to holders of a Master's Degree plus 30 hours of acceptable credit with an Advanced Professional Certificate.
5. $1700 to holders of a Master's Degree plus 60 hours of acceptable credit without an Advanced Professional Certificate.
6. $1900 to holders of a Master's Degree plus 60 hours of acceptable credit with an Advanced Professional Certificate.
7. $1900 to holders of an earned Doctorate without an Advanced Professional Certificate.
8. $2100 to holders of an earned Doctorate with an Advanced Professional Certificate.

Position Classifications E, E, F, G, H, I, J.

All persons in these classifications are required to meet mandatory full certification, to have at least a Master's Degree and the Advanced Professional Certificate. (Persons with a Provisional Degree Certificate are penalized $700.) (Assistant Principals are required to satisfy certification requirements for Principal.)

Increments for advanced preparation beyond mandatory requirements will be as follows:

1. $500 - Master's + 30 Credits
2. $1100 - Master's + 60 Credits
3. $1300 - Earned Doctorate

[CECIL COUNTY (ELKTON) MARYLAND]

RECENT SICK LEAVE BANK PROVISIONS

The NEA Research Division's annual survey of school systems with a 1,000 or more pupil enrollment indicated that of 1,529 comprehensive agreements studied, 84 (5.5 percent) contained sick leave bank provisions.

A sick leave bank is defined as a reserve of paid sick leave days over and above the individual's maximum accumulation which is donated for use in event of a prolonged illness or similar emergency. Generally, the individual using the "banked" days has exhausted his own sick leave. This bank of days is shared by all eligible, participating school personnel.

The structure of sick leave bank differs from system to system. Participation in the plan may be either mandatory or voluntary. Responsibility for the administration of the program usually rests with the school board and/or the Association. A detailed analysis of the various types of sick bank provisions contained in negotiated agreements is printed in Negotiation Research Digest, April 1970 issue.

Two school systems recently have negotiated sick leave bank provisions which deserve notice, Montgomery County Schools, Rockville, Maryland, and the Carman School District, Flint, Michigan. The Montgomery County Schools have negotiated comprehensive guidelines for the administration and regulation of "sick leave bank." The provisions are reprinted below:

MONTGOMERY COUNTY SCHOOLS
ROCKVILLE, MARYLAND
[Voluntary]

STATEMENT OF INTENT

The purpose of the Sick Leave Bank is to provide sick leave to contributors to the bank after their accumulated sick leave has been exhausted—and more specifically to provide such leave from the bank in cases of catastrophic illnesses.

RULES

1. The leave bank may be used only by the individual contributor for his or her personal illness.
2. The leave bank may NOT be used for illnesses of other members of the contributor's family.
3. The leave bank may NOT be used by the contributor to remain away from his position in order to assist a member of his family who is ill.
4. Only earned sick leave may be contributed to the leave bank—annual and personal leave may NOT be contributed.
5. For purposes of administration of the Sick Leave Bank, the definition of sick leave shall be that incorporated in the MCEA-Board of Education Contract: "Sick leave is a designated amount of compensated leave that is to be granted to a unit member who through personal illness, injury, or quarantine is unable to perform the duties of his position. Sick leave may also include other excused absences, such as medical, dental, or optical examination or treatment impossible to schedule on nonduty days. Sick leave may not be granted for the period of disability when monies are paid to the unit member under the Workmen's Compensation Law."
6. Leave from the bank may NOT be used for maternity leave.
7. Persons who enroll during the first open enrollment period—up to and including January 17, 1972—shall be enrolled without regard to pre-existing conditions of health if they are on active duty at the time of contribution. Thereafter, contributions can be made between July 1 and October 1. Unit members returning from extended leave and new employees may contribute within the first thirty calendar days after reassignment or employment. Unit member returning from extended sick leave or disability leave will be permitted to contribute to the bank on approval of the committee.
8. Any person who is a member of the negotiations unit in the Montgomery County Public Schools shall be eligible to participate in the bank.
9. In order to draw days from the Sick Leave Bank, a unit member must contribute to the bank at the rate of 1-1/2 days per year or one-half-day per half-year for 10 month personnel, and two days per year or one day per half-year for 12-month personnel.
10. A contributor will lose the right to utilize the benefits of the Sick Leave Bank only by:
    a. Termination or suspension of employment in MCPS.
    b. Cancellation of participation which is effective only at the close of a fiscal year—June 30 of each year.
    c. Refusal to continue regular contributions at the beginning of each fiscal year—July 1 of each year.
    d. Refusal to make such additional contributions as may be required from time to time by the administering committee to prevent bankruptcy of the bank.
11. The existence of the Sick Leave Bank and participation by a unit member in the bank does not negate or eliminate any other sick leave policies of the MCPS, nor does it in any way negate the rights of individual unit members who participate in the bank to other sick leave benefits included in the MCEA-Board of Education Contract.
12. Effective January 17, 1972, all donations will remain in force through June 30, 1972, and will not be cancelled.

PROCEDURES

1. Contributions to the bank must be made on an MCEA Sick Leave Bank Donation form.
2. The MCEA Sick Leave Bank administration committee will approve all donations before they are forwarded to the MCPS Division of Payroll.
3. The Committee will review and recommend to the MCPS Personnel Department approval or denial of all requests to draw on the Sick Leave Bank within 12 working days after such request is received in the MCEA Headquarters Office.
4. Any person submitting a request to draw on the bank, must have made his proper contributions for the fiscal year in which the request is made.
5. All requests to draw upon the bank must be made upon an MCEA Sick Leave Bank Request Form.
6. All requests to draw upon the Sick Leave Bank must be accompanied by a physician's statement confirming the cause of the illness or confinement made on an MCEA Sick Leave Bank Physician's Confirmation Form, signed by the physician.
7. After an applicant has drawn and used 30 consecutive sick leave days (determined by his duty days) from the bank, he shall be given a medical review by a physician of the administering committee's choice, at the contributor's expense. The physician's report is to be sent directly to the committee before the committee may act upon his application for an extension of use of the Sick Leave Bank. Such medical review may be eliminated by the committee if the applicant has been confined to a hospital or other medical facility throughout the prior 30-days he has used the Sick Leave Bank.

8. An applicant may be required to undergo a medical review by a physician of the committee's choice at any time at the member's expense.

9. In case a contributor has been incapacitated, his application may be submitted to the committee by his agent or member of his family on his behalf.

10. Leave grants from the bank, recommended by the committee, shall be made in units of no more than 30 consecutive duty days for the individual applicant.

11. Applicants may submit requests for extension of such leave grants as their prior grants expire. Such applications shall be made on the regular request form.

12. In cases where the committee recommends denial of an application for use of the Sick Leave Bank or an extension of such use, the applicant may appeal his request to the MCEA Board of Directors.

13. In cases where the recommendation of the committee is denied by the MCPS Personnel Department, the applicant may appeal his request to the MCEA Board of Directors, who may request the superintendent to consider the appeal.

14. Members of the negotiations unit may request all appropriate forms from the MCEA office by telephone.

15. Copies of all MCEA Sick Leave Bank Donation forms shall be marked for approval or denial by the committee. Following such action, the committee shall disperse copies of the forms to the unit member, his school, the MCPS Division of Payroll, and the MCEA Membership Relations Division.

16. Copies of all MCEA Sick Leave Bank Requests for leave withdrawal forms shall be marked for recommendation for approval or denial by the committee. Following such action, the committee shall disperse copies of the forms to the unit member, his school, the MCPS Personnel Department and the MCEA Membership Relations Division.

17. Copies of all MCEA Sick Leave Bank Cancellation forms shall be approved by the committee. Following such action, the committee shall disperse copies of the forms to the unit member, his school, the MCPS Personnel Department, and the MCEA Membership Relations Division.

18. The Montgomery County Education Association shall maintain the record of all applications for donation, applications for withdrawal of sick leave days, and all cancellations.

19. The Montgomery County Public Schools Division of Payroll shall maintain records of all unit member contributions, withdrawals, and the status of the bank.

20. All forms for application for participation in the bank, withdrawal of sick leave days and cancellation shall be available at the MCEA office and shall be sent to any unit member at his request.

21. The MCPS Division of Payroll shall report the status of the MCEA Sick Leave Bank at any time at the request of the administering committee.

22. The MCPS Division of Payroll and the MCEA Membership Relations Division shall provide information to the committee upon its request any data it has maintained in its files with regards to an individual unit member's use of, or investment in, the MCEA Sick Leave Bank.

23. The Sick Leave Bank Administration Committee shall be responsible to the MCPS and the MCEA for the proper administration of the Sick Leave Bank, the maintenance of sick leave days in the bank, the promotion of enrollment in or donations to the bank, and the submission to the MCEA Membership Relations Division and the MCPS Personnel Department of regular month-end reports on the status of the bank.

CARMAN SCHOOL DISTRICT
FLINT, MICHIGAN
[Mandatory]

1. The Association will operate a sick leave bank on a mandatory basis. The Association will establish a committee to administer the sick leave bank and to provide the information whereby the Business Office will keep the records. The Director of Business will serve in the capacity of an advisor to the committee.

2. Each employee will donate one (1) day of his sick leave to the bank whenever the bank is depleted to 1,200 days. In addition to the above, every teacher new to the district will donate one (1) day of his leave per semester for his first year of his employment.

3. Additions will be made to the bank at the beginning of each fiscal year according to the above limitations.

4. A person will not be able to withdraw the contributed days.

5. The first 20 calendar days of illness or disability will not be covered by the bank but must be covered by the person's own accumulated sick leave or absence without pay.

6. A person will not be able to withdraw days from the bank until his own accumulated sick leave is depleted.

7. An individual may withdraw the number of days from the bank necessary to result in no loss of wages for one year, after he has depleted his own accumulated sick leave and also has been ill 20 consecutive days.

8. Persons withdrawing sick leave days from the bank will not have to replace these days except as a regular contributing member of the bank.

9. Any teacher who leaves the employ of the Carman School District shall donate his unused sick leave to the sick leave bank unless he notifies the Director of Business and the Association in writing by the last day of school that he does not wish to do so.

VOL. 5 NO. 9
MAY 1972

NRD
NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST

CONTENTS

Page

Case Reviews 3
- Strike Injunction, Contempt Convictions Reversed
- Dismissal for Nonpayment of Agency Shop Fee Reversed
- NCIR Determines Teachers' Salary Schedules
- Appeals Court Rules All Conditions and Terms of Employment Are Negotiable
- School Board's Rejection of Mediation Recommendation Nonarbitrable
- College Teacher Awarded Damages

Board Findings and Rulings 6
- MERC Determines Overall Faculty and Academic Staff Units in Higher Education
- Back Pay and Insurance Benefits Awarded for Enforced Maternity Leave
- College Department Chairmen Excluded From Bargaining Unit
- School Board Held to Class Size Goals
- PERB Includes Department Heads in Administrators' Negotiating Unit
- No Penalty for Striking Under Provocation
- Contracts Must Be Reduced to Writing
- School-Board Policy Affecting Conditions of Employment Negotiable

Negotiation Notes 9
- "Meet and Confer" Rule Not Sole Means of Employer-Employee Discussions
- Hawaii Nonmember Service Fee Sustained
- Public Employers May Set Recognition Requirements
- Timing of Representation Petition Filed Prior to Successor Agreement Ruled Valid
- Consumer Price Index, February 1972
- Attorney General's Opinions: New Mexico
- Federal Pay Board Guidelines

Statistics 12
- Industry and Government Outlay for Fringe Benefits
- Grievance Procedures—Final Appeal Outside the School System

Special Reports 19
- Briefs of Recent Agreements
- Liability, Income Protection and Disability Insurance Provisions
- Fringe Benefits in Community College Bargaining Agreements

RESEARCH DIVISION
NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

Copyright © 1972 by the
National Education Association
All Rights Reserved

2213

NEGOTIATION AGREEMENT PROVISIONS FOR TEACHERS

1972 Edition

Published by
Research Division
National Education Association

The NAP is a four part source document providing a comprehensive report on the contents of more than 1,500 comprehensive negotiation agreements in education for the 1970-71 school year. All data are derived from the NEA Research Division's depository of agreements, and are categorized for easy reference in the NAP. General agreement information is now supplemented by more than 300 specific entries, itemized numbers of leave days, and extensive data on grievance and negotiation procedures, committees, and board contributions to group insurance coverage for teachers.

Cost of the four-part set comprising over 2,000 pages is $40.00 (Stock No. 38811940); for NEA affiliates and associations, $25.00 (Stock No. 38811938). Inquiries should be addressed to the NEA Publication Sales, 1201 Sixteenth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. 20036.

The NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST is published 10 times per year, September through June. Single copy, $3.00; 2-9 copies, 10% discount; 10 or more copies, 20% discount.

Subscription Rate: One year subscription to the NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST for NEA members and NEA affiliates, $15.00; for others, $30.00. Send inquiries to the NEA Records Division.

Reproduction: No part of this DIGEST may be reproduced in any form without written permission from the NEA Research Division, except by NEA departments and affiliated associations. In all cases, reproduction of the NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST materials must include the usual credit line and copyright notice.

Services: Subscribers who request full text reprints of major articles in the Case Reviews or Board Findings and Rulings will be sent copies where available, or citations for judicial decisions.

Subscribers may order copies of full text agreements or negotiation provisions analyzed or reprinted in the DIGEST for a minimum charge of $2.00. This charge provides up to 15 pages of xeroxed material; pages in excess of 15 are charged at the rate of 10¢ each. Each request should include a check for $2.00 payable to the National Education Association.

Address communications regarding the DIGEST to Donald P. Walker, Chief, Negotiation Research Unit, or Joseph A. Falzon, Senior Staff Associate, Research Division, National Education Association, 1201 Sixteenth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. 20036.

CASE REVIEWS

ILLINOIS

Strike Injunction, Contempt Convictions Reversed

The conviction of 65 teachers who struck the Township High School District No. 201 in contempt of a lower court injunction was reversed by the Illinois Supreme Court. It was determined that the lower court improperly denied the defendants' petition for a change of venue.

Lacking an acceptable collective bargaining agreement after protracted negotiation sessions, the West Suburban Teachers Union, Local 571 went out on strike. The school district obtained a lower court injunction against the strike. Upon the strike's continuance, contempt citations and fines were handed out to 65 teachers.

Prior, the lower court twice rejected the union's petitions for change of venue. The union appealed the convictions, charging that the lower court erroneously denied the petitions and misinterpreted the Venue Act since the first petition met legal requirements. The district maintained that the lower court's interpretation was correct as the petition was insufficient.

The law states that "a change of venue shall not be granted unless the application is made by or with the consent of at least three-fourths of the parties." The appellate court maintained that the Venue Act was intended to be liberally interpreted, and found that the defendants had properly filed for venue change. Accordingly, the appellate court voided all lower court orders. (Board of Education of Township High School District No. 201 v. Morton Council, West Suburban Teachers Union Local 571, Illinois Supreme Court, January 28, 1972.)

MICHIGAN

Dismissal For Nonpayment of Agency Shop Fee Reversed

The Circuit Court, County of Ingham, avoided ruling on the legality of an agency shop while reversing a Michigan Tenure Commission's decision which upheld the discharge of a competent tenured teacher for nonpayment of a nonmember service fee equal to the Grand Blanc Education Association's (GBEA) dues. The Grand Blanc Community Schools Board of Education discharged the teacher in compliance with a negotiated agency shop clause.

The court found the contract language ambiguous, noting that if the board and GBEA intended the words "refusal of said teacher to contribute fairly to the costs of negotiation and administration of this Agreement is recognized as just and reasonable cause for termination of employment" to mean the same as "the refusal of said teachers to pay a representation fee equivalent to dues and assessments," such an intended meaning would have been stated. The teacher was requested to pay Association dues and assessments, whereas the application of the contract language required the determination of the actual cost of services.

The court stated that the question before it was not the legality of the agency shop provision, but whether the action taken against the teacher for refusing to pay the service fee was either arbitrary or capricious. Finding no material indication that the teacher refused to pay her share of negotiation and contract administration costs nor evidence that she was asked to contribute to these costs, the court reversed the Tenure Commission's affirmation of the teacher's dismissal. (Carol S. Applegate v. Teacher Tenure Commission and Board of Education Grand Blanc Community Schools and Grand Blanc Education Association, Circuit Court for the County of Ingham, December 24, 1971.)

[Editor's Note—A decision on the legality of "agency shop" is now pending before the Michigan Supreme Court from an appeals court ruling that an employee can properly be assessed only his share of the actual costs of negotiation. The lower courts and MERC have supported the agency shop concept by which nonmembers are assessed the equivalency of dues on the grounds that such provisions do not infringe employment or tenure. It has been noted that without agency shop provisions employees can unfairly take "free rides," and that determining the "actual costs" of administration and negotiation raises questions as to what expenses are properly included, leading to higher assessments of nonmembers since representation costs are climbing and generally higher than amounts paid in regular membership dues.]

NEBRASKA

NCIR Determines Teachers' Salary Schedules

The Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations (NCIR) rejected a school district's contentions that Section 48-810.01 of the Nebraska statutes bars a wage determination hearing by the court, since Section 79-802 states that all schools organized within the city limits shall be under the direction and control of the board of education. The court determined that the state statutes authorized the court's jurisdiction after the procedural provisions of the Nebraska Teachers' Professional Negotiations Act were exhausted. In this case, the procedures of the Act were exhausted when the school district rejected the recommendations of the fact-finding board.

Further, the court dismissed the association's contention that the recommendations of the fact-finding board be given significance. The court, acting in the public interest, examined 151 salaries in comparable districts with compensation presently received by teachers in the district.

The court invoked Section 48-818, which authorizes it to establish or alter the scale of wages, hours of labor, or conditions of employment. (Centennial Education Association v. School District No. 67-R of Seward County, Nebraska Centennial Public Schools, Utica, Seward County, Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations, August 18, 1971.)

NEW YORK

Appeals Court Rules All Conditions and Terms of Employment Are Negotiable

The New York State Court of Appeals, the State's highest court, emphatically told the Board of Education of Union Free School District # 3 that it must bargain on terms and conditions of employment despite the lack of explicit itemized legislative authorization. In effect, the courts have served notice on school boards that the judiciary will no longer hear cases of this nature since they are subject to negotiation under the broad provision of the Taylor Law, "except in cases where some other applicable statutory provision explicitly and definitively prohibits the public employer from making an agreement as to a particular term or condition of employment."

The suit was instituted by the school board against the Associated Teachers of Huntington, Inc., in an attempt to restrain collective bargaining on five items. These items covered reimbursement for job-related personal property - (two provisions); partial reimbursement for graduate school courses taken with the board's approval; salary increment prior to retirement; and a grievance provision which provided for arbitration of disputes in tenured teacher disciplinary actions.

The board, in questioning its own power to negotiate on these provisions, questioned their legality. The court was asked to decide whether the school board has the authority to enter into a collective bargaining agreement granting benefits without existence of an explicit statute granting such benefits, and whether a school board lacks the power to negotiate a grievance procedure in violation of Section 3020-a of the Education Law (Tenure Law) which provides teachers with a review and appeal procedure.

The court held that all of the challenged provisions were valid as they constituted a term or condition of employment. The court examined the law to determine if a fundamental conflict existed between the provisions of the Taylor Law or other state statutes dealing with the powers and duties of school boards. Section 200 and 204, 1, 2 enjoin the school board to recognize an employee organization, and empower the board to "negotiate collectively with such employee organization in the determination of, and administration of grievances arising under, the terms and conditions of employment of the public employees as provided in this article, and to negotiate and enter into written agreements with such employee organization in determining such terms and conditions of employment."

The court noted that since the school board contended that it lacked the power to negotiate on certain items, the burden of proving the existence of a statutory provision prohibiting such negotiation rested with the board. In the present case, the board cited no applicable statute. The court specifically supported the negotiation of grievance procedures providing for arbitration, and noted that "it is the declared policy of this State to encourage public employers and employee organizations to agree upon procedures for resolving disputes. And arbitration is, of course, part and parcel of the administration of grievances." (Board of Education of Union Free School District No. 3 of the Town of Huntington, State of New York v. Associated Teachers of Huntington, Inc., Court of Appeals, March 16, 1972.)

School Board's Rejection of Mediation Recommendation Held Nonarbitrable

Under the Public Employees' Fair Employment Act (PEFEA), Section 209, a school board acting in a legislative capacity is allowed to reject a fact-finder's recommendations for resolution of a negotiation impasse, publicize its action, and conduct a hearing on the impasse to which it is a party. The New York Supreme Court, Nassau County, so ruled after determining that the North Bellmore Teachers Association's (NBTA) dispute with the Union Free School District No. 4 over a salary schedule and insurance benefit reopener was not arbitrable.

The court based its ruling on a collective bargaining provision limiting grievance arbitration to those disputes concerning "the meaning, interpretation or application of this Agreement." The court pointed out that the disputed issues were proposed in order to amend the agreement and not applicable to "any existing provision."

The court rejected the Association's contention that the school board violated the Association's constitutional rights by acting on the factfinder's recommendations in both an executive and legislative capacity. The court noted that Sec. 209 foresaw the possible rejection of recommendations by the board (acting in a legislative capacity), and a subsequent public hearing at which teachers may voice objections to the board's action.

The NBTA claimed that Sec. 209 was unconstitutional since it permitted the board to deny union members equal protection, due process, and free speech by holding a hearing on a negotiation dispute to which it was party. However the Association failed to document its objections to the law, and based on precedent, the court accordingly presumed the PEFEA's constitutionality.

Likewise, the court held that the board, because it followed the procedure outlined in the PEFEA, in no way violated due process requirements. The legislative hearing process was affirmed as being "reasonably designed to effectuate the State's policy of uninterrupted function of the public education system." (North Bellmore Teachers Association v. Board of Education, Union Free School District No. 4, New York Supreme Court, Nassau County, November 15, 1971.)

UTAH

College Teacher Awarded Damages In Tenure Case

A United States District Court ruled that officials of a public junior college and State Board of Education acted arbitrarily and without legal cause when they denied an associate professor permanent status and continued employment. The court awarded the teacher a total of $54,100 in special, general, and punitive damages.

The plaintiff was employed as a professor at the college from 1965-69. The Utah State Board of Education, which has jurisdiction over the college, grants permanent status to full-time certified or professional staff members who work at an institution for three consecutive years, who give good service, and who show promise of continued good service. College policy provided that professors would be terminated for incompetency, immorality, misconduct, insubordination, unprofessional activities, or persistent violation of college policies. Permanent status was customarily granted to employees who are employed at the college for three consecutive years, and who are recommended by the department head and the faculty personnel committee.

During the 1967-68 academic year, the department head and the faculty personnel committee recommended that tenure be granted to the plaintiff. However, college officials rejected the recommendations. The rejection was approved by the state board of education without providing the plaintiff with a hearing.

The college officials then influenced the faculty personnel committee to reverse itself and deny both tenure and employment to the plaintiff.

The plaintiff charged that this action was taken to "punish" him for his political activities and his conduct while he served as the president and executive committee member of the faculty association. The plaintiff also contended that his reputation among students and faculty was ruined by statements of the college president and dean that his dismissal was based on serious misconduct, the details of which could not be made known. Consequently, the plaintiff found it impossible to find another teaching position.

The court found that the defendants' actions deprived the plaintiff of certain legal rights and due process of law as well as being arbitrary and without legal cause. The court ruled that the plaintiff be awarded $4,100 for loss of salary and $40,000 for general damages. Both the president and dean of the college were to pay the plaintiff $2,500 for punitive damages. (Smith v. Losee, United States District Court, January 28, 1972.)

BOARD FINDINGS AND RULINGS

MICHIGAN

MERC Determines Overall Faculty and Academic Staff Units in Higher Education

Acting upon precedent, the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) created appropriate bargaining units for full-time faculty, supportive academic staff, part-time lecturers, and medical school faculty at Eastern Michigan and Wayne State Universities.

• At Eastern Michigan University, three unions sought to represent university employees in a unit composed of teaching faculty, librarians with faculty rank, academic advisors, counselors, resident hall advisors, and lecturers with a contact load of six or more hours for two or more consecutive semesters. One union also sought the inclusion of department chairman.

The university-employer asserted its right as a constitutionally independent body, and emphasized the unique employer-employee relationship existing within an academic community, thereby exempting the university from MERC's jurisdiction. The Commission deemed these objections to lack merit, as such contentions had been previously rejected. (NRD 5.7)

Turning to the union's demands, the university sought exclusion of all nonteaching academic personnel and lecturers, but opted for inclusion of military science professors in a unit of teaching faculty.

The Commission determined that all faculty lecturers and academic staff composed the appropriate unit. But the Commission excluded department chairmen and military science instructors, as the former were responsible for hiring and salaries and the effective recommending of faculty for promotions and tenure, while the latter were active military personnel paid by the Department of Defense. (Matter of Eastern Michigan University, Public Employer and Eastern Michigan Chapter, American Association Professors et al, Petitioners, Eastern Michigan University Faculty Association, MEA-NEA, Intervenor, Michigan Employment Relations Commission, February 4, 1972.)

• Employee representation at Wayne State University was sought by five unions, each of whom submitted different unit composition proposals. The proposed units were: a) a combination of instructional and staff personnel, including department chairmen; b) medical college faculty only; c) faculty eligible for tenure, including department chairmen; d) an addition of academic staff, including librarians, to an existing certified unit of professional and administrative employees; and e) an all-inclusive unit as determined to be appropriate by MERC.

Upon hearing the petitions, the Commission decided that department charimen were supervisors, warranting their exclusion from an overall faculty unit. Additional exclusions were applied to part-time faculty and academic employees, and executive and supervisory staff. The faculty of the college of medicine were found to have a sufficient community of interest with the remainder of the university teaching faculty, and academic staff.

In both cases, MERC based its decision on the overriding factor of each group's common interest and focus in the educational process, despite the diversity of duties, working conditions, educational levels attained, and policy-making functions. (Matter of Wayne State University, Public Employer and Wayne State University Federation of Teachers et al., Petitioners. Wayne State University Faculty Association, Intervenor, Michigan Employment Relations Commission, February 4, 1972.)

Back Pay and Insurance Benefits Awarded for Forced Maternity Leave

An arbitrator held that a "constitutional rights" clause in the contract between the Southgate Education Association and the Southgate Board of Education restricted the board's authority in regard to enforcement of a maternity leave policy. The arbitrator ruled that a teacher, upon her physician's approval, must be granted a reasonable extension of the date for taking maternity leave. This ruling was based on contractual language upholding individual constitutional rights, and "the general thrust of employment law which is to eliminate the historical restrictions, often arbitrarily imposed, relative to the length of continued work by a pregnant female employee."

On precedent of Cohen v. Chesterfield County Board of Education wherein failure to consider pregnancy as a medical condition was held to be discriminatory, the arbitrator ruled that the teacher had the right to continue teaching. He accordingly awarded her back pay and maternity benefits with interest, reinstatement of fringe benefits, and reassignment to her teaching job. (Southgate Board of Education and Southgate Education Association, American Arbitration Association, August 3, 1971.)

NEW JERSEY

College Department Chairmen Excluded from Bargaining Unit

The New Jersey Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC) determined that department chairmen were supervisors and should be excluded from a nonsupervisory unit of teaching faculty represented by the Mercer Community College Faculty Association (MCCFA).

The PERC reversed a hearing officer's findings which included chairmen with nonsupervisory faculty members. The PERC found that, unlike the faculty, chairmen have a reduced teaching load and are posited with administrative and supervisory authority over their departments.

The exclusion of the chairmen was based on Section 34.13A-5 (3) of the New Jersey Employee-Employer Relations Act, which prohibits the inclusion of any "supervisor having the power to hire, discharge, discipline, or to effectively recommend the same. . .," in a unit that "admits nonsupervisory personnel to membership," unless established practice, prior agreement or special circumstances justifies the inclusion of supervisors.

The PERC upheld the college's claim that chairmen have the power to effectively recommend hiring, discharging, and retention of faculty within their departments. The Commission also found that chairmen informally negotiated a separate salary schedule the previous year. PERC, noting "no established practice to permit the chairmen's inclusion with teaching faculty," denied the Association's petition. (Mercer County Community College Board of Trustees v. Mercer County Community College Faculty Association, Public Employment Relations Commission, August 6, 1971.)

School Board Held to Negotiated Class Size Goals

An arbitration award favorable to the Trenton Education Association enjoined the Trenton Board of Education to limit the number of pupils per class within the confines of the negotiated class size provision.

The agreement stipulated a desired class size goal of 25 pupils per teacher, with a proviso that no class would exceed 30 pupils. The arbitrator found that the board failed to maintain class size within the contractual limits. The board was ordered to live up to the "clear and definitive language" of the agreement and to reduce class size within two months to the contracted limits.

Over the board's objection that the remedy was only advisory, the arbitrator bound the board to the settlement. He stated: "The association and those it represents are entitled to what they negotiated for and to what they secured agreement. To hold otherwise would be to make a sham of the collective negotiations process and the resulting contract." (Trenton Education Association and Trenton Board of Education, American Arbitration Association, January 14, 1972.)

NEW YORK

PERB Includes Department Heads in Administrators' Negotiating Unit

A petition for decertification was granted by the New York Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) which removed high school department heads from a classroom teachers' bargaining unit and included them in an administrator's unit.

The petition was filed by the Administrative Group of Troy, and was supported by the board of education and department heads. The administrative Group stated that the supervisory functions of the department chairmen conflict with the interests of rank and file classroom teachers, and are more closely related to the activities of administrators. The Troy Teachers Association opposed the petition, and contended that department heads as teachers shared a community of interest with classroom teachers.

In reviewing the case, the PERB found that principals and department heads shared an almost equal role in both hiring and teacher evaluation, an administrative role in the governance of the department, an "active" role in curriculum development, and responsibility for drafting departmental budgets.

The PERB concluded that department heads should not be included in the same negotiating unit as teachers even though department heads do share a community of interest with teachers. However, these interests are "outweighed by the sharp conflict inherent in the department heads' important role in hiring, evaluation, retention and assignment of teachers." The PERB pointed out that department heads have no apparent conflict of interests with administrators.

The PERB decided that an appropriate unit would include principals, assistant principals, directors, supervisors, coordinators, administrative assistants, federal program evaluators, and department heads. (Board of Education of the En-Larged City School District of Troy and the Administrative Group of the Enlarged City School District of Troy and the Troy Teachers Association, New York Public Employment Relations Board, July 9, 1971.)

No Penalty for Striking Under Provocation

In a mid-December ruling, the New York Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) refused to penalize the Ulster County Community College

Faculty Association (UCCCFA) for conducting an illegal strike. While finding the NEA-affiliated Association guilty of striking in violation of the state's Taylor Law, the PERB simultaneously ruled that "the public employer and its representatives engaged in such acts of provocation as to detract from the responsibility of the association."

The PERB refused to suspend the Association's dues check-off privileges (the statutorily prescribed penalty for striking unions), and ordered the Ulster County Legislature to cease and desist from "(a) refusing to explain its negotiations posture and (b) unreasonably refusing to meet with the association for extended periods of time and (c) making concessions and withdrawing them alternatively in a manner that does not reflect an intention to reach an agreement."

The PERB's ruling came on an improper practice complaint filed by the Association, charging the college's board of trustees and the county legislature with failure to negotiate in good faith. Bargaining talks began in February 1970. During the summer of 1970 the county legislature rejected a 17 percent salary increase recommended by a PERB mediator and agreed to by the college board of trustees, the authorized bargaining agent. The legislature rescinded the trustees bargaining authority and refused to negotiate for two months. A strike called by the UCCCFA, and supported by a student boycott, followed.

A settlement ultimately was reached, but the PERB held that the county legislature's actions in agreeing to a salary increase beyond its authority and subsequently rejecting an agreement signed by the trustees constituted an improper practice and were "extremely provoking." (Board of Trustees of Ulster Community College and Ulster County Legislature and Ulster County Community College Faculty Association, Public Employment Relations Board, December 13, 1971.)

RHODE ISLAND

Contracts Must Be Reduced to Writing

The Rhode Island Labor Relations Board, hearing a case brought by the Burrillville Teachers Association, found the local school committee guilty of an unfair labor practice.

The RILRB found that the Association and the school committee reached an oral agreement, with some unresolved issues sent to arbitration. However, the school committee rejected two award provisions, namely, one calling for binding arbitration of disputes and the arbitrator's rejection of the committee's proposal that negotiation be held after the financial town meeting. The committee rejected binding arbitration of disputes on the grounds that state law prohibits any arbitration involving monetary expenditures.

The RILRB, in issuing its ruling ordering the school committee to execute a contract, interpreted the applicable sections of the Michaelson Act as not intended to prevent expenditures for binding arbitration. Further, the Board noted that the Act required both parties to negotiate a written contract without hinging it on the outcome of a town meeting, since compliance with the letter of state statutes is paramount.

The Board ordered the school committee to accept both awarded provisions and reduce the contract to writing. (Rhode Island State Labor Relations Board and Burrillville School Committee, Rhode Island State Labor Relations Board, February 4, 1972.)

WISCONSIN

School-Board Policy Affecting Conditions Employment Found Negotiable

An arbitration award stressed that school boards must negotiate policy changes affecting negotiable conditions of teacher employment. Further, the right of school boards to regulate instructional programs did not include the right to change conditions of employment as affected by program changes.

However, the arbitration panel, on a technicality, dismissed the Madison Teachers, Inc.'s, charge that the Madison Joint School District No. 8 School Board altered conditions of employment in violation of a collective bargaining agreement, by establishing a new supervisory position of learning coordinator.

The duties of the disputed position according to the board included evaluation of teachers, assigning interns, and acting as a liaison with principals. The arbitration panel viewed these duties as intrinsically related to conditions of employment, thereby making the learning coordinator position a negotiable item. However since the law mandating negotiation was passed after the position's creation, and was neither negotiated nor included in prior board policy, it therefore fell within the realm of board prerogatives. The parties' 1971 agreement provided for unilateral school-board action on any subject that was neither negotiated nor written up as board policy.

The arbitration panel cautioned the board not "to change conditions of employment of members of the bargaining unit which are specifically fixed by the Negotiated Agreement or written policies of the Board without the consent of MTI." (Madison Teachers, Inc., and Joint School District No. 8, City of Madison, et al., Arbitration Award, February 23, 1972.)

NEGOTIATION NOTES

CALIFORNIA

"Meet and Confer" Rule Not Sole Means of Employer-Employee Discussions

An appeals court rejected a teacher association's petition to bar administrators from meeting with teachers to discuss negotiable items in an effort to weaken the association's bargaining status.

The Torrance Education Association met and conferred with the administration on negotiable items. The association members were required to attend additional meetings with the administration without the presence of the negotiating council. The association contended that at these sessions the administrators conferred on negotiable items, and made disparaging remarks about the local and state associations, effectually undermining teacher-employer relations.

The association charged the school administrators with violating the Winton Act, interfering with the association's contract with its members, and illegally holding meetings at which matters subject to negotiation were discussed.

A prior ruling by a county court held that the Winton Act did not "prohibit a school from requiring teachers to attend faculty meetings where administrators discuss matters which are among the permissible subjects of 'meet and confer' sessions."

A court of appeals upheld the lower court verdict, and stated that the Winton Act only provided "a procedure for dealing with public school employment relations" by setting up a new means of communication between employers and employees, since "meet and confer" sessions were not designed as the exclusive means of employer-employee communications. The court also noted that the association objected more to the subjects discussed than to the compulsory and closed nature of the meetings, while pointing out that subjects upon which administrators and the association confer can also be discussed at meetings of administrators and teachers.

The court found that the derogatory remarks against the association indicated no more than disagreement with the association's position. The association's allegation that its contract with individual members was subverted, proved unsupportable since the Winton Act provided only for meet and conferral sessions, not collective bargaining.

The association cited the National Labor Relations Act (NLRA), stating that bargaining directly with employees undermines the mode of bargaining. The court viewed this argument as irrelevant, since a school board is not required to bargain in the NLRA sense, and furthermore the administration was never accused of bargaining with individual teachers, but rather conferring with teachers, and making anti-association remarks. (Torrance Education Association vs. Board of Education of the Torrance Unified School District, et al., Court of Appeals, November 21, 1971.)

HAWAII

Nonmember Service Fee Sustained

The Hawaii Public Employment Relations Board (HPERB) certified as "reasonable" a $77 nonmember service fee petitioned for by the Hawaii State Teachers Association (HSTA). This assessment, which equals the Association's dues, was approved on the basis of "anticipated expenses for one year" of negotiation and contract administration as authorized under Section 4 of Hawaii's Public Employment Bargaining Act.

Subsequently, the Hawaii Federation of Teachers (HFT) filed a petition to enjoin deduction of the proposed service fee, arguing that the assessment was not applicable until the effective date of the contract since the only measure of service performed was the execution of a negotiated contract. However, the HPERB ruled that the Act did "not speak in terms of 'finished goods produced' but merely in terms of 'services rendered,'" and ordered a service fee retroactive to the beginning of negotiation.

Also rejected was the Association's argument that the legislature intended service fees to equal union dues, and that a fee less than the rates of dues would be discriminatory. The Board pointed out that Sec. 4 required "review [of service fees] by the Board and [limited] such fees to a pro rata share of the cost of negotiations and contract administration " According to the Board, the service fee should cover only direct and indirect bargaining and contract administration services, such as maintenance of quarters, research, and personnel necessary to carry out negotiation and administrative operations. The HPERB hearing officer found that the actual cost of these services came to $82.54 per teacher, $5.54 more than the HSTA's dues. However, the HPERB Rules and Regulations restricted service fees to an amount no greater than union dues. Thus, the service fee was set at $77 for an interim period of one year.

The hearing officer added that the provision for a "reasonable" service fee based on actual costs and imposed on all employees was a "modified agency shop" clause. (In Matter of Hawaii Teachers Association, Hawaii Public Employment Relations Board, October 27, 1971.)

NEBRASKA

Public Employers May Set Recognition Requirements

The Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations (NIRC) ruled that a public employer may establish conditions for recognition of a bargaining unit's exclusive representative if such conditions do not violate state or federal constitutions or statutes. The Lincoln Electrical System (LES), a city-owned utility, required the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 1536 (IBEW), a union seeking representation of LES employees, to receive a simple majority of the vote with at least 80 percent of the employees participating in the election.

Finding that Nebraska law regarding secret balloting is "clearly permissive," the NIRC pointed out that "since an employer is neither required to grant exclusive recognition nor to agree to an election for that purpose, an employer can insist as part of the election agreement upon any condition which is not in violation of state or federal constitutions, statutes, or other law."

The court, in dismissing IBEW's suit objecting to the LES election conditions, noted that such requisites, while legally acceptable, might "have some uneven features." Foreseeing that the parties might agree to a different election condition formula, the court did not enjoin adherence to the 80 percent participation condition. (IBEW Local 1536 v. City of Lincoln, Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations, October 13, 1971.)

NEW JERSEY

Timing of Representation Petition Filed Prior to Successor Agreement Ruled Valid

The New Jersey Public Employment Relations Commission (NJPERC) ruled that a representation petition filed by a second union after expiration of the agreement between the Franklin Township and its Municipal Employees Association, was timely, despite a clause in the agreement providing for its automatic renewal until a successor agreement could be executed. Such a clause, the commission ruled, would permanently bar any petitioner from filing.

The petition was filed after the appointment of a mediator when negotiation reached an impasse after expiration of the old agreement but before execution of the new agreement. The commission rejected the employer's argument that after the expiration of an agreement, the parties should be protected after the appointment of a mediator for however long it takes to reach a successor agreement, as such a proposition would negate all opportunity for employees to seek a change in representation.

The employer further contended that an abuse of procedure occurred since members of the negotiating committee had signed the petitioning union's authorization cards, while no mention of the association's incumbent status was made on the petition. The commission held that employee affiliation with the two employee organizations was not evidence of bad faith, since at least 30 percent of the employees had authorized such a petition, and therefore the employer's contention was without merit.

The commission ordered that a secret ballot election be conducted among the employees in the unit. (Franklin Township, Somerset County, New Jersey, Public Employer and Department Store Drivers, Local 177, Affiliated with the Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen, and Helpers of America, Petitioner, and Franklin Township Municipal Employees Association, New Jersey Public Employment Relations Commission, December 3, 1971.)

OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST

Consumer Price Index, February 1972

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the Consumer Price Index, (CPI) rose 0.5 percent in February. The February index was 123.8 percent (1967=100), 3.7 percent above a year ago.

The February CPI increase held at 0.5 percent after seasonal adjustment. Since the Economic Stabilization Program went into effect on August 15, 1971, the CPI has risen at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 3.3 percent; in the six months previous to the stabilization program, the annual rate of increase was 4.9 percent. The rate of increase during Phase I of the wage-price freeze was 1.7 percent, while from November to February (Phase II) the CPI rose at a rate of 4.9 percent. The acceleration of the rate of CPI increase from Phase I to Phase II was attributed to the sharp increase in food prices.

In February, after seasonal adjustments, the food price index rose 1.7 percent; the index for services rose 0.2 percent, while the nonfood commodities index declined 0.1 percent.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

New Mexico

Topics concerning pension plans, collective bargaining and merit systems, and dues deduction as affecting municipal employees were covered in several recent opinions by the New Mexico Attorney General.

On the subject of pension and savings plans, the Attorney General specified that all contributions to these funds must come from the municipal employees' regular salaries and not from the municipal employer. The Attorney General also stated that municipal employees not covered by merit systems can organize and bargain collectively while employees in municipalities with merit systems can bargain on items not covered by the merit system.

Concerning dues deduction for municipal employees, the Attorney General felt that employers can deduct union dues from employees' salaries provided that such requests are voluntary, written, and revocable.

FEDERAL PAYBOARD GUIDELINES

. . . PRODUCTIVITY INCENTIVE PAY INCREASES have been exempted by the Pay Board under the Perry Amendment to the Economic Stabilization Act. Any increases are now exempt from wage guidelines when paid in conjunction with existing incentive programs related to employee productivity.

. . . FRINGE BENEFITS–PENSIONS, PROFIT SHARING, ANNUITY AND SAVINGS PLANS, GROUP INSURANCE, AND DISABILITY HEALTH PLANS–EXEMPTED as applicable to an employee unit, or the aggregate of contributions under such plans for any employee unit, not to each plan singlely. The resolution is structured around a basic "exempted benefit standard" of 0.7 percent of the base wage plus fringe compensation, creating in effect a 6.2 percent overall limit to increases. The increases are permitted in order to maintain benefit levels under existing plans, but do not apply if contributions are inceased in connection with a general wage increase with no change in the benefit level. The Pay Board indicated that this is not a hardfast rule, as each case will be considered individually in light of on-going collective negotiations, pay practices, and market disruptions.

. . . MINIMUM HOURLY WAGE RATE ESTABLISHED BY COST OF LIVING COUNCIL for which the 5.5 percent guideline does not apply. COLC says that 15 percent of the nation's workers will be affected with the establishment of a $1.90 hourly wage rate. Wages below this minimum are considered "substandard." The federal minimum wage is $1.60 per hour.

. . . PAY BOARD FULLY IMPLEMENTS OHIO MINIMUM SALARY SCHEDULE. The State-Local Government Committee won its first formal case before the Pay Board when it pressed approval of a 10 percent increase for 80,000 "low-paid dedicated" Ohio employees. The Committee pointed out that the increase was necessary since a salary comparison made in mid-1970 showed Ohio employees' pay to be 16 percent behind pay in neighboring states and 21 percent below federal employees. The Pay Board said that the 5.5 percent ceiling may be exceeded especially in school districts where teachers are paid far below the regular wage differentials. For some teachers this means a 20-22 percent increase.

STATISTICS

INDUSTRY AND GOVERNMENT OUTLAY FOR FRINGE BENEFITS

A recent Labor Department, Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) study of employer expenditures for fringe benefits as a percentage of basic wages showed the federal government contributing a larger share of employee compensation for fringe benefits than private industry (Table 1). BLS noted that while pay supplements relative to basic wages increased in both sectors, the rate of increase of federal expenditures was more than twice as fast as in industry.

Private industry outlays for fringe benefits in 1970 amounted to 26.6 percent of basic pay as against 25.1 percent in 1968 and 24.5 percent in 1966. Federal government expenditures for fringe benefits for July 1970 - June 1971 amounted to 27.8 percent of basic pay compared with 24.3 percent and 23.8 percent in 1968 and 1966, respectively. From 1968 to 1970, the rise in the ratio for private industry and federal government was 6.0 percent and 14 percent, respectively. From 1966 to 1968, gains were 2.4 percent for the private sector and 2.1 percent for the federal government.

TABLE 1.–INDUSTRY AND GOVERNMENT OUTLAY FOR FRINGE BENEFITS

Compensation Practice	Expenditures as a Percent of Basic Wages and Salaries
	Private Industry[a] January - December 1970	Federal Government[b] July 1970 - June 1971
Total, all supplements except pay for overtime, weekend, and holiday work, and premium pay for shift work	26.6	27.8
Pay for leave time (except sick leave)	8.8	11.6
Vacations and holidays	8.5	11.0
Payments to funds	c	e
Payments to workers	8.5	11.0
Vacations	5.3	8.1
Holidays	3.2	2.9
Civic and personal leave	.3	0.6
Health and insurance programs[d]	6.3	5.6
Workmen's compensation	.8	0.5
Sick leave	1.1	3.3
Life, accident, and health insurance	4.4	1.8
Retirement programs	9.1	10.0
Social security and railroad retirement	4.3	0.2
Private pension and retirement plans	4.9	9.8
Unemployment programs	1.1	0.5
Legally required programs	.8	0.4
Payments to employees	.1	0.1
Payments to funds	.1	–
Nonproduction bonuses (including awards)	.9	0.1
Savings and thrift plans	.4	e

Source: U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, "Pay Supplements for Government and Industry Compared," Press release, No. U.S.D.L. 71701, December 31, 1971.

[a]Data relate to establishments in the United States, except Alaska and Hawaii, having the indicated minimum employment size in the following industries: Manufacturing (250); retail trade (250); transportation, communication, electric, gas, and sanitary services (100); wholesale trade (100); engineering and architectural services (100); commercial research and development laboratories (100); finance, insurance, and real estate (50).

[b]Data provided by the Civil Service Commission and Office of Management and Budget.

[c]Less than 0.05 percent.

[d]Includes items in addition to those shown separately.

[e]No such program in the Federal Government.

GRIEVANCE PROCEDURES – FINAL APPEAL OUTSIDE THE SCHOOL SYSTEM

The final appeal in grievance procedures negotiated in agreements effective in districts with 1,000 or more pupils enrolled was analyzed for 1966-67 and 1970-71 school years. In 1966-67, 88.7 percent of 398 negotiation agreements were found to contain grievance procedures. The incidence of grievance procedures was about the same in 1970-71 with 89.0 percent of 1,529 agreements containing grievance procedures.

The percentage of grievance procedures providing for appeal to a party outside the school system showed little change over the four year period. For both years, at least 4 out of 5 grievance procedures provided for a final appeal outside the school system. Table 1 shows a state distribution of the number of agreements with grievance procedures with final appeal inside and outside the districts.

TABLE 1.–DISTRIBUTION OF GRIEVANCE PROCEDURES WITH FINAL APPEAL INSIDE AND OUTSIDE THE SCHOOL SYSTEM 1966-67 AND 1970-71

STATE	Number of agreements with grievance procedures		Final inside the System				Final outside the System
	1966-67	1970-71	1966-67		1970-71		1966-67		1970-71
			Number	Percent	Number	Percent	Number	Percent	Number	Percent
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
Alaska	...	1	...	...	...	...	...	...	1	100.0%
Arizona	...	5	...	...	2	40.0%	...	...	3	60.0
Arkansas	...	1	...	...	1	100.0	...	...	...	...
California	...	9	...	...	2	22.2	...	...	7	77.8
Colorado	1	8	...	...	2	25.0	1	100.0%	6	75.0
Connecticut	33	58	13	39.4%	6	10.3	20	60.6	52	89.7
Delaware	...	10	...	...	6	60.0	...	...	4	40.0
D.C.	...	1	...	...	...	...	...	...	1	100.0
Florida	...	2	...	...	2	100.0	...	...	...	...
Idaho	...	1	...	...	1	100.0	...	...	...	...
Illinois	7	66	4	57.1	24	36.4	3	42.9	42	63.6
Indiana	...	19	...	...	6	31.6	...	...	13	68.4
Kansas	...	1	...	...	1	100.0	...	...	...	...
Kentucky	...	2	...	...	1	50.0	...	...	1	50.0
Maine	...	17	...	...	1	5.9	...	...	16	94.1
Maryland	...	20	...	...	8	40.0	...	...	12	60.0
Massachusetts	54	119	6	11.1	4	3.4	48	88.9	115	96.6
Michigan	227	241	22	9.7	15	6.2	205	90.3	226	93.8
Minnesota	...	5	...	...	4	80.0	...	...	1	20.0
Montana	...	1	...	...	...	...	...	...	1	100.0
Nevada	...	2	...	...	...	...	...	...	2	100.0
New Hampshire	...	4	...	...	...	...	...	...	4	100.0
New Jersey	1	215	...	...	41	19.1	1	100.0	174	[illegible].9
New Mexico	...	1	...	...	...	...	...	...	1	100.0
New York	11	339	2	18.2	68	20.1	9	81.8	271	79.9
North Dakota	...	2	...	...	...	...	...	...	2	100.0
Ohio	...	36	...	...	18	50.0	...	...	18	50.0
Oregon	...	1	...	...	1	100.0	...	...	...	...
Pennsylvania	1	14	...	...	3	21.4	1	100.0	11	78.6
Rhode Island	6	21	...	...	...	...	6	100.0	21	100.0
Texas	...	1	...	...	...	...	...	...	1	100.0
Utah	...	5	...	...	2	40.0	...	...	3	60.0
Vermont	...	2	...	...	...	...	...	...	2	100.0
Virginia	...	3	...	...	...	...	...	...	3	100.0
Washington	...	8	...	...	5	62.5	...	...	3	37.5
Wisconsin	12	119	6	50.0	26	21.8	6	50.0	93	78.2
Wyoming	...	1	...	...	...	...	...	...	1	100.0
TOTAL	353	1,361	53	15.0%	250	18.4%	300	85.0%	1,111	81.6%

Final appeal outside the system may be advisory or binding, and involves various types of third-party assistance. Of the 1,111 grievance procedures with an outside appeal for 1970-71, 3 out of 5 procedures provided for a final and binding decision on appeal outside the school system, whereas, 2 of 5 procedures provided for this type appeal for 1966-67. While an advisory decision on outside appeal was found in slightly over one-half of the 1966-67 grievance procedures, this type appeal declined to slightly over one-third over the four year period to 1970-71.

Over the four years from 1966-67 to 1970-71, there has been a significant shift in the ratio of advisory and binding decisions found in the final appeal provisions of the grievance procedures. While there has been an increase in the percent of grievance procedures with a final and binding decision outside the system, a corresponding decrease in grievance procedures with advisory decisions is evidenced.

In addition to shifts in the types of decisions, there has also been shifts in the type of third-party assistance. Table 2 identifies the various types of third parties called-upon to assist in the final appeal process. The various sources identified to provide assistance are: parties specifically named in the agreement (NAMED); parties jointly selected (JOINT); state departments or commissioners of education (EDUCATION); state public employee or labor boards (LABOR); United States Mediation and Conciliation Service (USMCS); American Arbitration Association (AAA); and other.

Grievance procedures in effect during 1966-67 most often specified state public employee or labor boards as final appeal bodies; in 1970-71 the largest percentage specified the AAA for outside assistance. This shift from state public employee or labor board assistance to AAA assistance between 1966-67 and 1970-71 was more pronounced in advisory than in binding appeal decisions. The AAA most often provided assistance for binding decisions on appeal in both 1966-67 and 1970-71.

Grievance procedures are negotiated to prevent and/or resolve, promptly and equitably at the lowest administrative level, problems affecting the conditions of professional teaching service. Grievances may be brought by an individual or group of teachers, by the representative organization, or by the local school board. A grievance is instituted for alleged violations, misinterpretations, or misapplications of negotiated provisions; violations of board rules, orders, or written policies; statutory violation; alleged unfair treatment; or for any personal loss, injury, or inconvenience resulting from such violations.

Most grievance procedures urge rapid processing and appropriate informality at each level of the procedure; the parties are also exhorted to make every effort to resolve the grievance prior to invoking the formal procedure. The proceedings are to be free from interference, coercion, restraint, discrimination, or reprisal. Many agreements specifically provide that all records of proceedings be filed apart from the grievant's personnel file.

The grievant often is allowed representation, usually from the teachers' organization, at each stage of the grievance procedure. While a teacher may grieve a matter personally, most agreements stipulate that the representative organization shall have the opportunity to be present and state its views at certain stages of the formal procedure. In addition, decisions reached at each step of the formal procedure generally are rendered in writing, and promptly transmitted to the grievant and the representative organization. In some agreements, the teachers' organization is allowed to process a grievance through all levels of the procedure, even though the aggrieved does not wish to pursue the matter beyond a particular level; some provisions allow only the representative organization to pursue grievances to the highest level of appeal. The teachers' organization representative engaged in processing a grievance is usually released from regular duties without loss of pay. However, some agreements provide that parties involved in grievance proceedings must neither interrupt classroom activity nor permit pupil involvement in the proceedings.

Upon institution of an alleged violation, the grievant must discuss the matter on an informal basis with his immediate supervisor, generally the building principal; some agreements emphasize that a teacher should first discuss a personal complaint with the supervisor without recourse to the actual grievance machinery. If discussions prove unsatisfactory, the formal grievance procedure is invoked by entering a written complaint or completing a standardized grievance form and submitting it to a specified supervisor. Designated time limits, usually stated as maximums placed upon each level of the procedure, are to be observed, unless extended by written mutual agreement of both parties. Although negotiated grievance procedures vary in terms of the number of appeal levels, persons or bodies to which appeal is made, time limits at various levels of appeal, and the final disposition of grievances, a formal grievance generally must be initiated within a certain number of days within which the alleged violation occurred (30 calendar days to 60 school days) and/or a "reasonable" number of days following the grievant's discussion with his immediate supervisor (five to 20 school days). Grievances brought by the representative organization group or class of teachers often are initiated above the first level of the procedure.

TABLE 2.–DISTRIBUTION OF GRIEVANCE PROCEDURES WITH ADVISORY OR BINDING DECISION BY THIRD PARTY, 1966-67 and 1970-71

Third party	Final appeal outside the school system				Advisory				Binding
	1966-67		1970-71		1966-67		1970-71		1966-67		1970-71
	Number	Percent	Number	Percent	Number	Percent	Number	Percent	Number	Percent	Number	Percent
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13
Named	3	1.0%	10	0.9%	2	0.7%	4	0.4%	1	0.3%	6	0.5%
Joint	28	9.3	172	15.5	15	5.0	90	8.1	13	4.3	82	7.4
Education	3	1.0	37	3.3	3	1.0	20	1.8	...	...	17	1.5
Labor	141	47.0	195	17.6	116	38.7	111	10.0	25	8.3	84	7.6
USMCS	5	1.7	11	1.0	...	...	4	0.4	5	1.7	7	0.6
AAA	114	38.0	646	58.1	29	9.7	181	16.3	85	28.3	465	41.9
Other	6	2.0	40	3.6	5	1.7	27	2.4	1	0.3	13	1.2
TOTAL	300	100.0%	1,111	100.0%	170	56.7%	437	39.4%	130	43.3%	674	60.7%

GRIEVANCE PROCEDURE

Definitions:

Problems:

A problem is a complaint or misunderstanding of a professional staff member concerning the violation, misinterpretation or inequitable application of District policies, rules or regulations, administrative orders or procedures, or existing laws; or concerning a complaint that a professional staff member's health or safety is jeopardized by conditions which can be corrected by the Board.

Grievance:

A grievance is an unresolved problem which becomes a grievance when either party to a disagreement states in writing that a grievance exists and requests that the procedures contained herein be invoked.

Employee:

The term employee (professional staff member) shall also mean a group of employees having the same grievance.

Purpose

The primary purpose of this procedure is to secure, at the lowest level possible, equitable solutions to a claim of the aggrieved person.

By establishing and maintaining recognized two-way communication between staff and administration, it also serves the purpose of reducing potential areas of grievance.

Time

Since it is important that grievances be processed as rapidly as possible, the number of days indicated at each level shall be regarded as a maximum and every effort shall be made to expedite the process.

The time limit specified may be extended or reduced by mutual agreement of the aggrieved person and the administration.

Participation

Nothing contained herein shall be construed as limiting the right of any person with a grievance to discuss the matter informally with any appropriate member of the administration, or as limiting the right of any person to pursue the Grievance Procedure without representation.

An aggrieved person, at each of the levels hereinafter provided, may represent himself or he may select as his representative a representative from the teacher organization to which he belongs.

The above provisions for pursuing the Grievance Procedure singly or with representation notwithstanding, the majority organization represented on the Negotiations Committee will have the right to be present at all levels beyond Level One.

Level One

An employee with a problem will first present it orally and informally to his administrator. At least one private meeting between the parties to a disagreement or problem shall take place before the formal grievance procedure is invoked.

If the problem is not resolved within five school days to the employee's satisfaction, he may present a formal claim in writing to his administrator, either directly or through his organization representative.

Within five school days after receiving the written claim of grievance, the administrator shall state his decision in writing.

Level Two

Within five school days after receiving the decision of the administrator, the aggrieved person may appeal the Level One decision to the Personnel Manager.

The appeal shall include:

A description of the problem or complaint stating specifically the act or condition, and the grounds, on which the grievance is based.

The name of the employee's representative, if any.

The course of action that has been followed, including a copy of the decision rendered in the first level and reasons why the decision is being appealed.

The action or solution desired.

The grievant shall send a copy of the appeal to the administrator rendering the Level One decision.

The Personnel Manager shall investigate and confer with the grievant within six school days. The grievant, at his discretion, may bring in his representative.

The majority organization will receive notice of the hearing and a statement of the grievance three school days prior to the hearing.

The Personnel Manager will communicate his decision in writing together with supporting reasons to the parties within seven school days after receiving the complaint.

Level Three

Within five days after receiving the decision of the Personnel Manager, the aggrieved person may appeal the Level Two decision to the Superintendent of Schools.

The appeal shall be in writing and accompanied by the original claim and copies of all previous decisions.

The Superintendent will meet with the aggrieved person in an effort to resolve the grievance. Such meetings shall take place and the Superintendent will communicate his decision in writing, together with supporting reasons, within twelve school days after receipt of the written grievance.

The majority organization will receive notice of the hearing and a statement of the grievance three school days prior to the hearing.

Level Four

If the aggrieved person is not satisfied with the disposition of the grievance at Level Three, he or his representative acting for him may, within five school days following receipt of the decision of the Superintendent, file a request in writing with the Board and the Negotiations Committee asking that an Advisory Committee be formed in the manner set forth in Article VI, Section (7) of this instrument.

An Advisory Committee shall be formed as provided in Article VI, Section 7, and shall, within twenty days from the filing of said request conduct a hearing, render a decision, and make written recommendations to the Board.

Following receipt of the recommendations of the Advisory Committee, the Board shall take official action at the next regularly scheduled meeting before which it has had five days for review.

Withdrawal

A grievance may be withdrawn without prejudice or record. However, if in the judgment of the organization's representative the grievance affects a group of employees, the organization may pursue the grievance.

In the event of withdrawal before a decision has been rendered at a given level, the organization may pursue the grievance at the level of withdrawal by the grievant; if a decision has been rendered that is acceptable to the grievant, the organization may pursue the grievance at the next higher level.

Hearing and Decisions

At each of the above four levels, the aggrieved person and his representative shall be given a reasonable opportunity to be heard.

All decisions at each level shall be in writing and shall include supporting reasons, except informal decisions at Level One.

Copies of all decisions and recommendations shall be promptly furnished to all parties in interest including the aggrieved person, his representative, and the Negotiation Commission.

Reprisals

No reprisals of any kind shall be taken by or against any party of interest or any participant in the grievance procedure by reason of such participation.

Files

Grievance proceedings shall be kept confidential at each level of this procedure and no documents, communications, or records dealing with a grievance shall be filed with the personnel files of the participants.

Forms

Forms for filing grievances, serving notices, taking appeals, making reports and recommendations, and other necessary or related proceedings, shall be jointly prepared by the Superintendent or his designee and the Negotiation Committee, and will be reproduced and given appropriate distribution so as to facilitate the prompt processing and determination of grievances.

Information

Reasonable access shall be made available to records and files of all unprivileged information necessary to the determination and processing of any grievance.

Effective Date

This revised Grievance Procedure shall become effective on August 15, 1970 and shall remain in effect until such time as revision may take place.

[SCOTTSDALE, ARIZONA]

PROFESSIONAL GRIEVANCE PROCEDURE

Definitions:

A grievant shall invoke the formal grievance procedure on the forms set forth in Schedule F which is incorporated into, and made a part of, this Agreement.

The "Aggrieved person" is the person, or persons, instituting the action.

A "grievance" is an action instituted on the belief that there has been a violation, misinterpretation, misapplication of any provision of this Agreement, or any existing rule, order, or regulation of the Board, or any other provision of law relating to wages, hours, terms, or conditions of employment.

The "teacher" includes any individual, or group, who is a member of the bargaining unit covered by this contract.

A "party of interest" is the person, or persons, who might be required to take action, or against whom action might be taken, in order to resolve the problem.

The term "days" shall mean work days.

Purpose:

The primary purpose of this procedure is to secure, at the lowest level possible, equitable solutions to the problems of the parties. Nothing contained herein shall be construed as limiting the right of any teacher with a grievance to discuss the matter informally with any appropriate member of the Administration or proceeding independently as described in Section E. of these procedures.

Structure:

There shall be one, or more, Association Representatives (building representatives) for each school building to be selected in a manner determined by the Association.

The Association shall establish a Grievance Committee which shall serve as the Association Grievance Committee. All meetings and decisions concerning any grievance shall be arranged through this committee. In the event that any Association Representative, or any member of the Grievance Committee, is a party to any grievance, he shall disqualify himself and a substitute shall be named by the Association.

The building principal shall be the administrative representative when the particular grievance arises in that building.

The Superintendent, or his delegate, shall be the administrative representative when the grievance arises in more than one school building.

Procedure:

Before entering into the following prescribed grievance procedure, it is the desire of the Association and Administration that effort has been made to resolve the problem through direct verbal communication and discussion between the parties involved. The presence of an Association Representative may be requested.

The number of days indicated at each level should be considered as maximum and every effort should be made to expedite the process. The time limits may be extended or reduced by mutual consent.

If the grievance is filed on or after June 1, the time limits may be reduced by mutual consent, if practical, in order to affect a solution prior to the end of the school year.

LEVEL ONE – A teacher with a grievance shall submit it, in writing, to his immediate supervisor or principal; individually, together with his Association Representative or through the Association Representative. A decision shall be rendered, in writing, within four (4) days after presentation of the grievance.

LEVEL TWO – In the event the aggrieved person is not satisfied with the disposition of his grievance at Level One, or if no decision has been rendered within four (4) days after presentation of the grievance, he may file an appeal with the supervisor rendering such a decision and with the Association Grievance Committee.

Within eight (8) days of receipt of the request to appeal, the Grievance Committee shall decide whether or not there is a basis for appeal. If the committee decides there is legitimate grievance, it shall immediately process the claim with the Superintendent of Schools, within the time limitations set forth in Paragraph G-8 of this Article.

LEVEL THREE – In the event the aggrieved person is not satisfied with the disposition of the grievance at Level Two, or if no decision has been rendered within eight (8) days from receipt of grievance by the Superintendent, the Association may refer the grievance to the Board of Education's Review Committee. This committee shall be composed solely of members of the Board of Education. Within twelve (12) days from receipt of the written referral to the Board, its Review Committee shall meet with the Association's Grievance Committee and a member of the Association's Negotiating Team for the purpose of arriving at a mutually satisfactory solution to the grievance problem. A decision shall be rendered within eight (8) days of the above mentioned meeting.

LEVEL FOUR – In the event that the grievance is not satisfactorily resolved at level three, the grievance may be submitted for arbitration. The arbitrator shall be selected by the American Arbitration Association in accordance with its rules which shall likewise govern the arbitration hearing. The fees and the expenses of such arbitration shall be shared equally by the parties involved. Both parties agree to be bound by the award of the arbitrator. Either party may appeal this decision to a competent court of jurisdiction. The Board and the Association shall not be permitted to assert in such arbitration proceeding any ground or to rely on any evidence not previously disclosed to the other party. The arbitrator shall have no power to alter, add to, or subtract from the terms of this Agreement.

Rights of Representation:

Any party of interest may be represented at all meetings and hearings at any level of the grievance procedure by another teacher, or another person, provided, however, that any teacher may in no event be represented by an officer, agent, or other representative of any organization other than the Association. Provided, further, when a teacher is not represented by the Association, the Association shall have the right to be present and to state its views at all stages of the grievance procedure after Level One.

Miscellaneous:

A grievance may be withdrawn at any level without prejudice or record. However, if, in the judgment of the Association Representative of the Grievance Committee, the grievance affects a group of teachers, the Grievance Committee may process the grievance at the appropriate level.

No reprisals of any kind shall be taken by or against any party of interest or any participant in the grievance procedure by reason of such participation.

All documents, communications, and records dealing with the grievance shall be filed separately from the personnel files of the participants.

Forms for filing and processing grievances shall be as presented as Schedule F. The Office of the Superintendent shall prepare copies of the Professional Grievance Report, submitting these to the President of the Association for his use.

Access shall be made available to all parties, places, and records, for all information necessary to the determination and processing of the grievance.

If any non-tenure teacher for whom a grievance is sustained shall be found to have been unjustly discharged, he shall be reinstated with full reimbursement of all professional compensation lost. If he shall have been found to have been improperly deprived of any professional compensation or advantage, the same or its equivalent in money shall be paid to him.

No teacher shall be disciplined, reprimanded, reduced in rank, or compensation, or deprived of any professional advantage without just cause. All information forming the basis for disciplinary action will be made available in writing to the teacher and the Association within ten (10) days of said action.

Any grievance not appealed from a decision at any level of this procedure within fifteen (15) days from the date of such decision, shall be considered settled. No further appeal shall be made unless by mutual agreement, where extenuating circumstances merit such consideration.

Any grievance shall be filed within forty-five (45) days after the alleged incident was known or should have been known to the aggrieved party. In such cases the disposition rendered shall indicate non-compliance with the above time limit.

The Board of Education and/or the Superintendent of Schools shall have the right of initiating a grievance. Any such grievance shall be initiated at Level Two and follow the established grievance procedure.

GARMAN SCH. DIST
FLINT, MICHIGAN

SPECIAL REPORTS

BRIEFS OF RECENT AGREEMENTS

Fort Wayne, Indiana

Between the Fort Wayne Education Association and Fort Wayne Community Schools, effective August 15, 1971, to August 14, 1972. Approximately 179 certified professional employees. Provision for renegotiation with mutual consent of both parties to revise and consider new items.
COMPENSATION: B.A., $7,450 to $12,516, 17 increments; M.A., $8,195 to $14,006, 17 increments; M.A. plus 60, $14,906 maximum.
Differentials: (B.A. base) head football, basketball and track-cross country coaches, $1,386 each (.186); all other head and assistant coaches, marching band advisor, publications advisor, and department heads, $671 each (.09); orchestra, vocal, music, and theatre arts advisors, $335 each (.045); high school Math, English, Social Studies, Science, and Music department heads, $224 each (0.3).
Substitute Teachers: unlicensed, $22.00 per day; licensed, $25.00 per day; supplemental contract based on current salary schedule to be given licensed substitute after teaching 30 consecutive days; a retired licensed teacher may teach 59 days at the substitute rate.
Other: retirement pay, .01 of B.A. base times number of years' service to be paid last month of tenure; $150 additional for new teacher's attendance at one-week orientation session; $10 per day travel expenses while attending professional meeting at least 50 miles from Fort Wayne; $18 reimbursement of pre-employment physical examination; $7.50 reimbursement for required physical examination.
LEAVES: 10 days' annual sick leave, 120 maximum, accumulated leave accrued outside the district will be credited second year in the district; 3 days for illness in the immediate family; up to 5 days for death in the immediate family; 2 days for personal business (unused days are added to sick leave accumulation); one day to be banked for each 5 teachers for professional conferences and school visitations; paid-leave for testifying in court (unless testimony is against the school district) and jury duty (less court allowances); up to 15 days for military reserve with pay of difference between regular and military pay; sabbatical leave for one half of one percent of the number of tenured teachers at one-half pay for one year paid during the year upon return, with reopener if legislation permits payment during leave; leave with pay for compensable injury less Workmen's Compensation; maternity leave for tenured teachers, nontenured teachers may request leave under same terms but are not eligible for such leave.
INSURANCE: Board pays 90 percent of the Blue Cross-Blue Shield for individual or family coverage; teachers pay $1.00 per year on $5,000 convertible term life insurance policy; tax-sheltered annuity plan; cost of long term disability insurance paying 60 percent of earning after 6 months continuing to age 65 (maximum $1,250 per month) shared equally by the teacher and the board.
INSTRUCTION: Maximum of 275 pupil-contact minutes per day for junior and senior high school teachers; class-size guidelines: overall ratio of 30 students per elementary teacher, 23 students per junior-high teacher, and 25 students per high-school teacher; one parent-teacher conference per student per semester, unless the teacher and principal decide otherwise; academic freedom to teach about controversial issues and to maintain a classroom environment which is conducive to a free exchange and examination of ideas of "economic, political, scientific or social significance" and "to use materials which are relevant to the levels of ability and maturity of the students and to the purposes of the school system."
PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with advisory arbitration; duty-free lunch period during which teachers may leave the building; preparation period equals one class period per day for junior and senior high-school teacher; monthly faculty meeting to be scheduled in advance; special meeting called only when necessary; to meet professional growth requirement each teacher must earn 5 university credits every five years (two of which may be for college-approved seminars or travel); teachers employed in the district have priority for promotions, vacancies and transfers; no teacher may be discriminated against for requesting transfer; any teacher may apply to administrative screening program for promotion; sabbatical committee to recommend sabbatical leave candidates; payroll deduction of Association dues; appearance of teachers to be "appropriate for schools;" tenure attained after 5 successive years in the district; student teacher may substitute for supervisory teacher; student behavior code (see reprint).

DISCIPLINARY AUTHORITY AND RESPONSIBILITY

It is mutually recognized that the proper excercise of discipline is an integral part of the educational process. Therefore, it is the professional responsibility of each teacher to use good judgment in making those decisions concerning student discipline that can be fairly and justly upheld by the administrative staff of the school corporation. Having followed policies, procedures, and guidelines of the school corporation and acting within the established practices of the individual school, teachers may expect the full support of the administrative staff. Note – The Board of School Trustees policy on School Behavior adopted August 10, 1970, is reproduced at the end of this booklet for convenient reference for the classroom teacher.

SCHOOL BEHAVIOR – RIGHTS, RESPONSIBILITIES, AND REGULATIONS

The entire foundation and success of public school education depends upon the basic concept of self-discipline – a self-discipline which will allow all individuals to exist in a world of change and with the individual rights afforded them by our Federal and State Constitutions. Certain standards of student conduct are necessary to assure that students seeking to express their own individual rights do not at the same time infringe upon the rights of others. The responsibility for the development and maintenance of self-discipline falls to the cooperative efforts of students, parents, teachers, administrators, and the community.

The responsibility for the development and enforcement of regulations for the protection of the rights of individuals is delegated by the Board of School Trustees to responsible officials within the School Corporation. The purpose of discipline controls is to help create an atmosphere that promotes the best possible learning environment for all those involved in the educational process.

An environment that provides equal opportunity for all and permits the teaching-learning process to proceed in an orderly manner is the objective of all school personnel. School staff members will make every effort, individually, collectively, and cooperatively, with appropriate available community resources, to help each student gain acceptable self-discipline standards.

Reprimand, corporal punishment, probation, referral to special personnel in the schools (counselor, assistant principal, principal), parent conferences, suspension, referral to special central office personnel (pupil personnel or psychological) and expulsion are courses of action available to school personnel in dealing with pupils involved in school discipline problems. Some behavior is much more serious than others and requires different approaches and clearly defined actions. Not all acts of misconduct can be itemized; however, examples of some significant misbehavior are herein listed. Any or all of the above techniques will be used to deal with the following types of behavior:

Any person or group of persons involved in stealing, damaging, or destroying personal or public property.

Any person or group of persons involved in conduct defined as criminal by law.

Any student refusing to comply with state and local attendance laws.

Any person or persons gambling on school premises.

Certain acts of misconduct in school or at school-sponsored events will be subject to immediate suspension or expulsion from school using due-process procedures. Some examples are listed below.

Any person involved in the possession of, use of, or under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs.

Any student smoking on school premises.

Any person or group of persons involved in physical threats or violence or verbal abuse to others.

Any person or group of persons aiding, encouraging, or participating in a disruptive activity that in any way disturbs the learning process and impedes another's freedom to properly utilize school facilities and programs.

Any person or group of persons involved in unauthorized occupation of any part of the school property and refusing to vacate such school property after being warned and told by a duly authorized school official as set down in Section 3 of the 1969 Trespassing on Public Property Act.

Any person having possession (on person, in vehicle, or in locker) of a dangerous weapon on school premises or any school-sponsored activity.

The Law Shall Prevail

In cases where there is any court action, the Fort Wayne Community Schools Corporation shall provide legal counsel for any employee who is a defendant or plaintiff in any situation relating to the performance of his responsibilities within the rules, regulations, and policies of the School Corporation.

Acts of 1969, Chapter 179 (H1257. Approved March 13, 1969) Section 3, An Act to Prevent Trespassing Upon Public Property, states that –

"It shall be a misdemeanor for any person to refuse to leave the premises of any institution established for the purpose of the education of students enrolled therein when so requested, regardless of the reason, by the duly constituted officials of any such institution."

Expectations Regarding Appearance

"The board of school trustees believes that proper dress and proper grooming are the responsibilities of every pupil attending the Fort Wayne Community Schools. The superintendent and the principals of the Fort Wayne Community Schools are charged with the responsibility of establishing and enforcing reasonable standards of dress and grooming necessary for the orderly operation of the schools."

As general guidelines for reasonableness, the administration will require that students wear footwear and clothing which meet standards of decency, safety, and cleanliness. Apparel and appearance deliberately planned to disrupt will not be tolerated.

School authorities will follow the practice of calling the parent if his boy or girl appears in school in questionable attire.

Wichita, Kansas

Between the National Education Association-Wichita and the Wichita Unified School District 259 Board of Education, effective August 1, 1971, to July 31, 1972. Approximately 2,952 certificated professional employees.

COMPENSATION: B.A., $6,700 to $9,040, 9 increments; B.A. plus 20, $9,560 maximum; M.A., $7,225 to $11,125, 12 increments; M.A plus 20, $11,515 maximum; Ph.D., $12,690 maximum; separate schedule for health services registered nurse, $5,485 to $6,850, 7 increments; registered medical technologist $9,040 maximum. Differentials: (Based on current B.A. base, plus .003 for each year up to 5 years) senior-high athletic activities director, $938 (.14); senior-high coordinator (8-10 teachers), head football and basketball coaches $804 each (.12); senior-high music director, $670 (.10); senior-high drama director and track coach, $536 each (.08); senior-high wrestling, swimming, golf, tennis, cross country and gymnastic coaches, $402 each (.06); junior-high coordinator (4-5 teachers) and forensic coach, $268 each (.04).
Other: regular teacher as substitute to be paid one-fifth regular compensation per class period; teacher with overload shall receive an additional one-fifth of daily rate (no more than one overload per teacher); an elementary teacher assigned 5 or more extra students shall receive $4.00 per hour or major fraction thereof; nondegree vocationally-certified teachers with 5 years experience shall be placed on step 1 of B.A. lane and may receive credit for a maximum of four years' experience; 9¢ per mile reimbursement for use of car for school business.
LEAVES: 12 days' annual temporary leave, 150 days' maximum accumulation, to be used for: personal illness or injury, personal business (3-day maximum), for illness or death in the immediate family, and for military reserve obligations; leave contingent upon administrative approval for: professional conferences and school visitations, jury duty, draft physical, and curriculum committee work during the school day; paid leave for work-related assault or injury less any other state or board-paid compensation; sabbatical leave at one-half pay for one or 2 semesters after 7 years continuous service.
INSURANCE: Tax sheltered annuity plan; disability income protection commencing when last day of temporary leave is used and continuing for 180 days at two-thirds of regular monthly salary; reimbursement of cost of board-requested medical exam.
PERSONNEL: Payroll deduction of Association dues; instructors have the right to use building, office equipment and faculty bulletin boards; "each instructor is required, as a condition of his employment, to provide and maintain space and facilities in his home to carry on his function as an instructor;" instructor may review his personnel file (excluding reference) in the presence of an authorized person, may answer any material therein and shall be provided a copy of any material upon request; 30-minute duty-free lunch period; one preparation period daily, which when combined with lunch period shall equal approximately one hour; attendance at evening meetings optional; teacher evaluation: probationary teachers, one per year; tenured teachers and school nurses, one in 5 years and during the first year after transfer or extended leave; no teacher shall be monitored by intercom without his knowledge; 14-day posting period for teacher and administrative vacancies; professional board of review, recommended by Association and approved by superintendent, has final and binding say on application of academic freedom provision; school building committee elected by the faculty "to identify problems at the building level and arrive at acceptable solutions;" board provides legal assistance to teacher sued as a result of compliance with board policy; reimbursement up to $150 for damage to clothing or personal effects in course of employment; appearance "should be consistent with the standards of the profession;" teachers may be required to collect money for educational purposes; student teacher assigned with teacher's consent.

ACADEMIC FREEDOM

It is the mutual desire of the Board and of the instructors to create and maintain in the school system a climate in which teachers are free to teach and students are free to learn at their levels of comprehension; a climate conducive to open inquiry and responsible discussion of any and all topics related to the development of mankind ethically, culturally and physically, including views and expressions on these topics which may be unorthodox or unpopular.

In order to assure the general continuity, scope, and sequence of the curriculum within the concept of academic freedom, the teacher shall conduct instructional programs in a manner consistent with the curricular objectives of the course.

The Principle of Academic Freedom

An instructor must be allowed to exercise academic freedom in a continuous effort to attain the goals of the school system. Major goals of the school system are to develop learning skills; to develop a free, reasoning individual who can think independently, who can recognize basic values and understand the fundamental ideas not only of his own but other cultures as well, and who can live compassionately with his fellow man.

The principle of academic freedom implies that an instructor must teach with an understanding and respect for the individuality of each pupil. Academic freedom further implies that an instructor will teach with a scrupulous regard for honesty and accuracy, without distortion or falsification.

Instructional Materials

In selecting instructional materials, teachers must consider the learning media to be employed, the substantive manner in which the materials may contribute to the education of the pupil, their aesthetic values, appropriateness to the curriculum and adaptability both in structure and content for a particular individual or groups of pupils, and shall not be restricted beyond these considerations.

The teacher must be free to recommend for individual study any instructional material which he believes will have educational significance for an individual pupil, and must also be free to discuss with a pupil any instructional material that the pupil reads, views or hears, whether the teacher has recommended it or whether the pupil has discovered it for himself.

Outside Speakers

The teacher must be free to invite and utilize the services of outside speakers in the classroom when the teacher believes that such speakers will have educational significance for a class of students.

Professional Review

Academic freedom guaranteed herein requires strict adherence to professional ethics. It also requires the instructor to evaluate his instruction in a continual effort to meet the highest standards set forth by the teaching profession.

All decisions rendered on the application of any of the provisions of this Article in a specific situation shall be made by a representative group of instructors employed within the school system with minority representation from other sources. This professional board of review, recommended by the Association and approved by the Superintendent, will accept problems, complaints and requests for guidance from instructors and citizens and, after given all interested parties an opportunity to present their viewpoints, shall render a judgment in accordance with this Article and the Code of Ethics of the Education Profession. Such judgment shall be final and binding upon all instructors involved in the specific situation. However, the decision of an instructor shall not be overruled or stayed pending such judgment by the professional board of review.

Newport, Rhode Island

Between the Newport School Committee and the Teachers Association of Newport, effective July 1, 1971 to June 30, 1973. Approximately 376 certified professional employees. Provision for reopener on salaries and insurance plans upon written request prior to December 1, 1971.
COMPENSATION: (1971-72) B.A., $7,400 to $11,200, 9 increments; B.A. plus 30, $11,570 maximum; M.A., $8,140 to $11,940, 9 increments; M.A. plus 30 or Ph. D., $12,310 maximum.
Differentials: Special Education teachers, $500; Substitute teachers, $25 per day for first 5 consecutive days, $30 per day for 6-10 consecutive days, $35 per day for 11th consecutive day and thereafter.
LEAVES: 1 1/2 days per month annual sick leave with 15 days credited at start of school year, 135 days maximum accumulation; 2 days' personal business leave upon notification of the building principal; 5 days' leave for death in immediate household; leave at administrator's discretion for school visitation or attendance at professional conferences; leave for jury duty at regular salary less juror compensation; 15 days' military reserve leave less military pay; extended sick leave offered to teachers with 15 years' service for prolonged illness of up to 30 days donated by staff members with no less than 15 or more years of service; 3 sabbatical leaves per year at half pay for one or two full consecutive semesters after 7 years' service.
INSURANCE: Board-paid Blue Cross physician's service coverage, major medical, and diagnostic benefits for families or individuals; board-paid term life insurance to $10,000 as per Plan A, NEA; tax sheltered annuity plan; Workmen's Compensation; personal injury benefit pays full salary up to one year for job-related accident less any settlement; school board reserves right to have its physician examine a teacher to establish duration of teacher's short-term absence for disability, in the event of disagreement between teacher's and board's physicians, binding opinion of an impartial physician will be sought.
ASSOCIATION: Payroll deduction for local, state, and national Association dues; Association permitted use of school buildings and facilities; Association to be consulted before final approval concerning renovation of old buildings or construction of new buildings.
INSTRUCTION: Teachers' workday shall not exceed 6 hours, 45 minutes, including 15 minutes before classes begin and 30 minutes after dismissal; secondary teachers not required to teach more than 2 subjects nor more than 3 teaching preparations within said subjects; desirable class size of 25 students per teacher, classes of pupils with academic problems reduced to 20 or less for optimum learning; board to organize auxiliary school personnel program to relieve teachers from nonteaching duties; Association consulted on school calendar for following year.
PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with final and binding arbitration; personnel file may be reviewed by teacher and derogatory material may not be included until the teacher has read and/or replied to said material; 30 minute duty-free lunch period for elementary school teachers and the length of student lunch period for secondary school teachers; specialist's time in class may be used by elementary school teacher for preparation; one class period per day as preparation time for secondary school teacher; teachers may be required to attend 2 evening meetings per year, 3 one hour building meetings per month after classes; provision for credits earned for professional growth as reprinted:

CREDITS FOR SALARY SCALE RECLASSIFICATION MAY BE EARNED BY SATISFACTORY COMPLETION OF:

Courses

One credit per semester hour (or credit) for courses related to the candidate's teaching field and approved by the superintendent completed beyond the Bachelor's Degree or Certificate (for nondegree holders) at an accredited college or university, inclusive of courses required to obtain Provisional certificate.

Workships, Institutes, or In-Service Programs related to the candidate's teaching field and approved by the Superintendent.

One credit per semester hour (or credit) for workshops, institutes, or in-service programs completed beyond the Bachelor's Degree or Certificate (for nondegree holders), inclusive of credits required to obtain Provisional certification.

A maximum of 15 credits may be earned by completing any combination of the activities listed below.

Authorship

Six credits for authorship of a textbook printed by a recognized textbook publisher.

A maximum of two credits for authorship of an article printed by a recognized educational, professional, or technical periodical. Number of credits awarded to be determined by the Superintendent.

Conducting a Course

A teacher conducting a course or workshop for teachers or prospective teachers may be awarded credits equal to the number given for completion of the courses for the first experience providing the teacher is not paid for conducting the course. One credit may be awarded for each repetition. Maximum: 7 credits.

Reclassification will be affected if the performance and qualifications of the applicant are satisfactory in all respects.

Credits earned by personnel in the Newport School system prior to the adoption of these provisions will be applicable toward reclassification under the terms of this schedule.

Green Bay, Wisconsin

Between the Green Bay Board of Education and the Green Bay Education Association, effective January 1, 1972 to December 31, 1972. Approximately 1,100 certified professional employees.
COMPENSATION: (based on index) B.A., $7,500 to $12,000, 11 increments; B.A. plus 15, $12,750 maximum; M.A., $8,100 to $13,500, 11 increments; M.A. plus 30, $13,950 maximum. Differentials: Head football, basketball coach, $975; head gymnastics, track, wrestling coach, $750; assistant football, basketball coach, $600; athletic director, assistant wrestling coach, $525; freshman basketball coach, department head (6-12 teachers), high school forensics director, $450; cross country, golf, junior high track coach, debate coach, athletic business manager, $375; junior and senior-high school plays, audio-visual coordinators, unit leaders, high school cheer leaders, $300; teachers of handicapped children, $200; teachers eligible for additional $75 (.01 of base) for each year of service beyond schedule.
LEAVES: 10 days' annual sick leave, 120 days' maximum accumulation; 2 days' emergency leave; 5 days' leave for serious illness or bereavement in household deducted from sick leave; leave plus expenses as needed for professional conference or school visitation; legislative leave of absence (unpaid) to serve in public office; for a continuing disability beyond accumulated sick leave days, 60 percent of pay for a period up to 4 times the number of accumulated sick leave days is board-paid, "at no time shall the 60 percent compensation for the above provision be less than 150 days in the situation where the employee has not had the opportunity to accumlate 38 days of sick leave;" sabbatical leave at half pay for no more than 2 semesters after 7 years' service.
INSURANCE: Board-paid hospitalization, accident and surgical-medical insurance coverage for individual and 80 percent of premium costs for family coverage; liability insurance coverage for teacher's property damage or loss up to $50; provision for a tax-deferred annuity program.
ASSOCIATION: Payroll dues deduction for local Association; released time during negotiations on school days for 4 Association members, up to 25 days' leave for Association business with substitute costs paid by Association; Association permitted use of school buildings and facilities; Association president released from further assignment upon completion of normal daily teaching schedule.
INSTRUCTION: Teachers' normal work week, 37.5 hours; weekly teaching load: elementary school teachers, 25 hours (kindergarten), 26.25 hours (1-2), 28.75 hours (3.6); junior-high school, 30 teaching periods and 5 preparation periods; senior-high school, 25 teaching periods, 5 preparation periods; remedial class size to be 15 or 20, study halls to be 85 or 90 students per instructor; the Association is consulted regarding class size for experimental or special programs; secondary school teachers teach no more than 2 subject areas nor more than 2 teaching preparations at any one time; teachers may be required to attend hour-long faculty meetings one day each month beginning no later than 15 minutes after class dismissal; provision for implementation of experimental and innovative projects reprinted below:

Staff members implementing such projects shall be:
Involved in developing the project objectives and goals, and in the devising or adopting of the evaluation methods and instruments.

Involved in defining teaching tasks and establishing staffing patterns, in identifying relevant curriculum content, in selecting appropriate materials and technology, and in establishing program flexibility.

Provided appropriate and adequate in-service orientation and be exposed to as many of the projected techniques, methodologies, and staffing patterns as possible before detailed program planning and/or implementation.

Responsible for the critical review and evaluation of the project and for any recommendation for continuation, elimination, and/or broader application within the district.

Compensation for staff members involved in such projects shall not be less than that paid other staff members with similar training and experience. If such projects include after school, weekend, vacation, or summer planning workshops, or evaluation sessions, the involved staff shall be compensated on a prorated basis in relation to each individual's school year contract salary. If federal programs call for payment of stipends or per diem or similar compensation method, in lieu of scheduled salary, the federal guidelines shall prevail.

Staff members in such projects who assume greater responsibility for program development, and for staff training shall be compensated in addition to the established salary schedule on a basis which provides proper equity in comparison with other teaching positions. Such salary variants shall be mutually determined by the Association and the Board.

No staff member shall be required to be a participant in an experimental or innovative project. If a building staff elects to be involved in such a project, any teacher may request and be given a transfer to another school without prejudice, provided a position is available.

Any auxiliary personnel shall be carefully selected and provided with appropriate pre-service and in-service training.

In all such projects, all pupils must be under the supervision of professionally trained and certificated personnel within the building.

Programs shall not be extended to other buildings unless the staff in those buildings have had necessary orientation. If a building becomes involved in such a project extension, any teacher may request and be given a transfer to another school without prejudice, provided a position is available. Programs shall not be adopted on a general basis prior to pilot trial and evaluation.

The Association shall be informed of the nature of each project at its inception and shall be permitted to observe and make recommendations during the planning and implementation phases.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with final and binding arbitration; personnel file may be reviewed by teacher upon request and is entitled to receive a copy of any documents other than confidential and to submit a response to any derogatory material contained therein; elementary teachers have a 60 minute noon period free of supervisory duties, including a 30 minute duty-free lunch period; secondary school teachers have a duty-free lunch period equal to time given students, but no less than 30 minutes; secondary school teachers voluntarily taking noon duties compensated on equivalent time basis; elementary school teachers may use specialists' time in class as preparation time, also granted a half day at end of first semester, half day near end of second semester, and one day at end of school year as record days; provision for teachers attending regional and state convention, for those teachers choosing not to attend, "principals may, in those buildings where a number of staff will be present, prepare an in-service program to benefit that particular school. Several schools and principals may combine for such programs, if desired;" probationary teachers evaluated at least 4 times each school year by supervisor, or authorized evaluator; vacancies posted by May 15 for following year; voluntary reassignment or transfer based on following criteria: individual qualifications, instructional requirements, staff availability, experience mix, and seniority; provision for staff reduction provides that "teachers shall be retained in the reverse order of their initial employment providing those with greater seniority are qualified for any position which is open or staffed by a teacher with lowest seniority anywhere within the school system. Staff members being considered for layoff will be notified by March 1." teacher qualifications selection criteria, and notification procedure for employment in summer school program.

SELECTED NEGOTIATED PROVISIONS CONTAINING LIABILITY, INCOME PROTECTION, OR DISABILITY INSURANCE

An analysis of 1,529 comprehensive agreements effective during the 1970-71 school year in systems with pupil enrollment of 1,000 or more revealed that 168 agreements (11.0 percent) contained income protection or disability insurance provisions, while 138 agreements (9.0 percent) provided liability insurance provisions. The analysis further revealed 70 agreements (4.6 percent) with overlapping provisions, providing both income protection/disability insurance and liability insurance.[a] The extent of school board financial participation in these programs is found in Table 1.

[a]C.F. For statistical data, "What Teachers Are Negotiating" NRD NOVEMBER 1971, pp. 20-38.

TABLE 1.–EXTENT OF BOARD PARTICIPATION IN NEGOTIATED LIABILITY, INCOME PROTECTION, OR DISABILITY PROVISIONS, 1970-71

Extent of Participation	Liability Insurance		Income Protection, Disability Insurance
	Number	Percent	Number	Percent
1	2	3	4	5
Total Board Participation	138	100.0%	168	100.0%
Full cost	87	63.0	63	37.5
Flat amount	3	2.2	20	11.9
Percent of cost	5	3.6	31	18.5
No contribution	17	12.3	22	13.1
Not indicated	26	18.9	32	19.0

Income Protection/Disability Insurance Provisions

Income protection or disability insurance programs is generally provided the teacher in the event of a protracted disability or illness. Such long-term protection is afforded to pay the individual some portion or all of his salary upon exhaustion of accumulated sick leave.

The majority of the provisions usually contained full cost, board-paid benefits based on a percentage of the teacher's salary, ranging from 40 to 80 percent. Some provisions stipulated a minimum payment of $1,000 per month. These payments may extend for the duration of the disability or until retirement, whichever occurs first. Examples of these types of provisions are reprinted below.

Each employee in an eligible capacity is automatically covered in a disability income plan six months from the first day of the month in which work starts in the eligible capacity, with no cost to the employee. The benefit will be paid starting at the end of the qualifying disability period of sixty calendar days or beyond expiration of all paid leaves, including vacation, should accrued sick leave and vacation extend beyond sixty days. Monthly benefit is two-thirds of the first $1,000 of basic pay plus one-third of additional basic pay to a maximum of $1,000 per month total benefit.

[OAKLAND, CALIFORNIA]

All full-time teachers shall be provided a long-term disability insurance policy which includes benefits of 60 per cent earnings after six calendar months of disability and continuing during disability or to age 65. Coverage shall be for 52 weeks of the year with maximum benefit payments of $1,250 per month. The cost of premium for the plan is borne equally by the participating teacher and Fort Wayne Community Schools.

Any teacher who, as a result of resignation or discharge, shall teach less than a full school year shall have applied for his or her benefit only that proportion of the above described insurance premiums which the total number of days taught bears to the total number of teaching days in the school year.

[FORT WAYNE, INDIANA]

Effective September 1, 1972, the Board shall provide long term disability insurance that will include benefits payable upon the first day after 365 days of disability at a minimum of 50 per cent of annual contractual salary with a monthly payment limit of 75 per cent (no direct offsets). Benefits shall be payable to age 65 or until termination of disability, whichever occurs first. Applicable social security benefits shall not be frozen.

Effective February 1, 1972, the Board shall provide up to a maximum of $10 per month for loss of income insurance through MESSA, or the Board's carrier.

The effective date for coverage on new employees shall be as soon after initial date of employment as is allowed by the carrier. Teachers who remain in the School District shall have continuous coverage. If an employee terminates his employment, his subsidy shall terminate on the first of the month following. In instances where cost of coverage exceeds amount of subsidy, the Board shall make provision for the excess to be payroll deductible.

The Board shall permit enrollment in the insurance programs during the open enrollment periods of the insurance companies. Changes in carrier and/or coverage shall be effective as soon as possible following the signature date of the application, subject only to the limitations of the school's carrier. The Board will not be liable for double coverage.

[LAKE FENTON, MICHIGAN]

Liability Insurance Provisions

Liability insurance provisions protect the teacher in any job-related claim arising from transporting students to school-sponsored events, assault, and loss or damage to personal property. The greater number of provisions analyzed contained board-paid plans. Very few provisions indicated no contribution. The type of insurance coverage varied, and in amounts of $20,000 to $300,000.

Examples of the types of provisions included in agreements are reprinted below.

Liability insurance coverage in the amount of $100,000.00 shall be provided to each teacher. Costs of such coverage shall be paid by the Board.

[DENVER, COLORADO]

The Board shall provide, on a fully-paid basis, liability insurance in the amount of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000.00) to all teachers of the School City of Hammond in case of suit arising from or in the performance of their duties.

[HAMMOND, INDIANA]

All employees of the Caesar Rodney School District are now covered by Liability Insurance in the amount of $100,000 per person and $300,000 per occurrence. Policy covers all employees while in the performance of their assigned duties.

[CAESAR RODNEY, DELAWARE]

It is agreed that HISD will allocate $50,000 in a special fund to cover the medical and/or hospital costs not covered by insurance of any teacher who is assaulted while on duty and while performing a job related function. In no case shall the amount paid to any individual teacher for salary and/or hospital costs exceed twenty thousand dollars ($20,000).

[HOUSTON, TEXAS]

FRINGE BENEFITS IN COMMUNITY COLLEGE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENTS

by Robert A. Patterson – Jerome M. Staller

For the academic year 1970-71, 95 collective bargaining agreements in eight states were in effect at public community junior colleges. These agreements were analyzed for fringe benefits provisions, revealing 53 agreements containing such provisions. However benefits found in agreements may not be coterminus with benefits actually received since some benefit provisions may also be included in college handbooks or unwritten agreements.

The term "fringe benefits" is applied to paid vacations, pensions, and health and insurance plans. Such benefits are often labelled wage extras, hidden payroll, nonwage labor costs, and supplementary wage practices. These benefits are received by employees at a cost to the employer, and are defined as collateral payments supplemental to the basic wage structure. For the purposes of this study, collateral payments or fringe benefits are subdivided into two groups; income maintenance or continuity programs and perperquisites.

INCOME MAINTENANCE

Income maintenance is divided into three subcategories: (a) pay for time not worked; (b) premium pay for time worked; and (c) pension and welfare plans.

Income maintenance is comprised of 21 items, the frequency of which is illustrated in Table 1.

TABLE 1.–INCOME MAINTENANCE BENEFITS

Item	Number of appearances	Percent
1	2	3
PAY FOR TIME NOT WORKED
Sick leave pay	51	96.1
Bereavement or serious family illness leave pay	30	56.6
Personal leave pay	37	66.6
Military leave pay	14	26.4
Jury duty pay	32	60.0
PREMIUM PAY FOR TIME WORKED
Teaching overloads
Beyond fixed credit hours	34	64.1
Beyond fixed students	3	5.6
Beyond fixed preparations	2	3.7
Substitute teaching	16	30.1
Committee work	2	3.7
Club sponsorship	8	15.1
Terminal leave pay	8	15.1
Longevity pay	8	15.1
Pay for split shift	1	1.9
PENSION AND WELFARE PLANS
Life insurance (full or part)	32	60.0
Health insurance	52	98.1
Long-term sickness and disability insurance	21	39.6
Liability insurance	14	26.4
Vested pension	23	43.3
Tax sheltered annuities	3	5.6
Dental or vision insurance	4	7.5

Pay for Time Not Worked

The scope of this category is paid leave to faculty who must absent themselves from work. Use of such leave is specified, and includes sick leave, personal leave, bereavement leave, short-term military leave, and leave for jury duty.

Except for military leave, all benefits appeared in over 50 percent of the agreements. Provisions providing sick leave occurred in over 96 percent. These provisions are not uniform, and contain differences in the number of days permitted and the maximum accumulation.

Personal leave and bereavement leave were only counted when independent of sick leave provisions. Personal leave provisions allocated from two to five days' maximum with no accumulation. Bereavement leave for death or serious illness in the immediate family is concentrated in the two to five days' range with no accumulation.

Sixty percent of the agreements provided faculty members with full pay less court reimbursement for jury duty, two atypical cases allowed the faculty member to receive both his pay and the court stipend.

Premium Pay For Time Worked

Premium pay for junior college faculty incorporated any specified supplements for teaching more than the maximum number of credit or contract hours, number of students, or number of preparations; extra payments or reduced work loads for substitution, committee work, club sponsorship, split-shift work, terminal leave pay, and longevity pay.

Overload pay for teaching more than the maximum number of credit or contract hours appeared in 64 percent of the agreements, but additional pay for student overloads or preparation overloads was rare.

Premium pay for substitute teaching appeared in 30 percent of the agreements. Supplementary pay for club sponsorship, terminal leave pay and longevity pay provisions each appeared in only half as many.

Pension and Welfare Plans

Vested pensions; tax sheltered annuity programs; life, health, dental, and vision insurance programs; and long-term sickness and disability insurance program provisions comprised this category. Nearly all contracts (98 percent) contained some form of health insurance program with the institution paying the full premium for the faculty member and his immediate family in three-fourths of the agreements. Of the remaining agreements, six provided full payment for the faculty member with partial payment for dependents; seven paid only the faculty member's health insurance; and three allowed partial payment for either the faculty member and his dependents or only for the faculty member.

Sixty percent of the agreements provided life insurance coverage with over two-thirds of the plans fully paid by the school, with the remainder contributory. Substantial variations in the amount of coverage are found in either the fully paid or contributory plans. One institution paid the full premium on a $2,000 policy, while most of the fully paid plans were for amounts in multiples of the faculty member's salary.

Vested pension plan provisions appeared in 43.3 percent of the agreements, while long-term sickness and disability insurance provisions are prevalent in 39.6 percent of the agreements.

PERQUISITES

Benefits categorized as "perquisites" are not incorporated in as many agreements as were income maintenance provisions. Perquisites are subdivided into professional improvement provisions and provisions relative to the physical comfort of the faculty member.

Professional Improvement

Professional or educational growth for the faculty member or his immediate family are usually compensated as sabbatical leave, time off plus expenses for attendance at professional meetings, free tuition at the employing institution, reimbursement for graduate study, payment of professional dues, and book discounts. Sabbatical leave (90.5 percent) and free tuition at the employing institution (52.8 percent) appeared in agreements with greatest frequency. (See Table 2.) Reimbursement for professional meetings, free tuition for dependents and graduate tuition are provided by 30 percent of the contracts.

TABLE 2.—PERQUISITES AND AMENITIES

Item	Number of appearances	Percent
1	2	3
PROFESSIONAL CONDITIONS
Sabbatical leaves	48	90.5
Professional meeting expenses	26	49.0
Free tuition at institution
Individual	28	52.8
Family	20	37.7
Graduate credit tuition	16	30.1
Payment toward professional dues	3	5.6
Discount at college bookstore	4	7.5
PHYSICAL AND MISCELLANEOUS CONDITIONS
Restroom and lounges	10	18.9
Parking	19	35.8
Physical examinations	10	18.9
Free chest X rays	3	5.6
Availability of group auto insurance	1	1.9
Working space and office furniture	19	35.8

Physical and Miscellaneous Conditions

Items relative to the bodily well-being of the faculty member are incorporated in this section. Provisions for free X-ray tests and physical examinations are contained in 19 and 6 percent of the agreements.

Miscellaneous benefits for the physical comfort of the faculty member occurred in no more than 36 percent or the agreements. Provisions for rest rooms and lounges, group auto insurance, free parking, and working space and office furniture are also found, with provisions for parking and office comfort having the highest frequencies. The negotiated content of the analyzed agreements illustrates a desire not only to improve the economic and professional welfare of the faculty through fringe benefits, but also to clarify and uniform ambiguous policies which were handled informally on a case-by-case basis.

ERRATA

NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST, March 30, 1972, Vol. 5, No. 7, p. 30.

Table 1 should read:

TABLE 1.—NEGOTIATED LEAVE PROVISIONS CONCERNING TEACHER EXCHANGE AND SERVICE PROGRAMS IN COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS, 1970-71

Item	Number	Percent
1	2	3
TOTAL COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS ANALYZED	1,529	100.0%
Total Agreements Containing Provisions on Exchange Teaching Service Programs	547	35.8
Peace Corps	437	28.6
Exchange teaching, general	320	20.9
VISTA	202	13.2
Exchange teaching, foreign	158	10.3
Exchange teaching, domestic	108	7.1
Department of Defense schools	64	4.2

The percents as tabulated were based on 1,291 provisions, instead of 547 agreements. The remainder of the table and text is correct as appears.

VOL. 5 NO. 10
JUNE 1972

NRD
NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST

CONTENTS

Page

Case Reviews 3
- Stiffer Retrial Penalties Reversed; Contempt Citations Upheld
- Pay For Strike Make-Up Days Denied
- Court Denies Petition For Injunctive Relief
- School Board Unauthorized To Agree to Binding Arbitration
- Third Party Payments Allowed by Court
- Court Reverses MERC; Interns And Residents Not Public Employees
- Teacher Contempt Sentences Upheld; Field Representative Acquitted
- Arbitration Stayed, Negotiated Requisites Not Met
- PERB's Remedial Power Upheld

Board Findings and Rulings 7
- Teacher's Right To Due Process Denied; Salaries Prior To Demotion Restored
- Teacher's Judgment That Classrooms Unfit Upheld
- Negotiable Items Clarified; Latitude Of Board Prerogatives Limited
- Probationary Teacher Reinstated: Board Neglected To Define Performance Standards
- Financial Squeeze No Justification To Abrogate Contract
- Denying Work To Association Members During Strike Declared Unfair Labor Practice
- PLRB Reverses Itself; Interns and Residents Are Public Employees
- NLRB Determines Appropriate Bargaining Units For College Faculty

Negotiation Notes 11
- California: Brown Act Amended
- Nevada: Physicians Union Established
- PERB Issues New Decision On Status Of Managerial And Confidential Employees
- Job Classification Grievance Subject To Binding Arbitration
- Arkansas: Unfair Employment Practices Codes
- Oklahoma AGO: Right To Determine Bargaining Agent Affirmed
- EEOC Revises Equal Employment Opportunity Codes
- Consumer Price Index: April 1972
- Teacher Unity: Association/Union Mergers
- Federal Pay Board Guidelines

Statistics 15
- Health Provisions In Negotiated Agreements: 1970-71
- Collective Bargaining Settlements: 1971
- Written Negotiation Agreements Survey: 1971-72

Special Reports 24
- Briefs Of Recent Agreements
- Terminal Leave Pay Provisions: 1970-71

Text 32
- Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Guidelines On Discrimination Because Of Sex
- Permissible Annual Aggregate Increase, Pay Board Ruling

RESEARCH DIVISION
NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

Copyright © 1972 by the
National Education Association
All Rights Reserved

2241

NEGOTIATION AGREEMENT PROVISIONS FOR TEACHERS

1972 Edition

Published by
Research Division
National Education Association

The NAP is a four part source document providing a comprehensive report on the contents of more than 1,500 comprehensive negotiation agreements in education for the 1970-71 school year. All data are derived from the NEA Research Division's depository of agreements, and are categorized for easy reference in the NAP. General agreement information is now supplemented by more than 300 specific entries, itemized numbers of leave days, and extensive data on grievance and negotiation procedures, committees, and board contributions to group insurance coverage for teachers.

Cost of the four-part set comprising over 2,000 pages is $40.00 (Stock No. 38811940); for NEA affiliates and associations, $25.00 (Stock No. 38811938). Inquiries should be addressed to the NEA Publication Sales, 1201 Sixteenth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. 20036.

The NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST is published 10 times per year, September through June. Single copy, $3.00; 2-9 copies, 10% discount; 10 or more copies, 20% discount.

Subscription Rate: One year subscription to the NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST for NEA members and NEA affiliates, $15.00; for others, $30.00. Send inquiries to the NEA Records Division.

Reproduction: No part of this DIGEST may be reproduced in any form without written permission from the NEA Research Division, except by NEA departments and affiliated associations. In all cases, reproduction of the NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST materials must include the usual credit line and copyright notice.

Services: Subscribers who request full text reprints of major articles in the Case Reviews or Board Findings and Rulings will be sent copies where available, or citations for judicial decisions.

Subscribers may order copies of full text agreements or negotiation provisions analyzed or reprinted in the DIGEST for a minimum charge of $2.00. This charge provides up to 15 pages of xeroxed material; pages in excess of 15 are charged at the rate of 10¢ each. Each request should include a check for $2.00 payable to the National Education Association.

Address communications regarding the DIGEST to Donald P. Walker, Chief, Negotiation Research Unit, or Joseph A. Falzon, Senior Staff Associate, Research Division, National Education Association, 1201 Sixteenth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. 20036.

CASE REVIEWS

FLORIDA

Stiffer Retrial Penalties Reversed; Contempt Citations Upheld

The Dade County Classroom Teachers Association appealed the final judgment and sentences for criminal contempt against teachers who violated a temporary strike injunction imposed by a circuit court and later affirmed by the state supreme court. (NRD, 11-70,3.)

The teachers association contended that the circuit court's contempt judgment and sentences were invalid because the teachers resigned before the injunction was issued, as well as being "improper, illegal and in excess of the court's discretionary power to sentence for indirect criminal contempt." The association also argued that the supreme court judge erred when he withdrew from the jury's consideration the issues of whether the teachers were under contract and whether they had premeditated noncompliance with the injunction.

The appeals court upheld the original contempt citations and dismissed as inconsequential the charge that the lower court judge erred when he instructed the jury to disregard certain facts of the case. The superior court also set aside the association's contention that the sentences should be vacated since a circuit court judge indicated that no penalties would be imposed if the teachers publicly apologized for their actions.

The court did support the association's charge that stiffer penalties on retrial are invalid. The appeals court, based on U.S. Supreme Court decisions, stated that stiffer penalties on retrial are permitted only if new evidence is introduced which warrants additional penalties. Since no factual data was introduced to warrant increased penalties, the court concluded that the sentences imposed by the state supreme court were invalid. (Dade County Classroom Teachers v. Leonard H. Rubin et al, Florida Court of Appeals, February 15, 1972.)

ILLINOIS

Pay For Strike Make-Up Days Denied

Parties at arbitration must adhere only to decisions emanating from issues specifically submitted to arbitration. The Illinois Court of Appeals so ruled in accordance with state arbitration statutes and prior rulings, nullifying a lower court award which granted pay to teachers for strike make-up days.

The arbitrator ruled on the salary items submitted, and ordered that teachers not be required to work any days without pay. The lower court interpreted the award to mean that teachers would be paid for strike make-up days.

On appeal, the higher court upheld the school board's contention that it was not bound to an arbitration award unless both parties agreed to arbitrate the controversial issue of rescheduling two school days lost during the walkout to complete the statutory school year. Finding that the arbitrator had exceeded his authority, the court declared void and unenforceable the lower court ruling granting teachers pay for strike make-up days. (Board of Education, Bremen Community High School District 228 v. District 228 Joint Faculty Association et al., Illinois Court of Appeals, First District, February 11, 1972.)

KANSAS

Court Denies Petition For Injunctive Relief

The Liberal-National Education Association (LNEA) petitioned the Seward County district court for injunctive relief against the Liberal Board of Education's refusal to recognize the LNEA as the bargaining agent for the purpose of collective negotiation. The court denied the petition because other administrative reliefs, i.e., appeal to the State Board of Education, had not been exhausted. The court's findings of fact also revealed a good faith doubt of the LNEA's majority support as the exclusive representative of the professional employees.

In October 1970, the LNEA was recognized by the board as the exclusive bargaining representative. A year later, the LNEA submitted to the superintendent a list of items for negotiation. An association report stated that of the 238 teachers, 110 were members of the association.

In early December 1971, a departmental attorney of the State Department of Education, at the request of Liberal's superintendent of schools, expressed the opinion that professional employee organizations must obtain exclusive representative recognition each year. At the board's regular December meeting, the superintendent revealed that the LNEA had not reapplied for recognition and suggested that the LNEA might not represent a majority of the professional employees. The board decided to withhold recognition, and requested that the superintendent submit recommendations for informal negotiation.

Subsequent to the board meeting, the LNEA, relying on exchanges concerning negotiation made in November, requested that the superintendent arrange the time and place for negotiation. The board responded that it would not negotiate with the LNEA, but instead decided to form a committee of teachers and administrators to prepare a list of items concerning teachers' welfare, salaries and fringe benefits for the board's consideration. Following this action, LNEA submitted a verified membership list of 115 teachers; when their request for negotiation was refused, the LNEA sought the court's injunctive relief.

The court stated that under state statutes, local school boards must grant exclusive recognition to a bargaining representative for the purpose of negotiation, provided that the bargaining representative certifies that it has the majority support of the bargaining unit members. The legislation does not indicate how long such recognition lasts.

The court denied the LNEA's petition for injunctive relief because legislative remedial procedures had not been followed. The court also stated that the vacillating nature of the LNEA membership gave the board a sound basis for "good faith doubt" of the LNEA's majority support. (Liberal-NEA vs. Board of Education of Unified School District #480, Seward County, Kansas, Seward County District Court, March 31, 1972.)

MARYLAND

School Board Not Authorized To Agree To Binding Arbitration

A circuit court ruled that the Montgomery County Board of Education lacked the statutory power to enter into an agreement providing for binding arbitration of grievances.

The school board negotiated a collective bargaining agreement with the Montgomery County Education Association (MCEA) covering wages, hours and other conditions of employment, and a formal grievance procedure ending in binding arbitration.

The state superintendent of schools solicited the attorney general's opinion on the legality of binding arbitration provisions in agreements. The attorney general ruled that there exists no "legally sufficient basis for the county board of education to agree to binding arbitration of employee grievances."

A scheduled grievance at binding arbitration placed the local school board in the position of either defying the state board and submitting the grievance to an arbitrator, or conforming to the attorney general's directive in breach of its contract. The board resolved its dilemma by obtaining a temporary injunction staying arbitration, and thereby submitting the grievance to the judiciary for resolution.

The board contended that binding arbitration constituted an improper delegation of its authority since such a power was not specifically delegated by the legislature. The MCEA argued that binding arbitration was permissible since no legislation forbade it.

The court pointed out that although bargaining rights are granted to school boards and teacher organizations, legislation "neither authorizes nor suggests binding arbitration."

In reply to the MCEA's request that binding arbitration be considered only for grievances, the court responded that if binding arbitration was allowed to some degree, "by definition of grievance it would lead the local board into binding arbitration in sensitive policy matters."

The court found that the board, by agreeing to binding arbitration with the MCEA, improperly delegated its legislative authority. (Board of Education of Montgomery County vs. Montgomery County Education Association, Montgomery County Circuit Court, February 10, 1971.) [Editor's Note: Maryland PN Law amended to allow negotiation of binding arbitration of grievance procedures. (NRD, 9-71, 13.)]

MASSACHUSETTS

Third Party Payments Allowed

The Massachusetts Supreme Court modified a lower court decree that ordered a school committee to make payments to a third party for teachers' health and welfare benefits.

The Boston Teachers Union and the School Committee of Boston negotiated a collective bargaining agreement which contained a sub-agreement establishing a Health and Welfare Fund to be financed by the City of Boston through the school committee. The city refused to make the expenditures toward an insurance program adopted by the trustees of the fund, contending that such an expenditure would not be for "an acceptable municipal purpose." The teachers union filed a suit against the city through the school committee.

The case was brought before the superior court, a lower court. The judge ruled that although the negotiated agreement obligated the school committee to make certain payments to a health and welfare fund and that the trustees of the fund could expend fund monies for some teacher benefits, expenditures for certain other benefits were prohibited by state law. He concluded that the school committee should make payments directly to "covered teachers" rather than to a fund. Both parties to the action appealed the decision.

In reviewing the case, the supreme court remanded the lower court decision which invalidated third party payments, since prior federal decisions have determined, that wages, for collective bargaining purposes, include third-party payments. Therefore, the agreed-upon payments to the fund are within the powers of the school committee, and "payments to the Fund have no different impact on the city from direct payments to teachers."

Considering the insurance programs to be adopted by the fund, the court upheld the lower court's verdict that the income protection insurance proposed by the fund is a permissible expenditure under state law, despite the school committee's objection that the program afforded a health insurance unavailable to other state employees.

The supreme court viewed the lower court's order directing payments to individual teachers rather than to the fund as based on a provision of the sub-agreement which stipulated that in the event of non-implementation of the fund by January 15, 1969, all monies would be paid to the teachers as wages.

The court supported the union's contention that upon the execution of the trust agreement between the school committee and union the fund became operative. The court stated: "The decree for direct payment to the teachers might have been appropriate if it were unlawful for the city to make payments to the Fund. But here the city unjustifiably refused to make payments. Using that refusal as a basis, it seeks to frustrate the main purpose of the Fund."

The court concluded that the fund can validly provide income protection benefits to teachers, and ordered the city to pay to the Boston Teachers' Union Health and Welfare Fund the amounts stipulated in the Health and Welfare Agreement dated August 14, 1968. (John J. Kerrigan et al., plaintiffs v. City of Boston, Defendant, Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court, January 27, 1972.)

MICHIGAN

Court Reverses MERC; Interns And Residents Not Public Employees

The Michigan Court of Appeals reversed a Michigan Employment Relations Commission's (MERC) decision which granted public employee status to interns, residents, and post-doctoral fellows at the University of Michigan.

An association for medical "student" personnel had acted as the bargaining agent in negotiation on wages, and working conditions for more than five years. The state board of regents had refused to recognize the association, and contested the legality of the bargaining unit in court.

The appeals court acknowledged that interns, residents, and post-doctoral fellows have a mixed educational-employment relationship with the university. However, the state constitution grants the regents complete control of the university's educational affairs. Since the legislature did not indicate in the public employee bargaining statute the assumption of any of the regents constitutional authority, the court ruled that graduate employees are not covered by law.

The court pointed out that if it was to recognize such a bargaining unit, other assistants and students working for stipends would demand similar treatment. This situation would "reek havoc upon the ability of the Regents to control and manage the educational affairs of the university."

However, a dissenting opinion argued that in the present situation the terms "student" and "employee" are not mutually exclusive. "The regents cannot refute the fact that interns and residents do not participate in classroom work, but are engaged in clinical work . . . [and] treat patients in a clinical context, although under the supervision of hospital personnel." In this situation a "normal employer-employee relationship" exists, as the resident or intern signs a one-year agreement deemed binding by both parties and pays income taxes and derives benefits from the employer as do regular hospital employees. (Regents of the University of Michigan v. Michigan Employment Relations Commission and University of Michigan Intern-Residents Association, Court of Appeals, State of Michigan, Division 2, January 21, 1972.)

NEW JERSEY

Teacher Contempt Sentences Upheld; Field Representative Acquitted

The New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division, reversed a lower court conviction of a New Jersey Education Association (NJEA) field representative for contempt of court, but upheld the conviction of teachers who struck the Passaic schools in defiance of a strike injunction.

The field representative assigned to assist negotiation had been convicted of contempt of court by a lower court on the basis of his allusions made during negotiation sessions to "games" being played by the school board and of suggestions of a possible "work stoppage" in an effort to expedite negotiation.

The appeals court found that the representative's liaison with striking members of the Education Association of Passaic, Inc., (EAP) to be essential to settlement of the negotiation impasse and "by reasonable inference [to be] consistent with that purpose as distinguished from the purpose of aiding and abetting the strike." The court concluded that adjudication of guilt on the basis of association "would be effectively destroying the concept of negotiation," and that a representative's legally-required disassociation from striking teachers would deny "them and our society help when they need it most."

The court of appeals upheld the teacher's contempt convictions on the basis of the State Supreme Court's consistent application of the traditonal "ban" on public employee strikes.

The association contended that the notice of the strike injunction had been improperly served. Precedent has established that the defendants' presence in court at the time the injunction is issued constitutes "actual notice or knowledge" and compels compliance. The appellate court, in affirming the lower court ruling, stated that "a defendant will not be saved from sanctions for wilful disobedience by a crafty suggestion that while he knew better, no one handed him formal documentary embodiment of restraint."

The association was fined for contempt of court and sentences ranging from 30 to 90 days were handed the striking teachers. However, the sentence of the association president, who had resigned from office and reported to work when the injunction was issued, was suspended. (Matter of Education Association of Passaic, Inc. et al., New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division, December 6, 1971.)

NEW YORK

Arbitration Stayed, Negotiated Requisites Not Met

The New York Supreme Court ruled that arbitrability of public employee disputes in cases involving Taylor Law agreements is contingent upon the parties' unfettered agreement to submit a dispute to arbitration.

Accordingly, the court stayed arbitration between the Central School District #2 Board of Education and the Harbors Teachers Association on the grounds that negotiated procedures prior to arbitration were not met.

The final step of the grievance procedure required the state commissioner of education to make a determination as a requisite to arbitration. The commissioner took no action, and declined jurisdiction.

The court found that the school board only agreed to arbitration if all conditions were met. Since neither the "condition precedent to arbitration" was met, nor did the agreement provide for the utilization of the arbitration services of the Public Employment Relations Board, the court granted the stay of arbitration on the basis of the constraining requisites to the arbitration procedure. (Board of Education of Central School District #2 v. Harbors Teachers Association, New York Supreme Court, January 20, 1972.)

PERB's Remedial Power Upheld

The highest state court upheld a Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) ruling which ordered reinstatement of three Albany firemen who allegedly were transferred in retaliation for their organizational activities. The City of Albany was also required to post notice of PERB's decision on employees' bulletin boards and to cease and desist from similar activities. This action by the Court of Appeals reinforced PERB's power to require compliance with its orders.

In August 1970, PERB ordered the firemen's reinstatement after finding that the City of Albany violated the Taylor Law. The city appealed PERB's decision. The court upheld PERB's decision but modified its order which compelled the city to post notice that it would "cease and desist" from such activities, since such a notice would force the city to admit to actions it had previously denied.

The city brought the case before the Court of Appeals on two questions: whether PERB has authority to order reinstatement of transferred employees, and whether the requirement that the city post notice of the decision, correct the violations, and cease and desist from similar activities, was arbitrary and capricious.

The court stated that the Taylor Law, as amended in 1969, made it illegal for an employer to "interfer with, restrain, or coerce public employees in the exercise of rights guaranteed, . . . for the purpose of depriving them of such rights." In addition, the court stated that under the amended law, it is an improper practice to discriminate against an employee so as to discourage or encourage participation in activities of the employee organization, and that PERB is empowered to order remedial procedures.

The city argued that PERB's exercise of such powers constituted interference with statutory powers granted local and state officers to administrate, supervise, and control the fire department.

The court replied that PERB's vested powers were not intended to deprive state or local officials of their powers, but in instances where officials abuse their powers and deprive employees of their "statutory rights to form, join or participate in an employee organization," these actions are subject to review by PERB. The court continued that once PERB determined that the transferral violated the firemen's rights, it has the power to issue a remedy. (City of Albany, et al. v. Robert D. Helsby, et al., constituting the Public Employment Relations Board and Albany Permanent Professional Firefighters Association, Court of Appeals, State of New York, January 13, 1972.)

BOARD FINDINGS AND RULINGS

CONNECTICUT

Teachers' Right To Due Process Denied; Salaries Prior To Demotion Restored

Interpreting a collective bargaining agreement literally, an arbitrator ruled that teachers demoted during a reduction in force were entitled to prenotification, a hearing of reasons, and other procedures as specified in the contract between the Danbury Education Association (DEA) and the Danbury Board of Education. The applicable provision called for arbitration of demotions due to incompetence, with no mention made of demotions because of reduced budget. However, elsewhere in the parties' agreement under the individual teacher's contract which was incorporated as part of the master agreement, procedures for termination of teachers or, as in this case, positions, were required. The grievance procedure, which includes arbitration, is applicable to any, termination procedure violation. Since the school board had failed to follow these procedures in demoting administrative employees to their former classroom teaching positions at reduced salary, the arbitrator ruled in the employees' favor.

The arbitrator discounted a contract provision precluding the arbitrability of reduction in force demotion grievances because the board violated the negotiated termination procedures.

On the basis of the board's procedural violation, the arbitrator awarded the demoted teachers their original salaries, and recommended that the board reinstate them to their administrative positions since they would be paid for them. (Danbury Education Association and Danbury Board of Education, American Arbitration Association, December 31, 1971.)

WASHINGTON, D.C.

Teacher's Judgment That Classrooms Unfit Upheld

The judgment of teachers who determined that cold, filthy classrooms were unfit for habitation was upheld by an arbitrator who ruled that their refusal to teach in such classrooms was not insubordination. Six members of the Washington (D.C.) Teachers Union, Local 6, who ignored their principal's demand that they return to the classrooms, were suspended for one day and a seventh teacher, charged with instigating the insubordination, for three days.

The arbitrator declined to rule on the union's contentions that the teachers were denied due process and that the school board had violated its own rules for suspension of teachers. Assuming without judgment that the board's action was procedurely correct, the arbitrator considered the merits of the case. He held that ordering teachers to return to cold, filthy classrooms was "unreasonable." He awarded the teachers back pay and ordered all records of the suspensions expunged. (In Matter of Arbitration between the Washington Teachers Union Local 6 and District of Columbia Board of Education, American Arbitration Association, January 12, 1972.)

MAINE

Negotiable Items Clarified; Latitude of Board Prerogatives Limited

An arbitration panel, drawn-up under the directives of the Maine Municipal Public Employees Labor Relations Law, supported the Biddeford Teachers Association's position in a contract dispute with the Biddeford Board of Education.

The issues in controversy were the board's efforts to delete from the new agreement clauses which previously were negotiated, and the excessive exercise of "management prerogative" for refusal to negotiate on terms and conditions of employment, which the board labeled "educational policy."

The arbitrators' introductory remarks to the decisions noted the Board's recalcitrance and its failure to present any evidence to support its position. The arbitrators indicated their umbrage upon finding that "Counsel for the Board in this case has been singularly uncooperative."

The panel's advisory decisions recommended the establishment of a $6,450 base salary and suggested that the interest on the teachers' contributions to an insurance plan benefit the policy holders rather than the city's general fund.

In their binding decisions, the panel found that teacher evaluation, the school calendar, the length of the school day, and the addition of specialists to the school staff were all negotiable matters. In addition, the panel ordered the former contract provision for addition of specialists be maintained in the new agreement.

Other binding determinations favored the teachers association in the areas of planning periods, voluntary and involuntary transfers, assignments, promotions, and teacher facilities.

The arbitrators rejected the board's contention that a sick leave bank was illegal, and a board proposal linking execution of the contract to sufficiency of monetary appropriations. The arbitrators believed that a clause of this type would render a collective bargaining agreement ineffectual. The panel also ordered that the grievance-arbitration procedure in the 1970-71 agreement be maintained in the new agreement, despite unsubstantiated objection from the board that grievance procedures were already provided by state law.

The decisions of the arbitration panel were made retroactive to September 1, 1971. (Biddeford Board of Education and the Biddeford Teachers Association, Arbitration Award, September 3, 1971.)

MICHIGAN

Probationary Teacher Reinstated: Board Neglected To Define Performance Standards

An arbitrator ruled that the Woodhaven School System Board of Education was to reinstate a probationary teacher because it had not outlined performance standards for teachers as required by the negotiation agreement.

When the school board refused to re-employ a teacher because of her deficiency in classroom discipline and organization, the Woodhaven Education Association sued the board of education. An arbitrator found that the board had neglected to provide the contracted three yearly evaluations, spaced "so as to afford her the benefit of the evaluation system." He also found that the board had not clarified "the standard the grievant was to achieve." (Woodhaven Education Association and The Woodhaven School System Board of Education, American Arbitration Association, August 12, 1971.)

NEW YORK

Financial Squeeze No Justification To Abrogate Contract

The Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) ruled that the Buffalo school board's financial squeeze did not justify nonadherence to contractual provisions. The school board, according to PERB, failed to negotiate in good faith by refusing to implement contractual terms in areas relating to the hiring of additional teachers and teacher aides and the implementation of teachers' preparation periods.

The school board's budget, as restructured by the city, provided insufficient funds to implement the contractual obligations. The school board met with the Buffalo Teachers Federation to negotiate contractual changes in conformity with the new budget. The association refused to negotiate and filed an improper practice charge with PERB.

The association contended that the allocated budget was sufficient to cover all contractual obligations and mandated programs. The school board argued that implementation of mandated and contractual programs would necessitate discontinuance of non-mandated programs beneficial to students. The school board further stated that since funds for all its non-mandated programs were lacking, it had the right to choose between maintaining those programs or complying with its contractual obligations.

PERB's first consideration was whether the dispute should be sent to arbitration as required by the contract grievance procedure. PERB decided that the dispute did not involve an employer's "good faith interpretation of contractual provision" but rather a "situation where an employer, though it had available funds to fulfill its contractual obligations, decided to violate the contract in order to use the funds for other purposes which, in its judgement, would be more beneficial."

PERB acknowledged that the school board as a public employer has an obligation to provide services to the public, and at the same time a responsibility to its employees. In this instance, the school board believed that service to students was more important than upholding contractual obligations. PERB found this to be an abrogation of contractual provisions in violation of the obligation to negotiate. PERB concluded that the "Act [Taylor Law] does not permit such freedom of action on the part of a public employer organization."

A remedial order was not issued against the school board because it was not aware of its statutory obligation to its employees during a financial squeeze, and also because it complied with the contract after charges were filed. (Buffalo Board of Education and Buffalo Teachers Federation, Public Employment Relations Board, December 13, 1971.)

PENNSYLVANIA

Denying Work To Association Members During Strike Declared Unfair Labor Practice

The Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board (PLRB) found the Yeadon School Board guilty of committing an unfair labor practice when it refused to allow three association members to work during a strike.

The Yeadon Education Association, the exclusive bargaining representative for the teachers, engaged in a 15-day strike after contract negotiation reached an impasse. The school administrator denied two association members their right to work during the strike. Both teachers planned to retire at the end of the school year and if they lost time while on strike, they would receive decreased retirement benefits.

A third teacher, also an association member, was hospitalized several days before for which he was paid, and during the strike for which he was docked. Upon his return from the hospital the teacher requested to return to work while the strike was still in progress. His request was also denied by the superintendent of schools who had decreed that association members would not be allowed to work during the strike, while non-association members would.

The PLRB found that in denying only association members the right to work during a strike, the superintendent was discriminating against teachers for association membership, since under Pennsylvania law the exclusive bargaining agent represents all employees. The school board's refusal to pay sick leave to the association member during a strike constituted an unfair labor practice because sick pay is based on past services rendered, said PLRB.

The school board was ordered to "cease and desist" from discriminating against association members. The board was further obligated to pay the two teachers who requested to return to work during the strike and to correct all payroll and retirement records to reflect the teachers' new income. Sick leave was granted to the third teacher while hospitalized, as well as regular pay from the date he requested to return to work until the end of the strike. (Yeadon Education Association v. Yeadon Borough Board of School Directors, Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board, February 15, 1972.)

Interns and Residents Public Employees, PLRB Reverses Itself

The Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board (PLRB) reversed itself, finding that interns and residents at four nonprofit, Philadelphia hospitals are employees under the state Public Employment Relations Act.

In a ruling issued December 1971, the Board dismissed representation petitions filed by the Philadelphia Association of Interns and Residents. The Board found that the interns and residents were not employees under law, since their purpose was primarily educational. The association later filed an exception to the decision.

The Board noted that in past cases, it had held that the determination of an employee's status be made on the basis of actual duties at the time of hearing. Therefore, the Board decided it must "ignore both the purpose of interns, residents, and clinical fellows in establishing their relations with the employers and their long-range intent once that purpose is fulfilled." Further, the Board determined that "although the personnel in question were receiving benefits in the form of instruction from the employer, they were rendering a valuable service, thereby giving them the status of employees with all indicia of employment under applicable tax and workmen's compensation laws."

The Board, finding the employees in question share a "unique community of interest," dismissed arguments regarding the inappropriateness of separating this group from an overall faculty unit comprised of all professional personnel. Further, the Board did not consider relevant a decision by the Michigan Court of Appeals which reversed a Michigan Employment Relations Commission's election order for interns, residents, and post-doctoral candidates at the University of Michigan Medical Center, since the decision was based on a "limiting reference to students" in the state constitution.

Concluding, the Board sustained the association's exception to its earlier decision and ordered a pre-election conference.
(Albert Einstein Medical Center; Wills Eye Hospital; Pennsylvania Hospital; Temple University Hospital; Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board, March 6, 1972.)

FEDERAL

NLRB Determines Appropriate Bargaining Units for College Faculty

The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) issued two rulings affecting New York State colleges. The Board established appropriate bargaining units for all full- and part-time faculty at Adelphi University, and for all professional faculty, including librarians and athletic coaches at Manhattan College. An election was ordered at each institution.

- At Manhattan College, a petition was filed by the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) and the New York State Teachers Association (NYSTA), an NEA affiliate, as intervenor.

Contesting the petition, the employer held that faculty members are not employees as defined under the National Labor Relations Act (NLRA) because of their managerial and supervisory duties. Such an interpretation, the Board felt, would enjoin it to reconsider and reverse its previous decisions involving Fordham University and C.W. Post College, since the facts in the case are similar.

The college further argued that faculty with terminal contracts should be excluded from the appropriate unit. The Board dismissed this argument, pointing out that terminal faculty members were hired as permanent employees with the same termination rights and sharing a community of interest with the remaining faculty.

Both AAUP and the employer sought to exclude part-time faculty from the bargaining unit, but the Board overroad their objections because in previous decisions part-time faculty who taught a minimum of one-fourth of the normal contact load were included in an over-all unit.

NYSTA requested that athletic coaches and ROTC instructors be included in the appropriate unit. The Board ruled that ROTC instructors despite their faculty rank, are government-paid and subject to military discipline and control. However, athletic coaches were included in the unit as they were found to teach "physical and mental skills" which required an educational background. (Manhattan College and AAUP, NYSTA, Intervenor, National Labor Relations Board, January 30, 1971.)

• At Adelphi University, the AAUP and the United Federation of College Teachers, an AFT affiliate, petitioned for an appropriate unit comprising full- and part-time faculty, including members serving on the personnel and grievance committees.

The employer agreed to the proposed unit, but desired the inclusion of graduate teaching and research assistants because they perform faculty-related functions. The university-employer, while making no objection to the inclusion of personnel and grievance committee members in the unit, pointed out that collectively these committee members possess and exercise substantial supervisory authority.

The Board rejected the inclusion of graduate assistants in an overall unit as they are primarily students. Also excluded were department and "sequence" chairmen and the director of the black studies program since all are posited with the power to effectively recommend hiring, reappointment or non-appointment of faculty, while the former are also empowered to adjust grievances. The staff of the university medical center were also excluded as they did not share a community of interest with academic staff.

Members of the personnel and grievance committees were included in the unit since they exercised authority on a group not an individual basis. Both committees possessed a "quasi-collegiate" character, being neither faculty nor management, but acting in an advisory capacity to the board of trustees.

A dissenting opinion argued for their exclusion on the grounds that no differences existed between collective policy making and individual decision making. (Adelphi University and American Association of University Professors, National Labor Relations Board, March 5, 1972.)

NEGOTIATION NOTES

CALIFORNIA

Brown Act Amended

Recent revisions to the Meyers-Milias Brown Act governing public employer-employee relations has infused added strength to the collective bargaining process.

The Brown Act now permits exclusive recognition of an employee organization for the purpose of collective negotiation, and at the same time mandating that "meet and confer" sessions meet "promptly" at either party's request and continue for a reasonable length of time.

The amended act also stipulates that provisions for resolution of impasse procedures must allow adequate time limits for settlement prior to budget adoption. In agreements without impasse procedures, the act states that either party may request submission of the dispute for resolution to the state department of conciliation and mediation.

Both the amended Brown Act and the newly amended Winton Act are effective as of May 1972. (See NRD 5:6, 10)

NEVADA

Physicians Union Established

Thirty Las Vegas doctors have organized the Service Employees International Union, Local 676, an affiliate of the Service Employees International Union. The establishment of the union resulted from the doctors' growing concern "about [the] increasing activity of conglomerates in Nevada's health care field."

The president of the SEIU, referring to the new doctors' union stated: "They have the same need to organize as do all other men and women whose jobs involve the public's health and safety—hospital workers who now belong to SEIU, firemen and policemen. They have a concern that the nation's health and safety be ensured, and that their own working conditions allow them to deliver proper care to patients."

NEW YORK

PERB Issues New Decision on Status of Managerial and Confidential Employees

Subsequent to enactment of the state's Taylor Law amendments concerning the designation of managerial and confidential employees to be excluded from collective bargaining units, the Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) issued an "interim decision" clarifying the intent of the amended legislation.

In formulating its decision, PERB first requested job descriptions and "other pertinent data" from the two state employee organizations. PERB also asked these organizations to submit a memorandum of law concerning the effect of the recent amendments on previous definitions of managerial and confidential employees. PERB did not consider the employee organizations' opinion as a final determination on the status of managerial and confidential employees, but as "one criterion in making a decision which must be based on all the evidence offered by the parties."

Previous to its amendment, the Taylor Law did not specifically exclude confidential and managerial employees from collective bargaining, however, New York City's Office of Collective Bargaining interpreted the law as excluding these employees. PERB held that managerial and confidential employees should not be included in the same unit with rank-and-file employees because of the conflict of interests, yet PERB never designated a separate unit for them. PERB reasoned that the exclusions of the pertinent amendments are applicable only to those employees who play an active role in the decisional process, and who determine the employer's collective bargaining position. PERB also excluded employees who assert a "major role" in the administration of an agreement, and employees involved in personnel administration insofar as their inclusion in a unit of rank-and-file workers would result in a conflict of interests in employer-employee relations.

Included in the final definition of "managerial and confidential employees" are most employees previously excluded from collective bargaining, and a small number of professional and clerical staff.

OHIO

Job Classification Grievance Subject to Binding Arbitration

An arbitrator ruled that a grievance concerning a bus driver's classification was subject to binding arbitration, notwithstanding state statutes which contain procedures for job reclassification. The question of whether state statutes contained provisions covering the situation at hand was left for the courts to decide.

The grievance was brought against the Ohio State University by a bus driver who demanded job reclassification because he was performing duties of a higher job classification. The grievant followed the procedure set forth in an "understanding" between the American Federation of State, Country and Municipal Workers (AFSCME) Local 138 and the Ohio State University.

The parties "understanding" was determined to be a collective bargaining agreement which, according to state law, may authorize binding arbitration. The grievance procedure in the "understanding" provided a final step where the grievance could be settled by the Ohio State Personnel Board of Review or decided by impartial arbitration, with the decision conforming to the civil service laws and other laws of Ohio.

The university argued that the bus driver was properly classified, while pointing out that the grievance was not arbitrable as state statutes provide a procedure for changing job classification. Therefore, the arbitrator lacked the authority to make a binding decision.

The arbitrator determined that the "understanding" authorized binding arbitration of the matter in dispute. Concerning the grievance, the arbitrator found that the grievant mainly performed the duties of his job classification, although at times he was temporarily assigned higher duties.

The arbitrator ruled that when an employee is temporarily assigned the duties of a higher job classification, he is entitled to receive the appropriate pay for his temporary assignment. The arbitrator went on to recommend that when an employee's assignment to a higher classification is such that he spends as much time performing the extra-duties as he does performing his normally assigned duties, the employee should be transferred to the higher classification. (The Ohio State University and the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Local 138, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, September 2, 1971.)

OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST

ARKANSAS

Unfair Employment Practices Defined

INTERFERENCE WITH POLITICAL ACTIVITIES

The discharge, demotion, or transfer of municipal or school employees because of their political activities is prohibited. Violators are now subject to loss of employment, fine, and imprisonment.

BLACK-LISTING OR OTHERWISE HINDERING EMPLOYMENT

Writing, printing, or publishing the name of any person, together with a false statement concerning such person, or publishing the fact that anyone is a member of a secret organization, for the purpose of preventing him from securing employment or causing his discharge, is punishable by a fine of $100 to $500, and/or imprisonment for 12 months.

OKLAHOMA

Employee's Right to Determine Bargaining Agent Under State Statute Affirmed

The State Attorney General, interpreting the Firefighters' and Policemen's Arbitration Law, stated that cities cannot establish standards and procedures for policemen and firefighters to choose their bargaining agents. The attorney general reaffirmed that a city must recognize, for negotiation purposes, the bargaining agency chosen by the majority.

In March 1971, the state legislature enacted the Firefighters' and Policemen's Arbitration Law, extending bargaining rights to firefighters and policemen. The president of the state senate requested the attorney general's opinion regarding the cities' rights and duties concerning representation elections.

The attorney general pointed out that the act does not authorize a city to establish standards for determining bargaining agents. In regard to a city's obligation to recognize a bargaining agent determined by a majority of the employees, he said that cities are now statutorily required to recognize the bargaining agent selected by a majority of policemen or firefighters.

EEOC REVISES EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY GUIDELINES

The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission broadened its guidelines on discrimination because of sex. Employers must now treat disabilities related to pregnancy, recovery from childbirth, miscarriage, and abortion as a temporary disability in regard to leave time, seniority, reinstatement, and insurance payments.

These new regulations concerning equalization of fringe benefits and state protective laws do not carry the force of law, but the EEOC is empowered to sue employers and labor unions in federal court for compliance. These sweeping federal regulations supercede any state employment laws that place conditions of employment on certain jobs which tend to discriminate against women.

Recently enacted amendments to Title VII of the Civil Rights Act signed by the President on March 24, brought public employees under the jurisdiction of EEOC. No one sex may have benefits not provided the other, including rest or physical facilities. Jobs may not be classified as "male" or "female" unless sex is a bonafide occupational qualification. Denial of employment to a pregnant woman is now in violation of the Civil Rights Act. [See TEXT section for complete EEOC regulations]

CONSUMER PRICE INDEX: APRIL 1972

The Consumer Price Index rose 0.2 percent in April, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics. Higher prices for men's clothing, used cars, restaurant meals, and most household services accounted for the increase. The rise was moderated by lower prices for food purchased in grocery stores and gasoline, and a decline in the mortgage interest rates. The April index was 124.3, 3.4 percent above a year ago.

In terms of its 1967 base, (1967=100) the CPI index of 124.3 percent means that what cost $10 in 1967 now costs $12.43. A comparison with its 1957-59 base shows that what consumers are now purchasing with $14.46 was then purchased for $10. The increase in costs left the wage earner with three dependents with $95.31 per week in spendable earnings, an increase of 47¢ from the previous month.

The adjusted CPI for April also increased 0.2 percent. For the six months preceding the freeze, the annual adjusted increase was 4.0 percent, whereas during the freeze, the CPI rose at an annual rate of 2.8 percent. Since the end of Phase I, a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 3.3 percent has been reported.

TEACHER UNITY: ASSOCIATION/UNION MERGERS

Key merger agreements between association and union affiliates in New York State and New Orleans, Louisiana were announced Monday, June 5. To date, other mergers have occurred in Flint and Gibraltar, Michigan; Los Angeles, California; and the City University of New York.

The New York State unity agreement between the New York State Teachers Association and the United Teachers of New York affects 190,000 teachers, creating the largest statewide group of educational employees in the nation. In a mail ballot conducted over the past two weeks, NYSTA and UTNY voted overwhelmingly in favor of merger, forming the New York Congress of Teachers. Association members voted 45,635 to 19,477 and union members 34,171 to 1,706 in favor of merger which will officially take effect September 1, 1972 after ratification by the NYSTA House of Delegates.

The new organization will be headed by Albert Shanker, president of UTNY, and Thomas Hobart, president of NYSTA, until future elections are held to elect a president. The new teachers Congress will retain affiliation with both NEA and American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO.

Teachers in New Orleans, Louisiana voted 1,120 to 116 to merge with the Orleans Educators Association (LEA) and the New Orleans AFT, Local #527. The new organization, the United Teachers of New Orleans (UTNO), will hold affiliations with NEA, LEA, AFT, and local, state and national AFL-CIO.

The primary objective of the merger as outlined by a UTNO statement is to implement a political action program for teachers to obtain collective bargaining rights through election of school board members favorable to teachers.

FEDERAL PAY BOARD GUIDELINES

CATCH-UP EXCEPTIONS TO 5.5 PERCENT STANDARD HAVE BEEN ADOPTED BY THE PAY BOARD TO ALLOW INCREASES OF UP TO 7 PERCENT. Previously no exceptions were granted. Board regulations specify that increases above 5.5 percent will be allowed only if "pay increases since the beginning of the last prior contract or the aggregate pay increase during the past 36 months has been less than an annual average of 7 percent." The new 7 percent maximum is determined by taking the difference between past increases and 7 percent and adding it to the 5.5 percent standard.

AUTOMATIC IN-GRADE PROGRESSION INCREASES, PROMOTIONAL INCREASES, LONGEVITY INCREASES found in contracts executed prior to November 13, 1971 ARE NOW EXCLUDED from adjustment compensation calculation. The aforementioned exceptions, plus merit increase plans and annual increases in terms of "control years," are excluded from the 5.5 percent standard only if embodied in a contract or are past practice in effect prior to November 14, 1971. Such increases in contributions may be as high as 5 percent of the unit's total compensation, but the employer's total contributions to all benefit plans must not exceed 10 percent of compensation.

GUIDELINES ISSUED TO CURB POST-CONTROLS SURGE. The Pay Board issued three rulings to forestall a potential "danger of explosion when controls are lifted." The Board has ruled that agreements providing for the payment of increases which have been disallowed are deferred payments for work currently being performed, and "since this will exceed the permissible increase, the deferred compensation will probably be prohibited." The second ruling declares any deferral provision for disapproved compensation which is contained in an agreement to be in violation of the Economic Stabilization Regulations. The final regulation restricts the use of escrow accounts for that portion of disallowed wages, which would be paid to employees "when controls are lifted" without Construction Industry Stabilization Committee approval. The Board ruled that if provisions of escrow agreements are so worded, the wages and salaries in escrow would be considered paid in the year placed in escrow. In response to questions regarding the above three rulings, the Pay Board said that it "has the authority to rule on the appropriateness" of second and third-year increases in multi-year contracts that grant a larger increase in later years than in the first, if the subsequent increases are negotiated in anticipation of the lifting of controls, and constituted in a manner to compensate for wages reduced during the first year. Contracts are not to contain "make-up" provisions for disapproved increases, nor can current agreements be restructured to allow for future payment of disapproved increases. Also, contracts which provide for a bonus payable to employees upon relaxation of controls must first be approved by the Board.

TEACHER RAISES ALLOWED UP TO 6.2 PERCENT. The Pay Board issued guidelines for calculating permissible increases for teacher contracts for the 1972-73 school year. Increases for the coming school year, negotiated in April and effective in September 1972, may be based on the prevailing wage rate of the previous year's negotiated salary schedule, even though the schedule may not have been implemented till November 1971. In effect the salary base would be the salary schedule for 1971-72, not the frozen schedule as of August 15, 1971, which was the 1970-71 salary schedule. The Board's application of a 6.2 percent is for total compensation, however, the "permissible annual aggregate increase" of the wage base of the "last full payroll period before the effective date of the new agreement" cannot exceed 5.5 percent. (See TEXT section for Board ruling.)

STATISTICS

HEALTH PROVISIONS IN NEGOTIATED AGREEMENTS: 1970-71

The NEA Research Division's annual survey of school systems with 1,000 or more pupils enrolled indicated that of 1,529 comprehensive agreements, 434 (28.4 percent) contained provisions regarding the general health of teachers. These provisions, appearing alone or in combination, usually fell under the general headings of health requirements, health services, and/or reimbursement of expenses.

The health requirement provisions usually stipulated that all teachers take physical examinations, and chest X-ray or tuberculin skin test as a condition of employment. These examinations were required in one or more of the following circumstances: (a) for the issuance of a teaching certificate; (b) before the start of employment; (c) annually or at certain intervals, such as every three years. Complete medical examinations were most often specified, and special examinations were also provided for the detection of communicable tuberculosis.

TABLE 1.—NEGOTIATED AGREEMENTS PERTAINING TO TEACHER'S HEALTH

Item	Number	Percent
TOTAL COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS ANALYZED	1,529	100.0%
Total Agreements Containing Health Provisions	434	28.4
Health requirements	318	20.8
Physical examination reimbursement	207	13.5
Health services	34	2.2

Item	Number	Percent
TOTAL AGREEMENTS CONTAINING HEALTH PROVISIONS	428	100.0%
Health requirements only	197	45.4
Health requirements and physical examination reimbursement	105	24.2
Physical examination reimbursement only	98	22.6
Health services only	18	4.1
Health services and health requirements	12	2.8
Health requirements, health services, and physical examination reimbursement	4	0.9

Of the 318 agreements that specified some type of health requirement for teachers, slightly over one-third also provided free health services or reimbursement of expenses. The school board usually provided a routine physical examination if it was a condition of employment. Some provisions allowed teachers to be examined by a private physician at their own expense. A few provisions stated that since the school board and the teachers association recognize that good health is desirable, the board would require and pay for periodic physical examinations.

Provisions for a board-paid health service program was infrequently negotiated. Many health service provisions were linked to existing, free community programs especially for tuberculin tests.

The following are sample health provisions, and are not to be regarded as exemplary.

The Board of Education and the Association, seeing a definite need for its teachers to have thorough physical examinations regularly will require such examination on a bi-yearly schedule. All new personnel will be required to have a physical examination prior to being hired. The expense and regulations governing these examinations will be borne by the Board of Education.

NEW FAIRFIELD, CONNECTICUT

All teachers may participate in the flu inoculation program offered annually by the Board without cost to the teacher.

RIVERSIDE, ILLINOIS

For the protection of pupils and personnel, the Board shall require proof of freedom from active tuberculosis in the form of an X-ray as a condition of entering employment and annually thereafter for all full and part-time personnel employed by the Board. The initial and annual screening tests shall be provided by the Board. Any further costs shall be paid by the employee. All personnel found with active tuberculosis shall be given a leave of absence for treatment until they are officially certified as being inactive. Upon such certification, the Board shall return the employee to his former position, or position of like nature, seniority, and pay without prejudice.

The administration will give notice to the teachers in the fall and in the spring when X-rays will be given to teachers in Albion.

ALBION, MICHIGAN

The Board will provide a "tine" or other skin test as a screening process in a manner which meets the approval of the Onondaga Health Association. A teacher who is a positive reactor to such screening test will be required to arrange for a chest x-ray within two (2) weeks, the report of which is to be sent to the School Physician for interpretation.

BALDWINSVILLE, NEW YORK

Any annual physical examination or other physical examination which may be required of an employee by the Board shall be at the expense of the Board when the examination is performed by the School Physician or for such further examination as may be required or directed by the School Physician. Every employee shall have the right and privilege to undergo examination by a physician of his own choice. In such event, however, the cost of the examination shall be borne by the employee.

SARANAC, NEW YORK

Every teacher new to the Appleton Education System shall be given a physical examination without cost to the teacher. Every teacher in the Appleton Education System shall be given an annual chest x-ray by a mobile x-ray unit with an institutional chest x-ray provided without cost to the teacher every third year starting with the date of the last institutional chest x-ray.

APPLETON, WISCONSIN

Every teacher shall be required to undergo a physical examination, including a chest X-ray or tuberculin test, as a condition of entering employment in this school district. Freedom from tuberculosis in a communicable form is a condition of employment. Such physical examination shall be required every three years of each teacher employed by the Board. Such physical examinations shall be performed by a physician in the employ of or under contract with the school district, but if a physician is not so employed or under contract, the examination shall be made by a physician selected by the teacher. The physician shall prepare a report of his examination upon a standard form furnished by the Board. Such report shall be retained in the physician's files and he shall make confidential recommendation therefrom to the Board and to the teacher on a form prepared by the State Board of Health and the State Superintendent. The cost of such examinations, including X-rays and tuberculin tests, shall be paid by the Board. The physician's report of triennial examination shall be returned to the Board by November 1 of the year of examination.

WEST ALLIS, WISCONSIN

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING SETTLEMENTS: 1971

The U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), reported that during 1971, wage rate increases in major collective bargaining settlements, covering nearly 3½ million workers, averaged 8.1 percent over the life of the contract, down from 8.9 percent in 1970. Not included were at least 500,000 additional workers affected by agreements reached after November 13 which were not acted upon by the Pay Board.

Contract settlements with cost-of-living escalation provisions averaged increases of 7.1 percent, down from 7.3 percent in 1970. Contracts without cost-of-living escalation clauses averaged increases of 9.2 percent in 1971 compared with 10.1 percent in 1970.

In manufacturing settlements, the average wage increase was 7.2 percent, up from 6.0 percent, while agreements in the nonmanufacturing sector dropped to 9.0 percent, from 11.5 percent.

During 1971, settlements with and without cost-of-living escalation provisions averaged 7.3 and 7.1 percent, respectively, in manufacturing, and 6.8 and 10.6 percent in nonmanufacturing.

In the construction industry, wage-rate increases averaged 11.8 percent, down from 14.9 percent in 1970. The 1971 figure applies to 68 major collective bargaining agreements. Of these, six agreements, averaging increases of 16.9 percent, were reached prior to the establishment of the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee on March 29; the remaining 62, averaging increases of 11.4 percent, were approved by the CISC.

Table 1 gives the percentage changes in wages and benefits in major collective bargaining settlements during 1970 and 1971.

TABLE 1.–PERCENTAGE CHANGES IN WAGES AND BENEFITS, MAJOR COLLECTIVE BARGAINING SETTLEMENTS, 1970 AND 1971

	1971		1970
	Number of workers (in 000's)	Average adjustments	Average adjustments
WAGES AND BENEFITS COMBINED:[a]
Annual rate of increase over life of contract in–
All industries	2,338	8.7	9.1
Contracts with escalator clauses	1,430	7.8	NA
Contracts without escalator clauses	907	10.2	NA
Construction[b]	214	12.1[c]	15.6
First-year changes in–
All industries	2,338	13.1	13.1
Contracts with escalator clauses	1,430	14.2	NA
Contracts without escalator clauses	907	11.3	NA
Construction[b]	214	13.8[c]	19.6
WAGE RATES ALONE:[b]
Annual rate of increase over life of contract in–
All industries	3,444	8.1	8.9
Contracts with escalator clauses	1,818	7.1	7.3
Contracts without escalator clauses	1,626	9.2	10.1
Manufactruing	1,803	7.2	6.0
Contracts with escalator clauses	1,159	7.3	5.0
Contracts without escalator clauses	643	7.1	7.3

SOURCE: U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics.
"Major Collective Bargaining Settlements, Full Year, 1971." (News Release) January 28, 1972.

TABLE 1.–PERCENTAGE CHANGES IN WAGES AND BENEFITS, MAJOR COLLECTIVE BARGAINING SETTLEMENTS, 1970 AND 1971 (Continued)

	1971		1970
	Number of workers (in 000's)	Average adjustments	Average adjustments
Nonmanufacturing	1,642	9.0	11.5
Contracts with escalator clauses	659	6.8	11.3
Contracts without escalator clauses	983	10.6	11.6
Construction	214	11.8[c]	14.9
All industries excluding construction	3,230	7.8	7.9
Nonmanufacturing excluding construction	1,427	8.6	10.2
First-year changes in–
All industries	3,444	11.7	11.9
Contracts with escalator clauses	1,818	12.8	NA
Contracts without escalator clauses	1,626	10.4	NA
Manufacturing	1,803	10.8	8.1
Contracts with escalator clauses	1,159	12.2	NA
Contracts without escalator clauses	643	8.0	NA
Nonmanufacturing	1,642	12.7	15.2
Contracts with escalator clauses	659	14.0	NA
Contracts without escalator clauses	983	11.8	NA
Construction	214	13.3[c]	17.6
All industries excluding construction	3,230	11.6	10.9
Nonmanufacturing excluding construction	1,427	12.6	14.2

[a]Applies to settlements for 5,000 workers or more.
[b]Applies to settlements for 1,000 workers or more.
[c]None of the settlements tabulated contained an escalator clause.
NOTE: NA indicates data are not available.

WRITTEN NEGOTIATION AGREEMENTS SURVEY: 1971-72

According to preliminary results of the NEA Research Division's sixth annual survey of written negotiation agreements, 3,911 public school systems with a pupil enrollment of 1,000 or more were operating under a written negotiation agreement during the 1971-72 school year. Of the total number of school systems surveyed (7,106), 6,097 school systems employing 1,945,600 instructional personnel responded, an 85.3 percent response rate. Of the responding school systems, 64.1 percent had negotiation agreements, covering 74.2 percent of the total number of instructional personnel employed by responding systems.

The number of school systems with negotiated agreements has increased by 389 agreements during the past year. The enactment of several new state negotiation statutes has contributed to this increase. Although Hawaii, Pennsylvania, Alaska, and Kansas have enacted negotiation statutes in 1970, their impact on negotiation was first realized during the 1971-72 school year. Negotiation statutes passed in Oklahoma, Montana, and Idaho during 1971 had little effect on the survey since many school systems were involved in unit determination and certification proceedings.

HIGHLIGHTS OF PRELIMINARY SURVEY:

- Since 1966-67, when the first survey of written agreements was conducted, the number of school systems with negotiated agreements has increased by 155.5 percent. In the 1966-67 survey, 1,531 school systems reported negotiation agreements; the 1971-72 survey found 3,911 systems with such agreements. The number of agreements reported in the 1971-72 survey represented an 11.0 percent increase above the number reported in the 1970-71 survey (3,522).
- Instructional personnel employed in systems with agreements increased from 1,337,146 in 1970-71 to 1,445,329 in 1971-72, an 8.1 percent gain.
- Of the 3,911 systems with validated written negotiation agreements in the 1971-72 survey, 3,891 systems (99.5 percent) indicated organizational representation with national affiliation. NEA affiliates were the exclusive bargaining representatives in 4,603 systems; American Federation of Teachers (AFT), AFL-CIO, locals represented instructional personnel in 126 systems. Since the 1966-67 survey, NEA representation has increased by 2,524 school systems; while AFT representation expanded by 91 systems.
- National teacher representation figures indicate that since 1966-67, NEA representation has increased by 650,578 instructional personnel (164.3 percent), and AFT representation has increased by 119,107 (115.5 percent). In 1971-72, NEA represented 61,210 more teachers than it did the previous year, while representation by AFT locals rose by 9,220 teachers. The NEA's current share of total national teacher representation is 79.5 percent.
- More than 83 percent of all instructional personnel employed in the nation's largest school systems (enrollments of 25,000 or more pupils) were working under negotiation agreements in 1971-72.
- Since 1966-67, the Mideast region has shown the greatest increase in negotiation activity as instructional staff rose from 44.1 percent in 1966-67 to 95.2 percent in 1971-72, and the number of systems with negotiation agreements increased from 22.5 percent to 91.3 percent. According to the 1971-72 survey, the percentages of school systems with negotiation agreements in the Southeast and Southwest regions remain well below all other regions at 7.6 percent and 25.2 percent respectively.
- For the first time in the history of the survey, all enrollment stratum show over 50 percent of professional staff in responding school systems covered by negotiation agreements.

REGIONS	STRATUM	SCHOOL SYSTEM ENROLLMENT
Northeast: Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont	1	100,000 or more
Mideast: Delaware, District of Columbia, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania	2	50,000-99,999
Southeast: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia	3	25,000-49,999
Great Lakes: Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin	4	12,000-24,999
Plains: Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota	5	6,000-11,999
Southwest: Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas	6	3,000-5,999
Rocky Mountain: Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Utah, Wyoming	7	1,200-2,999
Far West: Alaska, California, Hawaii, Nevada, Oregon, Washington	8	1,000-1,199

TABLE A

SCOPE OF SURVEY

STATE	SYSTEMS SURVEYED	SYSTEMS RESPONDING NUMBER	SYSTEMS RESPONDING PERCENT	SYSTEMS RESPONDING: TOTAL CLASSROOM TEACHERS EMPLOYED	SYSTEMS RESPONDING: TOTAL INSTRUCTIONAL STAFF EMPLOYED
1	2	3	4	5	6
ALABAMA	115.	86.	74.8	24743.	26409.
ALASKA	8.	7.	87.5	2660.	3115.
ARIZONA	62.	57.	91.9	15802.	17408.
ARKANSAS	108.	76.	70.4	11371.	12220.
CALIFORNIA	479.	443.	92.5	167748.	196663.
COLORADO	60.	54.	90.0	23078.	25286.
CONNECTICUT	110.	107.	97.3	32687.	36668.
DELAWARE	22.	21.	95.5	6055.	6742.
DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA	1.	1.	100.0	7990.	8640.
FLORIDA	63.	53.	84.1	56664.	65436.
GEORGIA	176.	96.	54.5	30245.	35061.
HAWAII	1.	1.	100.0	8225.	9769.
IDAHO	44.	39.	88.6	6386.	6982.
ILLINOIS	416.	355.	85.3	90266.	98065.
INDIANA	254.	220.	86.6	47318.	52089.
IOWA	147.	138.	93.9	22950.	25075.
KANSAS	93.	87.	93.5	18384.	20608.
KENTUCKY	158.	114.	72.2	24061.	26807.
LOUISIANA	66.	47.	71.2	31321.	33320.
MAINE	78.	66.	84.6	8031.	8763.
MARYLAND	24.	23.	95.8	42873.	47154.
MASSACHUSETTS	210.	199.	94.8	55335.	62016.
MICHIGAN	396.	386.	97.5	87294.	97477.
MINNESOTA	156.	144.	92.3	33889.	37620.
MISSISSIPPI	142.	83.	58.5	13910.	15080.
MISSOURI	171.	134.	78.4	33407.	36029.
MONTANA	33.	31.	93.9	5542.	6046.
NEBRASKA	40.	36.	90.0	8521.	9588.
NEVADA	11.	9.	81.8	5119.	5511.
NEW HAMPSHIRE	38.	30.	78.9	5666.	6183.
NEW JERSEY	312.	297.	95.2	66436.	75183.
NEW MEXICO	43.	40.	93.0	10221.	11719.
NEW YORK	509.	486.	95.5	180265.	203069.
NORTH CAROLINA	151.	127.	84.1	40466.	44946.
NORTH DAKOTA	17.	16.	94.1	2925.	3165.
OHIO	515.	444.	86.2	91041.	100319.
OKLAHOMA	85.	72.	84.7	18542.	20077.
OREGON	88.	86.	97.7	19790.	21743.
PENNSYLVANIA	487.	365.	74.9	85525.	94467.
RHODE ISLAND	29.	26.	89.7	8903.	9592.
SOUTH CAROLINA	92.	68.	73.9	21899.	24170.
SOUTH DAKOTA	28.	26.	92.9	4026.	4433.
TENNESSEE	128.	105.	82.0	33089.	35957.
TEXAS	358.	275.	76.8	84482.	96544.
UTAH	31.	27.	87.1	11407.	12742.
VERMONT	19.	17.	89.5	2278.	2632.
VIRGINIA	128.	101.	78.9	45581.	49470.
WASHINGTON	120.	113.	94.2	31048.	35285.
WEST VIRGINIA	54.	44.	81.5	15173.	16529.
WISCONSIN	211.	200.	94.8	38057.	41924.
WYOMING	19.	19.	100.0	3496.	3804.
TOTAL	7106.	6097.	85.2	1742191.	1945600.

STRATUM	SYSTEMS SURVEYED	SYSTEMS RESPONDING NUMBER	SYSTEMS RESPONDING PERCENT	SYSTEMS RESPONDING: TOTAL CLASSROOM TEACHERS EMPLOYED	SYSTEMS RESPONDING: TOTAL INSTRUCTIONAL STAFF EMPLOYED
1	2	3	4	5	6
1	27.	27.	100.0	271281.	310377.
2	54.	50.	92.6	146330.	164190.
3	106.	100.	94.3	148891.	167270.
4	392.	351.	89.5	259711.	291144.
5	914.	807.	88.3	312314.	347104.
6	1699.	1446.	85.1	293210.	324526.
7	3281.	2779.	84.7	278989.	306511.
8	633.	537.	84.8	31465.	34478.
TOTAL	7106.	6097.	85.2	1742191.	1945600.

TABLE 8

STATUS OF WRITTEN NEGOTIATION PROCEDURES

STATE	TOTAL SYSTEMS SURVEYED	RESPONDING		SYSTEMS WITH PROCEDURES				SYSTEMS WITHOUT PROCEDURES
			INSTR. STAFF			INSTR. STAFF				INSTR. STAFF
		NUMBER		NUMBER	PERCENT	NUMBER	PERCENT	NUMBER	PERCENT	NUMBER	PERCENT
	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
ALABAMA	115	86.	26409.	1.	1.1	53.	0.2	85.	98.8	26356.	99.7
ALASKA	8	7.	3115.	7.	100.0	3115.	100.0	0.	0.0	0.	0.0
ARIZONA	62	57.	17408.	34.	59.6	14738.	84.6	23.	40.3	2670.	15.3
ARKANSAS	108	76.	12220.	8.	10.5	4770.	39.0	68.	89.4	7450.	60.9
CALIFORNIA	479	443.	196663.	423.	95.4	191884.	97.5	20.	4.5	4779.	2.4
COLORADO	60	54.	25286.	34.	62.9	22491.	88.9	20.	37.0	2795.	11.0
CONNECTICUT	110	107.	36668.	101.	94.3	35617.	97.1	6.	5.6	1051.	2.8
DELAWARE	22	21.	6742.	18.	85.7	6043.	89.6	3.	14.2	699.	10.3
DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA	1	1.	8640.	1.	100.0	8640.	100.0	0.	0.0	0.	0.0
FLORIDA	63	53.	65436.	17.	32.0	39047.	59.6	36.	67.9	26389.	40.3
GEORGIA	176	96.	35061.	0.	0.0	0.	0.0	96.	100.0	35061.	100.0
HAWAII	1	1.	9769.	1.	100.0	9769.	100.0	0.	0.0	0.	0.0
IDAHO	44	39.	6982.	19.	48.7	3204.	45.8	20.	51.2	3778.	54.1
ILLINOIS	416	355.	98065.	239.	67.3	84173.	85.8	116.	32.6	13892.	14.1
INDIANA	254	220.	52089.	66.	29.9	28141.	54.0	154.	70.0	23948.	45.9
IOWA	147	138.	25075.	33.	23.9	12629.	50.3	105.	76.0	12446.	49.6
KANSAS	93	87.	20608.	62.	71.2	17516.	84.9	25.	28.7	3092.	15.0
KENTUCKY	158	114.	26807.	21.	18.4	10414.	38.8	93.	81.5	16393.	61.1
LOUISIANA	66	47.	33320.	0.	0.0	0.	0.0	47.	100.0	33320.	100.0
MAINE	78	66.	8763.	50.	75.7	7076.	80.7	16.	24.2	1687.	19.2
MARYLAND	24	23.	47154.	23.	100.0	47154.	100.0	0.	0.0	0.	0.0
MASSACHUSETTS	210	199.	62016.	189.	94.9	60390.	97.3	10.	5.0	1626.	2.6
MICHIGAN	396	386.	97477.	379.	98.1	97073.	99.5	7.	1.8	404.	0.4
MINNESOTA	156	144.	37620.	120.	83.3	34822.	92.5	24.	16.6	2798.	7.4
MISSISSIPPI	142	83.	15080.	0.	0.0	0.	0.0	83.	100.0	15080.	100.0
MISSOURI	171	134.	36029.	65.	48.5	21083.	58.5	69.	51.4	14946.	41.4
MONTANA	33	31.	6046.	24.	77.4	5065.	83.7	7.	22.5	981.	16.2
NEBRASKA	40	36.	9588.	22.	61.1	7738.	80.7	14.	38.8	1850.	19.2
NEVADA	11	9.	5511.	5.	55.5	5027.	91.2	4.	44.4	484.	8.7
NEW HAMPSHIRE	38	30.	6183.	15.	50.0	4060.	65.6	15.	50.0	2123.	34.3
NEW JERSEY	312	297.	75183.	282.	94.9	72591.	96.5	15.	5.0	2592.	3.4
NEW MEXICO	43	40.	11719.	14.	35.0	5998.	51.1	26.	65.0	5721.	48.8
NEW YORK	509	486.	203069.	476.	97.9	201232.	99.0	10.	2.0	1837.	0.9
NORTH CAROLINA	151	127.	44946.	4.	3.1	3977.	8.8	123.	96.8	40969.	91.1
NORTH DAKOTA	17	16.	3165.	14.	87.5	2949.	93.1	2.	12.5	216.	6.8
OHIO	515	444.	100319.	336.	75.6	86783.	86.5	108.	24.3	13536.	13.4
OKLAHOMA	85	72.	20077.	12.	16.6	10501.	52.3	60.	83.3	9576.	47.6
OREGON	88	86.	21743.	76.	88.3	19841.	91.2	10.	11.6	1902.	8.7
PENNSYLVANIA	487	365.	94467.	289.	79.1	78811.	83.4	76.	20.8	15656.	16.5
RHODE ISLAND	29	26.	9592.	26.	100.0	9592.	100.0	0.	0.0	0.	0.0
SOUTH CAROLINA	92	68.	24170.	2.	2.9	1332.	5.5	66.	97.0	22838.	94.4
SOUTH DAKOTA	28	26.	4433.	16.	61.5	3017.	68.0	10.	38.4	1416.	31.9
TENNESSEE	128	105.	35957.	5.	4.7	12424.	34.5	100.	95.2	23533.	65.4
TEXAS	358	275.	96544.	52.	18.9	51425.	53.2	223.	81.0	45119.	46.7
UTAH	31	27.	12742.	9.	33.3	6418.	50.3	18.	66.6	6324.	49.6
VERMONT	19	17.	2632.	11.	64.7	1882.	71.5	6.	35.2	750.	28.4
VIRGINIA	128	101.	49470.	10.	9.9	15600.	31.5	91.	90.0	33870.	68.4
WASHINGTON	120	113.	35285.	109.	96.4	34742.	98.4	4.	3.5	543.	1.5
WEST VIRGINIA	54	44.	16529.	7.	15.9	2920.	17.6	37.	84.0	13609.	82.3
WISCONSIN	211	200.	41924.	173.	86.5	38807.	92.5	27.	13.5	3117.	7.4
WYOMING	19	19.	3804.	11.	57.8	2755.	72.4	8.	42.1	1049.	27.5
TOTAL	7106	6097.	1945600.	3911.	64.1	1445329.	74.2	2186.	35.8	500271.	25.7

TABLE 8

STATUS OF WRITTEN NEGOTIATION PROCEDURES

STRATUM	TOTAL SYSTEMS SURVEYED	RESPONDING		SYSTEMS WITH PROCEDURES				SYSTEMS WITHOUT PROCEDURES
			INSTR. STAFF			INSTR. STAFF				INSTR. STAFF
		NUMBER		NUMBER	PERCENT	NUMBER	PERCENT	NUMBER	PERCENT	NUMBER	PERCENT
	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
1	27	27.	310377.	23.	85.1	289896.	93.4	4.	14.8	20481.	6.5
2	54	50.	164190.	37.	74.0	126822.	77.2	13.	26.0	37368.	22.7
3	106	100.	167270.	71.	71.0	119714.	71.5	29.	29.0	47556.	28.4
4	392	351.	291144.	269.	76.6	225636.	77.4	82.	23.3	65508.	22.5
5	914	807.	347104.	565.	70.0	249666.	71.9	242.	29.9	97438.	28.0
6	1699	1446.	324526.	956.	66.1	220444.	67.9	490.	33.8	104082.	32.0
7	3281	2779.	306511.	1701.	61.2	193753.	63.2	1078.	38.7	112758.	36.7
8	633	537.	34478.	289.	53.8	19398.	56.2	248.	46.1	15080.	43.7
TOTAL	7106	6097.	1945600.	3911.	64.1	1445329.	74.2	2186.	35.8	500271.	25.7

TABLE D-1

NUMBER OF PROFESSIONAL PERSONNEL REPRESENTED BY NATIONAL AFFILIATION OF LOCAL ORGANIZATIONS FOR NEGOTIATION PURPOSES

STATE	PERSONNEL REPRESENTED NO.	PERSONNEL REPRESENTED PCT.	N. E. A. NO.	N. E. A. PCT.	A. F. T. NO.	A. F. T. PCT.	INDEPENDENT NO.	INDEPENDENT PCT.	OTHER NO.	OTHER PCT.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
ALABAMA	47	100.0	47	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
ALASKA	2,526	100.0	2,526	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
ARIZONA	12,853	100.0	12,853	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
ARKANSAS	4,531	100.0	4,531	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
CALIFORNIA	159,365	99.9	127,948	80.3	4,678	2.9	11,697	7.3	15,042	9.4
COLORADO	20,510	100.0	20,259	98.8	66	.3	185	.9	...	...
CONNECTICUT	33,837	100.1	28,072	83.0	5,200	15.4	565	1.7	...	...
DELAWARE	5,360	100.0	4,562	85.1	798	14.9	...	...	...	...
DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA	7,990	100.0	...	...	7,990	100.0	...	...	...	...
FLORIDA	31,132	100.0	31,132	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
GEORGIA	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...
HAWAII	9,769	100.0	9,769	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
IDAHO	2,894	100.0	2,894	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
ILLINOIS	75,364	100.0	41,280	54.8	33,159	44.0	925	1.2	...	...
INDIANA	23,597	100.0	20,209	85.6	3,388	14.4	...	...	...	...
IOWA	10,713	100.0	10,188	95.1	525	4.9	...	...	...	...
KANSAS	15,860	100.0	15,860	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
KENTUCKY	9,489	100.0	9,489	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
LOUISIANA	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...
MAINE	6,547	100.0	6,543	99.9	...	...	4	.1	...	...
MARYLAND	46,420	99.9	37,335	80.4	8,600	18.5	485	1.0	...	...
MASSACHUSETTS	57,476	100.0	47,751	83.1	9,509	16.5	216	.4	...	...
MICHIGAN	90,055	100.0	71,280	79.2	16,479	18.3	2,296	2.5	...	...
MINNESOTA	30,202	100.0	20,710	68.6	8,882	29.4	610	2.0	...	...
MISSISSIPPI	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...
MISSOURI	19,106	100.0	15,954	83.5	2,952	15.5	200	1.0	...	...
MONTANA	4,624	100.0	3,991	86.3	633	13.7	...	...	...	...
NEBRASKA	7,485	100.0	7,485	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
NEVADA	4,651	100.0	4,651	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
NEW HAMPSHIRE	3,765	100.0	3,246	86.2	519	13.8	...	...	...	...
NEW JERSEY	66,901	100.1	60,651	90.7	5,597	8.4	653	1.0	...	...
NEW MEXICO	5,646	100.0	5,646	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
NEW YORK	195,352	100.0	105,458	54.0	78,132	40.0	11,212	5.7	550	.3
NORTH CAROLINA	3,171	100.0	3,171	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
NORTH DAKOTA	2,783	100.0	2,783	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
OHIO	80,745	99.9	70,605	87.4	9,320	11.5	820	1.0	...	...
OKLAHOMA	8,257	100.0	8,257	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
OREGON	17,044	100.0	14,961	87.8	1,909	11.2	174	1.0	...	...
PENNSYLVANIA	72,751	100.0	53,905	74.1	18,396	25.3	450	.6	...	...
RHODE ISLAND	9,027	100.0	4,727	52.4	4,180	46.3	120	1.3	...	...
SOUTH CAROLINA	1,230	100.0	1,230	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
SOUTH DAKOTA	2,746	100.0	2,746	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
TENNESSEE	11,782	100.0	11,782	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
TEXAS	45,487	100.0	44,487	97.8	...	...	1,000	2.2	...	...
UTAH	5,858	100.0	5,858	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
VERMONT	1,767	100.0	1,767	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
VIRGINIA	14,893	100.0	14,893	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
WASHINGTON	33,427	100.0	33,427	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
WEST VIRGINIA	2,752	100.0	2,610	94.8	...	...	142	5.2	...	...
WISCONSIN	35,698	100.0	34,408	96.4	1,290	3.6	...	...	...	...
WYOMING	2,559	100.0	2,559	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
TOTAL	1,316,044	100.0	1,046,496	79.5	222,202	16.9	31,754	2.4	15,592	1.2

TABLE D-1

NUMBER OF PROFESSIONAL PERSONNEL REPRESENTED BY NATIONAL AFFILIATION OF LOCAL ORGANIZATIONS FOR NEGOTIATION PURPOSES

STRATUM	PERSONNEL REPRESENTED NO.	PERSONNEL REPRESENTED PCT.	N. E. A. NO.	N. E. A. PCT.	A. F. T. NO.	A. F. T. PCT.	INDEPENDENT NO.	INDEPENDENT PCT.	OTHER NO.	OTHER PCT.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
1	271,531	99.9	100,384	37.0	140,766	51.8	15,339	5.6	15,042	5.5
2	114,589	100.0	89,092	77.7	23,147	20.2	2,350	2.1	...	...
3	102,820	100.0	89,444	87.0	11,842	11.5	1,534	1.5	...	...
4	202,962	100.0	180,138	88.8	18,486	9.1	4,338	2.1	...	...
5	227,984	99.9	204,058	89.5	17,878	7.8	5,498	2.4	550	.2
6	201,507	100.1	194,168	96.4	5,790	2.9	1,549	.8	...	...
7	177,114	100.0	171,861	97.0	4,204	2.4	1,049	.6	...	...
8	17,537	100.0	17,351	98.9	89	.5	97	.6	...	...
TOTAL	1,316,044	100.0	1,046,496	79.5	222,202	16.9	31,754	2.4	15,592	1.2

TABLE D-2

NATIONAL AFFILIATION OF ORGANIZATIONS REPRESENTING PROFESSIONAL STAFF IN NEGOTIATION

STATE	SYSTEMS WITH ORGANIZATIONAL REPRESENTATION NO.	PCT.	N. E. A. NO.	PCT.	A. F. T. NO.	PCT.	INDEPENDENT NO.	PCT.	TWO OR MORE ORGANIZATIONS WITH MIXED AFFILIATIONS NO.	PCT.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
ALABAMA	1	100.0	1	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
ALASKA	7	100.0	7	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
ARIZONA	34	100.0	34	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
ARKANSAS	8	100.0	8	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
CALIFORNIA	423	100.0	339	80.1	...	...	...	...	84	19.9
COLORADO	34	100.0	34	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
CONNECTICUT	101	100.0	91	90.1	9	8.9	1	1.0	...	...
DELAWARE	18	100.0	17	94.4	1	5.6	...	...	...	...
DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA	1	100.0	...	...	1	100.0	...	...	...	...
FLORIDA	17	100.0	17	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
GEORGIA	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...
HAWAII	1	100.0	1	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
IDAHO	19	100.0	19	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
ILLINOIS	235	100.0	200	85.1	32	13.6	2	.9	1	.4
INDIANA	65	100.1	59	90.8	4	6.2	...	...	2	3.1
IOWA	32	100.0	31	96.9	...	...	...	...	1	3.1
KANSAS	61	100.0	61	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
KENTUCKY	21	100.0	21	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
LOUISIANA	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...
MAINE	50	100.0	50	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
MARYLAND	23	100.0	22	95.7	1	4.3	...	...	...	...
MASSACHUSETTS	189	100.0	180	95.2	9	4.8	...	...	...	...
MICHIGAN	379	100.1	360	95.0	15	4.0	3	.8	1	.3
MINNESOTA	120	99.9	64	53.3	4	3.3	1	.8	51	42.5
MISSISSIPPI	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...
MISSOURI	64	100.0	63	98.4	1	1.6	...	...	...	...
MONTANA	24	100.0	22	91.7	2	8.3	...	...	...	...
NEBRASKA	22	100.0	22	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
NEVADA	5	100.0	5	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
NEW HAMPSHIRE	15	100.0	14	93.3	1	6.7	...	...	...	...
NEW JERSEY	281	100.1	277	98.6	3	1.1	1	.4	...	...
NEW MEXICO	14	100.0	14	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
NEW YORK	476	100.0	447	93.9	18	3.8	9	1.9	2	.4
NORTH CAROLINA	3	100.0	3	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
NORTH DAKOTA	14	100.0	14	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
OHIO	336	100.0	330	98.2	5	1.5	1	.3	...	...
OKLAHOMA	11	100.0	11	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
OREGON	68	100.1	66	97.1	1	1.5	1	1.5	...	...
PENNSYLVANIA	289	100.0	282	97.6	7	2.4	...	...	...	...
RHODE ISLAND	26	100.0	20	76.9	6	23.1	...	...	...	...
SOUTH CAROLINA	2	100.0	2	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
SOUTH DAKOTA	16	100.0	16	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
TENNESSEE	5	100.0	5	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
TEXAS	51	100.0	51	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
UTAH	9	100.0	9	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
VERMONT	11	100.0	11	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
VIRGINIA	10	100.0	10	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
WASHINGTON	109	100.0	109	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
WEST VIRGINIA	7	100.0	6	85.7	...	...	...	...	1	14.3
WISCONSIN	173	100.0	167	96.5	6	3.5	...	...	...	...
WYOMING	11	100.0	11	100.0	...	...	...	...	...	...
TOTAL	3,891	100.0	3,603	92.6	126	3.2	19	.5	143	3.7

TABLE D-2

NATIONAL AFFILIATION OF ORGANIZATIONS REPRESENTING PROFESSIONAL STAFF IN NEGOTIATION

STRATUM	SYSTEMS WITH ORGANIZATIONAL REPRESENTATION NO.	PCT.	N. E. A. NO.	PCT.	A. F. T. NO.	PCT.	INDEPENDENT NO.	PCT.	TWO OR MORE ORGANIZATIONS WITH MIXED AFFILIATIONS NO.	PCT.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
1	23	99.9	15	65.2	7	30.4	...	...	1	4.3
2	37	100.0	28	75.7	6	16.2	...	...	3	8.1
3	71	100.1	54	76.1	6	8.5	1	1.4	10	14.1
4	268	100.0	222	82.8	19	7.1	1	.4	26	9.7
5	561	100.0	477	85.0	36	6.4	5	.9	43	7.7
6	952	100.0	896	94.1	21	2.2	3	.3	32	3.4
7	1,693	100.1	1,628	96.2	30	1.8	8	.5	27	1.6
8	286	99.9	283	99.0	1	.3	1	.3	1	.3
TOTAL	3,891	100.0	3,603	92.6	126	3.2	19	.5	143	3.7

TABLE J-1

PERCENT OF SCHOOL SYSTEMS WHICH HAVE WRITTEN PROCEDURES BY WHICH LOCAL TEACHERS NEGOTIATE FOR ALL OR PART OF THE PROFESSIONAL STAFF IN RESPONDING SCHOOL SYSTEMS

ITEM	ENROLLMENT STRATUM
	TOTAL	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
YES	64.1	85.2	74.0	71.0	76.6	70.0	66.1	61.2	53.8
NO	35.9	14.8	26.0	29.0	23.4	30.0	33.9	38.8	46.2
TOTAL	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0
TOTAL RESPONSE	6,097	27	50	100	351	807	1,446	2,779	537

TABLE J-2

PERCENT OF SCHOOL SYSTEMS WHICH HAVE WRITTEN PROCEDURES BY WHICH LOCAL TEACHERS NEGOTIATE FOR ALL OR PART OF THE PROFESSIONAL STAFF IN RESPONDING SCHOOL SYSTEMS

ITEM	ENROLLMENT GROUPING			REGION
	1,2,3 A	4,5,6 B	7,8 C	N.E.	MIDEAST	S.E.	G.L.	PLAINS	S.W.	R.M.	FAR WEST
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
YES	74.0	68.7	60.0	88.1	91.3	7.6	74.3	56.9	25.2	56.5	94.2
NO	26.0	31.3	40.0	11.9	8.7	92.4	25.7	43.1	74.8	43.5	5.8
TOTAL	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0
TOTAL RESPONSE	177	2,604	3,316	446	1,192	1,001	1,605	591	436	168	658

TABLE K-1

PERCENT OF INSTRUCTIONAL STAFF IN SCHOOL SYSTEMS WHICH HAVE WRITTEN PROCEDURES BY WHICH LOCAL TEACHERS NEGOTIATE FOR ALL OR PART OF THE PROFESSIONAL STAFF IN RESPONDING SCHOOL SYSTEMS

ITEM	ENROLLMENT STRATUM
	TOTAL	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
YES	74.3	93.4	77.2	71.6	77.5	71.9	67.9	63.2	56.3
NO	25.7	6.6	22.8	28.4	22.5	28.1	32.1	36.8	43.7
TOTAL	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0
TOTAL RESPONSE	1,945,600	310,377	164,190	167,270	291,144	347,104	324,526	306,511	34,478

TABLE K-2

PERCENT OF INSTRUCTIONAL STAFF IN SCHOOL SYSTEMS WHICH HAVE WRITTEN PROCEDURES BY WHICH LOCAL TEACHERS NEGOTIATE FOR ALL OR PART OF THE PROFESSIONAL STAFF IN RESPONDING SCHOOL SYSTEMS

ITEM	ENROLLMENT GROUPING			REGION
	1,2,3 A	4,5,6 B	7,8 C	N.E.	MIDEAST	S.E.	G.L.	PLAINS	S.W.	R.M.	FAR WEST
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
YES	83.6	72.3	62.5	94.3	95.2	23.6	85.9	72.2	57.3	72.7	97.2
NO	16.4	27.7	37.5	5.7	4.8	76.4	14.1	27.8	42.7	27.3	2.8
TOTAL	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0
TOTAL RESPONSE	641,837	962,774	340,989	125,992	435,117	385,805	389,947	138,693	143,710	54,749	271,587

SPECIAL REPORTS

BRIEFS OF RECENT AGREEMENTS

Waterbury, Connecticut

Between the Waterbury Board of Education and Waterbury Teachers Association, effective January 1, 1970, to December 31, 1972. Approximately 1,000 certificated professional employees. Provision for amendment of any item upon written consent of both parties.

COMPENSATION: B. A., $7,887 to $13,227, 11 increments; B. A. plus 15 hours, $13,712 maximum; M. A., $8,495 to $14,198, 11 increments; M. A. plus 15 hours, $14,683 maximum; Ph. D., $16.140 maximum.

Longevity Increments (effective January 1, 1972): 10-14 years, $160 each year; 15-19 years, $150 each year; 20-24 years, $250 each year; 35 years to end of service, $550 each year; upon retirement or death, payment of one-half of accumulated sick leave.

DIFFERENTIALS (1972): head football coaches and business managers, $1,000; director of sports, $1,750; baseball, track, and swimming head coaches, $800; coaches to be reimbursed up to $100 per sport for expenses; department heads, $150 per teacher within the department (minimum 4 teachers, maximum 10) and $30 per period for each fractional teacher.

ADMINISTRATORS (minimums, January 1, 1972, to December 31, 1972, 11-month schedule): director of special services, $19,665; high school principal, general elementary supervisor, and director of grants, $19,500; elementary school principals, $16,500 to $17,500; high school vice principal, $17,500; elementary supervising vice principal, $15,500. Specialists (pay in addition to regular teacher salary): subject supervisors (non-teaching), $1,250; teacher vice principals and guidance counselors, $400; homebound, reading, special education teachers, and psychological examiners, $300; social workers, $500; certified psychologist's $15,500 (1972).

OTHER: Homebound, driving training, and opportunity program teachers, $6.50 per hour; evening school director's paid increases in proportion to that of certificated teachers; summer school teachers, proration of regular salary; expenses for attendance at workshop, seminar, or conference to be paid by the board; reimbursement for work-related use of car, at 10¢ per mile.

LEAVES: Annual sick leave as provided by law; extended sick leave may be granted by board, denial of requested leave is grievable; 3 days for personal business, 5 days maximum accumulation; 4 days for death in the immediate family; up to 20 days to attend approved work-related courses; paid leave for jury duty if subpoenaed as a witness in court or before a public body; up to 14 days for military reserve obligation, less military pay; one percent of staff may take sabbatical leave at 75 percent of annual salary after 7 years (salary plus any grant cannot exceed regular salary); paid leave less workman's compensation for work-related injury.

INSURANCE: Board-paid Blue Cross Hospitalization, Connecticut Medical Service Program Community Plan, and major medical program for family coverage; $2,000 board-paid life insurance policy, optional additional employee-paid coverage not to exceed annual salary; benefits of accident and health insurance policies must equal those of other municipal employees; tax-sheltered annuity plan.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll dues deduction for local, state, and national associations; released time for one WTA representative involved in a grievance investigation or hearing per grievance per day; reasonable amount of time off with pay to executive board members of the WTA for association business; association president and one other teacher granted unpaid leave of absence, but considered district employees for pension, seniority, salary placement, and other purposes; association has the right to use building facilities; no-strike provision; board to supply "any reasonable" information upon request.

INSTRUCTION: School hours: teachers shall report 20 minutes before school; elementary day, 5 hours, between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m., one-session days are 4 hours; secondary school day, 6 hours from 8:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m., abbreviated sessions are 4 hours; maximum of 5 teaching periods, and two preparations for secondary teacher; class size maximums: kindergarten, 1:15; (for exceptions an aide will be assigned); grade 1, 1:20; grades 2-8, 1:25; high school, 1:28 (goal 25); no secondary teacher shall be responsible for more than 60 students at one time and shall not have contact with more than 125 students in one day (English and social studies teachers limited to contact with 100 students daily); one aide assigned each school building and secondary-school librarians; each elementary school assigned at least one secretary; school calendar to be discussed with the association; data-processing facilities for record keeping.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with binding arbitration; teachers may inspect their personnel file and question or reproduce any material therein; high school teachers to have lunch period equal to that of students, and at least one free period per day; elementary school teachers have a preparation period during specialists classes; teacher may be granted up to 5 days leave to observe another teacher's classroom method; parent-teacher conferences to be scheduled during or after school; disciplined teachers shall have 24-hour notice, with reasons for such action, and the right to association representation at reprimand meeting; noncompensatory extracurricular duties are voluntary; all vacancies to be posted, and filled within 14 days of removal of the notice; "the conveniences, wishes, and seniority of teachers" requesting reassignment "will be honored to the extent there is no conflict with instructional requirements;" objections to involuntary transfers may be grieved, and arbitrated; temporary assignment to higher classification paid at rate for that classification is for more than 10 consecutive days or more than 15 accumulative days; seniority shall be the basis for promotions; seniority rights are waived upon promotion, but regained upon return to a teaching position; pertinent paragraphs follow:

SENIORITY

City-Wide Seniority, which is hereby defined as the total number of years of uninterrupted service within the Waterbury Department of Education in a position requiring State Certification;

City-Wide Departmental Seniority, which is hereby defined as the total number of years of uninterrupted service within a particular secondary school department of the Waterbury Department of Education, without regard to the particular secondary schools in Waterbury in which such service has been rendered;

School-Wide Seniority, which is hereby defined as the total number of years of uninterrupted service in a particular school under the jurisdiction of the Waterbury Department of Education in a position requiring State Certification, without regard to the number of such positions held in said school; or Departmental Seniority, which is hereby defined as the total number of years of uninterrupted service within a) a department of a particular school under the jurisdiction of the Waterbury Department of Education in a position requiring State Certification, or b) a service department within the jurisdiction of the Waterbury Department of Education.

A seniority list specifying the city-wide seniority of each employee shall be prepared by the Board and forwarded to the WTA within thirty (30) days after execution of this Agreement and additional lists of new employees shall be supplied annually. If a question arises with respect to other types of seniority, the seniority of those employees involved in such question shall be made available to the WTA.

Application – Which seniority is to be considered in any particular transfer or reassignment shall be governed by the following principles:

If the transfer or reassignment is to a position which services more than one school, such as, but not limited to, that of a reading teacher, or from one school to another, "City-Wide Seniority" as set forth in Section 1a hereof shall be considered.

If the transfer or reassignment is from one position to another within an elementary school, "School-Wide Seniority" as set forth in Section 1c hereof shall be considered.

If the transfer or reassignment is from one position to another within a department in the secondary schools, (i) "City-Wide Departmental Seniority" as set forth in Section 1b hereof shall be considered if the transfer or reassignment is from one secondary school to another, and (ii) "Departmental Seniority" as set forth in Section 1d hereof shall be considered if the transfer or reassignment is within a school.

In selecting department heads, City-Wide Departmental Seniority as set forth in Section 1b of this subpart D shall be considered.

In the event a person accepts a position which pays more than which is called for in the Regular Teachers Salary Schedule (ex: guidance counselor, department head, administrative or supervisory post) he waives all seniority rights for positions which come under the Regular Teachers Salary Schedule. Should said person return to a regular teaching position, after two years of service in said position, he will regain all seniority rights as though he had not left the position of a regular teacher.

Should a situation arise not covered by the preceding items in this Article, a committee from the WTA, appointed by its President, will meet with the Superintendent of Schools to resolve said situation consistent with the philosophies set forth in this Article. The solution will be then reduced in writing and made an addition to this Article and will be used to decide the outcome of similar situations should they arise. Furthermore, if the committee from the WTA and the Superintendent of Schools cannot reach an agreement the matter will be resolved through the Grievance Procedure set forth elsewhere in this Agreement.

Mt. Pleasant, Michigan
Central Michigan University

Between Central Michigan University and Central Michigan University Faculty Association, effective July 1, 1971, to June 30, 1974. Approximately 642 teaching and research faculty, coaches, and professional librarians. Provision for salary reopener at the request of either party if the Consumer Price Index changes 15 percent or more between February 1971 and February 1973. Automatic one-year renewal, 60 days notification prior to termination if either party desires to terminate or modify agreement.

COMPENSATION: Salary increases (for 1971-72, 1972-73, and 1973-74, respectively), 6.5 percent of 1970-71, 10-month salary plus $66; 6.54 percent of 1971-72, 10-month salary plus $100; and 6.6 percent of 1972-73 salary plus $200; minimum 10-month salary by rank (1971-72, 1972-73, and 1973-74, respectively): instructor, $8,400, $8,800, and $9,250; assistant professor, $10,400, $10,800, and $11,250; associate professor, $12,350, $12,700, and $13,100; professor, $15,450, $15,900, and $16,400; achievement awards recommended by the University Achievement Increase Committee, .5 percent of bargaining unit members' base salary for 1972-73 ($6,000 fund established in 1971-72 for achievement awards); one percent of regular 1972-73 salary for 1973-74;

PROMOTIONS: $1,000 per year or prorated amount thereof upon award of the first Ph.D (or equivalent degree) during the term as an increment of base salary; 5 percent of 10-month base salary or minimum pay for rank to which the faculty member is promoted, whichever is greater; when the Ph.D. leads to an automatic promotion, the faculty member shall receive either $1,000 or minimum for the promotional rank, whichever is greater.
DIFFERENTIALS: Additional compensation to those faculty required to be at the university with students while other members are not; department chairmen working full calendar year, $1,000, $1,250, and $1,500 additional for 1971-72, 1972-73, and 1973-74, respectively.
OTHER: spring and summer sessions, 2.78 percent of 10-month base salary per week; off-campus assignments, $250, $275, and $300 per semester hour of credit (1971-72, 1972-73, and 1973-74 respectively), plus 10¢ per mile for travel; correspondence courses: a minimum of $12, $14, and $15 per semester credit hour (1971-72, 1972-73, and 1973-74, respectively); $18, $20, and $22 per credit hour (1971-72, 1972-73, and 1973-74, respectively) for completely revised correspondence courses; $30, $33, and $37 per credit hour (1971-72, 1972-73, and 1973-74, respectively) for new correspondence courses; retirement service award: minimum ten years of service, 1 1/2 percent of current 10-month salary multiplied by the number of equivalent full-time years of service, members in the bargaining unit prior to August 24, 1970, or April 4, 1969, may choose unused sick leave payment (under prior agreements) or years of service payment.
LEAVES: Noncumulative sick leave based on years of service; first year, 11 days; second year, 20 days; third year, 29 days; fourth year, 38 days; fifth year, 45 days; sixth year and up, 6 calendar months; sick leave prorated for part-time faculty; payment for compensable injury, regular salary less social security, workmen's compensation, disability income, or continuation of income program; sick leave bank for faculty with 5 years service or less, 2 days deducted yearly; 2 days leave for personal business or illness in the immediate family; 3 days funeral leave for death in the immediate family; paid leave for jury duty or court appearance less court fees; up to 15 days leave for military reserve obligation less military pay, extended leave without pay; vacation leave at the rate of one and two-thirds days per month for full-time 12-month faculty, 20-day maximum per calendar year.
INSURANCE: Effective August 24, 1971, university pays $32 per month for hospital and surgical insurance including family coverage, $49 per month for 1972-73, and $75 per month for 1973-74; double indemnity life insurance policy equal to base 10-month salary (maximum of $60,000) at 11.57¢ per $1,000 per pay period (26 pay periods) guaranteed by university; as of September 1, 1973, life insurance minimum, $15,000; total disability income benefit, effective after 6 months, 50 percent of 10-month salary when combined with other payments such as social security ($1,200 per month maximum payment) for 1971-72; as of September 1, 1972, disability payments, 60 percent of 10-month salary to $1,000 and 40 percent thereafter $1,500 maximum monthly payment); disability improvement benefits to be negotiated for subsequent years; disability payments cease at age 65; accident insurance covering faculty traveling on university business.
PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with advisory review by joint committees; faculty with at least one year of service are reimbursed the cost, less special fees, for up to 6 university semester credits; faculty members denied promotion may request a conference and explanation of the reasons for denial; special association-university conferences upon the request of either party. Distinguished Professional Awards Committee to administer $6,000 in professional awards; a distinguished visiting professor shall be appointed for 1971-72; departmental criteria basis for appointment to spring and summer session positions; payroll dues deduction for local association; except for summer sessions, off-campus courses to be limited to one per faculty member per semester;

Great Neck, New York

Between the Great Neck Board of Education and Great Neck Teachers Association, effective July 1, 1971, to June 30, 1973. Approximately 618 certificated professional employees. Automatic one-year renewal unless either party requests renegotiation within 120 days of the budget submission date. Agreement modification upon written consent of both parties.
COMPENSATION (1971-72): B.A., $8,910 to $14,166, 11 increments; B.A. plus 30, $17,374 maximum; M.A., $10,246 to $17,820, 14 increments; M.A. plus 30, $18,711 maximum; Ph.D., $20,315 maximum.

(1972-73): B.A., $9,450 to $15,024, 11 increments; B.A. plus 30, $18,427 maximum; M.A., $10,867 to $18,900, 14 increments; M.A. plus 30, $19,845 maximum; Ph.D., $21,546 maximum; retirement increment, one percent of the regular annual base salary during the last year of service times years of experience, up to and including 14 years (in addition to regular salary); credit for prior experience up to 9 years, additional credit upon recommendation of superintendent.
DIFFERENTIALS (1971-72 and 1972-73, respectively): varsity football, $1,600, $1,760; varsity basketball, $1,500, 1,650; swimming and lacross, $1,100, $1,210; newspaper editorial advisor and S.O./S.U. sponsor, $1,116, $1,184; dramatics director, $984, $1,044; instrumental music, $885, $939; literary magazine $528, $560; junior high dramatics club director, general treasurer, instrumental music, and newspaper printer, $559, $593; junior-senior high boys and girls intramurals (1 unit equals one afternoon per week for 32 weeks), $375, $395 per unit; elementary boys and girls intramurals, $250, $265 per unit; senior high girls basketball, $361, $401; girls gymnastics $374; department heads, 5 percent of B.A. base, plus one percent for each additional teacher in the department beyond 3 (differential limited to a maximum of 9 percent of B.A. base).
OTHER (based on teachers' salary schedule): guidance counselors, psychologists, and A-V services coordinators (1.12); 6 week summer school schedule: high school, $1,100; elementary and junior high, $735.
LEAVES: 15 days annual leave for personal illness, sickness in immediate family, and up to 5 days per occurrence for death of a relative; extended sick leave after 3 years service at the rate of one-half pay the first year and one-third pay the second year; sick leave bank of 100 days per year, up to 15 days per teacher; paid leave for quarantine; 2 days personal leave per year; revolving personal leave bank of 25 days per year, maximum of 2 days per teacher per year; sabbatical leave with full pay and benefits for one year granted after 7 years service on basis of seniority; up to 3 days leave per professional conference providing the Conference Attendance Committee approves, and specified procedures followed.
INSURANCE: Board-paid New York State Health Insurance; insurance trust fund established; full pay less workmen's compensation for job-related injury, 18-month maximum.
ASSOCIATION: Payroll deduction of local, state, and national association dues; released time for association executive board; 10 school days of released time for Curriculum Development Committee, 5 school days of released time for Task Committee, 2 school days for Inservice Advisory Committee; association president granted sabbatical leave with full pay; association is provided with an office and equipment and use of school facilities; association has access to budget, school planning, and other information; meetings between the association and the superintendent to be held "upon the written request of either party."
INSTRUCTION: Secondary teachers shall teach 5 periods per day; class size maximums: K-3, 25 pupils; 4-6, 26 pupils; junior high, 27 pupils; senior high, 28 students; except physical education, typing, orchestra, and chorus classes; 31 students for science teachers with less than 3 classes of 21 periods per week; $100,000 budgeted for paraprofessional assistance, additional $7,000 budgeted for 1971-72; Building Groups, Task Committees, and a Development Council to be established.
PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with final and binding arbitration; workday for elementary teachers begins with 30 minutes before class, and ends 15 minutes after dismissal; teachers have the right to examine (in the presence of the personnel director or his representative) and copy any information in their personnel file and respond to "any negative criticism;" duty-free lunch period of at least 30 minutes, and if possible 45 minutes, for elementary teachers, and at least 30 minutes for secondary teachers; four 30-minute preparation periods per week allotted to elementary teachers; five class-length preparation periods and five administrative periods per week allotted to secondary teachers; attendance at open house meetings, PTA, and monthly faculty meetings required; Inservice Advisory Committee to administrater Inservice Institute; inservice credit regulations are reprinted below:

Salary Credit For Inservice Education

One credit for 15 hours of class and/or laboratory sessions or two credits for 30 hours of class and/or laboratory sessions.

Not more than four inservice credits may be accumulated during one school semester.

The participant has received a certificate of satisfactory completion signed by the instructor.

Salary credit for travel subsequent to July 1, 1968 shall be granted on the following basis:

- Up to six points of credit toward salary schedule placement in any class beyond Class 3 shall be accepted for approved travel in lieu of inservice credits.
- In general, one credit shall be granted for approved travel covering a three-week period.
- An application for such credit shall be approved prior to the travel period. If the Inservice Committee is not meeting when the application is received and the participant proceeds with travel plans the application is still valid and will be judged on its educational merits.

- The application shall be submitted to the Inservice Committee for prior approval. A record of each request received and the action taken by the Committee shall be maintained with a copy of such record filed in the personnel file of the individual.
- The application shall include a written itinerary or travel plan, indicating arrival and departure dates, and a written description of possible educational applications of the experience. Revisions in the itinerary are permissible consistent with the general goals of the travel plan.
- Upon completion of approved travel a signed statement to this effect shall be submitted to the Director of Personnel.
- The Inservice Committee shall approve travel which it deems to be of educational value to the teacher and/or benefit to the school system.

The Inservice Committee may also grant credits as follows:

- For independent study projects approved by the Committee, up to two credits per project may be granted.
- For the publication of a scholarly textbook or a book related to the teacher's field or the field of education, two credits may be awarded.
- For a Great Neck Adult Education course approved for a Great Neck faculty member, credit may be granted on the same basis as in B1 above.

conference attendance reimbursement provided; detailed copy of teacher's evaluation given to probationary teacher and interpretive reasons presented by principal at termination interview; upon request terminated teacher interviews with the superintendent; Building Representative Teacher Selection Committee to assist in the screening of teacher candidates; Building Representative Committee (including association members elected by the membership to the Association's Delegate Assembly) meets and discusses the following topics with the principal at the request of either party:

- advising the principal concerning the planning of faculty meetings;
- assisting and advising the principal in the process of screening and selecting teachers to be recommended for appointment
- participating in the orientation of new teachers;
- advising regarding the rehabilitation or renovation of a building;
- consulting with the building principal concerning the establishment of building faculty curriculum groups;
- PTA "open house" meetings;
- school budget;
- teaching schedules;
- teachers' non-teaching assignments and schedules;
- advising in other matters of appropriate concern affecting the terms and conditions of professional service.

building representative members are granted up to 60 minutes released time per week; Conference Attendance Committee reviews all conference attendance requests; posting of vacancies, including promotions required; association panel to participate in selection of applicants to fill promotion vacancy; priorities for selecting summer school personnel are:

- Teachers who are regularly employed by the Great Neck public schools and who have been continually employed in the summer schools.
- Teachers who are not regularly employed by the Great Neck public schools but have been continually employed by the Great Neck summer schools.
- Teachers who are regularly employed by the Great Neck public schools and who have been previously, but not continuously, employed by the Great Neck summer schools.
- Teachers who are regularly employed by the Great Neck public schools but have not been previously employed by the Great Neck summer schools.
- Teachers who are not regularly employed by the Great Neck public schools and have been regularly employed in the Great Neck summer schools.

Teachers required to supervise no more than one extracurricular activity per year; in emergencies teachers may be required to substitute up to one period per day; procedure for conducting teacher-administrator conferences with advance indication of the subject to be discussed.

Houston, Texas

Between the Board of Education of the Houston Independent School District and Teacher Council for Professional Consultation (TCPC), effective for the 1971-72 school year. Approximately 9,059 certificated professional employees.

COMPENSATION: B.A., $7,100 to $10,200, 10 increments; M.A., $7,720 to $11,440, 12 increments; Ph.D., $12,060 maximum; retirement pay, under eligibility requirement of Teacher Retirement System, unused portion of annual "personal" leave at current salary (limited to 100 days for 10-month contract), upon death similar payment made.

LEAVES: Comprehensive personal leave policy, unlimited accumulation: regular contract teachers are credited with 1-1/2 days per month at the beginning of the year (18 days for 12-month teachers and 15 days for 10-month), probationary teachers accrue one day per month, regular part-time teachers' accrual on a prorated basis; annual personal leave covers personal illness, sickness in the immediate family, personal business (upon approval of the principal and grievable if denied), up to 3 days per occurrence for death in the immediate family, mandatory court appearance less witness fee, federal court jury duty less court fees; separate leave granted for professional meetings, school business, consultation, or grievance meetings; up to $75,000 per year allocated for sabbatical leave at a minimum of one-half pay for one year after six years' service, joint committee to review sabbatical requests.

INSURANCE: Board pays an amount equal to one percent of participant's annual salary toward premium (but not less than $72) of Union Central Basic hospital and major medical plan; $50,000 fund for hospital expenses of teacher injured during job-related assault (limit $20,000 per teacher); tax-sheltered annuity plan.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll deduction of local, state, and national association dues; paid leave plus fringe benefits for association president (the association shall remit to the board an amount equal to the president's salary); released time granted for grievance hearings and meetings between the board and the association; right to transact association business on school property and to use school facilities (with any "out-of-pocket" costs charged to the association).
INSTRUCTION: Teacher staffing ratios: grades 1-6, 1:30; grades 7-9, 1:28; grades 10-12, 1:25; ratios inapplicable to special education, itinerant and vocational teachers, and lab specialists; no academic class shall have more than 37 students (longe-range goal of 35 students in any academic class); voluntary supervision of student teachers.
PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with advisory review; teachers have right to review personnel file and to be accompanied by association representative; 45 minutes uninterrupted preparation period daily, as per state law; 10 days annually for inservice training; $150,000 allocated for improvement-of-reading-instruction program with stipend paid to participating teachers; Development Committee reviews inservice programs and curriculum changes, including textbook selection, and develops recommendation to department chairmen; Faculty Advisory Council provided; formal observation, basis of teacher evaluation; posting of promotional vacancies to include application deadline; maintenance of racial balance a basis for assignment of teachers; involuntary transfers to be in the order of least seniority; denial of special transfer requests and objections to involuntary transfers to maintain racial imbalance may be appealed to the Transfer Request Committee; joint committee to administer $75,000 allocated for Teacher Innovation Fund to encourage use of innovative teaching methods; department chairmen shall have compensatory relief from extra duties; the board shall render "all reasonable assistance" to teacher either assulted or sued as a result of performing his duties; allocation of 15 reams of duplicating paper per elementary teacher and 10 per secondary teacher.

TERMINAL LEAVE PAY PROVISIONS: 1970-71

Terminal leave pay provisions are incorporated in 350 (22.9 percent) of 1,529 collective bargaining agreements for school systems with 1,000 or more pupil enrollment. Every fifth agreement from the 21 states having such provisions was selected for further analysis. Two agreements contained an additional terminal leave provision. This analysis comprises 69 agreements, incorporating 71 provisions which are not mutually exclusive.

In standard classroom teacher collective bargaining agreements, there exists a great deal of confusion resulting from the erroneous interchange of the terms "terminal" and "severance" as well as numerous phrases intended as "terminal pay" which are applied to section or provision headings found in agreements.

Broadly, terminal pay or severance pay, as found in negotiated contracts, is compensation given upon meeting established eligibility criteria in the event of compulsory or disability retirement, forced resignation, discharge, death while employed, or lay-off. In labor relations, there is a distinction between "severance pay" and "terminal pay."

Severance pay, in contract negotiation parlance, is a benefit designed to compensate for income lost owing to unemployment arising out of a unilateral action taken by the employer. It is a partial and short-term compensation given to workers temporarily or permanently laid-off, dismissed, or forced to resign. Such benefits are also termed "dismissal" or "separation allowance," and tailored to cushion the hardships of unemployment resulting from factors beyond the worker's control until such time as he secures other employment.

Terminal leave pay is any supplementary compensation paid upon retirement in addition to regular pension benefits. This benefit, in the public employee sector, is often tied to a statutory municipal or state retirement plan, and is

TABLE 1.–NEGOTIATED CONTENT OF 71 SELECTED TERMINAL PAY PROVISIONS, 1970-71

	Number	Percent
1	2	3
TOTAL SELECTED PROVISIONS	71	100.0%
Terminal Leave Pay
Retirement	63	88.7
Death while employed in the district	24	33.8
Disability	6	8.4
Undefined	6	8.4

TABLE 2.–TERMINAL LEAVE ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS, 1970-71

Eligibility Requirements	Number	Percent
1	2	3
TOTAL SELECTED PROVISIONS	71	100.0%
Specific Number of Years Service Required	37	52.1
0 to 5 years' service	6	8.4
6 to 10 years' service	14	19.7
11 to 15 years' service	8	11.3
16 to 20 years' service	8	11.3
Over 20 years' service	1	1.4
According to law	7	9.9
Undefined	27	38.0
OTHER
Age (and/or length of service)	5	7.0
Procedural	17	23.9
Other	4	4.2

computed on the basis of earnings, satisfactory work, and duration of employment. Per se, terminal leave pay is a matter of "right" in reward for services rendered, rather than a benefit paid upon "need" (severance pay) to provide funds during a transitory phase between employment periods.

This analysis is restricted to what appeared in agreements as a monetary reward (terminal leave pay) upon leaving employment. Some provisions provided compensation prior to retirement, and all provisions used accumulated sick leave after a minimum number of years' service as the basis for calculating payment. Insofar as such terminal payments were tied to sick leave accumulation, no agreements were analyzed for terminal pay incorporated within the sick leave provision.

Specifically, terminal leave pay, as defined and analyzed, is any additional compensation paid teachers in good standing who have met certain requirements and granted upon retirement, resignation, or death while employed, as well as for undefined reasons. (See Table 1.) None of the terminal pay provisions specifically compensated teachers affected by a reduction in force. However, this possibility is not precluded in contracts which did not define reasons for granting terminal pay or which appeared elsewhere in an agreement or in board policy.

Terminal leave pay is granted as a retirement benefit in 88.7 percent of the provisions. One-third of the provisions stipulated that upon death of the teacher while employed, the terminal leave pay would revert to the estate. Terminal pay for disability retirement was relatively rare.

Eligibility criteria for terminal leave pay is most often based on the number of teaching years in a school district or state. (See Table 2.) The minimum number of years ranged from three to 25 years, with an average of 12.6 years and a median of 10 years. Additional criteria for granting terminal pay were age (in lieu of or in conjunction with longevity), amount of accumulated sick leave and/or personal leave, and fulfillment of procedural and statutory requirements relative to notification of intent to retire.

Terminal payments are calculated on the amount of accumulated sick leave and/or personal leave, though such a benefit should be paid apart from any remuneration for nonabuse of sick leave. The maximum compensation allowed, and the formulas for determining terminal pay vary considerably. (See Table 3.)

Compensation may be paid in flat amounts. It is computed either on the basis of unused sick leave and/or personal leave or longevity, and paid upon retirement. Lump-sum payments determined from sick leave range from $450 to $1,875, and amounts based on years of service range from $10 to $100 per year of service. A second procedure for payment is in the form of a salary increment in the last year or years of service prior to retirement and only upon notification of intent. This method has a supplemental benefit in those states where the highest gross salary in the last year or years of service is the basis for computing retirement benefits under state or municipal plans.

TABLE 3.–BASIS AND DETERMINATION OF TERMINAL LEAVE PAYMENTS, 71 SELECTED PROVISIONS, 1970-71

Basis of Terminal Pay	Number	Percent
1	2	3
TOTAL SELECTED PROVISIONS	71	100.0%
Bases For Payment:
Sick leave	39	54.9
Years of service	12	16.9
Stated amount	16	22.5
Sick leave and/or years of service	3	4.2
Other	1	1.4
DETERMINATION OF PAYMENTS IN TERMS OF MAXIMUM COMPENSATION AVAILABLE
Paid as a lump sum	21	29.6
Less than $500	5	7.0
$500 to $1,000	8	11.3
$1,000 to $2,000	7	9.9
Over $2,000	1	1.4
Based on unused accumulated leave	18	25.3
0-30 days	7	9.9
31-60 days	7	9.9
61-100 days	4	5.6
Based on years of service	12	16.9
$50 or less per year of service	4	5.6
$50 or more per year of service	3	4.2
Formula based on years of service	5	7.0
Derived From Other Formulas	6	8.5
Undefined	14	19.7

The following are examples of "terminal leave pay" provisions as appearing in teacher collective bargaining agreements.

Terminal Leave. When a staff member retires under normal retirement, he shall receive terminal pay for 50% of his accumulated sick leave upon application.

VOLUSIA CO. SCH. DIST.
DELAND, FLORIDA

Service Recognition. A certified employee retiring at age 55 or older, with twenty (20) or more year's service in the Niles Township High Schools, shall receive a retirement allowance of two thousand dollars ($2000) to be included as part of his last contract for the purpose of computing his pension benefits.

NILES TWP H.S. DIST.
SKOKIE, ILL. (AFT)

RETIREMENT PAY

When a full-time teacher retires, following no less than the last ten consecutive years of teaching in the Cape Elizabeth schools, he shall be granted a one-time severance payment, the amount to be determined by multiplying the number of years service in Cape Elizabeth by one percent of the first figure in the salary scale for a teacher with the Bachelor degree. This base figure shall be that prevailing during the last year of service.

Notification of retirement plans must be given to the Superintendent before formulation of the budget for the fiscal year in which the teacher retires.

Failure to give timely notice of retirement plans may result in lack of funds for retirement benefit and payment may be delayed.

CAPE ELIZABETH, MAINE

Disposition of Accumulated Sick Leave at Termination of Service—At the time of his termination after five years of service with the Montgomery County Public Schools, any unit member who has performed his duties satisfactorily shall receive termination pay at his current salary rate for one-fourth of his accumulated sick leave.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY,
MARYLAND

Twelve dollars and fifty and fifty cents ($12.50) per day will be paid for accumulated sick leave upon terminal retirement. Unused personal business days will be added to a teacher's cumulative sick leave up to one hundred fifty (150) days.

ADRIAN, MICHIGAN

One day's pay shall be granted for each day of accumulated sick leave not to exceed $1,000.00 upon retirement of an employee under the provisions of the Michigan Public School Employees Retirement System or at the compulsory retirement age.

In addition to the above, the School District shall pay $50.00 per year for each year of service in this School District after fifteen (15) years, but not to exceed $500.00.

BAY CITY, MICHIGAN

When a teacher, who qualifies for retirement under the Michigan Public School Employees' Retirement Fund, terminates his employment, he shall receive payment at his daily rate for accumulated scheduled absences, the maximum being forty (40) days.

RIVERVIEW COMMUNITY S.D.
WYANDOTTE, MICHIGAN

SEVERANCE PAY

School District No. 1 shall pay to each teacher upon his or her retirement at the conclusion of his or her teaching career one-half of any unused portion of the accumulated sick leave remaining in his or her account.

SCH. DIST. #1
BUTTE, MONTANA

A teacher shall receive $500.00 each year for the five (5) years prior to his retirement, upon his declaration of intent to retire.

HUNTENDON CENTRAL H.S.
FLEMINGTON, NEW JERSEY

RETIREMENT BENEFIT

Members of the professional staff who have served in the school system five (5) years or more shall receive an additional $1,000 in salary upon retirement. The estate of a teacher is eligible to receive the $1,000 if the decedent was eligible to have retired under New York State law.

FARMINGDALE U.F.S.D. #2
FARMINGDALE, NEW YORK

TERMINAL PAY

The Board will increase the salary for the last full year of employment of any teacher who has given prior written notice of intention to retire and who is eligible for retirement under the provisions of the New York State Teacher's Retirement System, by an amount equal to One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) per year of credited service in the Hicksville school system.

Retirement notice is requested of teachers for budgetary purposes and in order to permit compliance with Paragraph A by April 1 of the preceding year.

There shall be no duplication of payments under this provision.

Effective July 1, 1968, all new teachers and those employees possessing one or two years of experience as of the above date shall not be eligible for severance pay. Those teachers who possess three or more years of experience as of the above date shall receive $5.00 per day for the number of accumulated sick days as of the effective date if the teacher resigns any year hereafter on or before June 30 prior to the contract year.

EVANSVILLE JT. S.D. #6
EVANSVILLE, WISCONSIN

TEXT

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY COMMISSION GUIDELINES ON DISCRIMINATION BECAUSE OF SEX

By virtue of the authority vested in it by section 713(b) of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, 42 U.S.C., section 2000e-12, 78 Stat. 265, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission hereby revises Title 29, Chapter XIV, § 1604 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

§ 1604.1 General principles.

(a) References to "employer" or "employers" in Part 1604 state principles that are applicable not only to employers but also to labor organizations and to employment agencies insofar as their action or inaction may adversely affect employment opportunities.

(b) To the extent that the views expressed in prior Commission pronouncements are inconsistent with the views expressed herein, such prior views are hereby overruled.

(c) The Commission will continue to consider particular problems relating to sex discrimination on a case-by-case basis.

§ 1604.2 Sex on a bona fide occupational qualification.

(a) The Commission believes that the bona fide occupational qualification exception as to sex should be interpreted narrowly. Labels—"Men's jobs" and "Women's jobs"—tend to deny employment opportunities unnecessarily to one sex or the other.

(1) The Commission will find that the following situations do not warrant the application of the bona fide occupational qualification exception:

(i) The refusal to hire a woman because of her sex based on assumptions of the comparative employment characteristics of women in general. For example, the assumption that the turnover rate among women is higher than among men.

(ii) The refusal to hire an individual based on stereotyped characterizations of the sexes. Such stereotypes include, for example, that men are less capable of assembling intricate equipment; that women are less capable of aggressive salesmanship. The principle of nondiscrimination requires that individuals be considered on the basis of individual capacities and not on the basis of any characteristics generally attributed to the group.

(iii) The refusal to hire an individual because of the preferences of coworkers, the employer, clients or customers except as covered specifically in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph.

(2) Where it is necessary for the purpose of authenticity or genuineness, the Commission will consider sex to be a bona fide occupational qualification, e.g., an actor or actress.

(b) Effect of sex-oriented state employment legislation.

(1) Many States have enacted laws or promulgated administrative regulations with respect to the employment of females. Among these laws are those which prohibit or limit the employment of females, e.g., the employment of females in certain occupations, in jobs requiring the lifting or carrying of weights exceeding certain prescribed limits, during certain hours of the night, for more than a specified number of hours per day or per week, and for certain periods of time before and after childbirth. The Commission has found that such laws and regulations do not take into account the capacities, preferences, and abilities of individual females and, therefore, discriminate on the basis of sex. The Commission has concluded that such laws and regulations conflict with and are superseded by Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Accordingly, such laws will not be considered a defense to an otherwise established unlawful employment practice or as a basis for the application of the bona fide occupational qualification exception.

(2) The Commission has concluded that state laws and regulations which discriminate on the basis of sex with regard to the employment of minors are in conflict with and are superseded by Title VII to the extent that such laws are more restrictive for one sex. Accordingly, restrictions on the employment of minors of one sex over and above those imposed on minors of the other sex will not be considered a defense to an otherwise established unlawful employment practice or as a basis for the application of the bona fide occupational qualification exception.

(3) A number of states require that minimum wage and premium pay for overtime be provided for female employees. An employer will be deemed to have engaged in an unlawful employment practice if:

(i) It refuses to hire or otherwise adversely affects the employment opportunities of female applicants or employees in order to avoid the payment of minimum wages or overtime pay required by state law; or

(ii) It does not provide the same benefits for male employees.

(4) As to other kinds of sex-oriented state employment laws, such as those requiring special rest and meal periods or physical facilities for women, provision of these benefits to one sex only will be a violation of Title VII. An employer will be deemed to have engaged in an unlawful employment practice if:

(i) It refuses to hire or otherwise adversely affects the employment opportunities of female applicants or employees in order to avoid the provision of such benefits; or

(ii) It does not provide the same benefits for male employees. If the employer can prove that business necessity precludes providing these benefits to both men and women, then the state law is in conflict with and superseded by Title VII as to this employer. In this situation, the employer shall not provide such benefits to members of either sex.

(5) Some states require that separate restrooms be provided for employees of each sex. An employer will be deemed to have engaged in an unlawful employment practice if it refuses to hire or otherwise adversely affects the employment opportunities of applicants or employees in order to avoid the provision of such restrooms for persons of that sex.

§ 1604.3 Separate lines of progression and seniority systems.

(a) It is an unlawful employment practice to classify a job as "male" or "female" or to maintain separate lines of progression or separate seniority lists based on sex where this would adversely affect any employee unless sex is a bona fide occupational qualification for that job. Accordingly, employment practices are unlawful which arbitrarily classify jobs so that:

(1) A female is prohibited from applying for a job labeled "male," or for a job in a "male" line of progression; and vice versa.

(2) A male scheduled for layoff is prohibited from displacing a less senior female on a "female" seniority list; and vice versa.

(b) A seniority system or line of progression which distinguishes between "light" and "heavy" jobs constitutes an unlawful employment practice if it operates as a disguised form of classification by sex, or creates unreasonable obstacles to the advancement by members of either sex into jobs which members of that sex would reasonably be expected to perform.

§ 1604.4 Discrimination against married women.

(a) The Commission has determined that an employer's rule which forbids or restricts the employment of married women and which is not applicable to married men is a discrimination based on sex prohibited by Title VII of the Civil Rights Act, It does not seem to us relevant that the rule is not directed against all females, but only against married females, for so long as sex is a factor in the application of the rule, such application involves a discrimination based on sex.

(b) It may be that under certain circumstances, such a rule could be justified within the meaning of Section 703(e)(1) of Title VII. We express no opinion on this question at this time except to point out that sex as a bona fide occupational qualification must be justified in terms of the peculiar requirements of the particular job and not on the basis of a general principle such as the desirability of spreading work.

§ 1604.5 Job opportunities advertising.

It is a violation of Title VII for a help-wanted advertisement to indicate a preference, limitation, specification, or discrimination based on sex unless sex is a bona fide occupational qualification for the particular job involved. The placement of an advertisement in columns classified by publishers on the basis of sex, such as columns headed "Male" or "Female," will be considered an expression of a preference, limitation, specification, or discrimination based on sex.

§ 1604.6 Employment agencies.

(a) Section 703(b) of the Civil Rights Act specifically states that it shall be unlawful for an employment agency to discriminate against any individual because of sex. The Commission has determined that private employment agencies which deal exclusively with one sex are engaged in an unlawful employment practice, except to the extent that such agencies limit their services to furnishing employees for particular jobs for which sex is a bona fide occupational qualification.

(b) An employment agency that receives a job order containing an unlawful sex specification will share responsibility with the employer placing the job order if the agency fills the order knowing that the sex specification is not based upon a bona fide occupational qualification. However, an employment agency will not be deemed to be in violation of the law, regardless of the determination as to the employer, if the agency does not have reason to believe that the employer's claim of bona fide occupations qualification is without substance and the agency makes and maintains a written record available to the Commission of each such job order. Such record shall include the name of the employer, the description of the job and the basis for the employer's claim of bona fide occupational qualification.

(c) It is the responsibility of employment agencies to keep informed of opinions of the Commission on sex discrimination.

§ 1604.7 Pre-employment inquiries as to sex.

A pre-employment inquiry may ask "male _____, Female _____"; or "Mr. Mrs. Miss." provided that the inquiry is made in good faith for a non-discriminatory purpose. Any pre-employment inquiry in connection with prospective employment which expresses directly or indirectly any limitation, specification or discrimination as to sex shall be unlawful unless based upon a bona fide occupational qualification.

§ 1604.8 Relationship of Title VII to the Equal Pay Act.

(a) The employee coverage of the prohibitions against discrimination based on sex contained in Title VII is co-extensive with that of the other prohibitions contained in Title VII and is not limited by Section 703(h) to those employees covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act.

(b) By virtue of Section 703(h), a defense based on the Equal Pay Act may be raised in a proceeding under Title VII.

(c) Where such a defense is raised the Commission will give appropriate consideration to the interpretations of the Administrator, Wage and Hour Division, Department of Labor, but will not be bound thereby.

§ 1604.9 Fringe benefits.

(a) "Fringe benefits," as used herein, includes medical, hospital, accident, life insurance and retirement benefits; profit-sharing and bonus plans; leave; and other terms, conditions, and privileges of employment.

(b) It shall be an unlawful employment practice for an employer to discriminate between men and women with regard to fringe benefits.

(c) Where an employer conditions benefits available to employees and their spouses and families on whether the employee is the "head of the household" or "principal wage earner" in the family unit, the benefits tend to be available only to male employees and their families. Due to the fact that such conditioning discriminatorily affects the rights of women employees, and that "head of household" or "principal wage earner" status bears no relationship to job performance, benefits which are so conditioned will be found a prima facie violation of the prohibitions against sex discrimination contained in the Act.

(d) It shall be an unlawful employment practice for an employer to make available benefits for the wives and families of male employees where the same benefits are not made available for the husbands and families of female employees; or to make available benefits for the wives of male employees which are not made available for female employees; or to make available benefits to the husbands of female employees which are not made available for male employees. An example of such an unlawful employment practice is a situation in which wives of male employees receive maternity benefits while female employees receive no such benefits.

(e) It shall be a defense under Title VII to a charge of sex discrimination in benefits that the cost of such benefits is greater with respect to one sex than the other.

(f) It shall be an unlawful employment practice for an employer to have a pension or retirement plan which establishes different optional or compulsory retirement ages based on sex, or which differentiates in benefits on the basis of sex. A statement of the General Counsel of September 13, 1968, providing for a phasing out of differentials with regard to optional retirement age for certain incumbent employees is hereby withdrawn.

§ 1604.10 Employment policies relating to pregnancy and Childbirth.

(a) A written or unwritten employment policy or practice which excludes from employment applicants or employees because of pregnancy is in prima facie violation of Title VII.

(b) Disabilities caused or contributed to by pregnancy, miscarriage, abortion, childbirth, and recovery therefrom are, for all job-related purposes, temporary disabilities and should be treated as such under any health or temporary disability insurance or sick leave plan available in connection with employment. Written and unwritten employment policies and practices involving matters such as the commencement and duration of leave, the availability of extensions, and accrual of seniority and other benefits and privileges, reinstatement, and payment under any health or temporary disability insurance or sick leave plan, formal or informal, shall be applied to disability due to pregnancy or childbirth on the same terms and conditions as they are applied to other temporary disabilities.

(c) Where the termination of an employee who is temporarily disabled is caused by an employment policy under which insufficient or no leave is available, such a termination violates the Act if it has a disparate impact on employees of one sex and is not justified by business necessity.

PERMISSIBLE ANNUAL AGGREGATE INCREASE

Pay Board Ruling

Facts. Teachers signed a contract in April 1971, providing for a single wage increase for the school year 1971-72 that would have gone into effect in September 1971, were it not for the freeze. Contract negotiations for the school year 1972-73 are now beginning and the teachers are concerned as to whether they are limited to a 5.5 percent increase over the 1970-71 contract wages which they were receiving prior to November 14, 1971, or can they receive a 5.5 percent increase over the 1971-72 contract wages which went into effect on November 14, 1971.

Issue. In calculating "permissible annual aggregate increases," what is the wage base that will apply—those frozen wages on November 13, 1971, or the unfrozen wages of November 14, 1971.

Ruling. Where a wage agreement is in effect, "permissible annual aggregate increases" will be calculated on the basis of wages and salaries in existence immediately prior to the beginning of the 12-month period which begins on the effective date of a new agreement and in each succeeding 12-month period during the life of the agreement.

Hence, the "permissible annual aggregate increase" in a wage agreement cannot exceed 5.5 percent of the wages paid immediately prior to the effective date of the new wage contract. In the instant situation if the teachers sign a contract in April 1972, for th school year of 1972-73 to be effective September 1, 1972, the "permissible annual aggregate increase" cannot exceed 5.5 percent of the wage base of the last full payroll period before the effective date of the new agreement. Therefore, the wage base would not be the frozen wage base on November 13, 1971, but it would be a wage base that would reflect the 1971-72 contract wages.

This ruling has been approved by the General Counsel of the Pay Board.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS

Publication of the NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST will resume in September. To ensure continued, up-to-date coverage of public sector bargaining activity, renew your DIGEST subscription immediately. Just complete the subscription blank printed on the back cover of this issue and mail it today to: Records Division, National Education Association, 1201 Sixteenth Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

VOL. 6 NO. 1
SEPT. 1972

NRD
NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST

CONTENTS

Page

Case Reviews 3
- Court Denies Teachers the Right To Strike
- Class Size, Workload and Grievance Arbitration Negotiable
- Rehired Teachers' Payment of "Liquidated Damages" for Strike Held Legal
- Board's Statutory Powers Not Delegable; Negotiated Provisions Invalid
- Validity of Renegotiated Salary Schedule Affirmed
- Court Rejects Strike Remedies
- N.Y. Courts Refuse To Stay Arbitration Without Clear and Unquestionable Contract Bar; Arbitrator, Not Courts, To Decide Arbitrability
- Inconvenience and Harassment Not Perilous to Health, Safety, and Welfare Ban on Teachers' Strikes
- Insufficient Funding Not Reason for Contract Abrogation

Board Findings and Rulings 8
- Management Prerogative Upheld in First Maryland Arbitration Case
- MLRC Orders School Committee To Bargain With Professional Negotiators
- MERC Mandates Negotiation of School Opening and Closing Dates
- PERB Rules Principals May Form Bargaining Unit
- Check-off Rights of Striking Teachers Organizations Suspended
- PERC Determines Appropriate Teacher Bargaining Units
- PLRB Orders Bargaining on Pay for Extracurricular Activities
- WERC Finds School Board Violated Teacher's Rights
- NLRB Determines Appropriate Higher Education Bargaining Units

Negotiation Notes 12
- Kansas: Public Employee Law Amended To Include Higher Education Employees
- Court Orders Welfare Pay for N. Y. Strikers
- N. Y.: Teacher Fair Dismissal Bill Enacted
- R. I.: Agency Shop and Binding Impasse Arbitration Added to State Employee Bargaining Law
- Supreme Court Sets Due Process Rights for Nontenured Teachers
- Use of Union Funds in Federal Election Campaigns Permitted
- Consumer Price Index, June 1972

Statistics 14
- Joint Committees in Comprehensive Classroom Teacher Agreements
- Salary Increases for Engineers Reported

Special Reports 20
- Briefs of Recent Agreements
- The Effect of New Maternity Leave Code on Negotiation

RESEARCH DIVISION
NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

Copyright © 1972 by the
National Education Association
All Rights Reserved

2276

The NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST is published 10 times per year, September through June. Single copy, $3.00; 2-9 copies, 10% discount; 10 or more copies, 20% discount.

Subscription Rate: One year subscription to the NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST for NEA members and NEA affiliates, $15.00; for others $30.00. Send inquiries to the NEA Records Division.

Reproduction: No part of this DIGEST may be reproduced in any form without written permission from the NEA Research Division, except by NEA departments and affiliated associations. In all cases, reproduction of the NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST materials must include the usual credit line and copyright notice.

Services: Subscribers who request full text reprints of major articles in the Case Reviews or Board Findings and Rulings will be sent copies where available, or citations for judicial decisions.

Subscribers may order copies of full text agreements or negotiation provisions analyzed or reprinted in the DIGEST for a minimum charge of $2.00. This charge provides up to 15 pages of xeroxed material; pages in excess of 15 are charged at the rate of $.10 each. Each request should include a check for $2.00 payable to the National Education Association.

Address communications regarding the DIGEST to Donald P. Walker, Chief, Negotiation Research Unit, or Joseph A. Falzon, Senior Staff Associate, Research Division, National Education Association, 1201 Sixteenth Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

CASE REVIEWS

CALIFORNIA

Court Denies Teachers the Right to Strike

A California appellate court rejected the United Teachers-Los Angeles' appeal of a temporary restraining order enjoining teachers from engaging in a strike against the Los Angeles Unified School District.

The temporary restraining order was issued on April 13, 1970, at the request of the school district. On that date, approximately 12,300 Los Angeles teachers began a month-long work stoppage.

In its appeal, the teachers association stated that the injunction was issued on the basis that teacher strikes violate the common law of California. However, according to the teachers association, the injunction was invalid since the order was issued without a hearing, and state statutes authorize teachers to strike. The First and Fourteenth Amendments of the Constitution (rights of free speech and association) assure teachers the right to strike.

The court pointed to several recent court decisions which held that in the absence of legislative authority public employees do not have the right to strike; also, neither California common law nor the Constitution grants public employees the right to strike.

The appellate court found that the teachers association had requested a ruling on the present case to enable them to bring the case to the supreme courts of California and the United States. The court concluded that the issues were adversely determined in three of the five appellate districts of the court. In each instance, a petition for hearing was denied by the California Supreme Court. On the basis of these previous court decisions, the appellate court found it unnecessary to reassess the issues of the case and rejected defendants' appeal. (Los Angeles Unified School District v. United Teachers-Los Angeles, California Court of Appeals, Second District, March 17, 1972.)

CONNECTICUT

Court Rules Class Size, Workload and Grievance Arbitration As Negotiable

The Connecticut Supreme Court ordered the West Hartford Board of Education to negotiate with the West Hartford Education Association on class size, teacher workload, and grievance arbitration. These items, as "conditions of employment," must be negotiated under state law.

Although the Teacher Negotiation Act provides only for advisory arbitration in contract negotiations, the binding arbitration of grievances within the terms of the agreement is permissible. However, the court stated that "the board cannot delegate to an arbitrator its statutory authority as to matter of policy, nor can it agree to binding arbitration of matters concerning which a statutory duty rests on the board alone."

The court ruled that the board of education has the exclusive power to determine extracurricular activities. However, compensation for, and assignment to, extracurricular activities "as salaries and other conditions of employment" must be negotiated.

Length of the school day and the school year are not negotiable, according to the court decision, as they constitute "hours of employment" and are excluded from negotiation by legislation. The court also rejected a claim by the teachers association that the administration violated its duty and subverted the association by proposing and instituting new work schedules and a resource teacher program. (West Hartford Education Association v. West Hartford Board of Education, Connecticut Supreme Court.)

FLORIDA

Rehired Teachers' Payment of "Liquidated Damages" for Strike Held Legal

The Florida Supreme Court affirmed the legality of an arrangement between the Lee County Board of Public Instruction and Lee County (Fort Myers) teachers made in the aftermath of a state-wide teachers' work stoppage. The agreement provided that teachers would be rehired at their former status upon payment of $100.

In February 1968, during the state-wide teachers' strike, 400 Lee County teachers resigned from their positions to avoid a state prohibition against such strikes. After the work stoppage, the teachers were legally barred from being rehired except as new teachers, while the county school board had a constitutional duty to recover from teachers monetary losses sustained during the strike.

In efforts to resolve this problem, a citizens group mediated a solution whereby teachers would pay the school board $100, and be reinstated to their pre-strike status. Subsequently, a circuit court ruled that these payments were "fines," and as such, were illegal. The court certified the question for a Florida Supreme Court opinion.

In the opinion of the supreme court, the payment agreement was legal as it was an "agreement(s) on employment terms." The court supported the payments as valid because they constituted "liquidated damages." According to the court, had the school board not recovered these funds from the teachers, it would in fact be supporting teachers' political and lobbying activity.

The court pointed out that the state superintendent waived certain state regulations to allow teachers who walked out to return to their positions without loss of tenure. The Lee County teachers were not covered by this decision since they had resigned their positions. The court felt that the payment agreement was a legal and satisfactory method of handling the situation.

Several teachers, acting as plaintiffs in the case, opposed the payments, labeling them as "fines." The court held that the word "fine" connoted punishment, while evidence indicated that the payments were being used for additional expenses incurred by the school board during walkout. The court concluded that the payments were proper as liquidated damages, that the arrangement did not violate any state statute, and, in fact, was a satisfactory solution for both parties. (National Education Association, Inc. et al., Plaintiffs-Appellees v. Lee County Board of Public Instruction et al., Defendants Appellants, Supreme Court of Florida, March 15, 1972.)

ILLINOIS

Board's Statutory Powers Not Delegable; Negotiated Provisions Invalid

The Illinois Appellate Court, Second District, upheld a lower court order staying grievance abritration between the Rockford Education Association (REA) and the Board of Education, Rockford School District.

The creation of a new administrative position, denied an association member who had applied for the vacant post under terms of the negotiated agreement, resulted in a grievance filed by the REA alleging that the board had violated the agreement by improperly failing to promote the applicant.

The grievance was processed through the preliminary steps of the procedure to the superintendent who waived his right to act, whereupon the association filed a demand to bring the matter before an arbitrator. The arbitrator ruled favorably for the association on the arbitrability of the grievance, despite the board's objections that the matter of selection or employment of employees was neither included in the agreement nor delegated. Subsequently, the board sought a declaratory judgment that the agreement was void insofar as it related to selection or employment. A trial court agreed with the board's complaint.

The REA appealed the verdict. The appeals court noted that a school board may enter into a collective bargaining agreement, but may not delegate to a third party discretionary powers statutorily vested in the board. The association argued that the board upon creating the position, fixing the qualifications, determining the salary, and defining the duties actually exercised rather than delegated its responsibilities in regard to the employment of an administrator. And since an applicant was to be selected within the guidelines established by the board, no further discretionary functions were to be exercised.

The court held that the collective agreement was anomalous in that it recognized the statutory responsibilities, powers, right, and authority vested in the board while limiting the powers granted exclusively to the board by the School Act. Further, the court found nothing in the contract which could be construed as a limitation on the discretion of the board to employ or not to employ. The negotiated agreement merely established a promotional procedure based on "qualification," stated the court, but the ultimate determination of "qualification" rested with the board and could not be delegated to a third party.

The appeals court concluded that the trial court's judgment was correct and affirmed the decision. (Board of Education in and for the School District of the City of Rockford, No. 205, Winnebago County, Illinois, a Municipal Corporation, Plaintiff-Appellee v. Rockford Education Association, Inc. et. al., Defendants Appellants, Appellate Court of Illinois, Second District, March 2, 1972.)

MASSACHUSETTS

Validity of Renegotiated Salary Schedule Affirmed by State Supreme Court

The Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court upheld a lower court's decision that quarterly salary increases renegotiated by the Norton Teachers Association with the Norton School Committee were valid.

The teachers association and the school committee negotiated a collective bargaining agreement, effective September 2, 1968, to August 31, 1970, with provisions for specific salary increases and renegotiation of compensation.

Insufficient funds appropriated for 1968 by the town necessitated the payment of lower than negotiated salaries to teachers from September 2 to December 31, 1968. In March 1969, the school committee requested special funds to repay teachers for their insufficient salaries. The committee's request was denied, but 1969 school funds were appropriated without restrictions.

Subsequent to this action, the school committee and the teachers association amended their 1968-69 salary schedule. Salaries for September 3 to December 31, 1968, were reduced to the amount actually paid; salaries for January 1 to March 9, 1969, remained unchanged, but salaries for March 10 to June 30, 1969, were increased to compensate for the salary loss incurred from September through December 1968. The 1969 funds appropriated by the town were sufficient to cover the amended salary schedule.

Challenged, the school committee and the teachers association requested a court determination on the validity of the amended agreement. A trial court supported the committee's actions and ordered payment of the salary increases.

The town appealed the decision, arguing that the committee had violated the Municipal Finance Act. The Act states that "no department financed by municipal revenue shall incur a liability in excess of [the department's] appropriation." The Act also provides that a municipality may appropriate funds to pay debts previously incurred.

The town contended that in 1968 the committee illegally negotiated salaries in excess of appropriated funds. The town further stated that indirectly the salary increases in 1969 constituted "a mere gratuity and an invalid action" which "amounted to paying the bill for salaries incurred in a prior year without complying with the law," i.e., without the town's approval.

In accordance with previous decisions supporting the school committee's authority to manage the public schools, the court reiterated that a school committee could enter into valid agreements in excess of available appropriations. The court noted that no discrepancy existed between the amounts appropriated by the town for 1968 and the amounts requested by the school committee. The 1969 salary increases, according to the court, were not "gifts of what could not have legally been paid to teachers in 1968," since "only teachers who actually worked in 1969 received the increase." The court ruled that the school committee's power to fix the teachers' compensation was limited only by the amount of funds available. Since sufficient funds were available for 1969, the committee's actions were proper and the amended contract was valid and enforceable. (Norton Teachers Association et al v. Town of Norton et al, Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court, February 11, 1972.)

MINNESOTA

Court Rejects Strike Remedies

Another chapter in extensive litigation arising from a teachers' strike in Minneapolis in April 1970 called by the Minneapolis Federation of Teachers finds some 600 teachers represented by the Minneapolis Education Association again classified as "strikers" subject to the penalties proscribed by the state's former public sector labor law.

The Hennepin County District Court voided the retroactive procedure—the use of form affidavits without further investigation—to determine whether teachers were on strike or taking personal leave. The court determined that such a procedure was "arbitrary and capricious" even though it had ruled during the strike that the board's suspension of the personal leave policy was "arbitrary" and ordered its reinstatement, making personal leave available for absences on the first two days of the strike.

The instant taxpayers' suit was filed conjunctively with one filed by the then acting attorney general against the MFT, MEA, and the school board for negotiating two pay provisions which in effect would have circumvented the strike penalties proscribed under state law. The attorney general's suit was prosecuted successfully, nullifying the pay provisions of the strike settlement.

The present suit challenged the board's right to grant retroactive personal leave upon an applicant's filing of an affidavit that he elected to be absent during the first two days of the strike and that he engaged in no strike since April 8, 1970, the date on which the school board denied the MEA's request for personal leave for all teachers prior to the commencement of the strike on April 9.

The court found that MEA members had engaged in "activity totally inconsistent with a determination of 'nonstrike' status" by circulating literature pertaining to the issues in the hope of convincing the public that the teachers' negotiation demands were reasonable and beneficial to the educational system. The court observed that though a school board is vested with a great deal of discretionary power, it may not abuse its powers in a way that is contrary to law. "This court concurs that the affidavit merely states a legal conclusion and not facts...that certain individuals requesting personal leave in fact were entitled retroactively to that personal leave....This court cannot disregard the spirit and intent of the personal leave policy and condone a policy which indirectly if not directly sanctions a mass absence of teachers from their classrooms."

The court added, "Absences from work under the pretense of something other than striking activities have not been condoned in other situations.... In conclusion, simultaneous legitimate requests for personal leave for 600 teachers is a strain of comprehension beyond [my] imagination."

The court ruled that the board's acceptance of the teachers' affidavits to determine the status of being a "striker" or a "nonstriker" was an arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable determination which exceeded the bounds of the discretionary power of the school board. The teachers' argument that those teachers who claimed leave were unlawfully denied a hearing was rejected by the court on the grounds that they could have demanded a hearing. The hearings that were given were also invalidated since the nostrike law requires that such hearings be part of the public record. (Douglas M. Head and Keith v. Special School District No. 1 and MFT Local 59, MEA et al, Hennepin County District Court, March 1, 1972.)

NEW YORK

Courts Refuse To Stay Arbitration Without Clear and Unquestionable Contract Bar

The Dobbs Ferry Education Association filed a petition to compel arbitration of a dispute involving the dismissal of a school nurse during her probationary period, which was extended by the school board beyond the probationary period required for the position by civil service regulations. The association suffered a setback as a result of a negotiated dual grievance procedure which differentiated between "agreement grievances" and "personal grievances." The former related to grievances arising out of an alleged violation, misinterpretation, or inequitable application of the contract provisions, while the latter referred to grievances arising in connection with employment by the board which were not covered by the contract. A negotiated provision, Article II, preserved the board's nondelegable power to administer the school district as it saw fit with the proviso that exercise of such power shall not be inconsistent with the agreement or applicable statutes.

The school board contended that the question of arbitrability rested with the court and that this grievance was not an "agreement grievance" requiring arbitration. The association contended that the dismissal of the nurse at the end of her probationary period constituted a violation of Article II relating to applicable statutes, and, therefore, constituted an "agreement grievance," which must be arbitrated.

The court clearly reserved its right to determine whether a specific issue should be turned over to arbitration. In determining whether the dismissal constituted an "agreement grievance," the court considered the negotiated grievance machinery in the agreement, and found no provision that would render this particular dispute arbitrable. This omission of a broad, all-disputes arbitration provision, in the court's opinion, was fatal to the association since the agreement specified that only "agreement grievances" were subject to arbitration while specifically excluding from arbitration those matters which related to the right of the board to run the district.

The court noted that the association, while negotiating a provision which preserved the board's power to run the district, was at the same time relying on that provision to hand the decision-making process to an arbitrator. In the court's language,

> The plain intent of Article II of the agreement concerning the rights of the Board of Education would seem to preserve to the board the right to direct the operations of the public schools in the district and it is just this type of dispute which would seem to involve what the language of the section intends and what the courts have considered to be a matter for the school board and not the arbitrator to decide.

In dismissing the petition, the court added that since the instant case involved a violation of a personal right rather than the agreement, rectification existed with administrative and judicial proceedings. (Hilda Lehman et al. Petitioners v. Dobbs Ferry Board of Education, Union Free School District No. 3, Town of Greenburgh, et al., New York Supreme Court, Westchester County, June 7, 1971.)

Arbitration Stay Granted

The Lakeland Federation of Teachers, Local 1760, AFL-CIO, instituted a grievance against the Board of Education, Central School District 1, for failure to grant tenure to a probationary teacher on the grounds that he was denied the contracted right to an evaluation. The board successfully sought a stay of arbitration from the court.

The court observed that under the negotiated contract the alleged failure to provide an evaluation was an arbitrable matter, but on the overriding question of teacher tenure prior decisions have withdrawn the subject from the realm of arbitration.

In granting the stay of arbitration, the court determined that the probationary teacher had failed to complete the requirements under which an uncertified teacher may be re-employed. Public policy relating to the granting of tenure, as established by the legislature and the Commissioner of Education, is not a matter to be delegated to an arbitrator to modify. (Board of Education, Central School District 1, Towns of Yorktown, Somers and Cortlandt, Westchester County; Putnam Valley, Carmel and Philipstown, Putnam County, Petitioner, v. Lakeland Federation of Teachers, Local 1760, AFT, AFL-CIO, New York Supreme Court, Westchester County, November 15, 1971.)

Arbitrator, Not Courts, To Decide Arbitrability

The Board of Education, Middle County Central School District 11, sought a motion to stay arbitration from the New York Supreme Court, Special Term. The court denied the board's motion on the grounds that questions of arbitrability should be left to the arbitrator unless a contract clearly and specifically contains an exclusion from arbitration.

The Middle County Teachers Association alleged that the school board did not staff the elementary schools in accordance with the contract provision and filed a request for arbitration. The board contended that the class size provision is neither a negotiable item nor arbitrable.

The court, relying on Matter of Associated Teachers of Huntington v. Board of Education (303 N.Y.S.2d 469), and upon finding no bar to arbitration within the comprehensive grievance provision of the agreement, denied the motion, and ordered the initiation of arbitration proceedings. (Board of Education, Middle County Central School District 11, of the Town of Brookhaven, Petitioner v. Middle County Teachers Association, Respondent, New York Supreme Court, Special Term, Part 1, Suffolk County, No. 2649, June 21, 1972.)

Time Limits To Be Decided by Arbitrator

Excepting collective agreements that specifically limit the scope of arbitration, the New York courts have clearly ruled that questions of arbitrability are to be left to the arbitrator.

The Harrison Association of Teachers was granted its cross-motion, while the Central School District No. 1, Harrison, was denied its motion to stay arbitration of a grievance on the ground that the association had failed to adhere to the contractual time limitations for filing.

Relying on the landmark decision in City of Auburn v. Nash (NY 34 A.D.2d. 345), the court ruled that resolution of the time limitation dilemma as a prior condition to arbitration is not a matter for the courts, as such subjects of procedural arbitrability are within the domain of an arbitrator to decide.

The school district contended that the association did not comply with the time provision contained in the contract for initiating a grievance which ends in binding arbitration. The court, in rejecting the motion, considered the issue to be too narrow for its adjudication.

Without comment on the merits of the case, the court further stated that an issue, either substantive or procedural, contained in a collective bargaining agreement must be initially determined by an arbitrator unless contract language clearly rebuts the presumption of arbitrability which would then admit of an initial determination of the issue to the court. (Matter of the Application for Permanent Stay of Arbitration, Central School District 1, Harrison, Petitioner, v. Harrison Association of Teachers et al., Respondents, New York State Supreme Court, Westchester County, No. 14097/71, March 2, 1972.)

PENNSYLVANIA

Inconvenience and Harassment Not Perilous to Health, Safety, and Welfare Ban on Teachers' Strikes

The Commonwealth Court of Pennsylvania issued companion decisions, dissolving a strike injunction and vacating an order to resolve through binding arbitration the dispute between the Armstrong Education Association and the Armstrong School District.

Dealing first with the appeal from the injunction, the court sought to determine whether apparently reasonable grounds existed for a return-to-work order. The court noted that while state law does permit the right to strike only after exhaustion of the negotiation process, a public employer may seek relief through the courts. The standard for issuance of an injunction, as established by the legislature and as promulgated in Section 1003 of the Public Employment Relations Act (PERA), is a determination of "a clear and present danger or threat to the health, safety or welfare of the public."

The court had to determine whether the danger or threat was "real or actual," and not "climactically imminent." However, the court noted that in granting teachers the right to strike, the legislature indicated an awareness and an acceptance of the normal inconveniences associated with a strike, while differentiating between strikes that peril the public health, safety, or welfare and those that do not. The court found in this case that while the disruption was "clear and present," it was not a danger or threat as contemplated by the legislature, but the usual consequence of a teachers' strike. An injunction nullifying the strike would, according to the court, take away what the legislature gave to the teachers.

The school board contended that a danger did exist owing to the longevity and bitterness of the strike. The board argued that public officials were harassed, and that unless 12 school days were made up, the district would lose state subsidies.

The court found that the loss of 12 school days could be made up through an extension of the school term or on 19 holiday dates during the year. The court also found no evidence of harassment by the teachers, and further that such actions did not arise out of the strike but from a "reaction to it by persons unknown." The court did not hold that community opposition to the strike was justification for granting an injunction under legislative standards. The appeals court overturned the injunction on the grounds that the lower court's reasoning for issuing the ban did not satisfy the legislative standard.

Taking up the school board's appeal of the common pleas court's jurisdiction, the appeals court found the basis of the lower court's decision in Section 1003, PERA, and "cases which hold that equity may intervene where a school board has committed an abuse of discretion in determining a matter... or where a school board has been guilty of an error or misapplication of the law, or of an arbitrary action or clear abuse of discretion." Further, Section 1003 indicates that when a public employer desires relief from a strike, the court is "not limited to appropriate injunctions."

The court noted that equity powers of the common pleas court have been and are still limited by legislation and constitutional provisions, and that the court may exercise equity power only when specifically granted by the legislature. In the instant case, the appeals court determined that the legislature had granted no such power to the common pleas court, and therefore said court exceeded its jurisdiction in forcing the school district and association to arrive at a settlement through binding arbitration. In light of this legislative bar, the only power available to the common pleas court under Section 1003 was to end the strike through injunction, but not to issue a remedy. The lower court's action is nonetheless invalid, without legislative approval, even if a court of equity was later to determine that the school board had abused its discretion, committed error, misapplied law, or acted arbitrarily.

The court reluctantly noted that while the lower court did find that the board did not negotiate in good faith and seemed intent on prolonging the strike, the remedy was inappropriate because it was inconsistent with existing legislation. (The Armstrong School District v. The Armstrong Education Association, Pennsylvania Commonwealth Court, No. 1080 C.D. 1971, May 17, 1972.)

RHODE ISLAND

Insufficient Funding No Reason for Contract Abrogation

Dismissing with prejudice a suit brought by the Town of Scituate against the Scituate Teachers Association, the Rhode Island Superior Court reprimanded the town for failure to comply with its legally contracted obligations as specified by the state's "Michaelson Act" which governs public employer-employee relations.

The court emphatically told the town that regardless of the subsequent action taken by the financial town meeting, a negotiated contract entered into by the school committee must be honored. To do otherwise would be to nullify the collective bargaining process, as well as to fly in the face of a legislative mandate that vests the school board, not the appropriating body, with the authority to enter into a collective bargaining agreement.

Relying on the decision of Providence Teachers Union, Local 958 v. School Committee of the City of Providence wherein the state supreme court ruled that unavailability of funds was no excuse for nonpayment, the court turned aside the town's contention that it is impossible to allocate funds without prior approval of the town financial meeting. The court noted that no effort was made to explain to the financial meeting the precise dilemma faced by the school committee upon rejection of the school budget, nor was there an attempt to call a special financial meeting to present and deal with the existing problem.

The court denied the town's petition for declaratory relief, with the observation that a future refusal to appropriate sufficient funds for the implementation of the contract would be considered "an additional matter upon which to base a further decision," and suggested that the teachers could initiate a law suit. (Town of Scituate, et al., v. Scituate Teachers Association, et al., State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations Superior Court, C.A. 71-2718, February 8, 1972.)

BOARD FINDINGS AND RULINGS

MARYLAND

Management Prerogative Upheld in First Binding Teacher Arbitration

Ruling on Maryland's first binding teacher arbitration case, an arbitrator determined that teacher arrival and departure times are covered by the board rights provision of the contract negotiated between the Baltimore Teachers Union, Local 340, AFT, AFL-CIO, and the Baltimore City Public Schools Board of School Commissioners. Thus, a directive requiring teachers to arrive 30 minutes before and remain 30 minutes after school was within the superintendent's prerogative.

Although in this particular case teacher arrival and departure times qualified as a board prerogative, the arbitrator stressed that this item was both arbitrable and negotiable. The state statutes authorize negotiation "with regard to all matters relating to salaries, wages, hours and other working conditions." In addition the issue at hand, as the arbitrator observed, was subject to arbitration under the grievance provision of the contract.

The board contended that the directive was a policy decision and that prior to its issuance, arrival and departure times, which were widely disregarded, were fixed by the building principals. The union argued that it was past practice for teachers to arrive 15 minutes before and remain 15 minutes after school, and enforcement of this practice was the board's responsibility.

The arbitrator observed that the union's argument assumed that a provision for arrivals and departures was incorporated by implication in the agreement. The union's failure to prove that such a practice existed and was continuous, noted the arbitrator, leads to the conclusion that the agreement contains no provision, covert or overt, fixing the teachers' arrival and departure times.

The union's grievance was dismissed as the directive was determined to be a board prerogative and not violative of the agreement. (Baltimore Teachers Union and Board of School Commissioners, Baltimore City Public Schools, Arbitration, March 20, 1972.)

MASSACHUSETTS

MLRC Orders School Committee To Include Professional Negotiators in Bargaining Sessions

The Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission (MLRC) ordered the Southbridge School Committee to negotiate with the Southbridge Education Association (SEA) assisted by a Massachusetts Teachers Association field consultant.

The school committee and the SEA adopted ground rules for negotiation sessions which stipulated that the teams would each act as a "committee for the whole," and that a quorum would consist of "four or more members from each committee." The rules also provided for "closed" negotiation sessions. At one meeting, the school committee was informed that a field consultant from the Massachusetts Teachers Association (MTA) would join the SEA at the bargaining table. The school committee, claiming a violation of the ground rules, refused to continue negotiation with the SEA in the presence of the field consultant. The SEA filed a complaint with MLRC against the Southbridge School Committee for its refusal to bargain.

The MLRC, after investigation, validated SEA's charges and issued a formal complaint against the school committee. An unsuccessful attempt was made to challenge MLRC's power to issue complaints. The school committee's contention that a formal vote of all SEA members was necessary before the MTA consultant could be included on the negotiating team was also dismissed. The utilization of a consultant was "an internal affair and no such formal vote was required," said the Commission.

The Commission upheld the power of the negotiating team to establish ground rules for bargaining proceedings so as to facilitate the exchange of views, but not to "emasculate the bargaining process." The school committee argued that the inclusion of the field consultant violated the "closed" nature of the meetings.

Considering limitations on the number of committee members, the Commission recognized the necessity to simplify the bargaining process, but did not find that the addition of a representative on either side would adversely affect bargaining sessions.

In its findings, the Commission stated that SEA utilized the services of the field consultant to improve its position at the bargaining table, and that to limit the employees' choice of representation would deprive them of their statutory right to bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing.

The MLRC concluded that there was no legal basis for the school committee's refusal to bargain in the presence of a field consultant. The committee's action constituted a statutory prohibited practice, refusal to bargain in good faith with the employees' exclusive representative. The school committee was ordered to resume bargaining with SEA and the field consultant, and to post a copy of MLRC's decision. (Southbridge School Committee and the Southbridge Education Association, Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission, June 7, 1972.)

MICHIGAN

MERC Mandates Negotiation of School Opening and Closing Dates

The Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) has ordered the Westwood Community Schools to furnish the Westwood Education Association (WEA) with up-to-date financial and other information relative to bargaining, to bargain on school opening and closing dates, and to cease and desist from any further refusal to bargain collectively. These mandates are intended as remedies for the unfair labor practices the district committed in violation of Michigan's mandatory public employee bargaining statute—the Hutchinson Act.

Section 15 of the Act requires public employers to "confer in good faith with respect to wages, hours and other terms and conditions of employment." MERC has previously interpreted "other terms and conditions of employment" to mean "those items which affect employees after they have become employees." Applying this yardstick, the Commission determined that the "substantial interest which the school teachers have in planning their summer activities outweighs" the district's right to manage schools. Accordingly the MERC ordered the district to negotiate the opening and closing dates of school. Prospective application of this ruling relieved the district of an unfair labor charge of unilaterally setting the school opening date.

The Commission found that the district's refusal to furnish salary and other information violated the Act's prohibition against any unlawful interference of employer or of the employee in the bargaining process. This violation had led to a retaliatory teacher strike, and the dismissal of the striking teachers. However, the Commission declined to review the legal question of the teachers' dismissals as the circuit court's intervention had rendered this issue moot. The court ruling and intensive mediation had brought about the teachers' reinstatement and presentation of the requested information. However, the WEA now sought relief from the costs of litigation and compensation for damages. Lacking the authority to make such an award, the Commission was limited to ordering the district to refrain from any further refusal to bargain. (Matter of Westwood Community Schools and Westwood Education Association, Michigan Employment Relations Commission, June 3, 1971.)

NEW YORK

PERB Rules Principals May Form Bargaining Unit

The New York Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) rejected the Beacon Enlarged City School District's petition to exclude building principals and assistant building principals from a bargaining unit of administrators on the basis that they were managerial employees.

The PERB ruled that building principals and assistant building principals did not conform to certain standards for managerial employees specified in the 1971 amendment to the Taylor Law, namely, formulation of policy, direct involvement in collective negotiations, and major roles in agreement and personnel administration.

The PERB decision represents the first case concerning the scope of managerial and confidential exclusions under the new Taylor Law amendment. (Board of Education, Beacon Enlarged City School District, New York Public Employment Relations Board, December 8, 1971.)

● In a subsequent case, a New York Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) official dismissed the petition of the Whitehall Central School District requesting reclassification of principals as either managerial or confidential employees.

The PERB official reviewed the principals' duties in reference to the four criteria for managerial status as presented in the Beacon case. He found that the principals' activities did not conform to the statutory definition of manager. According to the PERB official, there was a general lack of the principals' involvement in district-wide affairs with principals playing a ministerial rather than a major role in agreement administration, while their role in personnel administration was indicative of a supervisory rather than a managerial status.

The school district requested that principals be classified as confidential employees because of their knowledge of "budgetary information as well as personnel policy making." The PERB official found "no evidence of such sharing in the record. While in the exercise of their supervisory personnel functions, principals may be exposed to information which may not be of a public nature . . . it does not necessarily follow that they are 'confidential' persons under the Act."

The PERB official dismissed the school district's petition, although an appeal to PERB may be made. In the absence of an appeal, the PERB official's decision becomes final and binding. (Whitehall Central School District, New York Public Employment Relations Board, March 28, 1972.)

Dues Deduction Rights of Striking Teachers Organizations Suspended

The New York Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) suspended the dues deduction privileges of two teacher bargaining units that struck in violation of the "no-strike" provision (Sec. 210.1) of the Taylor Law. Since the final collective bargaining proposal made by each of the school districts involved was reasonable, PERB held that both strikes were illegal. PERB found no evidence that the actions of either employer at the time of the strikes were "extremely provocative" as alleged by the teacher groups.

● Although the Ballston Spa Central School District No. 1 had complied with the factfinder's impasse settlement recommendations, the Ballston Spa Teachers Association boycotted a required meeting called by the superintendent, and later participated in a two-day withdrawal of services. As no evidence substantiated the association's claim that the district provoked the strike, the PERB determined that the strike was a reaction against the factfinder's recommendations. Deciding that the impact of the two-day strike and the meeting boycott were minor, the PERB suspended the association's dues deduction privileges for six months and limited the years' deductions to 50 percent of the total annual dues. Dues deduction rights were not to be resumed until the association had made a no-strike pledge. (Matter of Ballston Spa Teachers Association, New York Public Employment Relations Board, July 29, 1971.)

● The Lakeland Central School District No. 1, by proposing a reasonable last-minute contract (including a $7,900 base salary) absolved itself of having provoked the Lakeland Federation of Teachers' (Local 1760, AFT, AFL-CIO) seven-day strike. The PERB so ruled upon finding that the union had rejected the last-minute proposal and withheld services with the intention of getting a more favorable settlement.

PERB observed that the district's original contract proposal, which inequitably maintained the status quo on teacher salaries while raising nonprofessionals' salaries, as well as proposing a reduction and even elimination of many benefits and privileges, was provocative. However, PERB held that the proposal, which the union rejected prior to the strike, was acceptable and that there was no longer a situation of "extreme provocation." PERB concluded that the union's strike must be penalized by "the withdrawal of union dues." (Matter of Lakeland Federation of Teachers, Local 1760, AFT, AFL-CIO and the Lakeland Faculty Association, New York Public Employment Relations Board, July 29, 1971.)

NEW JERSEY

PERC Determines Appropriate Teacher Bargaining Units

The New Jersey Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC) excluded supervisory personnel (including department chairmen) from two classroom teacher bargaining units on the basis of strict interpretation of Chapter 303, Section 7, of the New Jersey Employer-Employee Relations Act. This section specifies that > nor, except where established practice, prior agreement or special circumstances, dictate the contrary, shall any supervisor having the power to hire, discharge, discipline, or to effectively recommend the same, have the right to be represented in collective negotiations by an employee organization that admits nonsupervisory personnel to membership.

In a third case, department chairmen on the basis of their teaching activities, nurses, coaches, and other extra-duty personnel were included in a classroom teacher unit since they had sufficient community of interest with unit members.

● In the High Point Regional High School case the responsibilities of the Director of Guidance and Special Services had changed, thus qualifying the director, who had been a member of the High Point Education Association (HPEA), for supervisory status. Since enlargement of the director's responsibilities included authority to effectively recommend the hiring of guidance counselors and special service personnel, PERC classified him as a supervisor and excluded him from the teacher unit. However, PERC observed that inclusion of the director in the unit would have continued if the scope of the position had not expanded. (High Point Regional High School Board of Education and High Point Education Association, New Jersey Public Employment Relations Commission, May 3, 1971.)

● The Commission "clearly established" that the duties of the department chairmen in the Greater Egg Harbor Regional High School District, as delineated in their job descriptions, included active participation in the hiring, evaluation, retention, and promotion of department members. Further, the superintendent frequently hired teachers solely on the recommendation of a department chairman. Applying Section 7 of the Act, PERC found no prior practice or special circumstance justifying inclusion of department chairmen in the Oakhurst Teachers Association, Inc., and accordingly excluded them from this nonsupervisory bargaining unit. (Board of Education of the Greater Egg Harbor Regional High School District and Oakcrest Teachers Association, Inc., New Jersey Public Employment Relations Commission, June 25, 1971.)

● In the Hamilton Township School District case, the title of department chairman described a voluntary extracurricular activity of the same caliber, for purposes of recognition, as that of a study hall monitor. Accordingly the Commission refused to distinguish between the district's department chairmen and other teachers. Further, the department chairmen in their role as teachers were already in the Hamilton Township Education Association (HTA). PERC excluded the department chairmen position itself from the unit, since it was not recognized as a position per se.

The Commission's stance on the exclusion of other extra-duty positions from the unit differed. PERC held that coaches and extra-duty personnel were to be represented by the bargaining agent in their extracurricular, as well as regular teaching, activities. The Commission observed that no conflict of interest existed "or could exist between teachers as coaches or as extra-duty personnel and as teachers." PERC also ruled that the district's nurses who have similar working conditions and a community of interest with classroom teachers should also be included in the HTA unit. (Hamilton Township Board of Education and Hamilton Township Education Association, New Jersey Public Employment Relations Commission, June 16, 1971.)

PENNSYLVANIA

PLRB Affirms School Board's Duty To Bargain on Compensation for Extracurricular Activities

The Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board (PLRB), ruling on two cases relating to the negotiation of extracurricular pay, upheld a previous decision on the negotiability of extracurricular pay over the objections of the Canon-McMillan School Board, and found the Kiski Area School District engaging in an unfair labor practice by failing to negotiate on extracurricular compensation.

● PLRB ruled that the school board had committed an unfair labor practice when it refused to bargain on compensation for extracurricular activities. Although PLRB recognized the school board's right to determine required services, the extracurricular activities as extra-work services "must be considered as an integral part of the wage scale calculation," and are thus negotiable. (PLRB v. Canon-McMillan School Board, January 18, 1972.)

● In a second case, the PLRB sustained an improper practices charge brought by the Kiski Area Education Association against the Kiski Area School District. The teachers association accused the school district of committing an unfair labor practice by refusing to negotiate compensation for coaches' extracurricular duties.

The PLRB supported its ruling in the Canon-McMillan case, i.e., that, as wages reflect payment for specific services rendered, extracurricular activities are part of the wage scale calculation and are bargainable. (PLRB v. Board of School Directors of Kiski Area School District, March 9, 1972.)

WISCONSIN

WERC Finds School Board Violated Teacher Rights

The Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission (WERC) upheld a trial examiner's findings that the St. Francis School Board infringed on employees' rights by requiring teachers to sign individual contracts prior to a collective bargaining settlement. (NRD 10-71, 11)

In April 1969, during negotiation sessions, the school board and the St. Francis Education Association agreed that signed letters of teachers' intent to return the following year would be binding on the school board. Upon completion of the bargaining sessions, individual contracts incorporating newly negotiated provisions would be issued. However, before contract settlement, the school board sent individual contracts to teachers, indicating that unless the teachers returned the signed contracts immediately, they would face dismissal.

The Commission found that the board's initial approval of the teachers' right to delay the signing of individual contracts converted the right to a "protected activity," and the board's subsequent action requiring teachers to sign individual contracts prior to contract settlement constituted an infringement of this "protected activity." (St. Francis Education Association and School District No. 6 of the City of St. Francis, Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission, October 26, 1971.)

FEDERAL

NLRB Determines Appropriate Higher Education Bargaining Units

The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) asserting jurisdiction over Florida Southern College, a private sectarian institution, determined the appropriate bargaining unit, and ordered the representation election sought by the Florida Education Association, Inc. (FEA), an NEA affiliate, "composed of teachers in the public schools, junior colleges, and universities." In a second case, the Board granted the representation election petitioned for by the Association of University Professors at Seattle University.

● The NLRB's Florida Southern College determination rejected the college's objection to inclusion of the employees of a private college in a public employee union.

The appropriate bargaining unit, as delineated by the Board, included all full- and part-time faculty, librarians (with the exception of the head librarian), a research physician (eligible for tenure), "dual function employees" (whose work is part administrative and part instructional, i.e., chaplain, assistant academic dean, athletic director, and publication director), and the departmental executive directors. According to the Board, the department chairmen received the same pay and had no more authority than other faculty but served as coordinators between the administration and the faculty on a rotating basis.

Excluded from the unit were R.O.T.C. instructors and other active duty military personnel, part-time instructors at the college's McCoy AFB extension (who have little or no direct interaction with the main campus faculty), the director of alumni affairs (who no longer teaches), the dean of students (who supervises other faculty), and administrative employees. (Florida Southern College and Florida Education Association, Inc., National Labor Relations Board, May 9, 1972.)

● At Seattle University the NLRB included librarians and other full-time faculty in the professional bargaining unit, but excluded department chairmen because of the scope of the responsibilities delegated to them. The Seattle University department chairmen supervised most of their departments' functions, including the hiring, discharge, and promotion of faculty, and the granting of merit increases and sabbatical leaves, and so were excluded from the unit. (Seattle University and American Association of University Professors, National Labor Relations Board, May 5, 1972.)

NEGOTIATION NOTES

KANSAS

Public Employee Bargaining Law Amended To Include State Higher Education Employees

Kansas' public employee bargaining statute was amended to include all of the state's full-time employees, county and welfare workers, and state higher education employees.

The new amendments mandate the use of negotiating teams to bargain with state agency employees, require the negotiation of a memorandum of agreement involving finances prior to the budget submission date, and establish a state finance council with the authority to approve contracts affecting the state pay plan or state rules and regulations.

"Public employer" is defined as "every governmental subdivision including any county, township, city, school district, special district, board, commission, or other unit whose governing body exercises similar governmental powers, and the State of Kansas and its state agencies."

"Representative of the public agency" was redefined as the chief executive officer of the employer, except where otherwise provided by the governing body, and "except in the case of the State of Kansas and its agencies."

"Budget submission date" was redefined as July 1 for any public employers subject to the budget law, but for the state and its agencies, budget submission date means "September 15." The amendments defined "state agency" as "county departments of social welfare whose employees shall be considered the same as employees of the state department of social welfare."

NEW YORK

Court Orders Welfare Pay for N.Y. Strikers

The New York State Supreme Court, Appellate Division, Fourth Department, reversed a lower court decision that denied welfare assistance to striking employees of the New York Telephone Company.

The court determined that a striker is an "employable individual" for the duration of the strike, but noted that if a striker refuses to accept employment, public assistance should be denied. In addition, the court ruled that a union member's refusal to work for his employer during the strike constituted a "refusal" to accept employment under section 131(4) of the Social Services Law. However, since the courts have held that a union may impose fines, with implied threats of ejection to members who decline to honor an authorized strike, a union member's refusal to work during the strike cannot be viewed as a "voluntary act."

The court rejected the argument that granting welfare assistance to strikers would violate the state's policy, as evidenced by the unemployment insurance law, to remain neutral in industrial controversies.

Finding that unemployment compensation and welfare assistance serve different purposes, the court determined that welfare assistance in this case deals with a subsistence level of living and not a replacement of a striker's wages. The court added that while payment of these benefits may support workers and encourage strikes, denial supports employers by encouraging lockouts and discouraging strikes.

The plaintiff argued further that granting welfare benefits to strikers intrudes upon the federal scheme of mandated neutrality by states; and that the strike violated a no-strike clause. The court considering the former, agreed with the conclusion of the U. S. First Circuit Court of Appeals that it was doubtful that granting benefits to strikers would effect "a significant frustration of federal collective bargaining policy," and "in view of the state's police power it should be assumed that Congress intended to deprive the state of the power to serve its interests to promote public welfare." Regarding the final issue, the appeals court recognized the inappropriateness of a social welfare agency inquiring into the legality of a strike, and suggested that qualified federal and state labor boards should determine the question of "fault" in work stoppage. (John L. Lascaris, Commissioner of the Department of Social Services, Onondaga County, v. George K. Wyman, Commissioner of the Department of Social Services, State of New York, Case No. 28/1971, Supreme Court, Appellate Division, Fourth Department, January 20, 1972.)

Teacher Fair Dismissal Bill Enacted

The New York State Teachers Association (NYSTA) backed Fair Dismissal Bill (S-9830) was signed by the governor on June 8, 1972. The act is "the first step in the protection of the probationary teacher from arbitrary and capricious firings and the protection of his professional status" according to the NYSTA's legislative consultant.

As of October 1, 1971, the probationary period for New York teachers was extended to five years. The act states that school boards must notify a teacher of an impending dismissal recommendation and supply him with the reasons for the dismissal recommendation upon request so that the teacher may file a written response to the board's explanation of reasons for dismissal. Time limits are specified for each step of the dismissal procedure.

RHODE ISLAND

Agency Shop and Binding Impasse Arbitration Added to State Employee Bargaining Law

The Rhode Island legislature recently amended its labor relations law for state employees. The amended law mandates agency shop, allows collective bargaining on wages and working conditions, and provides for binding arbitration of all unresolved issues except wages.

Public employee organizations now have the right to negotiate with the "chief executive or his designee," who is required to recognize the designated bargaining agent.

One of the major items in the new amendment was the agency shop provision or "fare share agreement." The "no-discrimination" section of law states that all employees who do not elect to join an organization must pay a service charge, equal to monthly dues, as a contribution toward the administration of any collective bargaining agreement.

The amendment enlarges the scope of the current sections relating to bargaining obligations, conciliation and factfinding on unresolved issues, binding arbitration procedures, factors to be considered by the arbitrator, and expense.

The chief executive or his designee is obligated to "meet and confer" with state employees' bargaining agent within 10 days after a meeting request. If no agreement is reached within 30 days, all unresolved issues go to the state labor relations board. If the issues remain unresolved, the conciliator is to make findings of fact and recommendations which the parties must consider within five days. Any remaining unresolved issues are referred to "final and binding" arbitration. The arbitrator, chosen within 15 days, must hold a hearing within 20 days, and issue his written findings and opinion within 10 days. The arbitrator's decision is binding upon both parties.

Arbitration decisions on wages are only advisory. The arbitrator is instructed to make wage comparisons and determine employment conditions of state employees with employees in similar jobs within the state and neighboring states in private industry and public employment.

FEDERAL

Supreme Court Sets Due Process Rights for Nontenured Teachers

The Supreme Court of the United States recently unanimously ruled that teachers, including those without tenure, cannot constitutionally be denied re-employment at the end of a contract year because they have exercised a constitutional right. The Court held that a junior college teacher in Texas, who did not have tenure, was entitled to trial in federal court on his claim that his nonretention was unconstitutionally based on his testimony before legislative committees and other public statements critical of the Board of Regents' policies. The Court also held that if policies or practices of the employer create a "de facto" tenure program, reasons and a hearing are required before a nontenured teacher can be denied re-employment. In this case and in David Roth (NRD 11-71, 6) which involved the nonrenewal of a first-year probationary teacher at the University of Wisconsin, the Court laid down principles governing the entitlement of a nontenured teacher to a statement of reasons and a hearing when a public educational institution proposes to dismiss him or not renew his contract. The Court made it clear for the first time that a nontenured teacher dismissed during the contract term is deprived of "property" within the meaning of the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment and thus is entitled to a due process hearing. Overturning a lower court decision in Roth, the Court decided 5-3 that a nonrenewal, standing alone, does not deprive a teacher of "liberty" or "property," and thus procedural due process is not required in such circumstances. The Court, however, indicated that reasons and a hearing are required where the state, in declining to rehire a teacher, makes a charge against him that might seriously damage his standing and associations in the community or imposes on him a stigma or other disability that forecloses his freedom to take advantage of other employment opportunities.

Use of Union Funds in Federal Election Campaigns Permitted

The Supreme Court of the United States ruled 6-2 recently that although use of general union funds in federal election campaigns is illegal, unions may contribute from voluntary member donations. The court also said the law does not require a voluntary political fund to be independent of union control or bar union officials from soliciting or even determining how contributions will be spent.

Consumer Price Index, June 1972

The Consumer Price Index (CPI) rose only 0.2 percent in June according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS). The June index was 125.0 (1967=100), 2.9 percent above a year ago. The annual index increase dropped below 3.0 percent for the first time since November 1967. Higher prices for meats, fresh fruits and vegetables, used cars, homes, and household services accounted for the June increase.

The June CPI increase dropped to 0.2 after seasonal adjustment. Since the wage-price-rent freeze ended in November, the CPI has risen at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 3.1 percent. In the six months previous to the Economic Stablization Program, the annual rate of increase was 4.0 percent. From August to November 1971, when most prices were frozen, the CPI rose at an annual rate of 1.9 percent.

In May the CPI had increased to 124.7 (1967=100), a rise of 0.3 percent. Higher prices for clothing, used cars, gasoline, and household services accounted for the May increase.

In June, after seasonal adjustment: the index for food increased 0.2 percent, following 0.1 percent declines in both May and April; services increased 0.3 percent compared with a 0.2 percent rise in May; the nonfood commodities index was constant.

STATISTICS

JOINT COMMITTEES ESTABLISHED IN COMPREHENSIVE CLASSROOM TEACHER AGREEMENTS

The NEA Research Division's analysis of 1970-71 negotiation agreements, effective in school systems with 1,000 or more pupils enrolled, revealed 1,111 (72.7 percent) of 1,529 comprehensive classroom teacher agreements contained provisions that established at least one joint committee.

The three types of joint committees are composed of teacher representatives and board representatives, who may be members of the administrative staff. Each committee is identified according to the objective for which it was created. These committees are: (a) those meeting regularly to resolve potential areas of conflict which may arise under the terms and conditions of the agreement; (b) general or professional study committees, usually designed to engage in continuing or long-range investigation of a wide variety of subjects affecting education or professional policy; and (c) a topical committee composed of teachers, administrative staff, and/or school-board members to study or plan objectives within a specific and narrowly defined area. For example, teacher and school-board negotiators may decide to negotiate a provision concerning the development of specific educational programs, but find they are unable to resolve specific problems regarding the programs. To facilitate matters they negotiate a provision which establishes a topical committee to study the problem.

Most of the analyzed agreements established committees which fit more than one category. Each agreement was analyzed for only one committee that meets regularly, and one general or professional study committee. Thus, the number of agreements providing for one of these committees is equal to the total number of committees established. Each agreement was also analyzed for existence of topical committees.

TABLE 1.—NUMBER AND PERCENT OF AGREEMENTS ESTABLISHING JOINT COMMITTEES

Item	1966-67		1968-69		1970-71
	Number	Percent[a]	Number	Percent[a]	Number	Percent[a]
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Total number of agreements	389	...	978	...	1,529	...
Agreements establishing at least one committee	167	42.9	513	52.5	1,111	72.7
Agreement committees	42	10.8	194	19.8	238	15.6
General or professional study committees	88	22.6	205	21.0	366	23.9
Topical committees	b	b	294	30.1	507	33.2

[a]Computed from the total number of comprehensive classroom teacher agreements analyzed for each of the three years.

[b]Data unavailable.

TABLE 2.—NUMBER AND PERCENT OF PROVISIONS ESTABLISHING JOINT COMMITTEES

Types of committees	1966-67		1968-69		1970-71
	Number	Percent[a]	Number	Percent[a]	Number	Percent[a]
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Agreement committee	42	15.4	194	21.5	238	16.3
General or professional study committee	88	32.2	205	22.7	366	25.1
Topical committee	143	52.4	503	55.8	857	58.7
TOTAL COMMITTEES ESTABLISHED	273	100.0	902	100.0	1,461	100.0

[a]Computed from the total number of committees established in agreements in each of the three years.

TABLE 3.–TYPES OF COMMITTEES BY STATE ESTABLISHED IN 1970-71

State	Number of comprehensive classroom teacher agreements	Agreements establishing an agreement committee		Agreements establishing a general or professional study commitee		Agreements establishing one or more topical committees
		Number	Percent[a]	Number	Percent[a]	Number	Percent[a]
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
Alaska	2	0	0.0	0	0.0	1	50.0
Arizona	7	1	14.3	1	14.3	3	42.9
Arkansas	1	0	0.0	0	0.0	0	0.0
California	13	1	7.7	[illegible]	38.5	9	69.2
Colorado	10	4	40.0	[illegible]	10.0	3	30.0
Connecticut	60	6	10.0	12	20.0	12	20.0
Delaware	12	3	25.0	9	75.0	5	41.7
District of Columbia	1	1	100.0	0	0.0	1	100.0
Florida	2	0	0.0	1	50.0	1	50.0
Idaho	2	0	0.0	0	0.0	1	50.0
Illinois	83	19	22.9	15	18.1	29	34.9
Indiana	20	4	20.0	1	5.0	8	40.0
Kansas	1	0	0.0	1	100.0	0	0.0
Kentucky	2	0	0.0	1	50.0	0	0.0
Maine	19	6	31.6	3	15.8	6	31.6
Maryland	21	1	4.8	3	14.3	10	47.6
Massachusetts	124	12	9.7	28	22.6	42	33.9
Michigan	242	40	16.5	80	33.1	93	38.4
Minnesota	10	0	0.0	0	0.0	3	30.0
Montana	1	0	0.0	0	0.0	1	100.0
Nebraska	5	0	0.0	0	0.0	1	20.0
Nevada	2	0	0.0	0	0.0	2	100.0
New Hampshire	6	0	0.0	2	33.3	0	0.0
New Jersey	228	44	19.3	62	27.2	55	24.1
New Mexico	1	1	100.0	1	100.0	1	100.0
New York	367	73	19.9	108	29.4	149	40.6
North Dakota	3	0	0.0	0	0.0	0	0.0
Ohio	59	5	8.5	8	13.6	19	32.2
Oklahoma	1	0	0.0	0	0.0	1	100.0
Oregon	3	0	0.0	0	0.0	1	33.3
Pennsylvania	30	2	6.7	3	10.0	6	20.0
Rhode Island	21	4	19.1	5	23.8	8	38.1
South Dakota	2	0	0.0	0	0.0	0	0.0
Texas	1	0	0.0	0	0.0	0	0.0
Utah	6	2	33.3	4	66.7	0	0.0
Vermont	3	0	0.0	0	0.0	0	0.0
Virginia	3	1	33.3	2	66.7	2	66.7
Washington	22	2	9.1	1	4.6	10	45.5
Wisconsin	131	5	3.8	9	6.9	23	17.6
Wyoming	2	1	50.0	0	0.0	1	50.0
Total	1,529	238	15.6[b]	366	23.9[b]	507	33.2[b]

[a]These figures show the number of agreements providing for committees as a percentage of the total number of comprehensive agreements in each state.

[b]These figures indicate the total number of agreements with each type of committee as a percentage of all comprehensive agreements (1,529) effective for the 1970-71 school year.

A three-year overview of the number of agreements that established joint committees is found in Table 1. A different perspective is provided in Table 2, a three-year comparison indicating the number of committees by category as a percentage of the total number of committees established in agreements. A comparison of Tables 1 and 2 reveals that from 1966-67 to 1970-71, the number of agreements establishing at least one committee has increased from 42.9 percent to 72.7 percent. Table 1 is based on the number of agreements whereas Table 2 counts the number of provisions.

The number of 1970-71 comprehensive agreements in each state, and the percentage of comprehensive agreements that provide for various types of committees are found in Table 3. The categories as established therein are not mutually exclusive.

The scope of the study or planning for all the topical committees which were established in agreements and effective for the three-year period is found in Table 4. Throughout the span of the analysis, the greatest number of topical committees was established in the areas of instructional programs, and personnel policies and practices. Since 1966-67, the topical committees which appear most often in agreements have been curriculum review committees in the area of instructional programs, and qualifications for professional growth and inservice training committees in the area of personnel policies and practices.

TABLE 4.–TYPES OF TOPICAL COMMITTEES ESTABLISHED

Area of study or planning	Committees established
	1966-67		1968-69		1970-71
	Number	Percent[a]	Number	Percent[a]	Number	Percent[a]
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
INSTRUCTIONAL PROGRAM[b]	72	50.4	288	57.3	470	55.5
Curriculum review	22	15.4	93	18.5	163	19.2
Development of special education programs	8	5.6	7	1.4	14	1.7
Teacher qualifications	0	0.0	1	0.2	11	1.3
Hiring of specialists	0	0.0	19	3.8	20	2.4
Development of tax/bond programs	0	0.0	3	0.6	1	0.1
Application of state/federal funds	2	1.4	7	1.4	5	0.6
Evaluation and application of testing programs	0	0.0	0	0.0	5	0.6
Distribution of budget items	0	0.0	2	0.4	5	0.6
Evaluation of teacher performance	14	9.8	5	1.0	31	3.7
Textbook selection/distribution	5	3.5	34	6.8	34	4.0
Pupil ratio and class size	5	3.5	40	8.0	40	4.7
Instructional aids	3	2.1	9	1.8	20	2.4
Teacher aides	4	2.8	35	7.0	28	3.3
Secretarial and clerical assistant	3	2.1	3	0.6	2	0.2
School calendar	2	1.4	8	1.6	52	6.1
Pupil progress report	0	0.0	10	2.0	6	0.7
Pupil extracurricular activities supervision	0	0.0	6	1.2	16	1.9
Selection of supervisors	0	0.0	0	0.0	1	0.1
Assignment of department chairman	0	0.0	4	0.8	9	1.1
Parent teacher conferences	0	0.0	0	0.0	2	0.2
Integration of education	0	0.0	2	0.4	5	0.6
Miscellaneous instructional programs	4	2.8	0	0.0	0	0.0
PERSONNEL POLICIES AND PRACTICES[b]	35	24.5	161	32.0	267	31.5
Employment year of 12-month contract	0	0.0	2	0.4	5	0.6
Report in procedure	0	0.0	0	0.0	1	0.1
Hours or day	3	2.1	9	1.8	12	1.4
Load/schedule of class periods	5	3.5	7	1.4	12	1.4
Teacher assignment in subject area	0	0.0	1	0.2	1	0.1
Special education program assignments	0	0.0	2	0.4	6	0.7
Hours of service before and after regular classes	0	0.0	0	0.0	2	0.2
Planning periods–elementary	3	2.1	3	0.6	5	0.6
Planning periods–secondary	0	0.0	1	0.2	1	0.1
Lunch period–elementary	0	0.0	1	0.2	3	0.4
Student teacher supervision	0	0.0	3	0.6	11	1.3
Non-classroom service duties	0	0.0	18	3.6	19	2.2

TABLE 4.–TYPES OF TOPICAL COMMITTEES ESTABLISHED (Continued)

Area of study or planning	Committees established 1966-67 Number	1966-67 Percent[a]	1968-69 Number	1968-69 Percent[a]	1970-71 Number	1970-71 Percent[a]
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Regular teacher as substitute	0	0.0	0	0.0	1	0.1
Qualifications for professional growth	11	7.7	33	6.6	59	7.0
Regular teacher meetings	0	0.0	0	0.0	1	0.1
Promotion to higher classification	5	3.5	3	0.6	2	0.2
Vacancies	0	0.0	0	0.0	1	0.1
Transfers	0	0.0	1	0.2	3	0.4
Dismissal procedure	0	0.0	0	0.0	2	0.2
Grievance procedure	0	0.0	1	0.2	6	0.7
Professional code of ethics	0	0.0	6	1.2	4	0.5
Teacher discipline or reprimand	0	0.0	6	1.2	1	0.1
Teacher personnel file	0	0.0	0	0.0	2	0.2
Protection of teachers	0	0.0	0	0.0	5	0.6
Pupil discipline	0	0.0	27	5.4	43	5.1
Damaged or stolen property	0	0.0	1	0.2	2	0.2
Absence report procedure	0	0.0	5	1.0	0	0.0
Procedure for teacher evaluation	0	0.0	24	4.8	36	4.3
Teacher facilities	0	0.0	2	0.4	9	1.1
Probationary period	0	0.0	0	0.0	6	0.7
Seniority	3	2.1	0	0.0	1	0.1
Substitute teachers	0	0.0	1	0.2	4	0.5
Health requirements	0	0.0	1	0.2	1	0.1
Miscellaneous personnel policies and practices	5	3.5	3	0.6	0	0.0
SALARY POLICY[b]	18	12.6	29	5.8	63	7.4
Salary schedule	7	4.9	3	0.6	3	0.4
Salary credit for military	0	0.0	5	1.0	0	0.0
Salary increments for professional preparation	0	0.0	0	0.0	2	0.2
Deviation from salary schedule	0	0.0	9	1.8	8	0.9
Extra duty pay for special activities	6	4.2	0	0.0	28	3.3
Premium pay	0	0.0	1	0.2	1	0.1
Overtime pay	0	0.0	1	0.2	2	0.2
Longevity pay	0	0.0	7	1.4	1	0.1
Incentive pay	5	3.4	1	0.2	18	2.1
Pay period	0	0.0	2	0.4	0	0.0
Miscellaneous salary policies	0	0.0	0	0.0	0	0.0
FRINGE BENEFITS[b]	18	12.6	25	5.0	47	5.5
Tuition reimbursement	0	0.0	0	0.0	4	0.5
Vacation	0	0.0	0	0.0	1	0.1
Health services	0	0.0	0	0.0	3	0.4
Terminal leave or severance pay	0	0.0	0	0.0	4	0.5
Conference/meeting fees	0	0.0	0	0.0	4	0.5
Payroll deduction	0	0.0	3	0.6	0	0.0
Tax-sheltered annuity	0	0.0	0	0.0	2	0.2
Workmen's compensation	0	0.0	8	1.6	0	0.0
Group insurance coverage	6	4.2	13	2.6	20	2.4
Long term leaves of absence	12	8.4	0	0.0	9	1.1
Miscellaneous fringe benefits	0	0.0	1	0.2	0	0.0
TOTAL NUMBER OF COMMITTEES	143		503		847

[a]Computed from the total number of committees established in agreements in each of the three years.
[b]The figures beside each major heading are totals for all minor headings which follow.

Sample provisions from agreements that have established the various types of committees are reprinted in part or in full. These provisions are intended only as examples of provisions found in agreements.

FACULTY ADVISORY COMMITTEES

Faculty Advisory Committee Regulations

A Faculty Advisory Committee shall be established in each school of the district to facilitate communication between the faculty and the school administration. The purposes of the Faculty Advisory Committee are: 1) to provide a means for the school faculty to make suggestions and recommendations for improvement related to the operation of the school to the school administration; and 2) to provide an opportunity for the school principal to present concerns in order to receive reactions and suggestions from the faculty.

As its name implies, this committee is an advisory body to the school administrator. Therefore, the formation of a Faculty Advisory Committee shall not be interpreted as a limitation upon the authority of the school principal in carrying out his responsibility for the conduct and operation of the program at the local building site.

During the month of November of each school year, the principal shall arrange for an election of members to serve on the Faculty Advisory Committee from the date of the election until the next election the following November. The size of the committee may vary in accordance with the needs of each school staff. However, the committee shall consist of no less than three nor more than fifteen members, with not more than one member from a grade level in elementary schools and not more than one member from a department in the secondary schools. Any certificated non-administrative staff member assigned more than one-half time at the school site shall be eligible for election to the committee. Committee members shall be elected at large by secret ballot of all certificated non-administrative members in the school.

The committee shall hold regularly scheduled monthly meetings, with additional meetings scheduled as the committee may determine. Careful minutes shall be taken at each meeting and shall be prepared and approved by the principal and the Chairman of the Faculty Advisory Committee prior to distribution to every faculty member.

Joint Study Committee

The subject of faculty representation, participation, and involvement in school-site matters will be assigned to a joint study committee. The committee will be charged with evaluating the Faculty Advisory Committee procedure and the development of recommendations in this area.

[Oakland, California]

PROFESSIONAL GROWTH COMMITTEE

The Professional Growth Committee shall function to administer Wilson School District No. 7 policies concerning the professional growth of certificated personnel. An inter-relationship will exist between this committee and future District Salary Committees.

1. The Professional Growth Committee shall consist of:
   a. Administrator
   b. Teacher
   c. Teacher
2. Formation:
   a. The Board shall appoint an administrator for a two year term.
   b. The Representative Teachers Organization may appoint two classroom teachers. They shall serve one and two year terms, respectively.
   c. The Professional Growth Committee shall meet when necessary to adequately administer the requirements of the committee, or when called by the Superintendent.
   d. All actions taken by this committee shall be advisory in nature and subject to final approval by the Superintendent.
3. Functions:
   a. Advise teachers on requests for an interpretation of the plan.
   b. Suggest additional professional growth activities.
   c. Make recommendations to the Superintendent for final approval.
   d. Devise forms for communicating, recording, or for gathering of information related to professional growth of teachers.
   e. Maintain minutes of meetings.

[Wilson School Dist. #7 - Phoenix, Arizona]

CURRICULUM PLANNING

The professional staff at all levels shall have the right to significantly participate in the formulation of curriculum changes and in educational planning. Any such changes must fulfill the requirements of the State Education Law and be in keeping with the recommendations of the State Education Department. These changes shall be approved by the Rome Board of Education before becoming a part of the curriculum.

When an area of curriculum needs to be studied, as determined by the Superintendent and the Association President a committee shall be selected to institute appropriate changes. Curriculum Planning Committees shall be selected by the Superintendent and the Association President consisting of at least three (3) classroom teachers and an equal number of other professional staff which will include directors, department heads, coordinators or principals, SUCH COMMITTEES WILL:

Enlist the services of other members of the professional staff for suggestions, opinions, and ideas that will aid them in formulating the curriculum.

Evaluate and recommend appropriate audio-visual materials.

Recommend textbooks to appropriate personnel.

Such committees immediately upon formation shall adopt a schedule of meetings. Meetings shall be held within the school day as described in Article XX unless otherwise determined by the committee. If such committee is established as a summer project by the Superintendent, the members will be paid at the same rate as summer school.

After approval by the particular department or grade level and the Superintendent and Board of Education the changes, or courses of study, shall then be made available to all personnel involved in the implementation of the specific curriculum. It shall contain a list of available resources and indicate where suggested supplementary materials may be found.

The professional staff will follow the curriculum as developed by the committee and approved as defined in item 5.

[Rome, City, New York]

STUDENT DISCIPLINE

In view of the increasing number of chronic disciplinary problems, the Board and the Association agree that a committee will be appointed within thirty (30) days after the effective date of this agreement to recommend specific plans for dealing with the problems created by said students. It is expected that the committee will present a program for implementation no later than the beginning of the second semester of the 1969-70 school term.

The committee will consist of twelve members, four appointed by the Superintendent, four by the Association and four by the aforementioned appointees.

The Board shall provide inservice education for staff members on student procedures, provisions of state law, local policy, including development of guidelines for resolving discipline problems. Guidelines shall include specific procedures to be used within the school and school administrative policy in dealing with chronic discipline cases.

[Volusia County Sch. Dist.
Deland, Florida]

ADVISORY COMMITTEE RECOMMENDATIONS ON INSTRUCTIONAL COUNCIL

Board and Association recognize a mutual concern on the part of each for the maintenance and development of quality education. Both parties agree that teachers, administrators, students, parents and community members should be consulted in connection with the development of policies and regulations which will address themselves to the education of children and youth. Board and Association agree to the establishment of an advisory committee consisting of the Superintendent of Schools, the Assistant Superintendent of Schools, the President of the Teaneck Teachers' Association, five other members of the Teachers' Association, the President of the Teaneck Association of Administrators and Supervisors, and three other members of the Association of Administrators and Supervisors, and one member of the Board of Education.

This Committee shall submit to the Board for its consideration, procedures to be followed in connection with the development of recommendations relative to those policies and regulations which the Board should include in the "Policy Manual" and/or "General Bulletin."

It is understood that the machinery developed by this Committee is subject to review and approval by the Board of Education and the Teaneck Teachers' Association, and that said committee shall complete this work by June 15, 1971.

[Teaneck, New Jersey]

SALARY INCREASES FOR ENGINEERS REPORTED

The National Society of Professional Engineers (NSPE) biennial salary study revealed that the median yearly salary for engineers advanced 11 percent to $18,210 during the 1969-71 period. In comparison with the 16 percent gain during 1967-69 "the past two years have not been good financially for large segments of the profession."

During the two-year period, the all-industry median increased to $17,870. Aeronautical and aerospace engineers reported a $19,210 median salary; chemical and sanitary engineers, $19,110; industrial engineers, $18,869; mechanical and civil engineers, $17,860; and agricultural engineers, $16,600.

The 15 percent gain in median income to $19,180 for engineers employed by the federal government was greater than the average. Those in state government and those in county and municipal governments gained 11 percent to $16,120 and $16,960, respectively. Median salaries for engineers in other fields were: public utilities, $17,410; consulting firms, $19,260; construction-contractor firms, $21,040; and educational institutions, $19,560.

Table 1 gives 1971 median incomes by field of employment and year of entry into the professional branches:

TABLE 1.—MEDIAN INCOMES OF ENGINEERS IN 1971, BY FIELD OF EMPLOYMENT AND YEAR OF ENTRY

Year of entry	Industry	Public utilities	Federal government	State government	County or municipal government	Consulting firm	Construction-contractor firm	Educational institution	Other nonprofit organization
1971	$10,600	*	*	*	*	*	*	*	*
1970	11,490	$10,960	$11,910	$10,240	$10,830	$10,650	$11,560	*	*
1969	12,070	11,840	12,630	10,530	11,880	11,560	*	*	*
1968	12,650	12,240	14,190	11,500	12,700	12,400	12,560	*	*
1967	12,950	12,620	14,300	11,930	*	12,670	13,830	*	*
1966	13,970	13,000	15,180	12,290	13,500	13,140	14,630	*	*
1965	14,370	13,730	15,430	13,070	14,500	13,820	15,150	*	*
1963-64	15,380	14,640	16,400	13,390	15,030	15,550	16,620	$16,290	*
1961-62	15,820	14,940	17,060	14,640	16,130	16,400	18,870	15,500	*
1959-60	16,850	16,070	18,270	15,770	16,530	17,230	18,170	18,000	*
1957-58	17,890	16,790	19,190	16,000	17,610	18,990	20,470	17,310	$19,290
1955-56	17,670	17,780	19,470	15,940	17,300	18,740	21,000	18,970	*
1953-54	19,390	17,830	19,850	16,740	18,250	20,780	23,630	18,500	17,830
1951-52	19,620	18,310	19,590	17,140	17,680	22,560	23,500	19,130	20,360
1949-50	20,190	19,360	20,710	17,580	19,260	22,330	23,790	19,650	20,630
1947-48	20,900	20,410	21,240	17,560	19,650	23,700	26,360	22,670	19,880
1945-46	21,420	21,000	21,920	17,570	17,500	23,100	28,350	21,500	*
1940-44	21,870	20,900	21,040	18,310	17,170	23,560	25,940	22,500	21,750
1935-39	22,370	20,880	22,500	17,430	18,230	23,440	27,820	23,890	19,720
1930-34	21,850	21,610	23,450	18,730	19,000	24,220	24,680	21,500	*
1927-29	19,500	22,000	21,900	18,600	17,570	22,750	*	20,700	*
1926 & before	16,670	*	20,140	*	16,000	25,180	30,000	*	*

SOURCE: National Society of Professional Engineers. Professional Engineers' Income and Salary Survey—1971. Washington, D.C.: the Society, 1972.

*Fewer than 20 cases.

SPECIAL REPORTS

BRIEFS OF RECENT AGREEMENTS

Glendale, Arizona

Between the Glendale Union High School District Board of Education and the Classroom Teachers Association, effective October 30, 1969, to June 30, 1973. Approximately 545 certificated professional employees. Provision for automatic renewal unless notification of termination is given by either party by January 1972. Revision may "be effected by mutual agreement at any time."

COMPENSATION: (1972-73 tenured teacher schedule) B.A., $6,922 to $11,413, 9 increments; B.A. plus 15 hours, $12,278 maximum; M.A., $7,650 to $15,147, 20 increments; M.A. plus 60 hours, $16,294 maximum; (1972-73 probationary teacher schedule) B.A., $7,000 to $8,920, 6 increments; M.A., $7,320 to $9,240, 6 increments; M.A. plus 60 hours, $9,880 maximum; [Board may, upon recommendation of principal and superintendent, suspend increments for lack of classroom proficiency; refusal to perform assigned extracurricular activity; failure to accept, enforce, or abide by board established policies; or failure to show continued professional growth.]

DIFFERENTIALS: Based on M.A. base, 5 increments, first and fifth steps shown, respectively, (up to two years credited for experience in same activity outside the district) head football coach, yearbook and photography, $918 to $1,175 (.12); head basketball coach, $765 to $979 (.10); head baseball, track and wrestling coaches and instrumental music, $688 to $881 (.09), head gymnastics and tennis coaches, yearbook and vocal music, $612 to $738 (.08); freshman tennis, head cross country and all assistant coaches, $459 to $587 (.06); dramatics (two plays per year) school newspaper, $306 to $391 (.04); no teacher's assignment shall exceed a total of 18 percent; department chairmen, (1972-73) $100 plus $10 per teacher; (1973-74) $100 plus $15 per teacher; substitute teachers, $22.00 per day; regular teacher as a substitute, $6.88 per hour (.09 of the M.A. base); homebound teachers, based on the regular salary schedule, prorated from .18 of regular pay for one student to 1.00 for seven students.

LEAVES: 10 days' annual sick leave, unlimited maximum accumulation; two days deducted from sick leave for personal business; bereavement leave per board policy.

INSURANCE: Health insurance as required by state law; individual major medical insurance, employee-paid family coverage optional.

INSTRUCTION: Each school shall have the clerical assistance of a COE student; school calendar shall consist of 200 days of which 180 are teaching days; mini-course curriculum: short-term courses outside the normal curriculum usually offered on a no-grade basis; Curriculum and Research (joint) Committee, one representative per school, to approve curriculum changes and to develop and recommend regulations, curriculum, staff, and administration for the summer school program; teacher involvement in school plant design and schedule development.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with professional negotiation committee; employees shall have access to their personnel files; assignment to lunch duty (with extra compensation) voluntary; professional growth requirement: three semester hours of approved course work every four years up to step 13; thereafter one hour of credit every four years will be required for ¼ step beyond the 13th step; credit will be given to teachers offering courses to their colleagues; Professional Growth Committee will participate in the development and administration of the professional growth program; department chairmen for English, social studies, and science shall have one period of released time in 1973-74; required posting of vacancies; teachers promoted to administrative positions resume all bargaining unit rights upon returning to a teaching position; involuntary transfers only in an emergency.

Savannah, Georgia

Between the Board of Public Education for the City of Savannah and the County of Chatham and Teacher Unit of the Chatham Association of Educators, effective January 14, 1972, to June 30, 1973. Approximately 1,553 certificated professional employees. Provision for February 1972 negotiation on hiring of specialists, administrator support of teachers in student discipline, retirement, fringe benefits, and reopening of economic sections.

COMPENSATION: (effective November 14, 1971) B.A., $6,400 to $8,605, 14 increments; M.A., $7,219 to $9,865, 15 increments; sixth year, $11,125 maximum, seventh year, $12,385 maximum; 10 cents per mile for use of own car for school business.

LEAVES: Annual sick leave credited on first day of school year accumulates at rate of one day per month at full pay and two half working days per month at half pay, maximum accumulation of 60 and 120 days, respectively; annual sick leave may be used for illness in the immediate family; three days deducted from sick leave for personal business; paid leave as necessary for legal proceedings connected with employment, repayment if guilty; unpaid political leave.

ASSOCIATION: Deduction of local, state, and national association dues; right to use school buildings as available if association pays the usual cost for such use; use of school communication facilities; monthly board-association meeting to discuss "education policy, administrative procedure and implementation of contract"; association participates in school calendar planning.

INSTRUCTION: Secondary teachers (where possible) shall have no more than 150 pupils per day; elementary teachers may leave classroom when specialist is present; clerical assistance and equipment provided; extracurricular activity participation voluntary; elementary teachers to participate in classification of pupils for purpose of equalizing teaching loads (special education classes excepted); board–teacher conference on selection of texts and equipment; academic freedom to introduce relevant controversial material.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with binding arbitration; teachers may examine their personnel files; except in emergencies only one faculty meeting per month; board-paid "summer workshops for inservice study, or the equivalent cost if permitted by law"; teachers to participate in evaluations, and to suggest any construction or reconstruction of school buildings; 15-day posting period for vacancies; all factors being equal, seniority shall be the basis for filling vacancies; qualifications are the basis for promotion to administrative positions; 20 days' notice must be given prior to an involuntary transfer; a joint committee shall develop evaluation instruments and procedures; three-year probationary period; number of actual teaching days shall not exceed legal requirement or the number of days specified in the school calendar; board shall issue a statement attesting to teachers' required use of their homes for preparation for income tax purposes.

Bridgton, Maine

Between Board of Directors of School Administrative District No. 61 and the Lake Region Teachers Association, effective September 1, 1972, to August 31, 1974. Approximately 77 certificated professional employees. Provision for mutually acceptable amendment of the agreement and for renegotiation if funding is not available.

COMPENSATION: (1972-73) B.A., $6,500 to $9,800, 11 increments; B.A. plus 15 hours, $10,000 maximum; M.A., $7,100 to $10,400, 11 increments; M.A. plus 15 hours, $10,700 maximum;

(1973-74): B.A., $6,700 to $10,000, 11 increments; B.A. plus 15 hours, $10,300 maximum; M.A., $7,300 to $10,600, 11 increments; M.A. plus 15 hours, $10,900 maximum; Longevity increment: $300, after 17 years' continuous service.

DIFFERENTIALS: (senior high) varsity football and basketball, $950; girls' basketball, $800; boys' skiing, $600; girls' skiing $500; outdoor and girls' track, $400; baseball, $650; field hockey $450; dramatics, $500; yearbook, $750; department heads: five members, $500; four members, $400; three members, $300; (junior high) assistant principal, $750/39 weeks; head teacher, $350/39 weeks; 7th and 8th grade basketball (season) and baseball (five weeks), $250.

OTHER: Vocational teachers credited with up to six increments for one year of teaching experience for every three years' vocational expereince; teachers working beyond regular school year, $200 to $300 per 40-hour week.

LEAVES: 15 days' annual sick leave credited the first day of school, 120 days maximum accumulation; additional sick leave at the superintendent's discretion; one day personal leave at the superintendent's discretion, additional days less substitute's pay are available; five days' leave for death in the immediate family; paid leave for jury duty, legal or personal matters involving considerable hardship available at superintendent's discretion.

INSURANCE: Board-paid hospitalization-surgical-major medical individual coverage; alternative of applying the cost of health insurance to life or accident insurance premiums.

ASSOCIATION: Released time for association members involved in negotiation, grievance proceedings, conferences, or meetings; use of school facilities with the principal's approval; all available fiscal information supplied to the association; no-strike clause.

INSTRUCTION: Junior and senior high: 25 teaching periods and five study halls per week, or 30 teaching periods and no study hall; department heads shall substitute department business for study hall; junior and senior high teachers to teach no more than two general subject areas without mutual agreement of the administration and the individual teacher; elementary: no more than 5¼ teaching hours per day; teachers shall not teach more than one grade in a self-contained classroom if the projected pupil-teacher ratio exceeds 28:1; every effort to be made to hire elementary-school paraprofessionals; association may make recommendations prior to acceptance of school calendar.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with final and binding arbitration; duty-free lunch period of at least 30 minutes for elementary teachers, 25 minutes for junior and senior high teachers; elementary teachers shall have the remainder of their noon hour for preparation; two faculty meetings per month beginning within 30 minutes of dismissal, lasting no longer than 90 minutes; up to $125 reimbursed to cover cost of tuition for each six hours of post-graduate credit, providing specified criteria are met; dismissal procedure provides for payment of salary withheld during the suspension period whenever a teacher is reinstated; Teacher-Administration-Board Liazon [sic] Committee (consisting of four board members, seven association members, one administrative staff member and the superintendent) shall review, discuss and make recommendations concerning educational policy.

Lansing, Michigan
Community College

Between the Board of Trustees of Lansing Community College and the Michigan Association for Higher Education at Lansing College, effective September 13, 1971, to September 16, 1973. Approximately 263 bargaining unit members, including all full-time faculty (who teach more than 60 percent of maximum contact load), teaching technicians, lecturers, and counselors.

COMPENSATION: (1972-73, option of a 45-week or 37-week contract) 45-week salary plus $914; 1971-72 37-week salary plus $752; 45-week contract equals 225 college days including holidays, 37-week contract includes 185 college days including holidays.

OTHER: 12 cents per mile for use of car for college business; up to $10 per year for professional journals or professional organization dues.

LEAVES: Three days per term (four terms per year) annual sick leave credited at the beginning of the college year, 150 days maximum accumulation; up to five separate days for illness in the immediate family; up to five separate days for death in the immediate family; up to three days deducted from annual leave for death in nonimmediate family; one day deducted from annual leave for religious holidays; one day deductible for professional development or college appointments; one day deductible for income tax investigation; one day deductible for graduation of faculty member, spouse, son or daughter, three days deductible for graduation of same outside Michigan; two days leave deducted from annual leave for marriage of faculty member; one day deductible for marriage of son or daughter; leave as required deducted from annual for court subpoena or summons; separate leave with pay for college business including court appearances and legal consultation; association sick leave bank: days of leave equal to number of bargaining unit members times 1½ days deposited annually, 350 days maximum accumulation; withdrawals available after 15 consecutive days' absence and exhaustion of personal sick leave, eligibility ceases with commencement of long-term disability insurance; all leaves with the exception of emergency illness and unforeseen emergencies require prior approval; sabbatical leave at one-half pay for three terms, two-thirds pay for two terms, or full pay for one term after six years' continuous service.

INSURANCE: Board-paid Blue Cross-Blue Shield with family coverage; $10,000 life insurance; long-term disability insurance paying 60 percent of salary after 90 days; tax-deferred annuity; liability insurance.

ASSOCIATION: Agency shop; association furnished at least 100 square feet of office space; use of college facilities and equipment at no cost except for labor and material; one hour for association meeting during faculty-administration days; association may appear on board agenda upon written notification 11 or more days' prior; association president notified upon creation of a new professional position prior to public announcement; association negotiation team members exempted from department or division committee duties during negotiation; the association president exempted from committee duties during his term; board to provide the association with all available financial and statistical information; association provided with contracts of new faculty within five workdays.

INSTRUCTION: Maximum course loads: counselors, determined by the department chairman; physical education, 80 contact hours per 45-week contract period distributed over four terms, 22 hours per term maximum; Division of Business, 64 contact hours per 45-week contract period (48 hours per 37-week contract period), average load is 16 contact/laboratory hours/term, optimum class size 35 students;

Division of Arts and Sciences

Credit or Contact Hours/Maximum Students per Section

	F	W	Sp.	S
Social Science	16/39	16/39	16/39	16/39
Humanities	16/39	16/39	16/39	16/39
Mathematics
Laboratory	15/50	15/50	15/50	15/50
Transfer	15/40	15/40	15/40	15/40
Language Arts
Composition & Literature	16/34	16/31	16/29	16/27
(Maximum of two (2) sections in Summer without instructor's approval in Composition & Literature)
Remedial	16/25	16/25	16/25	16/25
Speech	15/26	15/26	15/26	15/26
Foreign Language	15/32	15/32	15/32	15/32
Science
Natural Science	18/30	18/30	18/30	18/30
All Other	21/30	21/30	21/30	17/30

Maximum student load for an instructor assigned exclusively to Natural Science will be 180 students (6 sections).

In assignment of Natural Science and one other science course, an instructor is limited to a maximum load of 150 students. (4 Natural Science sections and one other science course).

In assignment of Natural Science and two other science courses, an instructor is limited to a maximum load of 120 students. (2 Natural Science sections and 2 other science courses).

In assignment of instructors not involved in any Natural Science courses, an instructor is limited to a maximum load of 90 students. (3 sections).

Maximum student load in the Summer term is limited to 60 students. (2 sections).

Where Natural Science faculty have full responsibility for Natural Science sections, as would occur in evening sections, they shall be credited with 6 contact hours per section.

Summer school load to be four-fifths regular term load; overloads are not authorized; Preparations: Arts and Sciences, two preparations, three maximum, fourth preparation voluntary; Business, Technology, Health Careers and Fine Arts, three preparations maximum, fourth voluntary; departmental secretaries available to the faculty to "maximum extent possible;" first five days of Fall term are faculty-administrator days; presence of a communication device in class subject to faculty member's permission.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with binding arbitration; right, upon request, to review personnel files, may be accompanied by association representative; must be notified of and may reply in writing to material placed therein; college week: Monday through Friday 8:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m., Saturday 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., faculty members having Saturday classes, limited to one per year, are insured of two consecutive free days during the week, faculty with classes after 6:00 p.m. have no assignment prior to 10:00 a.m. the next morning; faculty members must be available Monday through Friday for student consultation; attendance at departmental, divisional, and general faculty meetings required; tuition scholarship for Lansing Community College courses available to faculty members and their dependents (such scholarship student not to be counted in class size maximums); all vacancies to be posted; transfers are preferably voluntary; no faculty member may be transferred to a position for which he has no formal preparation; faculty member temporarily assuming administrative duties shall resume all bargaining unit rights without interruption upon his return to the unit; association to be consulted on criteria and methodology for faculty evaluations; faculty may have an association representative or other party present if an unsatisfactory evaluation might lead to termination; continuing contract issued after satisfactory completion of two-year probationary period; faculty with terminal one-year contracts who are rehired will be offered a probationary contract at the second-year level; promotions:

PROMOTION

Rank Quotas

Rank quotas shall be immediately established and maintained at the following levels:

1. Instructor	35%
2. Assistant Professor	30%
3. Associate Professor	25%
4. Professor	10%

Promotions in rank shall be awarded in increases of one or more rank increments per individual for those recommended and approved.

Departmental chairmen and faculty members may recommend methods of merit evaluation to the appropriate dean. After due deliberation and after consultation with the other deans and the President, each dean will determine and promulgate in writing the method of merit evaluation to be used in his division.

The actual evaluation of individual faculty members shall be made by the departmental chairman, using the method set forth by his dean. The faculty member shall be made aware of his merit rating.

In order to improve equity among the divisions, all divisions are to use merit ratings which may vary between 0 and 50. The average merit value is to be 25 per faculty member for each division.

The departmental chairman, the faculty member involved and the Director of Employee Relations by unanimous agreement shall recommend to the President via the appropriate dean the applicable experience and education for each individual faculty member in compliance with the outline of Figure 1.

Merit ratings shall be submitted by the departmental chairman via his dean to the Director of Employee Relations. The President of the Association and the Director of Employee Relations shall multiply the merit rating by the experience factor and shall arrange the results from the largest to smallest numerical value and allocate said values in accordance with the percentages described in paragraph A above.

No promotion to Professor or Associate Professor shall be made unless the faculty member concerned shall have a merit rating at least above average.

The entire list shall be submitted to the President for recommendation to the Board for action.

The departmental chairman, dean, and faculty members should work together to help the faculty member progress as rapidly as possible in accordance with this plan. If any faculty member fails to meet the qualification requirements for his rank, he shall not be reduced in rank without having one year to improve his performance.

In conducting merit evaluations, use shall be made of various groups knowledgeable of the faculty member's performance. If appropriate, this will include evaluation by peers and colleagues, students, and members of the community.

Termination of unit members for the "purpose of utilizing part-time or other employees to perform bargaining unit services" is prohibited; association may appoint one representative to the Faculty Council; Academic Council representing all divisions recommends curricula changes and new programs; faculty members assigned to more than one department shall have voting rights in all assigned departments; student registration is a faculty responsibility; board pays for preemployment health examination; annual free tuberculosis examination; flu shots available at cost.

THE EFFECT OF NEW MATERNITY LEAVE CODE ON NEGOTIATION

The recent amendments to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission's Code of Federal Regulations, Title 29, Chapter XIV (NRD, 6-72, 32) are exerting widespread ramifications on negotiated comprehensive classroom teacher agreements in regard to sex discrimination, particularly the equitable treatment of female employees. The Commission, previously limited in its powers, now may sue private and public employers, including labor organizations, for noncompliance with the regulations.

Under the power granted the Commission by Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, a public employee who does not comply may have action taken against him by the U.S. Attorney General, or may have a personal suit filed in the federal courts. Both employers and labor organizations may be respondents to a charge of unlawful labor practice, may be charged with noncompliance by the EEOC in federal court, or may have a personal suit filed against them. (1604.2.b.1.)

Unequivocally, the Commission has invalidated any prior rulings which may be inconsistent with current revisions. Further, existing state laws or administrative regulations that limit or hinder female employment are nullified and will not be considered as a defense to an established unlawful employment practice or occupational qualification exception. (1604.2.b.2.) Also, those laws or regulations that require special rest periods are superceded on the basis that they are more restrictive to one sex. Any employer who refuses to hire or adversely affects "the employment opportunities of female applicants or employees in order to avoid the provision of such benefits," will be considered to be engaged in an unlawful labor practice.

Of particular import, insofar as the new regulations affect teacher contracts, are the revised codes regarding maternity leave. These codes titled Employment Policies Relating to Pregnancy and Childbirth state:

> A written or unwritten employment policy or practice which excludes from employment applicants or employees because of pregnancy is in prima facie violation of Title VII. Disabilities caused or contributed to by pregnancy, miscarriage, abortion, childbirth, and recovery therefrom are, for all job-related purposes, temporary disabilities and should be treated as such under any health or temporary disability insurance or sick leave plan available in connection with employment. Written and unwritten employment policies and practices involving matters such as the commencement and duration of leave, the availability of extensions, and accrual of seniority and other benefits and privileges, reinstatement, and payment under any health or temporary disability insurance or sick leave plan, formal or informal, shall be applied to disability due to pregnancy or childbirth on the same terms and conditions as they are applied to other temporary disabilities. Where the termination of an employee who is temporarily disabled is caused by an employment policy under which insufficient or no leave is available, such a termination violates the Act if it has a disparate impact on employees of one sex and is not justified by business necessity. (1604.10)

To date, five states, California, Delaware, Kentucky, Louisiana, Tennessee, and the District of Columbia, have maternity leave statutes. Section 10 effectively strikes down these provisions if they do not measure up to the minimum standards promulgated by the EEOC. These laws must treat pregnancy and any ensuing complications as job-related disabilities for the purposes of seniority, leave, and health benefits, as enumerated, or otherwise employers will be deemed in violation of Title VII and subject to prosecution for committing unlawful employment practices.

The extension of these guidelines to public employers, subdivisions, or agencies effectively negates all negotiated maternity leave policies that restrict or infringe the aforementioned rights associated with pregnancy as a temporary disability.

Maternity leave provisions for classroom teachers, though varying in language, were previously defined as an extended unpaid leave of absence with guaranteed return to at least a similar position and no loss of accrued benefits, such as accumulated sick leave, or retirement and service credit. Maternity leave items are often adopted as part of board policies, which unlike the negotiated provisions contained in agreements, do not guarantee the retention of either a job or accrued benefits. Both adopted or negotiated maternity leave provisions do, however, set arbitrary limits as to the notification to the appropriate authority of the pregnancy, time of departure, and return date. Many, especially those found in board policy, require resignation, with little or no chance of reinstatement.

An examination of the maternity leave provisions found in 1,051 of 1,529 classroom teacher agreements (1970-71) in school systems with 1,000 or more pupils enrolled reveals that such leave is generally available to tenure teachers only; that early notification of pregnancy is mandated, with a subsequent loss of position if the teacher fails to notify the board or supervisory person; that pre- and post-natal time limits are established, usually four to six months and three to twelve months from time of delivery, respectively. Also some limited benefits, though undefined, either in the form of sick leave or some health or medical plan is given while on leave. Those agreements coded for maternity leave provisions do not include provisions found either in board policy or under the sick leave provision which may provide benefits through accumulated sick leave or disability insurance.

The maternity leave provision, which has always been on the negotiation lists of school negotiators, is now a right which has been upheld by the courts and mandated by EEOC regulations. The revised regulations classify pregnancy and related childbearing infirmities as temporary disabilities therefore should be treated as such under any sick leave plan or health or disability insurance. Time limits in regard to the duration and commencement of the leave have also been struck down. Accumulation of benefits must be identical to any accrual as provided to either sex for any temporary disability or leave plan. Nonrenewal or nonhiring of a teacher who is pregnant is violative of the regulations. Further, termination of an employee owing to a shortage of or lack of accumulated sick leave or temporary disability plan is violative of the Act, if such a termination has a disparate impact on one sex or is not substantiated by business necessity. The essence of the regulations is equity to both sexes; anything short of this is discriminatory with the violator subject to prosecution.

As mentioned, liability extends to both the employer and to the employee organization upon becoming parties to a negotiated contract. It is incumbent upon an employee organization to avoid becoming a party to a maternity leave provision that provides anything less than that which is stipulated in 1604.10. A survey of negotiated teacher agreements compiled by the Connecticut Education Association revealed that 133 contracts, representing 149 towns (88 percent of all towns in the state), had placed arbitrary time limits for either commencement or duration of the maternity leave. Not one town treated pregnancy as a disability for which sick leave may be granted. Such a finding is an accurate indicator of average maternity leave provisions nationwide, and leads to a conclusion that most provisions are in some way violative of the regulations.

Of necessity, for an employee organization to be absolved of complicity in negotiation of a discriminatory maternity leave provision which falls short of the EEOC guidelines, the organization must be aware of these regulations particularly in negotiating procedures for the commencement and termination of maternity leave.

The employee organization, to be saved from liability stemming from a possible charge of discrimination for negotiating an unlawful maternity leave policy, should notify the employer that it will not seek enforcement of such provision and will consider it null and void. This action is enforceable in those negotiated agreements that contain separability and savings clause.

A savings clause stipulates that any negotiated provision, if found contrary to law, is of itself null and void, while maintaining in force the remainder of the agreement. Additionally, some savings clauses provide for the parties to renegotiate the illegal provision in order to conform to the regulation, court decision, or statute. Table 1 shows the number of negotiated agreements for 1970-71 that contained a maternity leave provision and a savings clause and the number of agreements that contained both clauses. Negotiation of a savings clause constitutes additional protection from litigation and should be included in all agreements.

Essentially, the EEOC regulations allow the teacher and her physician to determine both the commencement and the termination of the leave. Recent court rulings have upheld this argument. (Mrs. Susan Cohen v. Chesterfield County School Board and; Dr. Robert F. Kelly, No. 678-70-R (NRD, 10-71, 5) and Amelia Williams v. San Francisco Unified School District, San Francisco Board of Education and Thomas Shaheen, No. 72-305 GBH). Attention should be paid to the benefits provided both sexes for temporary disabilities, first for equitable applica-

TABLE 1.–AGREEMENTS WITH MATERNITY LEAVE, SEPARABILITY, OR SAVINGS CLAUSES, 1970-71

State	Number of agreements	Maternity leave provision	Separability and savings clauses	Maternity and saving clauses
1	2	3	4	5
Alaska	2	0	0	0
Arizona	7	2	3	2
Arkansas	1	1	1	1
California	13	7	8	5
Colorado	10	4	7	3
Connecticut	60	45	42	29
Delaware	12	5	10	5
District of Columbia	1	1	1	1
Florida	2	2	2	2
Idaho	2	0	0	0
Illinois	83	57	49	40
Indiana	20	14	11	6
Kansas	1	1	1	1
Kentucky	2	1	2	1
Maine	19	10	12	7
Maryland	21	16	10	9
Massachusetts	124	89	69	57
Michigan	242	227	206	197
Minnesota	10	4	4	1
Montana	1	1	1	1
Nebraska	5	0	1	0
Nevada	2	2	1	1
New Hampshire	6	4	4	3
New Jersey	228	150	111	90
New Mexico	1	1	1	1
New York	367	281	248	203
North Dakota	3	1	1	1
Ohio	59	17	21	11
Oklahoma	1	1	0	0
Oregon	3	1	1	1
Pennsylvania	30	6	6	1
Rhode Island	21	17	11	10
South Dakota	2	0	1	0
Texas	1	1	0	0
Utah	6	5	4	4
Vermont	3	1	1	0
Virginia	3	3	1	1
Washington	22	8	4	3
Wisconsin	131	64	72	38
Wyoming	2	1	0	0
TOTAL	1,529	1,051	928	736
PERCENT	100.0	68.7	60.7	48.1

tion, and second for extension to the maternity leave benefits. Maternity leave for both tenured and nontenured teachers has also been upheld by the courts. (Barbara Jinks v. Dr. Benjamin E. Mays et al., Civ. A. No. 13977, United States District Court, N.D. Georgia, Sept. 28, 1971)(NRD, 3-72.5)). Negotiation of a maternity leave provision less than the standards established by the EEOC regulations must be for a business necessity and must be related to a legitimate goal of the school district, and not for administrative purposes. The courts have again struck down discriminatory maternity leave provisions based upon the argument of administrative necessity. (Williams v. San Francisco U.S.D. and Cohen v. Chesterfield Co.)

Any future negotiated maternity leave provisions, to be within the guidelines, must not include any time limits for commencement, and must include a reinstatement procedure which guarantees the affected individual a job, but which leaves the actual return date to the determination of the woman and her physician. Under no circumstance should a blanket maternity leave policy be negotiated that allows anyone other than the woman and her physician to determine when she should leave or return under the pretext that such regulations are in the best interests of the woman. Arbitration decisions (Southgate Education Association and Board of Education of Southgate Community School District, A.A.A. Case No. 5439032371, August 3, 1971)(NRD, 5-72, 6) and court decisions (Schattman v. Texas Employment Commission, which was reversed by the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals on a jurisdictional technicality) have upheld the right of a woman with advice of her physician to decide when she should terminate employment. Arbitrary time limits in these and like cases have been deemed as violative of a woman's constitutional rights. A similar position has been taken by the U.S. Department of Labor, Office of Contract Compliance, in enforcing E.O. 11246 prohibiting discrimination by employers holding federal contracts.

However, a board may argue that evidence of good health must be presented by weekly or monthly certification either from the employee's doctor or the board's doctor; included also is certification of fitness for return. Such a demand has been upheld by both the courts (Williams v. San Francisco Unified School District) and state human rights commissions. The New Jersey director of the Division of Civil Rights has ruled that such a practice as joint certification is legitimate, and in the event of disagreement, an impartial physician chosen by the two physicians would be called upon to make a binding decision.

Though the latest EEOC regulations make sweeping changes in maternity leave policies, the regulations equally affect the application of other short-term leaves. Insofar as the negotiation for the curtailment of any benefits or professional advancement is concerned, a principle of equity must be operative, and any benefits provided under other short-term leave policies must be extended to the maternity leave provision. Similarly, any negotiated health or insurance plan that limits school district paid defendants' coverage to the "Head of Household" or "principal wage earner" is discriminatory under Section 1604.9(c), as any such designation has no bearing on job performance.

Negotiated sick leave benefits are rights earned by an employee for services rendered. Such a policy, rather the benefits thereof, must be applied to maternity leave as a temporary disability. Whether a maternity leave provision is negotiated separately or conjunctively with a sick leave provision is immaterial. What is of import is that policies applicable to sick leave must be extended to maternity leave; policies for the taking of other leaves, i.e., sabbatical leave or military leave, must also be applicable to maternity leave, and must be equitably provided to both sexes. Anything short of this is a violation of EEOC regulations and subject to prosecution in the courts either by EEOC or the aggrieved party. The employee organization must be always cognizant of what it is negotiating for its members. Anything less than the minimum standards must be pointed out to the school board as violative of EEOC regulations and the employee organization must notify EEOC if such a violation exists.

HAVE YOU SEEN THIS OUTSTANDING NEA REFERENCE WORK?

COMPREHENSIVE NEGOTIATION AGREEMENT PROVISIONS
1972 Edition

PART I	- Scope of Agreement and Association, Board and Teacher Rights Provisions
PART II	- Joint Committees, Instructional, Educational and Teacher Assignment and Work-Load Provisions
PART III	- Grievance Procedures, Personnel and Salary Provisions
PART IV	- Group Insurance, Leaves of Absence and Fringe Benefit Provisions

This four-part document prepared by NEA Research is an invaluable source of negotiated items in teacher/board agreements. In 1,418 pages it analyzes over 1,500 negotiated agreements in U.S. public school systems. Over 300 negotiable items are identified and coded system-by-system. (Specific content of the provisions may be obtained on request by using the Information Request Forms provided in each volume.)

REPRESENTATION INFORMATION

- State
- Name of school system
- Location of school system
- Name of recognized organization
- National affiliation of recognized organization
- Number of professional personnel represented
- Type of agreement
- Term of comprehensive agreement
- Agreement page number for particular provision

PROVISION ANALYSIS

- 200 provision titles
- Detailed analysis coded for 300 variables:
  - Negotiation impasse: 3rd party involved in type of decision
  - Jt. administrator-teacher committees
  - Grievance arbitration: 3rd party involved in type of decision
  - Bench marks in salary schedules: 1-, 2-, or 3-year agreements
  - Group insurance: part or full premium paid by board
  - 21 short-term leaves identified

Please send:

_____ $40./set. (4 parts per set)
(qty.) Stock No. 388-11940.

_____ Special price ONLY for NEA state
(qty.) and local associations: $25./set.
Stock No. 388-11938.

Check one below:

_____ Payment enclosed. Make checks payable to NEA.
_____ Bill on purchase order attached.

Mail to:

NEA PUBLICATION-SALES SECTION 192
1201 Sixteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20036

_____
Name

_____
Organization

_____
Address

_____
City/State/ZIP

VOL. 6 NO. 2
OCT. 1972

NRD
NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST

CONTENTS

Page

Case Reviews 3
- Legislative Authority, A Prerequisite to School Board's Delegation of Power
- School Boards May Negotiate Binding Arbitration
- Probationary Teacher's Tenure Rights Expanded by Negotiated Agreement
- Pay Dispute Returned to Lower Court
- State Supreme Court Affirms Constitutionality of NCIR
- Amendment of No-Strike Statute Recommended
- N.Y. PERB's Power to Hear Nontenure Dismissal Cases Upheld
- Court Rejects Teacher's Suit for Payment of Wages Lost During Strike

Board Findings and Rulings 6
- Ordinance Making Union's Contract Proposals Public Record Held Illegal
- Volunteer Faculty for Overtime Work Violates Agreement
- Teacher Unjustly Denied New Coaching Position
- Employers Must Take Reasonable Steps to Insure Contract Funding
- Board Cannot Economize by Assigning Non-unit Employees to Bargaining Unit Jobs
- MERC Excludes Nonprofessionals From Residual Professional Unit
- Arbitrator Finds Grievance Untimely
- Nonpayment of Association Dues a Cause for Dismissal
- Unilateral Class Size Increase Violated Agreement
- NLRB Declines Jurisdiction Over Two Nonprofit Organizations

Negotiation Notes 9
- City Employees Select Laborers
- New Alaska Law Gives Public Employees Limited Strike Rights
- Amended Maine Law Creates Labor Relations Board
- Mass. Public Employee Bargaining Statute Amended
- Mo. Mediation Board's Representation Decision Upheld
- First Binding Wage Settlement Under Amended Nevada Law
- N.Mex. Personnel Board's Rules Upheld
- N.Y. OCB Rules and Regulations on Binding Arbitration Implemented
- Court Dismisses Challenge to Contract Ratification

Statistics 12
- Negotiated Released Time for Association and Agreement Matters
- Major Collective Bargaining Settlements, First Half of 1972
- Teacher Strikes, Work Stoppages, and Interruptions of Service, 1971-72

Special Reports 17
- Consumer Price Index, July 1972; 10-Year Averages and 1972, by Month
- The Growth of Classroom Teacher Collective Bargaining: 1966-1971
- Briefs of Recent Agreements

Text 28
- Alaska Public Employment Relations Act
- Consolidated Rules of New York City Office of Collective Bargaining

RESEARCH DIVISION
NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

Copyright © 1972 by the
National Education Association
All Rights Reserved

2303

CASE REVIEWS

ARIZONA

Legislative Authority, A Prerequisite to School Board's Delegation of Power

The Arizona Court of Appeals held that a school board's obligation to control and manage a school district's affairs may not be delegated by entering into a binding collective bargaining agreement without legislative authorization. Since the state legislature has not as yet enacted a teacher collective bargaining law, the appellate court voided the 1971-72 contract negotiated by the Scottsdale Education Association (SEA) and the Board of Education, Scottsdale High School District No. 212, on the basis that the board had exceeded its authority by agreeing to limit its management of the school district. This ruling rejected a lower court's position that the board was "contractually bound to honor the terms of the agreement" which it had voluntarily entered.

The lower court had ordered the parties to submit to binding arbitration the dispute that arose when the board set aside the negotiated impasse procedure and unilaterally established 1972-73 teacher salaries. Although the appeals court affirmed the SEA's constitutional right to bargain collectively in the context of "meeting and consulting" with the board, it also upheld the board's prerogative to decline to bargain with teachers.

The court of appeals observed that this ruling did not prohibit the board from issuing rules and regulations embodying provisions contained in the 1971-72 contract, nor did it preclude a written agreement covering any item that may be included in individual teacher contracts. (Board of Education of Scottsdale High School District No. 212 et al., v. Scottsdale Education Association, Arizona Court of Appeals, June 26, 1972.)

INDIANA

School Boards May Negotiate Binding Arbitration

School boards do have the statutory authority to negotiate collective bargaining agreements that provide for binding grievance arbitration, according to the Indiana Court of Appeals. The court held that the legality of the binding arbitration clause incorporated in a collective agreement between the City of Gary Schools and Gary Teacher Union, Local 4, AFT, AFL-CIO, is derived from the Indiana General School Power Act 1965 and the Uniform Arbitration Act.

Although Indiana has no mandatory teacher professional negotiation (PN) statute, Act 1965, Ch. 299, permits teachers to organize and engage in activities of a labor union. Whereas, the Uniform Arbitration Act, recognizing that binding arbitration is one of many policy options open to a school board, mandates that "a written agreement to submit to arbitration is valid, and enforceable; an existing controversy or controversy thereafter arising is valid and enforceable." The specific and general powers given school boards under Ch. 307, Act 1965, authorize them to take charge of, manage, and conduct the affairs of the school corporation, and to hire, discharge, and determine the compensation and terms of employment. The court maintained that the breadth of these laws taken together permits school boards to enter into collective bargaining agreements with provision for the binding arbitration of grievances.

This appellate court decision overturns the lower court ruling that city school trustees "cannot delegate to anyone else their legal duty as public officer to manage and conduct schools." The lower court ruling was reversed and the case was remanded for a new trial. (Gary Teachers Union Local No. 4 v. School City of Gary et al., Court of Appeals of Indiana, Third District, June 28, 1972.)

MICHIGAN

Probationary Teacher's Tenure Rights Expanded By Negotiated Agreement

The Oakland County Circuit Court found that a collective bargaining agreement negotiated between the Ferndale School District and the Ferndale Education Association extended a probationary teacher's rights beyond those contained in the Michigan Teacher Tenure Act. The suit, seeking a declaratory judgment, was filed by the school board when a probationary teacher sought arbitration of the nonrenewal of her contract under the negotiated agreement's grievance procedure.

Before completing her final probationary year, the teacher was informed that her contract would not be renewed. Claiming that the school board did not have just cause to refuse her contract renewal and accompanying tenure, the teacher filed a grievance. The agreement states that "no teacher shall be disciplined, reprimanded, reduced in rank or compensation without just cause. Any such discipline shall be subject to the professional grievance procedure hereinafter set forth."

The school board's lack of cooperation during the preliminary steps of the grievance procedure led to arbitration, whereupon the school board filed the declaratory suit. The school board cited the Michigan Teacher Tenure Act which states that the school board is the sole judge of whether or not a probationary teacher's services are satisfactory.

The court found that absent a negotiated grievance procedure, after a school board has evaluated teacher performance, the matter can be appealed to the court under the Administrative Procedures Act. However, after enactment of the teacher tenure law, the legislature gave teachers the right to bargain collectively and to negotiate agreements. Since the bargaining agreement in question covered probationary teachers, they were given rights in addition to those specified in the tenure act.

The court then considered whether denial of tenure constituted discipline, reprimand, or reduction in rank. The court found that "to provide her with notice that she is not satisfactory . . . is discipline or reduction in rank to its ultisense." Therefore, the teacher had the contractual right to arbitrate the nonrenewal of her contract.

In conclusion, the court stated that "one of the purposes of the Teacher Tenure Act is to protect teachers from arbitrary and unreasonable dismissals. It seems to this court that should a teacher feel aggrieved . . . her remedy is in accordance with the negotiated contract wherein an arbitrator can review the decision." (School District of the City of Ferndale v. Helen Kardos Lester and the Ferndale Education Association, Circuit Court for the County of Oakland, May 5, 1971.)

MINNESOTA

Pay Dispute Returned to Lower Court

The Minnesota Supreme Court remanded a pay dispute case involving the White Bear Lake Teachers Association and the White Bear Lake School District to the district court for further investigative hearings. The supreme court also reversed the lower court's dismissal of the case which involved salary payments and the signing of individual contracts.

In 1969, the teachers association charged that during salary negotiation the school board violated the state collective bargaining statutes, and accused the board of intimidation and discrimination. Subsequently when teachers boycotted a workshop on August 28 and 29, the school board made a counterclaim. The board also refused to pay retroactive salaries for 12 workdays between August 25 and September 15 after teachers refused to return signed contracts by the September 12 deadline. The district court dismissed all claims and counterclaims on the ground that an October 12 agreement had settled the dispute.

The state supreme court found that while the salary agreement was subject to a future settlement, the retroactive pay dispute and the teachers' entitlement to pay for August 28 and 29 could be resolved only through further court hearings. (Jon Bauman et al., Appellants v. Independent School District 624 (White Bear Lake) et al., Respondents, Minnesota Supreme Court, Ramsey County, July 7, 1972.)

NEBRASKA

State Supreme Court Affirms Constitutionality of NCIR

The Nebraska Supreme Court upheld a Nebraska Court of Industrial Relation's (NCIR) ruling on a case filed by the Seward Education Association against the Seward School District. The NCIR had ordered the school district to negotiate with the teachers association on terms and conditions of employment and set up a salary schedule for teachers (NRD, 1-72, 5). The school district appealed to the state supreme court, questioning the constitutionality of the NCIR and challenging its authority over conditions of employment and the right to set salaries for school employees.

Concerning the constitutionality of NCIR, the court stated that the Nebraska Constitution authorized the establishment of an "industrial commission" with administrative, legislative, and judicial powers to determine controversies and that the NCIR is that "industrial commission." The court pointed out that since the legislature has final control over school districts, the use of the NCIR for settlement of school disputes constitutes an exercise of this power.

Considering NCIR's power to order the school district to negotiate conditions of employment, the court cited a previous ruling which held that "while the court [NCIR] could not order a school district to enter into a contract, the court had the power to settle any controversy pursuant to [the Public Employee Bargaining Act]." The supreme court found that in ordering the school district to negotiate terms and conditions of employment, NCIR was neither forcing the district to enter into a contract nor imposing a wage settlement, but was exercising its power to settle a dispute and to "establish rates of pay and conditions of employment which are comparable to the prevalent wage rates paid and conditions of employment maintained for the same or similar work of workers."

The court next considered a question raised in an amicus curiae brief regarding the status of NCIR as an agency under the Administrative Procedures Act. The court stated that although the NCIR had legislative and judicial powers in addition to its administrative powers, it was still "an agency of the state in a board sense." (School District of Seward Education Association v. School District of Seward, Nebraska Supreme Court, July 21, 1972.)

NEW JERSEY

Amendment of No-Strike Statute Recommend

The proper remedy for teacher strikes is legislation of "machinery for the compulsory settlement of deadlocked labor disputes involving public employees." So stressed the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division, when it was required by law to affirm the contempt convictions, jail sentences, and fines of 15 members of the Newark Teachers Union, Local 481, AFT (AFL-CIO), who engaged in a strike in defiance of a permanent injunction.

The New Jersey Employer-Employee Relations Act prohibits strikes "regardless where the merits of the controversy lie." The defendant teacher union contended that the Newark school board's refusal to bargain in good faith was a "strategy of forcing the teachers to strike so that they would lose public support." While the court recognized that the board's actions might be "reprehensible," the Act required that primary consideration be given to the "continued public interest in having the schools remain open and the children educated."

The 1971 strike, the fifth in seven years, is the latest in a series of labor disputes that have plagued the Newark school district. During the February 1970 strike, future teacher strikes were enjoined. In 1971, all defendants, including 10 who had been convicted of contempt in 1970, were cognizant of the permanent injunction. Confirming that the defendants had engaged in a strike, the appellate court accordingly affirmed the lower court's conviction of the striking teachers. However, only the union officers were required to serve jail sentences; the remaining 12 teachers were placed on probation for one year. (In Matter of Newark Teachers Union, Local 481, American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, et al., Appellants, Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division, February 1, 1972.)

NEW YORK

PERB's Power to Hear Nontenure Dismissal Cases Upheld

The New York Supreme Court for Orange and Suffolk Counties, the lowest state court, has laid to rest the issue of whether the Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) can entertain as an improper labor practice charge, the dismissal of a nontenured, probationary teacher on grounds that the dismissal stemmed from his union activities, a protected right.

The court dismissed suits filed by the Port Jervis City School District and the Brentwood Board of Education, challenging PERB's authority to entertain and act upon improper practice charges brought before the PERB by the Port Jervis Teachers' Association and the Brentwood Teachers' Association. Each district was charged with failure to renew the contract of and grant tenure to a probationary teacher in retaliation for membership in the teachers' association. The affected teacher in the Port Jervis case also served as association president.

The federal courts, in Shelton v. Tucker (364 U.S. 479) and Keyishian v. Board of Regents (385 U.S. 589, 605), have guaranteed First and Fourteenth Amendments rights and have extended these rights to public employees, including academic employees.

Prior to the state appellate court's reversal of Board of Education Central School District 1 of Town of Grand Island v. Helsby (38 A.D.2d 493), PERB was barred from hearing such dismissal charges since Section 3012.1.a of the Education Law granted to the school board discretionary power to discontinue employment during the probationary period upon recommendation only, and without citing reasons.

However, the Civil Service Law (the Taylor Law) was amended by sections 205.5.d and 209.a. The latter section defines improper employer practices to include interference with, restraint of, or coercion of public employees in the exercise of guaranteed rights, or discrimination against employees in an effort to discourage or encourage union membership.

The precedent case, Tischler v. Board of Education, Monroe, (37 A.D.2d 261), established that tenure may not be denied solely in retaliation for union activities. The appellate court based its decision on the amended Taylor Law, and further stated that a dismissal for this reason cannot be condoned "in the name of the efficient operation of the school district. Public policy is to the contrary." The court added that "union activity provides [no] shelter for a teacher whom the board decides not to retain for bona fide, legitimate reasons."

Following the logic of these cases, both courts, without comment on the merits of each case, held that the PERB does have jurisdiction and may hear such cases. (Port Jervis City School District, Petitioner, v. New York State Public Employment Relations Board et al., Respondents, New York Supreme Court, Orange County, February 4, 1972.) (Brentwood Board of Education, Petitioner v. Robert D. Helsby et al. and the Brentwood Teachers' Association, Intervenor-Respondent, New York Supreme Court, Suffolk County, December 23, 1971.)

EDITORS' NOTE: Under the recently enacted "Fair Dismissal Bill," a school board is now statutorily required to publicly disclose its reasons for nonrenewal and allow the affected teacher a rebuttal. [NRD, 9-72, 12]

PENNSYLVANIA

Court Rejects Teacher's Suit for Payment of Wages Lost During Strike

A Pennsylvania Court of Common Pleas rejected a teacher's suit against the New Castle Area School District for payment of wages lost during a strike. The plaintiff, a nonparticipant in an 18-day strike called by the New Castle Area Education Association, reported daily to an empty classroom even though the schools were closed for the duration. Upon resumption of classes, the school year was extened to make up for the days lost, with all teachers receiving full compensation. The plaintiff filed suit seeking recovery for the strike days.

In answer to the complaint, the school district named the New Castle Area Education Association as codefendant, stating that the association had caused the plaintiff's loss "by interfering with the existing contractual relationship between plaintiff and defendant."

The education association filed a demurrer, claiming relief under Act 195 of 1970 (amnesty section), which declared null and void any pending and/or enforced penalties against public employees, thus relieving individual association members from personal liability. The association argued that if penalties could not be imposed against individual teachers for their strike activities, they could not be held collectively liable since collective liability would also make each participant personally liable.

The court agreed with the association. The amnesty act was specifically designed to revoke all penalties resulting from strikes; thus the action upon which the liability was premised was the action for which amnesty was granted.

The association also contended that no monetary claim existed against the school board because statutory provisions limited payment of teachers' salaries for nonrendered services only in the event of contagious disease or serious damage to the school.

The court supported these contentions and dismissed the suit for recovery of wages. (Kerr v. New Castle Area School District et al., Pennsylvania Court of Common Pleas, February 18, 1972.)

BOARD FINDINGS AND RULINGS

CONNECTICUT

Ordinance Making Union's Contract Proposals Public Record Held Illegal

The Connecticut State Board of Labor Relations held that the town of Stratford violated the Municipal Employee Relations Act when it adopted an ordinance unilaterally making initial stages of bargaining public record while negotiation with its employee union representatives was in progress. The Board held that ground rules for negotiation, including terms and extent of publicity, are mandatory bargaining subjects under the act.

Four unions filed charges contending that the town engaged in improper practices by passing the ordinance and refusing to bargain in good faith on the question of following the prescribed course. Consequently, the town filed charges against each union alleging unlawful refusal to submit initial bargaining demands unless the town negotiator agreed to keep the demands confidential.

Rejecting the town's first argument that the labor board had no authority to rule on the validity of the ordinance, the board stated that its power to administer the Municipal Employee Relations Act as designated by the legislature, includes the specific duty of determining whether a prohibited practice occurred.

The Board also rejected the town's argument that the ordinance dealt solely with the town's internal communications during negotiation and was, therefore, not a mandatory subject of bargaining. The Board determined that the ground rules for negotiation are mandatory bargaining matters.

Although the town argued that the ordinance required no disclosure at variance with the state's Right-to-Know Law, the Board decided that the town took unilateral action which is unjustified by law and therefore constituted a prohibited practice. The law states that "except as otherwise provided by any federal or state statute or regulations, all records made by any executive, administrative, legislative or judicial body, agency, commission, or subdivision therefore shall be public record." The Board held that during negotiation, proposals, memoranda, and other writings which are exchanged to further bargaining do not automatically become public record.

The Board dismissed the town's charges against the four unions, and ordered the town to resume bargaining on all proper subjects, including publicity, and to refrain from entering any part of the negotiation proceedings into the public record. (Town of Stratford and IAFF Local 998, AFSCME Local 407, AFTE Local 136, and SPWA; IAFF Local 998, AFSCME Local 407, AFTE Local 136, and SPWA and Town of Stratford; Connecticut State Board of Labor Relations, May 30, 1972.)

EDITORS' NOTE: Teachers are not covered by this Act, the Municipal Employee Relations Act, but by a separate statute.

ILLINOIS

Volunteer Faculty for Overtime Work Violates Agreement

In a case involving the Board of Trustees of Cook County College and the Cook County Teachers Union, Local 1600, an arbitrator ruled that extra work for a "weekend college" was subject to the terms of the agreement negotiated between the union and the Board of Trustees.

The college instituted a weekend college offering courses to persons working full time. Unpaid volunteers to staff the program were recruited from the regular college faculty. The union objected to the college's actions, stating that the methods used to institute and staff the program were contrary to the negotiated agreement.

The arbitrator supported the union's contentions and ordered the college to pay the faculty overtime rates for working at the "weekend college." He further ordered that pay for Sunday work be negotiated, that seniority and rotation be properly maintained and posted, that union and board engage in good faith negotiation if the weekend college was to continue, and that information be furnished to the union to assure proper assignment of the extra work. (Board of Trustees of Junior College District 508 and Cook County College Teachers Union, AFT Local 1600, American Arbitration Association, September 23, 1971.)

MARYLAND

Teacher Unjustly Denied New Coaching Position

In a grievance suit brought against the Carroll County School Board, an arbitrator ruled that the school board violated the contract's evaluation procedures and unjustly denied the teacher a new coaching position.

In the complaint, the teacher grieved that his nonappointment to a new assistant coaching position had been justified by the school board with a derogatory letter and evaluation written after the position was filled. The teacher had been unaware of either the letter or the evaluation.

The arbitrator found that the parties' negotiated agreement provided that all employee evaluations were to be conducted with the teachers' knowledge, and that teachers were to be notified of any derogatory material placed in their personnel files and to have an opportunity to reply in writing to such material. The arbitrator determined that both the letter and the evaluation were derogatory and, in a legal sense, arbitrary, and that the teacher was denied his negotiated right to be informed of, and to answer such material. Accordingly, the school board was ordered to appoint the teacher to the new position. (Carroll County Teachers Association and the Board of Education of Carroll County, American Arbitration Association, June 14, 1971.)

MASSACHUSETTS

Employers Must Take Reasonable Steps to Insure Contract Funding

The Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission (MLRC) found the Town of Webster in violation of its statutory duty to bargain in good faith during the execution and signing of a collective bargaining agreement with the Webster Patrolmen's Association.

Representatives from the patrolmen's association and three selectmen, representing the town, negotiated a collective bargaining agreement which provided across-the-board salary increases. The Town Advisory Board, which was responsible for determining the municipality's budget to be voted on at the town meeting, was consulted by the selectmen only once during negotiation. At the time of this meeting, the advisory board had no report on the budget for patrolmen.

After the negotiated agreement was signed, the selectmen met with the advisory board, and supported a moritorium on pay raises for municipal employees. The selectmen took a similar stance at the town meeting, whereupon insufficient funds to support the agreement were voted. Subsequently, the patrolmen's association charged the city with failure to bargain in good faith.

The MLRC supported the unfair labor practice charge, stating that good faith bargaining does not end with the execution of an agreement. The Commission added that an inadequate attempt was made to determine the scope of the negotiators' authority, and also the ability and willingness of the legislature to appropriate funds for the wage increase. Furthermore, the selectmen's public support of a wage moritorium after signing an agreement providing for increases constituted a violation of their good-faith bargaining duty. They neglected to take reasonable steps to insure that the contract was funded.

The MLRC concluded that the municipality, through its agents, had failed to bargain in good faith with the patrolmen's association, and ordered the town to bargain with the association upon request. (Matter of the Town of Webster et al., and Webster Patrolmen's Association, Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission, April 13, 1972.)

MICHIGAN

Board Cannot Economize by Assigning Non-unit Employees to Bargaining Unit Jobs

In a grievance filed by the Warren Education Association and the Warren Consolidated School District, an arbitrator found the school board in violation of the negotiated agreement when it assigned non-unit employees to bargaining unit positions. The school board, faced with budgetary cutbacks, economized by eliminating the positions of service squad sponsors and building chairmen. The arbitrator found the board's action contrary to the agreement, stating that the board could not economize "by assigning jobs to non-unit employees, any more than it could lay-off teachers and assign their teaching tasks outside the unit."

He then ordered the school board to pay the employees who would have been assigned as building chairmen and service squad leaders at the negotiated rates of pay for the school year. (Warren Education Association and the Warren Consolidated School District, American Arbitration Association, September 3, 1971.)

MERC Excludes Nonprofessionals From Residual Professional Unit

The Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) ruled that a residual unit composed solely of continuing education teachers was appropriate. Accordingly a representation election was ordered for the Adult Basic Education (ABE) and high school completion teachers, employed by the Lansing School District, to determine whether the Lansing Schools Education Association (LSEA), the Michigan Federation of Teachers, AFT, AFL-CIO, or "no organization" would represent these teachers. If the LSEA, the current representative of the district's classroom teachers, won, the ABE and high school completion teachers would be assimilated into the existing unit. Otherwise they would form a separate unit.

The Commission also proposed that ABE and high school completion teachers of nonacademic subjects, such as astrology, knitting, and bridge, be excluded from the proposed teacher unit and be given the choice of forming another residual unit.

The MERC based these decisions on its prior rulings and on the National Labor Relations Board's (NLRB) stance that "it is grossly unfair . . . to allow a bargaining representative to exclude by design certain employees from a represented unit and also prevent their being represented in a separate unit by another bargaining agent willing to do so." (Lansing School District Board of Education, Michigan Federation of Teachers, AFT, AFL-CIO, and Lansing Schools Education Association, Michigan Employment Relations Commission, March 17, 1972.)

MINNESOTA

Arbitrator Finds Grievance Untimely

An arbitrator supported the refusal of Special School District #1 to process a grievance as untimely. A teacher, upon learning of the correct grievance filing procedure, appealed the school district's decision to cut her salary for strike activity. The teacher was informed of the salary cut in August 1970, but filed the grievance in February 1971. The negotiated contract provided a 20-day time limit for filing grievances.

The arbitrator, supporting the contention of the school district, found that the "employee must file within a time limit after the teacher knew or should have known of the act or condition on which the grievance is based, not from the time when the teacher knew of the existence of the grievance procedure." (Janet T. Solaga and Special School District No. 1, American Arbitration Association, June 8, 1971.)

PENNSYLVANIA

Nonpayment of Association Dues a Cause for Dismissal

An arbitrator ruled that a teacher must make full payment of all dues owed to the Freeport Education Association (FEA) or face losing her teaching position. The defendant, employed by the Freeport Area School District, contended that she had given verbal notice of termination of membership to her building representative.

The arbitrator determined that the teacher was still a member of FEA at the time the contract with the Freeport School District was signed because the defendant had not submitted a written resignation and had attended an association meeting on the day the contract became effective.

The school board argued that it could not coerce the defendant to pay membership dues by terminating her contract since the Pennsylvania public school code of 1949 did not establish nonpayment of dues as a cause for dismissal. The arbitrator pointed out that Act 195 states that a maintenance-of-membership clause, which is a part of the contract negotiated with the school board, makes continued membership in an employee organization a requisite for continued employment, and therefore creates an additional cause for dismissal. (Board of Education of Freeport Area School District and Freeport Education Association, May 22, 1972.)

WISCONSIN

Board's Increase of Class Size Violated Agreement

The Racine School District's increase in the size of a first-grade class was contrary to an agreement negotiated with the Racine Educational Association according to an arbitrator.

The school district combined two first-grade classes into a single class of 37 pupils, although the ratio policy was 26.8 pupils to one staff member. The negotiated agreement provided that "the school administration working with the teaching staff shall determine staff utilization under the ratio policy existing during the duration of the agreement." The school district contended that because of this provision, it had the final authority in determining class size.

The arbitrator, rejecting the school board's contention, found that the "school district is required, before changing class sizes. . . to make a reasonable effort to maintain class size." The arbitrator's decision was final and binding. (Racine Unified School District and the Racine Educational Association, American Arbitration Association, July 16, 1971.)

FEDERAL

NLRB Declines Jurisdiction Over Two Nonprofit Organizations

The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) issued two rulings precluding its assertion of jurisdiction over two nonprofit organizations.

- The Queens Borough Public Library, in New York City, petitioned the Board to assert its jurisdiction and to classify certain employees as supervisors.

The library contended that it was an employer under the National Labor Relations Act, and not a municipal subdivision. The union that represented the library's employees contended that the library was a political subdivision and under Section 2(2) was not subject to NLRB jurisdiction.

The Board found that the city supplied 80 percent of the library's operating income and that the library would cease to exist without city help. And, although the library exercised daily control of its operations, the city must approve wage increases and sometimes additional hiring.

The NLRB found that the library's close relationship with the city made assertion of jurisdiction inconsistent with policies of the Act regardless of whether the library was an employer under the Act.

- A union petitioned to represent a unit of workers employed by the California College of Podiatric Medicine, a nonprofit corporation which is a combination educational institution and hospital. The college claimed that it should be exempt from the Board's jurisdiction under Section 2(2) of the Act.

Even though the Board has asserted jurisdiction over some nonprofit universities, the issue here was whether the Act prohibited NLRB from asserting jurisdiction over a hospital operated in conjunction with a university, where no part of the hospital's net earnings inured to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual.

The Board determined that the majority of the employees petitioned for were essentially employees of the hospital because they performed duties relating to both the college and the hospital and were paid from the hospital budget.

The petition was dismissed because the employer furnished hospital services and therefore fell within the statutory exclusion of Section 2(2). (Queens Borough Public Library and District Council 37 and Its Affiliated Local No. 1321, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, National Labor Relations Board, March 21, 1972.)

(California College of Podiatric Medicine-Corporation and Hospital and Institutional Workers' Union, Local 250, Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO, National Labor Relations Board, March 10, 1972.)

NEGOTIATION NOTES

ALABAMA

City Employees Select Laborers

An election conducted under the direction of the Alabama Department of Labor, showed a 94 percent vote in favor of Laborers Local 1317 by Birmingham city workers over no union representation. The victory gained representation for about 1,300 Birmingham city employees. Initially, the city had disregarded Laborers' bid for union recognition, but later ordered the election after a unanimous strike vote by the municipal employees.

Laborers also gained representation for 800 public works employees in Montgomery, Alabama. In addition, the union now represents employees at the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa and at three state mental hospitals.

ALASKA

New Alaska Law Gives Public Employees Limited Strike Rights

A new bargaining statute gives limited strike rights to all Alaska public employees, except teachers who are covered by a separate statute. The measure allows employees to organize; requires employers to negotiate with the recognized employee organization on wages, hours, and fringe benefits; calls for court enforcement of prohibited unfair employer or employee labor practices; requires agreements to contain binding arbitration of grievances; and permits dues check-off and either union shop or agency shop clauses.

The labor relations agency means the state personnel board for state employees or the state department of labor for all other employees. The agency may hold a hearing and direct a secret ballot election to determine which organization or union will represent employees whenever 30 percent of the employees in a unit petition for recognition of or decertification of a recognized union, or when an employer is presented with a union claim to be recognized.

The agency can investigate unfair labor practices and require the party at fault to cease and desist. If the unfair labor practice is continued, the agency may apply for an injunction or restraining order. Violators of an order or decision of the agency are guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable by a fine of not more than $500.

In defining who may strike, the act divides public employees into three classes: those who may not strike (police and fire protection employees, jail, prison, and other correctional institution employees, and hospital employees); those who may strike for a limited period of time (public utility, snow removal, sanitation, and public-school and other educational institution employees); and those who may strike for an indefinite period of time (all other public employees).

[See TEXT section for reprint of pertinent sections]

MAINE

Amended Maine Law Creates Labor Relations Board

An amendment, H.P. 1548, to Maine's 1970 Municipal Public Employee Labor Relations Act established a Public Employees Labor Relations Board to administer the statute. The responsibility of the Board is to review unit determinations and to determine and remedy employer and employee prohibited practices, subject to court review.

The duties of the new Board's executive director include appointing fact-finding boards, determining appropriate bargaining units, conducting representation elections, and certifying duly elected bargaining agents.

A tripartite labor relations board, appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the council, is to be composed of employee and employer representatives and a chairman to serve the public interests.

The Board, which can adopt rules of procedure to conduct its business, can also interpret provisions of the law and issue written advisory rules. The Board is empowered to prevent employers, employees, and unions from engaging in any statutorily prohibited acts. Complaints against any person or organization are to be filed with the executive director who will then serve a copy of the complaint and notice of a Board hearing on the offending party. However, no hearing shall be held on any alleged unfair practice occurring more than half a year before the filing of the complaint.

A complaining party may, however, seek injunctive relief from the superior court in the county in which the prohibited practice is alleged to have occurred, pending the final adjudication of Board proceedings. Either party may seek a superior court review of any Board decision; however, there shall be no appeal on questions of fact.

The complainant in any judicial proceeding seeking injunctive relief, such as from strikes, needs neither an allegation nor proof of unavoidable substantial or irreparable injury to his property to obtain a restraining order.

MASSACHUSETTS

Public Employee Bargaining Statute Amended

An amendment to the mediation section (Section 178K) of the Municipal Employees Relations Act brings public employee grievances submitted to arbitration under the governance of Chapter 150C of the General Laws, commonly known as the Arbitration Under Union Contract—Judicial Enforcement statute. Chapter 150C stipulates that an agreement between an employer and an employee organization to submit controversies to arbitration "is valid, enforceable, and irrevocable, except as otherwise provided by law or in equity for the revocation of any contract."

The original mediation section of the Act specified that public employee organizations (which included teacher organizations) and public employers might submit contract or grievance disputes to the state Board of Conciliation and Arbitration or any other arbitration "tribunal." The amendment asserts the enforceability of the arbitrator's decision.

In addition, the amendment requires the parties involved in an arbitration case to share equally the cost of submitting the controversy to an arbitration board other than the state board.

MISSOURI

Mediation Board's Representation Decision Upheld

A Missouri trial court fallaciously reversed the decision of the State Board of Mediation that the City of Kirkwood's forestry department employees comprised an appropriate bargaining unit. The city contended that the state board of mediation was barred from resolving representation disputes unless the services of a state hearing officer were used. State statutes, however, do not provide for anyone with the title of state hearing officer, but do provide for a hearing officer. Further, the city's contention that the mediation board had no jurisdiction over representation issues between a city and a union had no statutory basis. Additionally, evidence did not support the city's contention that the mediation board had abused its discretion, and had been arbitrary and erratic in its conduct of representation proceedings.

The mediation board ruled that employees of the city's forestry department constituted an appropriate bargaining unit as defined under state statutes. The board also determined the union's majority status on the basis of authorization cards, since there was no statutory provision regulating the determination of a union's majority status.

In the judgment of the Missouri Court of Appeals, the union's appeal was sustained and the decision of the trial court was reversed. Further, the mediation board's appeal was dismissed for failure to comply with civil rules. (City of Kirkwood, Petitioner-Respondent v. Missouri State Board of Mediation, et al., Respondent-Appellant, Missouri Court of Appeals, St. Louis District, February 22, 1972.)

NEVADA

First Binding Arbitration Wage Settlement Under Amended State Law

A fact finder determined that the City of Las Vegas did not have the current financial ability to grant monetary benefits to its 450 member Police Protective Association.

In accordance with recent revisions in Nevada's public employee bargaining law allowing the governor to send impasse items to final arbitration, a fact finder was brought in to help resolve the dispute. The amended bargaining statute states that "if a Nevada public employer and an employee organization have not reached an agreement by March 1, either party has a month to submit the dispute to a fact finder whose recommendations will not be binding unless the disputing parties mutually agree that they will be. If the parties do not mutually agree to make the findings and recommendations of the fact finder final and binding, the governor shall have the emergency power and authority, at the request of either party and prior to the submission of the dispute to fact finding, to order prior to April 1, that the findings and recommendations on all or any specified issues will be final and binding."

The city claimed that it did not have the financial ability to meet PPA's demands concerning wages, court time, traffic pay, overtime pay, shift differential pay, longevity pay, disability insurance pay, and punitive damage insurance. When the two parties reached a bargaining deadlock, the union requested the governor to mandate binding arbitration on the eight items. The governor ordered three of the eight matters to final arbitration.

The city contended that its estimated expenditure and projected revenues were such that no funds were available to increase the amounts already provided in the final budget.

PPA argued that the allocations made by the city for the 1972-73 budget were an indication that the city had the ability to pay.

Nevada's public employee bargaining law requires that a determination of the financial ability of the local government employer with regard to the employer's obligations to the people residing within its jurisdiction be made before the fact finder addresses himself to the disputed issues. After studying the city's budget, the fact finder determined that the relationship of expenditures to revenues for the coming fiscal year would be too close to allow for additional allocations. The allocations that the PPA referred to were not part of present wage and benefit negotiations but were "owed" to PPA by the city as a result of the commissioner's formal resolution giving a 5 percent blanket increase to all city employees. Therefore, the funds were already committed and not existing and available as contemplated in the public employees bargaining law, which stated that available resources were those revenues that could be utilized.

On the basis of the analysis of the city's budget, the fact finder made the determination that Las Vegas did not have the financial ability to grant the monetary benefits. (Police Protective Association and Las Vegas, American Arbitration Association, May 5, 1972.)

NEW MEXICO

Personnel Board's Rules Upheld

A district judge in Santa Fe ruled that New Mexico State employees did not have the right to strike or picket in a labor dispute. The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees initiated court proceedings attacking regulations set forth by the State Personnel Board, particularly one which forbids strikes.

The decision upheld the board's authority to issue "reasonable regulations" for conduct of employee-management relations as well as the right of employees to join employee organizations and to bargain collectively, and the right of state agencies to enter into collective bargaining with such employee organizations.

NEW YORK

OCB Rules and Regulations on Binding Arbitration Implemented

The revised rules and regulations of New York City's Office of Collective Bargaining (OCB) implement amendments to New York City's Collective Bargaining Law (NRD, 4-72, 10) to provide, among other things, for final and binding arbitration in municipal labor disputes.

Under the amended law an impasse panel's recommendations for settlement of a dispute will be deemed final and binding unless rejected by either party, in which case an appeal may be made to the OCB for review of the recommendations.

A petition of appeal to review the impasse panel's recommendations must specify the grounds upon which the appeal is taken; the alleged errors of fact and/or judgment of the panel precisely identifying those parts and portions of the report and recommendation allegedly in error; any part of the testimony and evidence relating to the report and recommendations on the grounds upon which the appeal is taken, which supports the allegations of the petition; the modifications requested; and such additional matters as may be relevant and material.

The amended city statute now specifically excludes managerial and confidential employees from bargaining units. The OCB rules specify the procedures to be followed for designating employees in these categories, including the requirement that hearings be held and determinations issued.

Previously OCB's role was advisory only; the amended law empowers OCB to order an employer or union to cease and desist from engaging in unfair labor practices.

The rules also provide an expedited procedure for amending certification of bargaining units to reflect changes in titles where there have been no changes in the duties under the titles, and for consolidation of related cases involving representation, arbitration, mediation, and improper practice proceedings in addition to impasses.

[See TEXT section for OCB rules regarding mediation and impasse panel procedures.]

OHIO

Court Dismisses Challenge to Contract Ratification Vote

The United States District Court in Cleveland rejected a suit challenging the validity of a contract ratification vote held by the American Federation of Teachers, Local 795. The suit was filed by two members of the Cleveland Heights-University Heights Teachers Association.

The AFT was recognized as the bargaining agent for the 650 teachers in January 1971 and negotiated a one-year agreement with the school district, on which all teachers were allowed to vote. In June 1972, the union decided that non-union teachers would not be permitted to vote on a renewal contract, effective January 1973. Two non-union teachers, members of the teachers association, obtained a temporary injunction to stop the vote count, and filed a suit contending that their civil rights had been violated. The court rejected the case, finding "no federally protected right that has been deprived."

STATISTICS

NEGOTIATED RELEASED TIME FOR ASSOCIATION AND AGREEMENT MATTERS

Released time provisions for association or contract administration are incorporated in 641 (41.9 percent) of 1,529 comprehensive classroom teacher agreements, effective 1970-71, in school systems with 1,000 or more pupils enrolled. Provisions selected for analysis were released time for association conferences and conventions, released time for negotiation, and released time for grievance hearings. (See Table 1.) Provsiions granting association representatives released time are generally found under grievance procedure, negotiation procedure, association rights, and leaves of absence. For example, a grievance procedure may contain a provision granting time off for representatives or witnesses to attend hearings during the school day.

Released time for association conferences and conventions provide association representatives or delegates with time off from regular duties to attend regional, state, or national association meetings without loss of pay. This time off is primarily for association business distinct from professional days which entail educational conferences. In many agreements, leaves for association conferences are granted upon prior notification and with the superintendent's approval.

TABLE 1.—COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS CONTAINING RELEASED TIME PROVISIONS FOR ASSOCIATION AND AGREEMENT MATTERS

Purpose of release time	Number	Percent
1	2	3
TOTAL AGREEMENTS ANALYZED	1,529	100.0
Agreements containing released time provisions	641	41.9
Association conferences	406	26.6
Negotiation	325	21.2
Grievance processing	281	18.4
AGREEMENTS CONTAINING RELEASED TIME PROVISIONS	641	100.0
Association conferences and conventions	230	35.9
Negotiation and grievance processing	113	17.6
Negotiation, grievance processing, and association conferences	82	12.8
Negotiation only	66	10.3
Negotiation and association conferences	64	10.0
Grievance processing	56	8.7
Grievance processing and association conferences	30	4.7

In an arbitration case involving the Carrolton Education Association (Mich.), a school principal's denial of paid leave for attendance at an association sponsored conference was upheld because contract language stipulated that such leave would be granted only upon the principal's approval. The decision turned on the basis that neither the grievant nor the association supplied the principal with the necessary information to make a reasonable judgment as to whether the conference was an educational conference within the mean- of the contract.

Sample provisions of released time for association conferences and conventions are as follows:

> When the need arises, officers, committee chairmen and members designated by approval of the Board of Directors of PGCEA may attend essential local, state and national meetings with no loss of pay or personal leave. Substitutes may be used on a full or half-day basis or the person's immediate supervisor may make other arrangements within his staff at his discretion.
>
> Application for such leave shall be made in writing to the Superintendent of Schools as far in advance as practicable and ordinarily at least 48 hours in advance. The Association and its officers recognize and agree that this privilege should not be abused.
>
> [Prince George's County Sch. Dist., Upper Marlboro, Maryland]

> Those certificated personnel who are elected as officers, appointed as committee members, or elected delegates to meetings of the Ohio Education Association, the National Education Association, or other state and national organizations affiliated with the same may attend official meetings of those bodies which are required of them in their elected or appointed position without loss of pay. It is understood that the number of locally elected Ohio Education Association delegates shall be four. No expenses for such meetings, other than substitute service, shall be paid by the Board of Education.
>
> [Findlay, Ohio]

Agreements incorporating released time provisions for negotiation sessions scheduled during school hours stipulated that association representatives would be relieved from regular duties without loss of pay to participate in negotiation meetings. When a contract did not specify that negotiation sessions could be held during the school day, an arbitrator ruled that the Hicksville (N.Y.) board did not violate a contract clause stating that "negotiating shall, whenever practicable, be scheduled during normal business hours." The dispute occurred over the concept of "practicable" which the arbitrator determined should read "mutually practicable."

The following are sample released time provisions for negotiation:

> A teacher engaged during the school day in negotiating on behalf of the Association with any representative of the Board shall be released from regular duties with no loss of salary.
>
> [Phoenix Union H.S.D., Phoenix, Arizona]

If negotiation meetings between the Board and the Association are scheduled during school hours, the representatives of the Association shall be relieved from all regular duties without loss of pay as necessary in order to permit their participation in such meetings.

[Niagara Falls, New York]

Released time for grievance matters permit, upon notification, time off during the school day to allow association representatives to attend grievance hearings. Some provisions mandate that the processing and investigation of grievances be performed after the close of the regular school day, except when jointly agreed by the board and the association owing to urgency, or when the teachers are otherwise free from assigned duties. An arbitrator upheld the New Haven (Mich.) association's right to determine whether grievances are too urgent to wait until after school hours. The decision was based on a contract clause which stated that "fellow teachers" may upon the availability of a substitute visit a classroom without the permission of the principal's office. This clause was construed to mean that association officials from another school could conduct business during class hours.

Sample provisions of released time for grievance matters are:

The Association representatives shall be permitted, when otherwise free from teaching assignment, to investigate and process grievances to ascertain compliance with the provisions of this Agreement, provided their principal or supervisors have been notified of where they are going and why they are leaving their school buildings and have received permission therefor, and provided further that upon entering a school building they shall inform the principal or the building administrative office personnel why they are there and receive permission to carry out their purpose. This permission in both instances shall not be unreasonably withheld.

[East Hartford, Connecticut]

When it is necessary, pursuant to Article III (Staff Relations Policy) for a representative designated by the Association to attend a grievance meeting or hearing during a school day, he will, upon agreement with his principal or immediate superior be released without loss of pay as necessary in order to permit participation in the foregoing activities. Any teacher whose appearance in such meetings, or hearings as a witness is necessary will be accorded the same right.

[Glen Falls, New York]

MAJOR COLLECTIVE BARGAINING SETTLEMENTS, FIRST HALF OF 1972

The U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), reported that in the first six months of 1972, wage-rate increases averaged 7.1 percent over the life of the contract, down from the 8.1 percent average gain in 1971. Moreover, negotiated first-year wage-rate adjustments of 7.5 percent were down significantly from the 11.7 percent average gain the previous year.

The 177 settlements included in the statistics for the first half of 1972 covered 870,000 workers, primarily in the aerospace, railroad, and construction industries. The new contracts had an average duration of 24 months while previous settlements had a duration of 34 months.

Construction industry settlements were down to 7.5 percent from the 11.8 percent wage increase over the life of the contract in 1971. First-year negotiated wage-rate changes declined to 8.0 percent from 13.3 percent in 1971.

Contracts with cost-of-living escalation provisions provided 5.4 percent average annual wage increases, down from 7.1 percent in 1971. Contracts without cost-of-living provisions provided annual increases averaging 7.6 percent, down from 9.2 percent the previous year. The average increase in manufacturing was down to 5.5 percent from 7.2 percent in 1971; in nonmanufacturing, an average of 7.9 percent was registered, down from 9.0 percent in 1971. Contracts with and without escalators averaged 5.5 and 5.6 percent, respectively, in manufacturing, and 4.9 and 8.0 percent in nonmanufacturing.

First-year wage-rate adjustments for the first half of 1972 averaged 7.1 percent in manufacturing, a decrease from the 10.8 percent in 1971; the average of 7.8 percent in nonmanufacturing was a decrease from 12.7 percent in 1971.

Scheduled deferred wage increases and cost-of-living escalator adjustments combined with first-year increases under the new settlements show that the average wage change was 5.0 percent for the first six months in 1972.

Table 1 presents the data for the first six months of 1972 and full year 1971.

TABLE 1.–PERCENTAGE CHANGES IN WAGES AND BENEFITS, MAJOR COLLECTIVE BARGAINING SETTLEMENTS, FULL YEAR 1971, AND FIRST SIX MONTHS OF 1972

Major settlements	First 6 months 1972		1971
	Number of workers (in 000's)	Average adjustments	Average adjustments
1	2	3	4
Wages and benefits combined[a]
Annual rate of increase over life of contract in–
All industries	616	7.7	8.7
Contracts with escalator clauses	166	6.0	7.8
Contracts without escalator clauses	451	8.3	10.2
Construction[b]	167	7.6[c]	12.1[c]
First-year changes in–
All industries	616	8.6	13.1
Contracts with escalator clauses	166	9.7	14.2
Contracts without escalator clauses	451	8.2	11.3
Construction[c]	167	8.3[c]	13.8[c]
Wage rates alone[b]
Annual rate of increase over life of contract in–
All industries	870	7.1	8.1
Contracts with escalator clauses	205	5.4	7.1
Contracts without escalator clauses	665	7.6	9.2
Manufacturing	289	5.5	7.2
Contracts with escalator clauses	172	5.5	7.3
Contracts without escalator clauses	117	5.6	7.1
Nonmanufacturing	581	7.9	9.0
Contracts with escalator clauses	33	4.9	6.8
Contracts without escalator clauses	548	8.0	10.6
Construction	167	7.5[c]	11.8[c]
All industries excluding construction	703	7.0	7.8
Nonmanufacturing excluding construction	414	8.0	8.6
First-year changes in–
All industries	870	7.5	11.7
Contracts with escalator clauses	205	7.3	12.8
Contracts without escalator clauses	665	7.6	10.4
Manufacturing	289	7.1	10.8
Contracts with escalator clauses	172	7.8	12.2
Contracts without escalator clauses	117	6.1	8.0
Nonmanufacturing	581	7.8	12.7
Contracts with escalator clauses	33	5.0	14.0
Contracts without escalator clauses	548	7.9	11.8
Construction	167	8.0[c]	13.3[c]
All industries excluding construction	703	7.4	11.6
Nonmanufacturing excluding construction	414	7.7	12.6

Source: "Major Collective Bargaining Settlements, First 6 Months 1972," (News Release) U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, July 28, 1972.

[a] Applies to settlements for 5,000 workers or more.

[b] Applies to settlements for 1,000 workers or more.

[c] None of the settlements tabulated contained an escalator clause.

TEACHER STRIKES, WORK STOPPAGES, AND INTERRUPTIONS OF SERVICE, 1971-72

Strike idleness during the 1971-72 school year declined sharply, halting the upward trend that began in 1964-65. Prior to 1964-65 fewer than five teacher strikes were recorded annually.

In 1971-72, 89 strikes, 31.5 percent below the 1970-71 total involving an estimated 33,352 teachers and accounting for 248,080 man-days lost, were recorded. For the first time since 1965-66 no strike was reported to have been called by an independent organization or group of teachers with no organizational affiliation. Strikes, work stoppages, and interruptions of service occurred in 14 states, for durations of 1 to 26 days.

The total number of personnel involved in 1971-72 decreased 62.8 percent from the previous year. Total man-days lost was less than 1/10 of 1 percent of the estimated total man-days of instruction scheduled for the entire country. Four states, Indiana, Michigan, New York, and Pennsylvania, accounted for 77.7 percent of the total man-days lost. The total number of man-days of instruction is calculated by multiplying the estimated total instructional staff in 1972 by the assumed constant of a 180 day instructional year, the minimum number of instruction days mandated by most states.

For this analysis, teacher strikes, work stoppages, and interruptions of service are considered to be any concerted group action which disrupts the regularly scheduled instruction period for at least one school day. Strike data were not adjusted downward in instances when teachers were involved in more than one strike in a school year, and when days lost owing to strikes were rescheduled to meet state minimum attendance requirements. The strike may be initiated in and affect a school building, a local school district, or a state school system. The duration of a strike is measured by the instructional day, that is, weekends, holidays, and other noninstructional days are not included. Instructional days are those days on which classes are scheduled; they do not include teacher working days before the opening or after the closing of school, teacher orientation days, inservice days, or holidays.

An in-depth analysis of teacher strike activity will be released in a forthcoming Research Memo.

TABLE 1.—MAN-DAYS INVOLVED IN TEACHER STRIKES, WORK STOPPAGES, AND INTERRUPTIONS OF SERVICE, 1971-72

State	Estimated total instructional staff[a]	Assumed number of man-days of instruction[b]	Estimated number of man-days lost in teacher strikes[c]	Man-days involved in teacher strikes as a percent of man-days of instruction[d]
1	2	3	4	5
California	205,610	37,009,800	4,767	e
Connecticut	39,358	7,084,440	7,780	0.1
Illinois	122,912	22,124,160	19,957	0.1
Indiana	58,787	10,581,660	39,600	0.4
Massachusetts	59,024	10,624,320	534	e
Michigan	103,470	18,624,600	33,596	0.2
New Jersey	89,163	16,049,340	13,880	0.1
New York	215,600	38,808,000	35,031	0.1
Ohio	114,000	20,520,000	3,744	e
Pennsylvania	121,100	21,798,000	84,523	0.4
Rhode Island	10,423	1,876,140	2,034	0.1
Tennessee	40,104	7,218,720	576	e
Washington	38,830	6,989,400	1,108	e
Wisconsin	52,886	9,519,480	950	e
TOTAL	1,271,267	228,828,060	248,080	0.1
Remaining 36 states and District of Columbia	1,057,018	190,263,240	...	...
UNITED STATES	2,328,285	419,091,300	248,080	e

[a]From: National Education Association, Research Division. Estimates of School Statistics, 1971-72. Research Report 1971-R13. Washington, D.C.: the Association, 1971. p. 31.

[b]Assumes a constant of 180 days of public-school instruction for the year. While the number of instructional days varies from state to state, the majority of states require a minimum of 180.

[c]Based on instructional days of full-time teachers during the regular school year. Teacher report-in days, holidays, weekends and vacation days are excluded. Data on strike estimates are compiled from published and unpublished information collected by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, U.S. Department of Labor, and the NEA Research Division.

[d]Assumes that the man-days lost are not rescheduled.

[e]Less than 1/10 of 1 percent.

TABLE 2.—TEACHER STRIKES, WORK STOPPAGES, AND INTERRUPTIONS OF SERVICE, BY TYPE OF ORGANIZATION, BY MONTH, AND BY STATE, 1971-72 SCHOOL YEAR[a]

Type of organization, month, and state	Number of strikes, work stoppages, and interruptions of service	Estimated number of personnel involved	Estimated number of man-days lost[b]
1	2	3	4
TYPE OF ORGANIZATION
Professional association	76	28,642	184,145
Teacher union	13	4,710	63,935
Independent organization	0	0	0
No organization	0	0	0
Joint union/association	0	0	0
MONTH
August	19	4,851	48,907
September	30	13,810	74,208
October	8	2,054	13,873
November	8	2,705	12,114
December	4	1,185	5,700
January	7	4,739	35,227
February	2	453	453
March	3	218	218
April	3	2,274	42,936
May	5	1,063	14,444
June	0	...	...
STATES
California	1	227	4,767
Connecticut	3	1,985	7,780
Illinois	11	2,878	19,957
Indiana	1	1,800	39,600
Massachusetts	1	534	534
Michigan	9	6,504	33,596
New Jersey	2	1,460	13,880
New York	14	5,892	35,031
Ohio	10	2,226	3,744
Pennsylvania	30	8,705	84,523
Rhode Island	3	474	2,034
Tennessee	1	64	576
Washington	2	508	1,108
Wisconsin	1	95	950
TOTAL	89	33,352	248,080

[a] Data on strike estimates compiled from published and unpublished information collected by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, U.S. Department of Labor, and the NEA Research Division.

[b] Based on instructional days of full-time teachers during regular school year. Teacher report-in days, holidays, weekends and vacation days are excluded.

SPECIAL REPORTS

CONSUMER PRICE INDEX, JULY 1972; 10-YEAR AVERAGES AND 1972 BY MONTH

The U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), announced that the July 1972 Consumer Price Index (CPI) all-items figure rose 0.4 percent from June to 125.5 (1967=100). The increase placed the CPI at 3.0 percent above a year ago. Higher food prices, especially meats, accounted for nearly two-thirds of the rise. Food prices, which comprise food at home and away from home, rose 0.6 percent on a seasonally adjusted basis. Nonfood commodities rose 0.3 percent after seasonable adjustments.

The following tables provide a comparative study of the CPI all-items index for 25 selected SMSA'S or cities from 1962 to 1971 (Table 1), and for the months of August 1971 through July 1972 (Table 2). All figures are computed on the base 1967=100.

TABLE 1.—CONSUMER PRICE INDEX, ALL ITEMS, SELECTED CITIES OR SMSA'S, 1962-1971 (1967=100)

	All items
SMSA/city	1962	1963	1964	1965	1966	1967	1968	1969	1970	1971
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
U.S. city average[a]	90.6[b]	91.7[b]	92.9[c]	94.5	97.2	100.0	104.2	109.8	116.3	121.3
Atlanta, Ga.	90.5	91.4	92.8	94.0	97.0	100.0	104.0	110.2	116.3	121.7
Baltimore, Md.	90.6	92.0	92.9	94.4	97.7	100.0	104.1	110.5	117.0	123.4
Boston, Mass.	89.6	91.4	92.7	94.5	97.7	100.0	104.1	110.0	116.5	122.8
Buffalo, N.Y.	(NA)	(NA)	92.0	94.2	97.4	100.0	104.5	109.6	116.1	121.8
Chicago, Ill.-Northerwestern Ind.	92.1	93.0	93.4	94.7	97.4	100.0	104.3	109.9	116.3	120.8
Cincinnati, Ohio-Ky.	91.3	92.2	93.7	94.4	97.2	100.0	104.8	109.8	115.7	120.7
Cleveland, Ohio	91.7	92.7	93.2	94.7	97.2	100.0	105.9	111.9	119.3	122.8
Dallas, Texas	(NA)	(NA)	92.6	93.8	97.1	100.0	104.5	111.3	117.8	121.3
Detroit, Mich.	88.9	89.8	90.5	92.6	96.7	100.0	104.3	110.6	117.4	121.7
Honolulu, Hawaii	(NA)	92.8	92.9	94.6	97.3	100.0	103.8	108.5	114.2	118.9
Houston, Texas	91.4	92.3	93.7	94.8	97.5	100.0	104.3	111.0	116.8	120.9
Kansas City, Mo.-Kansas	89.4	90.3	92.5	95.5	98.0	100.0	104.0	109.6	115.8	120.5
Los Angeles-Long Beach, Calif.	90.6	92.0	93.7	95.7	97.5	100.0	103.9	108.8	114.3	118.5
Milwaukee, Wis.	92.0	92.9	93.9	95.8	98.0	100.0	103.5	109.5	115.8	120.1
Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn.	91.0	92.3	93.2	94.5	98.8	100.0	104.6	109.9	117.5	121.7
New York, N.Y.-Northeastern N.J.	89.4	91.3	92.8	94.3	97.5	100.0	104.3	110.8	119.0	125.9
Philadelphia, Pa.-N.J.	90.1	91.8	93.2	94.7	97.3	100.0	104.8	110.4	117.8	123.5
Pittsburgh, Pa.	92.1	93.1	94.3	95.8	98.3	100.0	104.7	110.4	116.4	121.5
Portland, Oreg.[d]	88.5	90.2	92.2	94.6	97.5	100.0	103.5	108.6	113.2	116.1
St. Louis, Mo.-Ill.	90.0	90.9	92.6	94.1	97.2	100.0	104.0	109.2	115.2	119.6
San Diego, Calif.	(NA)	(NA)	(NA)	95.2	97.1	100.0	104.1	109.5	115.3	119.9
San Francisco-Oakland, Calif.	90.3	91.5	92.9	94.7	97.1	100.0	104.5	110.2	115.8	120.2
Scranton, Pa.[d]	89.7	90.9	92.6	94.1	97.4	100.0	104.1	109.5	116.3	121.4
Seattle, Wash.	90.6	92.1	93.4	94.5	97.1	100.0	104.1	109.2	114.0	116.4
Washington, D.C.-Md.-Va.	89.8	91.3	92.8	94.1	97.3	100.0	104.7	111.2	117.6	122.7

SOURCES: U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics. Consumer Price Index for Urban Wage Earners and Clerical Workers, All Items—Series A (1967=100). Washington, D.C.: the Bureau, 1971.

U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics. "Current Labor Statistics." Monthly Labor Review 95, 7:94; July 1972.

[a]Based on 46 cities through 1963, 50 urban areas for 1965, and 56 metropolitan areas and nonmetropolitan urban places beginning in January 1966. Excludes Portland, Oreg., and Scranton, Pa. For 1965, excludes Cincinnati, Ohio-Ky.; Houston, Texas; Kansas City, Mo.-Kansas; Milwaukee, Wis.; Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn.; and San Diego, Calif.

[b]Excludes Alaska and Hawaii.

[c]Beginning in 1964, the index structure was revised to reflect the buying patterns of urban wage earners and clerical workers in the 1960's, including single workers living alone as well as families with two or more persons. Indexes for prior years apply only to families of two persons or more.

[d]Old series—i.e., old market basket components.

TABLE 2 –CONSUMER PRICE INDEX, ALL ITEMS, SELECTED CITIES OR SMSA'S, 1971-72 BY MONTH (1967=100)

SMSA/city	All items–1971-72[a]
	August	September	October	November	December	January	February	March	April	May	June	July
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13
U.S. city average[b]	122.1[c]	122.2[c]	122.4[c]	122.6	123.1	123.2	123.8	124.0	124.3	124.7	125.0	125.5
Atlanta, Ga.	...	122.0[c]	...	...	123.5	...	...	132.8	...	...	124.8	...
Baltimore, Md.	...	124.4[c]	...	...	125.1	...	...	124.9	...	...	125.5	...
Boston, Mass.	...	...	124.5[c]	...	...	124.9	...	...	126.2	...	...	127.1
Buffalo, N.Y.	122.8[c]	...	...	123.1	...	...	124.9	...	...	126.1	...	...
Chicago, Ill.-Northwestern, Ind.	121.5[c]	121.7[c]	121.7[c]	121.8	122.3	122.1	123.0	123.2	123.3	123.7	124.2	124.4
Cincinnati, Ohio-Ky.	...	121.4[c]	...	...	121.9	...	...	123.0	...	...	124.6	...
Cleveland, Ohio	123.2[c]	...	...	124.4	...	...	125.9	...	...	126.1	...	...
Dallas, Texas	122.7[c]	...	...	122.4	...	...	123.7	...	...	124.6	...	...
Detroit, Mich.	122.8[c]	122.8[c]	122.8[c]	123.4	123.7	124.2	124.9	125.0	125.0	125.5	126.0	126.7
Honolulu, Hawaii	...	121.2[c]	...	...	121.1	...	...	122.4	...	...	122.2	...
Houston, Texas	...	...	122.4[c]	...	...	123.2	...	...	124.8	...	...	125.2
Kansas City, Mo.-Kansas	...	121.5[c]	...	...	121.4	...	...	122.4	...	...	123.9	...
Los Angeles-Long Beach, Calif.	119.5[c]	120.0[c]	120.3[c]	120.1	120.1	120.2	120.[illegible]	121.2	121.3	121.4	121.7	122.8
Milwaukee, Wis.	121.4[c]	...	...	120.9	...	...	122.2	...	...	122.8	...	...
Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn.	...	...	123.4[c]	...	...	123.8	...	...	124.2	...	...	125.5
New York, N.Y.-Northeastern N.J.	126.9[c]	127.3[c]	127.5[c]	127.6	128.9	128.4	129.5	130.0	130.3	130.5	130.9	131.4
Philadelphia, Pa.-N.J.	123.6[c]	124.6[c]	125.0[c]	124.7	125.0	124.7	125.2	125.8	126.0	126.1	126.5	127.0
Pittsburgh, Pa.	...	...	122.9[c]	...	...	123.2	...	...	124.7	...	...	125.5
Portland, Oreg.	...	...	117.4[c]	...	...	118.1	...	...	118.4	...	...	...
St. Louis, Mo.-Ill.	...	120.5[c]	...	...	120.9	...	...	120.8	...	...	121.9	...
San Diego, Calif.	120.7[c]	...	...	120.9	...	...	122.3	...	...	123.8	...	...
San Francisco-Oakland, Calif.	...	120.9[c]	...	...	121.8	...	...	122.9	...	...	124.3	...
Scranton, Pa.	123.2	...	...	122.6	...	...	123.6	...	...	125.1	...	...
Seattle, Wash.	117.6[c]	...	...	117.6	...	...	119.0	...	...	118.8	...	...
Washington, D.C.-Md.-Va.	123.5[c]	...	...	124.2	...	...	124.7	...	...	125.6	...	...

SOURCES: U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics. Consumer Price Index - July 1972.
U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics. "Current Labor Statistics." Monthly Labor Review 95, 7; 94; July 1972.

[a]Foods, fuels, and several other items are priced every month in all cities. Most other goods and services are priced according to the following schedule:

1. Every month-city average: Chicago, Ill.-Northwestern Ind.; Detroit, Mich.; Los Angeles-Long Beach, Calif.; New York, N.Y.-Northeastern N.J.; and Philadelphia, Pa.-N.J.
2. January, April, July, October: Boston, Mass.; Houston, Texas; Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn.; and Pittsburg, Pa.
3. February, May, August, November: Buffalo, N.Y.; Cleveland, Ohio; Dallas, Texas; Milwaukee, Wis.; San Diego, Calif.; Seattle, Wash.; and Washington, D.C.-Md.-Va.
4. March, June, September, December: Atlanta, Ga.; Baltimore, Md.; Cincinnati, Ohio-Ky.; Honolulu, Hawaii; Kansas City, Mo.-Kansas; St. Louis, Mo.-Ill.; and San Francisco-Oakland, Calif.

[b]Based on 56 metropolitan areas and nonmetropolitan urban places. Excludes Portland, Oreg., and Scranton, Pa.
[c]Reflects retroactive repeal of automobile excise tax.

The following array shows adjusted rates of change in the CPI before and since the Economic Stabilization Program:

	8 months prior to Phase I, December 1970 to August 1971	3 months, Phase I, August 1971 to November 1971	8 months, Phase II, November 1971 to July 1972	11 months, Phases I & II, August 1971 to July 1972
All items	3.8	1.9	3.3	2.9
Food	5.0	1.7	4.4	3.7
Commodities less food	2.9	0	2.6	1.9
Services	4.6	3.1	3.6	3.5

2319

The CPI is designed to measure "average changes in prices of goods and services usually bought by urban wage earners and clerical workers, both families and single persons living alone." Prices of some 400 items representing price movements of all goods and services purchased by wage earners and clerical workers regularly are obtained in urban portions of 39 Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas (SMSA'S) and 17 selected smaller cities.

Price changes used in calculating the CPI are averaged and then weighted according to their importance in spending. In the total index, all SMSA and city data are combined and weighted on the basis of the 1960 populations of SMSA's and the cities they represent. While index numbers were previously computed on the base 1957-59=100, a new base reference point of 1967=100 became effective January 1971. Statistical series expressed as indexes are affected by the change in base, but the rebasing of the CPI does not alter percentage changes between index figures over time, except for rounding differences. The CPI is rounded to one decimal point.

THE GROWTH OF CLASSROOM TEACHER COLLECTIVE BARGAINING: 1966-1971

The number of classroom teacher collective bargaining agreements on file with the NEA has more than quadrupled during the past five years. The first NEA teacher collective bargaining survey in 1966-67 recorded 389 agreements. As of the 1970-71 school year, the number of classroom teacher agreements recorded totaled 1,823—a 368.6 percent increase over five years. Further, the prevalence of teacher negotiation agreements may be greater than shown herein as only those agreements supplied by school systems with an enrollment of 1,000 or more pupils are reflected in these statistics. The collective bargaining activities of other, separate units of professional school employees are not recorded in this survey.

Once a school system files a comprehensive agreement with the NEA depository, the continuity of collective bargaining is assumed and the school system is thereafter automatically incorporated into the NEA negotiation agreement data base. The figures reported herein are therefore cumulative and may differ from those reported in previous analyses.

The number of school systems engaged in collective bargaining with classroom teacher units, regardless of representation, has steadily increased since the 1966-67 school year. (See Table 1.) Note, however, that the number of school systems negotiating with NEA bargaining units has increased at a greater rate than the number bargaining with AFT or other units. NEA collective bargaining agreements increased 167.0 percent from 1966-67 to 1968-69, and 82.5 percent from 1968-69 to 1970-71. For these periods the number of school systems negotiating with AFT units increased by 121.6 and 25.6 percent respectively.

When the first teacher collective bargaining survey was conducted in 1966-67, eight states had legislated mandatory professional negotiation (PN) statutes affecting teachers. Nine more states passed similar statutes prior to the 1968-69 survey. From 1966-67 to 1968-69 the number of recorded teacher collective bargaining agreements almost tripled. The increase in number of negotiated agreements may be attributed in part to the passage of PN statutes and to an evergrowing awareness of and trend toward collective bargaining for teachers as a means of attaining both educational and economic goals.

The increase in number of agreements between 1968-69 and 1970-71, while not as dramatic a gain as between 1966-67 and 1968-69, showed a 77.5 percent increase. Passage of eight statutes during 1970 and 1971 brought the total number of state laws mandating teacher negotiation, as of 1970-71, to 25. As yet the full impact of these statutes has not been felt.

TABLE 1.—CLASSROOM TEACHER COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENTS, 1966-67, 1968-69, AND 1970-71

AFFILIATION	SURVEY YEAR 1966-67	1968-69	1970-71	PERCENT INCREASE 1966-67 to 1970-71
1	2	3	4	5
	Number of School Systems
NEA	351	937	1,710	387.2
AFT	37	82	103	178.4
Other[a]	1	8	10	900.0
Total	389	1,027	1,823	368.6
	Number of Classroom Teachers
NEA	88,123	273,497	539,949	512.7
AFT	120,164	173,570	192,000	59.8
Other[a]	146	1,075	1,075	636.3
Total	208,433	448,142	733,024	251.1

[a] Independent representation or joint NEA-AFT representation.

While the number of school systems represented by NEA affiliates—9 out of 10—has remained constant for the survey years, the number of NEA-represented teachers has increased from 4 out of 10 teachers in 1966-67 to 7 out of 10 teachers in 1970-71. The number of school systems with AFT agreements has been less than 1 out of 10 for the three survey years; however, the number of teachers represented has declined from 5 out of 10 in 1966-67 to slightly over 2.5 out of 10 in 1970-71.

Nationwide distribution of collective bargaining agreements and the number of teachers represented by these agreements is shown in Table 2.

TABLE 2.–NATIONWIDE DISTRIBUTION OF TEACHER COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENTS: 1966-67, 1968-69, AND 1970-71

State	Number of school systems			Number of classroom teachers
	1966-67	1968-69	1970-71	1966-67	1968-69	1970-71
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Alaska (1970)[a]	...	...	2	...	...	1,750
Arizona	...	2	7	...	2,352	5,499
Arkansas	...	1	1	...	1,129	1,129
California (1965)	...	1	13	...	4,692	11,447
Colorado	1	4	11	724	9,575	12,554
Connecticut (1965)	42	71	88	15,964	26,344	29,655
Delaware (1969)	...	...	12	...	...	4,100
District of Columbia	...	1	1	...	8,000	8,000
Florida	...	...	2	...	...	4,240
Hawaii (1970)	...	...	...	...	...	...
Idaho (1971)	...	...	2	...	...	334
Illinois	10	33	92	22,764	35,566	48,917
Indiana	...	8	20	...	5,765	15,179
Kansas (1970)	...	1	1	...	3,358	3,358
Maine (1969)	...	...	40	...	...	45,580
Maryland (1968)	...	2	21	...	3,160	43,128
Massachusetts (1965)	55	135	167	15,677	39,527	47,717
Michigan (1965)	237	332	354	63,072	81,406	83,938
Minnesota (1967)	1	1	1	146	146	146
Missouri	...	1	1	...	850	850
Montana (1971)	...	2	2	...	568	568
Nebraska	...	1	6	...	72	4,657
Nevada (1969)	...	...	2	...	...	4,150
New Hampshire	...	...	6	...	...	1,436
New Jersey (1968)	1	6	228	3,650	6,357	51,193
New Mexico	...	...	1	...	...	2,400
New York (1967)	8	319	435	62,314	148,403	172,068
North Dakota (1967)	...	...	3	...	...	653
Ohio	1	13	63	271	15,821	34,098
Oklahoma (1971)	...	...	1	...	...	2,830
Oregon (1965)	...	...	3	...	...	4,837
Pennsylvania (1970)	1	5	33	11,000	14,477	22,374
Rhode Island (1966)	9	22	24	2,460	7,794	8,098
South Dakota (1969)	...	...	2	...	...	986
Texas	...	...	1	...	...	766
Utah	...	4	7	...	4,007	4,982
Vermont (1969)	...	...	3	...	...	749
Virginia	...	2	2	...	2,396	2,396
Washington (1965)	1	3	22	380	665	13,667
Wisconsin (1959)	22	56	141	10,011	19,062	31,213
Wyoming	...	1	2	...	650	1,382
UNITED STATES	389	1,027	1,823	208,433	448,142	733,024

[a] Date of passage of mandatory PN statute.

BRIEFS OF RECENT AGREEMENTS

Lakewood, Colorado

Between the Jefferson County School District No. R-1, Board of Education and Jefferson County Education Association, effective January 1, 1972, to August 31, 1973. Approximately 2,800 certificated professional employees, including counselors, speech therapists, psychologists, resource teachers, social workers, and all other certified nonadministrative personnel. Provision for negotiation of the application of additional funds received as a result of an adjustment of the Foundation Act.

COMPENSATION: (1972-73, nontenured) B.A., $7,300 to $9,052, 6 increments; B.A. plus 20 hours, $9,709 maximum; M.A., $8,030 to $10,585, 7 increments; M.A. plus 45 hours, $12,337 maximum, Ph.D., $500 additional; (1972-73, tenured teacher schedule starts with third step) B.A., $8,614 to $9,490, 3 increments; B.A. plus 20 hours, $11,497 maximum; M.A., $10,001 to $13,578, 10 increments; M.A. plus 45 hours, $15,987; Ph.D., $500 additional.

LONGEVITY: step 15, B.A., $9,928; B.A. plus 20 hours, $11,862; M.A., $14,600; M.A. plus 45, $16,498.

DIFFERENTIALS: (five steps: first and last steps, respectively) high school head coaches for football, basketball, track, baseball, and wrestling, and band director, $700 to $900; high school assistant football, basketball, track, baseball, and wrestling coaches, assistant band director, dramatics director, forensics director, Pep Club Sponsor, $550 to $750; high school head coaches for golf, tennis, cross country and swimming, year book sponsor (if assigned after school), director of intramurals, high school choral director, junior high Pep Club Sponsor, $400 to $600.

OTHER: summer school teachers, $6.00 per hour; part-time teachers earn in proportion to assignment, ½ yearly increment, and receive full insurance benefits if they work more than ½ of instructional day, accrue and receive leave on prorated basis; counselors, same salary as teachers; school nurses and vocational teachers, up to five years' credit on salary schedule for prior experience; school psychologists and social workers, 1.055 of placement on regular schedule (189-day work year); clinical psychologists, 1.06 of placement on regular schedule (189-day work year); distributive education and office occupations coordinators, days of extra service prorated, $300 per year for credentialing; outdoor education remuneration, $20.00 per night if not regularly assigned to program; 10 cents per mile for use of own car for interschool travel.

LEAVES: Nine days for personal leave or family illness credited first day of school, unlimited accumulation; extended sick leave contingent upon joint committee review and assistant superintendent's approval, 120 days maximum; summer school, one hour sick leave for each 20 hours' service; 2 days' personal leave; up to 5 days' bereavement leave deducted from either sick or personal leave; up to 90 days for military reserve duty less military pay; leave as necessary for jury duty (less court pay) or court subpoena; sabbatical leave given at one-half salary for one year or one-fourth salary for one semester after 6 years' service for study or travel; after 15 years' service sabbatical leave for study, travel, rest, or recuperation; joint committee to review sabbatical applications.

INSURANCE: Board-paid hospitalization and major medical insurance; board-paid life insurance and accidental death coverage.

ASSOCIATION: Local, state, and national association payroll dues deduction; one-half day released time for association president, association to reimburse the district; released time for grievance hearings or negotiation or Task Force meetings scheduled during the school day; use of school mail services, equipment, and facilities; association to receive copies of school board agendas and minutes; right to wear association insignia or pins.

INSTRUCTION: Class size goal, 27 for K-3, if class size is in excess of 30 pupils an investigation may be initiated; board to make every effort to acquire teacher aides and part-time clerical assistance; one library-media specialist per junior or senior school per session; effort to be made to increase the number of school psychologists, educational specialists, speech correctionists, school nurses, and social workers; 180 pupil contact days, 184 teacher contract days; non teaching, nonadministrative, certified personnel may be required to work up to 10 days before opening and after closing of school year and will be compensated on a prorated basis; provision for teachers' reference library:

Differentiated Staffing

Programs of Differentiated Staffing should contain the following elements:

A differentiated staff structured for the primary purpose of enhancing the educational experience of the child.

Thorough involvement in the development, implementation, and evaluation of the program by the local school staff.

Aproval of the program by two-thirds of certificated school staff prior to implementation.

Direct involvement of the local school community in planning and implementation.

Provision negotiated by the District and the Association for differentiated salaries that would place all teachers at or above their step and level on the negotiated salary schedule.

Selection of personnel for differentiated staff positions shall be made by the staff affected by such personnel.

Classroom teacher personnel assuming differentiated staff positions will not be classified as administrative personnel, with the exception of those persons holding positions comparable to "principal" or "assistant principal."

Each teacher engaged in a differentiated staffing program shall spend a substantial portion of his time engaged in classroom teaching.

Innovative teaching programs encouraged; teachers to participate in the selection of equipment; teachers employed in the district have priority for summer school positions; student discipline procedures established:

Academic Freedom

The parties seek to educate young people in the democratic tradition, to foster a recognition of individual freedom and social responsibility, to inspire meaningful awareness of and respect for the Constitution and the Bill of Rights, and to instill appreciation of the values of individual personality. It is recognized that these democratic values can best be transmitted in an atmosphere which is free from censorship and artificial restraints upon free inquiry and learning, and in which academic freedom for teacher and student is encouraged.

Freedom of individual conscience, association and expression will be encouraged and fairness in procedures will be observed both to safeguard the legitimate interests of the schools and to exhibit by appropriate examples the basic objectives of a democratic society.

If and when activities or presentations are questioned, the procedure under Article 13 governing questioned or challenged materials will be followed.

Questioned and Challenged Materials

Discussion with school principal.

The school principal will hold a conference with the complainant.

At the discretion of the principal, the school librarian or the teacher using the material at the time of the challenge will be brought into the conference.

If the complainant is dissatisfied with the results of the conference, the principal will inform the complainant of the following procedures, and will provide him with the special application form "Citizen's Request for Reconsideration of Instructional Materials," to be acted upon by the reviewing subcommittee of the Curriculum Council.

The principal will forward the application to the chairman of the reviewing subcommittee of the Curriculum Council, together with a written report of the conference he held with the complainant.

Copies of the report will also be sent to the Assistant Superintendent for Instruction, and teacher or librarian involved.

One copy of the report will be kept in the school file.

The principal will provide the chairman of the reviewing subcommittee with a copy or copies of the material in question.

The questioned subject or material will be reviewed by a subcommittee of the Curriculum Council only after a signed application, "Citizen's Request for Reconsideration of Instructional Materials," has been received from the complainant.

The subcommittee will include representatives from: the administrative staff, the principals, the materials center staff, the teaching staff, and the lay membership.

The principal from the school in which the materials were challenged will serve on the committee during the discussion of the related problem.

If an instructor is involved, he will be given the opportunity to render a professional opinion on the appropriateness of the questioned material.

A written recommendation of the reviewing subcommittee will be forwarded to the Superintendent for consideration.

Copies of the recommendation of the Superintendent will be forwarded to all interested personnel.

If the complainant is not satisfied with the recommendation of the Superintendent, he has the privilege to go before the Board of Education in accordance with District procedures.

If the same material is challenged at a future date, the principal and the chairman of the reviewing subcommittee will examine the previous decision in the light of additional points of view. If they find any significant difference in the new challenge, the committee may again review the material; otherwise, the original decision will stand and a copy will be sent to the complainant explaining that the material has been previously evaluated.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with advisory arbitration; right to review and copy material in personnel file and to be notified of and reply to any derogatory material placed therein; maximum of 40 hours per week of teaching and school-related duties in consecutive time blocks including duty-free lunch periods (of at least 30 minutes) and preparation periods (5 of at least 30 minutes each week), totaling at least 225 minutes per week; promotions to be posted for 10 days; when applicants are equally qualified, preference given to teachers employed in the district; vacancies to be posted by April 1, voluntary transfer or reassignment criteria, preference given for years of service; involuntary transfers prohibited if qualified volunteer is available; department chairmen and group leaders are selected after consultation with the staff members, are not required to evaluate teachers or to perform administrative duties, and have released time commensurate with responsibilities; supervision of student teacher is voluntary and compensation is "the total amount of money received from the sponsoring college or university;" Task Force committee composed of an equal number of administrators and teachers and interested community members, established to investigate and solve educational problems; Liaison Committee to review local school problems; any assault on a teacher must be promptly reported; released time as necessary for teacher involved in job-related assault or suit; board to provide legal counsel and all necessary assistance for teacher sued as a result of any action within the scope of his employment:

Teacher Evaluation

Both parties recognize that the basic purpose of evaluation is to improve professional competency.

All monitoring or observation of the work performance of a teacher will be conducted openly and with full knowledge of the teacher. The use of eavesdropping, public address or audio systems, and similar devices will be strictly prohibited.

The teacher shall be evaluated with regard to his professional competency as a teacher employed by the R-1 school district.

The evaluation must include first-hand observation by the evaluator in the classroom with the evaluator spending sufficient time in the classroom to justify the conclusions and observations contained in the evaluation.

Any areas of weakness or unsatisfactory performance shall be mentioned in specific detail in the evaluation (although positive qualities should of course also be noted), and specific written suggestions and a planned program for improvement will be submitted to the teacher involved.

Lack of participation by a teacher in extracurricular (outside the assigned workday as per the Agreement) activities is no basis for an unsatisfactory evaluation of that teacher.

If the evaluator considers the alleged deficiencies of a teacher to be such as to justify his dismissal, the teacher should be specifically advised of such alleged deficiencies, and that his failure to correct them will result in a recommendation for his dismissal.

If a recommendation for teacher dismissal is made by the evaluator, written notification shall be received by the teacher prior to the meeting of the Board at which action is to be taken.

Non-tenure teachers shall be observed not later than October 30th. After this and each succeeding observation, the principal will confer with the teacher and offer any suggestions for improvement.

Each teacher will be given a copy of his evaluation reports prepared by his evaluators at least one (1) day before the conference to discuss it. No such report shall be submitted to central administration, placed in the teacher's files, or otherwise acted upon without a prior conference with the teacher. Such report shall be signed by both parties to indicate only that the report has been reviewed.

A teacher who is not recommended for re-employment shall be given the reasons in writing, if requested by the teacher.

Teachers will have the right to review the contents of their personnel files and make copies of any documents contained therein.

No material derogatory to a teacher's conduct, service, character or personality will be placed in his file unless the teacher has had an opportunity to review the material. The teacher will acknowledge that he has had the opportunity to review such material by affixing his signature to the copy to be filed, with the express understanding that such signature in no way indicated agreement with the contents thereof. The teacher will also have the right to submit a written answer to such material and his answer shall be reviewed by the Assistant Superintendent for Personnel or his designee, and attached to the file copy.

The Board and the Association shall jointly develop forms for evaluation of teacher personnel.

The teacher and principal will work together to improve established areas of teaching deficiency.

In case of parental complaints about a teacher, every effort will be made to resolve the complaint with the involvement of the teacher, parent and principal. The specifics of the complaint, including the name of complainant, will be given to the teacher upon request.

If no resolution of the matter is reached between the principal, teacher and parent, then the provisions of Article 12, Academic Freedom, and Article 13, Questioned and Challenged Materials, apply to instances of parent complaints concerning the teaching of questioned and challenged subject matter and questioned and challenged teaching techniques.

Louisville, Kentucky

Between the Louisville Board of Education and the Louisville Education Association, effective September 23, 1971, to December 31, 1973. Approximately 2,268 certificated professional employees. Agreement renewed annually unless either party gives written notice not later than July 1, 1973, or any anniversary thereof to renegotiate agreement at end of calendar year with the exception of the school calendar and salary schedule and economic benefits for 1972-73 and 1973-74.

COMPENSATION: B.A., $6,460 to $10,330, 15 increments; M.A., $6,980 to $10,850, 15 increments; M.A. plus 30 hours, $11,370 maximum; salary schedule placement credit allowed for 10 years prior teaching experience in school districts other than Louisville.

LEAVES: Ten days' sick leave credited at start of school year, unlimited maximum accumulation, physician's certificate required; leave for legal proceedings connected with teacher's employment granted as professional leave; extended sick leave recommended by the superintendent and approved by the board of education after regular sick leave has been exhausted, pay is difference between teacher's regular salary and salary of first-year teacher and shall not extend for more than one year; leave for legal proceedings connected with teacher's employment granted as professional leave; jury leave pay is the difference between regular earnings and the amount paid for jury service; maternity leave granted for adoption; up to two years for exchange teaching, professional study or travel and military leave for term of enlistment or induction; five years granted for political leave.

INSURANCE: Workmen's compensation insurance; tax-sheltered annuity plan.

ASSOCIATION: Dues deduction for association; right to use school equipment and buildings for association business with payment of any incidental costs; right to post notices on the school bulletin boards; association representative given time at faculty meetings for announcements; right to use district mail service; right to transact association business on school property at reasonable times; right to participate in orientation of new teachers; 200 days' paid leave to association representatives, upon prior notification, for attendance at regional, state, or national meetings, allocation to be determined by association; two years unpaid leave for association members to serve as officer of association or on its staff.

INSTRUCTION: Professional staff has right and responsibility to establish curriculum, subject to approval of the board and the state department of education:

Materials Re-evaluation Procedure

Citizens of the community have the right to expect that any issue is presented fairly and to register protest if convinced that a subject is being presented unfairly or in a biased or prejudicial manner. In the event such objections are raised, the Board and the Association agree that:

Individuals involved will be provided an opportunity to discuss the matter fully at the local school level.

Individuals, organizations, or groups who challenge or criticize instructional materials shall be asked to complete the form "Citizen's Request for Reevaluation of Material."

After completing the above mentioned form, a school committee composed of the teacher, the principal, the appropriate supervisor or librarian, and a representative of the Association shall review with the complainant the written criticisms and attempt to reach a decision on the complaint.

If a decision is not reached which is satisfactory to the complainant, the principal shall request that the Chairman of Instructional Programs convene a committee to review and make a final decision concerning the disposition of the complaint. Such committee shall be composed of three persons named by the Chairman of Instructional Programs and three persons named by the Association. No member of this committee shall have been a member of the local school committee. The recommendations of the committee shall be reported to all parties concerned.

Hours of Duty

Teachers shall report for duty fifteen minutes prior to the official student reporting time (elementary—8:30; junior and senior high—8:20) and shall remain in the building fifteen minutes after the regular student dismissal time. They may leave promptly after the close of school to attend professional meetings, or for other school purposes.

The principal may excuse a teacher to leave school for any good reason. Teachers shall not be required to sign check sheets denoting time of arrival and departure.

Teachers performing special services, such as visiting teachers and itinerant teachers are responsible to the principal of the building(s) to which they are assigned and shall observe rules and regulations which are applicable to the regular teachers of that school. Teachers assigned to programs not housed in buildings where there is a principal shall be responsible to the appropriate program director.

Insofar as is possible routine matters shall be handled in such a way (written communications, announcements, etc.) as to permit optimum use of faculty conference time for discussion, planning, and evaluation of the school's program. Unless requested by the faculty or necessitated by emergency conditions, required attendance at after school meetings should not exceed more than 5 hours per month.

To encourage wise utilization of time and maximum staff participation, an agenda should be distributed at least one day in advance of regularly scheduled meetings. All faculty members should have the opportunity to submit items for inclusion.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with advisory arbitration, final disposition with board; teachers have access to personnel files and may review and comment on derogatory material therein; written yearly evaluations made by principal for purpose of retention, retention on probation, or release from school; principal to make a comprehensive report on teachers completing first, fourth, eighth, and twelfth year of teaching; principal responsible for orienting teachers to procedures and instruments of evaluations, advising teachers who will observe them, and providing constructive assistance to rectify professional difficulties; vacancies posted by April 30; voluntary transfers to be requested by May 15, teacher requesting transfer will not be sent to a school other than the one requested; teachers involuntarily transferred will be given reasons for action by superintendent; if a dispute results, it may be resolved through the grievance procedure; promotion to administrative, supervisory, or counseling positions made upon meeting qualifications and certification, vacancies will be posted or announced prior to appointment; promotion opportunities arising during summer will be announced in daily newspapers; joint committee members will receive released time to attend all meetings, principal responsible for covering teacher's classes; board shall provide legal counsel to teachers in any legal action taken in connection with the discharge of duties.

Cranston, Rhode Island

Between the Cranston School Committee and the Cranston Teachers Association, effective September 1, 1971, to August 31, 1973. Approximately 728 certificated professional employees. Reopener upon notification between February 1 and 15. Not later than January 15 of the calendar year in which the agreement expires, negotiation over a successor agreement to commence.

COMPENSATION: (1971-72) B.A., $7,250 to $11,550, 9 increments; B.A. + 30 hours, $11,700 maximum; M.A., $7,900 to $12,200, 9 increments; M.A. + 30 hours, $12,350 maximum; approved CAGS, $12,700 maximum. Longevity increments, $300 for 25 years' service in district or $300 for 35 years in teaching. (1972-73 salary schedule unavailable.)

DIFFERENTIALS: (6 steps) Special classroom teachers for handicapped, $540 to $719; reading, speech and hearing, gifted, ungraded, home instruction, testing, and school social worker, $486 to $648; band directors and dramatic coaches, $528 to $715; head coach senior high football, $1,073 to $1,430; head coaches of baseball, basketball, and hockey, faculty manager, assistant coaches of football, indoor track, outdoor track, swimming, tennis, wrestling, and soccer, $906 to $1,208; junior varsity football, $590 to $788; cross country, golf, junior varsity coaches of baseball, basketball, junior varsity assistant football, assistant hockey, outdoor track, wrestling, junior high school baseball, basketball, swimming, $536 to $709; department heads, $300 for 0-25 classes to $1,300 for 300 or more classes per week; debate coach, $200; compensatory time for student council advisers, 3 periods per week; newspaper adviser, 4; memory book advisor, 1; 10 to 12th-grade advisors, 5; 9th-grade adviser, 2.

LEAVES: Short-term leave for illness up to 10 days, defined as 5 or fewer consecutive working days, first-year teachers must work 30 days to be eligible; sick leave accumulated prior to 1966-67 may be used for short-term illness until depleted; paid leave up to 15 weeks for long-term illness defined as 6 or more consecutive working days; benefits start on first day of illness subject to hospitalization and retroactive to first-day if illness extends 3 full weeks, any unused short-term sick leave may be used for days not otherwise covered; long-term illness requires medical certification; workman's compensation; 2 days (upon notification) for personal business; up to 3 days for illness in the family; up to 5 days for bereavement leave in immediate family, one day for funeral of other relatives; 2 days religious holidays; leave for jury duty or school-related court appearances as needed less court fees; 10 days' paid leave for military duty less compensation, extensions beyond 10 days may be granted without pay; sabbatical leave at half-pay after 6 years' service.

INSURANCE: Board-paid hospitalization, and major medical, or equivalent benefits, family coverage upon request; liability insurance up to $200,000 per teacher; tax-sheltered annuity plan.

ASSOCIATION: Dues deduction for local, state, and national associations; optional, one year unpaid leave for association president, nonrenewable; building representatives permitted one hour of noninstructional time weekly for association business; use of school facilities when manned by custodial staff provided such use does not interfere with the instructional program; use of bulletin board in teachers' room for association notices; association consulted prior to new construction of teacher facilities.

INSTRUCTION: As funds are available, priority to reduction of class size to 30 pupils; elementary teachers' day, 6 hours 40 minutes and all others, 6 hours 50 minutes; curriculum development committee for each subject area shall be formed to represent the teachers in the process of educational change, and to make recommendations and formulate proposals for curriculum improvement, with development based on discussions, investigations, and evaluations of present curriculum, teaching materials, teaching methods, and procedures; storage space for instructional material and supplies provided.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with binding arbitration; personnel file is available to teacher, and any material placed in file must be signed by teacher with right to rebut any derogatory material therein; duty-free lunch period of same length as students; elementary teachers have two afternoons per month for curriculum development and preparation; secondary teachers have one unassigned period, five class periods, and one administration period per day; teachers may review any evaluation and discuss it with their evaluators; teachers may be required to devote up to 20 unassigned periods to student supervisory periods; teachers may leave the building during unassigned periods upon notifying principal; vacancies posted no later than March 1, supplemented on May 1; supervisor to give association list of persons transferred or reassigned one week prior to school closing; notice of involuntary transfers given at least 30 days prior to reassignment; teachers serving and involuntarily transferred given preference for voluntary assignments and transfers:

Protection

A teacher who has suffered an assault shall submit a complete report in writing immediately or within a reasonable time when the teacher is unable to submit an immediate report after any assault suffered by teachers acting in the discharge of their duties within the scope of their employment and/or under the direction of the Committee. Such report will be submitted to the Superintendent through the principal or appropriate director and will include the time, place, personnel involved, witnesses, and other relevant information.

When a teacher has been assaulted, the Committee will comply with any reasonable request from the teacher for information in its possession relating to the incident or the persons involved.

If criminal or civil proceedings are brought against a teacher alleging that he committed an assault in connection with his employment, the Committee will furnish legal counsel to defend the teacher in such proceedings.

In order for a teacher to invoke the foregoing, the original or a copy of any summons, complaint, process, notice, demand, or pleading served upon such teacher must be delivered within 10 days after such service, to the Superintendent.

It is understood and agreed that the Committee is not required to provide an attorney to a teacher in civil or criminal actions initiated by a teacher.

Teachers shall receive prompt notification of pupils in their classes who have severe physical and/or emotional problems within the knowledge of the administration.

Appropriate physical restraint may be used by a teacher in extraordinary circumstances to protect himself, another teacher and/or a student from possible injury.

Pennsylvania State Colleges

[Bloomsburg • California • Cheyney • Clarion • East Stroudsburg • Edinboro • Indiana University • Kutztown • Lock Haven • Mansfield • Millersville • Shippensburg • Slippery Rock • West Chester]

Between the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the Association of Pennsylvania State College and University Faculties/Pennsylvania Association for Higher Education, effective November 2, 1971, to August 31, 1974. Approximately 4,500 certificated professional employees. Automatic annual renewal unless notification by either party to terminate, modify, or amend the agreement is given 60 days prior to expiration of the current term of the agreement.

COMPENSATION: (1972-73) Instructor, $8,400 to $11,800; 6 increments; assistant professor, $10,200 to $14,360; 6 increments; associate professor, $12,400 to $17,460; 6 increments; professor, $15,080 to $21,240; 6 increments; 5% increment at last step in September and January; (1973-74) instructor, $9,260 to $13,020, 6 increments; assistant professor, $11,240 to $15,820, 6 increments; associate professor, $13,360 to $19,260, 6 increments; professor, $16,620 to $23,420, 6 increments; 5% increment at last step in September.

OVERLOADS: Teaching faculty members: 1/30 of academic year's salary for each semester credit hour in excess of 14 per term, or in excess of 24 in any year; supervisors of student teachers receive 1/45 of academic year's salary for each student teacher assigned to him in excess of 45.

OTHER: Workload reduction to be granted for coaching intercollegiate sports (expressed in percentages of full-time teaching load.); president or his designee has the right to vary all or any of the percentages as much as 20% up or down; workload reduction for band leader (if an extracurricular activity), 20% flat allowance; 5% per contract hour for average weekly assignment); director of forensics, (15% flat allowance or 2.5% per hour per week); department chairmen, 1 - 9 members, 25% reduction; 10 or more members, 50% workload reduction; president may upon consultation with teacher and APSCUF/PAHE assign work on overload basis otherwise teacher has option of reduction alternatives; salaries for part-time faculty members are 1/24 of a full-time academic year's salary for each semester credit hour taught.

LEAVES: Fifteen days annual sick leave, unlimited accumulation; no sick leave is granted for accidental injury received while performing remunerative work unrelated to college duties; additional sick leave may be granted by administrative action; five days for death in the immediate family; three days for death in the nonimmediate family; subject to the approval of the president or his designee, faculty members shall be granted leave to attend professional conferences, participate in training courses and sessions related to college, and other job-related activities; travel expenses may be granted; leave with pay for jury duty or court appearance if written evidence of such obligation is presented; leave with pay for military reserve obligation not to exceed 15 days; Pennsylvania National Guard members will be granted leave with pay on all days on which they are engaged in active service of the Commonwealth or in field training; sabbatical leave at full pay for 18 weeks or half pay for 36 weeks after seven years' service for restoration of health, study, travel, or other appropriate purposes; rejection of sabbatical leave request is grievable if procedural violation exists; association may grieve for any pattern changes in granting of sabbatical leave; educational leaves with reduced pay to pursue full-time graduate study which is related to teachers' present or future job assignments; miscellaneous leaves without pay at sole discretion of president for a period not to exceed two years.

INSURANCE: College-paid hospitalization and major medical including dependents; college-paid life insurance.

ASSOCIATION: Bi-weekly dues deduction; representatives of APSCUF/PAHE shall be permitted to transact official business on college property at reasonable times; access to college facilities and equipment at reasonable times after giving notice; unpaid leaves for APSCUF/PAHE service, up to three years for elected or appointed officials, with written request 60 days prior to beginning of term; regular monthly meeting between president and APSCUF/PAHE representatives to discuss matters of educational policy and development and matters relating to implementation of the agreement; representative of association shall be given a place on the agenda at formal college-wide orientation meetings for faculty association's designated campus representative at each college and up to two representatives from all the colleges shall be granted priority in the selection of times for their teaching schedules and other professional responsibilities in order to facilitate implementation of agreement; Commonwealth/college shall make available to the association all information, records, statistics, and financial data relevant to the bargaining unit; colleges shall advise association of vacant professional staff positions; Commonwealth/college shall inform association two weeks in advance of open meetings of college's board of trustees, the Board of State College and University Directors, the Council of Higher Education, and the State Board of Education and shall provide APSCUF/PAHE with agenda for such meetings if available; association, as bargaining agent, has right to request placement on said agenda.

INSTRUCTION: Graduate academic term, three graduate courses up to a maximum of nine semester credit hours, or two graduate courses and two undergraduate courses up to a maximum of 12 semester credit hours; a minimum of five office hours per week and no fewer than three different days at such times to accommodate students' needs.
dents' needs.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with binding arbitration; college maintains confidential personnel file with no anonymous material; faculty member has right to receive copies of materials contained in files, can add but not remove materials, and must be accompanied by person in authority while reviewing file; association has access to file upon written permission of faculty member; college also maintains confidential pre-employment file containing letters of reference and recommendations to which faculty member has no right of access; promotions are based on minimum qualifications set by law, as well as effective teaching, fulfillment of professional responsibilities, mastery of subject matter, contribution to the college and continuing scholarly growth; qualified faculty member presents written evidence of qualifications to department chairmen who submits application to college-wide committee for decision, (committee elected by and from the faculty), applicant may request to appear before the committee; faculty members have right to grieve promotion decisions, as does the association; evaluation committee size, manner of selection, rules, procedures, and manner in which faculty members will be informed of observation to be determined by faculty; outside consultants may be used in the evaluation process; curriculum committee determined by the faculty with one additional administrator designated by the president; joint retirement committee to study commonwealth's plan, and support legislation enabling faculty members to join TIAA-CREF retirement plan; tenure committee; department chairmen selected by president and committee of department members; individual shall be elected by a majority of department members; new faculty members are recommended by the department faculty in accordance with developed procedures and upon approval of president; if additional college branches are established, professional staff will be covered by the agreement; each faculty member will be provided with suitable office space and facilities to be maintained by the Commonwealth/college.

The Procedure For Granting Tenure

A department committee which shall include tenured faculty members, if available, shall recommend to the college-wide tenure committee, elected by and from the faculty, the names of those eligible members of the department whom they consider to be qualified for tenure; provided, however, that the department chairman shall make an independent recommendation to that committee regarding those other than himself who may have been recommended by the department committee. The recommendation of the department committee and of the department chairman shall be completed no later than March 1 (November 1 for faculty members with January anniversary dates), and by that date the department chairman shall notify in writing the eligible faculty members who have not been recommended for tenure and he shall send a copy of the notice to the President.

In no case shall a faculty member take part in the consideration of tenure for himself.

The college-wide tenure committee shall review all tenure recommendations received from the departments and shall, by April 1 (December 1 for faculty members with January anniversary dates), submit its recommendations (positive and negative) to the President or his designee.

The President shall grant tenure effective as of the beginning of the next academic term to those eligible faculty members who shall have been favorably recommended therefor and whom he approves.

The President shall make his decision by May 31 (December 31 for faculty members with January anniversary dates), and in the event he does not grant tenure to a faculty member who has been so recommended by the college-wide tenure committee, the reasons therefor shall be given to such committee and the affected faculty member(s), if requested.

No faculty member shall be denied tenure solely because the aforesaid procedures were not followed. The President shall have the right to act independently if the committee(s) fail to act within the time limits specified.

A tenured faculty member may be terminated or otherwise disciplined only for just cause. In the event the President believes such just cause exists, he shall give written notice, specifying the reasons, to the affected faculty member and APSCUF/PAHE, and that faculty member shall have the right to due process by means of and in compliance with all provisions of the procedure provided for in Article V, hereof, GRIEVANCE PROCEDURE AND ARBITRATION; provided, however, that this procedure may commence at Step 3 or below, within thirty (30) college calendar days of receipt of the written notice.

A non-tenured faculty member may be terminated or otherwise disciplined prior to the expiration of his term appointment only for just cause. In the event the President believes such just cause exists, he shall give written notice to the affected faculty member and APSCUF/PAHE, specifying the reasons, and that faculty member shall have the right to due process by means of and in compliance with all provisions of the procedure provided for in said Article V; provided, however, that this procedure may commence at Step 3 or below, within thirty (30) college calendar days of the receipt of the written notice.

Until the final decision on termination of a tenured faculty member has been reached, that faculty member may be suspended (with pay) only if, in the opinion of the President, immediate harm to the faculty member or others is threatened by his remaining at the college. Anything herein to the contrary notwithstanding, if a final decision sustaining the termination is reached, the college shall have the right to terminate the faculty member forthwith. He shall, nevertheless, be paid to the end of the then current academic year, if such final decision is reached in the fall term; he shall be paid to the end of the following fall term, if such final decision is reached in the spring term. In no event shall he be paid for a period less than that required by Article XIV, hereof, RENEWALS AND NON-RENEWALS. Anything herein to the contrary notwithstanding, in the event the termination is for proven moral turpitude, all pay shall cease as of the date of the final decision.

A faculty member's tenure automatically shall terminate when he reaches age sixty-five (65) and, thereafter, he shall be deemed to hold a year-to-year contract, in accordance with the provisions of Article XX, hereof, RETIREMENT.

TEXT

ALASKA

Public Employment Relations Act*
(Ch. 113, L. 1972, Relating to wages, hours, and working arrangements.)

Sec. 23.40.200. ARBITRATION. (a) For purposes of this section, public employees are employed to perform services in one of the three following classes:

(1) those services which may not be given up for even the shortest period of time;

(2) those services which may be interrupted for a limited period but not for an indefinite period of time; and

(3) those services in which work stoppages may be sustained for extended periods without serious effects on the public.

(b) The class in (a)(1) of this section is composed of police and fire protection employees, jail, prison and other correctional institution employees, and hospital employees. Employees in this class may not engage in strikes. Upon a showing by a public employer or the labor relations agency that employees in this class are engaging or about to engage in a strike, an injunction, restraining order, or other order which may be appropriate shall be granted by the superior court in the judicial district in which the strike is occurring or is about to occur. If an impasse or deadlock is reached in collective bargaining between the public employer and employees in this class, and mediation has been utilized without resolving the deadlock, the parties shall submit to arbitration to be carried out under AS 09.43.030.

(c) The class in (a)(2) of this section is composed of public utility snow removal, sanitation and public school and other educational institution employees. Employees in this class may engage in a strike after mediation, subject to the voting requirement of (d) of this section, for a limited time. The limit is determined by the interests of the health, safety or welfare of the public. The public employer or the labor relations agency may apply to the superior court in the judicial district in which the strike is occurring for an order enjoining the strike. A strike may not be enjoined unless it can be shown that it has begun to threaten the health, safety or welfare of the public. A court, in deciding whether or not to enjoin the strike, shall consider the total equities in the particular class. "Total equities" includes not only the impact of a strike on the public but also the extent to which employee organizations and public employers have met their statutory obligations. If an impasse or deadlock still exists after the issuance of an injunction, the parties shall submit to arbitration to be carried out under AS 09.43.030.

(d) The class in (a)(3) of this section includes all other public employees who are not included in the classes in (a)(1) or (a)(2) of this section. Employees in this class may engage in a strike if a majority of the employees in a collective bargaining unit vote by secret ballot to do so.

(e) Notwithstanding the provisions of (b), (c) and (d) of this section, the employees with the concurrence of the employer may agree in writing to submit a dispute arising from interpretation or application of a collective bargaining agreement to arbitration.

(f) The parties to a collective bargaining agreement may provide in the agreement a contract for arbitration to be conducted solely according to the Uniform Arbitration Act (AS 09.43) if the Act is incorporated into the agreement or contract by reference.

[Full text provided upon request.]

NEW YORK

Consolidated Rules of New York City
Office of Collective Bargaining*

Mediation

4.1 Request for - Contents. Unless waived by the Director, a request for the appointment of a mediation panel shall be in writing, signed by the party making the request, and shall contain:

a. The name and address of the other party to the collective bargaining negotiations;

b. The date negotiations started;

c. The termination date of the collective agreement between the parties, if any;

d. A statement that the parties have been unable to agree on the terms of a collective agreement, and that collective bargaining will be aided by the appointment of a mediation panel;

e. The number of persons to constitute the panel, if the parties have agreed thereon;

f. The names of persons listed on the Board's mediation register who are to constitute the panel, if the parties have agreed thereon.

4.2 Appointment of Panel. If the Director, upon his own initiative or upon request, determines that the parties have been unable to reach agreement and that collective bargaining would be aided by mediation, he shall appoint a mediation panel from the mediation register. The panel shall be of the size, and shall consist of the persons agreed upon by the parties, if available. In the absence of agreement thereon, the Director shall determine the size and/or membership of the panel. No panel shall be appointed within thirty (30) days of the commencement of negotiations except upon the written request of both parties.

4.3 Panel - Functions. It shall be the duty of the panel to assist the parties to reach a voluntary and satisfactory agreement. The panel may hold separate or joint meetings with the parties or their representatives, and such meetings shall be non-public unless otherwise agreed upon by the parties, the panel and the Director.

4.4 Panel - Guidance by Director. The panel shall perform its duties under the general guidance and direction of the Director, to whom it shall report the progress of the mediation and the terms of any settlement reached. If the panel is of the opinion that further mediation efforts would be unavailing, it shall so report to the Director in writing unless waived by the Director.

Impasse Panels

5.1 Definition - Board. As used in this part, the term "Board" shall mean the Board of Collective Bargaining.

5.2 Request for Impasse Panel - Contents. A request for the appointment of an impasse panel may be made jointly by the public employer and the certified or designated employee organization, or singly by either party. Unless waived by the Director, the request shall be in writing and signed by the public employer and the certified or designated employee organization or by any of them, if made singly. If the request is by a single party, a copy shall be served on the other party. The request shall be filed with the Board and shall contain:

a. The names and addresses of the parties;

b. The date when negotiations began and the date of the last meeting;

c. The nature of the matters in dispute and any other relevant facts, including a list of the specific employer and/or employee organization demands upon which impasse has been reached;

d. A statement that collective bargaining (with or without mediation) has been exhausted and that conditions are appropriate for the creation of an impasse panel;

e. The size of the panel to be appointed; if the parties have agreed thereon;

f. The names of the persons listed in the Board's impasse panel register who are to constitute the panel, if the parties have agreed thereon.

5.3 Upon receipt of the request for an impasse panel, the Director may conduct or cause to be conducted an investigation to ascertain if the conditions for an impasse panel have been met, namely, that collective bargaining negotiations have been exhausted and that conditions are appropriate for the creation of an impasse panel.

5.4 The Director may cause such invesitgation or hearing to be conducted without receipt of a request for the appointment of an impasse panel from the parties or either of them.

5.5 If the Director concludes that collective bargaining negotiations have been exhausted and that conditions are appropriate for the creation of an impasse panel he shall convey such conclusion either orally or in writing to the Board, with such information as to the nature of the dispute as the Board may require. The parties shall be notified, either orally or in writing, of the Director's recommendation. If the initial request was not a joint request, the party or parties not requesting the creation of an impasse panel shall have an opportunity to object to the recommendation, in writing, within three (3) days after service of notice of the recommendation.

5.6 Authorization of Panel. If the Board determines that collective bargaining negotiations (with or without mediation) have been exhausted and that conditions are appropriate for the creation of an impasse panel, it shall instruct the Director to appoint such panel. In reaching its determination, the Board may conduct or direct such additional investigation, conferences or hearings as it deems advisable and proper. The Director may appoint an impasse panel, without prior consultation with the Board, upon request of both parties.

5.7 Size of Panel. An impasse panel shall consist of such number of persons listed on the Board's impasse panel register as the parties may have agreed upon. In the absence of agreement, the Director shall fix the size of the panel.

5.8 Selection of Panel. If the parties have not agreed on the persons to serve on the panel, the Director shall submit to each of the parties an identical list of seven (7) names chosen by him from the impasse panel register. Each party shall have five (5) days within which to number at least five (5) of the names in order of preference, and return the list to the Director. Failure to return the list within the specified time shall be deemed approval of all persons named therein. The Director shall appoint the panel from those persons who have been approved by both parties, with due consideration for the designated orders of preference. If one or more of those approved decline or are unable to serve, the Director, to the extent necessary, shall appoint the panel members without the submission of additional lists.

5.9 Panel - Powers and Duties. An impasse panel shall have the powers and duties set forth in Section 1173-7. Oc(3)(a), (b), (c), and (d) of the statute.

5.10 Hearing; Record. a. Hearings before impasse panels shall be stenographically reported and transcribed. The parties shall share the cost thereof. Hearings shall not be public unless agreed to by the parties and the panel and approved by the Director.

b. The record shall consist of all pleadings, exhibits and other documents submitted by the parties to the panel, the transcript to testimony taken in hearings before the panel, any statements of position as to the issues submitted by the parties prior to, during or after the hearing, the Report and Recommendations issued by the panel and any other documents which the Board, in its discretion, deems necessary and pertinent.

5.11 Panel Reports - Publication; Acceptance or Rejection. a. Report and Recommendation. An impasse panel shall submit its report and recommendations to the Director, to each of the parties, and to any body, agency or official whose action is required to implement the panel's recommendations.

b. Publication. The report and recommendations shall be released for publication not later than seven (7) days after its submission or, upon written agreement of the parties filed with and approved by the Director, not later than thirty (30) days after its submission, provided that if the parties conclude a collective bargaining agreement prior to the date on which the report is to be released, the report shall not be released except upon consent of the parties communicated to the Director.

c. Acceptance or Rejection. Within ten (10) days after submission of the panel's report and recommendations or such additional time (not exceeding thirty (30) days from the submission of the panel report) as the Director may permit, each party shall notify the other party and the Director, in writing, of its acceptance or rejection, in whole or in part, of the panel's recommendations. Failure to so notify shall be deemed acceptance of the recommendations. The Director may release the acceptances and/or rejections for publication at such time as he, in his discretion, may deem advisable.

d. The report and recommendations of the impasse panel, and the acceptances and/or rejections of the parties shall be confidential records until released for publication by the Director.

5.12 Review of Panel Recommendations. a. A party who rejects in whole or in part the recommendations of an impasse panel pursuant to Section 1173-7. Oc(3)(c) of the statute may appeal to the Board for review of the recommendations. All appeals pursuant to this section must be initialed by notice of appeal and petition and may not be raised as part of an answer to the petition of another party.

b. Petition; Contents. A petition filed pursuant to Rule 5.12a shall be signed and shall specify:

1. the ground upon which the appeal is taken;
2. the alleged errors of fact and/or judgment of the panel precisely identifying those parts and portions of the Report and Recommendation allegedly in error;
3. any part of the testimony and evidence relating to the Report and Recommendations or the grounds upon which the appeal is taken, which supports the allegations of the petition;
4. the modifications requested;
5. such additional matters as may be relevant and material.

c. Record of Impasse Panel; Filing. The record of proceedings before the impasse panel shall be filed simultaneously with the filing of the petition.

d. Petition; Service and Filing. One copy of the petition pursuant to Rule 5.12a shall be served upon the respondent and the original and three (3) copies thereof, with proof of service, shall be filed with the Board within ten (10) days of the rejection of the recommendations.

e. Answer; Contents. Respondent's answer to the petition shall be signed and shall contain:

1. admissions or denials of the allegations of the petition;
2. a statement of the nature of the disagreement;
3. any additional facts which are relevant and material;
4. such other affirmative matters or defenses as may be appropriate.

The answer shall be addressed solely to the petition and shall not contain any matter relating to any objections which respondent may have to the Report and Recommendations.

f. Answer; Service and Filing. Within ten (10) days after service of the petition, respondent shall serve its answer upon petitioner and any other party respondent, and the original and three (3) copies thereof, with proof of services shall be filed with the Board.

g. Oral Argument; Hearing. The Board, in its discretion, may grant the request of a party for oral argument or, in a case involving allegations of any of the grounds set forth in subparagraphs (i), (ii) or (iii) of Section 7511b of the Civil Practice Law and Rules, may grant and direct a hearing; such request shall be filed simultaneously with the petition or answer. The Board may direct that such oral argument or hearing be held without a request from either party where it finds that to do so will contribute to a determination of the matter.

h. Briefs; Service and Filing. Petitioner's brief, if any, shall be served and filed simultaneously with its petition. Respondent's answering brief, if any, shall be served and filed simultaneously with its answer. An original and three (3) copies of each brief, with proof of service, shall be filed with the Board.

i. Determination; Decision. After issue has been joined, the Board may determine the matter on the papers and briefs filed or prior to making such determination may direct the holding of oral argument or hearing or may make such other disposition of the matter as it deems appropriate and proper.

[Full text provided upon request.]

HAVE YOU SEEN THIS OUTSTANDING NEA REFERENCE WORK?

COMPREHENSIVE NEGOTIATION AGREEMENT PROVISIONS
1972 Edition

PART I	- Scope of Agreement and Association, Board and Teacher Rights Provisions
PART II	- Joint Committees, Instructional, Educational and Teacher Assignment and Work-Load Provisions
PART III	- Grievance Procedures, Personnel and Salary Provisions
PART IV	- Group Insurance, Leaves of Absence and Fringe Benefit Provisions

This four-part document prepared by NEA Research is an invaluable source of negotiated items in teacher/board agreements. In 1,418 pages it analyzes over 1,500 negotiated agreements in U.S. public school systems. Over 300 negotiable items are identified and coded system-by-system. (Specific content of the provisions may be obtained on request by using the Information Request Forms provided in each volume.)

REPRESENTATION INFORMATION

- State
- Name of school system
- Location of school system
- Name of recognized organization
- National affiliation of recognized organization
- Number of professional personnel represented
- Type of agreement
- Term of comprehensive agreement
- Agreement page number for particular provision

PROVISION ANALYSIS

- 200 provision titles
- Detailed analysis coded for 300 variables:
  - Negotiation impasse: 3rd party involved in type of decision
  - Jt. administrator-teacher committees
  - Grievance arbitration: 3rd party involved in type of decision
  - Bench marks in salary schedules: 1-, 2-, or 3-year agreements
  - Group insurance: part or full premium paid by board
  - 21 short-term leaves identified

. . . . . .

Please send:

_____ $40./set. (4 parts per set)
(qty.) Stock No. 388-11940.

_____ Special price ONLY for NEA state
(qty.) and local associations: $25./set.
Stock No. 388-11938.

Check one below:

_____ Payment enclosed. Make checks payable to NEA.
_____ Bill on purchase order attached.

Mail to:

NEA PUBLICATION-SALES SECTION 192
1201 Sixteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20036

_____
Name

_____
Organization

_____
Address

_____
City/State/ZIP

VOL. 6 NO. 3
NOV. 1972

NRD
NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST

CONTENTS

Page

Case Reviews 3
- School District Not Required to Meet and Confer with Minority Organization
- Preliminary Negotiation Sessions May Be Private If Final Settlement Is Public
- College Calendar Negotiable
- Arbitrator's Decision Granting Tenure Overruled
- Refusal to Negotiate Agency Shop Not an Unfair Labor Practice
- Class Action Review of Individually Levied Strike Penalties Held Inappropriate
- Strike During Mediation Enjoined

Board Findings and Rulings 6
- Reevaluation of School Nurse's Salary Step Placement Disallowed
- City Cannot Pass Laws Negating Negotiated Gains
- Supervisory Unit Should be All-Inclusive
- District Ordered to Bargain Over Enrollment of Nonresident Teachers' Children
- No Taylor Law Violation for Refusal to Negotiate After Legislative Hearing; Changes to Impasse Procedure Recommended
- Strike Penalties Reduced by PERB
- PLRB Agency Shop Ruling Reversed
- Retired Teachers Receive $258,000 in Severance Pay
- Involuntary Transfer Ruled Punitive

Negotiation Notes 10
- Labor Relations Act Amended
- PERB Urges No Additional Disclosures During Negotiation
- Union Organizing Activities Restricted
- Wage Recovery Suit Dismissed for Lack of Jurisdiction
- Texas' Anti-picketing Laws Voided
- The Consumer Price Index, August 1972
- Attorney Generals' Opinions: Colorado, Hawaii, Oregon, and South Dakota

Statistics 13
- Trends in Negotiable Items for Teachers
- Average Annual Salary Scales of Patrolmen and Firefighters Increased 6.6 Percent in 1971

Special Reports 17
- Teacher Evaluation Criteria in Negotiated Contracts
- Briefs of Recent Agreements

RESEARCH DIVISION
NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

Copyright © 1972 by the
National Education Association
All Rights Reserved

2333

CASE REVIEWS

CALIFORNIA

School District Not Required to Meet and Confer With Minority Organization

The California Court of Appeals ruled that a school board's duty to "meet and confer" with its employees' representatives does not require that the board allow a minority union, which is not represented on the negotiating council, to make direct proposals to the board at a public hearing.

The West Valley Federation of Teachers (WVFT), one of a number of certificated employee organizations in the school district, was therefore subject to the provisions of the Winton Act which provides that "when there is more than one certificated employee organization, a negotiating council shall be appointed to represent all the certificated employees in the district." The union was not a participant on the negotiating council and accordingly attempted a direct presentation of its demands at the board's public meeting. The board refused to allow the union to make its presentation.

The union petitioned for and was granted a writ of mandamus ordering the board to allow a direct presentation. The board filed a demurrer which was sustained.

The court held that the union was not denied the right of presenting its proposals to the board, but merely directed by the board to present such proposals through the negotiating council. (West Valley Federation of Teachers, Local 1953, American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO v. Campbell Union High School District, California Court of Appeals, First District, Second Division, March 23, 1972.)

FLORIDA

Preliminary Negotiation Sessions May Be Private If Final Settlement Is Public

The Florida Supreme Court reconciled Florida's "Government in the Sunshine Law" with a state constitutional article guaranteeing public employees the right to bargain collectively. The court ruled that preliminary negotiation sessions may take place privately "so long as the ultimate debate and decisions are public." This ruling affirmed a lower court decision which held that instruction of the school board's negotiator and negotiation of a tentative agreement may be conducted in private (NRD, 6-71, 3).

The appellants, certain Dade County citizens, sought to compel public meetings for "not only formal acts, but also acts of deliberation and deciding, occurring prior to and leading up to affirmative formal action," in protest of private preliminary bargaining between the Dade County Classroom Teachers Association and the Dade County School Board. The appellants contended that any negotiation session not open to the public was in violation of the state's "Government in the Sunshine Law," which requires all government authority meetings to be public.

However, the court noted that the "Sunshine" law provides for public meetings "except as otherwise provided in the constitution," and that the Florida Constitution Article I, § 6, guarantees "the right of employee, by and through a labor organization, to bargain collectively." The court also observed that overexposure of the parties to the "sunrays" of publicity "could cause a damaging case of 'sunburn' to these employees or to the public which elected the board."

Finding that the board's negotiator was publicly employed, reported to the board, and had no authority to bind the board and that discussion of the negotiator's recommendations was public, the appeals court concluded that the negotiator's "recommendations were in a sense simply the acorn from which the final contract grew—in the sunshine. There is no violation." (Patricia K. Bassett et al., Appellants v. G. Holmes Braddock et al., Appellees, Florida Supreme Court, May 17, 1972.)

NEW JERSEY

College Calendar Negotiable

The Burlington County (N.J.) Superior Court ruled that the school calendar was within the scope of bargaining and ordered the Burlington County College Board of Trustees to negotiate the calendar with the Burlington County College Faculty Association (BCCFA).

Though the college Board of Trustees had refused to negotiate the school calendar, the BCCFA and the college entered into two successive agreements. As a result, the BCCFA filed suit with the court, contending that under the New Jersey Employer-Employee Relations Act the calendar was a term and condition of employment which required negotiation as part of the contractual relationship between faculty and college.

The college refused to negotiate the calendar with the union claiming that the calendar dealt with educational policy, a "management perogative," and that an existing calendar committee that comprised of six faculty members was a better way to prepare the calendar than to negotiate it with the union since negotiation would disregard the best interests of those for whom the college exists—the students. However, the court learned that the calendar committee was composed of three faculty members who are considered management and three who were not delegated by the association to serve on the committee.

Because the phrase, "terms and conditions of employment," is susceptible to diverse interpretation, the court proceeded to define conditions of employment as "the various physical dimensions of his working environment, what one's hours are to be, what amount of work is expected during those hours, and what periods of relief are available." The court determined that since the calendar governs when an employee shall commence work and the period he shall continue in the performance of his work, it was within the terms and conditions of employment.

Since the court found no reason to conclude that negotiating the calendar would eliminate any permissive participation by students, there appeared no logical reason to eliminate qualified faculty from discussions.

After analyzing the facts and their relation to state statutes, the court ordered the Board of Trustees of Burlington County College to negotiate the college calendar with the BCCFA. (Burlington County College Faculty Association v. Board of Trustees, Burlington County Colleges, Superior Court of New Jersey, May 25, 1972.)

NEW YORK

Arbitrator's Decision Granting Tenure Overruled

The New York Supreme Court, Appellate Division, overturned an arbitrator's award because he had exceeded the purview of his authority. According to the court, "the power to grant tenure is vested exclusively within the province of the Board of Higher Education" and therefore denial of tenure may not proceed to arbitration.

After completing two years of her probationary period, a nontenured lecturer was notified during her final year that she would not be recommended for reappointment and granted tenure.

The teacher grieved the decision charging that the board had violated contractual evaluation procedures which require observation of instructors, evaluation conferences, and the chance for instructors to correct deficiencies. Both the college president and the vice-chancellor rejected the grievant's contentions, but did offer to reappoint her as a lecturer for a single terminal year at the same salary with the practical result that she would start over as an untenured lecturer. The teacher rejected the board's offer and proceeded to arbitration.

The majority of the court could find neither statutory nor contractual sanction for the arbitrator's action of conferring tenure. The arbitrator had exceeded the scope of the negotiated agreement which stated that grievances relating to reappointment, tenure, or promotion—which are concerned with matters of academic judgment—may not proceed to arbitration.

The majority concluded that "the only fitting solution is that offered by the board," though previously rejected. The court held that this offer "does no violence to, and gives appropriate recognition to the conceded technical breaches of the collective bargaining agreement."

A minority opinion held that since the board of education failed to observe evaluation procedure requirements and the alternative offer by the board would require the grievant to retrace her employment route with no assurance that the evaluation procedures would then be followed, the arbitrator's award should be confirmed. (Legislative Conference of the City University of New York v. Board of Higher Education of the City of New York, New York Supreme Court, Appellate Division, First Department, April 1972.)

Refusal to Negotiate Agency Shop Not an Unfair Labor Practice

A school board's refusal to negotiate an illegal agency shop clause was upheld by the New York Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) and affirmed on appeal, by the New York Supreme Court, Albany County. Accordingly, the petition filed by Monroe-Woodbury Education Association alleging that the Monroe-Woodbury Board of Education committed an unfair labor practice because it refused to negotiate or discuss an agency shop provision, was dismissed in compliance with Section 202 of the Taylor Law. This section provides that "public employees shall have the right to form, join, and participate in, or to refrain from forming, joining, or participating in, any employee organization of their own choosing."

The court observed that the proposed agency shop provision, which would have required employees to pay either union dues or an assessment, contravened the employees' statutory right to decline to participate in a union. Such a proposal, the court said, was clearly illegal, and thus PERB's determination was within its purview. Further, PERB properly decided that the school board's refusal to negotiate an agency shop provision did not constitute an unfair labor practice.

In conclusion, the court cautioned that this decision did not establish precedent for PERB's determination of the legality of future negotiation items "which are not so obvious." As a footnote the court observed "that parties to an agreement may negotiate concerning proposals and test their legality by an action for a declaratory judgment." (Matter of Julia A. Farrigan, Petitioner, v. Robert D. Helsby et al., Respondents, New York Supreme Court, Albany County, December 16, 1971.)

Class Action Review of Individually Levied Strikes Penalties Held Inappropriate

An objection to a strike penalty must be filed by the individual penalized within the legally prescribed time limit. Therefore, the New York Supreme Court, Dutchess County, found that the "class action" appeal instituted on behalf of some 400 members of the Wappinger Central Faculty Association, who had been individually penalized on a case by case basis for striking, was inappropriate. Furthermore, none of the teachers had recourse to further review since they had failed to protest their penalties within the statutory 20-day time limit.

In dismissing the case, the court further observed that there was no evidence that the penalties had been levied in "an arbitrary or unreasonable manner." (Martin Maslinoff, Individually, as President of the Wappinger Central School Faculty Association et al., Petitioners, v. Central School District No. 1 of the Towns of Wappinger, Poughkeepsie, Fishkill, La Grange, Dutchess County; Kent, Phillipstown, Putnam County et al., Respondents, New York Supreme Court, Dutchess County, July 21, 1971.)

PENNSYLVANIA

Strike During Mediation Enjoined

The Pennsylvania Court of Common Pleas established that the South Allegheny Education Association's (SAEA) strike against the South Allegheny School District during mediation of a negotiation impasse violated the Public Employee Relations Act which proscribes strikes during the pendency of collective bargaining.

The strike took place after five months of fruitless negotiation. Evidence indicated that the parties were still engaged in the mediation process when the association went out on strike. Since Section 802 of the Act provides that mediation once begun shall continue until an agreement is reached, the court concluded that collective bargaining was in progress at the time of the strike. In accordance with Sections 1001 and 1002, which prohibit strikes during negotiation, the court issued a preliminary strike injunction. (South Allegheny School District, Plaintiff, v. South Allegheny Education Association et al., Defendants, Pennsylvania Court of Common Pleas, Allegheny County, July 23, 1971.)

BOARD FINDINGS AND RULINGS

CONNECTICUT

Reevaluation of School Nurse's Salary Step Placement Disallowed

Where prior to the present agreement the grievant had advanced to the fourth step of the salary schedule, the board did not have the right to unilaterally decide that, because of a prior error, she should be placed on the third step rather than the fifth step for the next year. The board was directed to pay the nurse according to the fifth step of the salary schedule for the first year of the two-year contract and according to the sixth step for the second year.

The present agreement called for the advancement of one step annually for each nurse who had performed satisfactory work. The board made no contention that the grievant had not performed her work satisfactorily, but stated that it would be an inequity for the grievant to retain the service credit she had previously been given. "In the absence of an agreement by the parties that there were inequities that needed adjustment, and further agreement on the manner in which those inequities should be adjusted, the board had no right to make such adjustments, regardless of their good intentions in doing so." (East Hartford Board of Education and East Hartford School Nurses' Association, Connecticut State Board of Mediation and Arbitration, December 15, 1971.)

MASSACHUSETTS

City Cannot Pass Laws Negating Negotiated Gains

The Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission ordered the town of Framingham to cease and desist from sponsoring laws which would change or modify a collective bargaining agreement, to immediately effectuate all conditions of employment set forth in existing agreements, and to reimburse or compensate union members for loss of time, overtime, extra vacation, and sick leave.

The Commission's action was prompted by a suit brought by Local 1156, Laborers' International Union of North America, which alleged that the town had refused to bargain in good faith. After agreeing to adopt a negotiated vacation schedule and sick leave provision, the town sponsored and sought passage of legislation which would materially change the agreed upon schedule and provision.

The town admitted that the legislation did alter the "force and effect" of the bargaining agreement, but not to a substantial degree. Rationale for the action was found under Chapter 40 of the General Laws which authorizes municipalities to establish the days and weeks of leave without loss of pay, including sick leave.

The town contended that the newly adopted article was in conflict with the terms of the bargaining agreement, and therefore, according to Chapter 149 of the General Laws, the law should prevail in the event a bargaining agreement was in conflict with any law.

The Commission maintained that the right to bargain with respect to wages, hours, and conditions of employment "would be a hollow right if municipal employers were permitted to circumvent an agreement by refusing to make a good faith effort to amend conflicting by-laws." In the instant case, the town created a conflict by sponsoring a change in bylaws at a town meeting after having negotiated an agreement.

The Commission ruled that the town must effectuate the collective bargaining agreement by changing or modifying laws which conflict with negotiated provisions. The town was ordered to implement these changes and to fulfill all negotiated conditions of employment set forth in the agreement. (In the matter of Town of Framingham and Local 1156, Laborers' International Union of North America, Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission, April 24, 1972.)

MICHIGAN

Supervisory Unit Should Be All-Inclusive

The Southgate Supervisors Association's petition for a unit composed of certain public employee supervisors was dismissed by the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) for failure to include all of the city's unrepresented supervisors. The MERC has consistently maintained that "supervisory units should include all unrepresented supervisors of the particular entity involved." In addition, MERC has refused to certify separate supervisory units for lower and higher echelon supervisors on the basis of levels of supervision.

The Commission observed that dismissal of the present petition as inappropriate did not preclude the propriety of a unit representing all of the unrepresented supervisors of the City of Southgate. (City of Southgate and Southgate Supervisors Association, Michigan Employment Relations Commission, March 8, 1972.)

NEW YORK

District Ordered to Bargain Over Enrollment of Nonresident Teachers' Children

An arbitrator found that the Clarkstown School District must continue to permit the enrollment of nonresident teachers' children until either the school district bargains to remove the benefit or a court halts the benefit.

Children of nonresident teachers were allowed to enter the system, but the board passed a resolution to the effect that in the future only children of nonresident teachers who currently have children enrolled would be allowed to enter the system.

The contract required that before a policy affecting conditions of employment may be adopted, the teachers' association must be notified, and the association and the school board must negotiate it. The school district contended that under this provision there was no existing policy to change since the privilege of enrollment was granted to some and denied to others. However, the arbitrator found that a distinction was made in favor of nonresident teachers, encouraging them to enter the employ of the district, and thus constituting a condition of employment.

Rejecting the school district's affirmation of satisfying contractual obligations through negotiation prior to the 1971-72 agreement settlement, the arbitrator stated that to allow the requirement to be satisfied by negotiations after the agreement ends would be to render the negotiation clause meaningless.

The school board advanced two opinions of the State Comptroller, questioning the legality of permitting some nonresident teachers to enroll their children while denying the privilege to other nonresident teachers. The arbitrator found that the comptroller's opinions did not have force of law and that there was no indication that the abandonment of illegal policies was not subject to contract procedures.

The arbitrator determined that once the former policy was reinstated, the next duty was to negotiate. He continued, that failing agreement, the school board may make its own changes, provided it engages in good faith negotiations. Noting that the revised policy had not been in existence for 20 months, he added to the award a provision intended to balance the inequity.

The children of any nonresident teacher denied admission because of the new policy must be admitted to the system for the 1972-73 school year and be allowed to remain in the system for that year unless the time is otherwise limited by the court order. (Clarkstown Teachers Association and Board of Education, Clarkstown Central School District No. 1, Town of Clarkstown, Arbitration, February 10, 1972.)

No Taylor Law Violation For Refusal to Negotiate After Legislative Hearing; Changes to Impasse Procedure Recommended

The New York Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) found the Bethlehem School District not guilty of violating the Taylor Law when it refused to resume negotiation with the Bethlehem Central Teachers Association after a fact finder failed to resolve a deadlock and a legislative hearing was held on the impasse. An additional opinion stated that the Taylor Law provision for resolution of final impasse through a district legislative hearing is not functional in school disputes, since the legislative branch is the school board, which is involved in the bargaining process and is not a neutral party in an impasse situation.

After negotiation sessions reached an impasse on salaries and binding arbitration, a mediator was called in and negotiations continued without resolution. A fact finder was appointed, whose report was rejected by the teachers association and in part by the school superintendent. The teachers association's request for resumption of negotiation was refused by the school board, and a legislative hearing was held by the school board in accordance with procedures outlined in the Taylor Law. The school board accepted the superintendent's recommendations and sent out salary notices.

At the hearing the association was again unable to get the school district to resume negotiations. Although school district representatives held later meetings with the teachers association, they lacked the authority to agree to terms different from those adopted at the legislative hearing. Revised proposals drawn up at these meetings were rejected by the school board.

Upon the school board's rejection of the revised proposals, the teachers association authorized a strike and filed an improper practices charge with PERB against the school district.

PERB dismissed the improper practices charge, stating that under the Taylor Law the school board was not required to continue negotiation with the teachers association after the legislative hearing. The labor board also considered whether the school district had engaged in "such acts of extreme provocation as to detract from its [the teachers association's] responsibility for the strike." The PERB noted that though the school district should have continued bargaining after the hearings, the teachers association did not fully utilize means available to settle the dispute in that it neither submitted its recommendations to the school board at the legislative hearing nor presented reasons for rejecting the fact-finder's report.

The PERB stated that submission of such reports would have aided the legislative body's ability to effectively settle the disputes. PERB concluded that since the teachers association did not fully cooperate with the legislative body's attempt to resolve the dispute, the district's refusal to continue negotiation after fulfilling its statutory obligation was not an act of extreme provocation justifying a strike.

The Board revoked the association's dues check-off rights for six months, and before these rights can be restored, the association has to pledge that it will not engaged in another strike.

In a separate concurring opinion, PERB proposed that the Taylor Law's impasse procedures for school districts be revised. The impasse procedure contained in the Taylor Law was designed for government administrations having separate legislative and executive branches, the executive branch negotiating the agreement and the legislative branch resolving disputes. However, in school districts, the executive branch is part of the legislative branch. In collective bargaining, the legislative branch (the school board) is involved in both the negotiating of the agreement and the resolving of disputes, and therefore is not capable of arriving at an impartial final determination. The PERB member recommended that "the arbitral process should receive further consideration as an acceptable alternative." (Central School District No. 6 and the Bethlehem Central Teachers Association, Public Employment Relations Board, March 9, 1972.)

Strike Penalties Reduced By PERB

The New York Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) reduced penalties against the Buffalo Teachers Federation (BTF), a National Education Association affiliate, recommended by a trial examiner who found the BTF in violation of the Taylor Law's no strike provision. The trial examiner recommended suspension of dues check-off privileges, retroactive to the start of the work stoppage. PERB ruled that the "forfeiture of dues should be limited to the schools involved and penalties for the three stoppages considered separately."

BTF argued that it did not instigate the strike. The employees staged work stoppages because of dangerous conditions, fear for personal safety, and acts of extreme provocation on the part of school representatives.

PERB found that the work stoppage at one school was neither motivated by concern for the teachers' personal safety nor did it stem from exteme provocation, but rather the stoppage was occasioned by concern for the safety and rights of a teacher involved in an altercation. PERB determined that at a second school, a reasonable basis existed for teachers to have been concerned about their personal safety. PERB concluded that the stoppage at the third school was not caused by "fear for personal safety but rather was the result of faculty frustration" owing to the complete breakdown of discipline.

PERB held that even though there was no evidence of any effort by the administration prior to the strike to effect better discipline and control over the students, this did not constitute extreme provocation. The teachers, PERB continued, should have availed themselves of the grievance procedure which "is designed to avoid the type of self-help action that the teachers engaged herin."

PERB concluded that since BTF did not cause or instigate the strikes, and its participation in them was limited, a city-wide check-off ban was unwarranted. PERB ordered the association's check-off rights at the first and third schools forfeited for three and four months, respectively. Further, during the 12 months following the order, only three-fourths of the annual dues may be deducted from the first school and not more than two-thirds from the third school. Also, check-off rights was not to be restored until BTF pledged that it would not strike, as required by the Taylor Law. (In the matter of Buffalo Teachers' Federation, Inc., Public Employment Relations Board, May 8, 1972.)

PENNSYLVANIA

PLRB Agency Shop Ruling Reversed

A Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board (PLRB) majority reversed itself and dismissed unfair labor practice charges filed by a Pennsylvania State University employee who had been required to pay agency shop dues under the university's contract with Teamsters Local 8. Under prior contract, bargaining unit employees paid dues and fees to the union if they designated it as their exclusive bargaining agent. Under a renegotiated contract, the agency shop provision was expanded, requiring all unit employees to pay dues and fees as a condition of continued employment.

The grievant contended that according to the amended Public Employee Relations Act (PERA), new provisions bargained for in contracts may not provide for a more severe security clause than existed in the prior contract.

The union argued that the agency shop provision in the contract was valid and enforceable under the PERA and that requiring compliance with the provisions as a condition of continued employment did not amount to an unfair practice.

Previously, PLRB agreed with the grievant's contention noting that under the former contract the grievant did not have to pay union fees, which now she must, and ordered the union to reimburse the grievant for all payments made prior to the Board's decision.

In a split decision the majority stated that the language of the enlarged security clause did not offend the PERA since the old agreement contained a security clause. But if such a clause constituted a new item in the renewal contract, the clause would have violated the right of the grievant to refrain from participating in an employee organization and from collective bargaining. However, the initial contract had contained a security clause inconsistent with the Act in requiring more security than the maintenance of membership permitted. Such inconsistency, however, is protected by section 904 of the Act which was designed "to protect all collective bargaining agreements in the public sector which were valid under existing law and in existence as of January 1, 1970."

The minority member on the Board disagreed with the majority's dismissal of charges stating that "under section 401, public employees have the right to organize, form, join or assist in employee organizations or to engage in lawful concerted activities for the purpose of collective bargaining or other mutual aid and protection or to bargain collectively through representatives of their own free choice and such employees shall also have the right to refrain from any or all such activities, except as may be required pursuant to a maintenance of membership provision in a collective bargaining agreement." (Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board v. Teamsters Local 8 and Pennsylvania State University, Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board, March 3, 1972.)

RHODE ISLAND

Retired Teachers Receive $258,000 in Severance Pay

A two-member arbitration board ordered the Providence, Rhode Island, School Committee, a non participant in the proceedings, to pay 40 retired teachers servance pay due to them under the terms of a 1968-69 collective bargaining agreement. The arbitration board also ruled that the school committee violated that contract, which stipulated that the committee "agrees that it will apply to all substantially similiar situations the decision of the arbitrator sustanining a grievance," by failing to apply to the instant case a previous binding arbitration award—involving the same issue—which was eventually sustained by the Rhode Island

Supreme Court. The school committee claimed that it was financially unable to comply with the contractual provision regarding retiring teachers.

The Providence Teachers Union held in abeyance severance pay claims of 40 retired teachers while the committee's appeal on the first arbitration award was pending before the supreme court.

After the court handed down its decision, the school board claimed that the severance pay grievances of the 40 teachers were not arbitrable but negotiable. The board based its claim on a portion of the opinion of the arbitrator in a prior case which suggested that if the school committee was unable to live up to the terms of the agreement because of inadequate appropriation, it must return to the bargaining table.

In the instant case, the arbitrators pointed out that the school committee's claims were based on an arbitrator's opinion and not his decision, and that an arbitrator may not add to, subtract from, or modify the parties' agreement. They also said that the committee's use of a sentence in the opinion as the decision was a unilateral attempt to modify the agreement and was destructive of the arbitration process and cannot be condoned.

According to the arbitrators, if the school committee was having fiscal problems preventing the carrying out of its severance pay commitment, this was not established by the evidence in record. The committee therefore was ordered to pay the 40 retired grievants. (Providence Teachers Union Local 958, AFT, and Providence School Committees, American Arbitration Association, March 28, 1972.)

WISCONSIN

Involuntary Transfer Ruled Punitive

An arbitrator ruled that the Milwaukee Public Schools violated its contract with the Milwaukee Teachers Education Association (MTEA) when the school district involuntarily transferred a teacher without providing him with procedural due process as found in the negotiation agreement.

The principal of the school, at which the grievant was employed as a driver education teacher, and the supervisor of driver education and safety charged the grievant with failure to notify the supervisor of the registration of a new training vehicle, operation of the vehicle other than to and from work, failure to use reasonable judgment in driving the vehicle which resulted in a fire and destruction of the car, and not depositing funds collected for driver education within a reasonable period of time.

The board employed procedures under Part IV, Section T, of the contract to admonish the teacher and to take corrective action. The META argued that the grievance should have been handled under Section S.

MTEA claimed that the administration violated the contract when it involunatrily transferred the grievant by proceeding under Section T, as well as failing to provide a full and fair hearing to the grievant required under Section T, since an erroneous action could have destructive and irreparable effect upon a teacher.

The board contended that in contract negotiation the parties included in Section T both inefficiency and bad behavior within the concept of "just cause." Therefore, non-punitive action, including reassignment or involuntary transfer, is appropriate where inefficiency rather than misconduct is charged.

The board also contended that a hearing under Section T before the Committee on Rules and Complaints was not necessary. Such a hearing merely provides the grievant with the opportunity to appeal the superintendent's decision. By not appealing the superintendent's decision and provide a hearing, a teacher could frustrate proceedings and delay action contrary to student interest.

The arbitrator interpreted Section T as "concerning only discipline and disciplinary penalties" and as barring involuntary transfer of a teacher for misconduct. Section S deals with evaluating performance and allows for involuntary transfer if it can help the teacher to improve. The arbitrator's opinion was that the administration could not impose a prohibited transfer in a Section T proceeding, charging a teacher with misconduct merely because it was characterized as "intended to be corrective rather than punitive."

The arbitrator agreed with META's argument that no action should have been taken before exhaustion or waiver of the procedures in Section T which allow for a hearing by the Committee.

The arbitrator ruled that the administration violated the contract when it proceeded under Section T of the contract and transferred the grievant against his wishes and when it took action against the grievant before providing a hearing by the Committee on Rules and Complaints. (In the matter of Milwaukee Teachers Education Association and Milwaukee Board of School Directors, Arbitrator's Opinion and Award, April 20, 1972.)

NEGOTIATION NOTES

CONNECTICUT

Labor Relations Act Amended

An amendment to the Connecticut State Labor Relations Act gives the Labor Commissioner the power to make and enforce rules concerning safe working conditions. The rules, however, must be consistent with accepted engineering standards and conducive to public safety. The Commissioner is also authorized to appoint an Industrial Safety Commission which will advise the Commissioner in establishing safety codes.

The safety commission is to be composed of three representatives each of workers, employers, and the public, with one representative each of an insurance company licensed to write workmen's compensation insurance and of a company licensed to write fire and casualty insurance. Persons failing to comply with the orders of the Commissioner are to be fined not more than $500 for each offense.

NEW YORK

PERB Urges No Additional Disclosures During Negotiation

Citing the public's need to know the full details of agreements reached with public employees, Governor Nelson Rockefeller requested the Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) to study the problem of public disclosure following negotiations. The governor further instructed PERB to make specific recommendations on this subject including any necessary amendments to the Taylor Law.

PERB broadened the analysis of the disclosure question to encompass six stages of the negotiation process: (a) prior to third-party assistance, (b) during the course of mediation, (c) during the course of fact-finding, (d) after the fact finder has rendered his report and recommendations but before agreement, (e) after agreement has been reached but prior to employee ratification, and (f) after agreement has been reached but prior to enactment of legislation required to implement the agreement.

PERB solicited the opinions of public employers and employees, the media, mediators and fact finders, and recognized industrial and labor relations experts concerning the amount of information that should be disclosed during each step of the process. Questionaires soliciting information on what actually occurred in respect to disclosure during the course of negotiations and their opinions were sent to the parties in impasse situations in which the fact-finding report and recommendations had not been acted upon within 10 days.

On the basis of the inquiry and the responses of the parties involved, PERB recommended that the Taylor Law not be changed regarding disclosure. Legislation in this area was unnecessary, PERB said, "because the basic details of most agreements are made public either when the agreement was reached or after employee ratification and if negotiation impasses go to fact finding, the fact finder's recommendations are required by law to be made public five days after receipt by the parties. And if a legislative hearing is required, the law mandates a public hearing."

Public employers and employees agreed that there should be no public disclosure prior to ratification, submission of the fact-finders report, or action by the legislative body. The media response called for disclosure of the opening position of the parties, limited disclosure during the course of negotiations by means of periodic progress reports, and full disclosure once agreement has been reached. Fact finders unanimously agreed that there should be no disclosure until the beginning of fact-finding.

The parties generally agreed that there should be no additional disclosure because the negotiating process would be inhibited, thereby further polarizing the parties. Further, political pressures to turn down negotiated agreements would be brought against the legislative body with the result that negotiated agreements would be rejected in greater numbers.

SOUTH CAROLINA

Union Organizing Activities Restricted

Laws regulating solicitation of membership for organizations were enacted by Barnwell, Abbeville, Edgefield, Kershaw, Lee, Marlboro, McCormick, and Williamsburg counties of South Carolina. The laws adopted by each county were similar to the law adopted by Barnwell County.

According to the law enacted by Barnwell county, anyone soliciting membership for any organization or union must obtain a 60-day permit from the County Board of Managers. The permit must be kept on his person while soliciting memberships, and can be revoked if false information is given in obtaining the permit or if any other "good and sufficient" cause is found. Violation of the regulation is punishable by a fine of not more than $500 or imprisonment for not more than 90 days for each offense.

Kershaw county's law applies only to nonresident persons, firms, or corporations desiring to solicit membership. In Abbeville, McCormick, Florence, and Lee counties, organizations which limit memberships to persons engaged in hazardous occupations are not affected by the law. Additionaly in Florence, Edgefield, and Lee counties, one year of residency in the county prior to application for a permit is required. Further, in Florence any organization subject to the Railway Labor Act is authorized to solicit memberships without being required to procure any type of permit.

FEDERAL

Wage Recovery Suit Dismissed For Lack Of Jurisdiction

Ruling that it did not have jurisdiction, the U.S. District Court of Idaho dismissed a case brought by present and former employees against the Idaho State School and Hospital. According to the court, previous cases established the right of the United States, as a person, or a federal agency to sue a state for violation of various federal statutes relating to interstate commerce (Wirtz vs. Maryland, 392 U.S. 183, 20).

The plaintiffs alleged that while employed at the institution they frequently worked over forty hours per week and that "the defendants had failed and refused to compensate them at rates not less than one and one-half times the regular rates at which they were employed, which is contrary to the express requirements of the FLSA [Fair Labor Standards Act]."

The plaintiffs contended that they had a cause of action against the State of Idaho since the state had violated the FLSA as amended by Congress in 1966, and had waived its sovereign immunity by failing to discontinue operation of the facility after enactment of the 1966 amendments.

The defendant argued that the court did not have jurisdiction since the Eleventh Amendment to the Constitution of the United States denies citizens of a state the right to sue that state in a federal court, notwithstanding any act of Congress to the contrary, and that the State of Idaho had not waived its sovereign immunity from suit as provided by the Eleventh Amendment.

According to the court, "the 1966 amendment has created a rather anomalous situation inasmuch as it would appear to abrogate the doctrine of state immunity from suit by its own citizens in federal courts." The court decided to consider the issue of whether the plaintiffs, as private citizens, could sue the defendant since FLSA is silent on the issue, and congressional debate did not discuss intent regarding the issue.

The court pointed out that the defendant had not automatically waived its immunity by failing to discontinue its operation of a school for the mentally ill after the enactment of the 1966 amendment, since discontinuance would require an amendment to the Idaho Constitution which mandates operation of the facility. Further adherence to FLSA regulations does not constitute a waiver of immunity. The fact that the state established the Idaho Personnel Commission in 1965, which provides for administrative redress and enforcement of the method of payment and rate of compensation with respect to state employees, "is a clear expression by the Idaho Legislature that it has not waived its Eleventh Amendment right to immunity."

The federal court dismissed the case for lack of jurisdiction on the grounds that the State of Idaho and any agency of the state are immune from federal suit under the FLSA by private citizens of that state. (John Leroy Hickman et al., Plaintiffs v. Idaho State School and Hospital et al., Defendants, United States District Court, District of Idaho, March 14, 1972.)

Texas' Anti-picketing Laws Voided

The United States District Court, Southern District, granted the United Farm Workers (UFW) Organizing Committee's suit for declaratory relief, enjoined a lower court restraining order and law enforcement officials' suppression of the UFW's efforts to organize predominatly Mexican-American farm laborers.

The federal court determined that state statutes, five of which were declared unconstitutional for "overbreadth," had been "used as a tool for the continuous harrassment" of the organizers. "Overbreadth" applies when the reasonable application of legal sanctions would proscribe constitutionally protected activities. The court found that the activities of the UFW during a month-long strike, i.e., picketing, mass meetings and other reasonable methods of persuasion, are protected under the first amendment as "symbolic speech."

Thus, the farm workers suffered "irreparable harm" when law enforcement officers suppressed and a lower court enjoined the UFW's constitutionally protected efforts to better the farm laborer's lot by enforcing and upholding vaguely defined ordinances that proscribed mass picketing, applied a mathematical strait jacket to permissible picketing, outlawed reasonable methods of persuasion, and restricted freedom of speech. Such ordinances, the court held, abridged the workers' first amendment rights and were null and void.

Evidence indicated that the tactics of the law enforcement officers, which included dispersing crowds with threats of arrest, arresting and releasing pickets without filing charges, abusing the bond system, onesided filing of complaints, and supporting an anti-union newspaper, overstepped the "line of neutral law enforcement."

In addition, the federal court determined that the state court's prosecution and injunction of the UFW's activities had been instituted in bad faith for the purpose of harrassment. Accordingly, the union was awarded declaratory relief and a permanent injunction restraining any further interference with its civil rights. (Francisco Medrano et al., Plaintiffs, v. A. Y. Allee et al., Defendants, United States District Court, Southern District, Texas, Brownsville Division, June 26, 1972.)

The Consumer Price Index, August 1972

According to the U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), the Consumer Price Index (CPI) rose 0.2 percent in August to 125.7 (1967=100), down from the 0.4 percent increase recorded in July.

The August CPI increase held at 0.2 percent after seasonal adjustment. During the first year of the Economic Stabilization Program, the CPI rose 2.9 percent, in the 12 months prior to the stabilization program, the annual rate of increase was 4.4 percent.

The August increases reflected higher prices for meats, restaurant meals, gasoline, and household services. The effects of these prices were offset by lower prices for apparel and new and used cars. The food index, which includes both food purchased in grocery stores and restaurant meals, rose 0.5 percent after seasonal adjustments, compared with 0.6 percent in July.

ATTORNEY GENERALS' OPINIONS

Colorado

DUTY TO BARGAIN WITH PUBLIC EMPLOYEES. . .

In the absence of specific legislation for state colleges to recognize a unit or enter into collective negotiations with their employees, permitting dues checkoff does not create an employee unit for negotiation purposes.

Hawaii

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING - COST ITEMS. . .

Cost items which are bargainable are those for which no new or additional appropriations are necessary, or for which appropriations for implementation have been made. For bargaining purposes, legislative approval is necessary for those cost items for which new appropriations must be made by the legislature.

Oregon

IMPACT OF SENIORITY ON COMPENSATION, BARGAINABLE. . .

Despite a legislative statute narrowing bargaining rights of classified school district personnel, questions relating to seniority which affect the present or future compensation of these school employees are bargainable items. The phrase, "related economic issues," is to vague to provide guidance on what subjects are limited.

FACT-FINDING REPORTS NOT BINDING. . .

School boards are not obliged to adopt a fact-finder's recommendations conducted by the Commissioner of Labor and Management since school boards are not required to come to an agreement with teachers in the collective bargaining sense. A fact finder's decision carries only moral weight.

COLLEGE FACULTY ASSOCIATION A LABOR ORGANIZATION. . .

Since the primary purpose of local chapters of a university professors association is the negotiation of salaries, fringe benefits, and tenure of academic employees, these chapters are labor organizations in the fullest sense, and are entitled to dues check off privileges.

South Dakota

TEACHERS: NON ECONOMIC ITEMS NOT BARGAINABLE. . .

Although state law allows teachers organizations to bargain on wages, hours, and conditions of employment, they have no legislative guarantees that school boards must negotiate curriculums, teaching methods, grade leveling, schedules, classroom procedures, some aspects of discipline and conduct, physical training, or some aspects of financing and other matters inherent to the general charge, direction, and management of schools.

STATISTICS

TRENDS IN NEGOTIABLE ITEMS FOR TEACHERS

Every other year since 1966-67, the NEA Research Division has tabulated the content of negotiation agreements, and compiled a master index of 177 negotiated provisions containing more than 300 variables. The data compiled from agreements received in the negotiation survey are published in the Negotiation Agreement Provisions (NAP). The completed analysis of the 1970-71 negotiation survey reveals interesting data on the prevalence, growth, and decline of negotiated provisions found in agreements.

Three negotiated provisions have appeared in over 75 percent of the comprehensive agreements in all three compilations of the NAP: salary schedules, grievance procedures, and sick leave. In addition, 12 provisions have appeared in over 50 percent of the comprehensive agreements in the three survey years: pupil-teacher ratio or class size, teaching hours or day, duty-free planning periods, duty-free lunch periods, transfers, pupil discipline or assault cases, procedure for teacher evaluation, salary credit for prior experience and growth, salary increments for additional professional preparation, extra-duty pay, health insurance, and maternity leave.

The growth and decline of certain negotiated provisions is indicative of the current trends in negotiation activity. Increasing significantly from 1966-67 to 1970-71 were provisions regarding teacher qualifications, teacher aids, professional growth or inservice training, regular teachers' meetings, binding arbitration of grievances, health and life insurance, leaves of absence for personal and professional reasons, and pay periods.

The negotiated provisions that have declined significantly are development of tax or bond issues, distribution of budgetary items, selection and distribution of textbooks, instructional aids, supervision of student extracurricular activities, integration of education, individual contract terms, teaching assignments, promotion to higher classifications, professional code of ethics, compensation for damaged or stolen property, and salary increments for additional professional preparation.

TABLE 1.—NUMBER AND PERCENT OF COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS BY TYPE OF PROVISION, 1966-67, 1968-69, AND 1970-71

Items	1966-67		1968-69		1970-71
	Number of agreements	Percent	Number of agreements	Percent	Number of agreements	Percent
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
TOTAL NUMBER OF AGREEMENTS ANALYZED	389	100.0	978	100.0	1,529	100.0
Instructional Program
Curriculum review	85	21.8	173	17.7	395	25.8
Teacher qualifications	66	17.0	221	22.6	470	30.7
Special education programs	59	15.2	178	18.2	327	21.4
Tax/bond programs	67	17.2	62	6.3	45	2.9
State/federal fund application	26	6.7	38	3.9	54	3.5
Test evaluation and application	4	1.0	16	1.6	15	1.0
Budgetary item distribution	58	14.9	19	1.9	43	2.8
Teacher evaluation	48	12.3	62	6.3	106	6.9
Textbook selection and distribution	140	36.0	317	32.4	366	23.9
Pupil-teacher ratio/class size	222	57.1	577	59.0	888	58.1
Instructional aids	169	43.4	244	24.9	306	20.0
Secretarial/clerical assistance	36	9.2	115	11.8	182	11.9
School calendar or year	252	64.8	441	45.1	897	58.7
Pupil progress reports	19	4.9	69	7.0	100	6.5
Extracurricular activities	131	33.7	209	21.4	292	19.1
Parent-teacher conferences	94	24.2	200	20.4	466	30.5
Integration	116	29.8	19	1.9	60	3.9
Teacher Aides	73	18.8	285	29.1	489	32.0

TABLE 1.–NUMBER AND PERCENT OF COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS BY TYPE OF PROVISION, 1966-67, 1968-69, AND 1970-71 (Continued)

Items	1966-67		1968-69		1970-71
	Number of agreements	Percent	Number of agreements	Percent	Number of agreements	Percent
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Personnel Policies and Practices
Individual contracts	184	47.3	108	11.0	364	23.8
Teaching hours or day	194	51.2	513	52.5	819	53.6
Teaching load/class schedule	192	49.4	429	50.3	654	42.8
Subject area assignment	242	62.2	517	52.9	695	45.5
Special education assignment	43	11.0	269	27.5	354	23.2
Hours before and after class	153	39.3	425	43.4	606	39.6
Duty-free planning periods	211	54.2	509	52.0	805	52.7
Duty-free lunch period (elementary)	237	60.9	584	59.7	884	57.8
Duty-free lunch period (secondary)	222	57.1	575	58.8	852	55.7
Non-classroom service duties	187	48.1	421	43.0	617	40.4
Promotions	242	62.2	463	47.3	703	46.0
Professional growth/inservice training	112	28.8	513	52.5	754	49.3
Regular teacher meetings	131	33.7	373	38.1	720	47.1
Transfers	261	67.1	558	57.1	886	57.9
Dismissal and resignation	114	29.3	157	16.1	358	23.4
Grievance procedure	347	89.2	889	90.9	1,362	89.1
Binding arbitration	130	33.4	398	40.7	672	44.0
Code of ethics	133	34.2	298	30.5	346	22.6
Teacher reprimand	157	40.4	342	35.0	521	34.1
Teacher protection/pupil discipline	230	59.1	589	60.2	824	53.9
Personnel file	173	44.5	575	58.8	749	49.0
Damaged/stolen property reimbursements	133	34.2	238	24.3	307	20.1
Teacher evaluation procedures	241	62.0	595	60.8	884	57.8
Teacher facilities	212	54.5	506	51.7	690	45.1
Substitute teachers	57	14.6	442	45.2	580	37.9
Salary
Salary schedule	357	91.8	951	97.2	1,393	91.1
Credit for prior experience	261	67.1	606	62.0	1,080	70.6
Professional preparation increments	352	90.5	773	79.0	936	61.2
Extra-duty pay	277	71.2	793	81.1	1,130	73.9
Overtime pay	111	28.5	282	28.8	365	23.9
Other than full-time pay	112	28.8	179	18.3	244	16.0
Pay period	111	28.5	396	40.5	758	49.6
Fringe Benefits
Tuition reimbursement	97	24.9	238	24.3	489	32.0
Health services	46	11.8	19	1.9	34	2.2
Terminal leave/severance pay	106	27.2	263	26.9	351	23.0
Travel allowance	93	23.9	264	27.0	297	10.4
Professional dues	1	0.3	3	0.3	7	0.5

TABLE 1.–NUMBER AND PERCENT OF COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS BY TYPE OF PROVISION, 1966-67, 1968-69, AND 1970-71 (Continued)

Items	1966-67		1968-69		1970-71
	Number of agreements	Percent	Number of agreements	Percent	Number of agreements	Percent
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Health insurance	231	59.4	712	72.8	1,326	86.7
Liability insurance	96	24.7	79	8.1	138	9.0
Life insurance	52	13.4	103	10.5	532	34.8
Workmen's compensation	26	6.7	374	38.2	475	31.1
Income protection	52	13.4	100	10.2	168	11.0
Pension/retirement	7	1.8	41	4.2	40	2.6
Tax-sheltered annuity	57	14.7	283	28.9	411	26.9
Sick leave	313	80.5	885	90.5	1,339	87.6
Sabbatical leave	126	32.4	563	57.6	920	60.2
Bereavement leave	142	36.5	698	71.4	1,125	73.6
Personal business leave	169	43.4	783	80.1	1,243	81.3
Political/public office leave	99	25.4	190	19.4	260	17.0
Exchange teaching leave	39	10.0	209	21.4	408	26.7
Peace Corps	92	23.6	274	28.0	437	28.6
Maternity leave	233	59.9	660	67.5	1,051	68.7
Military leave	193	49.6	504	51.5	554	36.2

AVERAGE ANNUAL SALARY SCALES OF PATROLMEN AND FIREFIGHTERS INCREASED 6.6 PERCENT IN 1971

A Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), study revealed that salary scales for firefighters and patrolmen were 6.6 percent higher in January 1972 than in January 1971. The survey was conducted in cities with 100,000 population or more, and limited to the rank of firefighters and patrolmen. Minimum and maximum annual salary scales for patrolmen averaged $9,454 and $11,287, respectively; firefighters averaged $9,026 and $10,718.

Over a five year period, 1966-70, firefighters' and patrolmen's salaries have increased at about equal rates. For 1971, scales for patrolmen advanced 6.6 percent and firefighters at 6.5 percent; combined maximums rose 6.7 percent. Excluding one out of five cities which showed either no change or a decrease in 1971, the combined average maximum increase rose to 8.2 percent.

From January 1967 to January 1972, combined minimum and maximum salary scales of patrolmen and firefighters rose at annual rates of 7.9 and 7.7 percent respectively. Comparative minimum and maximum figures for federal classified employees and urban public classroom teachers rose at annual rates of 6.1 and 6.5 percent respectively. Hourly wages of production and nonsupervisory workers in the private nonfarm economy and salaries of white-collar employees rose at annual rates ranging from 5.4 to 6.5 percent.

The highest annual minimum and maximum increases for patrolmen and firefighters were recorded in Northeastern cities, while the lowest increases were found in the South. Western cities showed the second largest increases, to maintain their position atop the salary scale.

Average minimum salary scales for patrolmen in the larger cities ranged from $8,385 in cities of 100,000 but less than 250,000 inhabitants, to $10,454 in cities of 1 million or more; firefighters average minimum salary scales varied from $8,125 to $10,385, respectively. Maximum average salary scales ranged from $9,989 to $12,389 for patrolmen and from $9,658 to $12,247 for firefighters.

Table 1 gives a breakdown of patrolmen and firefighters salary scale minimums and maximums by year, region, city, and size.

TABLE 1.–AVERAGE MINIMUM AND MAXIMUM ANNUAL SALARY SCALES OF FIREMEN AND POLICEMEN BY CITY, SIZE, AND REGION, 1967-1972

Employee group and year	All cities 100,000 and over	City size: 1,000,000 and over	500,000 to 999,999	250,000 to 449,999	100,000 to 249,999	Region[a]: Northeast	South	North Central	West
MINIMUM ANNUAL SCALES
Firemen:
1967	$ 6,251	$ 6,988	$ 6,106	$ 5,996	$5,636	$ 6,452	$5,266	$ 6,349	$ 7,165
1968	6,753	7,623	6,636	6,335	6,063	7,148	5,681	6,704	7,624
1969	7,413	8,497	7,338	6,890	6,574	7,995	6,182	7,444	8,124
1970	8,041	9,253	7,786	7,685	7,103	8,651	6,678	8,189	8,813
1971	8,490	9,596	8,215	8,179	7,674	9,029	6,980	8,827	9,396
1972	9,026	10,385	8,759	8,480	8,125	9,863	7,273	9,245	9,967
Policemen:
1967	6,470	6,977	6,154	6,130	5,802	6,617	5,472	6,554	7,260
1968	7,019	7,628	6,741	6,480	6,212	7,322	5,909	7,011	7,736
1969	7,741	8,540	7,274	7,066	6,739	8,231	6,480	7,720	8,210
1970	8,448	9,300	7,888	7,926	7,357	8,953	7,001	8,553	8,953
1971	8,874	9,675	8,291	8,414	7,942	9,257	7,339	9,219	9,518
1972	9,454	10,454	8,768	8,747	8,385	10,158	7,660	9,598	10,060
MAXIMUM ANNUAL SCALES
Firemen:
1967	7,463	8,508	7,221	7,085	6,636	7,885	6,298	7,432	8,385
1968	7,982	9,015	7,865	7,486	7,143	8,376	6,898	7,936	8,870
1969	8,736	10,033	8,591	8,158	7,744	9,247	7,497	8,876	9,444
1970	9,482	10,828	9,293	9,089	8,349	9,960	8,150	9,710	10,353
1971	10,060	11,327	9,839	9,649	9,080	10,368	8,549	10,489	11,296
1972	10,718	12,247	10,485	10,080	9,658	11,225	8,990	11,099	12,030
Policemen:
1967	7,816	8,503	7,504	7,245	6,844	8,117	6,603	7,852	8,554
1968	8,313	8,976	8,127	7,657	7,338	8,545	7,232	8,377	9,044
1969	9,196	10,101	8,678	8,509	7,982	9,522	7,896	9,461	9,641
1970	10,017	10,927	9,616	9,385	8,648	10,275	8,596	10,424	10,598
1971	10,576	11,452	10,109	9,960	9,408	10,563	9,091	11,230	11,611
1972	11,287	12,389	10,668	10,426	9,989	11,479	9,488	11,902	12,307

SOURCE: "Firemen's And Policemen's Salary Scales Increased 6.6 Percent In 1971," U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor, Statistics (Press Release) August 15, 1972.

[a] Regions used in these studies are: NORTHEAST–Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Vermont; SOUTH–Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, District of Columbia, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, and West Virginia; NORTH CENTRAL–Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota, and Wisconsin; and WEST–Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming.

Data relate only to cities that had a population of 100,000 or more in 1970.

SPECIAL REPORTS

TEACHER EVALUATION CRITERIA IN NEGOTIATED CONTRACTS

Evaluating teacher performance can be an illusive and subjective appraisal, unless conducted in a structured, objective manner and based on sound criteria which are judicious and reflective of a desired educational goal. Effective evaluations are intended to improve teaching performance and to stimulate professional growth. All evaluation criteria are closely intertwined, as they together, yet separately, reflect the attitudes toward the educational process and the objectives to be derived from them.

A study of 1970-71 negotiated comprehensive classroom teacher agreements revealed that 91 of 1,529 agreements in systems with 1,000 or more pupils enrolled contained provisions related to evaluation for rating teacher performance. Of these provisions, 51 established a joint committee to develop and/or discuss possible evaluation criteria, and 40 contained provisions with criteria to be observed in an appraisal. (Note Table 1.)

No standardized set of criteria was found in the agreements. Contract language varied, presenting criteria which are comparative but not identical. The evaluation criteria are intended to gauge the effectiveness of a teacher's job through observable factors which contribute to the learning process both inside and outside the classroom. The identified factors, as illustrations, are presented merely to show what is contained in teacher-school board contracts. They are not necessarily exemplary.

The analysis revealed four identifiable criteria items: classroom environment, professional qualities, working relationships, and personal appearance. Every provision listed classroom environment and professional qualities as yardsticks for measuring teacher performance, while working relationships and personal appearance were found in 85.0 and 62.5 percent of the provisions, respectively.

The analyzed provisions listed the criteria either in a structured evaluation form (62.5 percent) or in an informal manner, suggestive of a "guidelines" format (37.5 percent), with factors listed for observation. The presence in a contract of either a structured or guidelines form does not lessen the inherent subjectiveness of the evaluation. However, the scope of the evaluation is limited to what appears in the contract as observable and upon which some type of judgment must be made. (Note Table 2.)

The analysis itself presents what was found in agreements under the four criteria items. Grouping of the various factors was made to reflect the general area under which a particular factor most fit. Overlapping is evident and integral, as each factor impinges in some way on another and is interrelated in the educational process.

TABLE 1.—NEGOTIATED AGREEMENTS: CRITERIA FOR EVALUATING TEACHER PERFORMANCE, 1970-71

Item	Number	Percent
1	2	3
Total number of agreements analyzed	1,529	...
Agreements containing provisions relating to teacher evaluation criteria	91	100.0
Joint committees to formulate teacher evaluation criteria	51	56.0
Provisions containing actual items of teacher evaluation criteria	40	44.0
Total number of provisions containing items of teacher evaluation criteria	40	100.0
Presentation of evaluation criteria:
Evaluation rating form	25	62.5
Guideline evaluation form	15	37.5
Items of criteria contained in provisions relative to:
Classroom environment	40	100.0
Professional qualities	40	100.0
Working relationships	34	85.0
Physical appearance	27	62.5

CLASSROOM ENVIRONMENT

In every evaluation provision, numerous factors concerned classroom performance. These areas tended to cluster in three functional areas, teacher presentation of subject, pupil-teacher interaction, and the physical appearance of the classroom. More factors regarding the teacher's presentation than regarding pupil-teacher interaction were identified, indicating that the area to be observed is the mechanical or performance aspect rather than the area of human response and receptivity, or results of the educational process.

In general, all classroom evaluation criteria provisions contained one or more common factors to gauge the teacher's presentation. The three most common factors were indications of lesson preparation, attention to pupils' individual needs, and presentation of subject matter. Two factors appearing with lesser frequency were implementation of new teaching methods and means of evaluating pupils. All five factors were not found separately in every contract, but in various combinations. In some contracts, provisions were so worded as to combine two or more of these factors in a broad based statement, while other provisions contained detailed and precisely worded statements which combined were identified as one factor. (See Table 3.)

The more concrete measurements for gauging job performance were found in those agreements, more than two-thirds, which appraised the classroom learning environment through the teacher's lesson preparations and the manner in which the lesson was presented for the pupils' digestion. These factors were described, respectively, as:

> evidence of long-range and daily planning and objectives.
>
> [Grandville, Michigan]

or as:

> effective use of appropriate methods, techniques, materials and time.
>
> [Brockton, New York]

TABLE 2.–PRESENTATION OF TEACHER EVALUATION CRITERIA

Item	Number	Percent
1	2	3
Total number of provisions containing items of teacher evaluation criteria	40	100.0
Provisions containing items of criteria in structured evaluation forms	25	62.5
Provisions containing criteria in guideline form	15	37.5
Provisions containing items of criteria in structured evaluation forms	25	62.5
Number of criteria items contained in evaluation forms:
under 10 items	2	5.0
10-19 items	8	20.0
20-29 items	10	25.0
30-39 items	4	10.0
40-49 items	1	2.5
How teachers are evaluated:
Set ratings scales	22	55.0
Scale of 1-2	4	10.0
Scale of 1-3	4	10.0
Scale of 1-4	3	7.5
Scale of 1-5	5	12.5
Scale of 1-7	5	12.5
Scale of 1-10	1	2.5
Set rating scales and written comments	19	47.5
Set ratings only	3	7.5
Written comments only	3	7.5
Types of evaluation criteria:
Descriptive criteria items	18	45.0
Broad criteria items	7	17.5
Provisions containing criteria in guideline form	15	37.5
Number of criteria items included:
Under 10 items	9	22.5
10-19 items	3	7.5
20-29 items	1	2.5
30-39 items	1	2.5
40-49 items	1	2.5
Types of evaluation criteria:
broad criteria items	8	20.0
descriptive criteria items	7	17.5

Placing the onus for the creation of the learning environment on the teacher, some contracts charged the appraisor to look for the teacher's "ability to develop a plan of action and follow it," [North Babylon, New York] or to observe whether the teacher demonstrates an "insight in the choice of teaching methods and effectiveness in their use." [Grand Ledge, Michigan]

TABLE 3.–CRITERIA RELATING TO CLASSROOM ENVIRONMENT

Item	Number	Percent
1	2	3
Provisions containing criteria relating to classroom environment	40	100.0
Criteria relating to pupil-teacher interaction	37	92.5
Student rapport	32	80.0
Teacher's authority	25	62.5
Pupil participation	9	22.5
Criteria relating to the instructional program	40	100.0
Teacher's preparation of lessons	29	72.5
Attention to pupil's individual needs	28	70.0
Presentation of subject matter	27	67.5
Use of new methods	18	45.0
Means of evaluating students	15	37.5
Criteria relating to the classroom's physical appearance	28	70.0

Closely allied are factors which dealt with the teacher's attention to pupil's individual needs. One contract provision phrased it as "recognizing the differences in individual pupils by utilizing pupil records and translating the subject matter into terms understandable to each student." [Grand Ledge, Michigan] Another provision listed several ways in which a teacher demonstrates his attention to student needs:

> recognizes and provides for individual differences by:
>
> A. using personnel records
>
> B. conferring with professional staff and/or parents about individual progress and/or problems.
>
> C. providing for individual interests and needs
>
> D. recognizing and commending in a prudent manner desirable characteristics of pupils.
>
> [Brockton, New York]

Factors which appeared in less than one-half of the analyzed provisions observed the classroom environment through the implementation of the instructional program, namely, utilization of new teaching materials and evaluation of pupil's progress. Examples of these items are similar to the following:

> initiates new ideas and methods; experiments with new techniques; constantly stimulates pupils to develop new ideas and suggestion.
>
> [West Springfield, Massachusetts]

is realistic in evaluating student progress and uses varied techniques in evaluation of student progress.

[Albuquerque, New Mexico]

Three factors were identified as measures of pupil-teacher interaction: student rapport, teacher's authority, and pupil participation in class activity. While pupil-teacher interaction factors were not identifiable in all the classroom environment evaluation criteria provisions, student rapport was the most common single factor, identified in 8 out of 10 provisions. Teacher's authority was found in over half of the provisions, and pupil participation was found in less than one-fourth of the criteria.

Student rapport, which concerns the learning relationship was described in the Glen Ridge, New Jersey agreement as the "teacher's ability to communicate with students," while the Comstock Park, Michigan, contract defines it as the "ability to gain respect and cooperation of students."

Granted that student rapport is an essential element for measuring teaching performance, it is also a nebulous, evaluative factor which asks the appraisor to observe "communication" and measure "respect and cooperation."

Pupil participation in the classroom activity was based on the encouragement and stimulation of the pupil by the teacher in an effort to increase the students' role in the educational process. The following reprint illustrates this factor as it appeared in agreements.

accepts and encourages, rather than critizes, student's ideas; he (the teacher) talks less, encourages student-initiated ideas.

[Auburn, New York]

The remaining factor most often found as an index for rating pupil-teacher interaction was the teacher's control of and authority in the classroom. Examples of this factor are:

handles own pupil behavior problems, except in extreme cases.

[Casper, Wyoming]

or from another perspective, creates a climate of mutual respect and regard, controls classroom situation.

[Cumberland, Rhode Island]

A somewhat unrelated factor, classroom appearance, was also identified under the classroom environment criterion. The evaluator was asked to observe the physical surroundings of the classroom insofar as they are within the teacher's control. Though this factor is not an integral part of the learning process, it warranted attention since the physical characteristics of the classroom are conducive to learning. The following provision illustrates this factor.

room reflects interests and experience of children; colorful; attractive; livable; orderly environment conducive to learning. Arranges efficiently the mechanical details of the classroom. (i.e., the care of materials, etc.) Controls physical aspects as far as possible (lights, ventilation, heat, etc.). Reports to proper persons those needing attention.

[Clio, Michigan]

TEACHER'S PROFESSIONAL QUALITIES

Since education is an on-going and changing process, performance was also judged on the teacher's professional attributes, with many contracts rating the teacher's professional qualifications, and professional attitudes. (Table 4.)

More than three-fourths of the provisions stressed professional qualifications as a necessary ingredient in assessing the teacher's professional capacity through either an assessment of the teacher's knowledge of the subject matter or participation in professional growth programs. While almost one-fourth of the provisions contained either knowledge of subject or professional growth, almost one-third indicated some measurement relative to both.

TABLE 4.—CRITERIA RELATING TO TEACHER'S PROFESSIONAL QUALITIES

Item	Number	Percent
1	2	3
Provisions containing criteria items relating to teacher's professional qualities	40	100.0
Criteria items relating to teacher's professional qualifications	32	80.0
Criteria items relating to both knowledge of subject matter and professional growth	13	32.5
Criteria relating only to professional growth	10	25.0
Criteria relating only to knowledge of subject matter	9	22.5
Criteria items relating to teacher's professional attitude	31	77.5
Dependability	20	50.0
Resourcefulness	18	45.0
Tact and judgment	16	40.0
Enthusiasm	12	30.0
Sense of humor	9	22.5

The following sample provisions are illustrative:

has taken positive steps to improve his professional competence such as taking courses, attending a professional workshop, participating in a study program of the work and activities of professional educational organizations.

[Tenafly, New Jersey] demonstrates on the job an effective command of the pertinent knowledge and the required skills of the subject being taught.

[Escanaba, Michigan]

In combination with either of the above factors, the observer was asked to assess a teacher's professional attitudes in 77.5 percent of the provisions analyzed. The qualities most often considered as contributing to professional attitude were resourcefulness, dependability, tact, good judgment, enthusiasm, and a sense of humor. Dependability in the performance of duty was singled out as a primary requisite in half of the agreements. Weight was also placed on the teacher's ability to adjust to a new situation or classroom development. The following provisions are samples of what was found in agreements as conducive to a good teaching attitude.

> keeps appointments and daily schedules consistently. Submits reports on time. Performs responsibilities in keeping with schedule requirements.
>
> [West Springfield, Massachusetts]

> ability to adjust to changing plans and situations.
>
> [Casper, Wyoming]

> uses tact in dealing with persons inside and outside the profession.
>
> [Escanaba, Michigan]

> enthusiasm for learning and aware of this response in students.
>
> [Grand Ledge, Michigan]

> uses humor as a technique but does not try to be entertaining.
>
> [Escanaba, Michigan]

TEACHER'S WORKING RELATIONSHIPS

Given secondary importance in teacher agreements are criteria regarding work relationships between the teacher and his colleagues, administrators, parents, and the community. Working relationships are identified in the broadest sense. Since education is a "community" service, the working relationship of teachers goes beyond the building or system into the home and the community. Basically these provisions stressed that the evaluator assess the degree of cooperation which the teacher displays in his contacts with different groups, and his responsiveness to this interchange insofar as it affects the educational program. Note the following sample provisions which set down the manner in which a teacher exhibits this criterion. (Note Table 5.)

> satisfactory professional and ethical relationships with fellow teachers and an attitude of constructive cooperation.
>
> [Kellogsville, Michigan]

TABLE 5.–CRITERIA RELATING TO TEACHER'S WORKING RELATIONSHIP

Item	Number	Percent
1	2	3
Provisions containing criteria items relating to teacher's working relationship	34	85.0
With colleagues	25	62.5
With parents	25	62.5
With administration	23	57.5
With community	14	35.0

> transmits pertinent school information, reports adequately on pupil progress and interprets the analytic diagnosis of the pupil.
>
> [Brockport, New York]

> the teacher should participate in civic and community affairs in such a way as to promote appreciation and understanding of the school system and the teaching profession.
>
> [Escanaba, Michigan]

TEACHER'S PHYSICAL CHARACTERISTICS

Consideration was also found given to the teacher's physical characteristics and attributes as relating to appropriate dress, grooming, speech, poise, and to his physical and mental health. Of all the analyzed contracts, 67.5 percent stressed one or more of these factors as elements upon which the evaluator was to rate the teacher. (Note Table 6.)

TABLE 6.–CRITERIA RELATING TO THE TEACHER'S PHYSICAL CHARACTERISTICS

Item	Number	Percent
1	2	3
Provisions containing criteria relating to the teacher's physical characteristics	27	67.5
Dress and grooming	27	67.5
Speech and poise	24	60.0
Health	13	32.5

Again though this criterion is not essential to the effective implementation of the educational program, the items are contributory factors because they are usually most easily observed and reflect a professional image regarding the educational policy of the school district. Below are some sample provisions.

> dresses in a manner appropriate to the teaching profession and his particular assignment, is well-groomed (moderate use of cosmetics, clean-shaven, hairgroomed, etc.)
>
> has clear, pleasant and expressive voice and is free from major speech errors.
>
> [Bridgewater-Raritan, New Jersey]

> recognizes and attempts to correct personal habits and mannerisms which detract from effective performance.
>
> [Mamaroneck, New York]

The following evaluation forms are representative of the variety found in agreements. They are not intended to be exemplary, but are reprinted so as to provide some guideline and insight for those interested in developing an evaluation form for negotiation purposes.

Kelloggville Public Schools

Guide Sheet

Name _____

Building _____

Date _____

I. Teacher Ability
- A. Maintains good pupil-teacher relationships.
- B. Maintains good classroom appearance and arrangement.
- C. Prepares flexible, workable lesson plans. The plans are realistic and the tasks are reasonable.
- D. Uses instructional materials effectively. Uses audio-visual materials, reference books, etc.
- E. Recognizes individual differences and attempts to provide for all ranges of ability.
- F. Maintains consistent and reasonable control with children.

II. Personal Qualities
- A. Maintains appropriate personal appearance.
- B. Follows school regulations in a positive manner and is dependable and resonsible.
- C. Maintains self control, uses sound judgment and has a sense of humor.
- D. Uses tact in working with colleagues and is fair, impartial and objective in treatment of pupils.
- E. Uses discretion in working with colleagues and parents.

III. Professional Qualities
- A. Maintains satisfactory professional and ethical relationships with fellow teachers and has an attitude of constructive cooperation.
- B. Improves his knowledge of subject matter and keeps abreast of changes in his field.
- C. Maintains proper communication with parents.
- D. Takes active part in grade level and building meetings.

Teacher _____

Date _____

School _____

Grade _____

Specific areas of weakness _____

_____

Specific areas of strength _____

_____

Comments _____

_____

_____
Principal

_____
Teacher

[Kelloggville, Michigan]

PORT HURON AREA SCHOOL DISTRICT
Port Huron, Michigan
ATTACHMENT "C"
EVALUATION OF PROFESSIONAL STAFF

Name _____

Date _____

Building _____

Grade or Subject _____

Evaluator	Date of Observation	Time spent in Classroom Observation	Activity Observed

Circle the number or letter which best expresses your rating. It is important that supporting statements be presented in each area. Where necessary, use additional sheets. See page 6 for explanation of terms used in the evaluation.

Scale: 1—Superior 2—Above Average 3—Average
4—Needs improvement 5—Unsatisfactory N—Not observed

I. PERSONAL QUALIFICATIONS

A. Poise	1	2	3	4	5	N
B. Health and vitality	1	2	3	4	5	N
C. Sense of humor	1	2	3	4	5	N
D. Appropriate grooming	1	2	3	4	5	N
E. Use of English (Written and Oral)	1	2	3	4	5	N
F. Self-expression	1	2	3	4	5	N
G. Reaction to suggestions for improvement	1	2	3	4	5	N

Supporting statements: _____

_____

II. TEACHING QUALIFICATIONS

A. Variety of teaching techniques	1	2	3	4	5	N
B. Organization of subject matter	1	2	3	4	5	N
C. Knowledge of subject matter	1	2	3	4	5	N
D. Well-planned and organized classroom activities	1	2	3	4	5	N
E. Utilization of available material and equipment	1	2	3	4	5	N

Supporting statements: _____

_____

F. Sensitivity to each student's needs and problems	1	2	3	4	5	N
G. Group control	1	2	3	4	5	N
H. Fulfills responsibilities in school management	1	2	3	4	5	N
I. Enthusiasm for teaching	1	2	3	4	5	N
J. Exhibits willingness to go beyond assigned tasks	1	2	3	4	5	N

Supporting statements: _____

_____

III. PROFESSIONAL RELATIONSHIPS

A. Teacher-Pupil relationships	1	2	3	4	5	N
B. Teacher-Administration relationships	1	2	3	4	5	N
C. Teacher-Parent relationships	1	2	3	4	5	N
D. Teacher-Consultant relationships	1	2	3	4	5	N
E. Teacher-Teacher relationships	1	2	3	4	5	N

Supporting statements: _____

_____

(While use of the next four items is desirable, it is not mandatory.)

IV. STRONGEST ASSETS

V. AREAS NEEDING IMPROVEMENT

VI. FACTORS IN THE PRESENT SCHOOL SITUATION WHICH TEND TO REDUCE TEACHER EFFECTIVENESS

VII. SELECTED ACTIVITIES WHICH HAVE CONTRIBUTED TO THIS TEACHER'S PROFESSIONAL GROWTH SINCE THE LAST EVALUATION

EVALUATORS' SIGNATURES

_____ Signature _____ Date

_____ Signature _____ Date

TEACHER'S COMMENTS:

My signature indicates that I have received a copy of this evaluation

_____ Date _____ Teacher

The following are some suggested explanations of the items used in the evaluation.

I. PERSONAL QUALIFICATIONS

A. Poise—meets situations with calm self-assurance.
B. Health and vitality—possessing physical vitality, energy and emotional stability.
C. Sense of humor—relieves tense situations and maintains interest with careful use of humor.
D. Appropriate grooming—is neat, well-groomed.
E. Use of English—communicates in clear, correct and precise language.
F. Self-expression—has ability to project one's own personality and interest without dominating.
G. Reaction to suggestions for improvement—has a positive reaction to requests, is usually willing to try, has sound reasons for opposition, brings counter-suggestions.

II. TEACHING QUALIFICATIONS

A. Variety of teaching techniques—looks for and uses new approaches to vary classwork.
B. Organization of subject matter—develops long-range goals and organizes the weekly and daily lesson plans within this framework.
C. Knowledge of subject matter—brings adequate, scholarly preparation to the field of assignment, and continues to develop his scholarship.
D. Well-planned and organized classroom activities—plans purposeful activities to meet the needs and abilities of the students.
E. Utilization of available materials and equipment—employs available equipment and provides for student use of source material.
F. Sensitivity to each student's needs and problems—provides for individual differences.
G. Group control—is consistent in policy, firm but friendly, develops effective class morale, provides healthy classroom climate for learning.
H. Fulfills responsibilities in school management—assumes fair share in total program, including activities, keeps to the time schedule, completes records and reports, promptly and accurately, gives effective help in supervision of students out of class.
I. Enthusiasm for teaching—has ability to inspire student's enthusiasm for learning, indicates pride in chosen profession to his colleagues and to the public.
J. Exhibits willingness to go beyond assigned tasks—contributes extra time to meet the needs of individual students, takes responsibility for and participates in various types of student and faculty activities.

III. PROFESSIONAL RELATIONSHIPS

A. Teacher-Pupil relationships—makes students feel they are important and wanted in class.
B. Teacher-Administration relationships—accepts school policies, follows them while in effect, has sound reason for any opposition, brings counter-suggestions.
C. Teacher-Parent relationships—willingly consults with parents regarding student's needs and presents a positive image of the educational program.
D. Teacher-Consultant relationships—seeks consultant's ideas, is willing to try them, and adapts those suitable to own classroom situation.
E. Teacher-Teacher relationships—is considerate of other teachers, willing to share ideas, appreciative of good teaching, makes a point of becoming acquainted with new staff, has ability to discuss professional competencies intelligently.

[Port Huron, Michigan]

RANDOLPH CENTRAL SCHOOL-TEACHER RATING CHART

Name _____

Year and Term _____ Date _____

Scored by _____ Grade or Subject _____

I. PERSONAL		Ex.		Fair		Poor		Total
1. Appearance and Manner. Voice-Vitality; health; dress; refinement.	(2)	7	6	5	4	3	2	1
2. Reliability. Responsibility; dependability punctuality.	(3)	7	6	5	4	3	2	1
3. Poise.	(3)	7	6	5	4	3	2	1
4. Cooperation.	(3)	7	6	5	4	3	2	1
5. Resourcefulness. Sense of humor; originality, initiative.	(2)	7	6	5	4	3	2	1
6. Leadership. Classroom; community.	(2)	7	6	5	4	3	2	1
II. PROFESSIONAL.
1. Teaching Efficiency. Motivation; questions, assignments; grasp of subject matter, teacher-pupil relationship.	(4)	7	6	5	4	3	2	1
2. Pupil Reaction. Results; scholastic; character; social.	(4)	7	6	5	4	3	2	1
3. Control Of Pupils— Respect and interest of pupils.	(3)	7	6	5	4	3	2	1
4. Professional Advancement.	(2)	7	6	5	4	3	2	1
5. School Management.	(2)	7	6	5	4	3	2	1

Rated by: _____ Total _____

Code: E (Excellent-Eligible for tenure) 210-172 Final
F (Fair-Must be raised for tenure) 171-150 Rating _____
P (Poor) below 150

Remarks: _____

Method of Scoring: Each of the 11 points has been given a numerical value (4, 3, 2). The range in rating extends from 7 to 1. To score an individual on any point, the proper number is circled. When this is multiplied by its numerical value, the score for that particular point is secured. By adding the totals, an index number is secured which, when compared with the table, gives an objective rating of the teacher.

[Randolph, New York]

EVALUATION FORM FOR PROFESSIONAL STAFF

Evaluator _____ School _____

Date _____ School Year 19 __ 19 __

Name: Miss / Mrs. / Mr. _____
Last First Middle Maiden

Grade Level(s) or Subject(s) _____

Total Teaching Experience _____ yrs.

In Hammond _____ yrs. Outside _____ yrs.

Date of evaluation conference with staff member _____

This form has three sections (A) Evaluation Checklist (B) Written descriptive evaluation remarks (C) Recommendations. Place a plus (+) sign in front of any item which relates to outstanding strength. Place a check (✓) in front of any item for which there is need for improvement. ITEMS NOT MARKED INDICATE PROFESSIONAL COMPETENCE WITHOUT RESERVATION.

A. EVALUATION SECTION

1. Classroom Effectiveness

__ Relationship with pupils
__ Planning
__ Knowledge of subject(s)
__ Effectiveness in Communication
__ Classroom atmosphere and control
__ Use of new and varied instructional material
__ Attention to individual needs needs
__ Adaptability to changing classroom situations
__ Attention to study skills and habits
__ Effectiveness in appraising learning

2. Attitudes and professional responsibilities

__ Relationship with Parents
__ Relationship with Colleagues
__ Willingness to assume responsibility for pupil behavior in all school situations
__ Takes steps toward self-improvement
__ Takes part in professional organ
__ Accepts school staff assignments beyond classroom responsibility
__ Has respect for channels of authority
__ Complies with school and school system policies
__ Responsibility for routines
__ Attendance and punctuality

3. Personal Characteristics

__ Mental Alertness
__ Enthusiasm
__ Dependability
__ Initiative
__ Perseverance
__ Resourcefulness
__ Tact
__ Poise and self-confidence
__ Self-control
__ Judgment
__ Dress and grooming

B. DESCRIPTIVE REMARKS BY EVALUATOR

_____

_____

C. RECOMMENDATIONS (answer yes or no)

* _____ This person's contract should be renewed for another school year.

 _____ This person should be granted tenure in the Hammond School City.

_____ This teacher would serve more satisfactorily in another assignment. (Explain specifically)

*Non-tenure teachers
Tenure teachers

D. COMMENTS BY TEACHER

_____

_____

Signed _____
(Evaluator)

Signed _____
(Teacher)

[Hammond, Indiana]

BRIEFS OF RECENT AGREEMENTS

Norwich, Connecticut

Between Norwich Board of Education and the Norwich Teachers League, effective July 1, 1971, to June 30, 1973. Approximately 300 certificated professional employees. Between December 15 and February 1, parties shall initiate negotiation for a successor agreement.

COMPENSATION: (1971-72) B.A., $7,375 to $11,600, 11 increments; M.A., $8,000 to $12,575, 11 increments; 6 years, $8,600 to $13,515, 11 increments; rate of pay for substitute teachers shall be set by board with qualifications those approved by state board of education.

LEAVES: Fifteen days' annual sick leave, unlimited accumulation; absence for sickness beyond granted leave, pay is difference between regular salary and substitute's pay; 5 days' personal leave with one day prior notice for religious holy days (not to exceed 3 per year), illness or death in immediate family, marriage, court attendance, birth of child, or other emergencies; time may be allowed for attendance at conventions, participation in educational evaluations, school visiting days, and other forms of professional improvement and services without loss of pay upon request, 15 days in advance, for which substitute shall be provided and teacher reimbursed for legitimate expenses; leave up to 2 years for military service; sabbatical leave at 65 percent of salary for full year after 7 years' service; leave will be granted those involved at meetings or hearings in the grievance procedure when held during the school day; leave of absence up to 2 years may be granted those serving in Peace Corps; leave without loss of salary to begin programs of study resulting from foundation or scholarship grants which necessitate personal presence in advance of close of school year, on approval of superintendent; other extended leaves, with or without salary, may be granted at the discretion of the board.

INSURANCE: Board pays hospitalization insurance including major medical with family coverage available at option of teacher for which board pays 75 percent; tax sheltered annuity plan; full salary less Workmen's Compensation benefits up to 120 school days for accidents arising in course of employment, not charged to annual or sick leave.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll dues deduction for the unified organization; modified agency shop for all new hires as of September 1972; paid released time for 3 league representatives during negotiation sessions; use of school buildings and facilities at reasonable times for meetings, with any custodial costs paid by league; monthly meetings of board and league will be held to discuss the administration of this agreement or to negotiate any additional issues.

INSTRUCTION: Class size for K-3, 25 to 1, for 4-6, 27 to 1, for junior high school, 30 to 1, and special subject area classes exempted from limitations; school calendar to be 183 days; textbook selection and development and revision of curricula including state and federal projects to be cooperatively arrived at through joint consultation among teachers and administrators subject to final approval by the board.

PERSONNAL: Grievance procedure ends with binding arbitration; when a teacher's class is under supervision of a special subject teacher, the regular teacher may use this time as a preparation period within the school; copies of written evaluation reports to be given teachers who may discuss such report within one week of its date; no evaluation report or written statement of criticism to be kept in the personnel file longer than 30 days unless such report is shown to teacher involved and acknowledged by the teacher's initial within 30 days of the evaluation; vacancies to be posted at least 30 days in advance of the date position is to be filled; transfers and reasons for such action to be discussed with teacher involved; if teacher objects to the transfer, he will notify the league after which the superintendent or his designee will discuss the transfer with the league's representatives, and if grievance is sought, it shall be initiated at level 3; the school to provide space in each classroom for storage of instructional materials and supplies, a teacher work area with adequate equipment and supplies, a faculty lounge, parking space of adequate size and reasonable location at each school.

Bloomington, Illinois

Between Bloomington Board of Education, School District 87, and the Bloomington Education Association, effective August 9, 1972, to June 30, 1974. Approximately 364 certificated professional employees. Provision for reopener upon written notification by either party, for the purpose of negotiating salary changes applicable to 1973-74 school term, with notice given at least 90 days prior to June 30, 1973.

COMPENSATION: B.A., $7,800 to $10,800, 10 increments; B.A. plus 8, $8,082 to $11,100, 10 increments; B.A. plus 16, $8,364 to $11,400, 10 increments; B.A. plus 24, $8,646 to $11,700, 10 increments; M.A., $9,010 to $12,825, 11 increments; M.A. plus 16, $9,350 to $13,500, 12 increments; M.A. plus 32, $9,690 to $14,175, 13 increments; M.A. plus 48, $10, 030 to $14,850, 14 increments.

DIFFERENTIALS: Head varsity basketball and football coaches, $1,400; head varsity baseball, wrestling, and track coaches, $800; head swimming, tennis, and speech coaches, $750; head golf coach, $650; senior high school band and chorus directors, $600; debate coach and ticket manager for athletic games, $500; junior high school track, and sophomore and junior high school cheerleader coaches, $350; high school girls varsity sports, junior high school wrestling, and freshman cheerleader coaches, junior class sponsor, and senior high school orchestra leader, $300; senior high school yearbook sponsor, $250; junior high school audiovisual and junior high school orchestra directors, $150; junior high school chorus director and elementary safety patrol supervisor, $100; travel allowance of 10 cents per mile or public carrier, $10 for three meals per day, $20 for lodging, per night, and registration fees upon superintendent's approval.

LEAVES: Ten days' annual sick leave, 130 days' maximum accumulation to be used for personal illness or injury, quarantine at home or serious illness or death in the immediate family, up to first cousin; 2 days for personal business, noncumulative; sick and personal leave may be used in fractions of less than one-half day; leave with pay to attend educational meeting, conference, or workshop; paid leave for jury duty upon surrendering court compensation; unpaid leave of absence for military service to a maximum of 3 years, credited to advancement on salary schedule; sabbatical leave at one-half pay for one term after 6 years' service; unpaid leave of absence to a tenure teacher for a specified educational service, advanced study, prolonged illness, or service in the state service General Assembly.

INSURANCE: Board-paid individual health and accident insurance plan; board-paid $2,000 group life and $2,000 group accidental death and dismemberment insurance; liability policy provided by employer; tax deferred annuity.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll dues deduction for local, state, and national associations; association may use school facilities provided use of them does not interfere with regular school operation; use of bulletin boards and inter-school mail service; association leave of 10 aggregate days without loss of salary per school term, with no more than 5 teachers absent on any one day, if association pays cost of substitutes.

INSTRUCTION: Elementary and special teachers to have three 25-minute periods per week (75 minutes per week) and others to have one period per day (275 minutes per week) preparation time; class size not to exceed 26; school calendar to include 185 teacher work days; joint committee on student discipline established for three grade levels, K-6, 7-8, and 9-12, to review and propose changes in the current discipline procedures and standards.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with final and binding arbitration; personnel file to be accessible to the teacher, information related to the disciplining of a teacher not to be placed in file without giving the teacher an opportunity to respond; 30-minute duty-free lunch period; if a teacher volunteers to transfer temporarily to a class other than his regular assignment and does not receive planning and conference periods as provided, he is to be compensated for such lost planning and conference period time at the rate of $7 per hour; faculty meetings not to exceed one per month; inservice training session may be scheduled during all or part of the regular teacher workday; prior conference with teacher to advise on evaluation procedure, standards expected, and evaluation instrument – formal observation of a minimum of 30 consecutive minutes conducted with full knowledge of teacher; four evaluations of probationary teachers and one of tenure teachers per school term; a conference to be held with the teacher within 5 days following each formal observation; vacancies to be posted in all school buildings for 10 days; reasons for denial of transfer to be given in writing 10 days after filling the position; teacher may resign if involuntarily transferred or reassignment is not acceptable; probationary teachers according to length of service to be laid-off first if tenure teacher is available and certificated to perform the teaching services, with re-employment rights for one year in reverse order; a teacher to be informed of any complaints regarding his teaching but no disciplinary action is to be initiated by the employer until a conference between the complaining party and the teacher involved has occurred; teachers to be provided with a separate desk with an operational lock, a file cabinet, and closet space to store personal articles; duplicating machines and typewriters to be made available to each school for the use of teachers; a central professional library to be maintained to include selected professional reference materials and copies of all textbooks currently in regular use in the district; a recent edition of a dictionary to be provided in each classroom.

Lake Fenton, Michigan

Between Lake Fenton Board of Education and Lake Fenton Education Association, effective December 8, 1971, to June 30, 1973. Approximately 87 certificated professional employees. Between March 1 and March 15, parties to initiate negotiations for a successor agreement.

COMPENSATION: (1972-73) Average of the Linden, Fenton, Holly Districts salary schedules with projections to include education specialist steps.

DIFFERENTIALS: Special education teacher, $600 per year; varsity football and basketball coaches, band director, 10%; varsity assistant football, junior varsity head football and basketball, varsity baseball, head track coaches, 7%; junior varsity assistant football, 9th grade basketball, cross country, golf coaches, 6%; girls' basketball coach, 5.5%; freshman football, junior varsity baseball, wrestling, and assistant track coaches, 5%; girls' softball coach, 4.5%; 7th and 8th grade basketball coaches, 4%; 7th and 8th grade track coaches, 3%; senior class yearbook, and senior high cheerleading sponsors, $300; business, English, mathematics, science, social studies, guidance department coordinators, and head teachers, $250; junior class sponsor, $200; play director, $200 per play; junior high cheerleading and forensics sponsors, $150; art director, $150 each play; sophomore class sponsor, $125; freshman class, 8th, 7th grade sponsors, $100; substitute teachers, $7 per high-school period or $30 per day; driver education, $6 per hour.

LEAVES: Credit of 12 days' sick leave at beginning of year days', maximum accumulation; 2 days' sick leave may be used for personal business, with 3 days advance request; sick-leave bank composed of one sick-leave day at the beginning of each school year from each teacher, with the board contributing additional days to insure a minimum of 100 days; if sick leave days are depleted, up to 5 days' leave for bereavement of immediate family may come from sick leave bank; paid leave for professional conferences and school visitation; paid leave for jury duty not chargeable to sick leave with board to pay difference between jury pay and salary; sabbatical leave at one-half pay for one year after 7 years' service or one semester at full pay; unpaid leaves up to 2 years for personal reasons; up to 1 year after 3 years' service to study at an accredited college or university; military leave; up to 4 years to serve in a state or national public office.

> It is suggested that a maternity leave is to commence at the beginning of a semester whenever possible. Continuation of duties after the seventh month will be by mutual agreement. A doctor's statement certifying fitness may be required in cases where the teacher intends to work when pregnant. At least sixty (60) days prior to the beginning of a semester the teacher may apply to return to work. If requested by the Board, she shall submit with such application a statement from a qualified physician attesting her ability to resume active duty. The teacher shall thereupon be assigned the same or an equivalent teaching position and shall be paid therefore at the salary step on the salary schedule immediately higher than the step applicable to her at the beginning of such leave. If said position is unavailable, the teacher shall be assigned to the first available position. A teacher adopting a child may receive similar leave which shall commence upon entry of an order terminating the right of the natural parents by the Probate Court.

INSURANCE: Board pays hospitalization insurance up to maximum of $45 per month for family, $42 for 2 persons, $25 for single subscriber; board-paid group life amounting to $5,000; long-term disability insurance with benefits payable upon the 366th day of disability at a minimum of 50% of annual salary with a monthly payment limit of 75%; board to provide a maximum of $10 per month for insurance against loss of income.

ASSOCIATION: Agency shop, with dues deduction for local, state, and national association; 6 days may be used by teachers for organization business when acting as officers or agents of the association to attend TEPS, curriculum, or other non-negotiation oriented meetings, plus 3 days to be used for other meetings for which the association will reimburse the board; use of school facilities and equipment provided such use does not interfere with the regular school operation and association paying any custodial charges; duly authorized representative of the association to be permitted to transact official association business on school property at all reasonable times that do not interrupt normal school operation; unpaid leave up to two years to any teacher to serve as an officer of the association or its staff.

INSTRUCTION: Class size for K-6 to be 30 to 1, an additional class will be added when 20 or more pupils on any one grade level exceeds the 30 average; for 7-12, no more than 150 students per day, 35 maximum per class with no more than 3 preparations; for 3 preparations and 10 students over 150, or 4 preparations and 150 students, premium pay of $300 per year; school calendar to comprise 184 1/2 teacher work days of which 181 1/2 shall be student session days.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with binding arbitration; personnel file may be reviewed on request at any time; duty-free lunch period of 30-35 minutes; board to hire playground supervisor, and in event of supervisor's absence, elementary teachers may be assigned noon period; junior and senior high to have 25 class periods and 5 preparation periods per week; elementary teachers to be required to serve not more than 6 duty recess periods in a 3-week block of time; at the discretion of the board, each teacher may have up to 3 days' leave for professional improvement including school visitations, conferences, seminars, and educational programs upon prior request to principal; if a meeting is held within the state, limit of 2 days per conference and reimbursement up to $50 per teacher; written evaluation yearly with a copy forwarded to teacher involved within 10 days of evaluation; if defects are found in teaching performance during evaluation procedure, supervisor to immediately notify teacher in writing, recommend steps to remedy defects, and re-evaluate within a reasonable period with a final written report to the teacher; a "teaching coach" who is tenured with 5 years' experience within same grade or discipline to be assigned to every new teacher in the same building to assist and counsel probationary teachers; vacancies to be posted for no less than 7 calendar days before the position is filled; involuntary transfers during the school year to be made only in case of emergency or to prevent undue disruption of the instructional program; any teacher transferred to an administrative position who then returns to a teacher status to retain rights under this agreement; in the event that the board requests a negotiating session or a meeting involving a professional grievance during the school day, any teacher participating is to be relieved of duty without loss of pay during this meeting; under no conditions will a teacher be required to drive a school bus or transport pupils; teacher may suspend a pupil for one class period when the grossness of the offense, the persistence of the misbehavior, or the disruptive effect of the violation makes the continued presence of the pupil in the classroom intolerable; teachers who participate in the production of educational material to share equally in residual rights should materials be copyrighted or sold by the district; the board is to provide a separate desk for each teacher; closet space for each teacher to store personal articles; chalkboard space in every classroom, copies for the teacher's exclusive use of all adopted texts used in each of the courses he is to teach, one collegiate dictionary for each teacher on request; preparation areas for teachers, storage space in each classroom for instructional materials.

Reduction in Personnel, Annexations & Consolidations of Districts

To the full extent permitted by law, this Agreement shall be binding upon the Board and its successor personnel and upon any school district into which or with which this district shall be merged or combined.

In the event this district shall be combined with one or more districts, the Board will use its best efforts to assure the continued employment of its employees in such consolidated district.

Should substantial and/or unforeseen changes occur, such as student population, building requirements (classroom space), financial difficulties, the following procedure will be used to promote an orderly reduction in personnel:

Probationary employees will be laid-off first, providing there are seniority teachers in the district, certified and qualified to perform the services of the probationary teacher.

In the event tenure teachers must be laid off, such layoff will be on the basis of district seniority in K-6 and by seniority in the district according to certification in grades 7-12. When seniority within certification is equal, the Board will consider simultaneously: majors and minors, professional growth (graduate credits), and evaluations and progress reports.

Seniority will be defined as nonterminated full-time teaching experience in the Lake Fenton School District from last date of hire.

It is expressly understood that the Association shall have the right to review the layoff list prior to notification of individual teachers to be laid off.

The Board will attempt to "place" separated teachers in other districts.

During this unpaid absence period, laid-off teachers may elect to continue health insurance payments by paying the premiums directly to the school, subject to approval by the carrier.

Teachers shall be offered recall in inverse order of lay-off for positions for which they are certified.

During said layoff, such teacher's seniority shall remain unbroken and his earned rights under the terms of the master agreement at time of layoff shall be reinstated at time of recall.

Madison, Wisconsin

Between the Madison Public Schools and the Madison Teachers Inc., effective January 1, 1972, to December 31, 1972. Approximately 1,750 certificated professional employees. Provision for annual renewal with presentation of initial proposal to be made on or about June 1 of the current year and the first meeting to consider initial proposals to be held on or about September 1.

COMPENSATION: (1972 calendar year) B.A., $7,500 to $12,750, 14 increments; B.A. plus 12, $7,688 to $12,939, 14 increments; B.A. plus 24, $7,875 to $13,125, 14 increments; M.A., $8,250 to $13,500, 14 increments; M.A. plus 12, $8,438 to $14,813, 14 increments; M.A. plus 24, $8,625 to $15,000, 14 increments; M.A. plus 48, $9,000 to $15,375, 14 increments; Ph. D., $9,375 to $15,750, 14 increments; improvement levels every four years up to the 15th step on the salary schedule after which a 5 percent incentive is provided every four years except for nondegree teachers; for teachers to cross an improvement or incentive level on the salary schedule requires 6 professional advancement credits which may be academic credits as established by the Professional Advancement Study Committee; any teacher assigned to teach an additional class beyond the full teaching load to be paid an additional 14 percent of regular contract salary.

DIFFERENTIALS: Senior high head coaches of football and basketball, director of physical activities, 12 percent (of base); newspaper advisor, head coaches for baseball, swimming, track, wrestling, gymnastics, hockey, 10 percent; yearbook advisor, dramatics coach (two 3-act productions), 8 percent; assistant coaches for baseball, track, wrestling, swimming, 7 percent; head cross country coach, high school band director, debate coach, 6 percent; head coaches for curling, tennis, golf, 9th-grade track, bookstore manager, girls gymnastics, swimming, track coaches, 5 percent; forensics coach, senior high cheerleader advisor, high school choir and orchestra directors, girls basketball, tennis, volleyball, softball, and golf coaches, 4 percent; intramurals (all levels) - one period per week, 3 percent; supervision at athletic events, social activities or timers, scorers, announcers, field judges if accepted by teacher shall be paid at the rate of .0007 times base per hour; noon hour playground and lunchroom supervision paid at .0006 times base per hour (bases 2 and 3 do not apply to general student supervision of extra duty situations); a teacher assigned to more than one school and travels 5 or more miles between buildings to be reimbursed at $.12 per mile; experimental programs which differ from the regular assignment of hours and duties to be exempt from negotiations during experimental stage, limited to 3 years.

LEAVES: Ten days' annual sick leave, 180 days' maximum accumulation; one day sick leave for summer school sessions, may be added to accumulated leave; 5 days for severe illness in immediate family; 2 days' personal leave on a trial basis; 5 days' bereavement leave allowed for relatives, up to first cousin; one day for professional observation; leaves of absence granted to professional staff for ill health, continuous advanced study, home and foreign teacher exchange, or other approved reasons after 3 years' service; $400 terminal pay added to final check granted a retiring staff member whose age and service to system total 80 years; sabbatical leave at one-half pay for a full year or full pay for one-half year after 5 years' service, must render additional 2 years' service; leave for jury duty or court appearance or appearance before a governmental agency.

INSURANCE: Board-paid hospitalization and surgical insurance; board pays two-thirds for family protection; employer-employee contributory life insurance plan; $100,000 per teacher or $500,000 per incident liability insurance; board-paid long term disability income protection insurance for all teachers and administrators who have contracts for 50 percent of time or more; board pays employee's full salary during disability, up to 180 teaching days, less amount paid by Workman's Compensation.

INSTRUCTION: Class size minimum to be 15, maximum, 30 (excluding music, physical education, etc.) with each teacher responsible for no more than 135 pupils per semester regardless of class size; special teachers of art, music, and physical education to be provided within the limitations of budget to supplement the kindergarten curriculum; violations to be appealable to joint committee and if no mutually satisfactory resolution by committee to Step 3 [Board of Education] of the grievance procedure; school calendar to consist of 190 days of which 184 are teaching days;

TEXTBOOK ADOPTION

A principal, department head, or teacher who believes that textbooks or workbooks are not satisfactory may submit to the Director of Curriculum Development a statement to that effect by May 1.

By June 1 the Director of Curriculum Development announces:

a. Textbook and material changes that will be considered during the forthcoming school year, and

b. Names of committees that will be requested to make recommendations.

Publishers present materials to committee members during the following school year and prior to March 1.

a. Teachers in elementary schools confer with sales representatives before and after school.

b. Teachers in high schools may confer with sales representatives during free hours.

c. Sales representatives must obtain a permit from the Superintendent's office to present materials to teachers during school hours.

By April 1 recommendations are made to the Assistant Superintendent and the Director of Curriculum Development from the committees announced the previous June. The recommendation includes:

a. A list of texts, together with authors and publishers, examined by the committee.

b. The recommendations of the committee of the text which it believes should be adopted in the Madison Public Schools—including author, edition date, publisher, and net price.

c. The reasons or supporting data for the recommendation of the committee, and

d. The reasons for not recommending other texts submitted to the committee.

By May 10 the Director of Curriculum Development announces textbook changes which have been approved by the Board of Education for the following year.

provision for teaching controversial issues in an atmosphere as free as possible from bias and prejudice; board to support the use of physical force by any teacher, custodian, supervisor, or administrator when necessary to prevent disruption, breakdown of discipline, or stop a continuing breach of discipline by pupils; physical punishment is not to be used after completion of breach discipline, appropriate action to be conference, referral, suspension, court action, expulsion, or exemption.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure to end with binding arbitration. 30-minute duty free lunch period; attendance at professional meeting to be encouraged within defined limits; 3 days per year for attendance at state teacher convention; a professional advancement credit committee to have responsibility for establishing courses, conditions necessary to obtain credits, and credit allotted for each course; posting of vacancies required; physical examination required within 90 days of beginning of employment with $7.50 to be paid by the district, after which chest X rays or tuberculin tests must be taken every 3 years; probationary teachers may be denied renewal of their contracts after two mandatory performance evaluations, countersigned by the teacher, and continued unsatisfactory performance with a copy of any negative evaluation or memorandum forwarded to the association unless otherwise requested in writing by the teacher involved, in which case a copy of such request shall be sent to the association by the principal or supervisor involved; teachers may be suspended with pay by the superintendent if, a condition or situation warrants such emergency action—upon request by suspended staff member, the board will hold a hearing before dismissal or reinstatement; dismissal of teachers during contract year not to be allowed except for inefficiency or immorality, willful and persistent violation of reasonable regulations of the governing body, or for other good cause; dismissal procedure is similar to procedure for nonrenewal of nonprobationary teachers:

NON-RENEWAL OF NON-PROBATIONARY TEACHER

No teacher holding a regular annual contract may be refused employment, dismissed, removed or discharged, except for inefficiency or immorality, for willful and persistent violation of reasonable regulations of the governing body of the school system or for other good cause.

It is the duty of the principal or supervisor to counsel teachers concerning the proper performance of the assigned duties of the teacher.

In the discharge of said duty of the principal or supervisor, and when counseling with an individual teacher concerning areas wherein the teacher's performance of professional duties is deemed less than satisfactory, the principal or supervisor shall make and preserve a written memorandum of the substance of such conference, which memorandum shall be dated and signed by the teacher involved. A copy of the memorandum shall be sent to the President and to the Executive Director of Madison Teachers unless the teacher requests in writing that such action not be taken. Should the teacher choose not to notify Madison Teachers, a copy of his request will be sent to the Executive Director of Madison Teachers by the principal or supervisor involved.

If in the judgment of the principal or supervisor and following informal counseling with the teacher, dissatisfaction with the teacher's performance of professional duties continues, the principal or supervisor shall make a complaint to the teacher in writing detailing exact charges which give rise to dissatisfaction and which might lead to a recommendation for non-renewal of the annual contract of a teacher. A copy of these charges shall be sent to the President and to the Executive Director of Madison Teachers unless the teacher requests in writing that such action not be taken. Should the teacher choose not to notify Madison Teachers, a copy of his request will be sent to the Executive Director of Madison Teachers by the principal or supervisor involved. So that the teacher can seek to correct the cause of the complaint, the complaint shall be given to the teacher at least 30 days before forwarding to the Board of Education a recommendation for non-renewal of the annual contract of the teacher.

If the teacher does not or cannot correct the circumstances upon which the complaint is founded, after the 30 day period the principal or supervisor shall then serve notice in writing to the teacher that a recommendation for non-renewal of the annual contract of the teacher has been made. A copy of this notice shall be sent to the President and to the Executive Director of Madison Teachers unless the teacher requests in writing that such action not be taken. Should the teacher choose not to notify Madison Teachers, a copy of his request will be sent to the Executive Director of Madison Teachers by the Director of Personnel or Superintendent.

Following a written warning to the teacher by a principal or supervisor in accordance with provisions of item 4, and following a written complaint to the Board of Education, item 5, seeking the non-renewal of the contract of a teacher beyond the probationary period, the Board of Education shall notify the teacher in writing that a written complaint has been filed against the teacher which might lead the Board of Education to fail to award an annual contract to the teacher. The notice shall outline the exact charges which cause this non-renewal of contract action to be considered. A copy of this notice shall be sent to the President and to the Executive Director of Madison Teachers unless the teacher requests in writing that such action not be taken. Should the teacher choose not to notify Madison Teachers, a copy of his request will be sent to the Executive Director of Madison Teachers by the Director of Personnel or Superintendent.

The teacher may request in writing within 10 days following the notification by the Board of Education that a hearing be held at which witnesses may be called to present testimony. The Board of Education shall set the date for such a hearing not less than 20 nor more than 30 days after the teacher's request for the hearing. A copy of the notices and correspondence shall be sent to the President and to the Executive Director of Madison Teachers.

Failure of the teacher to request a hearing within the time established in this procedure shall terminate any appeal from the procedure and the Board of Education shall be free to act and decide on the charges filed against the teacher. A copy of the decision shall be filed with the Secretary of the Board of Education and the teacher shall be notified. A copy of the decision and the notification shall be sent to the President and to the Executive Director of Madison Teachers unless the teacher requests in writing that such action not be taken. Should the teacher choose not to notify Madison Teachers, a copy of his request will be sent to the Executive Director of Madison Teachers by the Director of Personnel or Superintendent.

If the teacher chooses to proceed to hearing, the teacher shall be entitled to counsel at the hearing and may, at the teacher's volition, seek further representation by the Professional Rights and Responsibilities Committee of Madison Teachers. The Madison Teachers' representatives may of their own volition choose to become or not to become a party to the action at this time.

The hearing shall be closed to the public unless the teacher charged requests an open hearing. All closed hearings shall be held in accordance with the provisions of Sec. 14.90, Wisconsin Statutes.

Following the hearing, and within 10 days, the Board of Education shall notify the teacher in writing of the Board of Education's findings and decision to continue or dismiss the employment of the teacher. A copy of the decision shall be filed with the Secretary of the Board of Education, and the Executive Director of Madison Teachers. No teacher may be employed or dismissed except by a majority vote of full membership of the Board of Education.

A dispute concerning the decision of the Board of Education and/or a dispute arising from the alleged failure of either party to follow the procedures outlined herein shall be subject to final and binding arbitration. The decision of the arbitrator shall be rendered within thirty (30) days of the final date of the arbitration hearing or the receipt of a transcript of said arbitration proceedings whichever is the last to occur.

joint study committees to be created to review evaluation procedures, life insurance programs, reading development course, inservice days, modular scheduling, mainstreaming, middle schools, intern-teacher training, with recommendations to be made prior to negotiation for inclusion in successor agreement.

HAVE YOU SEEN THIS OUTSTANDING NEA REFERENCE WORK?

COMPREHENSIVE NEGOTIATION AGREEMENT PROVISIONS
1972 Edition

PART I -	Scope of Agreement and Association, Board and Teacher Rights Provisions
PART II -	Joint Committees, Instructional, Educational and Teacher Assignment and Work-Load Provisions
PART III -	Grievance Procedures, Personnel and Salary Provisions
PART IV -	Group Insurance, Leaves of Absence and Fringe Benefit Provisions

This four-part document prepared by NEA Research is an invaluable source of negotiated items in teacher/board agreements. In 1,418 pages it analyzes over 1,500 negotiated agreements in U.S. public school systems. Over 300 negotiable items are identified and coded system-by-system. (Specific content of the provisions may be obtained on request by using the Information Request Forms provided in each volume.)

REPRESENTATION INFORMATION

- State
- Name of school system
- Location of school system
- Name of recognized organization
- National affiliation of recognized organization
- Number of professional personnel represented
- Type of agreement
- Term of comprehensive agreement
- Agreement page number for particular provision

PROVISION ANALYSIS

- 200 provision titles
- Detailed analysis coded for 300 variables:
  - Negotiation impasse: 3rd party involved in type of decision
  - Jt. administrator-teacher committees
  - Grievance arbitration: 3rd party involved in type of decision
  - Bench marks in salary schedules: 1-, 2-, or 3-year agreements
  - Group insurance: part or full premium paid by board
  - 21 short-term leaves identified

Please send:

_____ $40./set. (4 parts per set)
(qty.) Stock No. 388-11940.

_____ Special price ONLY for NEA state
(qty.) and local associations: $25./set.
Stock No. 388-11938.

Check one below:

_____ Payment enclosed. Make checks payable to NEA.
_____ Bill on purchase order attached.

Mail to:

NEA PUBLICATION-SALES SECTION 192
1201 Sixteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20036

_____
Name

_____
Organization

_____
Address

_____
City/State/ZIP

VOL. 6 NO. 4
DEC. 1972

NRD

NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST

Page

Case Reviews 3
- Assistant Principals Must Stay in Teachers' Unit
- Contempt Conviction Upheld; Strike Injunction Reversed and Remanded for Further Hearings
- Chancellor Exceeds Authority on Retroactive Pay; City's Refusal to Pay Upheld
- School Board Not Compelled to Arbitrate Retroactive Salary and Fringe Benefits Preempted by Federal Wage-Price Freeze
- School District Ordered to Pay Salaries Set Forth in Collective Bargaining Agreement
- Court to Hear Discrimination Charges Against Union
- U.S. Secretary of Labor Can Sue State to Recover Overtime Wages Due Employees Under FLSA

Board Findings and Rulings 6
- Arbitrability—Time Limits
- Employer Must Negotiate on Impasse Fact-Finder's Report
- Superintendent's Erroneous Statement and Enforcement of Board Policy Not Unfair Labor Practices
- Labor Board Finds No Domination of Local Association by Supervisory Members of State and National Affiliates, Dues Deduction Upheld
- Pay for Snow Day During Strike Denied
- Maternity Leave Provision Not Violative of Teacher's Rights
- Minority Representative Cannot Participate in Negotiation Discussion
- NLRB Reaffirms Representation Rights of Some Managerial Employees

Negotiation Notes 10
- Moratorium on Cancellation of Insurance Policies Upheld
- Physicians Union Signs First Contract
- Employer's Suspension of Benefits During Negotiation Violates Taylor Law
- U.S. Department of Labor Funds Public Employee Research Institute
- Consumer Price Index, September 1972
- Over Half of Federal Workers in Exclusive Bargaining Units

Statistics 12
- Negotiated Procedures for Evaluating Teachers
- White-Collar Wage Survey, June 1971 To March 1972

Special Reports 19
- Teacher Recruitment, Screening, and Job Descriptions
- Briefs of Recent Agreements

NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION
RESEARCH

Copyright © 1972 by the
National Education Association
All Rights Reserved

2362

CASE REVIEWS

ILLINOIS

Assistant Principals Must Stay in Teachers' Unit

Noting that a board of education has a right, but not an enforceable duty to voluntarily recognize a bargaining unit, the Illinois Court of Appeals denied the Chicago High School Assistant Principals Association's motion for a temporary injunction compelling recognition of a separate unit as sole representative of the district's high-school assistant principals.

The appellate court affirmed the lower court's denial of the plaintiff association's request on the basis that the assistant principals were explicitly included in the bargaining unit represented by the Chicago Teachers Union (CTU), Local 1, AFT (AFL-CIO). The lower court had held that negotiation of an agreement between the Chicago Board of Education and the CTU had rendered moot the issue of whether the board may legally be compelled to recognize an exclusive bargaining unit for any group of employees.

The appellate court observed that this contract, which bound the assistant principals, provided no procedure for unit severance. Further, the CTU represented eight categories of teachers, and separate negotiation with each group would "work undue hardship on the [school] Board."

Finding efficient negotiation to be in the public interest, the appeals court affirmed the board's right, if it so wished, to deal with one bargaining agent as the representative of all categories of teachers. (Chicago High School Assistant Principals Association, Plaintiffs-Appellant, v. the Board of Education of the City of Chicago, Defendant-Appellee, Illinois Court of Appeals, First District, Fourth Division, April 26, 1972.)

MASSACHUSETTS

Contempt Conviction Upheld; Strike Injunction Reversed and Remanded for Further Hearings

Although issuance of a preliminary injunction against an unlawful strike is within court jurisdiction, issuance of a permanent injunction as a remedy for violation of the preliminary injunction must be preceded by a hearing regarding the form of the decree. In so ruling, the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court concluded that the Boston Teachers Union, Local 66, AFT, AFL-CIO, was entitled to a hearing on the form of the final strike injunction, but not on the merits. Accordingly, a lower court's contempt conviction was upheld, while the final injunctive decree was struck down and remanded for further hearing.

The 1970 teacher strike against the Boston School Committee had been enjoined by the lower court as the strike violated both statute and the parties' collective bargaining agreement. The union ignored the injunction, was convicted of contempt and fined, and a permanent injunction was issued.

The union president appealed the court's permanent strike injunction on grounds that a fine was the only remedy for violation of a criminal statute, that the Boston School Committee was not the proper party to sue for injunctive relief, and that issuance of the final injunctive decree was improper for lack of a hearing regarding the form of the decree.

The appellate court observed that the accepted rule in contempt proceedings is whether the court has jurisdiction over the subject matter and the parties without examining the merits of the original cause of the dispute. Determining that the court granting the injunction had jurisdiction over the subject matter and the parties and that the order had been violated, the appellate court upheld the contempt conviction and all other lower court orders with the exception of the final injunctive decree.

In conclusion, the appellate court noted that remanding of the final decree does not negate the future option of issuing a permanent injunction against teacher strikes. (School Committee of Boston v. John P. Reilly et al., Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court, July 14, 1972.)

NEW YORK

Chancellor Exceeds Authority on Retroactive Pay, City's Refusal To Pay Upheld

A petition filed against the Comptroller of the City of New York in an effort to regain back pay was dismissed by the New York Supreme Court. The petitioner, a teacher who had been refused early reinstatement from maternity leave, sought a judgment vacating and annulling the comptroller's decision, and an order directing the comptroller to comply with the directive of the Chancellor of Queens College to pay her retroactively for the three months preceding her return to work and the institution of grievance proceedings.

The comptroller refused to pay the teacher on the grounds that "such payment would constitute a gift of public funds and thus was violative of the State Constitution since no services had been performed by petitioner."

The teacher argued that payment would not constitute a gift, and that the chancellor's decision, like an arbitrator's award, was binding.

The court agreed that grievance settlements reached by the parties themselves were entitled to the same recognition as arbitration awards. However, if the award contravenes public policy, it cannot be enforced. Further, the chancellor had exceeded his authority in granting the petitioner back pay since the petitioner's "right to compensation depends upon work performed and she cannot recover against the Board of Education except for services actually rendered."

Ruling that payment of public funds would violate the state constitution, the court dismissed the petition. (Matter of Application of Christine Antonopoulou et al., Petitioners v. Abraham D. Beame et al., Respondents, New York Supreme Court, New York County, October 12, 1971.)

School Board Not Compelled To Arbitrate Retroactive Salary and Fringe Benefits Preempted by Federal Wage-Price Freeze

The New York Supreme Court held that a school board could not be compelled to arbitrate salaries and fringe benefits that were unpaid during the wage-price freeze. This ruling rejected the West Islip Teachers Association's contention which sought to compel arbitration over contract benefits that had been preempted by federal order and regulated by a federal agency.

The teachers association also argued that since a valid agreement existed, state statues mandated that the arbitration issue be determined by the arbitrator not by the courts.

The court stated that the association's contention was narrow and inapplicable, and that the state legislature could not have envisioned an emergency price-wage control. Finding that the doctrine of federal preemption was applicable in this case, the court stated that higher courts have interpreted the doctrine as allowing arbitration only when there was concurrent jurisdiction by a state and a federal agency.

Thus, the association's further contention that the board would have remedies available, subsequent to the arbitrator's findings, was nullified by the lack of state jurisdiction once federal preemption was determined.

The court noted that appellate court decisions concerning public policy disputes arising from contracts containing arbitration provisions, must be decided by the courts and not by private arbitrators.

The court citied two recent cases involving the impact of the wage freeze upon teacher contracts. In each case the courts ruled that the collective bargaining agreement superseded the President's Executive Order. But in this case, although the contracts were effective prior to the executive order, the new salary schedule was not effective until a later date.

Consequently, the court granted the school board's motion to stay arbitration. (Board of Education, Union Free School District No. 9, Town of Islip, Petitioner v. West Islip Teachers Association, Respondent, New York Supreme Court, Suffolk County, January 18, 1972.)

School District Ordered To Pay Salaries Set Forth in Collective Bargaining Agreement

The Glen Cove Board of Education was ordered to pay teachers negotiated salary increases, including retroactive pay, unless it proceeded under the arbitration procedures set forth in the collective bargaining agreement with the Glen Cove Teachers Association (GCTA).

The parties entered into the bargaining agreement on November 13, 1971. The board asked the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) to approve the salary schedule, retroactive to July 1, 1971, the beginning of the first fiscal period of the agreement. Upon receiving approval, the board refused to implement the negotiated salaries and applied to the IRS for a review of its decision.

The board told GCTA that it would not proceed with arbitration until the IRS made a determination reversing its previous ruling which approved the negotiated salary schedule.

The court found it difficult to understand why the board should be displeased with the IRS ruling since the board had agreed to the schedule. The court asked whether the board entered into the collective agreement hoping that the IRS would disapprove the salary schedule.

The court determined that the failure of the board to either make payment or proceed to arbitration constituted an "arbitrary and capricious act," and directed it to either pay the salaries including retroactive pay within 15 days or proceed in good faith to arbitration.

The board's request for an order granting leave to appeal was denied by the court. (Glen Cove Teachers Association v. Glen Cove City School District, New York Supreme Court, Nassau County, April 4, 1972.)

PENNSYLVANIA

Court To Hear Discrimination Charges Against Union

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania ruled that a complaint filed against the Philadelphia Federation of Teachers (PFT), Local Number 3, by eight of its members should be heard by the court. After the PFT, Local No. 3, adopted an amendment prohibiting the holding of an elected office by any member who during the preceding 24 months had refused to participate in strike activity, the grievants, pursuant to the grievance procedure contained in the local's constitution, filed a complaint with the Public Review Board of the American Federation of Teachers seeking to void the amendment. After the grievants waited for, but never received, a hearing before the Public Review Board, they filed a suit with the court. A lower court dismissed the case, ruling that it did not have jurisdiction over the subject matter of the dispute because the grievants had not exhausted internal union procedures. The grievants appealed the decision.

The grievants contended that further reliance on review by the union board would be futile.

The court relied on the decision of Falsetti v. Local Union No. 2026, U.M.W. of America, wherein the court held that the only exceptions to the rule of noninterference in internal union disputes are when the remedy is illusory, the union officials themselves have precluded the member from effectively pursuing the prescribed procedure, the internal remedy is overly burdensome, or the exhaustion of remedies would lead to irreparable harm. The inordinate delay by the union board in appointing one of its members to hear the dispute could be interpreted as a conscious effort to sabbotage the proceedings until after union elections. Since the grievants had put off any action until just prior to elections because they were expecting the board to move on their petition, they were ultimately in "desperate straits." The court concluded that the exhaustion of union procedures would lead to irreparable harm, with the only recourse, at that point, being to seek injunctive relief.

Since the grievants were within the Falsetti exceptions, they were entitled to be heard by the court. (Eugene S. Bivins, III, et al., Appellants v. Philadelphia Federation of Teachers, Local No. 3, American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, et al., Appellee, Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, Eastern District, December 20, 1971.)

FEDERAL

U.S. Secretary of Labor Can Sue State To Recover Overtime Wages Due Employees Under FLSA

The United States District Court of Missouri ordered the state of Missouri to pay compensation for overtime to employees of state schools and hospitals. The suit, which was filed under the provisions of Section 217 of the U.S.C.A. by the Secretary of Labor on behalf of the employees, sought both an injunction restraining future violations of the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) and an order restraining the defendant from withholding unpaid compensation due employees for overtime worked in the past.

The defendant argued that since it was operating in full compliance with the Act, the court should deny injunctive relief as to future violations. Also, "since the State is immune from suits by employees to collect unpaid overtime compensation, the Secretary of Labor cannot maintain a suit to accomplish indirectly, by injunctive relief, the recovery of the same funds."

The court was convinced that since the state was in current compliance with the FLSA overtime pay requirements and there was no reasonable probability of a recurrence of overtime pay violations, an injunction forbidding future violations was not necessary and was therefore denied.

The court maintained that while sovereign immunity preserved the state from suits by its employees, the Secretary could seek injunctive relief for employees under Section 217 U.S.C.A., and also referred to the majority opinion in Employees of the Department of Public Health and Welfare v. Department of Public Health and Welfare to support its contention. The state of Missouri was therefore ordered to pay the overtime compensation owed to its employees for the period covered by the statute of limitations, January 27, 1969, to July 1, 1971. (James D. Hodgson, Secretary of Labor, United States Department of Labor, Plaintiff v. State of Missouri, Defendant, United States District Court, Western District of Missouri, Western Division, April 18, 1972.)

BOARD FINDINGS AND RULINGS

CONNECTICUT

Arbitrability–Time Limits

A grievance over whether teachers were entitled to the new higher travel allowance retroactive to the beginning of the school year was not arbitrable. The federation failed to file a grievance until some seven months after the teachers had received their first higher travel allowance check, thus failing to adhere to the 30-day time limit for filing a grievance after a grievant learned of the conditions or action on which the grievance was based.

Although it was true that the present contract was negotiated in an "atmosphere of excitment and turmoil" and was not completed until part of the school year had elapsed, "this only adds to the reasons" why the teachers and especially the federation officers should have been conscious of the contract revisions and how such revisions might affect them individually. (West Haven Board of Education and West Haven Education Association, Connecticut State Board of Mediation and Arbitration, January 6, 1972.)

MICHIGAN

Employer Must Negotiate on Impasse Fact-Finders Report

The Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) determined that the city of Dearborn did not engage in good-faith bargaining on a 1969-70 contract with Teamsters Local 214, which represented employees of the public works department, following the issuance of a fact finder's report. After the expiration of the parties' first contract, the employer put into effect its last offer, which the employer termed an "impasse contract." The union then asked for fact-finding.

Following the fact-finding report, meetings were held between the parties and the fact finder, but there was no change in the employer's position from the time of the original impasse. At these meetings, the employer took the position that bargaining for the current contract was finished and suggested that the parties begin negotiation on the 1970-71 contract. The union did not drop the issue of the 1969-70 fact-finder's report and filed unfair labor practice charges against the employer. Shortly thereafter, the parties reached an agreement on the 1970-71 contract.

The union and the city disagreed as to whether the city had made a good-faith effort, based on the fact-finder's recommendations, to reach an agreement on the 1969-70 contract. However, they agreed that there was a duty to do so. The union argued that MERC should order that the terms of the fact-finder's report be put into effect. The city pointed out that "even if it should be found to have failed in its duty to bargain, an order to adopt any of the terms of the report would be statutorily impermissible."

MERC pointed out that the Public Employment Relations Act mandates the public employer to bargain in good faith, and that fact finding is a valuable substitute for the strike when public interest demands that there be continuation of services and a peaceful settlement of differences. Further, MERC stated, the fact-finder's report "is the functional equivalent of a strike and may change the factual situation regarding the negotiation agreement, or any question arising thereunder. It must be given the same serious consideration as the initial bargaining proposals. Therefore, there is an affirmative obligation to bargain in good faith about the substantive recommendations of the report of a statutory fact finder."

MERC stated that it could not order the employer to accept the terms of the fact-finder's report since this was statutorily prohibited. However, MERC ruled that since the city did not use the report to attempt to resolve the impasse, it was not bargaining in good faith, and ordered the city to bargain in good faith on the fact-finder's report. (In the Matter of City of Dearborn, Respondent-Public Employer and Teamsters State, County and Municipal Workers, Local 214, I.B.T., Charging Party, Michigan Employment Relations Commission, July 18, 1972.)

Superintendent's Erroneous Statement and Enforcement Of Board Policy Not Unfair Labor Practices

The Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) confirmed a trial examiner's recommendation to dismiss the Bullock Creek Education Association's allegations that the Bullock Creek School District had engaged in unfair labor practices.

The association contended that the district superintendent's incorrect statement asserting that all members of the bargaining unit would be permitted to vote on a new master contract, and his enforcement of a board policy restricting association use of school mail services constituted unfair labor practices under the Public Employment Relations Act (PERA).

When the superintendent was asked at a staff meeting whether only association members could vote on the new agreement, he responded that "teachers are members of the bargaining unit with full rights to vote regardless of membership." However, the teacher's association had validly amended its bylaws to the effect that only a majority of association members was necessary to ratify an agreement. Notice of the amended bylaws withdrawing voting rights of nonassociation members was sent to the board with instructions that all new contracts must be modified accordingly.

In response to the superintendent's statement, an unsigned notice was put in all teachers' mailboxes, asserting that "only BCEA members will be permitted to vote on our new master contract agreement." On the same day, the superintendent issued a bulletin restating existing schoolboard policy which restricted the association's use of school mail services to approved, signed communications, and also reiterating his position that all teachers could vote on the ratification of the new agreement. The superintendent also pointed out that in past years the state mediator had conducted "last offer elections" as a ratification vote, and all members of the bargaining unit had voted.

The trial examiner upheld the validity of the association's amended voting procedures, and therefore found the superintendent's statement as to nonassociation members' voting rights to be erroneous, both factually and legally. He noted that ratification procedures were internal matters and were not to be determined by MERC.

The examiner also stated that ratification votes conducted by the state mediator wherein all bargaining unit members participated, were voluntary procedures conducted by the mediation division of MERC to aid in the settlement of labor disputes and were not endorsements of appropriate collective bargaining units.

Although the superintendent's statements were false, the examiner did not find him in violation of the employer's duty to bargain in good faith; the superintendent was not on the bargaining team and did not make the statement during negotiation sessions. The trial examiner dismissed the association's contention that these statements served to discourage association members and interfered with employees' organizational rights since no evidence was found indicating coercive behavior in an effort to reduce incentive to join the association.

The association's allegation that the employer's limitations on association use of the mail service interfered with the association's right to distribute association material was also dismissed as such regulations on the use of the mail service did not constitute interference, restraint, or coercion under the PERA. The trial examiner also found that limitations on association use of the mail services did not necessarily inhibit communication with members since the association had unrestricted use of school bulletin boards. Additional evidence revealed that the superintendent was enforcing a prior written board policy, and that the employer had never refused a request to negotiate this policy at collective bargaining sessions.

The trial examiner concluded that there was no merit to the association's improper labor practice charges against the school district; he recommended that the matter be dismissed, which the MERC upheld. (Bullock Creek Education Association and the Bullock Creek School District, Michigan Employment Relations Commission, April 6, 1972.)

NEVADA

Labor Board Finds No Domination of Local Association by Supervisory Members of State and National Affiliates, Dues Deductions Upheld

The Las Vegas Federation of Teachers unsuccessfully attempted to unseat the Clark County Teachers Association from its position as exclusive bargaining representative with the Clark County School District. The federation charged before the Nevada Local Government Relations Board that the association was illegally dominated by supervisory personnel who are members of the Nevada State Education Association and the National Education Association with whom the CCTA is affiliated. The union asked the Board to withdraw recognition from the association and transfer it to itself. The union alleged that these supervisory personnel had authority to direct members of the bargaining unit at their place of employment through the affiliation between CCTA and NSEA-NEA.

The association contended that NSEA and NEA are associations of affiliations for the purpose of carrying out common goals from the local to the national level. To attain these goals a portion of CCTA dues is transmitted to the state and national associations as is done traditionally in the private sector.

The Board examined the membership roster of the NSEA and noted no domination by supervisory personnel, but did comment that supervisory personnel might exert subtle psychological pressures which might alter teacher aspirations that would otherwise exist if the state association was constituted entirely of nonsupervisory personnel.

The Board also noted that the CCTA'S right to forward a portion of its dues to the state and national organizations was valid, and that the contracting of dues deductions is wholly within the law.

However, the Board noted that CCTA's mandate that all its members join both state and local organizations as a condition to membership was illegal. Under the state-local government employee-management relations act, employee organizations are prohibited from in any way restricting the exercise of employees' legally guaranteed rights of self-organization. The Board found CCTA to be in violation of the statutory provision in that the association was coercing its members to join separate but affiliated organizations.

The Board dismissed the union's complaint as there existed no illegal domination of teachers by supervisors in the affiliated structure of CCTA-NSEA-NEA, but the Board did order that CCTA remove within 90 days any requirement for a teacher to join NSEA and NEA, and inform all current members of this fact. (Las Vegas Federation of Teachers Local 2170 v. Clark County School District and Clark County Classroom Teachers Association, Nevada Local Government Employee-Management Relations Board, June 9, 1972.)

NEW JERSEY

Pay for Snow Day During Strike Denied

An arbitrator ruled that teachers represented by the Madison Township Education Association (MTEA) who had participated in a strike against the Madison, New Jersey, Board of Education were not entitled to pay for a snow day which occurred during the strike. The association's strike started January 27 and ended February 7 upon ratification of a new agreement. During the strike the schools were closed for two snow days, January 28 and February 7. After returning to work, the teachers were paid for the February 7 snow day but not for January 28.

The MTEA filed a grievance contending that its members should have been paid for the January 28 snow day because payment for school closing owing to inclement weather was guaranteed in its contract. The association argued that the board's failure to pay teachers for the January snow day violated a "Letter of Understanding" between the MTEA and the board, which prohibited reprisals, sanctions, penalties, or the withholding, postponing, or denying of any right or privilege of employees for having participated in the work stoppage. Further, the MTEA contended that a snow day is like a holiday in that it is payable when school is legally closed.

The school board contended that the dispute was not arbitrable because the grievance arose at a time when the grievance procedure of the contract was suspended, and the suspension resulted from the strike action, a direct breach of the no-strike provision in the contract. The board maintained that according to the public policy of the state of New Jersey, payment of strikers for January 28 would be unlawful.

The arbitrator ruled that the grievance procedure was in effect during the strike and thereafter, but pointed out that the days allowed for inclement weather are "not some kind of bonus or guarantee or holiday existing and accruing as a matter of right." Further, because a snow day "within the meaning of the contract is an officially deferred alternative work day, the conclusion seems quite unavoidable that only those of whom it could be said that but for the inclement weather they would have been available and presented themselves to work on the 28th were eligible for the day's pay." Since the agreement between the parties was reached on February 6, but owing to weather conditions the ratification meeting was delayed until February 7, the cause of the absence of the employees from their positions on February 7 was no longer the strike but inclement weather.

In reference to the Letter of Understanding, the arbitrator pointed out that in order to sustain a violation of the Understanding, the MTEA must show that the action had no purpose other than to deprive teachers of their rights.

The arbitrator ruled that the board did not violate the parties' bargaining agreement by deducting pay for the January 28 snow day and therefore, denied the association's grievance. (In the Matter of Arbitration between Madison Township Education Association and Madison Township Board of Education, July 19, 1971.)

NEW YORK

Maternity Leave Provision Not Violative of Teacher's Rights

An arbitrator ruled that the Depew school board did not violate a teacher's contractual, civil, or constitutional rights by applying, against her consent, the maternity leave provision of the bargaining agreement with the Depew Teacher's Organization (DTO). The provision required that the teacher take a leave of absence beginning with the fourth month of pregnancy.

The grievant, a high-school physical education teacher, notified her principal that she was four months pregnant, and asked permission to remain in her teaching position until a short time before the birth of her child.

At a meeting with the grievant and the principal, the superintendent denied the teacher's request, citing among other things her appearance before the children during pregnancy, her responsibility to the unborn child and herself, and the contract provisions requiring that maternity leave be taken at the end of the fourth month. He instructed the teacher to begin her leave the following day. The teacher then submitted a written statement from her gynecologist stating that he was aware of her responsibilities as a physical education teacher and that he had given her permission to continue working.

Following the birth of her baby, the teacher requested a shortened maternity leave, which was also denied.

DTO argued that the maternity leave provision violated the Civil Rights Act and was discriminatory. It also argued that forced maternity leave could not be justified in the grievant's case on medical grounds since the grievant's doctor certified that she was physically fit to teach beyond the fourth month of pregnancy. Referring to the superintendent's testimony that the grievant's physical appearance was a factor in placing her on maternity leave, DTO argued that the grievant's appearance could not be a basis under law for requiring her to take a leave of absence, nor had the board treated the grievant in a fair and equitable way because other teachers had been permitted to work beyond the fourth month of pregnancy.

The school board contended that the maternity leave provision in the bargaining agreement was not illegal. If it was to have an effective leave policy, it could not wait until it received word from the individual teacher of her physical status or home life conditions which would or would not allow her to continue or resume teaching. The board further contended that "when exceptions to the rule with respect to the taking of maternity leave were made in the past, this was done to accomplish the primary obligation and duty of the board to furnish education to students."

In arriving at his decision, the arbitrator reviewed federal and state case law, decisions of the New York State Commissioner of Education, and the sex bias guidelines of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, and found that maternity leave rules which limit the time an individual can work prior to the expected birth of the child do not violate the Constitution of the United States if there is a reasonable basis for the rule. He noted that "the courts have recognized that there is some conflict in the medical evidence as to the dangers of permitting a teacher to continue working into the later stages of pregnancy and have resolved the conflicts in favor of the regulating authority." The arbitrator added that this does not necessarily give the school board an unrestricted right to determine the length of maternity leave. He encouraged the board to be flexible in its policy governing the length of maternity leave, and that the board should accommodate to the needs of the individual teacher rather than rely on a rigid rule. Further,

The arbitrator ruled that the school board did not violate the contractual, civil, or constitutional rights of the grievant. (Depew Teacher's Organization and The Board of Education, Union Free School District Number 7, American Arbitration Association, May 17, 1972.)

WISCONSIN

Minority Representative Cannot Participate in Negotiation Discussion

Neither a minority teachers union nor an individual representing a minority of a district's teachers may influence or take part in negotiation between a school board and the exclusive bargaining agent. The Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission ruled that the Madison School Board committed an unfair labor practice when it allowed an individual who claimed to represent a minority of the district's teachers to make a formal presentation during a board meeting in opposition to one of the negotiable items currently under discussion between the board and the Madison Teachers, Inc. (MTI). The Commission found that the unauthorized representative's presentation before the board interferred with the negotiation procedure by influencing the board's decision on the teachers' proposal to negotiate a "fair share" or agency shop provision in the new contract.

WERC determined that the board's action in allowing the presentation violated both state statute and the collective bargaining agreement. Under section 111.70 (3)(a)4 of the Municipal Employees Relations Act (MERA), consideration of a minority representative's opposing opinion constituted a refusal "to bargain collectively with a representative of a majority of its employees in an appropriate collective bargaining unit."

The Commission also observed that the parties had agreed "to negotiate only with said agent and no others," and to punctually inform the other party if any proper subject of negotiation was brought to either parties' attention by "any individual, group of individuals or organization other than the other party to this agreement."

Evidence indicated that the school board had listened to a minority representative's objections to the MTI's "fair share" proposal, had failed to notify the MTI of that individual's presentation, and had later offered the MTI binding arbitration in exchange for any further consideration of "fair share" assessments.

The Commission concluded that the board had violated its duty to bargain in good faith and ordered it to "cease and desist from permitting employees other than representatives of Madison Teachers, Inc., to appear and speak at meetings of the board of education on matters subject to collective bargaining." (Madison Teachers, Inc., Complainant, v. Joint School District No. 8, City of Madison and the Board of Education of Joint School District No. 8 et al., Respondents, Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission, September 13, 1972.)

FEDERAL

NLRB Reaffirms Representation Rights of Some Managerial Employees

The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) rejected a motion to reconsider its previous ruling granting buyers employed by the Bell Aerospace Company representation rights. The Board originally found that these employees' participation in the International Union, United Automobile, Aerospace and Agricultural Implement Workers of America, Amalgamated Local 1286, would not create a conflict of interest.

The employer appealed this ruling subsequent to a U.S. Court of Appeals decision which stated that managerial employees had no representation rights under the National Labor Relations Act (NLRA). The court based its decision on previous NLRB and court decisions which excluded from bargaining units, managerial employees "who formulate, determine, and effectuate an employer's policies." The appeals court also considered congressional intent when it created the exclusions in NLRA, and the continued silence by the Congress to exclude all managerial employees from coverage.

In the instant case the NLRB stated that its previous rulings excluding managerial employees from the act's coverage were based "upon the premise that conflicts of interest are likely to arise between the employee group represented by a labor organization and personnel working as, with, or for management representatives whose area of responsibility included bargaining with such a labor organization."

The Board felt that the key question was whether the managerial employees' duties included decisions which must be made free of any conflict of interest which would arise if the managerial employees were participating members of a labor organization. The Board found that the managerial employees, buyers with limited policy responsibilities, had a minimal probability of conflict of interest by joining a labor organization.

Since there was a sufficient community of interest among the buyers to constitute an appropriate bargaining unit, the NLRB reaffirmed its previous ruling that a unit of buyers in a company's purchasing and procurement department was appropriate. (Bell Aerospace Co. and International Union, United Auto, Aerospace and Agricultural Implement Workers of America, Amalgamated Local 1286, National Labor Relations Board, May 1, 1972.)

NEGOTIATION NOTES

MAINE

Moratorium on Cancellation of Insurance Policies Upheld

The Maine Supreme Judicial Court upheld a law which prohibited cancellation of insurance policies for nonpayment of premiums during a debit agents' strike. The court found the law to be constitutional and in harmony with the National Labor Relations Act.

The court rejected the contention of the Prudential Insurance Company that the law infringed on free collective bargaining and clashed with the company's right to "engage in business on sound actuarial principles," depriving it of "liberty and property without due process of law."

The court determined that it was company practice that "premiums on a substantial portion" of its insurance policies "are collected by its debit agents at the residences or places of employment of the insured." The court added that although the policies themselves contain no commitment to make such premium collections available, the insurance company, as a matter of business policy, employs debit agents who make monthly collections on all types of its policies.

Citing a similar Massachusetts law, the court stated that a Massachusetts court found the law "contrary to the national policy . . . to encourage voluntary agreements freely arrived at after 'good faith' bargaining between the parties." Noting, however, that the Massachusetts law provided a moratorium on cancellations for the duration of a strike plus 31 days, the court asserted that the Maine law would require a moratorium lasting 30 days longer than the 30-day grace period provided under the company's policies.

Since the Maine legislature determined that policy holders' interest required the protection of a moratorium, and since the moratorium showed no serious impairment of the company's property rights, the court decided that the law did not offend constitutional due process, and concluded that the company must abide by its provisions. (Prudential Insurance Company of America v. Insurance Commissioner, Maine Supreme Judicial Court, July 13, 1971.)

NEVADA

Physicians Union Signs First Contract

The first contract negotiated by Nevada Physicians Local 676, covering five physicians serving on the utilization committee at Valley Hospital in Las Vegas, insured their right to make their own decisions regarding proper treatment for their patients. The contract also established the rate of pay for working on the committee at $50 per hour.

To determine if the treatment accorded Medicare patients conforms to generally accepted standards, the utilization committee reviews case histories of all Medicare patients who have stayed in the hospital. But the insurance company, which acts as fiscal intermediary between Medicare and the hospital, can deny payment of claims it believes do not conform to its regulations. However, the committee members can now make their own determinations independent of the regulations, since the contract assures them this right. In addition, the contract contains a saving clause nullifying the agreement if the hospital should lose its accreditation or fail to receive payment on Medicare claims because the utilization committee is unionized.

NEW YORK

Employer's Suspension of Benefits During Negotiation Violates Taylor Law

The New York Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) ruled that the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority had violated the Taylor Law by suspending longevity increments of employees represented by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, District Council 37 and Local 1396, during negotiations and following the expiration of the contract providing for such increments. Following the expiration of the contract, the Authority maintained all wages and benefits at the same level and refused to grant longevity increments prior to negotiation of a new contract.

PERB ruled that though the agreement between the parties did not require that the increment system survive the expiration of the agreement, neither did it provide that the employer would be free to make unilateral alterations upon expiration. Further, "a statutory prohibition against a union's striking imposes a correlative duty upon a public employer to refrain from altering terms and conditions of employment unilaterally during the course of negotiations."

The Authority was ordered to cease and desist from making unilateral changes in the terms and conditions of employment. However, since the parties later entered into a contract which provides for retroactive implementation of wage increments, the order has only prospective application. (Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority and AFSCME District Council 37 and Local 1396, New York Public Employment Relations Board, July 28, 1972.)

OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST

U.S. Department of Labor Funds Public Employee Research Institute

The newly created Public Employment Relations Research Institute (PERRI) of the American Arbitration Association, National Center for Dispute Settlement, is conducting a "two year pilot study aimed at dispelling the ignorance of basic information, that is holding back solutions to public employee strikes and other conflicts in government employment."The Institute, which is funded by the U. S. Department of Labor, will be directed by an attorney who has represented both management and labor in the public sector for the last 10 years.

After conducting a nationwide search for copies of important bargaining agreements, court and administrative decisions, and other basic documents, the Institute will index and make this literature available to the public and to the research community. Following the release of this literature, conferences will be held to obtain reactions to the information that has been gathered and to "puncture the myths that are believed to be limiting understanding and to establish priorities and directions for research by others."

Keeping in mind that the main purpose of the study is to demonstrate the feasibility, practicality, and merit of a nationwide study, the Institute drafted a timetable and subject outline for the study. "The phases tentatively planned for the study include: determination of the state of the art, refinement of project, documentation, private sector model, public sector model, identification of key factors, questionnaire and interview instruments, perfection of field techniques, field survey, compilation and analysis, field varification, action phase—national conferences." The outline for the project was submitted to an 18-member National Board for its approval.

Consumer Price Index, September 1972

The Bureau of Labor Statistics announced an 0.4 percent increase of the Consumer Price Index (CPI) in September. The new index is 126.2 percent (1967 = 100), as compared with a CPI of 122.9 percent in September 1971. Seasonally adjusted, the September increase was 0.5 percent. The increase is attributed to higher prices for apparel, gasoline, and eggs, although these increases were partially offset by lower prices for beef, frest fruits, and vegetables.

The CPI rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 4.6 percent for the quarter ending in September, as compared with a rate of 2.2 percent for the quarter ending in June. The increasing rate is due to the higher prices of commodities, particularly food.

Over Half of Federal Workers in Exclusive Bargaining Units

Preliminary figures from the Civil Service Commission's annual census of union recognition in the federal service indicates that the number of nonpostal federal employees in exclusive bargaining units passed the one million mark in 1971.

Nonpostal workers covered by Executive Order 11491 (E.O. 11491) rose to 1,038,288 (53 percent) as of November 30, 1971, from 916,381 (48 percent) in 1970.

Data on union recognition in the U.S. Postal Service are kept separately since postal employees are outside the coverage of E.O. 11491, pursuant to the terms of the Postal Reorganization Act. During the past several years, the extent of exclusive recognition in the Postal Service has remained static since postal unions probably reached their plateau early in the days of federal relations programs, winning national recognition for large craft units. The number of postal field workers represented in 1970 was 625,730 (87 percent); in 1971, the figure dropped slightly to 62[illegible],082 (88 percent).

The big three nonpostal unions tallied nearly the full benefit of the gains during the year, taking 120,075 of the net gain of 121,907. Most of the gains were in the white-collar sector, "a development which will work changes on the composition of the unions." The American Federation of Government Employees (AFGE), which at one time represented a majority of blue-collar workers now represents 382,652 white-collar workers, and only 222,739 blue-collar workers. The National Association of Government Employees (NAGE), which recently was more blue-collar than AFGE, now is almost evenly split between hourly and salaried workers.

The AFGE had the largest numerical increase under exclusive recognition; however, its 14 percent increase was surpassed by National Federation of Federal Employees (NFFE) (30 percent) and NAGE (21 percent) among nonpostal unions. Both the Metal Trades Councils and Machinists suffered decreases.

The number of agreements in force rose from 1,485 in 1970 to 1,643 in 1971; the number of employees covered by contracts increased by more than 100,000. The percentage of nonpostal employees rose from 31 to 36 percent.

The following are comparative standings of the top six, nonpostal federal employees for 1971:

American Federation of Government Employees (AFL-CIO)	606,391
National Federation of Federal Employees	106,881
National Association of Government Employees	83,067
Metal Trades Councils (AFL-CIO)	61,046
National Association of Internal Revenue Employees	41,331
International Association of Machinists (AFL-CIO)	31,098

STATISTICS

NEGOTIATED PROCEDURES FOR EVALUATING TEACHERS

Negotiated provisions concerning evaluation procedures [1] were found in 884 (57.8 percent) of 1,529 agreements analyzed in the 1970-71 NEA Research survey of written negotiation agreements. Of the total group of 884 agreements, 95.9 percent contained evaluation procedures and the remaining agreements established joint association-administration committees to establish procedures.

A random sample of agreements, one out of every five, with at least one agreement from each state, was selected for further analysis. All data appearing in the tables are not mutually exclusive, and percents may not add to total shown because of rounding.

Negotiated evaluation procedure provisions contained a variety of different items, ranging from an introductory statement of intent for the evaluation, to the persons responsible for aiding the teacher to improve performance. Table 1 lists the items included in the relevant provisions. visions.

A statement of intent for the evaluation was found in almost one-fifth of the provisions. Most provisions specifying the intent (14.4 percent) indicated that it was to improve the instructional program, while a smaller percentage (3.3 percent) considered the evaluation as an aid to the teacher's professional growth, e.g.,

> Evaluation should be designed to bring about improvement of instruction.
>
> [Jefferson County, Kentucky]

> to provide aid and constructive suggestions for professional personnel growth.
>
> [Thornton Fractional HSD 215
> Calumet City, Illinois]

[1] A detailed analysis of teacher evaluation criteria appeared in the November 1972 Negotiation Research Digest, 6.3, 17.

TABLE 1.—NEGOTIATED CONTENT OF 181 SAMPLE PROVISIONS CONTAINING TEACHER EVALUATION PROCEDURES, 1970-71

Item	Number	Percent
1	2	3
TOTAL SAMPLE OF PROVISIONS	181	100.0
Intent of evaluation	35	19.3
Type of teacher evaluated	96	53.0
Frequency of evaluation	92	50.8
Type of evaluator	120	66.3
Prior notification of evaluation	18	9.9
Conditions relative to classroom observation	102	56.4
Administrative disposition of evaluation report	173	95.6
Teacher's response to evaluation report	125	69.1
Person responsible for improving performance	29	16.0

TABLE 2.—PURPOSE OF EVALUATION, 1970-71

Statement of intent	Number	Percent
1	2	3
Improve instruction	26	14.4
Aid in teacher's professional growth	6	3.3
Determine tenure, future employment, or salary increment	3	1.7
	35	19.3
TOTAL SAMPLE OF PROVISIONS	181	100.0

A few provisions stated that the evaluation was for determining tenure and future employment or salary increment.

More than one-half of the provisions stated which teachers were to be evaluated: nearly two-fifths, both tenure and probationary teachers; 14.9 percent, probationary teachers only; and 1.1 percent, only tenure teachers.

About 50 percent of the provisions stipulated how frequently teachers would be evaluated, usually establishing different frequencies for tenure and probationary teachers. On the whole, probationary teachers were to be evaluated from once a year to more than four times a year with two or three evaluations a year being the most common practice. Tenure teachers were usually to be evaluated once a year; the range was from once every five years to four times a year. Several provisions stated that tenure teachers were to be evaluated at the request of the teacher, the association, or the administration. (See Table 4.)

Persons responsible for evaluating teachers were specified in about two-thirds of the provisions, as shown in

TABLE 3.–TYPE OF TEACHER EVALUATED, 1970-71

Type of teacher evaluated	Number	Percent
1	2	3
Probationary and tenure teachers	67	37.0
Probationary teachers only	27	14.9
Tenure teachers only	2	1.1
	96	53.0
TOTAL SAMPLE OF PROVISIONS	181	100.0

Table 5. One administrator, most often the principal, was responsible for evaluating teachers. The principal was identified as the appraiser in over half of these provisions either alone or with the cooperation of other administrators.

> The final appraisal will be the responsibility of the principal.
>
> [Oxnard, California]

> The building principal will have the responsibility of evaluating all teaching personnel under his supervision. He will utilize the assistance of other administrative personnel and departmental chairmen as he deems necessary for the proper functioning of this system.
>
> [Palos Hills HSD 230,
> Palos Hills, Illinois]

The remaining provisions did not name the principal per se, but other administrators or the general administration as being the responsible evaluators.

> Teachers shall be evaluated only by the department chairmen and members of the administration.
>
> [Greater Egg Harbor RHSD,
> Mays Landing, New Jersey]

Peer and self-evaluation (in conjunction with evaluations by other staff members) were stipulated in several provisions. For example,

> A tenure teacher shall be assigned by the association to evaluate the performance of a probationary teacher. All such evaluations shall be in addition to evaluations made by the administration.
>
> [Eau Claire, Michigan]

> Each teacher should evaluate himself/herself at least two times a year using criteria developed by the administration.
>
> [Tupper Lake, New York]

Preliminary notification of an upcoming evaluation was specified in 9.9 percent of the provisions. (See Table 6.) Teachers were usually to be informed either of the evaluation method or of whom would be the evaluator. Several provisions provided for a pre-evaluation classroom observation to familiarize teachers with evaluation procedures.

> The educator shall be fully informed by the principal as to how evaluation shall be conducted.
>
> [Nebo School District
> Spanish Fork, Utah]

> A pre-announced informal observation of the performance of each non-tenure teacher shall take place during the first eight weeks of the first semester of employment, followed by a review of this observation. No written record shall be kept of this conference.
>
> [Marysville, Michigan]

An analysis of evaluation criteria which appeared in the November 1972 NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST identified four types of criteria: classroom environment, teacher's professional qualities, teacher's working relationships, and the teacher's physical appearance. Though all criteria cannot be rated in the classroom, the majority can

TABLE 4.–FREQUENCY OF EVALUATION, 1970-71

Frequency of evaluation	Probationary teachers		Tenure teachers
	Number	Percent	Number	Percent[a]
1	2	3	4	5
Once every five years	...	...	2	1.1
Once every four years	...	...	1	0.6
Once every three years	...	...	5	2.8
Once every two years	...	...	5	2.8
Once a year	10	5.5	40	22.1
Twice a year	42	23.2	4	2.2
Three times a year	31	17.1	2	1.1
Four times a year	3	1.7	1	0.6
More than four times a year	4	2.2	...	...
At the request of the teacher, the association, or the administration	...	...	5	2.8
	90	49.7	65	35.9
TOTAL SAMPLE OF PROVISIONS	181	100.0	181	100.0

[a]Percents do not add to total shown because of rounding.

be appraised by observing the teacher's classroom performance.

In this analysis, more than half of the relevant provisions (56.4 percent) required that the evaluation be conducted through a classroom observation and within the bounds of specified guidelines relative to the length of time of the observation or the manner in which the observation is conducted. Time limitations were indicated in more than 10 percent of the provisions. Over one-half of the provisions mandated that the appraisal be conducted with the full knowledge of the teacher, with one-fifth stipulating that no mechanical surveillance devices be employed. These clauses were similar to the following:

> All monitoring or observation of the work performance of personnel will be conducted openly with full knowledge of the person observed.
>
> [Auburn, New York]

> The use of eavesdropping, closed circuit television, public address or audio systems, and similar surveillance devices shall be strictly prohibited.
>
> [Westwood Heights School District, Flint, Michigan]

TABLE 5.–TYPE AND NUMBER OF EVALUATORS, 1970-71

Type and number	Number	Percent
1	2	3
TYPE OF EVALUATOR	120	66.3
Principals	62	34.3
Administrative and supervisory personnel other than principals	44	24.3
Peer evaluation	7	3.9
Self-evaluation	7	3.9
NUMBER OF PERSONS INVOLVED IN INDIVIDUAL TEACHER EVALUATION	120	66.3
One administrator only	71	39.2
More than one administrator	35	19.3
Administrator and teachers	13	7.2
Teacher only (self-evaluation)	1	0.6
TOTAL SAMPLE OF PROVISIONS	181	100.0

A detailed breakdown of classroom observation limitations is provided in Table 7.

Almost all of the provisions (95.6 percent) contained some procedure for administrative disposition of completed evaluation reports. (See Table 8.) Eight out of 10 provisions specified that the teacher was to be given copies of all evaluation reports. An evaluator-teacher conference to discuss the report was found in 74.0 percent of the provisions with about one-third indicating that the completed evaluation report was to be included in the teacher's personnel folder. Examples of these types of statements are:

> Staff members shall be given a copy of all evaluation reports of themselves.
>
> [Batavia, New York]

> A teacher shall be given a copy of his formal observation/evaluation report prepared by his supervisor and/or principal and shall have the right to discuss such report with his supervisor and/or principal.
>
> [East Hartford, Connecticut]

> Teachers shall be given a copy of their ratings or any other written evaluations of their work prepared by their supervisor and shall have the right to discuss such ratings or comments with their supervisors and to append their comments before it is placed in their personnel file.
>
> [North Hunterdon RHSD, Annandale, New Jersey]

Approximately one-fifth of the provisions specified some method for handling an unsatisfactory report. Teachers were to be informed in writing of an unsatisfactory performance in 12.2 percent of the provisions. The following example is illustrative.

> All charges involving unsatisfactory performance on the part of the teacher shall be in writing.
>
> [Oakridge Public School Muskegon, Michigan]

Subsequent evaluations to check the teacher's performance after an unsatisfactory evaluation were required by 3.3 percent of the provisions. Other provisions (2.8 percent) stipulated that conferences were to be held with teachers receiving unsatisfactory reports. Examples are:

> Teachers whose performance is deemed unsatisfactory shall be evaluated at least bi-monthly by the principal or other administrator designated by the Superintendent.
>
> [Middleboro, Massachusetts]

> Within one week of this [unsatisfactory] evaluation a joint conference shall be held involving the principal, department chairmen and the teacher. The purpose of this conference shall be to discuss the deficiencies noted during the evaluation and to institute remedial procedures.
>
> [Lockport Township HSD 205, Lockport, Illinois]

As illustrated in Table 9, more than two-thirds of the provisions contained procedures concerning the teacher's response to the evaluation report. The teacher was allowed to add his personal comments to the report in 47.0 percent of the provisions, for example:

TABLE 6.–PRIOR NOTIFICATION OF EVALUATION, 1970-71

Prior notification	Number	Percent
1	2	3
Pre-notification of evaluation methods	11	6.1
Informal observation prior to evaluation	6	3.3
Pre-notification of evaluator	1	0.6
	18	9.9
TOTAL SAMPLE OF PROVISIONS	181	100.0

After consultation with the principal or other administrator, the teacher will have the right to add remarks, statements or other information pertinent to the report. Such remarks shall be attached to the original performance report and shall contain the signature of the teacher and the person preparing the report.

[Jackson Union School District, Jackson, Michigan]

More than two out of every five provisions required the teacher to sign the evaluation report, not as a mark of his approval, but as an indication that he had seen the report. This requirement was similar to the following:

Evaluations shall be signed by the evaluator(s) and then a copy given to the teacher. The teacher shall acknowledge that he has read the original evaluation report by affixing his signature on the actual copy to be filed, with the imprinted statement over the signature that such signature merely establishes that he has read the report to be filed, such signature does not of itself indicate agreement with its content.

All acknowledgment signatures by the teacher required under this provision shall bear the following imprinted legend immediately above the area reserved for the teacher's signature.

I hereby acknowledge that I have read the contents of this report and I hereby attest only to the fact that I have read this report. My signature is placed herein with the sole understanding that I do not necessarily agree with or accept the contents and material herein, and that my signature serves only to acknowledge that I have read the contents and material herein.

[Holbrook, Massachusetts]

TABLE 7.—CONDITIONS RELATIVE TO CLASSROOM OBSERVATION, 1970-71

Condition	Number	Percent
1	2	3
CONDITIONS RELATIVE TO CLASSROOM OBSERVATION	102	56.4
Time Limitations	23	12.7
Less than 30 minutes	4	2.2
30 minutes or more	19	10.5
Open observations	95	52.5
No use of mechanical devices	37	20.4
TOTAL SAMPLE OF PROVISIONS	181	100.0

Appeals procedures were provided in nearly 15 percent of the sample of analyzed provisions. In several provisions, dissatisfied teachers could appeal through the negotiated grievance procedure, and in other instances they could appeal to the superintendent (5.5 percent) or other administrator (1.1 percent). It may be assumed that in all agreements with evaluation procedures and grievance procedures, a violation of the negotiated evaluation procedure is grievable unless specifically excluded under the grievance procedure.

Almost two out of every 10 provisions (16.0 percent) indicated a staff member responsible for assisting the teacher in improving his performance. The principal either alone or along with administrative/supervisory personnel was listed as being responsible for improving teacher performance in 6.1 percent of the provisions. Administrative/supervisory personnel other than principals were responsible for giving the teacher guidance in 4.4 percent of the provisions. Some provisions (5.5 percent) indicated that tenure teachers were to act as coaches to improve teacher performance. The following provision is an example.

TABLE 8.—ADMINISTRATIVE DISPOSITION OF EVALUATION REPORT AND "UNSATISFACTORY" REPORT PROCEDURE, 1970-71

Item	Number	Percent
1	2	3
ADMINISTRATIVE DISPOSITION OF EVALUATION REPORT	173	95.6
Teacher to receive copy	145	80.1
Post-evaluation conference to be held	134	74.0
Evaluation report to be included in teacher's personnel file	59	32.6
UNSATISFACTORY REPORT PROCEDURE	33	18.2
Teacher notified in writing	22	12.2
Follow-up evaluation of performance to be made	6	3.3
Report to be discussed with teacher in conference	5	2.8
TOTAL SAMPLE OF PROVISIONS	181	100.0

The association may designate qualified tenure teachers as tenure coaches for probationary teachers. Such teaching coaches shall assist and counsel probationary teachers in acclimating to the teaching profession and the school system. Teaching coaches shall not be involved in the evaluation of the probationary teacher. The teacher may furnish the teaching coach with a copy of the evaluation.

[Greenville, Michigan]

TABLE 9.—TEACHER'S RESPONSE TO EVALUATION REPORT, 1970-71

Item	Number	Percent
1	2	3
TEACHER'S RESPONSE TO EVALUATION REPORT	125	69.1
May add written comments	85	47.0
Required to sign evaluation report	83	45.9
May appeal report	27	14.9
Through grievance procedure	15	8.3
To superintendent	10	5.5
To other administrators	2	1.1
TOTAL SAMPLE OF PROVISIONS	181	100.0

TABLE 10.–PERSONNEL RESPONSIBLE FOR HELPING TEACHER TO IMPROVE PERFORMANCE, 1970-71

Person Responsible	Number	Percent
1	2	3
Principals and other administrative/supervisory personnel	11	6.1
Administrative/supervisory personnel other than principals	8	4.4
Tenure teacher coaches	10	5.5
	29	16.0
TOTAL SAMPLE OF PROVISIONS	181	100.0

More than one-quarter of the sample of analyzed provisions contained statements relating to the development and/or revision of evaluation procedures. These procedures were to be revised or developed jointly by the association and the administration in 14.9 percent of the provisions. For example:

> A joint committee of the administration and the association is to meet during the school year for the purpose of evaluating, refining and developing adequate evaluation forms and procedures to be used in the total teacher evaluation procedure.
>
> [Plymouth, Michigan]

In other provisions, the evaluation procedure was to be developed or revised by the administration. Several provisions stated that evaluation procedures were to be developed or revised by the administration on the basis of recommendations by the teachers' association or individual teachers.

Presented below are several provisions on teacher evaluation procedures. These are sample provisions only and are not to be regarded as exemplary.

TEACHER EVALUATION PROCEDURES

Who is to be evaluated?

New teachers—All teachers new to the system should be evaluated at least once each semester of the first year. A conference and written report should follow each observation.

Prospective tenure teachers—All teachers eligible for tenure should be evaluated once each semester of the year in which tenure is to be granted. If tenure is delayed one year then an additional evaluation should be made each semester during the second year. Conferences and written reports should follow each observation.

All other teachers should be evaluated on an alternate year schedule beginning with the second year. A conference and written report is to be included.

Evalustions may be held at the request of the administrator or teacher at any time.

Who does the evaluating?

Building principals, the assistant superintendent and department head are responsible for evaluating staff members.

Observation of teacher performance

Teacher's Role:

Provide the principal or assistant superintendent with the lesson plan, text and other material pertinent to the lesson.

If the observation has been scheduled well in advance do not plan a lesson that involves testing, showing of movies, or performance of an activity which does not reflect the normal student-teacher interaction.

Administrator's Role:

If more than one evaluation of a teacher is to be made attempt to schedule one observation in advance.

Participate in discussion if invited to do so.

Avoid test situations, movies, etc.

Remain an entire period or lesson.

Conference

Teacher and administrator should be prepared to evaluate the classroom situation in relation to the areas of evaluation established within the evaluation form.

The administrator should:

Lead the discussion concerning the evaluation.

Prepare an outline of the observation.

Clarify the teachers understanding of all suggestions made during the conference.

Discuss other problems of interest to the teacher.

Written Report

The administrator will prepare a written report on the approved form. The teacher should be aware of the form, its contents, and its use.

A copy of the report is to be received by the teacher.

The evaluation shall be recorded through objective and subjective means. The report includes five criteria through which each area may be evaluated in an objective fashion.

The teacher should read the completed report, add any comments deemed necessary, and sign it.

If dissatisfied with the report the teacher may ask for another observation and conference or petition a higher administrative level.

[North Hunterdon RHSD
Annandale, New Jersey]

EVALUATION AND SUPERVISION

Each non-tenure teacher shall receive a Staff Progress Report five times a year, normally every two months.

An Annual Report of Teacher Effectiveness will be made prior to February 15 each year for every non-tenure teacher. Each teacher shall receive a copy of his report and have the right to discuss the report with his superior and submit his own comments within ten days. The report shall be based on the formal evaluation procedure including a pre-observation conference, an observation and a follow-up conference.

The Annual Report of Teacher Effectiveness will be based upon Evaluative Criteria.

The Committee encourages continual peer observation-supervision at all levels for the purpose of mutual sharing, developing and examing of teaching styles, approaches, and techniques.

When it becomes necessary to engage teachers in the formal evaluative process (by request from evaluators or the teacher being evaluated), then the following formula should be used.

In the high school, the consensus of the teacher's department shall determine the selection of one peer evaluator; and the consensus of the teacher's house shall determine the selection of additional peer evaluators.

In the elementary schools the teacher involved in peer evaluation will be determined by a consensus of the building faculty. In both cases the number of peer evaluators and administrators shall be equal.

The Committee endorses the concept of student-teacher interaction and encourages teachers to actively seek and use student evaluation.

Annual Reports and Progress Reports must be submitted by principals in the elementary schools and by department chairmen in the high school. (In cases where there is no department chairman, by the Director of Instruction.) Annual Reports and Progress Reports may be submitted by Directors of Instruction, Housemasters, Headmaster and/or the Director of Personnel.

[Thornton Fractional HSD 215
Calumet City, Illinois]

EVALUATION

THE BOARD AND THE ASSOCIATION RECOGNIZES THAT:

Evaluation can be useful as an aid for: retention, guidance, and promotion of staff members; staff members; self-improvement; and administrator-staff rapport.

Our functional evaluative program presupposes qualified evaluators.

Evaluation loses its effect when it becomes punitive.

The person being evaluated is a partner in the evaluation with full knowledge of the procedure, the qualifications of the evaluator, and the findings thereof.

Teachers shall be evaluated by persons certified by the State of New Jersey to supervise instruction, coordinators, and assistant superintendent in charge of curriculum.

Teachers shall be given a copy of their ratings or any other written evaluations of their work prepared by their supervisor and shall have the right to discuss such ratings or comments with their supervisor and to append their comments before it is placed in their personnel files.

All such written evaluations must bear the signatures of both the evaluator and the teacher evaluated.

PROCEDURE:

Supervisory evaluation reports will be presented to the teacher by the Assistant Superintendent periodically according to the following procedure:

Such reports will be issued in the name of the Assistant Superintendent based upon a compilation of reports, of observations, and of discussions with any or all supervisory personnel who come into contact with the teacher in their supervisory capacity.

Instructional leaders are asked to counsel teachers on a regular, informal basis in order to improve instruction.

The specified instructional leaders are asked to submit the attached evaluation form to the Assistant Superintendent as indicated below.

First evaluation - nontenure teachers - October-November

Second evaluation - nontenure teachers - January-February

Third evaluation - nontenure teachers should be made when desired

Evaluation of tenure teachers shall take place between October and April

In all instances evaluation should not be based on a single observation of the teacher concerned.

During February and March, each teacher shall have a formal conference with his Coordinator and the Assistant Superintendent. The Superintendent may attend any of these conferences. This specific conference is in addition to the many informal discussions that will go on throughout the year. The teacher's performance is to be discussed at this conference.

A final evaluation is then given to the Superintendent for his information and for placement in the personnel file.

A copy of the final evaluation is given to the teacher, his immediate supervisor, and the Assistant Superintendent retains a copy.

[Brookline, Massachusetts]

WHITE-COLLAR WAGE SURVEY, JUNE 1971 TO MARCH 1972

Data released by the U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), indicate that white-collar pay in private industry rose 4.4 percent from June 1971 to March 1972. Although this figure reflects a 9- rather than a 12-month span, it is comparatively lower than the 6.6 percent increase recorded from June 1970 to June 1971. While white-collar salaries rose 4.4 percent, the Consumer Price Index rose 2.1 percent during the same 9-month period.

Between 1961 and 1966, average wages for white-collar occupations rose at an average annual rate of 3.1 percent. The average annual rate of increase for the period 1966 to 1971 was 5.7 percent.

From June 1971 to March 1972, pay for professional, administrative, and technical support occupations rose an average of 4.1 percent, while wages for clerical occupations rose an average of 4.6 percent. The largest percentage increase in the professional, administrative, and technical occupations was 5.4 percent for draftsmen. The second highest increase—5.1 percent—was recorded for key punch operators and job analysts.

The following table lists by occupation the average salaries for white-collar workers.

TABLE 1.–AVERAGE SALARIES OF EMPLOYEES IN SELECTED WHITE-COLLAR OCCUPATIONS IN PRIVATE ESTABLISHMENTS, MARCH 1972, AND PERCENT CHANGE FROM JUNE 1971[a]

Occupation and class	Number of employees[b]	Average salaries[c] Monthly	Average salaries[c] Annual	Percent increase, June 1971 to March 1972[d]
ACCOUNTANTS AND AUDITORS
Accountants I	4,230	$ 756	$ 9,067	0.7
Accountants II	10,657	888	10,655	4.3
Accountants III	25,872	990	11,879	4.2
Accountants IV	18,439	1,188	14,259	4.5
Accountants V	6,416	1,447	17,368	4.5
Auditors I	854	802	9,628	1.9
Auditors II	2,603	910	10,924	2.6
Auditors III	4,292	1,073	12,881	4.8
Auditors IV	2,618	1,319	15,823	4.5
Chief accountants I	386	1,279	15,348	6.2
Chief accountants II	1,185	1,452	17,419	1.7
Chief accountants III	628	1,766	21,198	1.4
Chief accountants IV	218	2,210	26,521	7.8
ATTORNEYS
Attorneys I	346	1,125	13,498	e
Attorneys II	1,288	1,220	14,640	2.1
Attorneys III	2,301	1,533	18,392	5.0
Attorneys IV	1,664	1,954	23,448	5.4
Attorneys V	898	2,294	27,528	4.8
Attorneys VI	534	2,902	34,828	4.4
BUYERS
Buyers I	2,640	782	9,380	4.2
Buyers II	9,929	910	10,922	5.3
Buyers III	12,213	1,093	13,117	4.2
Buyers IV	4,409	1,296	15,555	5.2
PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT
Job analysts I	98	787	9,441	2.3
Job analysts II	358	902	10,828	4.1
Job analysts III	492	1,044	12,526	4.2
Job analysts IV	508	1,255	15,057	6.8
Directors of personnel I	904	1,193	14,313	4.2
Directors of personnel II	1,701	1,367	16,401	3.0
Directors of personnel III	1,035	1,679	20,153	1.7
Directors of personnel IV	346	2,062	24,738	3.6
CHEMISTS AND ENGINEERS
Chemists I	970	820	9,838	1.5
Chemists II	3,755	924	11,092	2.9
Chemists III	8,094	1,075	12,901	3.5
Chemists IV	9,600	1,306	15,670	4.2
Chemists V	7,383	1,548	18,581	3.6
Chemists VI	4,471	1,773	21,277	3.7
Chemists VII	1,575	2,157	25,888	5.6
Chemists VIII	421	2,569	30,827	3.7
Engineers I	9,390	$ 910	$10,921	2.3
Engineers II	28,140	1,006	12,071	3.2
Engineers III	79,779	1,140	13,682	4.3
Engineers IV	112,074	1,347	16,159	4.0
Engineers V	74,629	1,552	18,628	3.6
Engineers VI	38,532	1,78[illegible]	21,402	4.2
Engineers VII	14,438	2,031	24,367	3.7
Engineers VIII	3,070	2,32[illegible]	27,885	4.3
TECHNICAL SUPPORT
Engineering technicians I	3,374	60[illegible]	7,208	5.2
Engineering technicians II	10,583	68[illegible]	8,207	3.1
Engineering technicians III	23,697	79[illegible]	9,507	3.9
Engineering technicians IV	26,543	89[illegible]	10,788	3.8
Engineering technicians V	17,207	1,02[illegible]	12,259	3.8
Draftsmen-tracers	4,365	524	6,288	6.8
Draftsmen I	16,710	629	7,550	4.6
Draftsmen II	29,607	767	9,201	4.4
Draftsmen III	30,175	958	11,492	6.4
CLERICAL SUPERVISORY
Keypunch supervisors I	919	634	7,612	6.5
Keypunch supervisors II	1,693	710	8,516	3.8
Keypunch supervisors III	1,106	777	9,325	5.2
Keypunch supervisors IV	391	908	10,891	1.9
Keypunch supervisors V	59	1,027	12,322	8.9
CLERICAL
Clerks, accounting I	82,549	489	5,[illegible]	4.6
Clerks, accounting II	59,930	62[illegible]	[illegible],537	4.4
Clerks, file I	24,037	38[illegible]	4,602	4.2
Clerks, file II	22,754	419	5,027	3.4
Clerks, file III	6,936	518	6,214	5.3
Keypunch operators I	61,700	480	5,756	5.1
Keypunch operators II	45,043	545	6,539	5.2
Messengers (office boys and girls)	25,245	424	5,087	4.7
Secretaries I	80,584	581	6,972	4.3
Secretaries II	90,652	653	7,840	4.9
Secretaries III	50,937	703	8,436	4.5
Secretaries IV	16,030	758	9,092	4.6
Stenographers, general	49,096	515	6,181	3.8
Stenographers, senior	48,960	589	7,074	5.7
Typists I	59,426	436	5,229	3.9
Typists II	37,199	508	6,093	5.9

SOURCE: "White-Collar Salaries Up 4.4 Percent in 9 Months," U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics. (Press Release) August 7, 1972.

[a]Includes establishments with 250 workers or more in manufacturing and retail trade; and 100 or more in transportation, communication, electric, gas, and sanitary services, wholesale trade, engineering and architectural services, commercially operated research development, and testing laboratories, and finance, insurance, and real estate.

[b]Occupational employment estimates relate to the total in all establishments within scope of the survey and not to the number actually surveyed. Employment estimates are affected by two technical changes implemented in the current survey: The minimum employment size of finance, insurance, and real estate establishments included in the survey was raised from 50 to 100, and the sampling method used in the survey was revised. These changes had a negligible effect on most professional, administrative, technical support, and clerical supervisory occupations, but tended to lower the employment estimates for most clerical occupations.

[c]Salaries reported relate to the standard salaries that were paid for standard work schedules; i.e., the straight-time salary corresponding to the employee's normal work schedule excluding overtime hours. Nonproduction bonuses are excluded, but cost-of-living bonuses and incentive earnings are included.

[d]Percent changes have been computed using the full scope of the 1971 survey and the same scope in 1972, i.e., including establishments with fewer than 100 employees in the finance, insurance, and real estate industries.

[e]1971 data did not meet publication criteria.

SPECIAL REPORTS

SELECTED COLLECTIVE BARGAINING PROVISIONS: TEACHER RECRUITMENT, SCREENING, AND JOB DESCRIPTIONS

Collective bargaining can provide teachers with greater control over and increased involvement in professionalism. Definition of teaching duties and responsibilities and recruitment of new teachers are two facets of teacher professionalism that may be negotiated in collective bargaining agreements.

Provisions concerning teaching requirements and duties, as incorporated in negotiated contracts, usually sketch job descriptions within a given school district. Job descriptions are also included in non-negotiated school-board policies and regulations. However, only those job descriptions contained in teacher collective bargaining agreements are considered in this selection of provisions.

Through negotiation, teachers are also increasing their involvement in the recruitment of other teachers and administrators. Thus, teachers, as professionals, are able to maintain professional standards by establishing minimum qualifications and endorsing only those candidates who meet requirements and are able to perform the duties outlined in a particular job description. In many districts, teachers are excluded entirely from recruitment and the formulation of a job descriptions.

Sample provisions are reprinted below. It is emphasized that these provisions have been reproduced not because they are recommended for adoption, but to stimulate the thinking of readers who are developing or revising job descriptions and recruitment procedures.

Job Description

TITLE–TEACHER

A. Minimum qualifications–Certification by State Department of Education of Kentucky
B. Responsibility to whom–Principal of school to which assigned
C. Description of duties:

- Strives continually to improve instruction
- Participates in workshops, college classes and other inservice activities and keeps abreast of current trends in education by reading professional books and magazines and by viewing educational telecasts
- Groups students as seems advisable for effective teaching
- Keeps grouping flexible in order to meet individual differences and changing needs
- Endeavors to expedite the general overall plan of instruction as prescribed by the laws of the Commonwealth of Kentucky and the Jefferson County Board of Education
- Provides an environment for students which fosters security and satisfaction; promotes self-direction; encourages creativity; develops moral and spiritual values; and provides opportunity for democratic living
- Plans classroom instruction to meet curriculum standards as set forth by the State Board of Education of Kentucky and the Jefferson County Board of Education
- Plans the program to fit the needs of the students
- Endeavors to stimulate maximum achievement on part of students
- Utilizes appropriate instructional media for development of each student
- Accomplishes thorough preparation in subject matter of subject or grade assignment being sought
- Studies and evaluates available materials and equipment
- Provides individual guidance and counseling as needed
- Maintains a relationship that encourages students to seek personal guidance when needed
- Familiarizes self with personal data concerning backgrounds and problems of students in order to give individual help
- Reserves time before and after the regular school day for work with individual students who need help
- Works with agencies to develop improved environmental conditions for students
- Keeps open channels of communication with students, parents, fellow teachers and administrators
- Enlightens local community as to school activities
- Assists in any community activity which is connected with the school
- Strives to maintain a congenial and workable relationship with all school personnel, professional and classified
- Holds group and individual conferences with parents as need is indicated
- Endeavors to maintain a harmonious relationship with individuals and to work cooperatively with organizations in the community
- Applies ethical principles in all contacts
- Maintains membership and participates in activities of professional organizations
- Serves on curriculum development and textbook selection committees
- Participates in the development of an effective curriculum within the school
- Encourages and supports research for developing improved teaching materials and cooperates in testing and evaluating newer curriculum ideas
- Remains open-minded to innovations in the curriculum
- Evaluates teaching results and considers how instruction could be improved.
- Evaluates own teaching techniques and procedures and revises accordingly
- Plans and evaluates constantly in order to determine the needs and interests of students and to maintain a balance in the curriculum
- Performs other duties assigned by the principal of the school to which assigned

[Jefferson County
Louisville, Kentucky]

POSITION

Position Title: Department Chairman - Subject Matter Areas
Recruited by: Director of Personnel.
Elected by: Board of Education.
Term of election: One Year.

WORKING RELATIONSHIPS

Reports to: Building principal
Receives guidance from: Principal, Assistant Principals, Director of Secondary Education, Director of Curriculum Development, Coordinator, Consultants, and Teachers.
Extent of guidance received: Basically, suggestions and information pertaining to the instructional program in relationship to the curricular plans and the instructional program of the school and the district.
Provides guidance and consultation to: Principals, teachers, teacher aides, coordinator, counselors, and Directors of the Division of Instruction.

SPECIAL CHARACTERISTICS OF THE POSITION

Required experience or training: Master's or equivalency degree (B.A. + 48 credits) with at least three credits in each of the following: instructional methods, supervision, curriculum. Proper certification and minimum of three years' successful teaching experience at secondary level.
Desired experience or training: Formal course work in research and experience and training in educational administration.
Special requirements of the position: Commitment to a career in education; positive attitude toward research, and the ability to study and appreciate rigorous research methods; flexibility and inventiveness in the adaptation of learning methods, materials, and procedures to experimental situations; ability to lead in a close and extended interpersonal situation; and ability to recognize and utilize the resources of personnel. Ability to maintain effective interaction with the other teachers, the principals and instructional administrative personnel, children, parents, research personnel and liaison personnel; sensitivity to individual learning problems and training in methods of alleviating them; and high initiative and responsibility.

PRINCIPAL CHARACTERISTICS AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF WORK

Types of activities performed frequently: Assume leadership in developing, executing and evaluating an exemplary instructional program in the unit, including objective, materials, equipment and activities at the direction of the principal and other consultants within the structure of the school district.
Position responsibilities: A. Instruction - He or she will be responsible to the principal for the following: implement the instructional program; assist teachers in the diagnosis of each pupil's level of achievement; make recommendations for selection of instructional materials in terms of level of achievement of pupils, not on the basis of usual grade level; organize team planning for varying methods of instruction according to characteristics of the project in relation to content and sequence of the instructional unit; evaluate instruction of departmental members and assist them to improve their instructional methods; arranging instructional groups on the basis of needs of pupils; provide avenues of pupil movement from one grouping to another, into individual tutoring, and into independent study; coordinate the responsibilites of the teacher aides; coordinate the responsibilities of the teacher in teams; assume leadership in initiating, establishing and maintaining good home-school relations; meet with other department leaders and the principal; act as a liaison person between principal and other members of the unit; prepare case studies of pupil growth in cooperation with other members of the department; assist principal in selection and assignment of department members; prepares with department members budget recommendations for the department, and approves all department requisitions.
B. Curriculum Development - Work with counselors, teachers and administrators to assess the unique characteristics of the student population; use student data as an index of the extent to which curriculum objectives are being met; assist teachers to follow the curricula as specified and to adjust the program to the particular needs and interests of students; assist teachers in being sensitive to and communicating about curriculum inadequacies; assist teachers in the development of new curricula to meet specific school needs; assist in organizing and implementing in-service training content for teachers; may represent his school on district level curriculum committees; department chairman will perform any duty assigned by the principal and not included herein which is consistent with his role as instructional and curricular leader for his department; and no extra-curricular responsibility shall be assigned to a department chairman.
C. Research - Aid in the planning for and execution of educational research that will take place within the research and instruction teams; give guidance and provide leadership for the administration of experimental treatments, instructional methods, materials, media, by teachers or others to insure continuous adherence to an experimental design and to a schedule for collecting information; and participate in collection and analysis of information.
D. Development - Help plan the development activities with members of the department, principal, and school staff; coordinate the development of an exemplary instructional system within the department, including a statement of objectives, the assessment of the capabilities of pupils, the instructional program and evaluation procedures; and participate in preparing instructional materials, evaluation instruments, reports and collection of all data required for evaluation.
E. Innovation - Stimulate and coordinate the introduction of novel procedures and materials in the department; keep abreast of innovations through the school system, the state and the nation; cooperate in evaluation of innovations; and assumes major responsibility for providing leadership and direction to his assigned obligation area in addition to teaching responsibilities.

[Madison, Wisconsin]

The teacher's duties, as part of his primary professional responsibility, are to teach and to otherwise supervise and develop the capabilities of the students in the school system. These duties include, but are not limited to:

a) Providing high-quality instruction in the classroom, laboratory, and special activity rooms of the schools.

b) Sponsorship and supervision of clubs and class extra-curricular activities.

c) Performing normal disciplinary and supervisory functions in whatever portions of the building such as required, in a manner consistent with the administrative policy of the District.

d) Attending necessary faculty meetings.

e) Conferring, as required by the educational needs of his students, with parents of his students with regard to scholastic, disciplinary, attitudinal, and behavioral matters, including responding to parental complaints, so as to maintain open communication with parents and students. These conferences are to be scheduled, when practical, during the professional employee's normal working hours.

f) Keeping up to date on subject matter, teaching methods, teaching materials, techniques for working with students, and other related developments, and doing so on his own time to supplement the in-service program.

g) Providing, without extra remuneration, special assistance to the slower students in the normal classes who may require such assistance, when in the judgment of the administration and teacher the students would benefit from such assistance.

h) Providing, without extra remuneration, special educational challenge and enrichment to the brighter students in the normal classes, when in the judgment of the administration and teacher the students would benefit from such assistance.

i) Regular self-conducted reviewing of curricula and making suggestions for improvement.

j) Regular self-appraisal of the teacher's own teaching methods and classroom procedures, and improving them to the extent possible.

k) Regular self-appraisal of the teacher's own performance, in all facets of the teacher's job, and working to improve his performance to the extent possible.

Effective performance of the teacher's duties requires that certain modes of on-the-job behavior be adhered to by the teacher. The following are required:

a) A normal work day for teachers is eight hours.

b) Meeting and starting classes on time.

c) Reports required by the administration must be submitted on time unless extenuating circumstances prevent it.

d) In the event a teacher is unexpectedly not able to complete a school day, due to illness or emergency, other regular teachers may be required to substitute during periods in which they do not have a class, or to combine their classes with those of that teacher. Consideration will be given to teacher preferences in making such assignments.

[Babcock School District
Gibsonia, Pennsylvania]

Teacher Recruitment and Screening

PROFESSIONAL PLACEMENT AND EVALUATION OF TEACHING FACULTY

The Board and the Association endorse the professional concept that teachers shall be involved in the recruitment, selection, orientation, transfer and promotion of all certified personnel.

Selection of Teaching Faculty: In each school building the Building Representation Committee will establish appropriate Building Teacher Selection Committees which will meet and discuss with the principal the screening and selection of teachers to be recommended to the Superintendent for appointment. Generally, no teacher will be recommended to the Superintendent for appointment unless that teacher is approved by the appropriate Building Teacher Selection Committee and the building principal

[Great Neck, New York]

TEACHER RECRUITMENT

Only professionally qualified candidates shall be considered for hiring. It is the goal of the Association and Board to have each teacher hold a valid New York State Certificate in the area in which he will function. The Assistant Superintendent for Administration will systematically review each probational teacher's progress toward this goal. If the Certificate is provisional, the teacher must meet permanent Certificate requirements within the period stipulated by the New York State Education Department.

Interviews: Elementary Classroom Teachers: A candidate screened by the Central Administration will be interviewed by the Principal and one or two teachers of the appropriate level (primary or intermediate) elected by the teachers of that level from the building. Elementary Special Teachers: A candidate screened by the Central Administration will be interviewed by the Principal, the appropriate district subject-matter supervisor, and one teacher elected by the teachers of that special subject. Secondary Teachers: A candidate screened by the Central Administration will be interviewed by the Principal, department chairman or the appropriate district subject-matter supervisor and one or two teachers elected from that discipline. Where a candidate does not receive the recommendation of the whole committee each opinion may be submitted to the Assistant Superintendent for Administration who shall make the judgment. When the interviews have been completed, each person who has interviewed the candidates may submit a written report to the Assistant Superintendent, listing all the candidates in the order of his recommendation preference, stating the reason or reasons for such preference. In an emergency the interview will be conducted by the best means available to the Superintendent's Office. When an outstanding teacher candidate in a critical subject area is identified on a recruiting trip, the Superintendent of Schools or his designee shall be free to act to secure the candidate.

[Union Free School District #3
Huntington, New York]

TEACHER RECRUITMENT AND HIRING

The Board realizes that the recruitment and hiring of competent teachers to the staff of the New Paltz Central School is of the utmost importance to the children of this community.

In the secondary area, where possible, department chairmen will be invited to interview the candidates for their particular departments along with the Building Principal and the Supervising Principal. The Building Principal and the department chairman's recommendations will be considered by the Supervising Principal in making his recommendations to the Board.

In the elementary area, where possible, an experienced teacher will be invited to interview the candidates along with the Building Principal and the Supervising Principal. The Building Principal's and the experienced teacher's recommendations will be considered by the Supervising Principal in making his recommendations to the Board.

When deemed advisable, time will be set aside so that department chairmen of the elementary teacher may observe candidates teaching their classes.

The District will bear the cost of substitutes while these teachers are observing; and these observation days will not be counted against these teachers' personal days, sick days, or visitation days.

[New Paltz, New York]

BRIEFS OF RECENT AGREEMENTS

New Bedford, Massachusetts

Between New Bedford Education Association and New Bedford School Committee, effective July 1, 1971, to August 31, 1973. Approximately 660 certificated professional employees. Renegotiation on a successor contract to commence no later than November 1, 1972.

COMPENSATION: (1972-73) B.A., $7,950 to $12,000, 10 increments; B.A. plus 15, $8,150 to $12,200, 10 increments; M.A., $8,850 to $12,900, 10 increments; M.A. plus 30, $9,050 to $13,100, 10 increments; CAGS, $9,450 to $13,500, 10 increments; Ph.D., $9,950 to $14,000, 10 increments; longevity pay to be $50 annually after 10 years, $100 annually after 20 years, $200 annually after 30 years, and $300 after 40 years in New Bedford; certified summer school, evening elementary, and evening high-school teachers, $7 per hour, noncertified, $5 per hour; when substitute teachers are not available, regular teachers to be paid an additional $5 per class period served in junior and senior high-school and $10 per morning or afternoon session, if sessions divided between two teachers, $5.00 per session; traveling adjustment counselors and teachers of home classes to be allowed $225 annually for transportation; 10 cents per mile for all approved travel outside the city but within the state; on retirement, tenure teachers receive $10 for each unused accumulated sick leave day up to a maximum of 150 days.

DIFFERENTIALS: $500 annually to every specialist with a graduate degree teaching in his special field; assistant in guidance and placement department, $600; counselor in guidance and placement department and elementary school adjustment, $400; high-school dean of students, $800; department heads, $250 for 1-5 teachers up to $750 for 30 or more teachers; extracurricular activities: head football coach, $1,800; trainer, $1,750; head track coach, $1,600; head basketball coach, $1,400; junior high-school head coaches, $1,200; head baseball coach, $1,000; head coach for girl's sports, $500; body building, $300; girls' tennis, $200; various club sponsors range from $50 to $200.

LEAVES: Fifteen days' annual sick leave, 120 days' maximum accumulation; 3 days' emergency personal leave to attend serious illness of immediate family member, required court appearance, comprehensive examinations to earn a graduate degree, or other personal business or family matters at discretion of superintendent; 3 days' bereavement leave for immediate family and 1 day for death of aunt or uncle; 2 school visiting days per year may be allowed with any expense involved paid by the teacher; military leave without pay not to exceed 4 years with return to schedule; extended sick leave without pay not to exceed 1 year beyond sick leave used; sabbatical leave at half salary for not more than one year with agreement to return to system for two years with full credit for period upon return but without earning sick leave during sabbatical; leave of absence without pay up to 2 years to join Peace Corps; leave without pay or increment up to 1 year to care for sick member of tenure teacher's immediate family.

INSURANCE: During absence for personal injury caused by an accident arising out of and in the course of employment, teacher may elect to charge all or part of such absence to accident or sick leave, in which case he receives sick leave payments less amount paid by Workmen's Compensation; if he chooses not to take sick leave pay, his sick leave credit is not to be reduced by any reason of Workmen's Compensation payments.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll dues deduction for local, state, and national dues; released time for president and his or her nominees for association business to be no more than 7 days per individual or an aggregate of 15 days per year; use of school buildings at reasonable times outside school hours for meetings without cost except for custodial fees; use of faculty bulletin boards to post notices; prior to the 15th of October, December, February, and April the school committee is to meet with members of the association to discuss items of mutual concern.

INSTRUCTION: Secondary teachers to have 5 preparation periods each week; class size maximum not to exceed 30; specialists not to act as substitutes except in an emergency as determined by the superintendent or deputy superintendent; school calendar is to comprise 182 work days; the association is to establish a continuing textbook committee which is to be representative of the professional staff and which may submit to the superintendent recommendations and proposals for the supplemental purchase of books and/or the acquisition of new books; six-member study committees to be established to encourage the active participation and cooperation of the teachers in the development and implementation of the best possible educational program for the school children of New Bedford.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure to end with binding arbitration; personnel file to be available to each teacher upon request and each teacher may reply to any material in the file, such reply to be attached; duty-free lunch periods of no less than 30 minutes; only one general staff meeting per year called by superintendent; building principal may call only one meeting per month to last no longer than one hour, 15 minutes; teachers to attend only one evening meeting each year for open house and/or parent visitation of no more than 2 hours and no more than one evening per year for school pupil functions; when public address systems are used to monitor classrooms an audible signal is to be given; teachers to be given a copy of any evaluation report prepared by their superior with the right to discuss such reports with their superiors before inclusion of same in personnel files; vacancies in promotional positions to be posted at least 15 days before applications must be submitted with seniority a significant factor in filling such positions; transfers to be posted by May 1 of each year; involuntary transfers or reassignments to be made only after a meeting between the teacher involved and the superintendent or his designee; teachers to be informed of any complaints regarding their teaching and no disciplinary action is to be initiated by the employer except in accordance with provisions of the General Laws, Chapter 71; teachers to be provided with a separate desk and chair in each classroom, storage space for instructional materials and supplies, adequate work areas, faculty lounge, and parking space.

Gaylord, Michigan

Between the Gaylord Board of Education and the Gaylord Education Association, effective August 1, 1972, to July 31, 1974. Approximately 80 certificated professional employees.

COMPENSATION: (1972-73) B.A., $8,000 to $10,950, 8 increments; M.A., $8,500 to $12,750, 10 increments; M.A. + 30, $8,800 to $13,050, 10 increments. Teachers on step six and above on the B.A. and B.A. + 10 lane will not move horizontally until they have moved vertically. The next vertical lane is B.A. + 20; B.A. + 10 lane is eliminated in 1973-74 and teachers revert to the B.A. lane at same experience step. (1973-74) B.A., $8,300 to $12,100, 8 increments; M.A., $8,900 to $13,150, 10 increments; M.A. + 30, $9,300 to $13,550, 10 increments.

DIFFERENTIALS: (based on percentage of teacher's base pay) head football, basketball, 10%; band director, 9.5%; head baseball, track, and junior varsity football, 6%; girls' basketball, ski team, year book, drama (minimum of 3 plays), and cheerleading, 4%; grades 5-8 intramurals (for each activity up to 3), golf, tennis, debate, and department heads, 3.5%; safety patrol, 3%; forensics, 2%; driver education, $5.50 per hour; sixth-grade camp, $200; lunch duty, $3.00 per hour.

OTHER: Vocational teachers credited with one year's experience for each year of relevant work experience; reimbursement for authorized travel, $.11 per mile.

LEAVES: Ten days' annual sick leave credited at the beginning of the school year cummulative to 140 days; one bonus day for each 5 days' unused sick leave; 140 days' maximum accumulation for unused sick, bonus, and personal leave days; 2 days annually for personal business (except in emergency, 5-days' notice required); teachers on personal leave may be restricted to no more than 4 per district or 2 per building; 5 days per year deducted from sick leave for death in the immediate family; sabbatical leave at one-half pay for one year; unpaid leave for exchange teaching, military service, or education; no compensation for emergency substituting during planning period, compensatory time for all other situations; compensatory time for substituting, for time spent after established school day for parent-teacher conferences, or teacher meetings after 5:00 p.m. or on Saturdays, Sundays, or holidays, to be taken in ½ day blocks or added to sick leave accumulation in ½ day blocks.

INSURANCE: Board-paid Blue Cross-Blue Shield and major medical with family coverage; $7,500 group life insurance policy; liability insurance; disability income insurance paying 60% of salary after 30 consecutive days and up to 60 months.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll dues deduction for local, state, and national associations; 5 days' released time for association business to be used at discretion of president, limited to 2 days per individual, board to provide substitute for first 3 days and association to reimburse board for substitute if other two days are used; school rental and use privileges when not in conflict with scheduled activities; right to wear insignia, and use bulletin board and mailbox; board to furnish financial information and information concerning programs or the processing of grievances; consultation with the board on financial, instruction, or tax programs, or major revisions of education policy; association matters to be presented to the board at least 4 days prior to board meetings and to be placed on the agenda; no-strike clause; board to provide each teacher with a copy of the agreement.

INSTRUCTION: Maximum of 27.5 pupil-contact hours per week; effort to maintain maximum teacher-pupil ratio of 1:26; school day, 8:15 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.; school calendar, 202 days in calendar year comprising 183 instructional days, 5 teacher work days, 3 holidays, and 11 vacation days; 15-member curriculum council with a minimum of 12 teachers from K-12 and one to 5 members from each building to be selected by the building principal on the basis of ability and functions during the school day; proposed schedules to be posted prior to June 1; all affected teachers to be notified of changes thereafter; extra duties are voluntary and assigned on basis of qualifications, competency, and other relevant factors.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure to end with binding arbitration; right to review the confidential contents of personnel file and to be accompanied by an association representative; duty-free lunch period of at least 40 minutes, equal to students'; at least one 45-minute preparation period per day or compensation for lack thereof; teacher evaluation on the basis of established criteria, at least three times a year for probationary teachers, annually for tenure teachers; posting of all vacancies; unrequested transfers for school assignments, classrooms, and grades to be avoided or kept to minimum; teachers to report promptly any assault; teacher to be notified promptly of student or parental complaints; all probationary teachers to be assigned a teaching consultant; board to pay up to $15 of required annual physical checkup including tuberculosis test; reduction-in-force procedure to be in accordance with the certification, qualification, experience, and length of service which shall be the determining factor when all other factors are equal.

REDUCTIONS IN PERSONNEL AND ANNEXATION, CONSOLIDATION, OR OTHER REORGANIZATION OF THE DISTRICT

No Teacher shall be discharged or laid off pursuant to a necessary reduction in personnel unless there is substantial decrease in the students enrolled in the school district or there is a substantial decrease in the revenues of the school district. The decision as to the existence of cause for necessary reduction in personnel may be the subject of a grievance.

In the event of a general cutback or reduction of teachers through layoff from employment, the following procedure, based upon program needs, will be utilized:

Specially-certified teachers in the specific positions being reduced or eliminated will be laid off first provided there are fully-qualified, fully-certificated teachers to replace and perform all of the duties of the laid off teachers.

If reduction is still necessary, then probationary teachers in the specific positions being reduced or eliminated will be laid off, provided there are fully-qualified, fully-certificated teachers to replace and perform all of the duties of the laid off teachers.

If reduction is still necessary, then teachers in the specific position being reduced or eliminated will be laid off in accordance with the following factors: Certification, qualification, experience, and length of service. In the event all factors are equal, length of service shall be the determining factor. A teacher may change departments to improve seniority only if he has a major in that department and/or has teaching experience in that area within the Gaylord Community School District:

Certification: Possessing a provisional or permanent certificate appropriate to the teaching level.

Qualifications: Possessing a major or a minor appropriate to the teaching assignment, as well as a sufficient number of credit hours in that academic area to meet accrediting agency standards.

After a reduction of teachers as outlined above, if there are teaching positions that become vacant, laid off teachers who are certified and qualified will be given the first opportunity to fill such positions. In the event two or more teachers are certified and qualified, the order of priority shall be to the teacher who is the most qualified and fully capable to fill such position.

In determining what constitutes "most qualified and fully capable", the employer shall utilize, among others, the following factors: experience, ability, attitude, professional background and attainments, past performance, employment and personnel records, interest, attendance, willingness to work, evaluations, length of service in the position and/or with the employer, communications and interviews, and test scores (if any applicable.)

Before official action on a reduction of teacher is taken by the Board of Education, it will give notice to the Association of the contemplated reduction and afford the Association opportunity to discuss it with the Employer. As soon as the names of the teachers to be laid off are known, a list of such names shall be given to the Association.

In the event of lay-off, the Board will institute a recall procedure which, when implemented, will insure teachers that they will be recalled in the reverse order of lay off. Recall will be initiated immediately upon resolution of any financial crisis which may have precipitated the necessary reduction in personnel.

Cranford Township, New Jersey

Between Cranford Township Board of Education and the Cranford Education Association (Unit A), effective July 1, 1972, to June 30, 1973. Approximately 350 certificated professional employees. Contract covers certificated and noncertificated school employees.

COMPENSATION: B.A., $8,400 to $13,900, 15 increments; B.A. + 30, $14,200 maximum; M.A., $9,200 to $15,560, 16 increments; M.A. + 30, $16,585 maximum; Ph.D., $17,085 maximum. Long-term substitutes, $8,400 to $9,000; short-term substitutes, $19 per day, $21 per day after five days of continuous service; longevity payment, $300 after 20 years' service and at least 15 years in the system.

DIFFERENTIALS: Department chairmen, $500; guidance chairmen, $200; (all of the following activities are paid on a differential scale with six increments), art services, choral music, and instrumental music, high school: $400 to $642, junior high: $300 to $482; intramural sports, junior and senior high: $320 to $514, elementary school: $250 to $402; advisors for student council, senior class play, newspaper, yearbook, audiovisual aid club, and varsity cheerleaders, $150 to $241; (all of the following activities are paid on a differential scale with five increments), football varsity coach, $1,020 to $1,680; basketball head varsity coach, $820 to $1,350; head baseball, wrestling, track, and soccer coach, $665 to $1,090; athletic trainer-equipment manager, $1,395; home instruction and supplementary instruction teachers, $5.25 per hour; driver education teacher, $4.75 per hour; summer school teachers, $5 to $6 per hour depending on experience; 10 cents per mile for use of own car for school business.

LEAVES: Annual sick leave as set forth in school personnel policies, unlimited maximum accumulation; three days' personal leave upon prior notification and superintendent's approval with one day available without stating reasons and two days deducted from personal leave for religious observance, death in the nonimmediate family, own marriage, or family illness; five days' bereavement leave for death in the immediate family; unlimited paid leave for job-related court appearance; extended leave with contractual rights preserved may be granted upon notification six months prior with no salary credit given unless leave is connected with professional growth, prolonged illness, home or family responsibilities, temporary work assignment of spouse away from home, employment at overseas school, Peace Corps and other government sponsored activities, personal interests, or military leave; sabbatical leave after seven years' service at half pay for one year and full pay for half year.

INSURANCE: Board-paid Blue Cross, Blue Shield, and a major medical program for all employees and up to 75% of premiums for employees' dependents within budget allocation of $135,000; liability insurance for teachers using own cars in performance of school duties; savings plan: teacher may request a specific amount of money to be deducted from each monthly pay check which monies shall be paid back in a separate check in June.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll dues deduction for local, state, and national association; board will furnish association with information on financial resources of district; association representative or any employee will be granted leave with pay to participate during working hours in negotiations, grievance procedures, conferences, or meetings; association may transact official business on school property if it does not interfere with normal school operation; use of school facilities; association given space on bulletin boards for notices, and use of interschool mail facilities; right to wear association insignia or identification; association representative may speak at faculty meetings for 15 minutes, subject to requirements of meeting agenda.

INSTRUCTION: School calendar to consist of 182 class days; teachers to be notified of work assignments no later than August 15; definition of duties and responsibilities concerning pupil discipline to be drawn up by the superintendent, teachers may exclude student from class and refer him to principal if behavior seriously disrupts class; teaching load for junior and senior high-school teachers is five subject-matter periods of one hour each, no more than two subjects areas or three teaching preparations, department heads: no more than two student instruction-supervision periods per day.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with advisory arbitration; duty-free lunch period one hour for elementary teachers and 25 minutes for junior and senior high-school teachers; during lunch, teachers may leave building without permission; faculty meetings four days a month for no longer than 60 minutes, teachers to be notified at least one day in advance; school district has $2,000 available for tuition reimbursement, teachers must submit application to superintendent at least 60 days prior to beginning of course, teacher will receive response within 30 days, only courses that are part of a college or university degree program are acceptable, must receive a grade of B or better to receive reimbursement, maximum load is three credits per semester or six credits per year, maximum reimbursement is $150 per year; inservice activities designed to develop competency in performance, including visits to other classrooms, schools, colleges, industrial or business establishments, conferences, conventions or committee work, training in classes and workshops, sponsored by the district or other institutions, superintendent approves leaves for inservice activities, employee to be informed of approval or disproval in writing, reimbursement for travel, lodging, registration, and meals may be granted at discretion of superintendent, written reports on activities may be required; teacher to be given copies of all class visits or evaluation reports, before submission to central office or placed in teacher's personnel folder, conference will be held with teacher, who must sign all completed forms, space will be provided on forms for teacher's comments to be completed within 24 hours of receiving initial report, teacher given copies of all reports submitted to the central office; by May 1, superintendent to inform association and post a list of vacancies for next school year; teacher who desires change in grade, subject assignment, or school may file written statement of desire with principal not later than March 1, request forwarded to superintendent, and acknowledged within 15 days, if denied, superintendent will list reasons, decision is final; involuntary transfers and reassignments not subject to the grievance procedure, no vacancy to be filled by an involuntary transfer if a qualified volunteer is available; administrative/supervisory positions, department chairmen, building chairmen, secretary-clerical and building service positions on a higher salary scale are promotional positions and are to be publicized during the school year by notices in the school at least five days prior to the final application date; during the summer at least 21 days prior to the final date of application the superintendent must post list of promotional positions at administration office and in each open school, notice to be given to the association, notice of job must contain qualifications, duties, and salary; position's qualifications cannot be changed unless association is notified, disagreements concerning changes in job descriptions to be subject to grievance procedure; in filling positions, due weight to be given to applications from teachers already employed in the school district, announcements of appointments to be posted; positions for summer school, home teaching, and federal projects to be publicized in same manner; teacher's area of competence, major or minor field of study, quality of teaching performance, and attendance to be considered in filling positions; the board is to pay all expenses of civil actions arising out of teacher's employment, including counsel fees and expenses and costs of appeal.

JOINT COMMITTEES: Liasion committee of employees and principal to discuss local school problems and practices, and develop and revise building practices; joint committees to study employment of special education teachers, to examine teachers' nonteaching duties and the feasibility of employing teacher aides, to study employees' personal and academic freedom, to revise teacher evaluation procedures, to develop teacher facilities, and to determine procedure for reviewing, evaluating, and selecting textbooks, library books, instructional materials, and supplies.

East Penn School District (Emmaus), Pennsylvania

Between East Penn School District and East Penn Education Association, effective September 1, 1971, to August 31, 1973. Approximately 265 certificated professional employees. May be extended by amendment to this agreement.

COMPENSATION: (1972-73) B.A., $7,500 to $12,000, 15 increments; B.A. plus 9, $7,600 to $12,100, 15 increments; B.A. plus 18, $7,700 to $12,200, 15 increments; M.A., $8,000 to $12,800, 16 increments; M.A. plus 9, $8,100 to $12,900, 16 increments; M.A. plus 18, $8,200 to $13,000, 16 increments; Ph.D., $8,300 to $13,400, 17 increments.

DIFFERENTIALS: For teachers of mentally and physically handicapped, $200; head teachers (10-month contract) at elementary schools to receive an additional $150 when stationed in a building containing the office of an elementary principal and $200 when in a building without an elementary principal; department heads to be paid an additional $65 plus $25 for each member within the department.

LEAVE: Ten days annual sick leave with unlimited accumulation; 2 days for personal business; extended sick leave of 10 days with half pay when accredited maximum has been used up; 5 days for bereavement for death in immediate family; 2 days for religious holidays; teachers serving on jury to be paid full daily rate less amount paid by court; employees required to attend a Court of Record shall be excused from duty without loss of pay for the required period; however, if found guilty of a criminal offense, pay for the period of the absence to be forfeited; tuition costs to be reimbursed for graduate studies taken after the first day on the job with the school district in an amount up to $25 per credit earned; severance pay to be granted up to the number of days of unused accumulated sick leave times 25% of the daily rate of pay for substitute teachers; no salary to be paid for an accidental injury incurred while engaged in renumerative work unrelated to school duties; employees absent from duty because of quarantine by the Board of Health traceable to school contact to receive full salary benefits regardless of sick leave.

INSURANCE: Board-paid hospital medical care, and major medical including dependency coverage; board-paid group term life insurance of $5,000.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll dues deduction for local, state, and national dues; use of bulletin board in each faculty area; space provided for storage and use of office equipment; may use interschool mail services and mail boxes; use of building for meetings until 5:00 p.m. or building custodian quitting time, whichever is earlier; three members appointed by the school district and three by the association to meet and discuss those matters required as meet and discuss topics during the term of this contract.

INSTRUCTION: School calendar of 188 days, 5 of which are included for days schools are closed because of inclement weather.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure to end with binding arbitration; duty-free lunch period of 30 minutes; no more than 30 hours per term to be required for faculty meetings, open house, parent-teacher conferences, district inservice days, or workshops; no official teacher evaluation form to be placed in teacher's file unless the teacher has had an opportunity to read it; use of public address systems, audio systems and similar devices to be prohibited as evaluation tool.

ERRATA

October 1972, Vol. 6, No. 2

Kentucky's two 1970-71 collective bargaining agreements, representing 4,300 NEA-affiliated teachers, were omitted from the data tabulated in "The Growth of Classroom Teacher Collective Bargaining.' The corrections to Table 1 are as follows:

TABLE 1.—CLASSROOM TEACHER COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENTS, 1966-67, 1968-69, AND 1970-71

AFFILIATION	SURVEY YEAR 1966-67	1968-69	1970-71	PERCENT INCREASE 1966-67 to 1970-71
1	2	3	4	5
Number of School Systems
NEA	351	937	1,712	387.7
AFT	37	82	103	178.4
Other[a]	1	8	10	900.0
Total	389	1,027	1,825	369.2
Number of Classroom Teachers
NEA	88,123	273,497	544,249	517.6
AFT	120,164	173,570	192,000	59.8
Other[a]	146	1,075	1,075	636.3
Total	208,433	448,142	737,324	253.7

[a] Independent representation or joint NEA-AFT representation.

The addition to Table 2 is listed below.

Kentucky	...	...	2	...	...	4,300
UNITED STATES	389	1,027	1,825	208,433	448,142	737,324

2386

HAVE YOU SEEN THIS OUTSTANDING NEA REFERENCE WORK?

COMPREHENSIVE NEGOTIATION AGREEMENT PROVISIONS
1972 Edition

PART I -	Scope of Agreement and Association, Board and Teacher Rights Provisions
PART II -	Joint Committees, Instructional, Educational and Teacher Assignment and Work-Load Provisions
PART III -	Grievance Procedures, Personnel and Salary Provisions
PART IV -	Group Insurance, Leaves of Absence and Fringe Benefit Provisions

This four-part document prepared by NEA Research is an invaluable source of negotiated items in teacher/board agreements. In 1,418 pages it analyzes over 1,500 negotiated agreements in U.S. public school systems. Over 300 negotiable items are identified and coded system-by-system. (Specific content of the provisions may be obtained on request by using the Information Request Forms provided in each volume.)

REPRESENTATION INFORMATION

- State
- Name of school system
- Location of school system
- Name of recognized organization
- National affiliation of recognized organization
- Number of professional personnel represented
- Type of agreement
- Term of comprehensive agreement
- Agreement page number for particular provision

PROVISION ANALYSIS

- 200 provision titles
- Detailed analysis coded for 300 variables:
  - Negotiation impasse: 3rd party involved in type of decision
  - Jt. administrator-teacher committees
  - Grievance arbitration: 3rd party involved in type of decision
  - Bench marks in salary schedules: 1-, 2-, or 3-year agreements
  - Group insurance: part or full premium paid by board
  - 21 short-term leaves identified

Please send:

_____ $40./set. (4 parts per set)
(qty.) Stock No. 388-11940.

_____ Special price ONLY for NEA state
(qty.) and local associations: $25./set.
Stock No. 388-11938.

Check one below:

_____ Payment enclosed. Make checks payable to NEA.
_____ Bill on purchase order attached.

Mail to:

NEA PUBLICATION-SALES SECTION 192
1201 Sixteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20036

_____
Name

_____
Organization

_____
Address

_____
City/State/ZIP

VOL. 6 NO. 5
JAN. 1973

NRD
NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST

Page

Case Reviews 3
- Anti-union Law for Public Employees Declared Void
- Reinstatement of Five Nontenured Instructors Upheld
- Prior Arbitration Award Binding When Contractually Agreed Upon
- Taylor Law Strike Penalties Cannot Be Imposed Without Prior Hearing
- Failure to Recognize or Meet With Employees Violates First Amendment
- Appellate Strikes Down Arbitrary Maternity Leave Rule

Board Findings and Rulings 6
- Bargaining Unit Members Cannot Advise Management Team
- Indefinite Contract Extensions No Bar to Representation Elections
- School Calendar Negotiable Item
- Lack of Budget No Impediment to Bargaining
- Reinstatement Ordered for Violation of Evaluation Procedure "Philosophy"

Negotiation Notes 9
- State Board of Education Issues "Advisory" Regulations on Maternity Leave
- Connecticut Study of City Contracts Requiring Union Security Provisions
- Massachusetts Arbitration Law Amended
- Michigan Board Upholds Loss of Seniority of Bargaining Unit Transferees
- Minnesota Amends Public Employment Labor Relations Act
- October CPI, Spendable Earnings Decline
- Attorney General's Opinions: Oregon, Pennsylvania

Statistics 11
- School Board Members and School Administrators as Negotiators

Special Reports 18
- Briefs of Recent Agreements
- Outside Assistance for Management Negotiators, 1972-73

NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION
RESEARCH

Copyright © 1973 by the
National Education Association
All Rights Reserved

2388

CASE REVIEWS

ALABAMA

Anti-union Law for Public Employees Declared Void

The Madison County Circuit Court of Alabama upheld a judgment sought by the AFL-CIO affiliated Alabama Labor Council and declared the state's Solomon Act void "as repugnant to the First and Fourteenth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution." The Act, which was legislated in 1953, stated that "any public employee who joins or participates in a labor union or labor organization, or who remains a member of, or continues to participate in, a labor union or labor organization thirty days after the effective date of this act, shall forfeit all rights afforded him under the State Merit System, employment rights, reemployment rights, and other rights, benefits or privileges which he enjoys as a result of his public employment."

The union council argued that as a result of the passage of the Act the unions have lost both members and dues. The council also pointed out that the unions' goal is the betterment of wages and working conditions for state and local employees.

The court referred to Atkins v. City of Charlotte and Melton v. City of Atlanta which involved state statutes similar to the Solomon Act which also prohibited public employee membership in unions by means of sweeping and harsh penalties. The court then stated that it "must conclude as have two recent federal courts that public employees have the same constitutional rights under the First Amendment as any other citizen." The Act deprived public employees of their constitutional rights of free speech, peaceful assembly, governmental petition to redress grievances, and equal protection of the laws. The court also pointed out that the state has shown that no legitimate public interest is being protected by such a law. The court said that it could find no "rational basis or explanation for this discrimination which clearly violates the Fourteenth Amendment" since the Act already exempts employees of municipalities, employees of the state docks, terminal railway, and employees of Bryce and Searcy Hospitals and Partlow State School.

The court declared the Solomon Act void because it could find no reasonable way to interpret the Act in a constitutional manner. (Alabama Labor Council, AFL-CIO, et al., vs. J. Stanley Frazier, et al., Circuit Court of Madison County, Alabama, June 15, 1972.)

NEBRASKA

Reinstatement of Five Nontenured Instructors Upheld

The Nebraska Supreme Court reaffirmed the judgment of the Court of Industrial Relations and ordered the Mid-Plains Nebraska Technical College to reinstate five instructors whose contracts were not renewed because of their association affiliation.

The Mid-Plains Education Association (MPEA) contended that the board did not rehire the five instructors who were all union members in order to discourage union membership and activities.

The college appealed the reinstatment decision of the Court of Industrial Relations, on the grounds that the industrial court should not have heard the case because the petition was filed by the association and not by the affected teachers. Pointing out that the instructors were employed on one-year contracts, the college contended that it was under no obligation to rehire them and acted within its rights in not rehiring them. Further, the college argued that it did not rehire two of the five teachers because of bad evaluations and the other three, because their job was eliminated by a curriculum change.

The court determined that the Court of Industrial Relations had jurisdiction over the case in accordance with the provisions of the Nebraska Public Employment Bargaining Law. Under the law, public employees have the right to be represented by an employee organization for the purpose of bargaining collectively with their employer, and in the event of a dispute between the parties a petition may be filed by the employee organization with the Court of Industrial Relations.

The court also held that even though the instructors had only one-year contracts and the college was under no obligation to rehire them, "a failure to rehire is a denial of employment and an adverse action against an employee, just as an outright firing would be, and if it is prompted by anti-union motives, it comes within the prohibitions of the Constitution and the statutes." Further, the court held that the college's justifications for not rehiring the instructors did not "ring true." The court found that the instructors were not rehired because of the "clear and frankly expressed antipathy toward this labor organization on the part of the Board of Governors and the administration of the college."

The dissenting members of the court held that an employer should have an absolute right to refuse to renew a contract regardless of the reasons unless tenure is involved.

"Convinced that the failure to rehire was motivated by an unlawful intent to discourage and retaliate for labor organization membership activity," the Nebraska Supreme Court upheld the judgment of the Court of Industrial Relations. (Mid-Plains Education Association, Plaintiff v. Mid-Plains Nebraska Technical College, Defendant, Nebraska Supreme Court, August 4, 1972.)

NEW YORK

Prior Arbitration Award Binding When Contractually Agreed Upon

The New York Supreme Court ruled that it was not entitled to review a ruling by the New York City School Board which denied a teacher a salary differential under Article D of the collective bargaining agreement between the board and the United Federation of Teachers. An arbitrator had previously reached the same decision in a similar case. Further, the bargaining agreement, to which the grievant was subject, provided that an arbitrator's decision denying a grievance would be applied to similar situations.

The petitioner contended that "(1) she is not bound by the arbitrator's decision of 1964 which interpreted the provision on which she now relies; (2) that such decision was not confirmed by the Supreme Court within one year after its delivery to the Board and the Union; (3) that the time to confirm it has long since expired and it can not now be confirmed or enforced, and it now has no legal effect whatever."

The court found that according to provisions in the agreement, the petitioner is bound by the decision of the arbitrator. The court also pointed out that "since the petitioner seeks the benefits of the agreement, she likewise is bound by all of its terms."

Based upon the evidence submitted, the court found that the action of the school board was proper, and dismissed the petition. (In the Matter of the Application of Ruth Goldin for a judgment pursuant to Article 78 CPLR v. The Board of Education of the City of New York, New York Supreme Court, September 27, 1971.)

Strikers Cannot Be Penalized Without an Opportunity to Answer Charges and Have Hearing

In a recent decision, the New York State Supreme Court ruled that the state cannot impose statutory penalties against striking employees without giving them opportunity to file objections and have a hearing on the charges. The case was brought against Governor Rockefeller (representing the Office of Employee Relations (OER) by four members of the Civil Service Employees Association (CSEA).

Prior to holding hearings on the charges, the OER announced that the statutory pay penalties would be imposed on all strikers. At this time the CSEA sought and was granted a court order enjoining the imposition of the penalties until the constitutionality of the statutory provisions could be determined. In response to the CSEA's action, the state attorney general appealed the court order, thus nullifying the injunction and enabling the state to enforce the strike penalties.

Subsequently actions against the state seeking to annul the original strike penalties and to declare the Taylor Law's strike ban and penalties as unconstitutional were filed by four members of the CSEA. These members contended that their due process rights were denied when the strike penalties were imposed without hearings and that the Taylor Law penalties were unconstitutionally vague and discriminatory. The state responded that the individuals' objections should be dismissed because of failure to state grounds for relief and to exhaust administrative relief.

The court stated that the initial determination of offenses, i.e., as to which employees were offenders and the dates of infractions, was to be made by the OER, and that probation and payroll deduction penalties were to begin immediately. Tenure would be restored and payroll deductions refunded only if the initial determination were reversed.

The court cited a U.S. Supreme Court decision (Fuentes v. Steven, 407 U.S. 67) which defined situations where the government could seize personal property without a prior hearing. According to the federal court such seizures are permitted only if it is necessary to serve an important government or public interest, if a need for prompt action exists, if the state has maintained a control over its monopoly of legitimate force, and only when carried out and determined by a responsible government official who has carefully interpreted the narrowly drawn statute.

Applying the federal decision to the case at hand, the court found that the Taylor Law's system of enforcement was based on "the desire for administrative convenience rather than a special need for very prompt action" and thus the statute's strike penalty provisions did not pass the federal court's test. The court rejected the state's motion to dismiss employees' petitions for failure to state grounds for relief, pointing out that they were not negating the state's authority to ban strikes or impose strike penalties but rather upholding employees' rights to file objections to the strike charges and have a hearing prior to imposition of penalties. The state's motion for dismissal of the case for employees' failure to exhaust administrative remedies was also rejected since it was based on the false assumption that a system of review by objection satisfied the due process requirement. The state's motion to dismiss the class action aspect of the case was granted.

The court concluded that Provision 2 of the Taylor Law allowing an employer to dismiss employees' objections to charge without a hearing is violative of "the requirement of notice and opportunity to be heard."

(Thomas J. Sanford, James Winkowski, Shirley Splatt, Mack Godbee et al v. Nelson Rockefeller et al, Supreme Court, County of Albany, July 28, 1972.)

FEDERAL

Failure to Recognize and Meet With Employee Organization Violates First Amendment Rights

The U.S. District Court dismissed the Richmond School Board's motion for a summary judgment or dismissal of the Richmond Education Association's (REA) suit seeking injunctive relief against the Board which refused to meet with or recognize the association.

The REA contended that the school board's refusal to meet with it and discuss terms and conditions of employment had a "chilling effect on teachers' First Amendment rights." The REA also contended that "the grant of approval to organize and associate without the corresponding grant of recognition may well be an empty and meaningless gesture on the part of the defendant School Board."

The school board argued that the association's suit should be dismissed because the association had no basis for a claim for injunctive relief nor had the court jurisdiction in this matter. The board further contended that the claim was vague and that the board could not reasonably be required to frame a responsive pleading.

The court pointed out the complaint clearly and succinctly alleges. . . that teachers have. . . a constitutional right "to organize for the purpose of collectively representing their employment interests, and the allegation that the board's refusal to meet with their bargaining agent, the REA, has blunted their efforts in exercise of First Amendment rights, does state a claim upon which relief may be granted if due. Further, the court ruled that the association's contentions were valid issues that were sufficient under the Constitution and the law of the United States. Additionally, the complaint submitted by the REA was sufficient and not so ambiguous that the board could not frame a responsive pleading.

The court denied the board's motions to dismiss, for summary judgment, and for a more definite statement. (Richmond Education Association et al., Plaintiffs v. Mrs. Virginia A. Crockford et al., Defendants, United States District Court, Eastern District of Virginia, June 14, 1972.)

Maternity Leave Rule Struck Down

Ruling that a 1952 maternity leave rule enforced by the Cleveland Board of Education places unconstitutionally unequal restrictions upon women's employment, the U.S. Court of Appeals overturned a district court decision which upheld a rule requiring pregnant teachers to take leave of absence of not less than five months before the expected date of birth of the child. Additionally, the rule forbade a teacher to return to service earlier than the beginning of the regular school semester which follows the child's age of three months.

The teachers contended that the rule was arbitrary and unreasonable in its overbreath and violated the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment.

The school board stated that it adopted the maternity rule to assure "continuity of classroom instruction and relief of burdensome administrative problems," as well as to protect teachers from "pointing, giggling, and snide remarks by students." The board also contended that medical evidence supported the need for extended mandatory maternity leave before and after the birth of a child.

Before rendering its conclusions, the court referred to the case of Schattman v. Texas Employment Commission wherein the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that "a distinctly less onerous maternity leave rule of the Texas Employment Commission was not arbitrary and unreasonable in a constitutional sense." The court also pointed to an amendment to the federal Equal Employment Opportunity Act (EEOA) which prohibits special maternity leave disability rules that are discriminatory on grounds of sex. The EEOA amendment also made the act applicable to public schools.

The court held that even though the maternity rule was adopted for the purpose of maintaining continuity of classroom instruction and relieving burdensome administrative problems, the rule violated the equal protection clause because it singled out pregnant teachers and placed unconstitutional restrictions upon their employment. The court also noted that "at the present time pregnant students are allowed to continue in the Cleveland schools without any apparent ill effects upon the educational system." The court then pointed out that no medical evidence presented by the board supported the need for the extended period of maternity leave required by the rule.

The dissenting member of the court argued that he saw no violation of the teachers' rights under the equal protection clause. Courts, he said, "cannot intervene in the resolution of conflicts which arise in the daily operation of school systems and which do not directly and sharply implicate basic constitutional values" since expert testimony has established that every pregnancy impairs the teacher's ability to teach and supervise children and subjects her to an increased risk of incapacitation. Since pregnancy is a condition of predictable duration and symptoms which involve a substantial number of teachers every year, a classiciation dealing with this problem is not so arbitrary or unreasonable as to violate the equal protection clause. The minority member agreed with the lower court's finding that "the requirement of maternity leave prior to delivery gives the school system the best assurance that sudden disruption of the classroom program due to the unforseen complications in the condition of a teacher will be minimized." The minority member however, concurred with the majority regarding the three months' post-delivery waiting period before resuming teaching as having no rational relation to "any legitimate objective of the Board."

The court ruled that the judgment of the district court be vacated and reversed, and remanded for further proceedings consistent with the court's opinion. (Carol La Fleur and Ann Elizabeth Nelson, Plaintiffs-Appellants, v. Cleveland Board of Education, et al., Defendants, Appellees, Appeal from the United States District Court for the Northern District of Ohio, Eastern Division, July 27, 1972.)

BOARD FINDINGS AND RULINGS

CONNECTICUT

Employer May Not Force Bargaining Unit Employees to Serve on Its Negotiating Team

The Connecticut State Board of Labor Relations ruled that the Stamford police department unlawfully interferred with policemen's representation rights when its chief negotiator ordered two captains who were members of the Stamford Police Association (SPA) to serve on the employer's negotiating team as advisors on work schedules. The captains were ordered to so serve because the police chief became ill and was unable to attend the bargaining sessions. The SPA refused to continue bargaining and filed a complaint with the Board.

The SPA contended that the city had violated the Municipal Employee Relations Act by designating the two bargaining unit members to sit in on negotiations as employer agents to advise and assist the opposition's chief negotiator.

The city contended that it had the right to retain the officers in an advisory capacity but later conceded that it would be "questionable whether or not the city could order a member of the union's negotiating team to change sides of the table."

The SPA cited decisions "which forbid an employer from permitting one of its supervisors from participating in union affairs or serving on its bargaining team." The Board said that "these decisions point up principles which should govern here, namely the right of employees to be altogether free from any kind of employer dominance in the negotiation process, and the importance of avoiding divided loyalty and conflicting interest on the part of negotiators." The Board said that the employer's use of members of the bargaining unit on its own bargaining team places the employer on both sides of the bargaining table to some degree. Further, the use of these members jeopardizes the independence of the union and the integrity of those members who are made to change sides.

The Board concluded that "drafting members of the employee bargaining unit against their will to serve on the employer's negotiating team constitutes a practice prohibited by the statute, since it interferes with employees' right to bargain in a free and unembarrassed manner, and with their rights to bargain through representatives of their own choosing by forcing divided loyalties on them." The city was therefore ordered to cease and desist from such practices. (City of Stamford and Stamford Police Association, Inc., Connecticut State Board of Labor Relations, July 27, 1972.)

MICHIGAN

Contract Must Be For Fixed Duration Not Indefinite Extension to Bar Representation Election

The Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) supported a petition of the Birmingham Association of Educational Secretaries for a representation election, rejecting the Office and Professional Employees International Union's, contention that its extended contract with the Birmingham Board of Education served as a bar to such election.

The union and the school board negotiated a contract which was to be automatically renewed yearly unless either party gave 60 days' notice of its intention to terminate or modify the agreement. The union informed the school board of its desire to renegotiate the contract, and negotiations continued after the expiration of the contract, which was extended. Prior to agreement on a new contract, growing dissension among employees resulted in the formation of a new association which petitioned for a representation election. At this time bargaining with the school board ceased without further extension of the original contract. The union contested the association's petition, asserting that the previous contract barred such petitions.

MERC stated that under the Public Employment Relations Act, contracts extended for collective bargaining purposes do not constitute a contract bar. Previous MERC decisions held that to effectively bar a representation election, a contract must have a fixed duration of at least 150 days, not an indefinite extension. The contract extension in this case did not serve as a bar since the contract was renewed for the purpose of collective bargaining, and the union's notification of its desire to renegotiate the contract nullified its automatic renewal. The labor board ordered that a representation election be held. (Matter of Birmingham Board of Education, Employer and the Birmingham Association of Educational Secretaries Union, Petitioner, Office and Professional Employee International Union, Local 42, Intervenor, Michigan Employment Relations Commission, March 13, 1972.)

School Board Ordered to Negotiate School Calendar

The Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) rejected the decision and order of a trial examiner and ruled that the Pine River Board of Education had engaged in unfair labor practices by refusing to bargain with the Pine River Education Association (PREA) on the subject of the school calendar. The overriding question was whether or not a school district is required under the Public Employment Relations Act to meet and bargain with a teachers' representative on the subject of the school calendar.

The school district argued that the school calendar is a management prerogative and not subject to collective bargaining for these reasons: (a) the School Code of 1955 sets the minimum number of days of pupil instruction at not less than 180 days and states that the school board should determine the length of the school term, (b) the state board of education sets the minimum number of hours for pupil instruction, (c) the board of education must decide how to best structure the school year to fit the established number of working days into an operational schedule, (d) teachers would consider only their own welfare and not community needs, (e) in matter of Westwood Community Schools, June 3, 1971, a Trial Examiner held that the opening day of school is not a mandatory subject of collective bargaining, (f) based on the Westwood matter, bargaining on the entire calendar is not a mandatory subject of collective bargaining because custodial, maintenance, bus drivers, and cafeteria employees would be affected by school bargaining and would have the same right to consult and to bargain as would the teachers, and to bargain solely with the teachers would be an unfair labor practice under the teachers' theory, (g) bargaining with all school district bargaining units is not feasible, (h) the board is the only party capable of synchronizing all particular and conflicting interests to formulate the most feasible solution to scheduling difficulties.

The PREA argued that the school calendar is a mandatory subject of collective bargaining because: (a) in matter of Reese Public School District, the Commission adopted a Trial Examiner's recommended order, without exception, which indicated that a school board was obligated to bargain in regard to certain aspects of the school calendar, (b) in the Westwood case, the Trial Examiner based his decision on particular items not materially or significantly affecting the terms and conditions of employment, (c) the fact that negotiation on a particular subject might require coordination of the school board's bargaining units of employees cannot be a basis for removing the school calendar as a mandatory subject of collective bargaining, (d) bargaining representatives for the custodial, maintenance, bus drivers, and cafeteria employees are not organized and have no right to demand bargaining in regard to the school calendar, (e) the board can begin the school year as early as July 1 if the school calendar is not negotiable.

The MERC, relying on the March 27, 1972, decision in the matter of Westwood Community Schools in which the Commission reversed the Trial Examiner and held that the entire school calendar, including the opening day of school, was a mandatory subject of bargaining, said that it found merit in the PERA's exceptions and ordered the Pine River Board of Education to bargain with PERA on the subject of the school calendar. (In the Matter of Pine River Board of Education, Respondent - Public Employer, and Pine River Education Association, Charging Party, Michigan Employment Relations Commission, March 9, 1972.)

NEW YORK

City Ordered to Bargain Before Preparing Budget

The New York Public Employment Relations Board (NYPERB) adopted the decision of a hearing officer which charged the city of Albany with violating the good faith bargaining provisions of the Taylor Law by refusing to take a position on salaries during negotiations with the International Association of Fire Fighters Local 2007 until just before the start of the new fiscal year.

The union charged that the city's failure to make any pay proposal and its broken promise to negotiate parity and shift scheduling constituted bad faith bargaining. The union also argued that the city's budget should reflect the parties' agreement in negotiations.

The city maintained that it could neither negotiate firemen's salaries nor determine available monies until the budget was drafted, and that it did take a position on salaries when it raised the parity issue.

The hearing officer pointed out that the manner in which the employer approaches bargaining indicates whether the employer sincerely desires to reach an agreement. In this case, the hearing officer found that "the city approached bargaining with the firm stand that its economic predicament relieved it of the obligation to negotiate salaries until such time as the tax rate was fixed and the budget prepared." The parity proposal was not considered to be a valid counterproposal by the hearing officer since the city had indicated that it did not know the extent of its financial resources and therefore could not have seriously intended to grant parity.

Referring to the time periods in the impasse procedures of the Taylor Law, the hearing officer pointed out that the legislature put these time periods into the law to help negotiating parties reach an agreement. And, even though the parties sometimes experience some difficulty in working within the time limits set by the law, they have "a minimum obligation not to take a position which will make realization of the objectives impossible." In this case the city of Albany took a position which made negotiation impossible. Also, "an employer's refusal to take any negotiating position on salaries until a new fiscal year is at hand, as in the instant case, reduces the negotiating process to the level of a budgetary afterthought. As a result, timely discourse is impossible, reasoned discourse is unlikely, and, what is equally unfortunate and clearly inescapable, the employee organization's statutory authority to negotiate on behalf of the employees is effectively emasculated."

The hearing officer determined that the city had not bargained in bad faith on the parity issue, but did find that by refusing throughout negotiations to take a position on salaries until just prior to the new fiscal year, the city had failed to meet its obligation to bargain in good faith and had engaged in an improper practice.

(City of Albany and Albany Professional Permanent Fire Fighters Association, IAFF Local 2007, Public Employment Relations Board, July 11, 1972.)

WISCONSIN

Reinstatement Ordered for Violation of Evaluation Procedure "Philosophy"

An arbitrator ordered the West Allis-West Milwaukee School Board to "tender to a teacher a contract to teach for the 1972-73 school year" after determining that the nonrenewal of the teacher's contract was arbitrary and capricious because the board failed to adhere to the philosophy of the evaluation provision contained in its contract with the West Allis-West Milwaukee Education Association.

When the teacher was evaluated during his first year of employment, he was informed of certain weaknesses. The first two ratings that he received for the second year indicated that he had improved to an acceptable level, but after the third evaluation in the same year, the board acted to dismiss him.

The association argued that the principal and the school board had failed to follow the contract provisions for evaluation, and that the nonrenewal rate of the principal at the school at which the teacher was employed was greater than that of other principals in the district. Pointing out that the principal had communicated with the superintendent relative to the teacher's rating without making such communication known to him, the association contended that this action violated the procedure dictated by the contract.

The school board contended that it had followed the procedures relative to evaluation and nonrenewal. The board also argued that the arbitrator had no authority to overrule the action taken by the board since these actions cannot be viewed as capricious and arbitrary.

The arbitrator held that when a board ignores the philosophy to which it agreed in a negotiated agreement, it is acting arbitrarily, and when the board acts arbitrarily by not renewing the teacher's contract, he has the power "to order that a renewal contract be tendered to a teacher against whom such action was taken." However, the arbitrator pointed out that he was not going to "second guess the evaluation of the principal." Since he was not making a determination as to whether the principal applied unreasonable evaluation criteria, he did not find the board action in not renewing the contract arbitrary on these grounds.

According to the arbitrator, "It seems particularly arbitrary for final action on nonrenewal to be taken on the foundation of one rather brief formal evaluation which follows two acceptable evaluations." Further, the arbitrator felt that since the teacher had been assured by two prior evaluations that his performance was acceptable, he should have been informed of his shortcomings prior to nonrenewal in order that he could have the opportunity to come up to standard. The arbitrator also noted that the communications between the superintendent and the board "did not serve to give the grievant notice of any doubt as to his performance."

The arbitrator ordered the school board to renew the teacher's contract. However, the arbitrator pointed out that the teacher will not attain tenure as a result of the award. (In the Matter of Arbitration Between WestAllis-West Milwaukee Education Association and Board of Education Joint City School District No. 1, West Allis-West Milwaukee, et al, August 30, 1972.)

NEGOTIATION NOTES

CONNECTICUT

State Board of Education Issues "Advisory" Regulations on Maternity Leave

The State Board of Education in conjunction with eight state education organizations and civil rights groups issued under its aegis, guidelines entitled "Advisory on Maternity Leave for Teachers."

Substantially, the "Advisory" incorporates the provisions set down in recent Equal Employment Opportunity Commission regulations regarding the granting of maternity leave and the classification of pregnancy and related disabilities as a temporary disability for which sick leave or other leave benefits must be applied.

The state board's advisory recommends that each town or regional board review maternity leave policies and practices to assure compliance with state and federal laws, and where found inconsistent, to formulate such policies which incorporate the statutory minimum standards.

The advisory guidelines state that any new maternity regulations must provide that pregnancy or related disabilities be treated as a temporary disability, with all accumulated sick leave privileges, as well as all paid or unpaid extended leave privileges, available to the teacher until such time as the female employee is certified by her physician as capable of performing her teaching duties.

The commencement or duration of leave, extensions, accrual of seniority and other benefits or privileges—protection under health or temporary disability plans—must be applied in the same conditions as operative under other disability leaves.

More important, the advisory stresses that pregnancy or childbirth cannot be the basis for termination or compulsory resignation.

These advisory regulations or guidelines, though hailed as a "milestone for teachers rights" by the Connecticut Education Association are not as far-reaching as the standards recommended by the state association.

Study Reveals City Group Contracts Require Union Membership Security Provisions

A study conducted by a doctoral student in economics at the University of Connecticut, Labor Education Center, disclosed in Connecticut Labor-Management Analysis that almost two-thirds of Connecticut's municipal collective bargaining agreements require employees to have some kind of union membership. Of the 114 municipal contracts, 38.6 percent did not require union membership on the part of employees, 25.5 percent required union shop, 23.6 percent had modified union shops, and 12.3 percent included a maintenance-of-membership provision. The study also showed that "78 percent of the contracts had no anti-discrimination clause, with only 8 percent specifically prohibiting discrimination on the basis of race, creed, or sex; two-thirds of the contracts called for a 40-hour work week, while 18 percent had shorter work periods; six-month probationary periods were most common for employees, occurring in 26 percent of the contracts; over 60 percent of the contracts provided for 11 paid holidays, with 27 percent allowing 12 holidays and 3 percent calling for 13; in 72 percent of the contracts, the city paid full cost of hospital insurance, and 76 percent of the contracts provide full payment of employee life insurance premiums with the most common life insurance policy of $5,000."

MASSACHUSETTS

Appeals Section of Arbitration Law Amended

Under the recently amended Section 12 of the arbitration law which established procedures for handling labor disputes, an aggrieved party may appeal Superior Court awards or judgments that concern awards by arbitrators in agreements providing arbitration, or in contracts which provide for arbitration of controversies which may be subject to civil litigation.

An aggrieved party may also bring a writ of error, whereupon the Supreme Judicial Court must render such judgment as the lower court ought to have rendered.

Application must be made within 30 days of the delivery of the award to the applicant. When appeal is based upon corruption, fraud, or other undue means, it must be made within 30 days after such findings.

In decisions of the Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, certiorari is a proper remedy to review the lawfulness of its actions in arbitrating a labor controversy.

MICHIGAN

Contractual Loss of Seniority on Transfer to Other Bargaining Unit Upheld

The Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC), ruling on a charge brought against the School Board of the City of Dearborn by the Dearborn Schools Operating Engineers Association, held that the city did not unlawfully interfere with employees' rights by negotiating a contract with the Dearborn School Employees Independent Union (DSEIU), an intervenor in this case, which stated that employees who are currently in a representated unit would lose seniority if they transferred into another bargaining unit.

The Dearborn Schools Operating Engineers Association charged that "since the provision did not provide for a loss of seniority if a member of the intervenor's bargaining unit transfers into a non-represented group, it inherently discouraged employees from entering a represented bargaining unit." The association also contended that "the chilling effect the contract provision would have on union membership was a violation in itself."

The school board and the DSEIU contended that the clause was not coercive or discriminatory.

MERC pointed out that since seniority did not exist outside collective bargaining agreements, it could not be compared with a benefit that is voluntarily given and then withdrawn if the employees organize. Also, all actions by an employer that discourage unionization cannot be regarded as violations of the National Labor Relations Act or the Public Employment Relations Act. Further, the fact that the bargaining agreement provided for the loss of seniority if the transferee acquired new seniority in another unit did not make the contractual provision unlawful. Accordingly, MERC ruled that the charges be dismissed. (Matter of School District of City of Dearborn and Dearborn Schools Operating Engineers Association, Dearborn School Employees Independent Union, Party in Interest-Intervenor, Michigan Employment Relations Commission, Labor Relations Division, April 5, 1972.)

MINNESOTA

Certification of Employee Organizations

A recent amendment to Minnesota's Public Employment Labor Relations Act, which went into effect July 2, 1972, regulates the certification of employee organizations as the exclusive representatives of public employees.

Under Section 179.67, the Director of Mediation Services may certify an employee organization upon joint request by the organization and the employer, provided no unfair labor practice was committed during initiation and submission of the joint request, and the employee organization represents over 50 percent of the employees.

The law further provides that a certification election may be obtained by petition, stipulating that at least 30 percent of the employees desire representatior by the petitioner or that the previously certified representative no longer represents the majoirty of employees.

An employee organization receiving the majority vote is certified as exclusive representative. If no representative candidate receives a majority vote, a run-off election is to be held between the two choices receiving the greatest number of votes.

Elections may be rendered void if the director finds that unfair labor practices affected the election results.

October CPI Increases, Spendable Earnings Decline

The real spendable earnings of the average American worker decreased 0.3 percent during October 1972, while the Consumer Price Index (CPI) increased 0.3 percent, said the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS).

The CPI at 126.6 (1967 = 100) was 3.4 percent above a year ago. Higher prices for apparel accounted for more than a third of this increase. Increased costs of property taxes, health insurance, and used cars also contributed to this rise. The food index, which usually declines slightly in October, remained unchanged. The increase resulting from the introduction of the 1973 new car models was only 0.5 percent, the smallest October rise since 1957.

During the six-month period ending in October the CPI rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 3.7 percent. However, since August, inflation has increased at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 4.1 percent.

Of the 120,000 individual prices collected by the BLS for the October cost-of-living index, 96,000 (80 percent) represented monthly comparisons, with 74 percent unchanged, 11 percent decreasing, and 15 percent increasing between September and October.

Spendable weekly earnings for a family of four with one income (after deduction of social security and federal income taxes) averaged $123.43, the same as in September. However, in terms of 1967 dollars, real spendable earnings averaged only $97.50 a week, meaning that goods and services costing $123.43 today would have cost only $97.50 in 1967. Although October's real spendable earnings were $.31 per week lower than in September, they were 3.9 percent higher than one year ago.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Oregon

The state attorney general ruled that collective bargaining agreements mandating arbitration of employee grievances are constitutional, on condition that sufficient standards limiting the exercise of granted powers are stipulated and court review is provided.

Pennsylvania

Reduction in wages for school employees in the event schools are forced to close owing to lack of funds before the end of the school year is a bargainable item between the school board and the association. The attorney general held that no opposing statute exists, and that the question concerns wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment.

STATISTICS

SCHOOL-BOARD MEMBERS AND SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS AS NEGOTIATORS

Annually, the NEA Research Division has conducted a national survey of written negotiation agreements and procedures in school systems with 1,000 or more pupils enrolled. All surveys posed similar questions regarding the involvement of school-board members and school superintendents in negotiations with teacher organizations.

Over the years, the percentage of school district negotiating teams made up of board members only or superintendents only declined while mixed teams of school-board members and school administrators increased. The percentage of other school administrators who participate in negotiations has increased steadily since 1966-67. The percentage of school systems in which the superintendent negotiates with full or limited authority remained fairly constant from 1966-67 to 1969-70 but declined slightly thereafter.

Today, the superintendents are most likely to be advisors to the school-board negotiators only, whereas five years ago they were most likely to be advisors to both the school board and teacher negotiators.

Fifteen states reported more than 50 school systems each with written negotiation agreements in 1971-72. Data on the role of the superintendent in negotiation and on who negotiates for the school board were tabulated in separate tables for each of these states and for the country as a whole.

Stratum	School system enrollment
1	100,000 or more
2	50,999 - 99,999
3	25,000 - 49,999
4	12,000 - 24,999
5	6,000 - 11,999
6	3,000 - 5,999
7	1,200 - 2,999
8	1,000 - 1,199

PERCENT OF SCHOOL DISTRICTS HAVING NEGOTIATION AGREEMENTS, BY ROLE OF SUPERINTENDENT AND SCHOOL-BOARD MEMBERS IN NEGOTIATION SESSIONS, 1966-67 TO 1971-72

Item	Survey response year
	1966-67	1967-68	1968-69	1969-70	1970-71	1971-72
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
NEGOTIATORS FOR SCHOOL BOARD
Board members only	33.2	17.4	14.6	13.3	13.2	14.7
Superintendent only	26.3	17.7	13.4	10.5	9.4	8.2
Other school administrators	3.6	4.3	7.1	9.4	12.7	14.2
Board members and superintendent	21.2	32.9	32.5	31.4	27.8	26.0
Board members and other school administrators	0.9	2.9	5.5	6.7	7.4	8.1
Board members, superintendent, and other school administrators	6.8	12.8	13.9	15.4	14.1	12.6
Superintendent and other school administrators	8.0	12.1	13.0	13.4	12.9	12.1
Outside negotiator	...	...	...	...	2.4	4.0
	100.0	100.1	100.0	100.1	99.9	99.9
ROLE OF SUPERINTENDENT
Negotiator with full authority	21.7	20.2	20.3	19.4	18.5	16.4
Negotiator with limited authority	16.0	17.7	17.2	16.1	15.5	14.4
Advisor to school-board negotiators only	13.4	19.8	30.3	37.8	42.4	45.6
Advisor to school-board and teacher negotiators	41.1	34.6	25.2	19.6	15.0	13.9
Neutral resource person	6.8	6.4	4.9	4.3	4.5	4.6
Nonparticipant	1.1	1.3	2.0	2.8	4.1	5.1
	100.1	100.0	99.9	100.0	100.0	100.0

TABLE L

ROLE OF SUPERINTENDENT IN NEGOTIATION SESSIONS

STATE OR STRATUM	NUMBER OF AGREEMENTS		NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY		NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY		ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS SCHOOL BOARD ONLY		ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS BOARD AND TEACHERS		ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON		ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS NONPARTICIPANT
	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15
ALABAMA	1	100.0	1	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
ALASKA	7	100.1	1	14.3	2	28.6	3	42.9	0	.0	1	14.3	0	.0
ARIZONA	31	100.1	2	6.5	7	22.6	10	32.3	5	16.1	1	3.2	6	19.4
ARKANSAS	6	100.1	1	16.7	1	16.7	0	.0	4	66.7	0	.0	0	.0
CALIFORNIA	403	100.1	130	32.3	153	38.0	69	17.1	23	5.7	4	1.0	24	6.0
COLORADO	30	100.0	6	20.0	5	16.7	15	50.0	1	3.3	0	.0	3	10.0
CONNECTICUT	96	100.0	5	5.2	1	1.0	70	72.9	12	12.5	4	4.2	4	4.2
DELAWARE	11	100.0	2	18.2	1	9.1	6	54.5	0	.0	1	9.1	1	9.1
DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA	1	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	1	100.0
FLORIDA	17	100.0	3	17.6	2	11.8	2	11.8	5	29.4	0	.0	5	29.4
GEORGIA	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
HAWAII	1	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	1	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
IDAHO	18	100.0	3	16.7	6	33.3	3	16.7	4	22.2	2	11.1	0	.0
ILLINOIS	217	100.0	24	11.1	30	13.8	99	45.6	41	18.9	12	5.5	11	5.1
INDIANA	54	100.1	4	7.4	10	18.5	23	42.6	13	24.1	3	5.6	1	1.9
IOWA	24	100.0	2	8.3	3	12.5	13	54.2	3	12.5	3	12.5	0	.0
KANSAS	50	100.0	7	14.0	7	14.0	25	50.0	8	16.0	2	4.0	1	2.0
KENTUCKY	17	100.0	2	11.8	4	23.5	5	29.4	5	29.4	1	5.9	0	.0
LOUISIANA	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
MAINE	49	100.0	4	8.2	3	6.1	28	57.1	7	14.3	5	10.2	2	4.1
MARYLAND	19	100.0	2	10.5	0	.0	14	73.7	0	.0	0	.0	3	15.8
MASSACHUSETTS	175	100.0	6	3.4	3	1.7	102	58.3	36	20.6	20	11.4	8	4.6
MICHIGAN	350	100.0	100	28.6	36	10.3	180	51.4	13	3.7	2	.6	19	5.4
MINNESOTA	113	100.0	4	3.5	5	4.4	82	72.6	13	11.5	7	6.2	2	1.8
MISSISSIPPI	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
MISSOURI	58	100.1	8	13.8	11	19.0	7	12.1	24	41.4	8	13.8	0	.0
MONTANA	23	100.0	0	.0	2	8.7	6	26.1	13	56.5	2	8.7	0	.0
NEBRASKA	21	100.0	0	.0	2	9.5	12	57.1	6	28.6	1	4.8	0	.0
NEVADA	5	100.0	1	20.0	0	.0	2	40.0	2	40.0	0	.0	0	.0
NEW HAMPSHIRE	15	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	12	80.0	1	6.7	0	.0	2	13.3
NEW JERSEY	269	100.0	7	2.6	18	6.7	159	59.1	57	21.2	20	7.4	8	3.0
NEW MEXICO	13	100.1	3	23.1	5	38.5	3	23.1	2	15.4	0	.0	0	.0
NEW YORK	456	100.0	89	19.5	51	11.2	246	53.9	22	4.8	14	3.1	34	7.5
NORTH CAROLINA	3	100.0	0	.0	1	33.3	0	.0	2	66.7	0	.0	0	.0
NORTH DAKOTA	14	99.9	0	.0	1	7.1	8	57.1	5	35.7	0	.0	0	.0
OHIO	318	99.9	125	39.3	71	22.3	78	24.5	30	9.4	6	1.9	8	2.5
OKLAHOMA	11	100.1	0	.0	4	36.4	5	45.5	2	18.2	0	.0	0	.0
OREGON	70	100.0	1	1.4	1	1.4	23	32.9	27	38.6	12	17.1	6	8.6
PENNSYLVANIA	265	100.0	8	3.0	9	3.4	169	63.8	42	15.8	18	6.8	19	7.2
RHODE ISLAND	25	100.0	1	4.0	3	12.0	16	64.0	2	8.0	2	8.0	1	4.0
SOUTH CAROLINA	2	100.0	0	.0	1	50.0	0	.0	0	.0	1	50.0	0	.0
SOUTH DAKOTA	15	100.0	0	.0	4	26.7	6	40.0	2	13.3	2	13.3	1	6.7
TENNESSEE	5	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	2	40.0	2	40.0	0	.0	1	20.0
TEXAS	48	100.1	12	25.0	10	20.8	7	14.6	15	31.3	1	2.1	3	6.3
UTAH	9	99.9	2	22.2	2	22.2	3	33.3	1	11.1	0	.0	1	11.1
VERMONT	10	100.0	0	.0	2	20.0	6	60.0	1	10.0	1	10.0	0	.0
VIRGINIA	9	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	6	66.7	1	11.1	0	.0	2	22.2
WASHINGTON	101	100.1	22	21.8	22	21.8	30	29.7	22	21.8	1	1.0	4	4.0
WEST VIRGINIA	6	100.0	1	16.7	2	33.3	0	.0	3	50.0	0	.0	0	.0
WISCONSIN	167	100.1	8	4.8	20	12.0	99	59.3	24	14.4	11	6.6	5	3.0
WYOMING	10	100.0	0	.0	2	20.0	4	40.0	3	30.0	0	.0	1	10.0
TOTAL	3,638	100.0	597	16.4	523	14.4	1,659	45.6	504	13.9	168	4.6	187	5.1
STRATUM
1	20	100.0	3	15.0	1	5.0	10	50.0	0	.0	0	.0	6	30.0
2	35	100.0	5	14.3	0	.0	23	65.7	2	5.7	0	.0	5	14.3
3	64	100.1	12	18.8	3	4.7	31	48.4	5	7.8	1	1.6	12	18.8
4	249	99.9	44	17.7	23	9.2	125	50.2	23	9.2	9	3.6	25	10.0
5	534	100.0	66	12.4	68	12.7	286	53.6	47	8.8	20	3.7	47	8.8
6	888	100.1	152	17.1	142	16.0	402	45.3	120	13.5	36	4.1	36	4.1
7	1,581	99.9	269	17.0	243	15.4	671	42.4	261	16.5	86	5.4	51	3.2
8	267	100.0	46	17.2	43	16.1	111	41.6	46	17.2	16	6.0	5	1.9
TOTAL	3,638	100.0	597	16.4	523	14.4	1,659	45.6	504	13.9	168	4.6	187	5.1

TABLE M

NEGOTIATOR FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD

1 STATE	2 NO. OF AGREEMENTS NO.	3 NO. OF AGREEMENTS PCT.	4 BOARD MEMBERS ONLY NO.	5 BOARD MEMBERS ONLY PCT.	6 SUPT. OF SCHOOLS ONLY NO.	7 SUPT. OF SCHOOLS ONLY PCT.	8 OTHER SCHOOL ADMINIS-TRATORS NO.	9 OTHER SCHOOL ADMINIS-TRATORS PCT.	10 BOARD MEMBERS AND SUPT. NO.	11 BOARD MEMBERS AND SUPT. PCT.	12 BOARD MEMBERS AND OTHER SCHOOL ADMINIS-TRATORS NO.	13 BOARD MEMBERS AND OTHER SCHOOL ADMINIS-TRATORS PCT.	14 BOARD MEMBERS, SUPTS., AND OTHER SCHOOL ADMINIS-TRATORS NO.	15 BOARD MEMBERS, SUPTS., AND OTHER SCHOOL ADMINIS-TRATORS PCT.	16 SUPT. AND OTHER SCHOOL ADMINIS-TRATORS NO.	17 SUPT. AND OTHER SCHOOL ADMINIS-TRATORS PCT.	18 NO BOARD MEMBERS OR ADMINIS-TRATORS NEGOTIATE NO.	19 NO BOARD MEMBERS OR ADMINIS-TRATORS NEGOTIATE PCT.
ALABAMA	1	100.0	0	.0	1	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
ALASKA	7	100.1	3	42.9	0	.0	1	14.3	2	28.6	0	.0	1	14.3	0	.0	0	.0
ARIZONA	31	100.0	4	12.9	1	3.2	9	29.0	4	12.9	3	9.7	6	19.4	4	12.9	0	.0
ARKANSAS	7	100.1	3	42.9	1	14.3	0	.0	1	14.3	0	.0	2	28.6	0	.0	0	.0
CALIFORNIA	405	99.9	5	1.2	146	36.0	79	19.5	45	11.1	3	.7	12	3.0	111	27.4	4	1.0
COLORADO	30	100.0	1	3.3	1	3.3	14	46.7	2	6.7	1	3.3	1	3.3	8	26.7	2	6.7
CONNECTICUT	93	100.1	20	21.5	2	2.2	7	7.5	36	38.7	6	6.5	16	17.2	0	.0	6	6.5
DELAWARE	11	100.1	1	9.1	1	9.1	3	27.3	0	.0	1	9.1	2	18.2	3	27.3	0	.0
DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA	1	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	1	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
FLORIDA	17	100.0	3	17.6	2	11.8	6	35.3	4	23.5	1	5.9	1	5.9	0	.0	0	.0
GEORGIA	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
HAWAII	1	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	1	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
IDAHO	18	100.1	1	5.6	3	16.7	0	.0	11	61.1	0	.0	3	16.7	0	.0	0	.0
ILLINOIS	219	100.0	42	19.2	4	1.8	27	12.3	49	22.4	23	10.5	51	23.3	19	8.7	4	1.8
INDIANA	56	100.1	3	5.4	1	1.8	11	19.6	17	30.4	7	12.5	10	17.9	7	12.5	0	.0
IOWA	23	99.9	3	13.0	2	8.7	1	4.3	8	34.8	1	4.3	6	26.1	2	8.7	0	.0
KANSAS	50	100.0	6	12.0	3	6.0	13	26.0	12	24.0	4	8.0	10	20.0	2	4.0	0	.0
KENTUCKY	18	100.1	0	.0	0	.0	2	11.1	10	55.6	1	5.6	4	22.2	1	5.6	0	.0
LOUISIANA	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
MAINE	47	100.1	14	29.8	3	6.4	0	.0	19	40.4	1	2.1	6	12.8	2	4.3	2	4.3
MARYLAND	19	100.1	0	.0	0	.0	17	89.5	0	.0	0	.0	1	5.3	0	.0	1	5.3
MASSACHUSETTS	167	100.0	59	35.3	2	1.2	7	4.2	45	26.9	8	4.8	10	6.0	7	4.2	29	17.4
MICHIGAN	349	100.0	9	2.6	9	2.6	90	25.8	78	22.3	29	8.3	72	20.6	53	15.2	9	2.6
MINNESOTA	112	100.0	35	31.3	1	.9	0	.0	37	33.0	23	20.5	14	12.5	1	.9	1	.9
MISSISSIPPI	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
MISSOURI	60	100.1	5	8.3	10	16.7	4	6.7	25	41.7	0	.0	12	20.0	3	5.0	1	1.7
MONTANA	23	99.9	8	34.8	0	.0	1	4.3	9	39.1	2	8.7	2	8.7	1	4.3	0	.0
NEBRASKA	21	100.0	6	28.6	0	.0	3	14.3	7	33.3	2	9.5	2	9.5	1	4.8	0	.0
NEVADA	5	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	2	40.0	0	.0	2	40.0	0	.0	1	20.0	0	.0
NEW HAMPSHIRE	15	100.0	6	40.0	0	.0	0	.0	4	26.7	2	13.3	3	20.0	0	.0	0	.0
NEW JERSEY	266	100.1	72	27.1	3	1.1	6	2.3	106	39.8	25	9.4	26	9.8	10	3.8	18	6.8
NEW MEXICO	13	100.1	1	7.7	2	15.4	2	15.4	4	30.8	0	.0	2	15.4	2	15.4	0	.0
NEW YORK	438	100.1	33	7.5	23	5.3	110	25.1	70	16.0	50	11.4	48	11.0	70	16.0	34	7.8
NORTH CAROLINA	3	99.9	1	33.3	0	.0	0	.0	1	33.3	0	.0	1	33.3	0	.0	0	.0
NORTH DAKOTA	13	100.0	7	53.8	0	.0	1	7.7	3	23.1	0	.0	2	15.4	0	.0	0	.0
OHIO	315	100.0	14	4.4	43	13.7	30	9.5	92	29.2	6	1.9	29	9.2	97	30.8	4	1.3
OKLAHOMA	12	100.0	0	.0	3	25.0	6	50.0	1	8.3	0	.0	0	.0	2	16.7	0	.0
OREGON	69	99.9	42	60.9	0	.0	0	.0	16	23.2	3	4.3	3	4.3	0	.0	5	7.2
PENNSYLVANIA	263	100.0	63	24.0	5	1.9	29	11.0	66	25.1	45	17.1	33	12.5	5	1.9	17	6.5
RHODE ISLAND	24	100.0	9	37.5	0	.0	2	8.3	4	16.7	3	12.5	4	16.7	2	8.3	0	.0
SOUTH CAROLINA	2	100.0	1	50.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	1	50.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
SOUTH DAKOTA	15	100.0	2	13.3	0	.0	2	13.3	6	40.0	1	6.7	3	20.0	1	6.7	0	.0
TENNESSEE	5	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	3	60.0	2	40.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
TEXAS	48	100.1	2	4.2	7	14.6	1	2.1	22	45.8	1	2.1	4	8.3	9	18.8	2	4.2
UTAH	9	99.9	0	.0	0	.0	4	44.4	3	33.3	0	.0	1	11.1	1	11.1	0	.0
VERMONT	10	100.0	4	40.0	1	10.0	0	.0	2	20.0	0	.0	1	10.0	0	.0	2	20.0
VIRGINIA	9	99.9	1	11.1	0	.0	3	33.3	2	22.2	0	.0	2	22.2	0	.0	1	11.1
WASHINGTON	102	100.1	12	11.8	16	15.7	11	10.8	35	34.3	6	5.9	15	14.7	7	6.9	0	.0
WEST VIRGINIA	7	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	5	71.4	0	.0	1	14.3	1	14.3	0	.0
WISCONSIN	165	100.0	26	15.8	1	.6	5	3.0	70	42.4	27	16.4	29	17.6	4	2.4	3	1.8
WYOMING	10	100.0	4	40.0	0	.0	0	.0	2	20.0	2	20.0	2	20.0	0	.0	0	.0
TOTAL	3604	99.9	531	14.7	297	8.2	513	14.2	937	26.0	291	8.1	453	12.6	437	12.1	145	4.0
STRATUM
1	20	100.0	0	.0	0	.0	15	75.0	0	.0	1	5.0	2	10.0	2	10.0	0	.0
2	34	99.9	1	2.9	0	.0	24	70.6	1	2.9	2	5.9	1	2.9	5	14.7	0	.0
3	64	99.9	2	3.1	3	4.7	40	62.5	2	3.1	5	7.8	2	3.1	7	10.9	3	4.7
4	251	100.1	13	5.2	19	7.6	99	39.4	21	8.4	21	8.4	27	10.8	38	15.1	13	5.2
5	525	99.9	49	9.3	27	5.1	158	30.1	55	10.5	53	10.1	72	13.7	94	17.9	17	3.2
6	878	100.1	106	12.1	66	7.5	112	12.8	195	22.2	94	10.7	121	13.8	134	15.3	50	5.7
7	1565	100.0	304	19.4	146	9.3	62	4.0	546	34.9	101	6.5	204	13.0	147	9.4	55	3.5
8	267	99.9	56	21.0	36	13.5	3	1.1	117	43.8	14	5.2	24	9.0	10	3.7	7	2.6
TOTAL	3604	99.9	531	14.7	297	8.2	513	14.2	937	26.0	291	8.1	453	12.6	437	12.1	145	4.0

PATTERNS IN NEGOTIATION

UNITED STATES – 3,566 RESPONSES

NEGOTIATORS FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD

ROLE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT	BOARD MEMBERS		BOARD MEMBERS AND SUPT.		BOARD MEMBERS AND SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS		SUPERINTENDENT		SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS		NO BD MEMBERS OR ADMINISTRATORS NEGOTIATE
	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	2	.1	105	2.9	65	1.8	154	4.3	264	7.4	1	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	1	.0	[illegible]	4.3	106	3.0	118	3.3	142	4.0	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	235	6.6	450	12.6	411	11.5	14	.4	407	11.4	96	2.7
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	171	4.8	182	5.1	90	2.5	8	.2	31	.9	15	.4
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	84	2.4	36	1.0	27	.8	0	.0	6	.2	11	.3
NONPARTICIPANT	33	.9	1	.0	37	1.0	0	.0	87	2.4	22	.6
CALIFORNIA – 401 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	1	.2	6	1.5	2	.5	66	16.5	55	13.7	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	19	4.7	4	1.0	74	18.5	55	13.7	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	0	.0	8	2.0	6	1.5	1	.2	53	13.2	1	.2
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	2	.5	11	2.7	1	.2	3	.7	5	1.2	0	.0
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	0	.0	1	.2	2	.5	0	.0	1	.2	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	2	.5	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	19	4.7	3	.7
CONNECTICUT – 93 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	0	.0	1	1.1	2	2.2	2	2.2	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	1	1.1	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	13	14.0	29	31.2	16	17.2	0	.0	4	4.3	6	6.5
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	5	5.4	4	4.3	3	3.2	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	1	1.1	2	2.2	1	1.1	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	1	1.1	0	.0	1	1.1	0	.0	1	1.1	0	.0
ILLINOIS – 215 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	7	3.3	1	.5	4	1.9	12	5.6	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	5	2.3	15	7.0	0	.0	9	4.2	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	13	6.0	22	10.2	42	19.5	0	.0	19	8.8	3	1.4
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	19	8.8	13	6.0	7	3.3	0	.0	2	.9	0	.0
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	6	2.8	2	.9	3	1.4	0	.0	0	.0	1	.5
NONPARTICIPANT	3	1.4	0	.0	4	1.9	0	.0	3	1.4	0	.0

PATTERNS IN NEGOTIATION (Continued)

INDIANA – 53 RESPONSES

NEGOTIATORS FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD

ROLE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT	BOARD MEMBERS		BOARD MEMBERS AND SUPT.		BOARD MEMBERS AND SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS		SUPERINTENDENT		SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS		NO BD MEMBERS OR ADMINISTRATORS NEGOTIATE
	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	0	.0	1	1.9	0	.0	2	3.8	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	3	5.7	2	3.8	1	1.9	4	7.5	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	1	1.9	6	11.3	9	17.0	0	.0	7	13.2	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	1	1.9	8	15.1	3	5.7	0	.0	1	1.9	0	.0
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	1	1.9	0	.0	1	1.9	0	.0	1	1.9	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	1	1.9	0	.0
MASSACHUSETTS – 167 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	3	1.8	0	.0	0	.0	3	1.8	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	1	.6	1	.6	0	.0	1	.6	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	26	15.6	29	17.4	13	7.8	2	1.2	8	4.8	17	10.2
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	19	11.4	10	6.0	1	.6	0	.0	1	.6	4	2.4
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	11	6.6	2	1.2	2	1.2	0	.0	0	.0	5	3.0
NONPARTICIPANT	3	1.8	0	.0	1	.6	0	.0	1	.6	3	1.8
MICHIGAN – 344 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	24	7.0	27	7.8	7	2.0	41	11.9	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	11	3.2	17	4.9	1	.3	7	2.0	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	7	2.0	37	10.8	47	13.7	1	.3	77	22.4	7	2.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	1	.3	5	1.5	6	1.7	0	.0	1	.3	0	.0
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	0	.0	0	.0	1	.3	0	.0	0	.0	1	.3
NONPARTICIPANT	1	.3	0	.0	3	.9	0	.0	13	3.8	1	.3
MINNESOTA – 111 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	3	2.7	1	.9	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	4	3.6	1	.9	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	27	24.3	20	18.0	31	27.9	0	.0	1	.9	1	.9
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	1	.9	8	7.2	3	2.7	1	.9	0	.0	0	.0
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	5	4.5	2	1.8	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	1	.9	0	.0	1	.9	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0

NEGOTIATORS FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD

ROLE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT	BOARD MEMBERS		BOARD MEMBERS AND SUPT.		BOARD MEMBERS AND SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS		SUPERINTENDENT		SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS		NO BD MEMBERS OR ADMINISTRATORS NEGOTIATE
	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.
MISSOURI – 58 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	2	3.4	2	3.4	4	6.9	0	.0	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	5	8.6	1	1.7	4	6.9	1	1.7	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	0	.0	2	3.4	1	1.7	0	.0	4	6.9	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	2	3.4	12	20.7	6	10.3	2	3.4	1	1.7	1	1.7
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	3	5.2	3	5.2	1	1.7	0	.0	1	1.7	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NEW JERSEY – 264 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	2	.8	1	.4	1	.4	3	1.1	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	11	4.2	2	.8	2	.8	3	1.1	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	32	12.1	68	25.8	34	12.9	0	.0	10	3.8	12	4.5
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	23	8.7	20	7.6	10	3.8	0	.0	0	.0	3	1.1
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	13	4.9	3	1.1	2	.8	0	.0	0	.0	1	.4
NONPARTICIPANT	4	1.5	0	.0	2	.8	0	.0	0	.0	2	.8
NEW YORK – 436 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	13	3.0	11	2.5	17	3.9	46	10.6	1	.2
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	12	2.8	17	3.9	2	.5	20	4.6	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	18	4.1	40	9.2	56	12.8	4	.9	92	21.1	21	4.8
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	8	1.8	2	.5	5	1.1	0	.0	3	.7	4	.9
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	4	.9	3	.7	3	.7	0	.0	2	.5	2	.5
NONPARTICIPANT	3	.7	0	.0	5	1.1	0	.0	16	3.7	6	1.4
OHIO – 314 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	17	5.4	8	2.5	33	10.5	66	21.0	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	24	7.6	11	3.5	10	3.2	26	8.3	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	6	1.9	33	10.5	9	2.9	0	.0	25	8.0	4	1.3
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	6	1.9	14	4.5	6	1.9	0	.0	2	.6	0	.0
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	1	.3	4	1.3	1	.3	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	8	2.5	0	.0

PATTERNS IN NEGOTIATION (Continued)

OREGON – 69 RESPONSES

NEGOTIATORS FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD

ROLE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT	BOARD MEMBERS		BOARD MEMBERS AND SUPT.		BOARD MEMBERS AND SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS		SUPERINTENDENT		SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS		NO BD MEMBERS OR ADMINISTRATORS NEGOTIATE
	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.	NO.	PCT.
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	1	1.4	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	1	1.4	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	10	14.5	7	10.1	4	5.8	0	.0	0	.0	2	2.9
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	19	27.5	6	8.7	1	1.4	0	.0	0	.0	1	1.4
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	10	14.5	0	.0	1	1.4	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	3	4.3	1	1.4	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	2	2.9
PENNSYLVANIA – 257 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	4	1.6	0	.0	1	.4	3	1.2	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	1	.4	5	1.9	2	.8	1	.4	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	30	11.7	43	16.7	52	20.2	2	.8	23	8.9	12	4.7
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	15	5.8	15	5.8	8	3.1	0	.0	1	.4	2	.8
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	12	4.7	2	.8	3	1.2	0	.0	0	.0	1	.4
NONPARTICIPANT	4	1.6	0	.0	8	3.1	0	.0	5	1.9	2	.8
WASHINGTON – 100 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	6	6.0	2	2.0	7	7.0	6	6.0	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	9	9.0	5	5.0	7	7.0	1	1.0	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	4	4.0	9	9.0	11	11.0	0	.0	6	6.0	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	7	7.0	11	11.0	1	1.0	1	1.0	2	2.0	0	.0
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	1	1.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	0	.0	0	.0	1	1.0	0	.0	3	3.0	0	.0
WISCONSIN – 165 RESPONSES
NEGOTIATOR WITH FULL AUTHORITY	0	.0	3	1.8	3	1.8	0	.0	2	1.2	0	.0
NEGOTIATOR WITH LIMITED AUTHORITY	0	.0	11	6.7	7	4.2	1	.6	1	.6	0	.0
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOARD	13	7.9	44	26.7	35	21.2	0	.0	5	3.0	2	1.2
ADVISOR TO NEGOTIATORS FOR BOTH BOARD AND TEACHERS	9	5.5	9	5.5	6	3.6	0	.0	0	.0	0	.0
NEUTRAL RESOURCE PERSON	4	2.4	3	1.8	1	.6	0	.0	1	.6	0	.0
NONPARTICIPANT	0	.0	0	.0	4	2.4	0	.0	0	.0	1	.6

SPECIAL REPORTS

BRIEFS OF RECENT AGREEMENTS

Harrisburg, Illinois

Between Harrisburg Community Unit District No. 3 and the Harrisburg Teachers' Association, effective July 1, 1972, to June 30, 1973. Approximately 133 certificated professional employees. Provision for renegotiation to be made in writing by either party at least 30 days prior to May of any year but may be renewed automatically for one year by mutual consent of both parties.

COMPENSATION: (1972-73) B.A., $7,725 to $11,225, 10 increments; B.A. plus 16, $8,175 to $11,675, 10 increments; M.A., $8,625 to $12,825, 12 increments; M.A. plus 16, $9,075 to $13,275, 12 increments; severance pay at $50 times years of experience up to 30 years; substitute teachers, $25 per day; summer school teachers, $6.50 per hour.

DIFFERENTIALS: Based on base pay of $7,725; head high-school basketball and football coaches, 15%; athletic director, art supervisor, head wrestling, track, baseball, and golf coaches, and assistant football and basketball coaches, high-school dramatics and high-school band directors, 7-1/2%; high-school vocal music, junior and senior high cheerleader, high-school debate and student council sponsors, 3%; teachers of homebound students, 10¢ per mile to and from school and student's home.

LEAVES: Fifteen days' annual sick leave, 150 days' maximum accumulation; 1 day for personal business with substitute paid by board and 2 days' personal leave with substitute paid by employee; paid leave for jury duty or serving as court witness upon surrendering court compensation; leave without pay for time on active duty for military obligations with credit on salary schedule for this period upon return; up to 2 weeks paid leave, less military pay, for members of National Guard called into active emergency duty; extended sick leave without pay up to one year with one year extension; sabbatical leave for those with at least M.A. up to one year at half pay after 6 years' service and agreement to teach 2 semesters for each semester of sabbatical leave granted; up to one year of leave without pay for election to full-time office in state or national professional organizations, or appointment as consultant or advisor in projects or programs by an accredited college, university, or governmental agency.

INSURANCE: Board to provide hospital-medical care including major medical; liability insurance to be paid by board; tax-sheltered annuity plan available.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll deduction for local, state, and national dues; released time for president of association to be arranged through building principal, superintendent, and association president.

INSTRUCTION: Board to seek voluntary transfers from classes in grades 1-3 which exceed 30 ADA and from grades 4-6 which exceed 35 ADA; school calendar comprises 177 pupil-teacher days, 4 teacher institute days and 5 emergency days; a 10-member joint Educational Advisory Committee to meet regularly to study and recommend improvements to the district's educational program with a continuing subcommittee on curriculum study and revision and such other subcommittees as are deemed necessary by the Committee with periodic progress reports to be presented to the board and the association, released or shared time to be made available with a budget of $1,000 per school year, board to receive and act on recommendations from Committee; teachers to be appointed by the administration to provide written curriculum material (syllabi, guides, etc.) to be afforded released time or financial compensation; each building to be provided with secretarial help sufficient to assist teachers in routine duties such as attendance record keeping, typing, and duplicating classroom materials; elementary teachers not to be assigned to teach two different grades simultaneously except in emergencies; corporal punishment to be meted out only in private with another staff member as witness and all such incidents to be reported to the principal immediately.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure to end with binding arbitration; personnel file available to each teacher upon request to the principal or superintendent regardless of location of files; duty-free lunch periods to comply with school code; K-6 teachers to be released from all duties except supervision of classroom from 8:00 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. each day for preparation time; elementary teachers to be granted preparation periods coinciding with times specialists are teaching their class; four general teacher meetings to be held each year with one hour of such sessions to be on school time; teachers may visit outside the school district upon written request and advance approval by the building principal and superintendent; full-time tenure teachers to be evaluated at least once every 4 years and full-time nontenure teachers each year of probationary status with teachers involved receiving a minimum of 3 written reports during the school year and a copy of each formal written evaluation; if a teacher believes the formal written evaluation is incomplete or inaccurate, his written objections may be attached to the report in his personnel file; a tenure consulting teacher is to be assigned to each probationary teacher: all promotions, vacancies, transfers, and new positions to be reported in the superintendent's BULLETIN following confirmation of vacancy at board meeting; reasons for denial of transfer to be given to teacher involved if requested; supervision of student-teachers to be voluntary; nontenure teachers granted released time to observe experienced teachers in district at least twice each semester.

Baltimore County, Maryland

Between Teachers Association of Baltimore County, Maryland, Inc. and the Board of Education of Baltimore County, effective July 1, 1972, to June 30, 1973. Approximately 6,059 certificated professional employees. Provision for renegotiation on items dependent upon budget funding shall require a meeting of designated negotiators as soon as possible after action of the fiscal authorities but no later than June 2 with renegotiation to be completed within 5 calendar days.

COMPENSATION: (1972-73—10-month schedule; 17 percent differential for 12-month positions) B.A., $7,600 to $11,816, 9 increments; M.A., $8,229 to $15,087, 13 increments; M.A., plus 30, $8,946 to $15,804, 13 increments; M.A. plus 60, $9,305 to $16,163, 13 increments; Ph.D., $9,664 to $16,521, 13 increments; longevity pay at $500 after 20, 15, 30, and 35 years' service; severance pay at 25 percent of daily rate for each unused day of sick leave over 200 days to a maximum of $500.

DIFFERENTIALS: When responsibilities related to nonclassroom activities require more than 75 hours on a regular basis, as previously defined for all faculty, compensation to be by adjusting the normal assignment or by granting added salary allowances; three categories for compensation to which such duties shall be assigned—1 unit for which $320 will be paid or unassigned periods increased by two per week, 2 units for which $640 will be paid or unassigned periods increased by four per week, or 3 units for which $800 will be paid or unassigned periods increased by five per week; girls' varsity and junior varsity basketball, softball, boys' varsity wrestling, baseball, basketball, indoor track, and junior varsity wrestling, baseball, basketball, 3 units; girls' varsity and junior varsity volleyball, hockey, varsity lacrosse and gymnastics, boys' varsity football, outdoor track, cross-country, junior varsity football, indoor and outdoor track, 2 units; yearbook, literary magazine, vocal music, band, junior class sponsors, 1 unit; teachers participating in any workshop activities during the summer shall receive compensation at 17 percent of regular salary; teachers of adult education and evening high school, $7.50 per hour; approved use by the principal of personal car for school business reimbursed at 12¢ per mile.

LEAVES: Fifteen days' (10 days first year) sick leave with unlimited accumulation; 4 days' for illness in immediate family charged to sick leave; 3 days' personal business with unused days accumulated as sick leave; 4-5 days' for bereavement leave in immediate family and one day to attend funeral of close relative; 2 days' for religious holidays; jury duty without loss of pay; 15 days' per year for military reserve obligations with pay; leave of absence granted to cover regular service in armed forces; sabbatical leave at 60 percent pay for one year after 7 years' service if employee commits himself to 2 years' service on return, 50 percent for one year returned service; leave without pay to run for or serve in a public office if such participation interferes with assigned duties; released time with pay granted to attend meetings or hearings called by superintendent or his designee; time to attend commencement exercises of self or family member and/or to take examinations for advanced degrees or professional licenses related to employment taken from personal leave; after two or more years' satisfactory service, year's leave without pay granted to further professional growth with return to and credit on salary schedule if 12 or more hours of academic work taken each semester.

INSURANCE: Board pays 90 percent of premiums for health and insurance plan and for plan C of the Blue Shield program but for current year fiscal authorities have held board to 80 percent and no funding for plan C; board pays 90 percent (held to 80% for 1972-73) of premiums for basic life insurance plan; annuity plan, income protection insurance, and investment program available through payroll deduction.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll dues deduction for local, state, and national associations; released time to attend meetings, when requested 2-10 days prior, with association providing cost of substitute; TABCO faculty representatives and executive board members may leave school in time to attend monthly 4 p.m. mid-county meeting; duly authorized representatives of local, state, and national association may transact business on school property if there is no interruption to programs; association may use school buildings without charge to hold meetings but to be billed for extra custodial or cafeteria services; may use school equipment with charges only for supplies used; president of association to be granted unpaid leave with return to normal place on salary schedule, such leave may be arranged to provide half-time employment during term of office; board to provide bulletin boards for association use; association may use interschool mail delivery service; 30 minutes available at preschool orientation for association representative; faculty roster to be made available to association faculty representative; board meeting agenda and minutes to be forwarded to association.

INSTRUCTION: Secondary teachers to have no more than three preparations; class size to average 25-1 for kindergarten, 28-1 for grades 1-3, 30-1 for grades 4-6, and secondary teachers, 150 students maximum; school calendar of 191 days, 184 with pupils; Curriculum Communications Council created by the association to meet regularly with representatives of the board to discuss curriculum matters including extended year activities; professional library materials to be included with regular school library.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with binding arbitration; personnel file available to teachers upon written additional graduate work toward an advanced degree, and teaching competence, scholarly or creative work, and participation in college, student, faculty, and college-related community affairs; associate professor, same as assistant professor plus Ph.D. degree or its equivalent and at least 5 years' experience; professor, same as associate professor plus superiority in teaching, scholarly or creative work, and at least 8 years' professional experience; librarians, academic rank plus librarians title; rank quota: professors, 25 percent; associate professors, 30 percent (not to apply to appointment or promotions for 1971-72 year); no tenure quota; appointments to be recommended initially by appropriate department chairmen and may be reviewed by department qualifications committee whose recommendation the chairman transmits to the Dean of Faculty; appointments to be made by the department chairman with approval of three administrators and usually followed by a one-year probationary period; promotions to be made from within the college whenever possible; promotion criteria, "excellence in teaching ability, demonstrated scholarship, professional progress, activity in professional societies, competent handling of nonacademic duties, and outstanding contributions to the service of the college"; department qualifications committee or chairman reviews applications or intiates promotions from within the department, the decisions are submitted or appealed by the faculty member to the tenure and promotions committee, which makes recommendations in order of priority to dean of faculty, reasons may be requested of the dean of faculty if he deviates from the priority list submitted by the tenure and promotions committee:

> The criteria for tenure of a member of the faculty are: (a) demonstrated ability to teach effectively or to serve as professional librarian; (2) maintenance of high academic standards in his teaching or library service; (3) evidence of continuing preparation, study, or research and fulfillment of professional responsibilities; (4) contribution to the welfare of the students; (5) service to the department and to the college.

Once granted, tenure is retained until the faculty member reaches retirement age 65, resigns, is laid off owing to financial exigencies, or is dismissed for just cause;

> (1) physical or mental incapacity; (2) neglect of duty; (3) conviction of a felony; (4) intentional dishonesty; (5) professional incompetence; (6) moral turpitude; (7) intentional and substantial disruption of the functioning of the college. In any dismissal of a member of the faculty on tenure, the college has the burden of proving just cause.

A faculty member initially appointed an assistant professor is eligible for tenure after the fourth and continued up to the fifth year of service; however, if an assistant professor has earned a doctorate, he is eligible after the third and continued to the fifth year of service, if tenure has not been granted during the fifth year of service, there is to be no reappointment; faculty member may hold instructor rank for a maximum of 3 years after which he shall be promoted or not reappointed; after completion of fourth consecutive year continued to fifth year the promoted instructor is eligible for tenure; promotion from nontenured assistant professor to associate professor to carry tenure; faculty member serving at least 5 years at another institution to be eligible for tenure after 2 full years' service or if specifically recommended by the college president; faculty member with less than 5 years' service at another institution to count previous full-time probationary employment toward tenure, but is required to serve at least 2 additional years to be eligible for tenure; if tenure is not achieved by end of fifth year of service there shall be no reappointment; department chairmen in consultation with the department qualifications committee to appraise professional performance of each tenure-eligible faculty member and submit recommendation to the elected tenure and promotions committee; tenure status notices submitted to each eligible faculty member by December 14; "There shall be no arbitrary, capricious or discriminatory reduction in salary or demotion in rank for any member of the faculty on tenure"; dean of faculty may request review of tenured faculty member by college tenure and promotions committee which is to recommend either continued tenure or one-year probationary status; non eappointment and dismissal procedure for nontenured faculty; nontenured faculty are terminated through nonrenewal or not granted tenure, faculty member to be notified not later than March 1 of first year or December 15 of any subsequent year, no explanation is required except upon request; if the reasons include anything other than a felony conviction, a grievance may be filed but the decision is not arbitrable; procedure for dismissal of a tenured faculty member: an informal conference with department chairman and/or dean of faculty is required prior to the dismissal of tenured faculty member, faculty member may be suspended with pay only if "immediate harm to himself or others is threatened by his continuance"; when formally charged, the faculty member may request a hearing before the faculty appellate committee to be held within 30 days of notification; if the president fails to sustain a committee decision favorable to the faculty member, the association may appeal that decision through arbitration; disciplinary procedure for breach of the agreement provisions (particularly for failure to return final grades on time) is subject to the following procedure: first offense, written warning; second offense in any three consecutive years, review of tenure status or eligibility; third offense in any three consecutive years, appropriate discipline including termination; no reprisal for participation in any noncollege activity, however, a faculty member's professional consulting practice is not to interfere with college responsibilities, is to be recorded with the department chairman, and may not involve the college or use of college facilities; faculty members to formally advise their department chairmen and/or dean of faculty of any compensated off-campus services and are not to teach more than 4 credits per semester at another institution without the dean's approval; retirement postponement, granted past age 65 in special cases, not to exceed age 70; Faculty Improvement Fund: up to $15,000 annually for Grants-in-Aid-of-Creativity; up to $10,000 annually for Faculty Improvement Fund Loans; travel expense reimbursement allowances; and mini-sabbatical grant program which grants one payment per rank equal to pay for 6 summer credit hours to a maximum of $6,000 to a faculty member with at least 7 years' service.

request and teacher may make copies of materials and reply to any complaints in the file; 30-minute duty-free lunch period each day; five unassigned preparation periods per week for secondary teachers and one period per day for elementary teachers; faculty meetings to be scheduled for Mondays; teachers encouraged to participate in PTA activities; tuition reimbursement to fully certificated teachers for tuition and fee charges up to $40 per credit ($25 for 1972-73 due to budgetary cut) for a maximum of 60 credits; teacher evaluation by administrators at work in and out of the classroom to be conducted with full knowledge of the teacher and a copy of such report shall be given the teacher; department of personnel to forward to each school announcements of vacancies for supervisory and specialist positions listing minimum requirements, duties, responsibilities, qualifications, and salary for which any staff member may apply; teachers requesting transfers or reassignments to make application by February 15 and notification of acceptance or denial of request to be made by May 15; minimum replacement of $5.00 for property loss owing to assault on a teacher, less benefits from Workman's Compensation; maximum property coverage for personal equipment brought to school for use as an adjunct to instructional activities to be $500; banking through payroll deductions; three to seven-member faculty council of teachers shall be elected at each school to establish and maintain positive relationships and communications among all faculty and staff regarding proposed changes in existing policies and practices and new policies and practices for each school may be considered; adequate parking facilities to be made available; no tenure teacher to be terminated if a provisionally certificated or a probationary teacher currently holds the same type of position; grade book, planning book, texts, and workbooks to be provided each teacher along with servicable desk with keys, adult chair, and filing cabinet; new and redesigned school buildings to include teacher's lounge, restrooms, and private dining area, classroom storage space, office space, and a work area containing equipment and supplies as well as health facilities with office for nurse; board to provide prescription safety glasses on request to all school employees working a significant part of day in laboratories, shops, or other areas of potential danger to employee's eyes.

Monmouth College
West Long Branch, New Jersey

Between Monmouth College and Faculty Association of Monmouth College, Inc., effective July 1, 1971, to June 30, 1973. Approximately 313 full-time professors, associate professors, assistant professors, professional librarians, and instructors, excluding part-time faculty, graduate assistants, department chairmen, visiting faculty, and supervisors. Provision for annual extension of agreement unless either party gives written notice of intention to terminate or modify this agreement between 135 and 60 days prior to June 30, 1973, or June 30 of any yearly extension.

COMPENSATION: (minimum salary 1972-73, no maximums) instructors, $8,000; assistant professor without Ph.D., $9,000; assistant professor with Ph.D., $10,000; associate professor without Ph.D., $11,000; associate professor with Ph.D., $12,000; professor, $14,000; each faculty members' 1972-73 salary to be increased 7 percent over his 1971-72 base salary.

OTHER: Merit increases granted at the college's discretion; summer school compensation, 1/42 of base salary as of September of that year for each credit hour; 1/42 of base salary for each overload credit hour; 12¢ mileage reimbursement for travel in connection with faculty member's authorized duties.

INSURANCE: College pays full Blue Cross-Blue Shield and 2/3 major medical for individual coverage and 3/4 of dependent major medical coverage; college pays one-half life insurance premium equal to 1½ times annual salary to lowest multiple of $1,000; travel insurance up to $50,000 for accidental death or dismemberment; total disability insurance; tax-sheltered annuity plan available to those eligible for retirement; college matches employee contribution of 5 percent of salary to retirement plan (TIAA-CREF), faculty members may join retirement plan after two consecutive semesters of employment, participation mandatory at age 30.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll deduction of association dues; released time for negotiation and grievance proceedings during working hours; reasonable effort to be made to provide rooms for association meetings; use of available parking spaces, equipment (association paying any cost resulting from use thereof), designated bulletin boards, and inter-office mail; bookstore to sell association expendable supplies at cost; schedules of 4 senior association officers to be arranged to facilitate participation in association activities; no-strike clause.

INSTRUCTION: Maximum of three undergraduate course preparations unless otherwise agreed, overload situation or if prevailing practice is otherwise; normal 2-semester academic load, 24 credit hours; normal one-semester academic load, 12 credit hours; attempt to avoid excessive class size; teacher load committee to review, recommend changes in, and implement current teaching load policy; academic freedom clause specifies that "free inquiry includes pertinent controversy"; minimum of four hours per week in office for student consultation; faculty members "shall endeavor to cover an agreed-upon body of material and to adhere to agreed-upon standards for the assignment of readings, written exercises and activities."

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with final and binding arbitration; faculty dining room to be open until 6:00 p.m. during faculty duty hours and not be used to meet with students prior to 2:00 p.m.; faculty teaching evening classes not to be assigned first period class the next morning without written consent; no faculty member to be assigned a class he does not feel qualified to teach; attendance required for all regularly scheduled faculty meetings, convocations, and commencements; academic attire, when required, furnished by the college; minimum rank qualification criteria: instructor, M.A. or equivalent degree, and teaching ability; assistant professor, M.A. or equivalent plus

OUTSIDE ASSISTANCE FOR MANAGEMENT NEGOTIATORS, 1972-73

The sixth annual Research survey of written negotiation agreements for 1971-72 from school systems with 1,000 or more pupils enrolled, found 1,024 of the 3,911 reporting systems (26.2 percent) employed an individual other than the superintendent to act as chief negotiator for the board's negotiating team.

Of all responding systems that negotiated for 1971-72, 58.7 percent of the systems did not employ or contract with an individual other than the superintendent to act as chief negotiator for the board, and 15.1 percent did not respond. In approximately three-fourths of the school systems, the chief negotiator was either a board member or the superintendent.* Since this is the first year computations have been made regarding this aspect of negotiation activity, no comparative data exist.

As shown in Table 1, the larger the school system, the more likely it is to employ or contract for a chief negotiator other than the superintendent. In a majority (59.6 percent) of the largest systems (Strata 1-3), in over one-third of the medium size systems (Strata 4-6), and in approximately one-sixth of the smallest systems, negotiators are persons other than the superintendent.

*See page 11 for results of survey of involvement of superintendents and school-board members in negotiation

TABLE 1.–CHIEF NEGOTIATOR FOR BOARD, OTHER THAN SUPERINTENDENT BY STRATUM

Question	Total		Strata 1-3 (enrollment: 25,000 and over)		Strata 4-6 (enrollment: 3,000-24,999)		Strata 7-8 (enrollment: 1,000-2,999)
	Number	Percent	Number	Percent	Number	Percent	Number	Percent
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Does your school system employ or contract with one individual (other than superintendent) who has been designated as chief negotiator for the board?
Yes	1,024	26.4	78	59.6	629	35.1	317	16.0
No	2,297	58.7	35	26.7	876	48.9	1,386	69.6
No response	590	15.1	18	13.7	285	15.9	287	14.4
Total	3,911	100.0	131	100.0	1,790	99.9[a]	1,990	100.0
If yes, indicate the type of person this chief negotiator is.
Outside specialist	557	14.2	12	9.2	332	18.5	213	10.7
School employee with another primary responsibility who acts as chief negotiator "in session"	309	7.9	36	27.5	223	12.5	50	2.5
School employee who devotes major portion of his time to negotiations	136	3.5	29	22.1	66	3.7	41	2.1
Other	22	0.6	1	0.8	8	0.4	13	0.7
	1,024	26.2	78	59.6	629	35.1	317	16.0

[a] Percentages do not add to 100% owing to rounding.

TABLE 2.–CHIEF NEGOITATOR FOR BOARD, OTHER THAN SUPERINTENDENT, BY TYPE OF NEGOTIATOR

Designated chief negotiator	Total		Strata 1-3 (enrollment: 25,000 and over)		Strata 4-6 (enrollment: 3,000-24,999)		Strata 7-8 (enrollment: 1,000-2,999)
	Number	Percent	Number	Percent	Number	Percent	Number	Percent
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Outside specialist	557	100.0	12	2.2	332	59.6	213	38.2
School employee with another primary responsibility who acts as chief negotiator "in session"	309	100.1[a]	36	11.7	223	72.2	50	16.2
School employee who devotes major portion of his time to negotiations	136	99.9[a]	29	21.3	66	48.5	41	30.1
Other	22	100.0	1	4.5	8	36.4	13	59.1
	1,024	100.0	78	7.6	629	61.4	317	31.0

[a]Percentages do not add to 100.0% owing to rounding.

Of the 26.2 percent of the total systems that employ or contract for a chief negotiator other than the superintendent, 14.2 percent contract with an outside specialist, 11.4 percent use the services of a school employee, and 0.6 percent use another type of person.

The type of person designated as chief negotiator varied according to the size of school system. While the largest systems tended to designate a school system employee other than the superintendent to act as chief negotiator, the medium size systems tended to split equally between employed and contracted persons and the smallest systems most often employ an outside specialist. As far as school employees acting as chief negotiators, employees other than the superintendent who devote a major portion of their time to negotiation are reported most often (22.1 percent) in the largest school systems. Few medium and smaller systems employe persons who devote a majority of their time to negotiation.

An outside professional negotiator was hired as the school board's chief negotiator in 557 of the systems for negotiation sessions during 1971-72. (See Table 2.) Medium size systems accounted for about 60 percent, and the smallest systems for about 38 percent.

Of all reporting systems that utilized an employee other than the superintendent as chief negotiator, 309 assigned a full-time employee who also had another primary responsibility. Medium size systems in this category accounted for nearly 72 percent, with the largest and smallest systems combined totalling slightly more than one-fourth.

A total of 136 systems reported that the chief negotiator for the board was a school system employee whose major concerns were the various aspects of teacher/board negotiations: about 49 percent of the medium size systems, 30 percent of the smallest, and about 21 percent of the largest.

The smallest systems represented about 59 percent of the 22 systems reported in the category designated "other." The persons were district solicitors, university professors, retired school administrators, or members of the county or town councils.

The data culled from the 1971-72 survey indicate that the largest systems tend to employ "in-system specialists" to handle teacher/board negotiation activity, the smallest systems use outside specialists, and the medium systems rely on both the "in-system specialist" and the outside professional negotiation specialist.

VOL. 6 NO. 6
FEB. 1973

NRD
NEGOTIATION RESEARCH DIGEST

CONTENTS

Page

Case Reviews 3
- Termination for Refusing to Join Union Not a Dismissal
- Supreme Court Orders Dismissal Hearing
- Collective Bargaining and Grievance Arbitration Permissible Under Two Broad-Scope Laws
- "Academic Freedom" Arbitration Enjoined
- Prior Grievance Procedure Operative Despite Lack of New Agreement
- Mandatory Maternity Leave Regulation Unconstitutional

Board Findings and Rulings 6
- Vocational Teachers Entitled to Additional Wages for Excessive Class Loads
- Materials Specialist Included in Teacher Unit
- Financial Data May Be Provided Only When College Claims Inability To Pay
- Nurses Included in Teachers' Bargaining Unit
- Vocational Teacher Entitled to Back Pay
- Impasse Arbitration Awards
- Board Cannot Unilaterally Reduce Work Year; Impact of Management Prerogative Negotiable
- Role of Department Heads in Grievance Process No Bar to Association Membership
- After-School Job Action Ruled "Partial Strike"

Negotiation Notes 9
- Supreme Court Rules Political Fund Legal
- Accumulated Benefits May Not Be Legislatively Restricted
- Police-Firemen's Bargaining Law Broadened To Include Municipal Employees of Major Cities
- Consumer Price Index, November 1972
- Attorney General Opinions: School Board Negotiation Sessions Must Be Public Except for Recommendations Under Certain Conditions

Statistics 11
- Negotiated "Reporting for Duty" Provisions
- Negotiated Group Health and Life Insurance Provisions in Comprehensive Agreements, 1968-71

Special Reports 14
- Briefs of Recent Agreements
- Preliminary Report Show Moderate Increases in Teacher Salaries

NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION
RESEARCH

Copyright © 1973 by the
National Education Association
All Rights Reserved

2410

CASE REVIEWS

DELAWARE

Termination for Refusing To Join Union Not A Dismissal

Pointing out that termination of employment resulting from a refusal to comply with the provisions of a union shop agreement amounts to "voluntarily quitting without good cause," the New Castle County Superior Court of Delaware reversed the decision of the Unemployment Insurance Appeal Board and denied unemployment benefits to a former employee of the Delaware Department of Labor.

Relying on statutory language which declares that unemployment benefits would not be withheld from any individual who refuses employment on the grounds that he would be required by the employer to join a company union, the unemployment board granted the benefits.

The employer argued that the former employee should not be granted benefits because such a termination constituted "a voluntary quitting without good cause."

Courts in New York and Pennsylvania have held that termination of employment "as a result of a refusal to join a bona fide labor organization under a collective bargaining agreement is a voluntary quitting without good cause," the court agreed with these determinations and ruled that the employee was ineligible for unemployment benefits and reversed the decision of the Unemployment Insurance Appeal Board.

However, the court noted that if Delaware had a "right to work" statute, "a question might be raised as to whether the claimant could be forced to join a union as a condition of continuing employment in the first instance and whether refusal to so join could effectively result in a denial of compensation benefits in the second instance." (State of Delaware ex rel. Department of Labor v. Unemployment Insurance Appeal Board and Lillian B. Abrams, New Castle Superior Court, October 5, 1972.)

HAWAII

Supreme Court Orders Dismissal Hearing

The Hawaii Supreme Court remanded a case involving the termination of a tenured elementary school teacher who had requested a hearing. Previously, the First Circuit Court sustained a motion to dismiss the case filed by the superintendent of education, the defendant in the case.

The superintendent contended that the May 24, 1971, letter from the teacher's union representative requesting a hearing was not valid because the union representative lacked authority to make such a request.

In its ruling, the court cited an applicable case, the matter of Wood v. Duff-Gordon, in which it was decided that "the law has outgrown its primitive state of formalism when the precise word was the sovereign talisman and every slip was fatal. It takes a broader view today. A promise may be lacking, and the whole writing may be 'instinct with an obligation' imperfectly expressed. If that is so, there is a contract."

The court thus held that although the request for a termination hearing was not specifically made, it was implied from the fact that the plaintiff was serving a suspension connected with his contract termination.

The superintendent's contention that the union representative had no authority to request a hearing was ruled an afterthought, contrived to justify the defendant's action after terminating the plaintiff without a hearing.

The court concluded that the request for a hearing was valid and that the plaintiff was entitled to a hearing before the Department of Education. (Joseph A. Shorba and Hawaii State Teachers Association v. Shiro Amioka, Hawaii State Supreme Court, October 10, 1972.)

INDIANA

Collective Bargaining and Grievance Arbitration Permissible Under Two Broad-Scope Laws

A ruling handed down by the Indiana Court of Appeals authorizes school boards to enter into collective bargaining agreements, including a provision for compulsory arbitration of grievances, with a labor organization. The decision compels the East Chicago School Board to abide by its contract with the East Chicago Teachers Union (ECTU) which provides paid time off for union business by a union official.

ECTU filed suit when the board failed to comply with the contract provision. The case was dismissed by a lower court which sustained the board's contention that since no state law definitely authorizes collective bargaining, it could not bargain. However, the appellate court, divided two to one on the issue, reversed the lower court's decision and ordered the board to process the complaint.

The court declared that the complaint sought to compel arbitration of grievances under the 1970 contract and to enforce the compulsory arbitration agreement. The court stated that in Gary Teachers Union Local 4 v. School City of Gary et al., it was decided that the Indiana General School Powers Act of 1965 and the Arbitration Act of 1969 together are broad enough to allow school corporations in the state to exercise the type of agreement involved. The court decided that the same rationale held in this case. Further, in Chicago, Division of Illinois Education Association, et al v. Board of Education et al., the Illinois appellate court ruled that a school board may enter into collective bargaining agreements with public school teachers without specific legislative authority and that the particular agreement is not contrary to public policy.

The court concluded that it was not required to rule on the merits of the specific issue in this case, which involved the contractual right of a teacher union official to spend one hour per week on union business during the school day. The court held that entering into the agreement, as a general proposal, was within statutory authority of the Indiana School Board of Trustees. The court added that the question in this case was whether the complaint could withstand a motion to dismiss. As to this question and the questions of substantive law, decided in the Gary case, the court ruled the trial court's dismissal of the case incorrect and reversed that decision. (East Chicago Teachers Union Local 511, v. Board of Trustees of the School City of East Chicago, Court of Appeals of Indiana, Third Division, October 12, 1972.)

NEW JERSEY

"Academic Freedom" Arbitration Enjoined

The Morris County Superior Court determined that a collective bargaining agreement allowing teachers or a teacher's union to decide a course of study is unenforceable, and that a grievance regarding an alleged violation of the contract's academic freedom provisions be determined by the state commissioner of education, not an arbitrator.

The dispute arose over whether seventh graders should debate the issue of abortion. The superintendent ordered the teacher involved to cancel the debate. The teacher filed a grievance, contending that the superintendent's action denied him academic freedom as provided by the agreement. The Rockaway Township Education Association (RTEA) then demanded that the issue be processed as an arbitrable grievance.

Upon notice of RTEA's demand, the Rockaway Township Board of Education sought to have the proceedings enjoined, contending that the state commissioner of education should determine the issue. The association then moved for "specific performance of the arbitration proceedings," contending that the arbitration was the "tribunal of primary jurisdiction."

The court decided that the problem lay within the provision that "whenever appropriate for the maturation level of the group, controversial issues may be studied in a unprejudiced and dispassionate manner," but the contract was silent on who was to determine the maturation level. Further, the court stated that this could place the obligation on the teacher, the board, or both. The court debated whether disagreements concerning study subjects should be settled before an arbitration tribunal or by the state commissioner of education with review by the state board of education and the appellate courts.

Determining that course selection and subjects to be presented to pupils cannot be a "term or condition of employment," the court rejected RTEA's contention that the "methods of selecting courses and the procedures and methods used to present these courses may be negotiated at least in broad terms."

The court held that the agreement is ultra vires and unenforceable if construed to entrust aspects regarding courses of study to a teacher or a teacher's union. Therefore, the court stated that an arbitrator cannot be a "subdelegee" of the board and the teachers. Further, an arbitrator has no expertise to evaluate the maturation level of seventh-graders.

The court rejected RTEA's counterclaim for specific performance and mandatory direction to the board to acknowledge the arbitrator's jurisdiction and procedures, and permanently enjoined the grievance proceedings. (Board of Education of the Township of Rockaway v. Rockaway Township Education Association and Joseph Youngman, Superior Court of New Jersey, Chancery Division, Morris County, September 25, 1972.)

NEW YORK

Prior Grievance Procedure Operative Despite Lack of New Agreement

The New York Supreme Court refused a petition of the Connetquot Central School District Board of Education to stay an arbitration proceeding involving the Connetquot Teachers Association. The board of education believed that since its bargaining agreement with the teachers association had expired and a new contract had not yet been adopted, previously negotiated grievance machinery was no longer applicable. The court found that under the Taylor Law the expired agreement's grievance procedure was still operative.

Prior to the expiration of the 1970-71 agreement between the Connetquot Central School District Board of Education and the Connetquot Teachers Association, negotiations were held for a successor agreement to extend from July 1, 1971, to June 30, 1972. When the parties did not reach agreement by October 1971, a state fact finder was appointed to resolve the impasse. The fact-finder's report was accepted by the board, and in November 1971, a memorandum of agreement was signed by the parties.

Subsequent to the signing of the memorandum, the association requested the board to pay teachers certain monies which were allegedly due from September 1, 1971, to November 15, 1971. The board denied both the request and the subsequently filed grievance. The association's demand for arbitration of the matter was answered by the board's application to stay arbitration.

The board's request for a stay of arbitration was based on the premise that there was no agreement between the parties, and therefore there was no arbitration procedure. In response to the association's claim that the memorandum of agreement was a valid and binding contract, the board stated that approval at public hearing was never obtained, the board president never signed the agreement, and the authority to create a final contract was never delegated to negotiators on either side; therefore, neither party intended the memorandum to be a contract.

From the evidence presented, the court was unable to determine whether the memorandum of agreement was actually final and binding. However it believed that this question was not crucial to the case at hand. The court stated that under the Taylor Law, employees are protected during the limbo period between agreements and entitled to maintenance of the status quo. The court added that certain actions of the board after the expiration of the agreement indicated that it was following the 1970-71 agreement; in two instances the board processed grievances under the previously negotiated grievance procedure.

The court concluded that the board could not choose to recognize selected provisions of the expired agreement; it must maintain the status quo until a new contract is negotiated. Since the 1970-71 agreement provided arbitration as a means of settling disputes, the controversy over the payment of monies was subject to arbitration. The board's petition to stay arbitration was rejected. (Matter of Application of Board of Education of Connetquot Central School District No. 7, Petitioner, v. Connetquot Teachers Association, Respondent, New York Supreme Court, August 14, 1972.)

FEDERAL

Mandatory Maternity Leave Regulation Unconstitutional

The U.S. Court of Appeals upheld a district court ruling striking down a Chesterfield County, Virginia, school board's maternity leave regulation as violative of the equal protection clause of the federal Constitution.

The case was brought by a teacher who had notified the board of her pregnancy and had requested maternity leave one month prior to the expected birth of her child. She submitted a doctor's certificate stating that she was able to work as long as she chose. The board denied her request and ordered her to stop working during the fifth month of pregnancy in accordance with the board's maternity leave regulations. The teacher then requested to be allowed to work until the end of the first semester. This request was also denied. The teacher subsequently brought suit against the school board and the superintendent "attacking the validity of the maternity leave regulation on the grounds of equal protection granted by the U.S. Constitution." The court ruled in her favor and the school board appealed the decision.

The school board contended that the "regulation did not discriminate against women as such – only between pregnant teachers and other teachers." The board added that "the fact of pregnancy, rather than sex, is the focus of the regulation." Further, this kind of discrimination is necessary in order to provide continuity of education in the classroom. Also, the requirement of a uniform date of maternity leave eliminates "disruption in the classroom by a sudden and unpredictable need to replace the teacher who delivers prematurely or who suffers a complication of pregnancy necessitating her absence from the classroom."

The court pointed out that no medical reason supported the need to require a teacher to begin maternity leave no later than the end of the fifth month of pregnancy if she and her doctor agree that she can function in her job after that date. Therefore, there was no need to treat it differently from leave for other medical disabilities. Additionally, "the record is clear that there is not a high incidence of risk of premature delivery or complications of pregnancy in the beginning of the third trimester of pregnancy – the date that the regulation establishes as the beginning of maternity leave." The court agreed with the decision in LaFleur v. Cleveland in which the court held that the continuity of classroom instruction and administrative problems is no more acute with respect to pregnant teachers than other teachers with other disabilities. However, the court said that the employer is entitled to approximately 30 days' notice as to when leave is to begin in order to find an adequate substitute.

The court also held that the maternity regulation is sexually discriminatory, since female employees are the only employees who become pregnant and are dismissed from work under a maternity regulation.

A minority opinion held that the regulation is not discriminatory since it does not apply to women in an area where they compete with men. Also, the school board has a legitimate interest in determining dates for maternity leave since the board has to insure continuity in the instruction of children. Further, "pregnancy and motherhood do have a great impact on the lives of women, and, if that impact be reasonably noticed by governmental regulation, it is not to be condemned as an invidious classification." The minority opinion also held that pregnancy unlike other illnesses and disabilities has a determinable duration. Therefore, the employer need not wait until the last moment, as with unexpected illnesses and disabilities, to find a suitable replacement.

The appeals court upheld the district court's decision which ruled in the teacher's favor and granted her full salary for the three months which she would have worked prior to the birth of her child, seniority credit, and other benefits. (Susan Cohen v. Chesterfield County School Board, United States Court of Appeals, September 14, 1972.)

BOARD FINDINGS AND RULINGS

ILLINOIS

Vocational Teachers Entitled to Additional Wages for Excessive Class Loads

An arbitrator ruled that vocational teachers at Rockford Area Vocational Center who had been required to teach in excess of the regular class load must be paid additional money until their schedules are readjusted.

Finding that these teachers are covered under the association's agreement with the board, the arbitrator held that "all employees who are covered by this collective bargaining agreement are entitled to the identical wage scale benefits and working conditions."

The arbitrator concluded that staff members teaching in excess of the contractual class load should be paid at the rate of $1,200 per semester for each class beyond the regular load. The center was directed to adjust load assignments in accordance with the contract provisions. (Rockford Education Association and Rockford Board of Education, American Arbitration Association, June 13, 1972.)

MICHIGAN

Materials Specialist Included in Teacher Unit

The Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) ruled that the Lake Shore Public Schools did not refuse to bargain with the Association of School Administrators over the position of instructional materials specialist which was properly included in an instructional employees unit because the duties of the position were not specifically supervisory in nature.

The supervisors' association asserted that the position had changed to the point that it should be placed in the supervisory unit.

MERC determined that the instructional materials specialist performs only certain duties of authority and direction over persons with whom he works, and such authority is based on his professional training and responsibility, not supervisory within the meaning of MERC's decisions. (Lake Shore Public Schools and Lake Shore Association of School Administrators and Lake Shore Federation of Teachers, Michigan Employment Relations Commission, May 12, 1972.)

Financial Data May Be Provided Only When College Claims Inability To Pay

Adopting the decision of a trial examiner, the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) dismissed the charges against the Macomb County Community College. The Commission upheld the examiner's decision that the college had not engaged in unfair labor practices by refusing to furnish the Macomb County Community College Faculty Organization (MCCCFO) with information regarding nonunit supervisory and administrative salaries since the obligation to show books and records arises only when the employer pleads inability to pay.

During previous negotiation, the employer took the position that its finances were limited and that all employees of the college must take either a very limited or no salary increase. The MCCCFO agreed and a contract was signed. Later, officers of the MCCCFO were informed that the college's administrative and supervisory staff had received a greater salary increase than the teaching employees. At present bargaining sessions, the union requested that it be told the salaries of these employees because it expected that the same argument relative to wages would be made during future negotiations.

The MCCCFO contended that "it is entitled to this information for the purpose of determining whether there has been a breach of the understanding of the 1971-72 contractual negotiations, thereby protecting the interest of the teachers." It also argues that this information would allow it "to police the agreement and to intelligently fulfill the statutory bargaining obligation."

The college argued that it was "not obligated to furnish the administrators' salary because such information is not necessary to permit the union to bargain understandably for the teachers, or necessary to police the administration of the contract or preparation for the present negotiations."

The trial examiner relied upon the decision of the MERC in Traverse City Public Schools in which the Commission ruled that giving the bargaining agent for teachers information concerning the salaries of administrators would serve no useful purpose in the bargaining relative to the contractual unit. The examiner did not agree with the MCCCFO's argument that since it suspected that the employer had violated the agreement, the limitation upon the information requested should be extended. Further, what the MCCCFO was "asking the Commission to do is right a wrong that occurred over six months ago." Referring to matter of Pioneer Service in which the Commission determined that "when an employer claims poverty, the employer is then obligated to show its books and records to establish the inability to pay," the trial examiner pointed out that the union could demand disclosure at future negotiation talks if the employer claims poverty. Disclosure then would prevent the parties from arguing unnecessarily at the bargaining table over something that is impossible.

The Commission ordered that the charges against the college be dismissed. (In the Matter of Macomb County Community College, Respondent, and Macomb County Community College Faculty Organization, Charging Party, Michigan Employment Relations Commission, July 21, 1972.)

Nurses Included in Teachers' Bargaining Unit

The Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) ruled that school nurses employed by Utica Community Schools should be included in the teachers' bargaining unit represented by the Utica Education Association.

The school board argued that the nurses should be represented by a separate bargaining unit since their duties differ from the duties of teachers. The school board also argued that one specific nurse should definitely not be added to the unit because she had recently been designated as "supervisor of health services."

The union contended that the nurses should be added to its unit and that the nurse who has been designated as "supervisor of health services" was not a supervisor.

The Commission ruled that "the job duties and function of the nurses are sufficiently integrated with and allied to the instructional process that nurses can be appropriately included in the existing unit of teachers." It also held that the bargaining unit would be fractionalized if the nurses were not allowed to join the teachers' unit, and that since the supervisor of health services did not have any supervisory authority in a labor relations sense, she could not be considered a supervisor. (Matter of Utica Community Schools and Utica Education Association, Michigan Employment Relations Commission, August 21, 1972.)

Vocational Teacher Entitled to Back Pay

As a result of the failure of the Western School District Board of Education to provide a contractual preparation period for a vocational teacher, an arbitrator ruled that the teacher was entitled to back pay.

The arbitrator concluded that the grievant should receive back pay at the rate of $5.00 per hour, the contractual rate paid to regular teachers substituting during their preparation periods.

Therefore, since the teacher was denied a preparation period, his compensation should be the same as that of another teacher who is deprived of a preparation period, usually acting as a substitute. (Western Education Association, William M. Wellington and Board of Education, Western School District, American Arbitration Association, April 27, 1972.)

NEVADA

Impasse Arbitration Awards

In accordance with amendments to the state's bargaining law, three issues at bargaining impasse between the Washoe County Teachers Association and Washoe County School District were ordered to binding arbitration by the governor. A statutorily required determination of "ability to pay" must first be made by an arbitrator on all compensation items submitted to binding arbitration.

The arbitrator ruled that teachers in the district should receive increments from $320 to $350 for the 1972-73 school year, increasing the B.A. minimum and maximum to $7,800 and $14,800, respectively. According to the arbitrator, the association found a $300,000 error in the district's salary projection, thus he asserted the school district can be expected to comply with the ordered increase.

The arbitrator also ruled for dues check off and a provision for 15 days' temporary leave for teachers involved in military programs.

Other issues such as teachers' hours, sick leave, and temporary and extended leave, and contract duration were submitted to advisory arbitration. (Washoe County Teachers Association and Washoe County School District, American Arbitration Association, June 5, 1972.)

PENNSYLVANIA

Board Cannot Unilaterally Reduce Work Year; Impact of Management Prerogative Negotiable

The Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board (PLRB) ruled that the Board of School Directors of the Upper Merion Area School District had violated Section 1201, Public Employment Relations Act. The negotiation agreement between the school district and the Upper Merion Area Education Association contained a provision which stated that "teachers who are employed on a 12-month basis will be compensated at a rate 1.15 times their proper step on the salary schedule." The school directors attempted unsuccessfully to delete the 12-month provision from the contract during previous negotiations. However, during negotiations for the 1972-73 contract, the directors passed a resolution which changed the position classification of four employees from 12- to 10-month positions without conferring with union representatives.

The union contended that the school directors had violated the PERA by "unilaterally reducing the work year of four professional employees from twelve to ten months, and refusing to accept and process grievances filed by the union and the employees affected by the board's action."

The district contended that it was exercising an inherent management prerogative, and therefore the grievance was not a legitimate subject for the grievance procedure and should be processed under the public school code.

The PLRB held that since the action of the board of school directors had an impact on wages and hours, the board was obligated to meet and discuss the matter with the union. Further, PLRB said that since the parties were aware of their respective positions and the union had not bargained away its rights in the matter, the board violated the Act when it unilaterally altered position classification and also refused to process the grievance. The board should have permitted the question of whether or not its action was a management prerogative to be decided in the grievance arbitration procedure.

The PLRB ordered the board of school directors to meet and discuss with the union matters deemed to be management policy but which affect wages, hours, and terms of employment, and to accept and process grievances through the established grievance arbitration procedure. (Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board v. Board of School Directors of the Upper Merion Area School District, Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board, September 15, 1972.)

Role of Department Heads in Grievance Process No Bar to Association Membership

The Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board (PLRB) ruled that first-level supervisors, who handle employee grievances at the initial stage, may retain their membership in the Eastern Lancaster County Education Association (ELCEA) and that the Eastern Lancaster County School District had committed an unfair labor practice by requiring these employees to "give up either their positions as department heads or their membership in the ELCEA."

In 1971, the school board recognized a bargaining unit composed of all professional employees except department heads. Department heads, considered first-level supervisors, did not have the right to bargain under PERA, but had the right to organize. They subsequently negotiated a contract which included a grievance procedure involving first-level supervisors on both formal and informal levels. Following the adoption of the agreement, the school board requested all department heads to withdraw their membership in the association. The school board believed that because of the department heads' administrative duties in the negotiated grievance procedure, membership in the association that negotiated the agreement would lead to a conflict of interest. According to the school board, the grievance procedure was an integral part of the collective bargaining process.

PLRB determined the crucial question to be whether the grievance procedure was an essential part of the collective bargaining process. In its opinion, PLRB cited several court decisions which had differentiated between the grievance procedure and the collective bargaining process. Yet, PLRB pointed out, that the state legislature does not distinguish between the two processes; Public Employment Relations Act refers to the grievance procedure as a product of the collective bargaining process, and PLRB finds the handling of individual problems a separate phase of labor relations. Recognizing the department heads' power to handle individual grievances, PLRB found that their role in the grievance process was a function separate from the contract negotiation procedure, and therefore their membership in the association would not lead to a conflict of interest.

Therefore in requesting the department heads to withdraw their membership in the association, the school board had committed an unfair labor practice, violating the first-level supervisors' right to organize under PERA. PLRB ordered the school board to cease and desist from interfering with the department heads' right to membership in the association. (Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board v. Eastern Lancaster County School District, Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board, September 27, 1972.)

WISCONSIN

After-School Job Action Ruled "Partial Strike"

The Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission ruled that the Kenosha Unified School District No. 1 had not engaged in prohibited practices by issuing letters reprimanding members of the Kenosha Education Association (KEA) who engaged in an after-hours job action.

After eight months of fruitless negotiations, the association resorted to different tactics to effect the progress of negotiations. The association asked the school board to postpone the annual American Education Week activities, which the board denied, whereupon the teachers refused to attend or take part in the after-school hours open-house activities without a contract. The board sent letters to the teachers advising them that their action was "an illegal concerted action. . .solicited by the association and in direct contravention of the school program, and the best interests of education in the district" and that a copy of the letter had been placed in their permanent files.

The association contended that the teachers' action could not be classified as a strike because "it was a temporary affair rather than a continuous withdrawal of services." Further, the disciplinary action taken against association members constituted a prohibited practice under the Municipal Employment Relations Act (MERA) because its purpose was to undermine teacher unity.

The Commission ruled that the teachers' action was a partial strike and therefore illegal and unprotected. Agreeing that "the employer's timing in this matter was calculated to accrue to its own advantage," the Commission said that that factor alone did not make the employer's action a prohibited practice. On this basis the complaint was dismissed. (Kenosha Education Association, Complainant, v. Kenosha Unified School District No. 1 et al., Respondents, Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission, October 12, 1972.)

NEGOTIATION NOTES

FEDERAL

Supreme Court Rules Political Fund Legal

The Supreme Court of the United States overturned a ruling by the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Missouri against Pipefitters Local Union No. 562 and three individual officers (petitioners) of the union. The petitioners were convicted of violation of 18 U.S.C. Section 610 which prohibits a labor organization from making a contribution or expenditure in connection with a federal election.

On appeal the petitioners contended that evidence did not support an alleged conspiracy to vioalte Section 610. They also argued that they should have been acquitted because evidence showed that they did not willfully violate Section 610 and willfullness is an essential element of conspiracy under 18 U.S.C. Section 371.

The Court of Appeals overturned all of these arguments and indicted the petitioners on the grounds that "the Pipefitters fund was a subterfuge through which the union made political contributions of union monies in violation of section 610, as demonstrated by the evidence that the fund regularly served union purposes and that the donors to the fund contributed in the belief that their job security depended upon it."

The petitioners appealed the case to the Supreme Court, arguing that the appeals court permitted conviction without investigating the possibility that the donations made to the fund were made voluntarily. The court had instructed the jury, over the petitioners' objections, to return a verdict of guilty if the fund "was in fact a union fund, . . . the money therein was union money, and . . . the real contributor to the candidates was the union."

The majority of the members of the Supreme Court upheld the petitioners' argument and ruled that the appeals court was in error. In support of their opinion, the majority referred to the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971 which "plainly permits union officials to establish, administer, and solicit contributions for a political fund. The conditions for that activity are that the fund be "separate" and "segregated," and that members' contributions and expenditures not be financed through physical force, job discrimination, or financial reprisal or the "threat" thereof or through "dues, fees, or other monies required as a condition of membership in a labor organization or as a condition of employment."

The dissenting member of the Supreme Court argued that the majority's holding was contradictory to the language of Section 610 which states that it is unlawful for a union to make a political contribution or expenditure. According to the majority's holding that was perfectly lawful, so long as the funds which the union contributed were donated freely and knowingly. The majority's holdings countered the purpose for which Section 610 was enacted by Congress—to restrict and minimize the influence corporations and unions might exert on elections.

The Supreme Court ruled that the judgment against the petitioners be vacated and remanded the case to the district court with directions to dismiss the indictment against the petitioners. (Pipefitters Local Union No. 562 et al., Petitioners, v. United States, United States Supreme Court, No. 70-74, June 22, 1972.)

NEW YORK

Accumulated Benefits May Not Be Legislatively Restricted

The New York Supreme Court held that an amendment to the state retirement law retroactively eliminating the payment of cash for accrued vacation credit from the computation of retirement benefits was not applicable to employees enrolled in the retirement system before the effective date of the amendment April 1, 1972.

The court found that the amendment, Section 431 of the Retirement and Social Security Law, when retroactively applied, violated Section 7, Article 5, of the New York State Constitution, which guarantees that membership in any state or civil retirement plan "shall be a contractual relationship, the benefits of which shall not be diminished or impaired."

The court's ruling guaranteed to all public employees enrolled in the state retirement plan any benefits accrued before April 1, 1972. However, the court observed that exclusion of vacation accruals from the computation of retirement benefits, as provided in the amendment, shall have full force and effect for employees enrolled in the system after the effective date of the amendment. (Abraham Kranker, et al., v. Arthur Levitt, as Comptroller of the State of New York, Supreme Court, Albany County, Special Term, December 14, 1971.)

OKLAHOMA

Police-Firemen's Bargaining Law Broadened To Include Municipal Employees of Major Cities

The state's bargaining law for policemen and firefighters was recently amended to include employees of municipalities with a population over 25,000 and to establish a gubernatorially appointed three-member Public Employee Relations Board. The amendment carries an "emergency" clause, making its effect immediate upon approval "necessary for the preservation of the public peace, health, and safety."

The act now includes in the definition of firefighters and policemen, supervisory personnel who have the authority to hire or fire. Additionally, the term municipal employees now includes and applies to firefighters and policemen.

Section 548.4 of the act was amended to delete the last sentence, which provided procedures for employee-employer audiences. Further, Section 548.5 was repealed in its entirety and replaced by a provision allowing supervisory and professional municipal employees to form, join, and participate in activities of employee organizations that exclude nonsupervisory employees. The provision stipulates that the corporate authority shall not extend formal recognition to a supervisory or professional organization for the purpose of meeting and conferring regarding grievances and conditions of employment, but for consultation purposes on appropriate matters. The corporate authority also determines who is considered a supervisory, professional, or confidential municipal employee.

The amendment requires the Public Employees Relations Board to conduct representation elections and otherwise effectuate the provisions of the act.

CONSUMER PRICE INDEX, NOVEMBER 1972

The Consumer Price Index (CPI) (1967=100) rose 0.2 percent (0.3 percent seasonally adjusted) in November to 126.9 according to the U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS). The November index was 3.5 percent above a year ago. Higher prices for food, apparel, and residential gas accounted for nearly two-thirds of the increase.

The CPI rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 3.6 percent during the 6-month period ending in November. Prices rose at a 4.2 percent rate in the last three months of the period, compared with 2.9 percent the first three months.

After seasonal adjustment, the November index for food rose 1.1 percent compared with 0.2 percent in October and 0.6 percent in September. The nonfood commodities index rose 0.1 percent following a 0.1 percent decrease in October and a 0.4 percent increase in September. The services index of 0.2 percent was the same as in September but less than the 0.4 percent in October.

In the first year of Phase II of the Economic Stabilization Program the CPI rose 3.5 percent, compared with the 3.8 percent seasonally adjusted annual rate during the eight months of 1971 prior to Phase I.

ATTORNEY GENERAL OPINIONS

Oklahoma

School Board Negotiation Sessions Must Be Public Except for Recommendations Under Certain Conditions

The Oklahoma Attorney General declared that according to the state's open meeting law, when a school board discusses collective bargaining subjects pertaining to teacher contract renewal, private executive sessions are contrary to the law.

The state's open meeting law stipulates that "all meetings of boards of public and higher education supported in whole or in part by public funds or entrusted with the expending of public funds, or administering public properties, must be public meetings, and in all such meetings the vote of each member must be publicly cast and recorded." However, the statute permits executive sessions to protect the reputation of public employees on questions "for the purpose of discussing the employment, hiring, appointment, promotion, demotion, disciplining, or resignation of any public officer or employee; provided that any vote or action thereon must be taken in public meeting."

The attorney general indicated that the law manifests a strong state policy of public right to attend governmental deliberations regarding expenditures and property administration.

Concluding, the attorney general said that when a bargaining subcommittee or agent is delegated decision-making powers concerning employee contract terms, the open meeting statute applies. But when the subcommittee or agent may make only recommendations regarding employment, the law is not applicable.

STATISTICS

NEGOTIATED "REPORTING FOR TEACHING DUTY" PROVISIONS

Provisions concerning reporting on the availability for teaching duty are incorporated in 475 (31.1 percent) of 1,529 classroom teacher collective bargaining agreements in school systems with 1,000 or more pupils enrolled. Two working conditions are covered under these provisions: absence report procedures and daily report-in procedures. The absence report procedure was found more often than the report-in procedure. (See Table 1.)

Absence report procedures, which are the processes whereby teachers report their unavailability for duty, are contained in approximately 25 percent of the agreements. Most of these provisions stated that expected absences should be reported as soon as possible, usually by telephone, before 7:00 a.m., but no later than 7:15 a.m., the day of absence, or the previous evening.

After a teacher reports an absence, the administration usually assumes the responsibility of arranging for a substitute. If the absence continues, the teacher may be required to report each day so that the substitute may be retained, or to notify the administration when he expects to return. For example, the Traverse City, Michigan, agreement stipulates that teachers requiring substitutes for unanticipated absences must get in touch with the principal either before 10:00 p.m. the previous evening or by 7:00 a.m. the day of absence. If the absence continues, the teacher must notify the principal before 2:00 p.m. the first day and each succeeding day of absence.

In an arbitration case involving the Central Islip, New York, Board of Education and the Central Islip Teachers Association, a dispute arose over extra compensation for a regular teacher assigned as a substitute when the school administration was not notified within the contractual two-hour notice of another teachers' unavailability for duty. The contract stated that the administration was to make "every effort" to obtain a substitute. The arbitrator ruled that even though the teacher who was unavailable for duty failed to notify the school administration within the specified time period, it was incumbent upon the administration to make "every effort" to obtain a substitute; otherwise, the board must provide extra compensation to the assigned regular teacher.

A few provisions provide penalties for teachers who fail to report absence, either through a pay deduction or through denial of sick leave. The Butte, Montana, agreement, for example, requires teachers to report expected absences to the superintendent and the principal, and failure to follow prescribed procedures results in a pay deduction.

> Any teacher absent from duty shall report promptly to the superintendent and the principal of the school the cause of the absence. Any teacher who shall without good reason, fail to make this report promptly shall forfeit his salary for the period of absence preceding the receipt of the report to the principal.

> A teacher who has been absent from duty will report to the Superintendent and the principal when returning to work. Teachers who do not report to the office will be deducted one-half day's pay which will be paid to the substitute.

In Scotch Plains, New Jersey, failure to report absences may result in denial of sick leave.

> Teachers shall inform their building principal or other immediate superior as soon as it is practically feasible that a sick day will be required. In any event teachers shall call the designated substitute number no later than 7:00 a.m. on the day or days that sick leave will be required. Failure to notify may result in a denial of sick leave unless the building principal or other immediate superior determines that exceptional circumstances existed that prevented compliance with the notification procedure.

TABLE 1.—TEACHERS' REPORTING PROCEDURES

Item	Number	Percent
1	2	3
TOTAL AGREEMENTS ANALYZED	1,529	100.0
Agreements containing report-in and absence report procedures	475	31.1
Absence report procedure only	352	23.0
Daily report-in procedure only	87	5.7
Daily report-in procedure and absence report procedure	36	2.4

Some agreements require teachers to notify the school of their intention to return from their absence, and upon return, to report the reason for their absence on a specified form.

Notification of intent to be absent from duty will be given by the staff member to the principal at least one hour before the beginning of school. The staff member will notify the school of his intent to return to duty an hour before the end of the day prior to his return.

[Volusia County Sch. Dist. Deland, Florida]

Each employee, upon return to school following absence shall report on a form supplied by the Superintendent, the dates of and reasons for absence.

[Lindenwold, New Jersey]

The daily report-in procedure is the process whereby teachers indicate their presence for duty. Many of the agreements requiring some type of daily report-in procedure stipulate that the teachers indicate their presence by initialing faculty sign-in/sign-out rosters or daily attendance sheets.

Usually teachers are required to report-in at least 10 to 15 minutes before student arrival time. Some agreements require teachers to sign in and out by clock time on daily attendance forms, e.g., North Babylon, New Jersey. Some agreements (e.g., Brookfield, Ohio) require only teachers traveling from building to building to mark their arrival and departure time.

The following are sample provisions:

ABSENCE REPORT PROCEDURES

Teachers will be informed of a telephone number which they may call before 7:00 a.m. to report their unavailability for work. Once a teacher has reported his unavailability for work it will not be his responsibility to arrange for a substitute teacher.

[Brockton, Massachusetts]

The Board agrees at all times to maintain an adequate list of substitute teachers. A teacher shall notify his principal or designee as soon as possible of any impending absence. Teachers shall be informed of a telephone number they may call at 7:15 a.m. to report unavailability for work. Once a teacher has reported unavailability, it shall be the responsibility of the administration to arrange for a substitute teacher.

[Hobart, Indiana]

REPORT-IN PROCEDURE

Teachers will recognize the established starting and dismissal times by properly marking the sign-in and sign-out records.

[Sto Rox Sch. Dist., McKees Rocks, Pennsylvania]

Teachers shall indicate their arrival and departure to and from the building by check mark on the roster.

[Casper, Wyoming]

NEGOTIATED GROUP HEALTH AND LIFE INSURANCE PROVISIONS IN COMPREHENSIVE AGREEMENTS, 1968-1971

During the two-year period 1968-69 to 1970-71, the total number of teacher collective bargaining agreements collected for analysis by NEA Research increased from 978 to 1,529, a gain of 56 percent. The growth in number of agreements containing negotiated health and life insurance coverage provisions exceeded this gain.

Agreements with group health insurance provisions increased from 716 to 1,320 (an increase of 604 agreements or 84 percent). A corresponding increase in the percent of agreements providing health insurance, from 73.2 percent in 1968-69 to 86.3 percent in 1970-71, was recorded.

Similarly, the number of agreements with life insurance plans rose from 298 to 525, a gain of 76 percent. However, when viewed in the context of all recorded agreements, the percent of agreements with life insurance coverage increased from 30.5 registered in 1968-69 to 34.3 in 1970-71.

An examination of employer participation in the payment of insurance premiums indicated that more school boards are paying part or all of the insurance premiums, the percent rising from 66.3 to 80.6. The number of agreements wherein employers are required to pay the full cost of health insurance premiums doubled from 25.1 percent to 50.1 percent.

TABLE 1.–NUMBER AND PERCENT OF AGREEMENTS WITH HEALTH AND LIFE INSURANCE PROVISIONS, 1968-69 AND 1970-71

Type of group insurance	1968-69 Number of agreements	1968-69 Percent	1970-71 Number of agreements	1970-71 Percent
1	2	3	4	5
TOTAL NUMBER OF AGREEMENTS	978	100.0	1,529	100.0
Health Insurance TOTAL	716	73.2	1,320	86.3
Hospitalization, medical-surgical, and major medical	329	33.6	315	20.6
Hospitalization and medical-surgical	212	21.7	589	38.5
Other combinations or not identified	175	17.9	416	27.2
Life insurance	298	30.5	525	34.3

2420

The number of agreements containing life insurance provisions under which the employer pays part or all of the premium has increased slightly from 25.3 to 28.2 percent. Again, those provisions under which the school board agreed to pay the full cost of life insurance have accounted for most of this increase—from 12.4 percent in 1968-69 to 17.1 percent in 1970-71.

This analysis is restricted to those agreements (effective in school systems with 1,000 or more pupils enrolled) on file with NEA Research. Since this analysis does not account for state, school district, or nonnegotiated health or life insurance programs not included in agreements, coverage may be even more widespread than indicated here.

TABLE 2.—EMPLOYER PAYMENT OF HEALTH AND LIFE INSURANCE PREMIUMS, 1968-69 AND 1970-71

Type of group insurance	Percent of all[a] agreements with group insurance coverage
	Employer pays all		Employer pays part		Employer pays none		Not indicated
	1968-69	1970-71	1968-69	1970-71	1968-69	1970-71	1968-69	1970-71
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Health Insurance
TOTAL	25.1	50.1	41.2	30.5	...	0.5	6.9[b]	5.2[b]
Hospitalization, medical-surgical, and major medical	14.3	14.2	17.9	6.0	...	0.1	1.4	0.4
Hospitalization and medical-surgical	6.4	21.1	13.4	14.1	...	0.2	1.8	3.1
Other combinations or type of coverage or not indicated	4.4	14.8	9.9	10.4	...	0.2	3.6	1.8
Life Insurance	12.4	17.1	12.9	11.1	0.3	2.0	4.9	4.1

[a]Total of all agreements in 1968-69 was 978. Total of all agreements in 1970-71 was 1,529.
[b]Subitems do not add to total shown owing to rounding.

SPECIAL REPORTS

BRIEFS OF RECENT AGREEMENTS

Boise City, Idaho

Between the Board of Trustees of the Independent School District of Boise City and Boise Education Association, effective August 28, 1972, to June 30, 1974. Approximately 980 certificated professional employees, including elementary- and secondary-school principals and assistant principals, but excluding directors, coordinators, supervisors, consultants, chief school psychologists, and all persons engaged in supervision more than 50 percent of their time. Provision for reopener on salaries, economic benefits, or payroll deductions upon request of either party after March 1, 1973.

COMPENSATION: (1972-73) B.A., $6,450 to $8,837, 10 increments; B.A. plus 30 hours, $9,740 maximum; M.A., $7,224 to $10,449, 12 increments; M.A. plus 30 hours, $11,223 maximum.

DIFFERENTIALS: Additional salary budget allocation of $8,320 for sports; committee of 3 coaches to study revision of coaching allowances.

LEAVES: Ten days' sick leave credited at the beginning of school, 110 days' maximum accumulation; after 5 years' service 1 additional day sick leave annually; 5 days extended sick leave less substitute's pay; prorated sick leave for part-time employees; 5 days of sick leave allowed for illness in the immediate family; 3 days for illness of mother, father, brother, sister, or foster parent; 5 days for death in immediate family with additional time granted for unusual circumstances; 2 days' personal leave deducted from sick leave for teachers with less than 5 years' service; 3 days deducted for personal leave for teachers with 5 years' service, to be used for reasons of hardship or pressing need; 2 days for religious observance upon 10 days' notice; reasonable number of paid absences for professional conferences, conventions, and workshops; paid leave for legal proceedings connected with employment.

INSURANCE: Continuation of existing basic health and major medical coverage; life insurance coverage to be provided at the earliest feasible date with first year's maximum cost to the district not to exceed $36,000.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll deduction of local, state, and national dues; 2 days' leave for delegates to the Idaho Education Association Delegate Assembly with 10 days' notice required; long-term leave without pay for local, state, or national association activities; at least one copy of this agreement per 10 teachers to be placed in the schools; use of school buildings during noninstructional hours, designated bulletin boards, teacher mailboxes, and the district's courier service; the board not to renew individual contracts before completion of negotiation without agreement of both parties; board to supply available statistical and financial information necessary for conducting negotiation, including number of professional employees in each salary category and experience level; provision for advisory arbitration in case of negotiation impasse.

INSTRUCTION: Professional employees to be assigned within their major or minor fields of study; after consultation, employee may be reassigned; no more than 2 preparations for secondary teachers except experimental programs, combined or specialized classes with limited enrollments, physical education and music departments, or if teacher requests more preparations; school day from 30 minutes before first class to 30 minutes after teacher's last class plus any time required for additional activities; academic freedom clause encourages open atmosphere, freedom from artificial restraints upon inquiry and learning.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with binding arbitration on all subjects except student discipline, educational specialists, professional development, educational development and improvement, books and other instructional materials, teaching techniques, inservice programs, pupil testing programs, philosophy, specifications for buildings, budget development, job descriptions of professional employee positions, use of students in the instructional process, and professional employee facilities; employees to review and sign statement of having read any reprimand placed in their personnel file and may have representative present; by agreement of the two parties reprimand may be removed from file; right to inspect and answer any personnel file material originating in the district; established procedures to prevail until negotiation of teacher evaluation procedures during 1972-73 school year; vacancies to be filled on basis of competency, qualifications, length of service, and other relevant factors; association to be notified of all vacancies; transfer requests to be made in writing to office of appropriate director; notification of assignment by first day of last week of school; termination of employees to be according to the policies of the state board of education and state law; either party may initiate in writing the establishment of a committee to study and review class size, teacher loads, nonteaching duties, reduction of staff, extracurricular assignments, teacher and student security, school calendar, and professional employee responsibilities, with the board to act on the committee's recommendations; no religious or political activity to be basis for reprimand unless it interferes with the employee's professional effectiveness.

Fort Wayne, Indiana

Between the board of School Trustees of Fort Wayne Community Schools and the Fort Wayne Education Association, effective August 15, 1972, to August 14, 1973. Approximately 1,850 certificated professional employees. Commencement of renegotiation no later than the first full week in February. If payment of remuneration for sabbatical leave during the year in which it is taken is legalized, the sabbatical leave clause is to be reopened.

COMPENSATION: (1972-73) B.A., $7,650 to $12,852, 17 increments; M.A., $8,415 to $14,382, 17 increments; each additional 5 hours' credit beyond M.A. up to 60 hours (at least 30 hours of which must be approved and be in the teacher's subject area with a maximum of 10 undergraduate hours in the teacher's area) paid at $76.50 (.01 of B.A. base) per 5 semester hours additional; Ph.D., $1,147 (.15 of B.A. base) additional above M.A. placement; pay from August 15, 1972, to end of 1972 computed on 1971-72 salary schedule with difference between the 1971-72 and 1972-73 schedules being paid in equal payments from January 1973 through the remainder of the school year; severance pay after 10 years' service in the district is .01 of B.A. base times total number of years' service in the district is .01 of B.A. base times number of years in the district.

DIFFERENTIALS: (computed as an index of B.A. base) senior high head football, basketball, and track-cross country coaches, $1,422.90 (.186); all other senior high head and assistant coaches, marching band, speech and publication advisors, and intramurals, $688.50 (.09); junior high head football, basketball, and track-cross country coaches, $642.60 (.084); all-city music program, $426.10 (.0557); orchestra, vocal music, theatre arts, $344.25 (.045); senior high department heads, $688.50 (.09); junior high department heads of English, math, science, social studies, music, and industrial arts, $299.50 (.03).

OTHER: Licensed substitute teachers, $25 per day; nonlicensed substitute teachers, $22 per day; after 15 consecutive days in the same position substitutes to be paid according to regular pay schedule; substitute pay rates apply to retired teachers who may teach up to 59 days annually; $15 per day for travel outside 50-mile radius of Fort Wayne in conjunction with use of professional leave; new teachers paid $150 extra for attending required 8-session one-week orientation.

LEAVES: Ten days' annual sick leave, 120 days maximum accumulation; transfer from teacher's previous school district of up to 120 days' accumulated leave effective at the beginning of the second year of employment in the district; may transfer previously accumulated sick leave in first year in instances of proven emergency; 3 separate days for illness in the immediate family; up to 5 days for death in the immediate family; up to 3 days' leave for death of brother-in-law, sister-in-law, daughter-in-law, son-in-law, aunt, or uncle; 2 days for personal business to be taken in half-day units with unused days credited to sick leave; 1 day for each 5 teachers (rounded to the nearest whole number of days) for professional leave, administered by the unit head; regular pay less per diem court fees for jury duty; paid leave when subpoenaed as a witness, except in suits brought against the board by the teachers organization; paid leave less military pay for reserve obligations; sabbatical leave available for no more than 5 percent of the district's tenure teachers at one-half pay for one year added to regular pay upon return to the district; up to 120 days' payment of the difference between Workmen's Compensation and regular pay.

INSURANCE: Board pays 90 percent of the premium for either individual or family health insurance coverage; $5,000 life insurance policy increased to $6,000 January 1, 1973, for which the board pays full cost less $1 paid by the participant; tax-sheltered annuity plan; cost of premium shared equally by teacher and board for long-term disability insurance which pays 60 percent of earnings (maximum of $1,250 per month) after 6 months of disability to age 65.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll deduction of teacher organization dues; at least one board-association meeting per month for exchange of information, with special meetings called at the request of either party on 3 days' notice; after reporting to the principal's office the association president may conduct organization business that does not interrupt normal school activity; association mailbox in each school; use of interschool mail; board to furnish the association with board meeting agenda, The Observer, official board minutes, completed school budget, the names, addresses, education, and experience of newly hired teachers (following board approval), and public information.

INSTRUCTION: Department heads may be assigned one less period per day; maximum of 275 minutes of pupil contact per day (excluding homeroom and extracurricular activities) for junior and senior high teachers; class size guidelines: elementary, 30 pupils per teacher; junior high, 23 students per teacher; senior high, 25 students per teacher; "special conditions or circumstances may warrant variances" in class size; extracurricular teaching loads; all senior high coaches and assistant coaches have full class loads, with the exception of basketball, football, and track-cross country coaches who may, upon the written recommendation of the principal and the approval of the superintendent, be assigned one less class during the season; head football, basketball, and track-cross country coaches may be assistant coaches in one major sport or head coach in one minor sport; maximum of 2 assistant and one head coaching positions, 3 assistant coaching positions or any combination up to 3 sports per senior high coach; maximum junior high athletic extracurricular loads: 2 head coaching positions, 1 head coaching and 2 assistant coaching positions or 3 assistant coaching positions per coach; hiring of elementary school aides when feasible; 190 contract days; elementary and junior high-school hours, 8:05 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.; senior high hours, 7:45 a.m. to 3:10 p.m.; academic freedom clause; extracurricular assignments to be voluntary when possible; at least one conference with the parents or guardians of each student per semester unless "the teacher and the principal decide otherwise"; principal will arrange for students' supervision if conference is held during the day.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with advisory arbitration; duty-free lunch period of at least legal minimum; junior and senior high preparation periods equal to one class period per day; preparation periods for elementary teacher if aides are available; new teachers to attend all meetings unless absent from school or excused in advance; brief faculty meetings to be scheduled in advance on first or second Monday of the month; professional incentive increment, 5 semester hours every 5 years, 2 hours of which may be for college approved and credited travel and seminars; criteria for filling vacancies: competence, length of service in the district, mutual agreement of teacher and administration, teacher's potential contribution to the pupils, needs of building or unit; voluntary reassignments initiated upon request; involuntary reassignment to be preceded by consultation with the principal with preference given to currently employed teachers on basis of qualifications, certification, and length of service; vacancies for following year to be posted March 1 with updating every 15 days to the end of school year with preference given to qualified district teachers; denial of request for transfer to require a written statement of reasons; discrimination because of request for transfer prohibited; promotions to be initiated by written request and considered as positions become vacant; "teachers shall not be required to work under conditions which are unsafe, hazardous or unhealthful or to perform tasks which endanger their health, safety or well-being"; only with teacher and principal's consent may anyone other than authorized school administrator observe a teacher; next year's schedule to be furnished prior to close of school with notification of changes thereafter as soon as practicable; tenure to be granted upon signing contract for sixth successive year after serving 5 successive full years of at least 120 teaching days per year; administrative staff to support teacher's discipline of pupils when discipline procedures and guidelines are followed; teachers scheduled for emergency substitution not to be subjected to repeated loss of preparation times; retirement to be compulsory upon reaching age 66 before August 1; use of student teachers as substitutes at the discretion of the principal; $10 reimbursement for pre-employment physical; district to administer tuberculosis skin test and provide $8 to cover cost of X ray if test is positive; physical exams required every 5 years for teachers under 41 and every 3 years for teachers 41 and over with board paying $7.50 of cost; physical exams may be required at the board's discretion.

Harborfields, Greenlawn, N.Y.

Between Board of Education of Harborfields Central School District No. 6 and Harborfields Teachers Association, effective July 1, 1972, to June 30, 1974. Approximately 213 certificated professional employees.

COMPENSATION: (1972-73) B.A., $8,955 to $15,134, 12 increments; B.A. plus 15, $9,043 to $15,582, 12 increments; B.A. plus 30, $9,850 to $16,567, 13 increments; M.A., $10,298 to $17,014, 13 increments; M.A. plus 15, $10,746 to $18,000, 14 increments; M.A. plus 30, $11,194 to $18,447, 14 increments; M.A. plus 45, $11,642 to $19,432, 15 increments; M.A. plus 60, $12,089 to $19,880, 15 increments; Ph.D., $12,537 to $20,328, 15 increments; cost-of-living adjustment in 1973-74 salaries based on percentage increase in the Consumer Price Index (CPI) for New York-Northeastern New Jersey, from February 1972 to February 1973 as released by U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics; longevity pay to be $895 after 20 years, 10 in district, plus $896 after 25 years, 15 in district upon recommendation and approval of school administration; salary of a retiring full-time professional employee to be increased during his final half-year of employment based on years of service in district, 1-15 years at .008 times salary times years service, 16-25 years at .01 times salary times years of service, 26 or more years at .012.

DIFFERENTIALS: Teachers required to conduct classes for instruction and/or rehearsals on a regular basis before normal school hours to receive an additional 3 percent of the starting teacher's salary or compensatory time at end of day; salary for home instruction, $7.90 per hourly session; three steps for each activity for which differentials are paid with progress and placement dependent on years of service in the same or related activity and in the case of department chairmen ratio ranges from 2% to 10% of salary dependent on number of teachers in department; varsity football, $1,254, $1,389, $1,567; varsity basketball, $1,209, $1,389, $1,567; varsity baseball, $895, $988, $1,120; girls' varsity basketball or girls' varsity gymnastics, $324, $403, $484; junior high yearbook advisor, $448, $537, $672; senior high yearbook advisor, $627, $806, $988; junior or senior high newspaper advisor, $403, $448, $557; junior or senior high student council advisor, $492, $537, $582; Grades 7 and 8 class advisors, $179, $223, $268; grade 9 advisor, $225, $268, $314; grades 10, 11, and 12 advisors, $268, $314, $403.

LEAVES: Twelve days' annual sick leave with unlimited accumulation; 5 days' for personal reasons, 3 days' maximum per year may be transferred to accumulated sick leave; professional days with pay for conferences/school visitation; temporary active duty in military reserve with no loss of pay; sabbatical leave at half pay for one year after 7 years' service or one-half year at full pay; no loss of pay or sick leave days for physical injuries sustained while in voluntary performance of student supervision; after 3 years' service, teachers to be entitled to catastrophic illness benefits equal to .8 times the maximum sick leave the individual could have accumulated during his service.

INSURANCE: Full coverage for health insurance for individual and 90 percent for family coverage; district-paid life insurance policy of $10,000; district to provide physical examinations, including required chest X-ray; district-paid premium for health insurance benefits of retired teaching staff.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll dues deduction for local, state, NEA, and AFT; president to be relieved of one period per day for contract administration at expense of district; meetings may be held Tuesday after school for association business and at conclusion of faculty meetings; association office space provided subject to availability of facilities and current building regulations; association responsible for organizing all faculty elections; board consults association on cuts in educational programs directly affecting tenured positions.

INSTRUCTION: Secondary teachers to be assigned no more than one subject area, two subjects, and three preparations; aides to assume nonprofessional and nonteaching responsibilities with training and supervision by teachers; school calendar of 180 days including approved conference days; elementary school day to consist of 6 hours, 20 minutes, and secondary school day of 7 hours, 10 minutes; regularly assigned teachers not to cover classes of absent teachers unless qualified substitutes are not available.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with an advisory decision by a jointly selected Board of Review; personnel file (nonconfidential materials) available to each teacher upon request and each teacher may attach a reply to any material in file; duty-free lunch period equal to students'; elementary teachers scheduled for one daily free period of not less than 30 minutes for at least 4 days per week; regular faculty, departmental and grade level meetings on Monday, with Wednesday and Thursday reserved for curriculum and inservice programs; professional growth programs to be jointly planned by teacher and supervisor; evaluation to include personal observation of teacher's performance by supervisory staff and other teachers followed by consultation; transfers to changes of assignment to be voluntary as far as possible; listings of supervisory and/or administrative openings to be distributed to professional staff with encouragement to apply; at any conference between parent and/or principal which the teacher is required to attend, the teacher may have a representative of the association present; no assignments or withholding of assignments to be made as punitive measures; teachers may leave building during unassigned periods upon notification to principal or his designated representative; tenure teachers to be relieved of keeping plan books; telephones to be provided for use by teachers communicating with parents; each building to maintain a "faculty council" made up of building administrators and at least 10 percent of teachers assigned to building to meet monthly to discuss educational and operational procedures within the building; district to maintain a "Policy-Curriculum-Advisory" committee to plan and advise on basic educational policies and curriculum.

LaFayette, New York

Between the Lafayette Board of Education and the LaFayette Teachers Association, effective for the 1972-73 school year. Approximately 98 certificated professional employees. Provision for commencement of renegotiation between December 15 and February 1.

COMPENSATION: (1972-73) B.A., $7,350 to $10,750, 11 increments; B.A. plus 30 hours, $7,850 to $12,050, 12 increments; B.A. plus 60 hours, $8,350 to $13,050, 13 increments; $300 minimum increment for teachers who have reached the top step; salary lanes for each 6 hours of approved credit beyond the B.A. to B.A. plus 60 hours with adjustments not more than twice per year; $300 additional (above schedule) for M.A.

DIFFERENTIALS: (Effective at least 3 years from May 20, 1971, 5 steps exist) varsity football, basketball, lacrosse, and wrestling, range from $650 to $800; cheerleading, $325 to $400; yearbook, $300 flat fee; varsity track, cross-country, and golf, $250 to $305; girls' basketball, volley ball, softball, track, $125 to $165; major musical or play, $150 flat fee; department heads, (5 or more teachers), $300; department coordinators (2 to 4 teachers), $50; district coordinators, $300 to $600; high- and middle-school coordinators, $300; grade level chairmen, $200; chaperones, $5 to $20 depending on activity; student trips on nonschool day, $3 per hour; mileage reimbursement, 10¢ per mile for interbuilding travel.

LEAVES: 10 days' annual sick leave, 200 days' maximum accumulation; part-time employee sick and emergency leave is prorated; 5 days' emergency leave accumulative to 15 days, to be used for serious illness in the family, death of a relative, religious holidays, court or court witness, other extreme hardships, one day of which may be taken without giving reason; up to 5 days' leave for each death in the immediate family; jury duty with full salary in addition to jury pay with employee expected to perform as much regular duty as possible; extension of sick leave benefits at the board's discretion; one sabbatical leave per year at one-half pay for one year or full pay for one-half year after 7 years' service in the district with at least a B.A. and 30 graduate hours as a requisite; department heads given time off to observe teachers at least 3 times per year.

INSURANCE: Board pays 75 percent of individual health insurance premium and 50 percent of dependents' coverage.

ASSOCIATION: Local, state, and national payroll dues deduction; association president released at end of student day to conduct necessary association business; board supplies each teacher with a copy of the agreement.

INSTRUCTION: Aides to be employed when the need is obvious; school day 7.5 hours; department heads will be appointed when a department employs 5 persons; coordinators will be appointed on a rotating basis for departments with 2 to 4 members; budget cuts on requisitioned material not to be made without involving the teacher and the department head; District Planning Council to recommend class size and changes in school calendar, composed of 2 teachers from high, middle and elementary schools, one from the reservation school, and the district principal (all other principals are nonvoting members).

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with binding arbitration; weekly minimum of 195 minutes of duty-free planning time (dependent in elementary schools on the use of aides); posting of vacancies; oral explanation to be given nonappointed district applicants upon request; salary credit for approved travel; substitutes provided when teachers are involved in professional activities outside their district during the school day.

Nashville, Tennessee

Between the Board of Education of Metropolitan Nashville-Davidson County and Metropolitan Nashville Education Association, effective for the 1972-73 school year. Approximately 3,000 certificated professional employees. Provision for amendment of agreement by the parties at any time. Automatic renewal unless either party requests termination 30 days prior to expiration date.

COMPENSATION: (1972-73) B.A., $7,000 to $10,360, 12 increments; M.A., $7,840 to $11,480, 13 increments; M.A. plus 30 hours, $12,600 maximum; Ph.D., $13,720 maximum; terminal pay, $5.00 per day for 25 percent of accrued sick leave after 15 years' service, scheduled 5 percent increase for each year of service up to a maximum of 20 years paid for 50 percent of accrued sick leave.

OTHER: Yearbook and newspaper sponsors and forensic advisors, $200; personnel working beyond the normal contract year (includes extended year of principals) paid 70 percent of regular salary; secretaries working beyond the normal year to be paid regular daily rate; $.10 per mile reimbursement for using own car for school business.

LEAVES: One day per month annual sick leave available at the beginning of the year, unlimited maximum accumulation; 4 days for death in the immediate family; paid leave as necessary for quarantine; 2 days' personal leave upon 3 days' notice; one additional day personnel leave less substitute's pay for employees with less than 10 years' service; 3 additional days' personal leave less substitute's pay after 10 years' service; no more than one staff member or 5 percent of the administrative unit, whichever is greater, may take personal leave at one time if number on leave interferes with the school program; 5 days leave for professional conference or school visitation upon approval of the school director; 2 days for religious observance; paid leave less any court fees for court appearance; vacation: 10-month employees earn one day of Christmas vacation for each scholastic month (i.e., on payroll for 11 of the 20 paid days of the month), an adjustment to be made for teachers who leave prior to the end of the school year or who are employed after the Christmas holiday; 12-month employees accrue one and two-thirds days of vacation leave per month (20 days per year) and are entitled to same vacation as teachers; paid leave for absence resulting from job-related assault (but not as a result of negligence) for six months or until end of the school year, whichever is longer; sabbatical leave after 7 years' service at one-half pay for one year or less, available to 2 percent of the teaching force; sabbatical leave joint committee evaluates application subject to school director's approval.

ASSOCIATION: Payroll deduction of association dues; association president or authorized designee may visit schools providing he reports to the principal or acting administrator and does not interfere with normal school operations;

> The President of the Association representing a majority of the teachers may be granted a leave for one year with pay during his term in office. The Association shall reimburse the Board for one-half the President's salary and benefits. Upon his return he shall be assigned to the same position which he held at the time said leave commenced, if existent, or, if not, to a substantially equivalent position.

Paid leave for the association's local, state, and national conventions with school director's approval; released time for negotiation sessions during school hours; use of school buildings contingent upon prior approval, payment of direct costs, no interruption of normal school operations, and no discussion of association-board issues in students' presence; use of school bulletin boards (with copy of notices sent to principals and directors of schools) and interschool mail; posting or distribution of political material (with the exception of MNEA elections) forbidden, unless approved by the board and the school director; the board to furnish all reasonably requested available information concerning finances, tentative budgetary requirements, and other items pertinent to the development of intelligent and constructive negotiation proposals; negotiation impasse procedure, after the aid of a 3-member joint panel, ends with the board.

INSTRUCTION: Not more than 2 subject areas or 3 preparations for secondary teachers under normal circumstances; lunchroom aides to be employed; at least one secretary per school; within budgetary limitations, physical education teachers to be assigned to each elementary school; 7½ hour school day with arrival and departure times (after discussion with faculty) determined by the principal; 21-member curriculum advisory council, with 11 members appointed by the association and 10 by the administration, to facilitate, develop, and improve instructional program; academic freedom clause cautions: "academic freedom is not an absolute and it must be exercised within basic ethical responsibilities of the teaching profession;" distribution of funds allocated for texts and materials to be discussed and planned by faculty and building principal.

PERSONNEL: Grievance procedure ends with the board of education; right to review personnel file in presence of the personnel director or his designee and to be accompanied by an association representative; no derogatory material or student or parental complaint to be placed in file without teacher's knowledge; duty-free lunch period of at least 30 minutes; one planning period daily for junior and senior high teachers (except in emergencies); April 1 posting of vacancies for ensuing year, voluntary transfers to be requested by April 15, notification normally by July, with priority given for training, experience, qualifications, sex, age, race, and length of service; transfers necessitated by change of enrollment given first to teachers requesting transfer and then according to effect on instructional program, teacher balance, professional qualifications, and length of service; teachers with shortest service, when all else is equal, will be involuntarily transferred first; transferred teachers may indicate choice when choice is available; "no discrimination against teacher who uses the grievance procedure to challenge an involuntary transfer"; promotional vacancies to be given to the best qualified individual whether employed inside or outside the district; summer school assignments posted for district teachers by April; applications to be submitted within two weeks of posting, notification of action taken by May 1; order of preference among district teachers for summer employment to be: (a) tenure teacher requesting placement in area in which he teaches, (b) nontenure teacher teaching in area of summer opening, (c) teacher certified, but not teaching, in area of summer employment, (d) certified professional employees who are not classroom teachers; additionally, racial balance shall be maintained and, effective 1974, preference given to applicants who have taught a maximum of two immediately preceding summer sessions; the first, second, and third orders of preference for adult education assignments to be the same as for summer school, with the fourth choice being those not regularly appointed as professional personnel in the district; principal designee (serves as principal when principal is absent) is entitled to substitute (if length of absence so requires) and appropriate remuneration in accord with training, school classification, and experience from date of assumption of principal's duties if the principal is absent in excess of 20 consecutive school days; smoking permitted outside areas normally used by students; notification of absence or of return from absence by 6:30 a.m., returning teacher who does not give notice loses amount paid substitute; any assault suffered or inflicted in connection with employment to be reported immediately to the principal and to be legally processed; if proceedings are brought against the teacher, the board is to furnish any reasonably requested information; the metropolitan government to pay the cost of any treatment or medical expenses resulting from a job-related assault; reimbursement up to $500 for loss or damage to personal property resulting from assault while on school property; administration to support teachers on all reasonable disciplinary measures (including corporal punishment) when administered in accordance with board policy.

Procedures for Handing Physical Assault
